TANEYTOWN CHAMBER COM-MERCE OUTING HELD.

The members of the Taneytown Chamber of Commerce held their annual outing down the Chesapeake Bay on Wednesday. The members gathered promptly at seven and filled two large busses to capacity, a few minutes past seven the trip was begun leaving the square at Taneytown stops were made at Frizellburg and Westminster to pick up members from those points. The trip down to Baltimore in the busses was uneventful although it was a very delightful ride with the members singing or chatting all the way down to the Later the Maryland Governor and the place as the members of the Chambar turned home Sunday evening. The members quickly adjusted themselves to their surrondings; some hunted vantage points by the rail, forming in little groups, others sat inside to watch the sights that were afforded there, some started card games, others enjoyed bingo. The trip down the harbor and into the bay was very interesting to those who were assembled on the top deck. Many watched with keen interest the large ocean liners in the harbor. The trip down the bay to Seaside was made without any difficulty, the boat arriving about 12:45.

The members spent the afternoon strolling about the park and returned to the boat at 4:00 P. M. for the return trip to Baltimore, where we arrived at 7:30. The next thing in order was a trip to a famous eating place where the members were given a sumptuous dinner. Sea food seemed to be the most popular dish but steak dinners were the order for a few of the members-from the eating place the busses were boarded and the return trip home started ar-riving in Taneytown at 11:30. The trip and meal had been arranged by a committee of David Smith, Chm; William Hopkins and Delmar Riffle.

SOIL CONSERVATION IN MARYLAND.

Plans for its Expansion in the Plans for continued expansion of soil conservation work in Maryland were made by the State Soil Conservation Committee at a recent meeting. To take care of that expansion, Dr. T. B. Symons, chairman of the committee, stated that it will be necessary for the U. S. Department of Agriculture through its Soil Conservation Service to add a number of new men to the Federal force now working in Maryland. These men, he said, will be largely responsible for assisting in contour cultivation. Edward M. Davis, coordinator for the Soil Conservation in this State, reported that six additional men were already on the job at the mid-dle of July, and that machines had been loaned to two recently organized conservation districts in Southern Maryland. Three new conservation districts are being organized in Allegany, Caroline, and St. Mary's counties, Dr. Symons stated. These are in addition to existing districts in Kent, Harford, Baltimore, Frederick, Carroll, Washington, Charles and Prince Georges counties. The soil erosion problem in Mary land is becoming more serious as the cultivated lands become older, Dr. Symons declared Most serious damage is done, he said, by sheet erosion, because by this method the soil is carried away so gradually and evenly that it goes unnoticed until great loss is suffered.

A series of tours being held during this month to observe the effects of soil conservation work are resulting in greatly increased interest, it is reported by those in charge. A group visited farms in the Gunpowder Falls Deer Creek District in Baltimore and Harford counties on July 10. A tour of the Frederick District is being made on July 25, and the work progress in Southern Maryland will be inspected on July 28. Those making the tours have an opportunity to see terracing machines, strip cropping, diversion terraces, contour cultivation woodland management, and pasture improvement on a num-past week. There have been slight improvements in the building, windows, and sound equipment but Mr. Gartrell has stated he would like to give his patrons just as good a house, as much comfort and as good pictures as can be gotten anywhere.

The town and community as whole need a good wide awake movie house, as movies are the greatest source of entertainment in this country, so don't let Mr. Gartrell down after he has given you a full week of movies at a special price, stick with him and I am sure he will give you the best entertainment possible.

Beginning with the week of July 28th, there will be two pictures weekly starting at 7:30 Tuesday and Wednesday nights, two shows each night. On Friday night he will start at 7:30 with two shows and Saturday pickt 7:00 clock with two shows night, 7:00 o'clock with two shows.

GRATUITOUS ADVICE.

There are not many persons who give advice to others so freely, who do not most need it themselves. This sounds like a proverb that has been true since the days of Solomon.

Like it or not, we make of our gratuitous distribution of a surplus that exists only in one's mind.

DO WE, OR DO WE NOT, WANT WAR?

President Roosevelt says he wants to keep out of war, but still makes ready for it; and, he is likely right, at that. There are a lot of people in the U.S. who have opinions that they are not sure are right yet think they are.

SHALL WE PENALIZE MARRIAGE?

To a very large extent, it is the white-collar class of citizens who are "taking a beating" nowadays. Most of them will not share in the wage increases which are being given industrial workers. But they will be forced to pay like all the rest of us as the cost of living rises. It is also these people who will have to bear a large proportion of the increases in taxes. The pending tax bill hits which has been tentatively approved for inclusion in the bill would still further increase the burden for business and professional workers.

Even more important, in the long view, is the patent fact that this provision, if included in the tax bill, would amount to placing an economic penalty upon the institution of marriage. It would place a premium upon divorce. That would be an ironical step instead for a nation whose very foundation is the strength of the home and the family.-Eco-

----APPALLING INEPTITUDE.

The government, wrote Frank R. Kent recently, is handling the pricewage problem "with really appalling ineptitude. It not only has not grasped the problem firmly by simultaneously putting a ceiling over both prices and wages, but it has not even given its price control administrator, Mr. Leon Henderson, the authority he needs to be effective.

"Even if Mr. Henderson had the statutory powers proposed, he still | would not be able really to control prices until in some way wages were stabilized. It obviously is impossible to hold prices down if wages are going steadily to rise. Until, either by executive order or by law, both sible, everything that is being done about the former is futile and fooiish."

Not only in pastoral Vermont has the discarded beer can hampered roadside beautification. It has become a serious problem in scores of rural areas close to large cities. Too many lovely country lanes have become "tin can" dumps or depositories for empty bottles. Unfortunately these country districts have no street-cleaning gangs to "pick up" after thoughtless persons. So these cans remain to rust away or, in the case of bottles, to become a hazard. Just how far Vermont's action will go toward eliminating the beercan menace remains to be seen. It is, however, a poignant reminder to those persons who fling litter of any kind from their cars that a little more cooperation on their part with State beautification programs, will do much toward keeping the Nation's roadsides clean and attractive. -Christian Science Monitor.

Disease Check Shows

British Very Healthy In the face of predictions that air raids and crowded shelters would produce the specter of contagiousdisease epidemics stalking this land, the most recent public health statistics show that Great Britain in 1940 was appreciably healthier than it was the year before the war started. Particularly is this true in relation to contagious diseases.

In 1938 there were almost 100,000 cases of scarlet fever in Britain; in 1940 there were only 63,000. In 1938, more than 4,000 cases of dysentery were reported. In 1940 there were less than 3,000. In the year before the war there were 1,300 cases of enteric fever reported, and although the figure for 1940 rose to 2,800, most of these were in mild, paratyphoid groups and were not the oldfashioned, severe type.

Pneumonia also showed a slight increase, rising from 45,000 cases in 1938 to 46,000 in 1940, and this might be described indirectly to the air raids, which have shattered many windows and subjected a large part of the population to increased exposure in winter. Yet the increase in the number of cases is almost negligible.

However, figures on cerebrospinal fever might be the basis for measured concern. These rose from a negligible 1,200 in 1938 to more than 12,000 in 1940; but there is a qualifying factor in this increase in cases. Until recently this disease was mortal in about 60 per cent of the cases, but new drugs and methods of treatment have reduced the mortality in hospitals to as low as 5 per cent, and nervous complications, which frequently followed this disease, now are conspicuous by their absence.

Famous Twin Tortoises

First Ever Hatched Here Miami's famous twin babies worth $1,000 apiece are growing daily both in weight and value. The twins are two tiny Galapagos tortoises-the only babies of their kind ever hatched in America.

The tiny Galapagos tortoises have an interesting history. When they were hatched from two eggs that looked exactly like billiard balls, they weighed two ounces. They were started out at first on a strict diet of choice red hibiscus blossoms, and now they eat daily, one half their own weight in lettuce leaves picked from the heart.

They have the dubious honor of belonging to a family of prehistoric age creatures that have never changed their size or shape from the beginning of time until today. In addition they are the longest-living creatures on earth, outliving the whale, elephant, parrot and all rep-

The twins are expected to double their weight annually for the first five years and then slow down their growth. When they become a year old, they will reach a weight of slightly over two pounds.

Town Hall Talks

No doubt, most radio listeners have at some time or other listened to or heard of "Town Meeting of the gram. Here is a glimpse of the "behind the curtain scenes," according to George V. Denny, president and moderator of Town Hall in New York city. The audience is assembled an hour before the broadcast, with the principal radio talks gone over ahead of time. Before the mike is turned on, the noisy and argumentative listeners are weeded out. The meetings are held for those American citizens who vote and think independently, Denny says. He thinks that this 20 per cent controls all elections and constitutes the intellectual leadership of the nation. The Town Hall moderator believes democracy can work-if this leadership potential is developed and made effective.

Ant Control

Ant control under present conditions is a continual nuisance brought about largely from the fact that under present methods containers of ant poison have to be placed around the outside of buildings in order for the ants to feed. This is dangerous, as far as children and pets are concerned, and when the lawn is sprinkled or it rains, the poisons become diluted and their effect destroyed. To solve this problem, an insecticide vault has been perfected. It is built into the foundation of the house, with a vault every 17 feet or less. The insecticide remains in the vaults in its original state, always on hand at its full efficiency, and out of sight and reach of children and pets.

Operation of Magnetic Mines Many people believe that magnetic mines float to the surface at the approach of a ship and blow it to bits. However, they are not that tricky, nor do they float. The needle of the magnetic compass which is attached to the mine normally points North. When a steel ship passes close above it the needle swerves, makes an electrical contact and ignites the mine lying on the bottom, setting off an explosion which wrecks the ship. Because the magnetic field is effective only at fairly close range, the mines are successful only in shallow waters, have been dropped by daring German aviators in the Thames estuary and very close to shore.

HOT HAY MOW IS FIRE HAZARD

Spontaneous Ignition Cause Of Large Losses.

By W. C. KRUEGER (Extension Agricultural Engineer, New Jersey College of Agriculture, Rutgers University.)

United States farms suffer a loss of more than $15,000,000 annually from the spontaneous ignition of hay in barns. Foresighted farmers can take several steps to guard against this menace, and one of the most important is to inspect their mows frequently during the two to sixweek period immediately following storage—the most critical period for Legume hay, such as alfalfa, the clovers, and soybeans, is particularly susceptible, although the firing of other hay materials stored chopped or unchopped is not uncommon.

The wetting of hay due to leaky roofs or through open doors or windows and the slower heating of especially dense and green material may result in dangerous heating months after crop placement.

The temperature in hay mows may be determined quickly and easily by means of a homemade thermometer probe. This consists of a small diameter pole, preferably round, having a thermometer fitted in a groove just above the sharpened end. Since probe holes left in the hay may conduct air to hot spots and encourage combustion, as few holes as possible should be made and these should be plugged with a similar sized stick between readings. The plugs serve as markers for subsequent readings in the same location.

Temperatures under 150 degrees Fahrenheit may be considered safe but above this point the hay should be inspected frequently, since dangerous situations may develop. Temperatures above 175 degrees are definitely critical. Fire Department standby service should be arranged, and when temperatures approach 190 degrees it is time to consider removing the hay from the barn. It is well first to remove all tools, implements, and livestock, however, since the action of removing hay and admitting oxygen to hot spots may result in ignition and flash fires.

Disinfectant Help Cure Calves With Foot Rot

Calves often get infected with foot rot when they are allowed to run in yards that are low, dirty and muddy. This is an infectious disease which usually starts in a crack between the toes.

Lameness is the first symptom. The foot swells and the flesh at the base of the hoof and between the toes becomes very sensitive. The infected foot should be washed with a tincture of iodine and bandaged to keep it clean. It is sometimes necessary to soak the foot twice a day in a disinfectant solution and to trim away the diseased or infected tissue. The calf should be kept in a clean, dry place until all signs of the disease have disappeared.

To prevent the occurrence of this infection, keep yards and lots clean and well drained. If a low, wide box of lime is placed so the calves will have to walk through it in going to and from the barn, it will aid in preventing this trouble.

Japanese Beetle Traps Chiefly for 'Scouting'

Traps for Japanese beetles, now widely utilized by federal entomologists, are not intended primarily as beetle destroyers. These traps are for "scouting." They are baited with a mixture of chemicals that attract beetles from a distance, and are set to give information as to the presence or absence of beetles in the neighborhood.

The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine does not recommend beetle trapping as desirable for individuals. The bait is likely to attract beetles from a considerable area, but many of these beetles may not enter the trap, with the result that the lawn or garden near the trap may have more beetles than it would without a trap-although neighbors at a distance may have fewer. To be effective, trapping should be systematic and on a community basis, covering a square mile or more-and the larger the area the better.

Stomach Worms

To treat sheep for stomach worms, the North Carolina State College Extension service recommends drenching them with the following solution: Dissolve four ounces of coppper sulphate (blue stone) in one pint of boiling water, then add enough water to make a total of three gallons. Next add three ounces of a 40 per cent solution of nicotine sulphate (Black Leaf 40). The three gallons makes enough to dose 100 mature sheep.

STORY ... WEEK

Devoted Husband

By BARBARA ANN BENEDICT (Associated Newspapers-WNU Service.)

vey. She sighed wearily. "He's such a darling husband, comparatively speaking, of course. But so helpless. I've often wondered how a man would really get along without a woman to take care of him."

The ladies of the Tuesday club nodded and murmured their assent. That is, with the exception of Linda Swain. Linda was the newest member, and also the youngest. She had been married less than a year. She said, "Men seem pretty capable to me."

"My dear," Mrs. Harvey squeezed lemon into her iced tea and smiled indulgently, "my dear, no one blames you for your attitude—now. When you've been married as long as I, you'll have a change of heart. Oh, I know how you feel, darling. We were all that way once. So very much in love, so very sure our husbands were all we thought them to be-loyal and devoted and interested only in their wives. But | ful. there, I've said enough. Don't let me disillusion you, Linda darling. Be happy-and innocent-while you may.

"I am happy and not the least bit disillusioned," said Linda. "So don't feel that you have to pity me, Mrs. Harvey. I don't want Jay to be interested in me and no one mean." Mrs. Harvey smiled blandly and glanced around at the circle of faces. 'That isn't all I mean, Linda, darling. Oh, there's no need of feeling hurt about it, or believing that your married life is going to be different from the rest. Take my Bert, for example. There was a time-when, had I been a less broadminded person, we might have ended in separation. And the truth of the matter is I'm glad it happened. For from that day to this I have used the incident to shame him into doing anything I ask. Oh. yes, that little ward act of Bert's has its uses. There is, for example, no need to worry now for fear that he will ever stray again. I'm just as sure that Bert's only interest at this moment is with his family as I am that I'm sitting in this chair."

Linda bit her lip. She wanted to say she thought Bert was a martyr for even living with such a person. While she tried to conjure up a less direct dig, Mrs. Harvey turned the club. "And you, my dear Miss Clayton, I'm sure this conversation must be extremely boring to an unmarried lady. And yet I'm equally sure your opinion would be a valuable one, especially-" Mrs. Harvey looked coy-"especially since you are so well acquainted with Linda's handsome young husband."

Linda was furious. She might have forgiven most anything-but this! Such unadulterated, direct in-

Anne Clayton laughed nervously. She had long since discovered that a woman's attitude toward life and love and things changed with matrimony. The talk of these older married women sickened her. Yet it cause no glare or shimmering even was as much to her advantage to be a member of the club as it was for these ladies to have her.

She laughed resignedly, without looking at Linda. "Please! After all, a single lady would hardly be qualified to express a worthwhile opinion about such a weighty sub-

It was the fact that Anne Clayton evaded the issue that set Linda to thinking. That and the insinuation in Mrs. Harvey's voice. Then, too, there was Anne's nervous little laugh, her direct refusal to meet

Linda's eyes. The thing at first seemed silly, absurd. She even smiled a little at thoughts of Jay being false. Yet the inevitable questions kept pop- men because they (the women) ping into her mind, pounding against her brain. Had she been a little fool? Did these women know things that she had been blind to? Were they laughing at her, pitying | she doesn't understand herself?

She shuddered as thoughts leaped into her mind of other women who had gone blindly ahead, loving, adoring, not even suspecting their husbands of falsity. Only in the end to have the hurt

She tried not to notice that he seemed to enjoy being with Anne Clayton. She fought against sudden knowledge that his attentions to her, his wife, were duti-

And when toward the end of the evening she saw Bert step through the French doors on to the veranda, saw Anne Clayton follow a moment later, she could not resist the impulse to satisfy the burning curiosity that was eating her soul.

It was a beautiful summer's night. The great expanse of golf course that fell away at the base of the veranda was flooded with soft, silvery moonlight. A section of the veranda, the end near which Linda stood, was in shadow.

She saw dim figures leaning against the railing—a man and a woman. The girl was Anne Clay-

There was no mistaking that baby-like profile, etched as it was against the bright moonlight beyond. Linda clutched at her throat, felt suddenly weak and sick. Then it was true!

Seized by a sudden, uncontrollable fury, Linda suddenly sped across the veranda. There was no definite purpose in her act, no recognizable emotion, no desire other than to satisfy a primitive instinct by clawing at the face of this brazen hussy who had robbed her of faith.

At the sound of her step the couple near the railing turned. Linda came upon them abruptly, reached out and felt her hands entwined in the golden blonde hair of Anne Clayton, and knew a great feeling of satisfaction.

Then and only then did she look toward the man. And in that single instant a great weakness and nausea claimed her. She wavered, gripping Anne's hair more securely for support; felt sudden relief and shame and guilt. For the face of the man who stared back at her was that of henpecked Bert Harvey!

Sorts of Optical Tricks

The science of lighting is one more branch of knowledge which has developed to a point of specialization in which the gulf between what the expert and the layman know about it is widening every day.

The array of new and unfamiliar lighting fixtures and the design of new fixtures show that lighting men, by taking advantage of the laws of optics astronomers have employed for years and also by taking advantoward Anne Clayton, who was one tage of special plastics, are able to of the few unmarried members of bend, reflect and blend light rays in

An example of one of the many revolutionary fixtures is an "educated" student desk lamp. Inside its shade is a mathematically curved silver reflector.

The light produced shines through a transparent sheet of plastic material that is stretched all the way across the bottom of the shade. By cutting out all horizontal vibrations, it is asserted that the light can on the whitest paper.

American men take their wives for granted. American men don't understand women. American men are a thorn in the side of female progress; an obstacle to happy nome life; a blight and a frost upon the full flowering of the American woman's personality. That is the attitude of American wives toward their husbands, according to a prominent woman writer. She then takes her pen in hand to hand the wives a verbal lashing for their attitude. Women in Britain Find Rations Melt the Bulges

LONDON.-Women who for years have been trying to find a diet that would reduce those unwanted bulges have discovered that rationing is the ideal thing. Many women are regaining slim

People now are in a better state of health than they were before the war, and many older people who suffered in health during the last war say that they feel much fitter in this one.

Old Indian Chief Is Irked by His 'Wild' Young Men

Chee Dodge of the Navajos Blames Program of Education.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—Chee Dodge, big chief of the Navajos for more than half a century, thinks the government's education program is making the young Indians "wild."

And Chee Dodge should know, for he was No. 1 Navajo on the 16,000,-000-acre reservation in northern Arizona from 1884 until 1938. The young Indians used to be quiet and obedient, but now-well, Chee Dodge borrows the white man's phrase and says they're "going to the dogs."

"The Indian boys used to be tame," he said. "Now they go to school. When they come back they are wild. It looks to me like the government's going to brand them one of these days."

Bows to Progress.

Chee Dodge was named the big man on the reservation in 1884 and held the post until "these young educated fellers came along to tear up the country."

He insists that he's neither Democrat nor Republican, but he just can't understand this business of 'scientific soil conservation.'

Last summer, Chee Dodge pointed out, the government had the Navajos round up many of their horses and sell them to preserve rangelands. "They sell all the horses," Chee said. "And pretty soon they sell all the cattle and sheep."

"I would like to know how the Indians make a living." He hastens to add that he hasn't anything against these new things taught in the schools. He doesn't know much about education be-cause they didn't have schools when he was young. Irked by Impetuosity.

The biggest complaint against the "young fellers" is that they "think they can change everything over-night."

"Maybe it's O.K.," he concedes "We wait and see someday, maybe." One of the things Chee Dodge likes to talk about is the time he saw Kit Carson, the famous Indian scout. That was when Chee Dodge was four years old and Carson and other scouts were rounding up the Navajos and taking them to Fort Sumner in New Mexico.

"I was a young kid then," he said. "They got the young fellers and the old men and women and crippled folks up there. But all the big chiefs were hiding in the Grand can-at present employed there.

English Hamlet Gasps as Girls Vie for 'Tommies'

BRIDGEWATER, SOMERSET, ENGLAND. - Something has happened in the village. The girls are painting their lips, using mascara, face powder, nail varnish.

Nothing like it ever happened before. The village is scandalized. But the girls don't care. Because there is a war on-and soldiers are billeted in the village.

The advent of soldiers has caused terrific disturbances in the little villages of sleepy rural England.

Two girls at Bridgewater wanted so much to look attractive in the eyes of billeted soldiers that they stole coats they could not afford to

In court, a solicitor said: "The tempo of village life has been im-mensely speeded up because of the soldiers. The girls desire to look attractive. That desire is almost irresistible to some girls."

The magistrates bound both defendants over.

Heart on Right Side but For Army It's All Right

LOS ANGELES.-Yukio Honda, 27-year-old American-born Japanese, is about as upset physically as a draftee can be and yet he has been sent to Fort MacArthur, Calif., with a "perfect health" tag.

When draft board physicians applied the stethoscope to Honda's heart for the first time they experienced some anxious minutes because they couldn't hear it beat.

"You can though," he said, "if you'll listen on the right side of my

That advice helped. Doctors discovered that Honda's heart was on the wrong side. Further examination showed that his liver also was on the wrong side—the left.

But despite these displacements, doctors gave him a clean bill of health and sent him off to the army as, literally, "one in a million."

THE POTOMAC EDISON AT THE FAIR.

Taneytown, Md.—The Carroll County Fair here during the week beginning August 11th, will bring a large scale exhibit of a type probably never before secured for this Fair.

This big exhibit has been sponsored and arranged by The Potomac Edison Company, the local electric company, in cooperation with farm equipment and appliance manufactur-ers. It possibly will be unsurpassed by anything at the Fair for practical educational interest and has been developed for the sole purpose and benefit of the farmer and the house-

The exhibit will be known and advertised as "Reddy Kilowatt's Electric Show." The sponsors have been careful to avoid any suggestion of commercializing on the natural at-tractiveness of it by making it a free tractiveness of it by making it a free show in every respect.

There will be no admission to "Reddy Kilowatt's Electric Show," and neither will there be any effort made to sell anything exhibited. However, manufacturers' representatives will be on hand to explain the details of the working of the equipment dramatically displayed and to ment dramatically displayed and to furnish other information.

The County Agent for Carroll
County has given his advice in arranging this show that will demonstrate to the farmer the labor, time and money-saving attractiveness of the various exhibits. Specially trained experts with a thorough knowledge of the solution of special problems arising in the home will be responsible for answering the ladies'

It was decided to hold the reunion

The most momentous questions of the day are the proposals pending before Congress to extend the period before congress the period before congress the period before congress the period before congress to extend the period before congress to extend the period before congress to extend the period before congress the period before congress to extend the period before congress the perio of service of selectees drafted into the Army under the Selective Train-ing and Service Act of 1940, and of National Guardsmen and Reserve Officers drafted in 1940. These proposals are Senate Joint Resolutions 92 and 93.

These proposals are framed to give the President unlimited power. Resolution 92 gives the Executive such power, during the national emergency he has proclaimed, to draft any number of new selectees he may see fit, under the Selective Training and Service Act, for any length of service he may decide upon length of service he may decide upon, In addition, he is empowered to extend the length of service of men already drafted into the Army for any additional period he may choose.

Railroad Lands Are Liquidated

Eight Million Acres Given Roads in Early Days Recovered by U.S.

WASHINGTON.-A 90-year phase of American railroad building steeped in frontier history was closed as the interior department announced the recovery of 8,000,000 acres of land originally granted to railroads when they pushed westward to the Pacific.

Secretary Ickes approved a release by the Northern Pacific railroad of all claims under land gifts of 1864 and 1870—last and largest of the historic grants closed out under the Transportation act of 1940. The Northern Pacific release embraced about 4,500,000 acres in Washington, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Wyoming. The land reverts to federal ownership for administration under the conservation program of the interior department.

Value Not Appraised. Releases previously approved by Mr. Ickes restored to the public domain about 2,000,000 acres in Southern California held by the Southern Pacific and 1.600.000 acres in Arizona and New Mexico held by the Atchison & Santa Fe.

The value of the lands, larger than the states of Delaware, Rhode Island and Connecticut combined, has not been appraised.

Under the Transportation act of 1940 the interior department was empowered to close out the land grants and, in exchange, open the way for the roads to be relieved of low preferential rates on government freight and passenger business. The old grants were made with a stipulation that the government receive rates 50 to 80 per cent below regular tariffs on certain passenger and freight traffic. Started in 1850.

The land grant system was begun by congress in 1850, with allocation of 2,595,000 acres of the then plentiful public lands for construction of the Illinois Central road. The principle grew rapidly until more than 75 grants, aggregating 158,293,000 acres, had been made. Under encouragement of the land gifts 21,500 miles of trackage spanned the con-

Of the original 158,293,000 acres, the railroads actually took patents on 116,000,000 acres.

Clue to Robbery Mystery CLEVELAND .- A soiled handkerchief knotted around six marbles was the clew that solved the great burglary mystery at the Friendly Gas Service station, which has been looted three times in the past few

Albert Foldauer, the attendant, found the handkerchief on the morning following the third burglary. During the day he noticed a 10year-old boy nervously loitering about the station. When Foldauer walked up to him with the handkerchief, the boy began to cry. He admitted the handkerchief was his and that he and five other boys, ranging in age from 8 to 11, had been robbing the station. Bottles of pop and pennies from the station desk was all that was ever taken.

Tough Old Army Mule FORT BLISS, TEXAS.—This is a mechanized age, and the army is utilizing its share of machine-transportation and power, but motor vehicles never will knock out the tough army mule.

That's the consensus of military strategists at Fort Bliss, America's largest cavalry post.

Historians at the fort who have done research work on the subject, say the mule started with the army. They base their prediction that the mule never will be entirely supplanted by motor transportation and power on the proved fact that the animal is at its best in rough going. They point out that big trucks can't get through heavy mud, climb trackless mountains, or go through jungles. The mule can. Capt. Richard E. Arnold, who is serving his twenty-first year in the army and who now commands the Fort Bliss mule pack train—the only one in America-insists that the mule represents much of the color and romance of the army.

Captain Arnold's mule pack train -Troop E-includes 303 animals, 73 men and two officers, divided into four platoons.

He and other veterans like to tell of the feats of sturdy mules in the World war and of the times they carried ammunition through to the front in France when trucks were mired in the mud or in shell holes.

Prisoner Admits Hoax

In Slaying 'Confession' LOUISA, KY.-District Attorney M. J. Eagen of Scranton, Pa., said that Dwight O. Thorne admitted he had concocted a "confession" of being responsible for the dynamite slaying of William and Lois Rebhorn in Scranton last November.

"I was practically convinced that it was a hoax before I came to Louisa," said Eagen, who questioned Thorne in the presence of local and Pennsylvania police.

"However, he gave us some side-lights I would like to look into before he is turned loose," Eagen

"It was a made-up story," County Attorney M. J. See quoted Thorne as saying.

Asked why he did it, See said Thorne replied: "Even if I have to spend the rest of my life in the penitentiary, I can't tell you why."

WHEREAS, it is hereby found and declared that the national-defense proof a misdemeanor and shall be punishable by imprisonment not to exceed one year or by fine not to exceed $1.000.

Or both.

(3) In any action or proceeding in which a person in military service is a party if such party does not personally appear therein or is not represented by an authorized attorney, the court may appoint an attorney to represent him: and in such case a like bond may be required and an order made to protect the rights of such persons. But no attorney appointed under this Article to protect a person in military service shall have power to waive any right of the person for whom he is appointed or bind him by his acts.

(4) If any judgment shall be rendered in any action or proceeding governed by this section against any person in military service during the period of such service or within thirty days thereafter, and it appears that such person was prejudiced by reason of his military service in making his defense thereto, such judgment may, upon application, made by such person or his legal representative, not later than ninety days after the termination of such service, be opened by the court rendering the same and such defendant or his legal representative let in to defend; provided it is made to appear, that the defendant has a meritorious or legal defense to the action or some part thereof. Vacating, setting aside, or reversing any judgment because of any of the provisions of this Article shall not impair any right or title acquired by a bona fide purchaser for value under such judgment.

(5) At any stage thereof any action or proceeding in any court in which a person in military service is involved, either as plaintiff or defendant, during the period of such service or within sixty days thereafter may, in the discretion of the court, the ability of plaintiff to prosecute the action or the defendant to conduct his defense is not materially affected by reason of failure to comply with the terms of such contract during the period of such stay, and in any case where a person fails to perform a or perform was thereby materially linpaired.

7. In any action or proceeding commenced in any court against a person in military service, before or during the period of such service, or within sixty days thereafter, the court may, in its descretion, on its own motion, or on application to it by such person or some person on his behalf shall, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the defendant to comply with the judgment or order entered or sought is not materially affected by reason of his military service—

(a) Stay the execution of any judgment or order entered against such perment or order entered against such person, as provided in this Artiele; and

(b) Vacate or stay any attachment or garnishment of property, money, or debts in the hands of another, whether before or after Judgment as provided in this Artiele.

8. Any stay of any action, proceeding, attachment, or execution, ordered by any court under the provisions of this Article may, except as otherwise provided, be ordered for the period or military service and three months thereafter or any part of such period, and subject to such terms as may be just, whether as to payment in installments of such amounts and at such times as the court may fix or otherwise. Where the person in military service is a codefendant with others the plaintiff may nevertheless by leave of court proceed again the others.

9. The period of military service shall not be included in computing any period now or hereafter to be limited by any law for the bringing of any action by or against any person in military service or by or against his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, whether such cause of action shall have accrued prior to or during the period of such service.

10. (1) No eviction or distress shall be made during the period of military service in respect of any premises for which the agreed rent does not exceed $80 per month, occupied chiefly for dwelling purposes by the wife, children, or other dependents of a person in military service, except upon leave of court granted in an action or proceeding affecting the right of possession.

(2) On any such application or in any such action the court may, in its discretion, on its own motion, and shall, on application, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the tenant to pay the agreed rent is not materially affected by reason of such military service, stay the proceedings for not longer than three months, as provided in this Artiele, or it may make such other order as may be just.

(3) Any person who shall knowingly take part in any eviction or distress otherwise than as provided interests of all parties.

12. (1) The provisions of this section shall apply only to obligations originating prior to October 17, 1940 and secured by mortgage, trust deed, or other security in the nature of a mortgage upon real or personal property owned by a person in military service at the commencement of the period of the military service and still so owned by him.

(2) In any proceedings

commencement of the period of the military service and still so owned by him.

(2) In any proceeding commenced in any court during the period of military service to enforce such obligation arising out of nonpayment of any sum thereunder due or out of any other breach of the terms thereof occuring prior to or during the period of such service the court may, after hearing, in its discretion, on its own motion, and shall, except as provided in section 13. on application to it by such person in military service or some person on his behalf, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the defendant to comply with the terms of the obligation is not materially affected by reason of his military service—

(a) stay the proceedings as provided in this Article; or

(b) make such other disposition of the case as may be equitable to conserve the interests of all parties.

(3) No sale under a power of sale or under a judgment entered upon warrant of attorney to confess judgment contained in any such obligation shall be valid if made during the period of military service or within three months thereafter, unless upon an order of sale previously granted by the court and a return thereto made and approved by the court.

13. No court shall stay a proceeding

the court.

13. No court shall stay a proceeding to resume possession of a motor vehicle, tractor, or the accessories of either, or for an order of sale thereof, where said motor vehicle, tractor, or accessories are encumbered by a purchase money mortgage, conditional sales contract, or a lease or bailment with a view to purchase, unless the court shall find that 50 per centum or more of the purchase price of said property has been paid, but in any such proceeding the court may, before entering an order or judgment, require the plaintiff to file a bond, approved by the court, conditioned to indemnify the defendant, if in military service, against any loss of damage that he may suffer by reason of any such judgment or order should the judgment or order be set aside in whole or in part.

14. (1) The provisions of this section shall apply when any taxes or assessments, whether general or special, fall ing due during the period of military service in respect of real property owned and occupied for dwelling, agricultural, or business purposes by a person in military service and still so occupied by his dependents or employees are not paid.

(2) When any person in military service, or any person in military service and still so occupied by his dependents or employees are not paid.

(2) When any person in military service, or any person in military service of such property which is the subject of this section, (b) that such tax or assessments, an affidavit showing (a) that a tax or assessment has been assessed upon property which is the subject of this section, (b) that such tax or assessment is materially affected, no sale of such property shall be made to enforce the collection of such tax or assessment, such property shall be made to enforce the collection of such tax or assessment, such property may be sold or forfeited to enforce the collection of such tax on application made therefor by such collector or other officer. The court thereupon may stay such property may the sold or forfeited to enforce the collection

16. The collection from any person in the military service of any tax on the income of such person, whether falling due prior to or during his period of military service, shall be deferred for a period extending not more than six months after the termination of his period of military service if such person's ability to pay such tax is materially impaired by reason of such service. No interest on any amount of tax, collection of which is deferred for any period under this section, and no penalty for nonpayment of such amount during such period, shall accrue for such period of deferment by reason of such nonpayment. The running of any statute of limitations against the collection of such tax by distraint or otherwise shall be suspended for the period of military service of any individual the collection of whose tax is deferred under this section, and for an additional period of nine months beginning with the day following the period of military service.

Administrative Remedies

17. Where in any proceeding to enforce a civil right in any court it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that any interest, property, or contract has been transferred or acquired with intent to delay the just enforcement of such right by taking advantage of this Article, the court shall enter such judgment or make such order as might lawfully be entered or made, the provisions of this Article to the contrary notwithstanding.

18. (1) In any proceeding under this Article a certificate signed by the Adjutant General of the Army as to persons in the Army or in any branch of the United States service while serving pursuant to law with the Army of the United States Navy or in any other branch of the United States service while serving pursuant to law with the Marine Corps, or in any other branch of the United States service while serving pursuant to law with the Marine Cor

'Old Jake' Still Is Running His Ferry

Plies Waters in Shadow of New York Skyscrapers.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—High banks deflected most of the night light from the stream; geometric shapes hulked higher above it; and down on the water, his single lantern barely illuminating his passengers, a big, bearded figure sculled his single-oared ferry between low landing stages.

It might have been Charon piloting his charges across the Styx. In reality, it was "Old Jake"-Jake Anderson, who for 43 years has sculled his 25-foot rowboat across the Lehigh gap, carrying passengers at three cents a head. Almost under the shadows of New York's downtown skyscrapers, Old Jake or one of his two assistants transports his customers by one of the oldest means of commerce known to man. Great ships ply the Hudson river within sight of the little ferry; powerful tugs rock the boat as they pass through the gap, but Old Jake and his aides still propel the craft by that single oar at the stern. The gap is a strip of water joining New York harbor and a ship basin two miles inside Jersey City. Its 300-foot width separates a railroad terminal from a populous industrial and residential area, so the threecent ferry was established more than 50 years ago to save commuters a long walk around the basin.

Old Jake was a Scandinavian seaman until he took up the ferry's oar in 1898. He is 83 years old now, his friends say. It's hard for him when a cold wind sweeps through the gap and ice floes block the boat. But on mild days he takes his turn.

If a passenger comes to the gap and sees the boat on the far side, Old Jake shouts a lusty "halloo!" In time, he saunters down to the landing and sculls his way across the gap.

If it takes 10 minutes, no one complains. The customers agree with the skipper: The service is certain and that's all one should ask for three cents.

dertaken to assure the availability of safe and sanitary dwellings for persons engaged in national-defense activities.

WHEREAS, it is hereby found and declared that the national-defense program involves large increases in the military forces and personnel in this State, a great increase in the number or workers in already established manufacturing centers and the bringing of a large number of workers and their families to new centers of defense industries in the State; that there is an acute shortage of safe and sanitary dwellings available to such persons and their families in this State which impedes the national-defense program; that it imperative that action be taken immediately to assure the availability of safe and sanitary dwellings for such persons to enable the rapid expansion of national-defense activities in this State and to avoid a large labor turn-over in defense industries which would seriously hamper their production; that the provisions hereinafter enacted are necessary to assure the availability of safe and sanitary dwellings for persons engaged in national-defense activities which otherwise would not be provided at this time; and that such provisions are for the public use and purpose of facilitating the national-defense program in this State. It is further declared to be the purpose of this Act to authorize Housing Authorities to do any and all things necessary or desirable to secure the financial aid of the Federal Government, or to cooperate with or act as agent of the Federal Government, in the expeditious development and the administration of projects to assure the availability when needed of safe and sanitary dwellings for persons engaged in national-defense activities.

JIMMIE LYNCH DEATH DODGERS AT CARROLL CO. FAIR.

The Jimmie Lynch Death Dodgers, ranked as the nation's outstanding automobile daredevils after their two-year performances at the New York World's Fair, have been con-tracted to appear at the Carroll County Fair, Taneytown, on Sunday, August 10th. For their return engagement at Taneytown, the Death Dodgers will present two performances, at 3 P. M. and 8 P. M.

Selection of the Death Dodgers again for the featured event of the thrill day program at the Fair this year, was based on the outstanding.

The sensational feats of the Death Dodgers have won them other return engagements for such important expositions as the Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kansas State Fairs, this being further proof of their national recognition. These death defying daredevils will present a program consisting of 22 thrilling and entertaining events, including many new and more daring stunts than ever presented by auto-mobile daredevils. A pack of steelnerved pilots, accompanied by com-edy teams and other entertainers, will take part in this hazardous pro-The spine tingling program will last for two solid hours, and will include such stunts as the dive bomber crash, regarded as the most dangerous of all automobile stunts; the catapulting of a stock automobile through two flaming board walls; the catapulting of a stock automobile through two flaming board walls; distance of from 60 to 100 feet from a rampway; the crash rolling of a stock car; the Roman steeple chase races, and many other sensational events. Many of these daring stunts have been added this season and will be attempted for the first time at this track

J. F. "Irish" Horan, manager and announcer of the Lynch thrill show, with years of experience as a radio announcer, will give a dramatic dis-cription of the show as it progresses.

You can not believe in honor until you have achieved it. Better keep yourself clean and bright; you are the window through which you must see the world.—George Bernard Shaw.

OF INTEREST TO AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS.

A six week's amateur photographers contest built around a series of prescribed subjects, all located within Carlin's' Amusement Park, Balti-more, was announced by Mr. S. J. Foster, director photographic division, of the Arts Club of Baltimore. The contest is open to all amateur photographers. There is no entrance fee, and the first weeks' contest be-

AGE OF RUMORS AND GUESSES.

This is the era of mare's nests; of alarming rumors and startling

Not long ago several prominent columnists announced with details and circumstantial precision that an American destroyer off Greenland, engaged in rescuing survivors of a bombed or torpedoed British mer-chant ship, detected the presence of a submarine, presumably German, and had loosed three depth bombs to de-

The Navy Department refused comment on the story—in accordance with its policy of revealing nothing as to the activities or whereabouts of its vessels

Senator Wheeler, apparently accepting the story as true, demanded a Senate investigation saying that the inquiry should seek to identify "the persons who authorized or ordered any such shooting" and that they "should be made to suffer the consequences."

next press conference Sec retary Knox said that no such engagement as reported by the columnists had taken place and knocked down with equal positiveness a variety of other stories along the same

Obviously, neither the War nor Navy Departments can deny all the rumors that circulate nowadays. During the first World War a lot of these stories were started by enemy agents, either with the purpose alarming our people with such tales as that of an American transport, carrying specified regiments, had been torpedoed or, more probably, in order that an official denial would tell them whether such American troops or such a transport was on its way. -The Frederick New Citizen.
