Recollection of Taneytown's Big Fire.

Editor The Record:-

Your continued article—Old Taneytown, 47 years ago—has been read with a good deal of pleasure, and while I am not a Taneytownian my connection goes back forty odd years to the "great fire"—for I was up with you then as guest of Prof. Meier, Principal of Milton Academy, giving a series of readings at a three night's festival he was holding. On the second night, your big fire occurred, and I rushed out with the rest to see the show.

The fire was up the street away from the site of the Record Office, and citizens were sweating carrying furniture from the house. I stopped to ask one of the sweating hustlers something about the fire; he looked at me, saw I was dressed in tuxedo and snarled "Get to hell out of the way" and passed on. I don't know who he was but I have always had a profound respect for him.

Yes, I liked your reminiscences, and count some of the old boys among my friends. You are doing a real service in publishing these articles. I hope you keep well. Drop me a line when the spirit moves you.

Sincerely yours,

W. J. HEAPS.

(This fire was on Friday, Dec. 26, 1897, and originated in a Hay and Straw Packing Shed belonging to T. H. Eckenrode, the foundation and first story of which is now owned by The Reindollar Co. and is still standing.)

The standpipe portion of the present fire equipment was in course of erection, and was partly filled but the hose coupling would not fit and the water was useless, until the Littlestown, Pa. Fire Company arrived and rendered very valuable service in preventing the spread of the fire. Buildings burned were: the warehouse of Samuel E. Reindollar, and all of the buildings fronting on Baltimore Street to the corner of Middle Street.—Ed.)

Old Taneytown Articles to Appear.

The Record has in contemplation the publishing of a few articles on "Old Taneytown" one of which is about the town clock that was once contained in the steeple of the old Lutheran Church.

Another may be on the "Old Public" well, and the number and location of stone steps in side walks in order to get from one level to another, one of which was at the candy shop of old Betsy Donnelly, at the north end of Emmitsburg Street.

A BOY SHOT AND KILLED.

Russell Barnes, a boy of 12 years, was shot and killed in the front yard of his home near Westminster, on Tuesday afternoon. The act is charged to have been by two boys, Scott Farley and Ryle Springman, a 22-calibre rifle being used.

All of the boys were from 12 to 15 years of age. The shooting is reported to have been to make the victim "jump." Instead of that he was immediately killed.

The Barnes boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Barnes, of the Finksburg-Gamber road, was sitting with a cousin in his front yard eating candy when the other boys approached on bicycles.

Each carried a 22-calibre rifle and one of them fired in the direction of Barnes and his cousin. The boy slumped over and the youth who fired the shot ran, while his companion went for a doctor.

Dr. James Sagel, of Reisterstown, who responded, found the Barnes boy dead, and immediately notified the Sheriff's office. The other youths were taken to Westminster.

BENEFIT CLAIMS.

Baltimore, August 27—A new procedure for the handling of interstate benefit claims has been scheduled for adoption on September 1 by the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board. The new plan provides for uniform action and forms by all the States and is the result of recent conferences of State Security Agencies.

In connection with the improved procedure Maryland will recognize interstate claims for partial unemployment, which has not heretofore been the practice. Interstate claims are those presented by a worker who, after earning a wage credit in one State, moves into another while unemployed. Heretofore Maryland has recognized benefit claims coming from other States, for total unemployment only.

Attending the conferences were representatives of the various administrative regions into which the country has been divided by the Social Security Board. Maryland is in Region IV and was represented by Director S. C. Cromwell, of the Unemployment Compensation Division, who also represented Region VII, the two regions combined including almost all the territory south of the Mason & Dixon line, the Ohio River and east of the Mississippi.

It is expected that nearly all of the States will adhere to the new plan of procedure, but all do not, like Maryland, pay benefits for partial unemployment. Last year the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board received 48,704 benefit claims from other jurisdictions.

CAUTION AGAINST INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

A Warning issued by Governor O'Connor.

Annapolis, August 26—"The utmost care and caution" are urged upon the people of Maryland in an effort to prevent the spread of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), in a statement issued by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor here today.

While stressing that there is no need for alarm at the situation, Gov. O'Connor, however, declared "on the other hand I feel that the public is entitled to know the facts so that the utmost care and caution may be exercised. Up until this afternoon 40 cases of this disease have been reported in the State since the first of the year. Of this total 30 have been reported since August 1st, of which 18 occurred during the week ending yesterday.

"Those totals represent a considerable increase in the disease during the present year over the corresponding period of 1940. Since the epidemic of 1928, in which year 162 cases occurred in Maryland, the largest number reported in any one year took place in 1935 when 53 cases were recommended. The Health Department authorities cannot assure me that the total this year will be less than the 1935 total, and it is for this reason that I feel that notification should be made to the public so that any steps to prevent the spread of the disease might be taken.

"According to the medical experts, the disease is not highly contagious, but the doctors view every contact as a possible danger. The largest number of cases this year reported are in the age group of 1 to 4 years in which group 13 cases have occurred. In the age group of 5 to 9 years, a total of 10 cases have been reported, and in the groups whose ages range from 10 to 14 years, 8 cases have been reported. The remaining cases occur in the other age groups. I should make note of the fact that all County Health Officers have been instructed by the State Department that poliomyelitis control takes precedence over all activities.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, the Director of the State Board of Health, and Dr. Charles H. Halliday, the Assistant Director, are devoting close and continuous attention to the situation. At my request statements on the situation have been submitted by Drs. Riley and Halliday, setting forth facts concerning the handling of this situation by the Health authorities."

PEACH HARVEST.

The height of the harvest of Southern Pennsylvania and Maryland peach harvest was this week. Those who depend on even the best of California fruit show lack of good judgment—the best flavor does not come to us in cans.

In fact, the home canning of most fruit of all kinds, is apt to be best, whether of fruit or garden vegetables. To have stacks of cans waiting for the annual "clean-up" day is pretty sure to represent lack of good house keeping.

This is mere man talk, perhaps, but, he has a good-taster, none the less—as we say "the proof of the pudding is the eating thereof."

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

The regular sessions of the Taneytown High and Elementary schools for the year 1941-1942 will begin on Wednesday, September 3 at 9 A. M. The busses will run that day on their regular routes and schedules.

The teachers will be in their rooms at the school on Tuesday afternoon, September 2, from 2 until 3:30 o'clock. Pupils entering school for the first time may register on Tuesday afternoon.

Maryland Council of Defense.

Americanism will be stressed by the Women's Division, Maryland Council of Defense, during the coming winter.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Chairman appointed Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, former president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs as chairman of this committee.

The women of the state are asked to display the American flag on all clubhouses and to use their influence to have flags flown on all public buildings.

They intend to ask all motion picture theatre owners to display the American flag on the screens prior to showing feature productions and to have the National Anthem played.

In an effort to further national unity seek to abolish attacks on any one religion or race.

Encourage the establishment of as many classes in Americanization as the School Board can provide, with the help of recognized patriotic and lay groups.

Forums and debates—to encourage persons in an effort to acquaint our people with the benefits derived in a Democracy.

Libraries—To ask for special tables in all libraries for Americanization readers.

To make a definite check on books for school children.

Senator Tydings on the World War.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds, of North Carolina, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, former Governor of New Jersey, Harold Hoffman, and Major General, Milton A. Reckord, commander of the 29th. Division, now in Camp at Fort Meade, Md., have accepted invitations to speak at the banquet of the 29th. Division Association. It will be held at the Willard Hotel, at 7:30 P. M., Saturday, August 30th.

"World War II and its effect on the Americas" will be the theme of the addresses.

The 29th. Division Association, made up of men who served in that organization during the World War, will hold its annual reunion in Washington, August 29, through September 1. More than 1,000 veterans are expected to attend.

Senator Tydings and former Governor Hoffman enlisted as privates in the 29th. Division early in 1917 and were promoted through the various grades, step by step, the former leaving the service as a lieutenant colonel and the latter as a major. General Reckord commanded the 115th. Infantry of the old 29th. Division during its entire service and today is the only division commander who served with the same organization during the last war. All three men were decorated for gallantry in action against the enemy.

While the 29th. Division veterans await hearing a frank account of international conditions from these four experts, numerous other activities will engage their attention during the four day reunion. Many sightseeing trips embracing the recent, rapid development of Washington are scheduled.

On Labor Day morning, a street parade of the new streamlined 29th. Division will be held in honor of the veterans of the same organization of nearly a quarter of a century ago. The oldtimers will not participate but will watch critically as the modern mechanized Division passes in review.

The Division was originally made up of National Guard troops from Maryland, New Jersey, the District of Columbia, Delaware, and Virginia, but as replacements were needed, they were added from every State in the Union. The Division, although comparatively late in arriving in France, served 79 days in the front lines and suffered more than 5,500 casualties. A substantial percentage were decorated for valor in action.

These men of the 29th. Division Association who know what war is from personal participation sincerely hope it doesn't come to this country again. They have, however, unanimously, offered their services for any duty, in any land, should that unhappy event again occur. Meanwhile, they forgo their each year to reminiscence, pass resolutions, and return to their homes fully convinced the 29th. "won the war."

COMPANY H NEWS.

The following letter was received by Capt. Morris, of H Company, 115th. Infantry, from Mrs. John L. Baker, the recipient in a blood transfusion:

Westminster, Md., Aug 18, '41.

My Dear Captain Morris: Your kindness and consideration in providing transportation and sending five of your men, including my son, Charles, from your camp to the Maryland University Hospital, to render a very special service to me, in my hour of need, have deeply touched me, and you may be sure that this expression of nobility and sacrifice has been a constant source of courage and hope.

I am most grateful to you, Capt. Morris and I wish to convey to you, and also to Messrs Morris Blizard, Ollie Blizard, Angelo Locaccio and Fern Smith my sincere appreciation. I also wish to thank all who offered to come.—Mrs. John L. Bair.

This company has completed another fast week of training. First part of the week, because of rain, the men had indoor classes on interior guard duty and hand grenades. Wednesday they participated in a maneuver against the 175th. Infantry from Baltimore. Thursday the men had an overnight problem and were dismissed for the week-end on Friday. All of the men reported back to the post Sunday night and are now looking forward to the Labor Day holiday.

Two men from the company who reported to the hospital were Pvt. First Class "Ben" Lindsay who cut his finger while working at his duties of cook; Pvt. Calvin Wilson who in some way hurt his back was discharged from there early this morning, and is getting along fine and he will soon be back with his many friends in the company.

PITTINGER REUNION.

The Pittinger reunion, will be held on Sunday, Sept. 14, 1941, at Pine-Mar Camp Ground, between Taneytown and Westminster. Prizes will be awarded. Basket lunch at noon.

While Maryland is not generally considered in the sweet pea packing area, development of new varieties has made it possible to grow and pack this product commercially.

The Salaries of the Frederick Co. teachers (conforming with the salaries of teachers in Carroll County, likely) were as follows: 1st. class certificates $100.00 per term; 2nd. class $90.00; second grade, first class $88.00; second class $78.00, and third class $70.00.

Mrs. Gertrude Cookson, wife of Mr. Burrier Cookson, of Uniontown, died at her home in that place Tuesday morning, in the twenty-first year of her age. She was the daughter of the late Mr. J. Thomas Devilbiss and wife.

The Littlestown correspondent writes: "It seems almost incredible, yet it is a 'loud' fact that we are in need of the enforcement of certain laws, which bear upon nuisances. We have a few of them here which are in need of prescription from the Health Officers. Littlestown has always been noted for its cleanliness and healthful atmosphere; then let all good people see to it that this reputation be kept up. Let them see that from their pig-sties, or stables come no stench to pollute the air, and cause pedestrians to place their kerchiefs to their noses, while passing. Let each one attend to the cleanliness of his property, and there will remain no neighbor to complain.

Shortage of Farm Labor Serious.

In spite of unfavorable farm labor conditions in the State, Maryland farmers have been able to maintain production at a fairly normal level through the use of members of the family, exchange of labor and machinery, longer working hours, and postponing farm jobs that do not need immediate attention, according to a report on farm labor conditions in the State which has been released by Dr. S. H. DeVault, head of the University of Maryland Department of Agricultural Economics.

The report shows that the demand for farm labor in Maryland has become particularly acute during the last three months, and the ratio of supply to demand was only 60 on July 1 as compared with 89 on January 1st.

Not all sections of the State have been hit equally by the labor shortage, according to the report. Counties in the northeast and northwest part of the State have a definite shortage of labor, while there is only a slight shortage in Southern Maryland. The Eastern Shore is fairly well taken care of by migratory labor, and conditions in Garrett and Allegany counties are about normal.

The report points out that aid is being given by deferring agricultural workers from selective service, by curtailing the number of workers on W. P. A. projects, and by placing more than 2,000 regular workers on farms through the Maryland Employment Service. This service has registered and directed approximately 3,000 migrant workers to farms on the Eastern Shore and has established several new offices in rural areas of the State to help in recruiting farm workers.

According to the report, Maryland farmers are paying the highest wage rates since 1930, and wages may go still higher. A number of farmers stated that farm wages are too high in comparison with the prices farmers receive for their products. They point out that even though farm wages continue to increase farmers cannot compete favorably with industry for qualified farm labor.

HOME CANNING

To Ward Off Winter Food Worries.

Here are some end-of-the-season canning suggestions from the Nutritionist of the State Department of Health as to ways by which housekeepers may help to solve their three-meal-a-day problems, regardless of rising food prices:

"With food prices climbing, the home-maker who has put up a supply of home canned fruits and vegetables during the summer has had a large share of her food budgeting problems solved for her.

"By now, a great many housewives have already lined their shelves with canned carrots, green peas, string beans, lima beans and other vegetables or fruits from their gardens. For those who have waited to begin their canning program there is still much canning material available. Until late September Maryland gardens can be depended upon for tomatoes, beans, corn, squash and other vegetables; apples, peaches, pears, grapes and other fruits, for canning or preserving, all of which have good nutritional values or add variety to the family food supply.

"Vegetables and fruits are sources of minerals and vitamins. They furnish body building and regulating material. Vegetables and fruits are needed all the year round. The daily vegetable requirement for each individual is for two servings of vegetable in addition to potato. One of them should be a green or yellow vegetable to provide Vitamin A, the vitamin which aids growth and helps to develop resistance to infection. Among fruits, tomatoes are an important source of Vitamin C, the scurvy preventive vitamin. A dish of tomatoes and another serving of fruit each day meet the individual's fruit requirement.

"To fill these needs for the winter months, the Maryland Extension service estimates that the following should be provided for each member of the family: Greens, four quarts; tomatoes and tomato juice, a total of twenty quarts; other vegetables, at least six to eight different kinds—a total of thirty quarts; fruits (six-eight kinds), twenty-five quarts; dried fruits and vegetables, three quarts.

"For the total family needs, multiply the amount for one person by the number in the family, and add one extra portion for one person by the number in the family, and add one extra portion for unexpected company.

"Even the family with a small garden can meet a portion, at least, of its winter requirements by canning regularly small amounts of extra vegetables or fruits that are not needed on the family table. By putting up small quantities at a time, a very considerable amount can be accumulated by the end of the season."

MRS. TYDINGS WILL SPEAK AT WESTMINSTER.

Mrs. Millard E. Tydings, wife of the Senior United States Senator from Maryland, will be the guest of honor at a tea given by the Women's Democratic Club of Carroll County to be held at the Historical Home, 206 East Main St., Westminster, from three to five on Friday afternoon, Sept. 5. Mrs. M. S. H. Unger heads the committee on refreshments and Mrs. John Wood, Jr., and Mrs. Morris Mitten are helping with the tickets. Mrs. Paul M. Wimer publicity.

Mrs. Charles O. Clemson, who has served as president of the club since its organization in 1933, has named as the nominating committee Mrs. Morris Mitten, Mrs. Edward N. Chrest and Mrs. Michael E. Doyle to report at the annual meeting on the third Monday in September. Mrs. Clemson has asked the committee to secure another nominee for the office of president, as other demands on her time make it imperative that she give up the office of presidency of the club.

Random Thoughts

ANTIQUES.

It would seem that in these days of higher taxes and costs, the fad for buying "antiques" would let up, if not entirely stop. No doubt it has, to some extent, but among the so-called weaker sex, it is still strong.

We say that "necessity is the mother of invention" but nobody has yet found out why old bedsteads, pots, kettles and dishes, can be stretched so as to get into the "necessity" class.

We can understand why Bentley clocks and the Slagenhaupe rockers that belonged to our parents, or grand-parents, are valued, but why we should want the old furniture that belonged to others is beyond sensible comprehension.

Of course, the antique business is a "business" at which dealers make plenty of money and are helping to keep it going.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, 1941.

PANICKY!

Every once in a while, the American people go off on a tangent, without any cause based on anything like calm consideration, and before we realize it, a lot of damage has been done.

We call it caution, with the best of intentions, but just the same, it causes wrecks as well as advantages.

Wait a bit, when there is reasonable doubt. Consider those who suffer by the quick acting of a machine—and the mind is a mental machine and so, make haste slowly is distinctly good advice.

A GAME OF CHESS GOING ON IN EUROPE.

The war in Europe is very much like a game of chess—a game of strategy in which Kings and Knights and pawns and other pieces, are used for the purposes of bringing about checkmate—the end of the game.

Each of the "men" on the board has his particular moves and limits. Apparently, sacrifices are made. Innocent looking traps are laid. Every piece is subject to capture, except the King; but he can be shorn of all power—sometimes by one of the eight pawns that heads each side of the battle.

Just now, in Europe, moves are being made all over the field of the war, and strategy is being used. For instance, we might say that Japan is playing what appears to be a game for friendship with the United States—or it may be one of strategy. Peace pretty generally could be secured all over the field of battle, providing each major power could get what it wants.

The population of each is tired out and wants nothing so much as peace. It seems to us that a cessation of hostilities should be declared, in order to take time to find out whether actual peace is not possible.

ENTANGLING ALLIANCES.

Washington's injunction to avoid entangling alliances with old world powers, was good advice, and while it was obeyed for considerably over a century, we got along quite well. Not until the "wise" school master—Woodrow Wilson—came to National leadership, was there any trouble. He thought he could meet and vanquish, with logic, the seasoned diplomats of the old world, and so he got us into the world war so as to get into the peace conference. Lloyd George and Clemenceau sat silent while Wilson with hallowed zeal argued his 14 points, then acted, and the unholy Versailles Treaty was the outcome. Wilson came home feeling he had matters "in the bag" but the Congress of the United States, true to its functions and duties, thought differently, and we remained unentangled.

Now comes along his understudy—F. D. R.—and flashes out and flourishes his "eight" points promises to be "the Arsenal of Democracy"—that as banker and paymaster for all the follies of all the fools of the old world, and Churchill—wise, experienced, old world diplomat—leads him on, and the secret conference on the high seas is held on a British man-of-war attended by the President and highest army and navy officials, and representatives of the British press, but many a representative of the American Press to enlighten the people of this democracy.

Fully 75% of our people (some say 90%) are opposed to war, yet F. D. R. blanketing the Congressional function to declare war, has led us to the very brink of war, hoping Hitler will be fool enough to fire the first shot so he can yell defensive war and throw our forces—billions of dollars and millions of men—into a war that is none of our business.

Our own remaining hope is Congress, but this hope, judging by past performances, is but a bruised reed and broken straw.

If we want to save American institutions for posterity it looks like we shall have to get a new Congress that is American minded, and not presidential stooges!

W. J. H.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND.

"Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The government has siezed the ship building plant at Kearney, N. J., after a 16 days strike. Eight years of coddling of labor by the New Deal is bearing a nice crop of fruit. If we do too little and are too late with our help to Britain it will be due solely to the politics—New Deal tie up!

Hitler is still going places and doing things while our administration permits millions of man-hour labor to be tied up and for no other reason than to collect labor dues and compel men who do not want to join unions, to do so.

I have read dozens of pamphlets lately about labor in Britain and there, every man of them is alert. They work 10 to 12 hours a day, seven days a week and do not seek overpay for doing so. The Roosevelt administration has for eight years been cracking down on industry.

The people who make labor possible, and solely because capital doesn't have the votes, while labor has. It is high time he was cracking down on labor as well. We are going to get into this war, hence it is high time we were getting ready.—H.

AUDITING THE NEW DEAL.

The Nation's finances are in a critical state—not due to defense expenditure, but largely due to the extravagant spending and reckless borrowing of the present Administration of the last eight years.

This extravagant program is objected to by not only Republicans, but also those old-line Jeffersonian Democrats who believe with us Republicans that our Nation's strength is not based only on the number of guns, airships, battleships, and tanks that we have, but who believe that the morale of our people and the financial condition of our Nation are to be considered as a safety to sound and permanent government.

In eight years the present Administration has spent as much as it cost to run the Government during the first 131 years of our country—from the Administration of George Washington through the Administration of Woodrow Wilson, including the World War period. It has accumulated a series of staggering deficits, for non-defense items, that forces Congress to put upon the people a heavy tax burden.

Yet even this tax program that we have before us is but a small per cent of the amount required to meet the Government's deficit. Of the $67,000,000,000 spent in the last eight years only approximately $5,000,000,000 represents an outlay for the defense program, a program which we all favor. But what I want to impress upon your mind is that the Nation's present financial condition was not caused by our defense expenditure.

When the initial request was made for defense expenditure last year the New Deal spenders had exhausted the then existing debt limit of $45,000,000,000, and all spent for non-defense items. And this is not the end. I prophesy that within a year our debt limit will exceed $100,000,000,000, with only a small per cent used as an expenditure for defense.

Our fiscal situation is bad because of the Chief Executive's unwillingness to take a firm stand against Congressional spenders when the worst years of depression were behind us. Today his attitude remains in spite of the advent of the defense program. The President's refusal to reduce non-defense spending and his silence on this subject is one of the underlying causes of our financial insecurity.

If the President showed by deeds as well as by words that he fully realized the dangers of uncontrolled expenditure and intended to support all economy moves that did not hamper the defense program, the people of the country would feel greatly relieved. They would be more willing to support new tax proposals. But they want to be sure that increased revenues will be used for defense and not for non-essential expenditures.

I certainly agree with the minority report on the tax bill when it says:

"If the Government is going 'all-out' for national defense, and 'all-out' for taxes upon the people, it is compelled both by necessity and by a regard for its obligation to the taxpayers of the country to also go 'all-out' for economy."—Rep. J. Harry McGregor, Republican, O., Congressional Record.

HAVE WE A WAR TO WIN?

Washington, D. C., August—The President of the United States drew a parallel from the words of Abraham Lincoln and issued a warning to the Nation a few days ago. He said we are faced by a war that can be won only by "hard, tough fighting" that will "hurt somebody." When the President returned from his meeting with Winston Churchill he told the country that it was no nearer war than before the meeting with the British chiefs at sea.

The spread of the war into Russia, and threats of a war with Japan, present a situation that is filled with grave dangers. The Administration has been aware of these dangers for a long time.

It now appears that the heads of the Army realize that the Lower House of Congress knew there was a critical condition in our Army when it came within one vote of freeing draftees from service. Immediately after the President signed the bill passed by the two branches of Congress to keep the men another eighteen months, the War Department announced a new policy that promises all present and future selective service men and guardsmen an average of eighteen months of training, instead of the full thirty months permitted under the law signed by President Roosevelt; with 200,000 freed within the next few weeks. It is very obvious that the War Department has become concerned over the morale in Army camps, which is the actual reason why the program was changed.

So, the general public should heed the warnings and sit tight, and do plenty of thinking and planning for the future for our country, and our people.—J. E. Jones in N. I. News Service.

HOBSON'S CHOICE.

"President Roosevelt wrote a splendidly balanced and objective message to Congress requesting legislation to control prices," writes David Lawrence. "It really confronts the nation with Hobson's choice. Either prices must be controlled or the country will experience a runaway inflation."

The fact that the price problem has so far not reached grave dimensions, is to the credit of American industry. Our principal businesses in all lines have demonstrated a praiseworthy opposition to profiteering. In the face of rising difficulties they have generally held prices to the lowest possible level.

That is especially true of the retail trades. Led by the chain store systems, a definite anti-inflation merchandising policy has been established by American merchants. "Scare advertising" has been discouraged and prevented. There has been almost no speculation in commodities at the consumer's expense. Notable progress has been made in the direction of greater operating income. In many cases, merchants have voluntarily accepted lower profits, and absorbed wholesale price increases themselves.

It is obvious, however, that industry cannot do the impossible. That is why some form of price control seems inevitable. In the opinion of a great many economists, price control must be accompanied by some sort of wage control if it is to be successful. If payrolls continue to rise, industry will have no alternative save to charge more for what it produces and sells. Congress has a real job ahead in framing laws to solve what David Lawrence terms, "The most difficult problem of economic regulation the Federal government has ever faced."—Industrial News Review.

THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE.

In a radio address to the Army on the reasons for extension of selective service, War Secretary Stimson said the Government realized the personal sacrifice of additional service but was also conscious of the danger to the U. S. He said "some of the most significant symptoms which invariably forecast the coming of a new Axis attack—are occurring in South America, the most dangerous avenue of attack against us."

The War Department announced that unless the international situation becomes more serious it intends to release by December 10 approximately 150,000 National Guardsmen inducted last fall, 20,000 selectees inducted last November and December, and 10,000 Reserve officers. The releases will be made upon application in accordance with the following priorities: dependency and hardship, age of more than 28 on July 1, 1941, and marriage for those who have served 12 months. Men completing enlistments will also be released on request.

The President announced aircraft ferry and air transport services to West Africa and the Middle Eastern war zone to provide direct and speedy delivery to "a critical point in the front against aggression." The route will be so arranged that it will not pass through the zone of actual warfare, Mr. Roosevelt said.

The President told his press conference Russian needs fall into two categories: (1) materials immediately available to help them in their summer campaign; (2) materials which will be available for the spring campaign next year. Russia will not get lend-lease aid, the President said because the Soviets have the necessary cash for materials.

The Public Health Service announced a 16-member U. S. medical commission will go to China to direct health measures for 250,000 Chinese building the 1,700 mile railroad along the Burma road.

President Roosevelt told his press conference that on the average defense production is up to estimates and in some cases actually exceeds estimates. He said, however, he still is not satisfied with armament production. He said several hundred tanks manufactured this year have gone to the British; the quota of 61 anti-aircraft guns monthly is being more than met; 160 37-mm. anti-tank guns will be delivered in Aug. 260 in September and 320 in October; 340 81-mm. mortars will be made in August.

PITY THE TAX-POOR NOBLEWOMAN.

An absorbing story telling of a nobleman's wife who found out that the only way to get rid of her tax burdens is to divorce her titled husband. Don't miss this illustrated feature in The American Weekly the Big Magazine distributed with the Baltimore Sunday American. On sale at all newsstands.

Distinctive Crocheted Tablecloth In Heirloom Pattern

REMINISCENT of the past is the classic pinwheel design in crochet, here used in an exquisite cloth for a modern table. You can make this cloth yourself, crocheting each whirling medallion separately in mercerized cotton. Whether you choose traditional white or ecru, or experiment with a color, you need have no fear that your cloth will lose any of its beauty of texture or color after frequent launderings. Another practical note which should not be overlooked is the very small cost involved in the making of this tablecloth. Each motif will cost less than 1¢ to crochet! Directions for crocheting this cloth may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper, specifying design #7064.

FARM TOPICS

BEES PROVIDE EASY PROFITS

Small Initial Cost Sufficient To Start Apiary.

By F. B. MEACHAM

(Professor of Beekeeping, North Carolina State College.)

The average person, watching bees wander from flower to flower, probably never realized that thousands have developed a profitable hobby from beekeeping.

Breaking into the bee business in a small way is comparatively easy, and $10 should take care of all costs, including the bees, for the beginner.

The amount of honey that one may produce depends, of course, upon the honey plants in his section. However, even where flowering plants may appear scarce, the bees make an amazing harvest. Most localities can produce honey profitably.

Generally speaking, apiaries may be kept any place where they will not cause trouble. They seldom interfere with humans or animals unless improperly handled.

Honey flavors vary according to plant of most value to the bee and blooming heaviest at any one time in a locality.

As a rule, it will pay to make a study of the nectar-bearing plants in the locality before establishing hives, and to be sure that the bees are within easy flying distance. Bees will readily fly from one to three miles for honey plants and do it successfully.

Contrary to popular belief, bees are far easier to handle than the inexperienced think. The beginner usually uses a veil made of wire screen with ventilated cloth top and bottom. This is worn over the head and keeps the bees away from the face.

Some prefer to wear special gloves with long sleeves attached, but these are usually discarded after the bees are handled a few times. Except for a smoker, nothing else is required.

AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRY

By Florence C. Weed

(This is one of a series of articles showing how farm products are finding an important market in industry.)

Corn

Not all the corn cobs go into pipes nor are they burned in the stove in the farm kitchen. Tons of this so-called waste is ground into stock feed and crushed to dust for sweeping compounds. Cobs are charred to the charcoal stage and used for fuel, for making gun powder and in the decolorizing process. Cobs are converted into glue, incense, resin and tar.

It is hard to believe that the pith of the corn stalk goes to Milady's dressing table in the form of face powder. It also finds a use as the insulating lining for refrigerators, as pipe covering, papier mache and novelty pottery. A corn plastic, Zein, is being made commercially and goes into buttons and other small articles.

Corn oil is widely used as a food and also finds a place in pharmaceuticals. The refining process yields excellent feeds for poultry and livestock.

Although corn starch usually is considered a food, it goes into the inedible products of more than 30 industries including the textile, paper making, laundry and wood manufacturing industries. Other uses are in the manufacture of fuel briquets, electric battery compounds for dry cells, adhesives and dusting rubber goods to prevent sticking.

Dextrin, roughly described as "roasted" starch, is used for gummed envelopes, stamps and wood veneer glue. It is the binder that holds the inflammable material on the wires of Fourth-of-July sparklers.

Agricultural News

Moss and weeds in lawns indicate low fertility and do not necessarily indicate a sour or acid soil.

A pound of lye in 10 gallons of boiling water is a good homemade solution for scrubbing a brooder house for young chicks.

Rubber-tired farm machinery runs at higher speed and less cost than steel-wheeled machinery, and is more comfortable for the operator.

Whale oil, cottonseed oil, soybean oil, coconut oil, peanut oil, and several other oils now compete directly with lard and beef and mutton fats in food and soap, through a hardening process developed in recent years.

Economists in the U. S. department of agriculture are predicting that sheep farmers will receive a larger income from wool this year than they did last year. Last year's wool income was 30 per cent above the 1939 figure.

Finds Prosperity Hard to Believe

Boom Town in Louisiana Is Still Puzzled.

ALEXANDRIA, LA.—The whole nation may be feeling a moderate prosperity from national defense, but the overturning of the horn of plenty on defense boom towns like Alexandria still has residents blinking in astonishment.

In 1940 Alexandria was getting along fine with its population of 27,000. Today, as far as population is concerned, there are two cities where one used to be, estimates numbering present inhabitants at more than 54,000.

Hammer, saw, levels and T-squares—wielded by crews and crews of construction workers—have been building $66,000,000 worth of army camp housing outside the city over a space of six months.

And business—well, boom is too mild a word. For one month this year motor vehicle permits were 222.2 per cent higher than for the same month last year, and building permits were up 267 per cent. There is a $900,000 federal housing project for defense workers and military men and private housing also is being rushed.

On Saturday afternoons the cause of the city's strange new clang and clatter becomes evident as floods of khaki-clad youths flow into the streets and fill every public building and place of recreation. Walking and riding, they head for the movie houses, bars, pool rooms, cafes, libraries, depots, shooting galleries and the city hall lawn.

The old town isn't what it used to be? Why, it isn't even the same place. New sewer systems, new water mains, additional electricity lines are going up. The city has fortune tellers, carnivals, tattoo artists, and commuters from 90 miles away—things it never saw before.

Time Is Nothing After 69-Year Checker Play

ANTIGO, WIS.—Want to forget there is such a thing as time? Take up checkers.

That advice comes from W. J. Zahl, 84 years old, who has been playing the game for 69 years. Time, he asserts, no longer troubles him.

Almost any evening you might find Zahl's white head bent over a checkerboard at his home here. There might be an opponent opposite him, or he might be studying a move in one of the matches that he carries on by mail.

In either case, it's a good bet that the other fellow is about to lose a king or be bottled up in a corner, for Zahl has few peers on what he calls the "magic board."

Zahl takes great pride in his library of checkers publications. On his shelves are first editions of a number of magazines devoted to the game, most of them now out of print, and collections of checkers problems gathered from throughout the world.

The veteran refuses to be hurried in a match. A mail contest with a Californian lasted a year. He has been known to spend weeks studying a puzzling situation. Zahl doesn't like tournaments.

"To much rush," he protests. "The game loses much of its value when you are hurried."

Cupid Seems to Haunt

Same Secretarial Office

MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS.—Miss Dolores Groves, 18 years old, approached her boss, E. D. Hightower, manager of the Retail Merchants' association, and told him she was resigning to get married.

Three days later his second secretary, Miss Doris Evans, 20, offered her resignation. She, too, planned to marry.

Since that time he has been swamped with applications from young women—presumably—seeking employment.

Hightower wasn't certain whether he had a credit association or a bureau for lonely hearts.

Latest Items of Local News Furnished
By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time. All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESERSBURG.

Monday morning—we are having a delightful rain on the dry ground, and everything is looking brighter, and no one can work out of doors today. We are grumblers and God straightens everything out nicely for unworthy us.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Scott Crabbs have purchased the Littlefield home and 4 acres of land known as Green Gates, at the west end of our town, and will take possession about Oct. 1st. They are pleased with their purchase and their friends rejoice with them. Moving out of their rented home, and moving into the new will be interesting.

After a long absence, mostly because of ill health Mr. and Mrs. John Barr, Waynesboro, took dinner with their cousins, the Birely's on Friday and brought them a bushel of lovely peaches from the mountain. Mrs. Ella K. Crumbacker and Addie Crumbacker dined with them also, and helped jar the fruit in the afternoon. A fine gift!

We are grieved to learn that Mrs. Blanche Buffington Garner, Taneytown is in the Gettysburg Hospital. We hope for her speedy recovery and return to health.

Miss June Bruner, the faithful pianist at Sunday School and C. E. meeting at Mt. Union is in the Mt. University Hospital, and operated on for appendicitis last week, and doing as well as can be expected. May it prove a great relief, and early return for June.

Mrs. Daisy B. Kemp, of Clifton, spent some time with the Birely's on Wednesday of last week while her grandchildren William Slemmer, Jr. and Virginia, youngest daughter of Harold Kemp, of Washington, drove to New Windsor concerning the college and terms for another year. All colleges are busy at this season—and seem desirable.

J. Edward Dayhoff attended the family reunion at Pipe Creek Park on Sunday afternoon as he was president of the association, and made a good address. Many were absent because of the alarm of infantile paralysis and a strict quarantine on in Pennsylvania. A young student preacher of the Dayhoff family, of near Littlestown was elected president for another year.

On Tuesday of last week the former wife of our neighbor, William Buckley, deceased, and a school teacher descended from the Birely family in Baltimore, called to trace our relationship and we had an interesting visit—but couldn't discover ourselves distinctly. Sometimes it is just remarkable how ignorant we are of ourselves.

A former boarder of Mr. and Mrs. George Crumbacker many years ago, Hayden Michael and wife, called to see her on Sunday evening, a meeting of friends.

Mrs. George Crumbacker, of Waynesboro, who has her home with her oldest daughter, Mrs. Annie C. Baker at Pen-Mar, has been spending some time with her relatives in this locality is now with her son, Harold's family, in our town, and went with Miss Josephine Miller to Frederick on Saturday afternoon shopping—for she makes beautiful fancy work fly with her busy fingers.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Ellie Crumbacker and her daughter, Mrs. Addie Crumbacker, accompanied the Wilbur Miller family to Rocky Ridge to hear "Happy Johnny and his gang," and see the large crowd of attendants. They pronounce their music fine—including 3 guitars, 2 accordions, 1 banjo, 1 saxophone and lots of fun and good things to eat.

Friends of Chris. Marbroff family, Garrett Co., Md., who now live near Taneytown, visited the Margraff's on Sunday and accompanied them to church, school at Mt. Union! Sunday visitors should do as a man and wife and young girl—who each went in different classes.

Mrs. Katie O'Connor visited some of her relatives in this locality on Sunday afternoon and gave us a call by phone, we are always glad to hear from our kind friends, but her once sore nose is giving her trouble again, and she expects to return to the hospital for treatment.

An interesting card from our early neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Johnson, of Westminster, informs us they are having a fine trip through Walyevon, Ind. where they give us a nice view of a Presbyterian church.

Another card from Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Haugh, of Waynesboro, says they are spending a short time at Ocean City, N. Jersey, "where every prospect pleases."

Mrs. W. Lincoln Birely, at East Hampton, L. I. sends a view of John Howard Payne's "Home Sweet Home," spending a few days at this restful place with wonderful bathing and lovely Golf Club—and a great change from the New England resorts.

The Wilbur Miller family entertained for Sunday evening supper Miss Jane Carbaugh and friend, of Middletown, Pa.; Mrs. Clay Wood, a grandson, Billy King, of Baltimore.

Sunday evening guests at the Maurice Grider home were Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Baldwin; Mr. and Mrs. A. Medary and grand son, Jimmie, all of Baltimore.

Sunday next—Aug. 31, will be preaching day at Mt. Union when Rev. Bowersox will be home from his vacation—and everyone will be glad.

UNIONTOWN.

Mrs. Harry Fowler is spending some time in Westminster. Mrs. Granville Erb who has been a patient at the Sabillasville Sanatorium for some time is home for ten days and looking very well.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cashman, of Baltimore, visited G. Fielder Gilbert and the Kaetzel family, Sunday. James Caylor, Norfolk, Va., is home on leave recuperating from an attack of asthma.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frank and Harry Frank, Jr., Halethorpe, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haines.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Martiney and sons, Ilchester, Md., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simpson. Mr. and Mrs. George Devilbiss and daughter, Nancy, N.W. Windsor, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Edgar Myers, Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Stone and sons, Queen Anne's, Md., who are attending the Westminster Conference for ministers of the Methodist Church, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Formwalt, on Sunday and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Myers on Tuesday evening. Rev. Stone was a former pastor here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy LeGore, daughter, Bonnie, Silver Run, visited Mrs. LeGore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith on Sunday.

G. W. Slonaker, Mrs. Harry Cashman, Mrs. Howard Carr, Miss Virginia Cashman and Bobby Cashman, Frizzellburg, were callers in town on Tuesday evening.

The supper which was held by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church on Thursday was well patronized.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kaetzel, attended Central Manor Camp, of Washingtonboro, Pa., on Wednesday and Thursday. They showed pictures of missionary work in India at the Lancaster Church of God, Wednesday evening and at the camp on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Monroe Feeser is convalescing from an attack of grippé.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Hoch are spending several days with the David Newcomer family, Washingtonboro, Pa., and attending Central Manor Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson and family, Roy Singer and Mrs. Martha Singer were entertained to dinner on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robertson, near Middleburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lockard and daughter, Juliann, returned on Tuesday evening from a four days visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hoy, of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sherfey, Mrs. Flora Shiner and Miss Blanche Shiner visited the Shreeve Shiner family, on Sunday.

Mrs. W. G. Segafosse visited the former's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Carl Mess at their summer home near Hamptead, Md., on Sunday.

Mrs. J. Walter Speicher, is attending the annual regional conference of the Church of the Brethren, which is being held at Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selby, Miss Carleen Selby and Mr. and Mrs. Verdeen Haunt, Waynesboro, Pa., visited Mrs. W. P. Englar and family Sunday afternoon.

Stewart Segafosse who has a clerical position with the American Oil Co., Baltimore, is spending his vacation, this week, with his home folks.

Sergeant Algot Flygare is attending the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars which is being held in Philadelphia, this week.

Mrs. William N. Segafosse in company with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. Caltrider left on Thursday evening to spend the Labor Day week-end with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weimert, Portland, Maine.

MANCHESTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Oursler, Horatio Oursler and Mrs. Wilhelm Rugemer, are spending this week touring the following states: Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, and Tennessee. Army Food Complaints Are Laid to Sweet Tooth

Memphis.—If you mothers get a complaint on army food from your boy in camp, it's more than likely the yearning of his "sweet tooth." The army's food is good and there's plenty of it, Second Army Commander Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear said; but—

"Frequently complaints are due to a schoolboy desire to persuade mothers to send them a batch of home-made cookies or fudge," he added.

Fireside Pair

Dim Lights

Thirty-five states have laws requiring that headlights be dimmed when another vehicle approaches from the opposite direction.

Poisonous Lizards

Of the 1,700 species of lizards in the world only two are poisonous and these are found only in the United States and Mexico.

Small Fish, Greatest Waste

Small fish have the greatest percentage of waste, due to the weight of skin and bones in proportion to the edible meat.

No Uniforms

Women Will Be Blamed

If marriage ever fails, women will be more to blame than men, according to a noted authority.

Whitening Clothes

To whiten clothes, add the juice of one lemon to the water in which they are boiled.

Paint Remover

Toledo, Ohio

Toledo, Ohio, is the third largest railroad center in the country.

Lost Graveyard Is Hunted; Scene Of Eerie Legends

Shade of Lovely Lady Said To Stroll With Three Headless Spaniards.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—The lost graveyard of Bald Head, where the shade of a lovely lady is said to stroll in the moonlight accompanied by three headless Spaniards, is the object of an exciting search launched by a troop of Greenboro (N. C.) Boy Scouts.

Bald Head island—officially Smith's island—was the earliest settled point on the lower North Carolina coast. It lies at the mouth of the Cape Fear river, off Southport. The original settlers were pirates, and doubtless picked the island because of its strategic location athwart the coastal trade routes.

Drove Pirates Out.

America's first Charles Town was settled on Cape Fear, six miles above Bald Head. But the pirates made things so hot for the settlers that they moved their town to the Cooper river mouth in South Carolina and subsequently contracted the name to Charleston.

Settlers eventually overcame the pirates and drove them out. For a few years the island was a law-abiding community. Then the mainland town of Smithville—now Southport—was founded, and gradually Bald Head's residents moved over to it.

For years the island was uninhabited, save for lighthouse keepers and Coastguardsmen. The jungle reclaimed the cleared lands of the settlers, including the graveyard where rested the bones of the early settlers, honest and otherwise. Among the simple headstones was a more pretentious vault of red brick. The bricks were brought from England with those for St. Philip's church at Orton's Plantation, a few miles away.

Shade of Burr's Daughter.

The lady ghost who walks the sands of Bald Head supposedly is the shade of Mrs. Theodosia Burr Alston, daughter of Aaron Burr, and wife of an early South Carolina governor. Mrs. Alston left Charleston on the sloop Patrick, bound for New York. Shortly after a violent storm struck the Carolina coast and the Patrick never was seen again. Many believed she went aground on Cape Fear shoals off Bald Head, and that the pirates captured all aboard, including Mrs. Alston, a reigning beauty of her day.

As to the three headless Spaniards, even legend is cloudy. It is generally conceded that they were pirates. Perhaps they lost their heads in combat with their fellow buccaners. Anyhow, according to legend, they now roam on Bald Head with a troop of Greensboro Boy Scouts hard on their heels.

Farmer Discovers Cache Of Ancient Treasures

WINNIPEG, MANITOBA.—D. J. Prystach, a High Bluff farmer, isn't saying exactly where he found it, but he claims to have discovered a rich store of treasure, seemingly looted from white men by Indians and buried on an island in the Assiniboine river during a bloody battle between rival redskin tribes more than 180 years ago.

Prystach said he first discovered an old cedar log buried deep in the sand on the island. He split the log apart and found bits of colored glass and tiny particles of copper, brass, silver, gold and lead.

He said he then made a second and more startling discovery. He related that he was walking through the bush on his estate when he noticed a stream of water running into a hole in the ground. He enlarged the hole and bared before his eyes was an amazing treasure.

It included, he said, exquisite rings, bracelets, earrings, buckles, chandeliers, goblets, vases, sword hilts, powder horns, knives, trays, kettles, braziers, even bars of gold and silver. Some of the gold bars were stamped with names of famous men who lived 200 years ago, including Governor Lawrence of Acadia.

A Doctor's Doctor

Father—You can ask a question but make it short.
Small Son—Well, when a doctor gets sick and another doctor doctors him, does the doctor doing the doctoring have to doctor the doctor the way the doctor being doctor-d wants to be doctor-d, or does the doctor doing the doctoring of the doctor doctor in his own way?

One Stay's Enough

"Believe me, if my wife scolds me for coming home late, I'm going to tell her a thing or two."
"Don't do it! Tell her one thing and stick to it."

Excessive Exercise Not Fatal

College athletes do not shorten their lives by excessive exercise, according to Dr. Louis Dublin, statistician. Over a period of 20 years he has compared the deaths of 5,000 college athletes with an equal number of men of the same age who were healthy enough to secure life insurance and has reached the conclusion that exercise has not injured college athletes.

Wit and Humor

PERFECT DESCRIPTION

The two counsel disputing a minor point of law were arguing vigorously in court. They had cited previous cases to prove their points for more than a half hour, becoming more excited as they argued.

"You're an ass, sir!" shrieked one.

"And you're a liar, sir!" cried the other.

The judge straightened up with these remarks.

"Now that the counsel have identified each other," he said, "let us proceed to the disputed points."

Fowl Play

The newly wed salesman, accompanied by his wife, entered the dining room of the hotel which he used to frequent. His order included roast chicken, but there was some delay.

"Where's my chicken?" he demanded, somewhat irritably.

The waiter replied in a husky undertone:

"Sorry, but if you mean the little girl with blue eyes and fluffy hair, she doesn't work here now!"

JUST MOSQUITO.

The Boarder—Look here! I must not be disturbed at night. Why, last night a rooster sat on the window sill and flapped his wings for hours.

The Farmer—Gosh, neighbor, that wasn't a rooster. Why, that was just a plain mosquito that got caught in the window screen, that's all.

Shoes Concern of 7-Foot Youth on Farm in Iowa

FINCHFORD, IOWA.—Peter Maas, 24-year-old farm youth who stretches seven feet and is pretty sure he is the tallest man in Iowa, can do the work of two men.

But he wishes something could be done about his shoes.

Peter weighs 215 pounds. He wears a size 16 work shoe and a size 15 dress shoe. They usually last him only about a month because they are a special type usually made only for men suffering from gout.

Consequently they aren't heavy enough for farm work and are soon worn out.

"I've tried to find an old-time shoemaker who might have heavier shoes, but it seems all they do any more is repair shoes, not build them," said Maas.

Polite Bandit Robs Bank, Escapes in Cashier's Car

TOLONO, ILL.—A well dressed man who said "I hate to cause you this inconvenience" held up the Citizens' National bank, locked the cashier and three other persons in the building and, with the banker's son as hostage, escaped with $1,108.

Cashier F. D. Lewis said he and his son, John, 17 years old, surprised the bandit when they went to the bank to mail a letter before the Lewis family started on a vacation trip to Minnesota. After compelling Mr. Lewis at the point of a gun to open the vault, the bandit forced John to drive him 10 miles to Champaign with the threat that "if anyone chases me it will be too bad for the boy."

John made the trip to Champaign and back in 20 minutes.

Bag Two Rattlesnakes On Streets of New York

NEW YORK.—An early morning pedestrian on Madison avenue approached Patrolman Julian Erdy at 113th street with the unconvincing statement:

"Honestly, officer, I tell you I just saw two rattlesnakes."

Officer Erdy viewed the situation with doubt.

He walked down the avenue a few yards, however, and there before his startled eyes slithered two full grown rattlers. Erdy was convinced.

With the aid of two other officers and a broom Erdy got the snakes into a bag and brought them to a police station.

Where they came from still is a police problem.

Developing Real Liking For All Foods Important

National defense has awakened the American people in many ways. They are beginning to realize that they are not as healthy a race as they had imagined.

A state nutrition committee has been organized in Oklahoma with the hope of concentrating the work of various organizations to raise the nutritional status of the people in the state.

There are too many of us who are not ill but are not putting into or getting out of life all that we could, thus not getting a "kick" out of life.

"We would like to be healthy if we could become so by merely waving a magic wand, but nature doesn't operate in that fashion. Instead, she requires daily practice of a few simple rules.

"Nature asks that every person include in his daily diet: one pint of milk, two fruits, two vegetables, meat, eggs, butter, whole grain cereal. It is wise also to eat fish at least once a week.

The milk in the diet may be consumed as a beverage or used in cooking. Evaporated milk or milk solids may be used if fresh milk is not available.

The fruits may be canned, dried or fresh, but one of them should be from the citrus group, such as oranges, lemons, or grapefruit. Tomatoes or tomato juice may be substituted for citrus fruit.

In the vegetable group, one of them should be of the green leafy variety such as mustard greens, lettuce or cabbage.

The meat in the diet may be pork, beef, veal, poultry, or lamb. The inexpensive cuts and the liver or heart may be used. Eggs may be eaten as such or used in cooking.

Historical Data Carved In Wood Carried Around

Historians of Winston - Salem, N. C., the city that tobacco built, carry their data in suitcases.

The history-laden handbags came into existence when the Rev. Douglas Rights, Old Salem's preacher-historian, gave two of his museum workers an outline of separate incidents in the history of the town. The workers fashioned crude wooden figures to represent the incidents and the suitcase history was born.

Resembling ordinary handbags, the suitcases when opened are miniature stages and the various scenes depicting different eras in the city's development from its origin in 1752 are revealed.

The suitcases are arranged in chronological order, each dealing with some specific part of Winston-Salem history. Emphasis is placed on the early Moravian settlement, but the series of incidents begin with a picture of Indian life, complete to the smallest detail.

The tiny figures, all carved from soft pine wood, stand in the suitcases. Also depicted are the first log house being built in 1753, the stockades of Bethabara fort, constructed in 1756, various phases of colonial life, including the gunsmith, the potter at his wheel, and the first schoolhouse.

A replica of the tavern where George Washington spent the night in 1793 is complete to the brilliant yellow coach and the general himself. Cornwallis, pursuing General Greene, is shown marching through the streets of Salem with his redcoats in 1781.

Sharp Rise in Diamonds

Before the war, small diamonds—melee to the trade—sold wholesale for approximately $65 a carat. Now the highest quality is quoted at $275 to $350 a carat—approximately 500 per cent higher, Cincinnati diamond dealers recently announced.

The price rise is not because of a shortage in rough stones. Larger diamonds have not gone up correspondingly. Cincinnati, one of the five leading fine jewelry manufacturing cities, uses a lot of small diamonds. Manufacturers here supply the South and much of the Middle West. Antwerp in Belgium and Amsterdam in The Netherlands were where most of the world's small diamonds were cut before the war.

Germany also had a great many diamond cutters. England controls 90 to 95 per cent of the mines. First the German source, then those in Belgium and The Netherlands were cut off. Diamond men say that an end of the war would not cause a drop in price of small diamonds to their former level, predicting that heavy taxes would be imposed on them in Europe to help pay the cost of the war.

Comics Beneficial for Children

The comic book "would seem to offer the same type of mental catharsis to its readers that Aristotle claimed was an attribute of the drama," Dr. Lauretta Bender, psychologist, recently declared. She declared that the effect of the comic books in normal children is comparable to the therapeutic effect in the disturbed child.

She said that "since each story is complete in itself, there is no element of suspense left with the child, as there often is in the radio, or movie serial, which often leaves him dangling in midair. Well balanced children are not upset by even the more horrible scenes in the comics, including extraordinary excitement, gruesomeness and torture, as long as only the threat of torture, for instance, is made and not actually carried out."

STORY OF THE WEEK Newspaper Clipping

By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON
(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

"BILL TRAINOR," Lee Shepard announced, "is going south with Calvin Wendell. Mr. Wendell hired him as secretary and companion." Lee paused and wagged his head. "I tell you, you can't keep a smart man like Bill down. Mr. Wendell is not only the richest man in this town, but he's famous all over the state as a political leader."

Brenda, Lee's wife, bit her lip and regarded her husband defiantly. "Bill Trainor," she said, "isn't one bit smarter than you are, Lee. I do wish you'd stop thinking of that man as some sort of saint."

Lee looked up reproachfully. "Oh, come now, Brenda, I'm not in it with Bill. Why, imagine Mr. Wendell hiring me as his secretary and companion! I tell you, Bill's smart to get a job like that."

"You," said Brenda shortly, "don't have to go to Mr. Wendell for a job. You already have one. And you're able to keep it, and get a promotion every year, and a raise in salary. Bill Trainor's had five jobs in as many years."

"And always improving himself," Lee chuckled. "Oh, there's no use trying to be kind, Brenda. Little Lee will never be as smart as Bill Trainor, no matter how hard he tries. Why, Bill never had a job that paid him such a small salary as I'm getting now."

"To hear him tell it he hasn't," Brenda's eyes blazed. "Lee, sometimes I think you're positively stupid. I mean about other people. The inferiority complex you have. Especially where Bill Trainor is concerned. You've let him talk you into believing he's smarter than you and brighter and more popular and

"And clothes! Good heavens, can't the youth dress himself?" "Naturally," said Lee coldly, "when Mr. Wendell and his secretary appear in the smart hotels and clubs at Miami, he'll want Bill to look the part of a gentleman. He probably realizes that a man can't dress extravagantly on fifty dollars a week. I think it's pretty decent of him."

And so Brenda, for the time being, at least, gave up trying to convince her husband of Bill Trainor's falsity. She dropped the matter entirely, apparently conceding victory. And yet, during the days that followed, something Lee had said lingered in her mind. And at length Brenda yielded to a desire to put into execution a half-formed plan—simply to rid her mind of this annoying thought.

It was three weeks after Brenda had had her argument with Lee that she wrote a letter. And it was two weeks after that that she received a reply. Accompanying the reply was a newspaper clipping.

Brenda looked at the clipping and her heart bounded. . . . That night when Lee came home to dinner he found a newspaper clipping at his place and curiously picked it up. There was a photograph of two men, standing before an automobile. One of the men was Calvin Wendell, wearing a Panama hat, flannels and a dark jacket. The other was Bill Trainor. Bill had just opened the car door and was standing one side to permit the appearance of Mr. Wendell. Bill wore a uniform.

Beneath the clipping was the following caption: "Mr. Calvin Wendell of Frankton, Maine, who has just arrived in Miami with chauffeur . . ."

Lee went suddenly white. He glanced across at his wife, who was eyeing him fearfully. But at the expression which appeared in his eyes she knew her fears were no longer necessary.

Smiling, she leaned across the table. "And clothes, darling," she said. "And clothes."

Doctor Treats 200,000 Patients—All With Wings

Few medical men have treated half that number of human beings but Mrs. Idella G. Manisera of Los Angeles has case histories in her files to prove that, in the past 30 years, she has prescribed for at least 200,000 patients—all birds.

"I've treated every variety from humming birds to pea fowls," says Mrs. Manisera, who also happens to be a grandmother. "My father was a bird fancier who had the largest private collection in California. His birds came from all over the world and often were ailing on arrival. I doctored them so successfully that my father put me in charge of the 'infirmary.' He bought me the best books on the subject but I discarded all of them and worked out my problems with some small knowledge of medicine plus a generous helping of common sense."

Recently, Mrs. Manisera performed her first bone tumor operation on an African gray parrot, belonging to a Hollywood film director. The entire operation, without anesthetic, took 12 minutes, the patient lost less than half a teaspoonful of blood, and was able to return home in three days.

Providing canaries with new topknots, after they have been scalped by butcher birds, has become an old story to Mrs. Manisera.

"When the scalped area is too large," she explains, "I keep the skull moistened and the skin edges clipped. In three weeks, this treatment will grow a new scalp, the feathers of which match the missing topknot. If the area is not too large, I graft a bit of tissue, taken from the bird's wing stretches, onto the skull. A new topknot grows in almost two weeks."

Most of her canary patients suffer from digestive disorders, with calcium tumors and bone fractures runners-up. Sinus trouble, too, is a common canary ailment, caused by chaff residue in seed dishes.

Fifty miles from Los Angeles Mrs. Manisera runs her "Old Ladies' Home." Under the kindly eye of an elderly caretaker, more than 150 birds inhabit the five acres of the sanctuary.

The inmates include birds whose owners can no longer care for them, others uncared for at the hospital and a few "unwanted." To shut-ins, blind persons, and elderly incurables, Mrs. Manisera gives these birds and supplies the food necessary to maintain a balanced diet.

Glass Writing Board

A glass writing board in various colors which will improve the illumination and appearance of school rooms has been evolved, says a report to the American Chemical society. The board has an extremely low reflection from the surface, is well adapted to use with chalk or crayon, and is permanent in finish so that it will not develop polished reflecting surface on continued use.

Wife Back Seat Driver, He Asks for Divorce

CAMDEN, N. J.—For 10 years or more Elvin F. Schaeffer testified in a divorce action he was not allowed to whistle, sing or play his cornet in his home.

"The only pleasure I ever had was in driving the car," he added, "and even then she was always in the back seat telling me where to go."

Sire of 12 Would Enlist for Rest

But You Couldn't Buy One Of Tribe for Million.

PITTSBURGH.—Samuel Howard Isenberg, at 35 the father of 12 children, was disappointed recently over receiving quick deferment from army service because of his long list of dependents.

"It gets a fellow down sometimes when you gotta be around here all the time with all these kids," he said. "I really would have liked some army training—I figured it would give me a little bit of a vacation."

Selective service board members in McKees Rocks stared at him when he turned in his questionnaire. To list all his dependents, he had to attach an extra sheet of paper to it—and write small at that.

"They couldn't believe I had that many children," Isenberg chuckled. "But I finally convinced 'em. After all, I had proof home."

He said the board reacted like this:

"Wow, you've done your duty. You're excused—deferred."

The board said that so far as it knew, no other registrant in the nation had reported so large a family.

Isenberg, a $190-a-month railroad employee, got married when he was 16 and his wife, Stella, was 15. They now have these mouths to feed: Rosalia, 18; Dorothy, 16; Samuel, 15; William, 13; Audrey, 12; Theresa, 11; Charles, 10; David, 7; George, 5; Howard, 4; Eileen, 3; and Johnny, 17 months.

"And do they eat," he said. "The grocery bill takes half my pay. It's pretty hard sometimes—but don't get me wrong—I wouldn't take a million dollars for any one of my tribe."

Although he'll remain in civilian life, Isenberg feels he's doing his bit anyway. Because of the rush of transporting defense orders, he said, he gets only every other Saturday off. He's a freight and yard conductor for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad.

Joke Gets No Laughs, But Brings Down Roof

LONG BEACH, N. Y.—Mrs. Rose Lucas was playing mah jongg at the home of Mrs. Constance Peters. Between moves Mrs. Lucas told a story that failed to click.

"That," said one with sarcasm, "brought down the roof."

Then something gave way overhead and the ceiling fell in.

Aerial Fighting Puts Weather on New War Role

BOSTON.—The phrase "military science" has a new and deeper significance in this war, according to Capt. William W. Jones of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The general pace of modern warfare is geared to economic production and advances in scientific knowledge, says Captain Jones, who reveals that military aviation cannot act independently of meteorology. He quotes a high-ranking British authority who says:

"The chief of a bomber command has to be concerned first with meteorology and secondly with strategy."

In view of this new development in modern warfare the army air force turned its energies to the perfection of a complete meteorological department and is training a full complement of expert weather forecasters for duty with the military forces. Men for this work are hand-picked from college alumni, all come highly recommended and many are Phi Beta Kappas.

Special training is being carried out at several of the nation's engineering schools and the best in field equipment is provided as they move into their army stations. Nor is the new branch of the service designed as an emergency measure. Their work will go on in peacetime or wartime.

Ticklish Job Is Solved By Letting Ice Melt

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Several tons of ice—and the engineers who thought of it—are credited with preventing mishap in the ticklish job of installing the army air corps' huge new underground fueling system here.

Sixteen 25,000-gallon gasoline tanks had to be lowered evenly—and gently—into excavations dug for them at the air base. The problem was solved by placing blocks of ice under the tanks as they were suspended over the 15-foot holes, then timbers of the supporting platform were torn down.

JOHN URGES CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT—I John 3:13-18: 4:7-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.—I John 3:18.

Love is a word so abused in modern speech that one almost hesitates to use it, and yet it stands for the very finest in all human relationships, and presents to us the very essence of the nature of God. We do well to redefine the meaning of love in our Sunday school classes this next Sunday. Love is not that sentimental, "wishy-washy" feeling which prompts the writing of emotional ballads, which are (like the supposed love of which they speak) "here today and gone tomorrow." Nor is it that lustful thing which now parades itself shamelessly as love, when it is nothing but animal passion. Nor is it that weak thing which totalitarian dictators make it out to be when they declare that to attain, a people must hate, not love.

"Love is a desire for and delight in the welfare of another." It reaches out to all mankind, coming from God and being manifested in the gift of His Son as our Saviour. It is stronger than any earthly bonds. It is able to bear unbelievable burdens; yes, because He loved us Christ bore the sins of the whole world on Calvary. It expresses itself in courtesy, in high standards of life, and in sacrifice. Love is, as Henry Drummond put it, "the greatest thing in the world." Read I Corinthians 13 for Paul's exalted description of love.

Our lesson reveals two important facts about love—

1. Love Is an Evidence of Regeneration (I John 3:13-18).

There are two groups of people, the saved and the unsaved. The unsaved in Scripture are designated as "the world," meaning, not the physical world, but the world of unregenerate men who are against our God and His Christ. The saved are those who have come to God in Christ, who love Him and are in the center of His love. That love is, according to John, an evidence that we know God. There is an interesting contrast here.

1. The World Hates and Kills (vv. 13-15).

Today the wicked heart of man apart from Christ is revealed in the tragic events which have embroiled the whole world in conflict.

The point is that we as Christians should not be surprised if that kind of a world hates us. In fact, we should be troubled if it does not hate us, for if our Christianity means anything, it must be utterly distasteful to a world driven by hatred and the lust for blood.

2. The Christian Loves and Gives (vv. 14, 16-18).

The mark of a Christian is love for God and love for the brethren. That love demonstrates its genuineness by giving freely to meet the need of a brother, just as God freely gave His Son for our redemption. (cf. James 2:14-17).

The background of such an attitude is a proper understanding of our relationship to God, and an appreciation of His nature.

II. The Very Nature of God Is Love (I John 4:7-21).

God not only loves, but He is love. 1. God Is Love (vv. 7, 8).

"Love is the very essence of His moral nature. He is the source of all love" (R. A. Torrey). Only the one who knows God as love knows Him at all.

There is much thoughtless and meaningless talk about the love of God, as though it meant that He is careless about enforcing His divine law, that somehow He will overlook and excuse careless and wicked living. The fact is that the love of God has no real meaning unless it is understood in the light of the cross, for

2. God's Love Is Manifested in Christ (vv. 9-16).

He was sent as the giver of eternal life, the propitiation for our sins, our Saviour, and thus as the highest and deepest expression of God's love. Faith in Christ (v. 15) puts the believer in the very center of the love of God. Precious hiding place!

3. Love Casts Out Fear (vv. 17-19).

Fellowship is impossible in an atmosphere of fear, but love rules fear out. In Christ we realize that God first loved us, and then our hearts go out to Him in a warmth of devotion which brings us so close to Him that all fear is gone. The result of such fellowship with God follows, for

4. He Who Loves God Loves His Brother (vv. 20, 21).

If a man loves God, he will obey Him, and His command, which to the Christian is, "Love your brother." That is "the first and great commandment" (Matt. 22:36-40; Deut. 6:5; Luke 10:25-28). There is no use in our talking about loving God if we have no love for the brethren, for in doing so we make God testify against us that we are liars (v. 20).

'God Bless America' Was Written 24 Years Ago

"God Bless America, land that I love" . . . Irving Berlin.
"I fervently believe that 'God Bless America' is the most important thing I have written in 35 years as a composer of songs.
"There is a story behind 'God Bless America.' I composed it over 20 years ago, for the finale of a play, 'Yip, Yip, Yaphank' which in 1917, I wrote for the soldiers when I was Sergeant Berlin at Camp Upton. As the boys were on their ways to France, I didn't think it was quite appropriate, so I put it aside and wrote a new song.

"Two years ago I wanted to write a great American song about peace," Berlin continued. "I was on the Ile de France, and returning from London, where I had attended the British premiere of 'Alexander's Rag Time Band.' I had been through the Munich crisis. When I was home, nothing I wrote seemed adequate. Then I remembered 'God Bless America.'

"I had to change the melody of the middle bars and change two lines which had a war-like note to it: 'Make her victorious on land and sea.'

"The lines I substituted read: 'From the mountains, to the prairies,

To the oceans white with foam,'
"When Kate Smith wanted an especial song to sing on Armistice day, I gave her 'God Bless America.' The country began to sing it over night, and yet it was not published for a year and a half after that broadcast."

Bing Crosby Tells Women Winning Ways With Men

Any girl who possesses charm should be able to win her man. For with that gift, she can be homely and yet be attractive and winning, says Bing Crosby.

"Charm has many attributes and qualities, but there are five prerequisites which I consider essential.

"The first is that she always act like a lady. She can be a good sport, but with a moral code.

"Next I visualize a charming lady as one who has a sense of humor, warm sympathy toward people, a pleasing voice, grace and tact. Whatever she does and says gives pleasure. She can take a "ribbing," and yet not be offended. Better still, she can come back with all the answers.

"She must have also steadiness and balance. She must be the sort that doesn't 'fly off the handle' over trivial things, that isn't forever fussing and fidgeting. When you are with her, you have the feeling that she possesses great inner poise and serenity. It relaxes and soothes you to be with her.

"And, finally, I think that the charming woman is always natural and sincere. Her simplicity, her frank, open manner, are the greatest elements of her charm. She isn't attempting to be something that she is not and doesn't assume airs.

"Nothing makes a man feel more uncomfortable than a woman who poses and he cannot be permanently attracted to her."

Kitchen 'Team'

A further step in the direction of effortless housekeeping and greater compactness and beauty in kitchen equipment is a new electric dishwasher installed with a twin basin cabinet type sink.

The dishwasher is filled from the spout of the sink, which is made extra long, and emptied through the sink drain. Thus the "tearing" of the two units effects a saving in plumbing materials as well as installation cost.

The dishwashing unit is concealed in an attractive all-steel cabinet harmonizing with the rest of the kitchen cabinets. Two sliding dish racks are easily and conveniently loaded or unloaded and provide sufficient capacity so that dishwashing is necessary only once a day, at a convenient time. The racks may also be used for the storage of soiled dishes for washing later.

The electric unit not only washes the dishes but also dries them. No attention is required while the machine is in operation. Inasmuch as dishes are not in motion while being washed, there is no danger of breakage.

The dishwashing unit opens from the front, thus making the entire top available as work space.

Value of X-ray Machine

Much progress has been made in late years in treating broken bones in the legs. There was a time when they meant weeks in the hospital before the patient could start the period on crutches.

Thanks to a modern method of making casts, hospital treatment is not now needed in some cases of broken bones, although other breaks cannot be treated properly anywhere except in a hospital.

For the quick and excellent way of learning exactly what a break is like, we may thank the X-ray machine. It makes it possible to take a photograph through the flesh, and the negative can be finished within a few minutes when necessary.

In case there is a bad injury to the hand or arm, foot or leg, it is well to remember the value of the X-ray. Many times a person thinks he has only "sprained" an ankle or wrist when the fact is that he has broken it.

Drunk Mothers

A serious national problem, peculiar to this post-repeal age, is that of drinking mothers, wives, and daughters.

Alcoholism among women was never a problem in former days.

Throughout American history—until 1933—women were more like the followers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; they abstained themselves and they tried by persuasion, religion, and legislation to keep alcohol away from their menfolk.

Even today, the W. C. T. U., the great women's organizations, the churches are proof that most women still are not drinkers.

Yet, these groups are concerned over the increase in women drinkers, such as that reported in a Chicago newspaper in mid-1941.

The secretary of the Illinois Humane Society reported more drinking among women than for 40 years. The director said: "We've more trouble than we ever had with women neglecting their families."

This one society reported seven out of 15 court cases where mothers preferred drinking to looking after their families, four were alcoholics and were placed in institutions.

Another report, from a widely-known alcoholism institute, says that addiction is more prevalent among housewives and mothers than among career women. The average age of the feminine alcoholic was given as a little over forty years.

The report reads: "The women in business or a profession can not afford to drink to excess . . . Sooner or later their economic loss results. On the other hand the family of the married woman who drinks usually conspire to conceal her weakness from the outside world. At first her alcoholic habits are not apparent, as she drinks during the day when her husband is at work, her children at school. Eventually, as she is no longer able to hide the after effect of intoxication behind her plea of headache or illness, her family is ashamed and guards her secret more closely than ever."

"The first is that she always act like a lady. She can be a good sport, but with a moral code.

"Next I visualize a charming lady as one who has a sense of humor, warm sympathy toward people, a pleasing voice, grace and tact. Whatever she does and says gives pleasure. She can take a "ribbing," and yet not be offended. Better still, she can come back with all the answers.

"She must have also steadiness and balance. She must be the sort that doesn't 'fly off the handle' over trivial things, that isn't forever fussing and fidgeting. When you are with her, you have the feeling that she possesses great inner poise and serenity. It relaxes and soothes you to be with her.

"And, finally, I think that the charming woman is always natural and sincere. Her simplicity, her frank, open manner, are the greatest elements of her charm. She isn't attempting to be something that she is not and doesn't assume airs.

"Nothing makes a man feel more uncomfortable than a woman who poses and he cannot be permanently attracted to her."

EXPERIENCED SPEAKER

"He's an experienced after-dinner speaker."
"North hearing, eh?"
"Not necessarily. But he's learned how to pause for applause."

That Dental Thrill

He—Did you ever run across a man who at the slightest touch would cause you to thrill and tremble all over?

She—Yes, the dentist.

He Could Take It

Father—Yes, my boy, I'm a self-made man.

Son—Gee, pop, that's what I admire about you. You always take the blame for everything.

CAREFULLY PLANNED. The four rooms of this northern village house designed by the National Homes Foundation are separated with a minimum of partitions. As shown here, the exterior is of shingles over plywood sheathing; interior is plywood.

Ship Construction Is Rising Rapidly

Expect 1,250,000 Tons by End of Year.

WASHINGTON.—A prediction that the nation's rapidly expanding ship-building facilities will turn out 1,250,000 dead-weight tons of merchant ships this year, with an increase to 3,500,000 tons in 1942 and 5,000,000 tons in 1943 came from the maritime commission.

In its first comprehensive summary of a vast three-way construction program, the commission placed the cost of 705 merchantmen "built, building or under contract" at $1,625,000,000, with an additional investment of $86,000,000 in new facilities, bringing the total cost to $1,711,000,000.

Divided into three parts, the construction program now includes:

1—Long-range program calling for 500 ships in a 10-year period. This now includes 283 ships, of which 91 have been delivered. Except for the luxury liner America, recently taken over by the navy, all contracts have been let since January 1, 1938.

2—Emergency national - defense program calling for 200 "ugly duckling" cargo carriers. Of approximately 10,000 deadweight tons and designed for mass production, the first "ugly ducklings" are expected to be completed in November.

3—Construction of 222 vessels for transfer to Great Britain under the Lease-Lend act. This program includes 112 "ugly ducklings," 72 high-speed tankers of 16,000 deadweight tons, 10 C-1, 22 C-2 and 6 C-3 cargo boats. The "C" boats, among the world's finest of their class, are the backbone of the long-range program. They range from 7,500 to 12,595 deadweight tons.

Philadelphia Ice Cream

Traced Back to 1796

HARRISBURG, PA. — History gives Dolly Madison, wife of President James Madison, credit for creating a sensation in Washington by introducing ice cream to society folk in the capital.

A recently discovered manuscript found in the archives division of the Pennsylvania State library, however, indicates the concoction was probably known to residents of Philadelphia a dozen years before its appearance in Washington.

The parchment, dated 1796, is a petition to the state legislature from a Haitian requesting permission to sell ice cream in the Pennsylvania statehouse yard in Philadelphia.

Industrial Development Of Australia Speeded

CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA. — Industrial development as a result of the war has resulted in Australia ranking, on a population basis, with the most highly industrialized nations of the world.

An additional $50,400,000 is to be spent this year in plant building and the purchase of raw materials. Manufactured munitions during the last financial year totaled $127,000,000.

Genesis of a Name

It may interest you to know that there lived a young man of the name of McGandy. Whenever one of his statements was questioned he was in the habit of retorting: "I'll bet you me hat." The simple folk in the town soon got to calling him "Me Hat McGandy."

What It Meant to Him

"Mummy," asked a little boy at a concert, at the end of the interval, "have the orchestra had something to eat?"

"I don't know," said the mother. "I think they have," said the little boy. "It says on the program, 'Part Two will be given by a fuller orchestra.'"

Helpful Banker

"So the banker put you on your feet again?" "Yes," "Did he give you another loan?" "No; he foreclosed on my car."

Guess Again

"I see a great loss—the loss of your husband."
"But he has been dead five years."
"Then you will lose your umbrella."

LET'S HAVE AN ICE CREAM SOCIAL!
(See Recipes Below)

ICE CREAM 'N CAKE

Shining in their starched dresses, the girls are ready "to recite their pieces," the boys, slicked and combed, are watching them shyly, and everyone's waiting for refreshment time to come. Of course, it's an ice cream social, that typically American festival to which homemakers bring their most delectable cakes and choicest ice cream. There, too, you'll find lemonade, "made in the shade by the old maid."

There was a time when an ice cream social, though as pleasant an affair as you'd find on the summer calendar, carried with it a great deal of careful preparation. Ice cream had to be kept in heavy containers which in turn were wrapped in blankets, and if the speeches and program lasted too long it was apt to be more melted than icy when you were finally served. But no longer do you have such a risk. The ice cream can be stored in your refrigerator and it will be kept really hard.

Making ice cream with the freezer method is fun, and usually the whole family gets together to do some of the cranking. The freezer has a wooden or metal bucket holding the ice and salt and a non-rusting metal container with a closely fitting cover for holding the mixture to be frozen. The mixture is stirred by a paddle attached to the crank which is operated by hand, and sometimes by a small electric motor.

Use three parts of ice to one part of salt. Turn the crank slowly at first for about five minutes or until the mixture stiffens, then as quickly as possible until it is difficult to turn. This takes about six minutes. Add more ice and salt if necessary. Pour off salt water, push down ice and salt being careful to get none in the can of ice cream.

Wipe top of can, uncover, take out the paddle, and beat the frozen mixture with a wooden spoon. Cover can with wax paper, and pack again. Let stand several hours to ripen.

If you would be famous for your ice creams and have them spoken of well at the social, follow directions to get the desirable smooth, creamy triumphs. Ice cream free from crystals and splinters will get first prize every time.

*Vanilla Ice Cream.

(Makes 1½ quarts)
1½ cups sweetened condensed milk (15-oz. can)
2 cups thin cream
1 cup cold water
1 tablespoon vanilla

Blend thoroughly the sweetened condensed milk, thin cream, cold

LYNN SAYS:

Did you know that: Ice creams should stand several hours to blend or ripen the many flavors combined in them? Each flavor will stand out separately if the mixture is not properly ripened.

Texture is affected by the method of freezing? Ice cream will be coarse and rough if frozen too quickly, whereas slower freezing improves texture. Before putting the cream in the freezer it should be properly whipped or it will be icy.

Richer mixtures give smoother textured ice creams? The amount of fat in the cream also affects the flavor. Richer ice creams have full bodied flavor.

Ice cream expands? If the ice cream is well made, it expands to at least one-third more than its original size, and that this has an important bearing on flavor. If frozen too rapidly, ice cream is prevented from increasing size.

Flavors should be lightly suggested, not pronounced? Amount and quality of extracts used are very apparent in the finished product.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

Ice Cream Social
*Vanilla and Chocolate Ice Cream

Lemonade

water and vanilla. Freeze in one-quart freezer. Remove dasher. Pack in ice and salt for one hour or more after freezing.

For Banana Ice Cream, use the above recipe, except to substitute 1 teaspoon of lemon extract in place of vanilla. Mash three bananas to a smooth pulp with a silver fork and add to ice cream after removing dasher.

Coffee Ice Cream: Proceed as for Vanilla Ice Cream, using 1 cup of cold black coffee in place of 1 cup of water and ½ teaspoon vanilla in place of 1 tablespoon of vanilla.

Maple Nut Ice Cream: One of the most requested flavors, made just like the vanilla except mapleine flavoring is substituted for vanilla, and ½ cup of chopped nuts is added just after removing the dasher.

If you like chocolate flavoring, here's a recipe I'm sure will please you. Rich and creamy, full of satisfying chocolate flavoring, it's one kind of ice cream of which there can never be too much made.

*Chocolate Ice Cream.

4 eggs separated
¾ cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 pint cream, whipped
1½ ounces chocolate

Mix cornstarch and sugar. Stir into well beaten yolks. Mix and blend with milk, heat in double boiler, and cook until thick. Add chocolate and cook till blended. Cool, fold in beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Freeze.

Among the pleasant surprises in appearance and in flavor among ice creams is this one called Tutti-Frutti. If you're longing for a change from familiar favorites this one leaves nothing to be desired. To make it really gala for the youngsters, take a scoop of it, pop two raisins in for the eyes, a currant for the nose and a cherry for the mouth. It's a simple gesture but one which they'll appreciate for all it's worth.

Tutti Frutti Ice Cream.

(Serves 6)
¾ cup sweetened condensed milk
½ cup water
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup finely chopped maraschino cherries
¼ cup seeded raisins, finely chopped

Mix sweetened condensed milk, water and vanilla. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled mixture. Freeze in freezing unit of refrigerator till half frozen. Scrape from tray, beat until smooth but not melted. Add chopped fruit. Replace in freezing unit until frozen.

No social is completely a success without an array of freshly baked, nice smelling cakes with their swirls of frosting piled high to tempt. One cake which will really give you a new high in reputation is this Walnut Torte, an old-fashioned favorite with new found fame.

*Walnut Torte.

1 cup zweiback crumbs
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup chopped walnuts
4 eggs separated
½ cup sugar
½ pint cream, whipped

Crush the zweiback crumbs, mix with baking powder and nuts. Beat egg yolks thick and lemon color, beat in sugar, and then gradually, the crumb nut mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into two greased and floured tins and bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 10 to 15 minutes. When mixture is light to touch and pulls from sides of pan it's done. Cool thoroughly. Put layers together with whipped cream and garnish with whole walnuts.

Fiddler Fiddles Way Out of Jail; Wins $100 in Gold

Georgia's Governor Is Fond Of Mountain Minstrel's Mournful Music.

ATLANTA.—The kings of old had their minstrels and palace poets. Eugene Talmadge, governor of Georgia, has one, too—Fiddler John Carson, last of the ballad makers.

Born in the Georgia mountains 75 years ago, Fiddlin' John began to sing and play when he was 10, and is still at it. He fiddled his way through every state, and fiddled so strong at so many fiddlers' conventions that he played himself out of the amateur's class on to nearly 900 phonograph records.

Once he fiddled himself out of jail. During last summer's campaign Carson fiddled his way into Governor Talmadge's affections and a job operating an elevator in the state capitol. Now, says John, whenever the cares of state are pressing he soothes the governor with "When the Saints Come Marching In" and "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain," prime Talmadge favorites.

From North Georgia.

Carson comes of the sturdy stock that ekes a bare living from rocky north Georgia soil and is willing to do a little moonshining for pin money.

Moonshining, Carson says, opened the door to fame.

It was a sentence for "shinin'" that gave him his first trip to the city ("Mighty Atlanta" he calls it in one of his ballads). He was a young man then and full of high spirits. So he fiddled all day and fiddled all night and put the sheriff in a high good humor.

"Boy," he remembers the sheriff telling him. "There's gonna be a fiddlers' convention at the Atlanta theater, and I'm gonna let you go there. And if you win it I'll set you free."

"I fiddled till I nearly pulled the hairs out of the bow, and won $100 in gold, cash money," Carson recalled. "And the sheriff set me free."

No More Moonshining.

From then on moonshining was out. Fiddlin' John found folks would pay to hear him play. He played other people's songs all around the country, and then he began to write his own. He figures he must have written around 800. Some memorialize the political exploits of his two heroes, Tom Watson and 'Gene Talmadge. But most of them deal with death, disaster, and the bereaved mourning the vacant chair at the dinner table. Tragedy stirs his muse like nothing else, not even a 'Gene Talmadge stump speech.

Carson can't read a note of music and is proud of it. He says he figures out the words in his head, then he tucks his fiddle under his chin and saws out a tune to fit the words. Sales of some of his recordings have been large. But Fiddlin' John believes in living well and doesn't have much to show for collected royalties.

Convicted Forger Irked, Says He Can't Write

MONTICELLO, N. Y.—It was incomprehensible to Joseph Loverdi, an inmate of Woodbourne State prison.

The judge dismissed his habeas corpus writ for transfer to a federal penitentiary. Loverdi insisted that it was all a mistake that he was in a state prison.

Loverdi explained that he had pleaded guilty of forgery on a promise of leniency. A veteran of 14 prior convictions, the prisoner admitted there was no mistake when he was arrested for passing a counterfeit $10 bill.

But he maintained that he had not committed forgery, a state offense. He was counterfeiting and should be a federal prisoner. Smiling patiently Loverdi queried plaintively:

"How could I commit forgery if I can't even write my own name?"

Constables Mistake Own Deputy Chief as Prowler

TRURO, N. S.—The desk sergeant answered the telephone the other night.

"I just saw a man with a flashlight prowling around in a building down the street," said an excited resident.

"Go get him, boys," said the sergeant.

Two constables burned leather to the scene of the crime. They slipped quietly into the building and stalked the prowler through the darkness. Then they pounced. The prowler was their own deputy chief who had stepped in to investigate an unlocked door.

Coney Island Catches Up With War Plane Designs

NEW YORK.—Sign of the times: The airplane ride that served Luna park, Coney Island, for many years, was remodeled this year.

The old planes were ripped out and models of Spitfires and Hurricanes built.

These new planes were equipped with cannon and machine guns. And riders can sight their weapons at a model of a German Messerschmitt as they whirl about.

MARYLAND GAME LAWS.

The open season for doves is Sept. 1 to Sept. 30, then closed Oct. 1 to Nov. 14, then open Nov. 15 to Dec. 31. The squirrel season opens Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, then closed Oct. 16 to Nov. 14, then open Nov. 15 to Dec. 31.

Bag limit per day: Doves, 12; Squirrels, 6.

It is unlawful for any person to hunt any species of game on property other than that which is owned or tenanted by him without first procuring a hunters license.

The license fees are: Resident of County, $1.25; Resident State-wide, $5.25; Non-resident of State, $15.50; Short Term non-resident license, for hunting wild water fowl only, $5.50, which said license shall be valid for four days only after the date of issuance, you may obtain your hunting licenses from the Clerk of the Court Office at Westminster, Md.

All hunters are required to have hunting license on person while hunting and tag displayed on outer garment at centre of back between the shoulders. Hunting without license, penalty $20.00 fine. Failure to display tag carries a penalty of $20.00 fine.

It is lawful to train dogs between Sept 10 and March 1 on upland game, provided an attendant accompanies said dogs but so doing no person shall be permitted to carry a gun or fire arm of any description. Persons training dogs must have in possession hunters license and tag displayed on outer garment.

Persons hunting doves and squirrels in the county are warned not to molest game of other species.

The open season on rabbit, partridge, woodcock, male ringnecked or mutant pheasant, ruffed grouse, wild turkey is Nov. 15 to Dec. 31.

It is unlawful to hunt game on Sunday or any game in closed season penalty $25 to $100.

With the cooperation of the public desiring to see the hunting and fishing laws enforced and who will furnish evidence that the violation of the game and fish laws have been committed the wardens can render valuable service bringing about better conditions and more respect for the conservation laws.

He Plunges into Well

And Is Unmissed 5 Days

SOCORRO, N. M.—When Manuel Silva started to help flood rescue workers he fell into a 30-foot well—and nobody missed him until the flood was over.

For five days Silva was in the well while his family believed he was fighting the flood.

Finally boys heard him shouting for help from the well near his home.

Sad Regrets

TINTED GLOSS HOUSE PAINT

WON'T CRACK OR PEEL IT STAYS ELASTIC!

Believe it or not—your house swells in summer and contracts in winter. Even daytime heat and night time cold expands and contracts the wood surfaces of your home. It takes an elastic paint to stay on without cracking or peeling. Lucas Tinted Gloss is made to flex with changing temperatures. Stays smooth and beautiful years longer! You can't equal Lucas Tinted Gloss by paying less. And it's foolish to pay more.

America's future is being decided on the assembly lines of labor. Our national security rests upon the ability of our free men and women to outproduce the dictator-driven masses of Europe.

In the plants and factories of democracy we have the most intelligent and highly-paid workers in the world. We can safely count upon them to "do the job."
