BUY RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS

The annual Christmas Seal Sale to raise funds to fight tuberculosis in Maryland will open this coming Mon-day, November 24t., it was announced today by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

On that day many thousand homes will receive the 1941 Christmas Seal, through the kindness of Uncle Sam's Mailman. This year's Seal depicts a lighthouse throwing out rays of hope to all. The citizens of Maryland will have an opportunity to aid in the fight against the "White Plague" by using these tokens of good health and happiness.

Christmas Seals enable the Maryland Tuberculosis Association to maintain a modern program of tuber-culosis control. The program in-cludes clinics, X-rays, tuberculin testing, the Miracle House, health education, medical research and Negro program.

The Maryland Association was founded in 1904 as a direct result of the great Tuberculosis Exhibit held in Baltimore the same year. Since it has been in operation, the death rate from tuberculosis in Maryland has been reduced 80%. However, it is still above the national average.

Commenting on the 1941 Christmas Seal Sale William B. Matthews. Managing Director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, said, "I first want to thank the various groups that have aided us in the stu-Francis E. Shaum.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

Baltimore, Nov. 18—Figures com-piled by the Research and Statistics Department of the Maryland Unemoloyment Compensation Board show that ninety percent of the total amount paid for unemployment benefits in the twelve-month period ending September 30 went to those who were entirely out of work while something more than eight per cent went to those classed as partially un-employed. Paid the latter in the period mentioned was an amount exceeding $420,000, while the totally unemployed received $4,497,000. The total benefits paid in the period mentioned was nearly $5,000,000.

Classed as partially unemployed are those who are working hours be-low the regular scale of the employer.

New unemployment benefit claims received in the first three weeks of November show an increase of fif-teen per cent over the corresponding period of last year, but claims of all classifications registered a thirty-five decrease.

After twelve months of total service, a seaman in the U.S. Navy is eligible for promotion to the rank of third-class notty officer.

NAZISM REPELIANT TO AMER-ICANS, O'CONOR DECLARES

Baltimore, Armistice Day: "Every ed by the Nazi ideology," Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor told an Armistice Day throng at Memorial services on the War Memorial Plaza.

"The free, courageous stride of the pioneers who dared and toiled, and fought to build the America we now call home, will never degenerate into the Nazi goose-step," the Governor continued. "Patrick Henry's historic plea, 'Give me liberty, or give me death,' rings with even truer force today than it did in Colonial times, because the subjugation threatened by the Nazi militarists is so infinitemore loathsome to people who have known freedom than any tyrant ever practiced on our Colonial ances-tors by their rulers across the sea." Proclaiming that "ours is a national creed of hope and of opportunity" the Governor expressed the belief that Hitler could never survive un-less he retained full control over the minds and the actions of all his subjects. "He can never be sure of this," the Governor concluded, "while the torch of American liberty gleams in the sky, for all the world to see."

STRIKES THE BIG NEWS IN THE U. S.

Both the President and Congress May Act

Without doubt, the question of what power is to act decisively against strike leader Lewis and others, is coming to a show-down. No other answer will fit the situation.

If there is any practical politics in it, it must get out. Anything that indicates Hitlerism in the U. S. is distinctly and popularly out of it. There is plenty of politics being played now in Europe by individual played now, in Europe, by individual Nations, such as Japan, China, France and even Italy.

Finland is also with us, but England backed away early, with the understanding that Hitler would let it alone—the only country that paid its debt to the U. S. after the first World War.

Soldiers are reported to be on their way to the coal strike area in Pennsylvania; and the big question is whether the President will firmly oppose Lewis and other strike leaders. The most concern now is whether coal for all purposes is to be had at all costs.

Our normal supply of print paper from Sweden, Norway, the Baltic states and Germany was stopped more than a year ago and that supply is a big factor in the paper market. Our own accessible wood pulp supply is practically exhausted. We are almost tically exhausted. We are almost entirely dependent on Canada for our print paper, or the wood pulp from which it is made. The labor supply in Canada grows less week by week, as men are enrolled in the fighting forces, and those remaining in industry are absorbed by the war production plants.

Wood pulp has a definite place as a material in our own preparedness program, and more and more of the diminishing available quantity is going in that direction. The government is using largely increased quantities of paper because of our war activities.

The above is a small part of the unforgettable background. The bullies in Germany, Italy and Japan have been slaughtering human beings by hundreds of thousands in order to control the destinies and the future of as much of the World as they might conquer.

Little Water in Almonds; 'Blanching' Is a Solution

Some nuts are almost half water when they are fresh, but not the almond! It is about as dry as any nut Nature makes. Only one part in 17 is water .

The small amount of water in an almond helps to explain why it is a rather hard nut to bite into. It isn't a hard nut to crack, at least not when it comes in the soft shell, or in the paper shell form. Some hardshelled almonds are on the market, and they are not so easy to

Because the nut itself is rather hard, some housewives "blanch" almonds before placing them in salads or cakes. In other words, they soak them in hot water and take off a kind of skin from each nut. Then the part under the skin can be bitten without much work

The walnut is another popular member of the nut family. There are several kinds, among them the black walnut, the white walnut and the English walnut.

The black walnut is round and has a very hard shell. If you crack it with a hammer, you must be skillful to get the nut meat out whole.

Some black walnut trees grow to a height of more than 100 feet, and the trunks may become as much as five or six feet thick. The wood is valuable and in past times was widely used in making beds, tables and chests.

Black walnut trees are found here and there from the Great Lakes region down to the Gulf of Mexico, but they are not nearly so common now as in days gone by.

Men Live Longest

Although scientists assure us there is no physiological reason why tenarians are so rare that most people have never seen one. A statistician recently compiled figures showing that of the 60,000,000 people or thereabouts, who live in Germany, less than 100 are more than a century old. The same authority reports 146 centenarians in England, 213 in France, and 410 in Spain. It would seem that where life is less strenuous longevity increases.

The most astonishing figures come from that troublesome and turbulent region, the Balkan peninsula, where it might be supposed that life is less secure than elsewhere in Europe. Jugoslavia reports 573 people who are 100 years old or older, Rumania, 1,084, and Bulgaria,

The Forgotten Man

The term "forgotten man" which was so popular a few years ago was coined more than a century ago by William Graham Sumner, American sociologist and economist (1840-1910), in a little book called "What Social Classes Owe to Each Other.' It was taken up by others, principally Thomas Nelson Page, (1853-1922), novelist and diplomat, who made it popular throughout the South. President Roosevelt used it in a radio campaign address in 1932 as follows:

"These unhappy times call for the building of plans that rest upon the forgotten, the unorganized, but the indispensable units of economic power, for plans like those of 1917, that build from the bottom up and not from the top down, that put their faith once more in the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic

BR-RR-ING!

Ann Carson climbed quickly down off the small stepladder she was using to hang the glittering angel on the topmost bough of the Christmas tree. The sharp clang of the doorbell was a welcome sound. Hastening joyously she flung the door wide open.

"For me? Come in, Timmy." She smiled down at the wizened old hunchback shivering on the doorstep. Ann took the package tendered almost ceremoniously, bearing conspicuously the label of his own small flower shop. And with the privilege of a lifelong friend Timmy followed her into the warm lamplit room.

Slowly and musingly Ann untied the bright tinsel bows. She knew without looking what the box contained and as her fingers broke the seals she seemed again to hear Jerry's voice, low, quivering and hurt.

They had gone to a dance that memorable Christmas eve and homeward through the whitening mist she had tried, bravely, to tell him she must marry another man.

A frantic Jerry pleading and a strange new ache at her heart, she had stood for a moment on the running board of his car and Jerry had whispered: "But, darling little Ann, I'll love you always—always!"

He had touched with reverent clumsy fingers the single crimson rose she was wearing on the soft black fur of her evening wrap. The touch seemed to give him an idea. Jerry was romantic and they were both so young. "No matter wherever I may be, little Ann," he said, "I'll send you red roses at Christmas time and you will know."

"If ever," he had added, crushing her close as he lifted her down, "if ever I feel I can live without you, when the scars of this night heal, I'll send white ones. Remember!" and with a quick stride he was gone

But she had not married the other couldn't. But impulsive hot-headed Jerry left that night, a stowaway on a tramp steamer bound for China, and now one, two, three, four long years unrolled before her.

Her letters, pleading and un-ashamed had followed him half way around the earth gathering curious postmarks, undecipherable, but eventually they had returned, tattered, torn-but unclaimed.

But they had come. From strange lands in far odd corners they had come, those orders to old Timmy the florist for the red, red roses as red as her own heart's blood that now beat so chokingly in her throat. And she would wait, wait forever if need be, for Jerry.

Exultantly she lifted the lid.

Roses! But slowly over her face froze a look of piteous unbelief. The mass of blossoms blurred before her eyes and Jerry's pain-torn words rang in her ears: "If ever I can live without you, I'll send white ones." Andthese were white. As white as the drifting snow outside. White roses! Mutely her lips formed the words. Oh, God, it couldn't be, after all these years! White roses!

"You don't like them? I very sorry." Crestfallen, apologetic, old Timmy was turning to go. "But the order came so late. No red ones left for you, only leetle wilty buds and so I peeck the beeg, beeg white ones for you." His dim old eyes pleaded eloquently for her under-

Oh!-Oh!-breathlessly. The light that ne'er was on land or sea came flooding back into Ann's face and clear as a child's faith in Santa Claus the far-away chimes were pealing. Peace, good will to men! Jerry had meant red roses after

Christmas Brought Jesters

Medieval kings used to have fools and jesters to amuse them. Later, however, the wearers of the cap and bells were not the exclusive possession of kings and queens, princes, counts, barons and bishops, for the fashion of keeping buffoons passed from sovereigns to corporations and private individuals. These jesters were then brought into requisition during the Christmas season, and retained to brighten up the hall and kitchen with their witty sayings and jokes.

Mesotron May Solve Atom Puzzle; New Discovery

The position the mesotron appears to hold within the atom is declared of cosmic importance, for without the binding force which makes possible atoms heavier than hydrogen, the entire universe would dissolve into a cloud of hydrogen gas. In strange contrast to this service of the mesotron is its ability to shatter the atom. Scientists long have observed in the cosmic rays what they have called the "stosse" or burst, an atomic explosion. Something hits an atom hard enough to shatter it, and on some occasions there are chain reactions in which the particles from the original explosion hit other atoms and explode them. In some of the single-hit explosions the particles fly only a few inches, but in the powerful chain reactions the bursts will spread over wide areas. A 30-foot spread has been measured. The $1,500,000 cyclotron being built by Professor Ernest O. Lawrence at the University of California, at Berkeley, will develop a dis-integrating ray 127 feet long, made up of protons with an energy of 100,-000,000 electron volts, and if it succeeds in speeding alpha particles to the same velocity they will have energies up to 400,000,000 volts.

With bombardment particles of these high energies available it is expected that Professor Lawrence and his associates will be able to shatter the heavier atoms, reducing them to their component protons and neutrons, or at least small frag-

Vitamin A in Apricots

Babies born with a silver spoon in their mouths are pretty apt to find cod liver oil in the spoon-so exacting are the demands for vitamin values these days.

Most youngsters are given codliver oil or other vitamin A and D concentrates from the end of their second week until they are four or five years old.

Babies have no corner on the vitamins, however, for adults are turning to them increasingly often. Sometimes we almost forget that

Watch Clue Brings About Arrest in Slaying Case

NEW YORK .- A pawned wrist watch led to the arrest of a suspect in the slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Dorothea Andersen, pretty 26-year-old waitress who was robbed, attacked and left dead in a vacant lot in the Bronx on August 4.

Trailed to Washington, D. C., after discovery of the stolen watch in a Harlem pawnshop, James Roosevelt Catoe, 30-year-old Negro, was held pending extradition. Police said his home was in Washington but that he lived in Harlem two months and went back to the capital after the slaying.

New York city detectives were in Washington arranging for Catoe's return to New York, the suspect having refused to waive extradition proceedings.

Mrs. Andersen was last seen when she left her home in upper Manhattan, where she lived with her husband, Erhardt Andersen, on the morning of August 4 for work. She was found dead of strangulation that night.

Andersen gave police the number of a wrist watch she was wearing. They traced the watch to a Harlem pawnshop and found that a Negro girl had pawned it. The girl said Catoe gave her the watch and a handbag identified as belonging to Mrs. Andersen.

ATE HIMSELF INTO THE NAVY

Paul Fritz, 22 years old, actually ate his way into the Navy recently. When told by the recruiting officer that he was six pounds under the required 156 pounds for his height. Fritz was downcast, but no more so than the recruiting officer because 6-ft. 2-inch Fritz had passed all other requirements with flying colors. Fritz pondered his plight for a few minutes, beamed with an idea and vanished. The recruiting officer was astonished an hour later when Fritz returned hopefully and said, "Try me now." He tipped the scales at exactly 156 pounds. How did he do it? By eating six bananas, a pound of beef steak, six slices of bread, several large potatoes, a couple of desserts and a gallon of water. As he departed for the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Fritz remarked, "I don't think I'll be able to eat a thing-before supper.'

- 47-THANKS BE TO THE OVEN

And why not an oven Thanksgiving dinner? A duck, capon or chicken will fit into today's capacious oven and still leave room for a vegetable and a dessert. This type of oven meal, which has proved itself a work-saver and a confusion-saver on so many everyday occasions, is equally effective in lightening the load in the kitchen at holiday time.

Here then is just such an oven Thanksgiving dinner planned around a stuffed roast duck, an Orange and Sweet Potato Scallop and a baked Cranberry Pudding, all of which may be satisfactorily combined for oven baking because they require the same oven temperature. If you are fortu-nate enough to be able to do your Thanksgiving baking on one of the modern electric ranges, you need have no qualm about overloading the oven. For just as long as space is allowed at the tops and sides of the pans for the heat convection currents to circulate, the duck will brown as evenly as though it were roasted in solitary splendor. The thermostatic controls on these electric ovens, you see, maintain even temperatures at all times, no matter

But let me give you some very specific suggestions. The stuffed duck should be placed on a rack in an open pan, and roasted in a moder at every a property of the stuffed duck should be placed on a rack in an open pan, and roasted in a moder at every and a property of the stuffed duck should be placed on a rack in a power of the stuffed duck should be placed on a ate oven. A 5 to 6 pound duck plac-de in the oven (preheated to 350° F). will require about 2½ hours F). will require about 2½ hours roasting time (allow 25 minutes to the pound). A piece of cheesecloth saturated with fat should be placed over the breast of the duck after it has become slightly brown. And this will keep it from becoming too brown as the roasting progresses.

The Orange and Sweet Potato Casserole provides an especially good flavor contrast for duck and recipes for this casserole dish and for the baked cranberry pudding are given below: To serve 5, peel and slice 5 medium-sized sweet potatoes and 3 oranges. Arrange in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish. Combine 34 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1/2 cup of any available fruit juice and pour over the slices. Cover and bake 1 hour in an oven preheated to 350° F.

The Maryland Governor described the part played by the membership of the American Legion in the air raid warning tests recently made in this and other sections of the country. The Chief Air Raid Warden, Governor O'Conor reported, is Col. Henry S. Barrett, an ex-service man with a lengthy military record. Gov. O'Conor also explained that Department Commander Roy L. Hyle, of the American Legion, has been appointed to head the intelligence unit of the Maryland State Guard. In every battalion of the Guard are officers or enlisted men who were in the military organization during the last World War. Veterans organizations are also represented in the member-ship of the Defense Councils of the State, according to Gov. O'Conor.

> > Gunpowder Plot

The Gunpowder plot of 1605 was a plot to blow up King James and the English parliament, engineered by Guy Fawkes and others as a protest against the severe anti-Roman Catholic laws. Thirty-six barrels of gunpowder, covered with coal and faggots, were hidden in the vaults directly below the House of Lords. The plot was revealed through an anonymous letter; the conspirators were captured and most of them were put to death. The event is commemorated by the annual searching of the vaults of the houses of parliament at the opening of the session, and by festivities on Guy Fawkes day, November 5, during which there are bonfires and burning of Fawkes in effigy.

Paper House

If you have a lot of old newspaper down cellar, you might get an idea from the Paper House, in Rockport, Mass. During the World war, a Swedish family, the Stenmans, began saving paper. In 1922, they decided to prepare the paper to make a house. The newspapers were pasted, folded, and laid in layers. The finished wall contains 215 thicknesses of paper.

The furniture is built of rolls of paper, like slim logs, and painted with a liquid that looks like varnish but isn't. The papers can be un-rolled and read anytime, Mr. Stenman says. Rolled up, only the headlines are visible.

Lying on the cot, for instance, you could read the history of the World war in headlines. The piano has the story of Byrd's expeditions: Lindbergh's flight covers the writing desk; the radio cabinet describes Hoover's election. Newspapers from the capital city of each state decorate the tall grandfather's clock in one corner. In another corner is the huge fireplace, covered with brown rotogravure sections.

Jinx at Large In Zoo Dodges Every Barrier

Salt Lake City's Garden Has Known No Peace in Ten Years.

SALT LAKE CITY.—It's getting to be a question whether Salt Lake City's Hogle Garden zoo was ever meant to be.

To give the enterprise an excellent start on the "wrong way" 10 years ago there was the original

This time the misfortune took the line of tragedies and deaths among the animal population.

Shortly after the zoo was opened to the public, one morning the keeper discovered that two silver foxes and two coatimunda had been poisoned.

Two days later a young tiger choked to death on a bone. Attendants tried everything to save the tiger, one even prying the animal's jaws open and trying to pick the bone out with his hands. The keeper got scratched, the bone remained and the animal died.

Polar Bear Died.

The next was a polar bear. It died only a short time after it was pur-

Everything went quietly for a while until one afternoon some years ago, a pack of dogs got loose in the park and killed a Japanese Siki deer. A week later they re-appeared. They were chased around and out of the park by officials but only after they had attacked and killed two Indian antelope.

For almost a year all was quiet except for a few small attacks on the duck and goose population by youngsters anxious to try out their B.B. guns.

Zoo officials thought their nemesis had been vanquished, but this illusion was dispelled. The bad luck returned in the form of a person who scaled the fence surrounding the zebra exhibit. The person was equipped with a knife which he put to use on one of the zebras.

A short time after that, a rifleman in the vicinity used one of the zoo's buffalos as a target, and made a bull's eye.

Such raids were not the only form the bad luck took. A fire broke out in one of the storage buildings and burned a considerable amount of the hay supply.

Lean Days Followed.

As a result, there was a lean spell and several of the animals went hungry. One, an elk, lacking food, was executed and the carcass fed to the lions-who also were hungry. Then came a series of escapes. One day four buffalos wandered out of their enclosure. Zoo officials immediately launched a roundup, but the animals the next day wandered

Perhaps the biggest escape, and the one that really "blew the lid off" was the episode of the elk.

ne morning in the spring of 1939. the zoo superintendent reported to city police that five elk had disappeared—apparently stolen. A search was launched and then came a report the animals had disappeared with the knowledge of city officials.

The next day, the city's then mayor, John Wallace, told the city fathers the elk had purposely been turned loose and stolen. The mayor told the commissioners the zoo lacked the proper facilities to keep the animals and they were turned out in the mountains to fare for themselves.

Talk to a member of the zoo staff today and no one may say anything of the 100 ducks and geese reportedly missing.

Mongrel Gives Up Life To Save Mistress in Fire

PHILADELPHIA.—Duke was just an 18-month-old mongrel dog but he had the heart of a thoroughbred.

Chained to a garage in the rear of Mary Denofa's home, he saw the house in flames and barked a warning that sent his 27-year-old mistress out the front door to safety. Apparently thinking Miss Denofa still in the building, Duke broke his collar and hurtled through the wall of flames

Miss Denofa stood outside and wept as she watched him appear at windows after racing from room to room with his shaggy hair blazing. The dog was unconscious when the fire subsided. Horribly burned, he had to be destroyed.

The SPUR of the Moment CHRISTMAS 164 J.A. EPISODE WALDROD

EVERYBODY except confirmed bachelors and spinsters from choice is interested in domestic phenomena. And the marital happiness of others is a matter of wonder and inquiry on the part of matrimonial parties who have missed it.

The Vanners—Rose and John—had been married two years and had lived at a hotel all of that period except the weeks devoted to honeymoon travel. They were happy, and this state in a hotel is unusual with married pairs for any considerable

After Mrs. Vanner's women friends had discussed the matter among themselves without solution one of them made bold to ask her about it. "A man and a woman can be happy anywhere if they are in love with each other and if they are truthful-absolutely truthful-with each other," was Mrs. Vanner's explanation. Not that they prided themselves on their veracity, or paraded virtues. It just happened that they were such good pals that deceit had no place in their association. And while each before marriage, had been lively enough in a decent way, they were so well satisfied with each other that they were seldom apart, except as business called Vanner or auction bridge or some other pastime engaged Mrs. Vanner. The holidays were approaching. The Vanners were dining together at the hotel as usual when Mrs. Vanner asked: "Have you any plan for Christmas eve?"

"Not a plan," Vanner replied.
"Want tickets for the theater?" "No. We go to the theater all the "Well, make your own plan."

"If you are keen for some mutual enjoyment, make one yourself. Think up something. But if you are not, I've an idea I should like to play bridge that evening if you could find something congenial!"

"The idea suggests one to me. Friends at the Sojourners' club have been trying for weeks to get me into a poker game. They are all 'alones' and live at the club. I think I can make a date for Christmas eve with

"Merry Christmas," she cried.

"But you wouldn't go into the game as a regular thing, dear?" "Oh, no!"

"Isn't poker a gambling game?" "No more a gambling game than bridge, Rose."

"Shall you play late?"
"I shall probably be home by midnight." "Well, we shall play but four rubbers. No doubt I'll be in bed and asleep when you come in. Just go to your room, and we'll see which of us wishes 'A Merry Christmas' first in the morning."

And so it was planned. The Vanners had dinner together at the hotel, as usual. Then Vanner went off to the Sojourners' club, and Mrs. Vanner started to drum up her trio of bridge devotees. But her plan did not carry. One of the women was suddenly called out of town, and another became just ill enough to eliminate the game. Mrs. Vanner finished a novel she was reading and went to bed. She was always a sound sleeper until very early in the morning. The Sojourners' club bunch were amazed at Vanner's luck at poker. At midnight he had most of the chips, and in decency he had to play on. At 4 a. m. he insisted upon cashing in and started wearily for his hotel. He wished there might be some way to keep the knowledge of this innocent delinquency from Mrs. Vanner. He got to his room in the hotel safely. Apparently Mrs. Vanner was slumbering peacefully in her room. He shed his coat and vest and was at work on his collar when he saw Mrs. Vanner at his door with a wrap over her night robe. "Merry Christmas!" she cried. "Merry Christmas, dear!" he responded. The chimes of a neighboring cathedral rang out, foretelling the early Christmas service.

"But why are you dressing so early, John?" she asked.
Vanner suddenly became wide awake. "Oh, I thought it would be a treat to go over to the cathedral and hear the wonderful music," he replied.

"Of course you were going to call me to go!" "Of course, honey!" Vanner yawned audibly. "Run along and

SHORT STORY

A Happy Couple

By BARBARA ANN BENEDICT (Associated Newspapers-WNU Service.)

ARRIET KNIGHT still felt a little bitter because Stanley Corliss had married Erla. Harriet was sure she would have been a better wife if only because her own disposition was so much better than Erla's.

Erla had a temper and Erla also liked an active, exciting life. Harriet, and unfortunately several other people wondered how long Stanley, her serious-minded architect husband, would be able to hold her affection.

And so when Harriet, who lived next door to the Corlisses, heard the sound of shrill voices and the crashing of china in the Corliss home she knew a feeling of elation. It wasn't long before rumors of the Corliss' quarrels reached the ears of most everyone who had an interest in the young couple.

And so they waited, expecting a smashup and saddened because of what they expected. They liked Erla and they liked Stanley and they hated to see their lives ruined. That is, everyone did except Harriet. Harriet waited for the smashup hopefully, contemptuously and with a faintly fluttering heart. She still had moments when she thought of herself as Mrs. Stanley Corliss. Meanwhile the objects of the anticipated smash-up continued to survive as man and wife, but the stories of their arguments con-

The thing was beyond their comprehension. Why Erla herself, before the wedding, had said, addressing her bridesmaids in the utmost confidence, "It probably won't last, darlings. I can't conceive of myself being contented for very long. It just isn't she know in my blood. Stanley's sort of a demand. stuffy person, but I love him, and I'm going to marry him-at least temporarily."

their friends became curious. They it was that had so completely thwarted Erla's natural instinct. They even went so far as to question uncommunicative. And finally, almost in desperation, Beth Woodward called a meeting of the three bridesmaids.

"Kay," she said to Mrs. Dayton, "it's up to you. You've always been her closest friend. We're all dying to know the reason for it, and you're better able to find out than either Anne or I."

Anne Tupper endorsed the plan heartily. Kay was doubtful. "It seems so silly," she said. "Perhaps Erla has discovered she really does like married life, and is happy and contented."

"Then explain their quarrels and the smashing of dishes and furni-You told us yourself they hadn't been discontinued."

To this Kay was forced to agree. And in the end she agreed also to make an effort to satisfy the curiosity of the ex-bridesmaids, herself included. Secretly she hoped to discover a contented harmony in the household of Corliss. The satisfaction of being able to report such a condition to Harriet Knight would be worth a good deal. And so the meeting adjourned and Kay Dayton set off on her mission. A week passed and she had nothing to report. The remaining exbridesmaids became impatient. And then one day Kay sent out two phone calls and within an hour Beth and Anne were grouped about the Dayton fireplace, all thrilling with excitement. Kay passed around cigarettes and lighted one herself. "Well, said, smiling, "I found out."

"You mean," asked Anne in amazement, "that Erla likes being married? That she's contented and satisfied?" "Quite.

"But it doesn't sound reasonable! Whatever did she say? Oh, Kay, do get this suspense over with." Kay smiled wickedly. "As a matter of fact, I didn't talk with Erla at all."

"Didn't talk with Erla! Then whom did you talk with?" "Stanley."

"Stanley?"

"No other." Kay became communicative. "Erla wouldn't tell me a thing, except that she liked being married and planned to stay married. And so, as a last resort, I went to Stanley and he told me the whole story. It's a secret and we mustn't breathe a word. He told me because he thought it such a good joke on us. He knew how we felt and how Erla felt, too. that's what we didn't figure on—that Stanley understood Erla better than any of us. He knew the things she craved and because he wanted to keep her as a wife he set out to provide them."

"Provide them? But how?" "Very simply. By picking a fight with her about every two weeks. By storming around and complaining of this, that and the other thing. By appearing to be discontented and unsatisfied. By providing a bit of excitement and romance and thrills. By keeping Erla on her toes, for fear of offending him. By taking her mind off herself. Girls, every one of the dishes that has been broken, was broken by Stanley, not Erla. Every bit of the storming has been perpetuated by Stanley. I tell you, the man's a genius. He intends gradually to taper off his outbursts until he can discontinue them altogether, but always holding one or two new ones in readiness in case marriage should seem to be palling on his wife. It's merely a case of hubby being the smarter of

Child of Two Answers Questions Correctly

Little Miss Jill Feldser, Atlanta, Ga., tot of two, is challenging Clifat all to be satisfied, even ton Fadiman to a battle of wits. Jill ask the right questions, Jill will so sure of her memory are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Feldser, whose address is the Kimball House, that they offer to pay "Information Please" $1,000 if Jill misses any of the questions on her list of 15, or any popular nursery rhyme, of which she knows 25 that she can repeat on

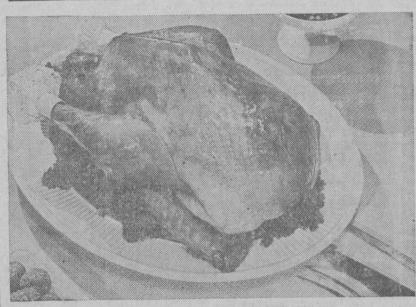

At an age when most babies are just learning to put words together to make sentences, she is rattling No, the thing was a puzzle, and off whole songs and verses. She can say the complete alphabet, and recwere fairly perishing to know what ognizes some of the letters when she sees them in the paper, too. The "A with sticks" as she calls it, and the "B with bumps." She can count Erla, in a tactful sort of way, of to 10 with no difficulty, and add one course. But Erla was reticent and and one together, and spell cat and dog. Her mother says she is no trouble to teach; she has to be told a thing only once, and she remembers it.

The remarkable fact about the chubby memory-marvel is that she gets the right answer to the right question. When you ask her "Who freed the slaves?" she does not get mixed up and say "Roosevelt." She says "Ab'aham Lincoln." But "Mr. Woosevelt" is the answer to "What is the President's name?" and she is right there with "George Washington" to "Who crossed the Delaware?" You'd think she might get her answers crossed, in a case of pure memorizing like that. But she

Jill answers questions with a casualness that seems to indicate she doesn't even have to put her mind on it, playing with the telephone or scribbling with a pencil at the same time. You get the impression that if she really got down to it she might say the Lord's Prayer backwards or translate a passage of Sanskrit. She is interested in everything. She says "What's that?" at least 50 times a day, and when she is told, she remembers the answer. Her parents call her "Baby-doll," and that's what she tells you when you ask her name. But if you insist she will tell you her real name, too, and where she lives. If you ask her nicely she will sing "School Days" for you, and "Oh, Susannah." She tells you proudly that the flag is red, white and blue. But when she "Well," she is tired of being questioned, she says "That's all," with finality.

LET THE GOBBLER STRUT ITS STUFF!

THANKSGIVING

This holiday is ours! As you bustle giving dinner, remember this is the day we give our thanks for the bounteous harvest of the year, for the peace and the prosperity, singularly ours. Remember, too, and cherish the foresight of the Pilgrims who had the courage to start carving out this land of ours!

Yes, this holiday is ours, so let it be filled with the spirit of the day and wholehearted thanks.

Some Bods are synonymous with Thanksgiving without which the day wouldn't be complete, but don't get into a rut about having the same dinner every year, vary the trim-mings a bit and fascinate the family. Thin wisps of croutons will intrigue if you serve them in the oyster stew *Oyster Stew. (Serves 6 to 8) 1 pint oysters 4 tablespoons butter

1 quart milk Salt and pepper Put cleaned oysters, oyster liquor strained, butter and seasonings in a saucepan and simmer gently until oysters curl at the edges. Heat the milk, add to the oysters and serve at once.

Has the family become a trifle weary of your old stuffing? Then this savory new one with yummy sausage flavoring which is right at home with either turkey, goose, duck or chicken. The sausage stuffing will do a proud job

*Sausage Stuffing.

(Makes 6 cups) 4 cups soft bread crumbs 1/3 cup butter 3 tablespoons chopped onion ½ teaspoon salt Pepper

1/2 teaspoon sage or thyme 1/2 cup chopped celery 2 cups sausage in the bulk Melt butter, add onion and cook until it becomes yellow. Add bread crumbs mixed with seasonings. Mix in chopped celery and sausage. Cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly.

*Turkey. Small birds are allowed 25 to 30 minutes per pound for baking, large birds, 22 to 25 minutes per pound. Your oven should be set at 325 to 350 degrees.

*Sweet Potato Puff. (Serves 10 to 12) 4 cups mashed sweet potato 2 tablepsoons fat 1 egg

LYNN SAYS:

To clean the turkey, singe it first, then remove the pin feathers with tweezers. Scrub the outside with water. The inside should be wiped with a damp cloth. If there is any foreign odor, a half teaspoon of baking soda may be added to the water with which the turkey is scrubbed.

Allow 1 pound of turkey to each person. Allow 1 cup of stuffing to each pound of turkey. When stuffing, be sure to put some in the neck for this will give the bird a good full shape. Fasten the skin from the neck to the back. Stuff the cavity but do not pack since dressing swells.

For good roasting and easier carving truss the bird, by inserting a long needle through breast through rib at the base of the thigh. Draw the cord through and bring the string across by pulling the cord through the openings formed by folding the wings triangularly onto the back. Tie the cords.

Insert the needle through the drumstick joints, bring the cord around the tail, through the backbone, and tie securely. Remove cord before serving.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

*Oyster Stew Croutons *Roast Turkey *Sausage Stuffing *Cranberry Orange Relish *Sweet Potato Puff *Brussels Sprouts *Hot Rolls Pickled Beets Celery Curls *Pumpkin or Mincemeat Tarts Hot Coffee *Recipe Given

Salt and pepper ½ cup milk or ¼ cup evaporated milk and ¼ cup water.

Add the melted fat, seasonings and milk to the potatoes. Beat the egg separately, add yolk first and fold in white to the potato. Place in a buttered casserole dish, set in a pan containing hot water and bake 15 to 50 minutes at 375 degrees until light and puffy. Marshmallows may be placed on top of casserole during last 7 minutes of baking time.

With all the soft food of the meal, you'll want something crispy and tart as a relish.

*Cranberry-Orange Relish.

(Serves 12) 2 cups cranberries, cleaned, washed 2 oranges, whole cup sugar Grind all the fruit together by put-ting through a coarse food grinder. Mix the ground fruit with sugar and let stand about an hour before serving. *Brussels Sprouts. Brussels sprouts lend a bright touch of green when served plain with butter or crumbled, cooked chestnuts. Pick the dead leaves off the sprouts, then soak them in cold salted water for 1/2 hour. Wash and put in boiling water and let cook until just tender, about 15 to 17 minutes. Drain, reheat, and serve after

*Magic Yeast Rolls. 3 cups bread flour 1 teaspoon salt

½ cup butter 3 eggs 1 teaspoon vanilla

1/2 cup sugar (rolled in later) 1 tablespoon sugar 1 cup chopped nuts ½ cup milk

1/4 cup hot water 2 packages granular yeast Sift flour. Add to 11/2 cups of flour the salt and shortening. Combine as for pie crust. Combine milk and hot water. When luke-warm, add yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar. Combine with first mixture; beat until smooth. Cover and let stand 20 minutes. Add eggs, vanilla and the rest of the flour. Stir until it becomes a smooth, sticky dough, but stiff. Tie dough into a clean cloth (wring out in cold water first). Drop in a pail of cool water. In an hour the dough will rise to the top. Remove and turn on a platter and cut into pieces the size of an egg. Roll in sugar and nut mixture. Twist into figure eights. Shape and turn onto a greased pan. Let stand 5 minutes and bake 10 minutes at 425 degrees F. Remember how mother used to make her pumpkin pie and tarts the day before and how good they always tasted after they stood in the cool pantry overnight? Why not try it this time? It'll save you a great deal of fuss on the big day itself besides giving the tarts a chance to mellow and ripen for extra good flavor. *Pumpkin Filling.

(Makes 1 large pie or 10 to 12 tarts) 11/2 cups prepared pumpkin 2/3 cup brown sugar teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon ginger 1 teaspoon salt 2 eggs 1½ cups milk

For fresh pumpkin, steam or bake until soft and put through a sieve. Add remaining ingredients in order given. Turn into crust lined pie tin or tart pans and bake first in a very hot (450 degrees) oven, then reduce temperature to 325 degrees and bake 25 minutes.

PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 5:20; I Thessalonians 5:16-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks.—I Thessalonians 5:17, 18.

Being one with Christ, the Christian finds prayer to be as natural as breathing. As he walks with the Master he talks with Him, praises Him, thanks Him, makes his petitions and his needs known to Him. We feel, however, like Christ's disciples who asked Him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1).

I. Instruction in Prayer

Approaching the subject from the negative viewpoint, Jesus told them 1. How Not to Pray (Matt. 6:5, 7). Prayer, which is the highest privilege of the Christian, is beset by some deadly dangers.

a. No hypocritical performance (v. 5). Some who wished to be seen in prayer managed to be in a conspicuous place at the Jewish hours of prayer (nine, twelve, and three o'clock). There, before a crowd, they put on a prayer "show" for the benefit of the onlooking audience. Such a prayer is designed for the ears of men and never reaches

b. No vain repetition (v. 7). We do not need to repeat our petitions. God knows our need (v. 8). When repetition is the outpouring of an earnest and urgent heart it means much, but that is different from just repeating phrases.

2. How to Pray (Matt. 6:6, 8, 14, 15; Eph. 5:20; I Thess. 5:16-18). Public prayer is sometimes both necessary and proper, but usually our prayer should be

a. In secret (v. 6). When we pray we should be free from distracting influences or personalities. We are talking to God and should give ourselves entirely over to communion with Him.

b. In faith (vv. 6, 8). God knows what we need even though He waits to be inquired of concerning it. He will answer prayer so as to honor His name in our lives and in our testimony before others.

c. With forgiveness (vv. 14, 15). No one who comes before God with an unforgiving spirit toward his brother is ready to ask God for the forgiveness which he himself so greatly needs.

d. With thanksgiving (Eph. 5:20). To give thanks is altogether fitting as we come to God in prayer. Note that we are to be thankful "always" and "for all things," not just when some special blessing or favor has

e. Without ceasing (I Thess. 5:16-18). Union with Christ enables us to pray without ceasing, even as He ever prays for us. This does not call for the constant utterance of words, but the moment by moment prayer of a heart and life lifted to Him. With such praying comes constant rejoicing (v. 16).

II. A Model of Prayer (Matt. 6:9-

The prayer which our Lord taught His disciples was intended to be a model rather than a form of prayer. We may repeat it, however, if we put into it the prayer of our hearts. 1. God and His Glory (vv. 9, 10).

Recognizing Him as our Father to whom we may and must come for all things, we in all humility ascribe all honor to Him. Then we pray that His kingdom may come, not only in the future (and we look forward to it!), but now, in our own hearts. The true believer wants the will of God done in his own life and throughout the earth, even as it is perfectly done in heaven.

This prayer begins at the proper point. A right relationship with God brings true blessing on earth. The one who prays is now ready to present to God

2. Man and His Needs (vv. 11-13). Daily bread is mentioned first, for without it life could not continue. This is the constant need of man, and his great struggle. God is able for that problem, and only He is able. Unless He gives "seed to the sower and bread to the eater" (Isa.

55:10) we are gone. But man has even greater spiritual needs. Sin needs forgiveness, weakness needs strength, the power of the enemy of our souls calls for deliverance. Again God is able and ready to hear man's prayer. One of the sad things about the study of prayer is that we are all so ready to talk about it, discuss it, even preach about it, and then do so little praying. Knowing how to pray, and admiring a model of prayer, will profit us nothing, unless we pray.

Good Work Never Fails

So, then, Elijah's life had been no failure after all. Seven thousand at least in Israel had been braced and encouraged by his example, and silently blessed him, perhaps, for the courage which they felt. In God's world, for those who are in earnest there is no failure. No work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice freely made, was ever made in vain .- F. W. RobAND HATCHERY MAINTAINS HIGHEST STANDARD OF SERVICE

The chief cook will have extra cause

The chief cook will have extra cause for Thanksgiving if she invests in a quick-frozen turkey which has tenderness and flavor sealed in by Arctic cold. Quick-frozen vegetables are a joy to busy cooks, too, because all the grubby time - consuming chores of preparation are disposed of before quick-freezing is applied.

Spread slices of rye or pumpernickel with butter and then with Liederkranz these. Cover with sliced marinated Bermuda onion. To marinate onion, add salt, pepper and equal quantities of oil and vinegar to sliced onion and let stand twenty minutes. Garnish with stuffed olives.

Oyster Stuffing for Turkey cups soft bread crumbs teaspoon sage teaspoon thyme teaspoon nutmeg 1 teaspoon salt Dash of black pepper teaspoon scraped onion egg, slightly beaten % cup melted butter 1 box quick-frozen oysters, thawed and chopped

Use day old bread. Combine bread crumbs, seasonings, and onion. Add egg and butter and toss together with fork. Add chopped oysters and mix lightly. Makes enough stuffing for one small turkey.

Whipped Sweet Potatoes in Orange Shells 8 oranges

d cups boiled or baked sweet potatoes 2 teaspoons salt 2 tablespoons melted butter 8 marshmallows

Cut off tops of oranges and remove pulp and juice with a sharp knife and spoon. Whip sweet potatoes with salt, butter and orange juice to moisten to desired consistency. Use juice secured in preparing shells. Fill orange shells and top each with a marshmallow. Brown in moderate oven until heated through. (Serves 8).

Magic Thanksgiving Tarts

1½ cups (15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup cranberry pulp, drained
2 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons sugar tablespoons sugar Baked tart shells

Another Thanksgiving Day is approaching and here are recipes and games that you will find well worth your attention. Happy Thanksgiving!

Cider and Cranberry Relish

Blend together sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, cranberry pulp and egg yolks. Pour into baked tart shells. Cover with meringue made by beating egg whites until stiff and adding 1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot sweet cider
1 cup hot cranberry juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dissolve gelatin in hot fruit juices and add salt. Turn into half-size individual molds, Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with fish, veal, pork, or poultry. Makes 8 half-size molds.
The chief cook will have extra cause.

Liederkranz Cheese and Onion Spread

Hot Coffolate

Cinnamon stick stirrers add a delicate flavor to this festive Thanksgiving beverage, which is made of chocolate combined with decaffeinated coffee, so that nobody will worry over sleeping problems at the end of a happy holiday.

1 cup strong decaffeinated coffee 3 squares unsweetened chocolate 3 tablespoons sugar Dash of salt

3 cups milk

3 cups milk

Make decaffeinated coffee extra strength using 1½ tablespoons for each cup, ½ pint water. Add chocolate to coffee in top of double boiler and place over low flame, stirring until chocolate is melted and blended. Add sugar and salt, and boil 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Place over boiling water.
Add milk gradually, stirring constantly; then heat. When hot, beat with rotary egg beater until frothy. Serve hot or cold. Top with whipped cream, if desired. Serves 4.

Social Ice Breakers

Whether you're entertaining for the service boys on leave or neighborhood friends, quick-action games that are easy to learn can be counted on to assure party success. El Dorado, an exciting new board game based on search for authentic hidden treasures, is just as easy to learn as Dig, the hit game you play with little miner's picks and alphabet letters or Bonanza, the new fad that blends Michigan and rummy; and, of course, Monopoly, the real estate trading game can always be counted on to make a party go. be counted on to make a party go

It is estimated that 4,000 students will be graduated and commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve under the present program being conducted in the three Naval Reserve Officers' Training Stations located at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., aboard the U. S. S. Prairie State, New York City, and at Northwestern University, Chicago.

Each fleet in the United States Navy has a regular supplementary fleet known as the base fleet consisting of naval auxiliaries such as repair ships, hospital ships, supply ships, oilers and tugs.

ADVICE TO MOTORISTS

With the National Defense effort reaching its peak this winter, a country-wide effort is undertaken by the National Safety Council's Comimpress on motorists the need for precautions against highway accidents which impair man-power and cause highway traffic tieups cause highway traffic tieups.

In co-operation with the Council, the Keystone Automobile Club has issued abulletin outlining simple and logical precautions, which, in the opinion of Club officials, should have the effect of materially reducing the normal winter "crop" of highway

The suggestions are as follows:

1. Exercise more caution general.

The necessity for sudden stops ly. The necessity for sudden stops should be avoided on snow or ice. It takes 3 to 11 times the normal distance to stop on snow or ice.

2. Check brakes for simultaneous gripping. Unequalized brakes start skids.

Good tire treads are safe on wet pavement, but on ice or snow tire chains (which bite in) should be put on when needed.

4. Make sure windshield wipers and defrosters are working, and that lighting equipment is adequate.
5. Reduce speed on snow or ice don't throw away the definite safety margin provided by tire chains. Watch out for children on sleds. 6. Leave more room between you and the car ahead and don't try to pass on hills or curves. Approach icy curves slowly. If not protected by tire chains—"crawl."

7. Slow down in gear and "pump" brakes on-off-and-on to keep wheels from looking completely. Traction from looking completely. Traction afforded by chains does not duplicate dry pavement stopping ability, but on snow or ice they cut stopping distances 40 to 50 percent, add appreciably to control of car, and avoid traffic tieups.-Keystone Auto Club.
