This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personals, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Red Cross Christmas Seals may be had in small quantities at The Record Office.

Miss Amelia H. Annan is spending the week in Washington, D. C.

Miss Lulu Brower, spent the weekend with Miss Florence Boston, of Frederick, Md.

Dr. and Mrs. R. S. McVaugh, spent Thursday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McVaugh, at Hockessin, Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Wells, of Camden, N. J., spent Thanksgiving Day and the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James Megee, near town.

Rev. and Mrs. Thurlow W. Null and Cleveland L. Null were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hess, Baltimore, on Thursday.

Recent visitors at the home of J. Raymond Zent, were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Needy, and two sons, and Mrs. John Needy, of Waynesboro, Pa.

Henry Alexander, of town, had his tonsils removed, this week, at the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa.

J. Raymond Zent, son and daughter, Leonard and Agnes, spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henkel, Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leister, Mrs. Mary Wilt and Mrs. Norman Rein-dollar attended the funeral of their cousin, William Fowler, in Baltimore, on Monday. See death notice.

J. Raymond Zent with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Meshejian, of Baltimore, recently visited relatives in Waynesboro and other parts of Pennsylvania.

A large number of Taneytowners attended the turkey dinner, served for the benefit of the Harney Lutheran Church. All were pleased with the dinner and the service.

Old-timers recall a drought about 70 years ago, that was possibly more severe than the one now. Wells and springs went dry, and the scant supply covered a wide area.

Mrs. Walter Eckard, East Baltimore St., had her tonsils and adenoids removed on Monday at the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis T. Elliot, spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Griffith, Westminster.

Maurice R. Zent, Baltimore, spent Monday night at home with J. Raymond Zent, and left Tuesday morning by auto, to spend a week's vacation visiting relatives and friends in Chicago and other parts of Illinois.

Theodore C. Fair, of Carlisle, Pa., paid our office a pleasant visit, on Thursday. A long time ago "Dorie" was a clerk in the Editor's store—while he was a P. M. and not an editor.

Mrs. Rufus Geisbert (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ohler), of Woodsboro, was taken to the Frederick Hospital in the ambulance, last Friday. Saturday she was operated on for gall stones and is getting along nicely.

Messrs Ralph and Joseph Baker and David Myerly motored to Chantute Field, at Rantone, Illinois, to visit their friend Pvt. David Angell. They left town Wednesday evening and returned Sunday morning. Pvt. Angell expects to visit at home during the Christmas holidays.

Cleveland L. Null, who for the past five months has been employed in the Engineering Department of the Glenn L. Martin Plant, in Baltimore, was called this week to the Navy Air Corps. He will serve 30 days preliminary training at Anacostia Field, and if finally accepted will be transferred to the Naval Air Base at Pensacola, Fla.

Sunday visitors at the home of A. R. Six and family, were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roop, Franking Grove, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clingan and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Martin, New Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Six and daughters, Betty and Marv, of Emmitsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Six, daughter, Audrey and sons, George and Marlin, Jr., Harney

Dr. and Mrs. Francis T. Elliot entertained at a family dinner, on Sunday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Griffith and daughters, Peggy and Mary Jean, of Westminster; Miss Agnes Elliot, of Silver Spring; Lewis Elliot, of Baltimore; James Elliot, of Baltimore; John Elliot, of Western Maryland College; F. T. Elliot, Jr., of Taneytown, and a guest H. B. Skinner, of Silver Spring.

DRAFT BOARD AIDES

Selective Service Coordinators named by Gov.

At the request of the War Department, Governor O'Connor appointed "coordinators" for the selective service boards of Maryland, whose duties will be to assist in the "re-employment of returning service men."

Upon being released from the service, through cooperation of the national Government, each man will be informed of the address of the re-employment coordinator designated by the Governor for his particular selective service area.

The co-ordinators will explain to the returned men plans whereby they can obtain re-employment with former employers, if possible.

In cases where their old positions no longer are available, the men will be given information as to available employment. For this purpose, the offices of the Maryland State Employment Service will be at the disposal of the selective service system.

"Regular reports will be submitted to re-employment coordinators by each local board, showing the placements made of various men, who have been referred to the board," the Governor's announcement said.

"At the end of each month, a list of all returned men who have not been placed will be given to the coordinator so that extra effort can be exercised to obtain employment for them."

Among the appointments made by the Governor, the Carroll County coordinators were: (Two boards) Chas. R. Arnold, Taneytown and Millard Weer, Sykesville.

Assurances have been given Gov. O'Connor by David L. B. Fringer, of the Maryland State Employment Service, that the entire staff of his organization will cooperate in the placement of soldiers, sailors and marines in civilian life.

THE SMALL GIFT TO "THE BROWNIES"

DEAR MR. ENGLAR:—Your letter with enclosure of $3.50 for the mission work of my brother, Rev. Henry G. C. Hallock, Shanghai, China, is at hand. The money has been deposited in his bank here and he has been notified. He can draw the money immediately, without risk of transmission, from an American, New York City Bank, having a branch in Shanghai. I have also forwarded your letter to him. The money will be used in the way you have designated.

In due season you will receive acknowledgement from him direct. China's mail is very slow—few mail ships.

I am glad to assist him in this work. He is an earnest and consecrated missionary doing a great work with very little money. Thanking you, I am, sincerely yours,

G. B. F. HALLOCK, Rochester, N. Y.

A PUPIL'S FIRST IMPRESSION OF A PRINTING OFFICE

Last month a group of fifth and sixth grade students from the Taneytown High School accompanied by their teacher, Mr. Arthur Neal, paid a visit to our pressroom.

Each girl and boy was given a linotype "slug" with his or her name on it as a souvenir of their visit. For educational reasons each student was required, by the teacher, to write a story of what they saw and explain in their own words the "makings of printing."

We were favored with a "look-see" of the writing of the results of their visit and it was interesting to note the reaction to what the children saw and their idea of our plant. We were interested in the results and we were privileged to publish part of their visit, which we consider very good for a "layman," which was as follows:

"Our teacher, Mr. Neal, took us on a trip to The Carroll Record Printing Office on October 22nd. It was a fine trip. When we arrived at the office, we were shown the machinery and other things needed for printing the paper. The first thing shown us was the linotype machine.

The linotype machine was made in New York. On this machine there are buttons like on a typewriter. The man would push these buttons and a mat with a letter or space on it, which presses against some metal, and this piece of metal comes out with words on. The metal is hot when it comes out of the machine. This machine doesn't wear out very easily. Next we saw the printing press.

When these words come from the linotype machine they are placed in a square and laid under a big roller. The man lays a big pile of paper on top of the press. There is a piece of wood which holds the paper so it wouldn't all go around the big roller at once. It is made so that one piece at a time goes around the roller; under this roller is a square in which metal with the words and pictures are placed, there is ink rolled over the square and then the paper comes around on the roller and it is pressed.

The ink comes in all colors. It is thick like tar. There is also a folder. The folder has a table which is slightly slanted. The paper is placed on this slanted table and a roller at a time slides in the folder and it comes out folded. It folds the paper three times. There is also a perforating machine. The perforating machine is used for making checks and for other things. There is also a way to make pictures.

CIRCUIT COURT CASES HEARD

An Auto Collision and Will Case Acted On

The case grew out of a collision at the Mayberry and Taneytown road, that occurred on March 24. Both sides told the story as they saw it, and at great length in detail.

$5000 damages by Ethel Chambers and husband, of Youngstown, Ohio, against Mr. and Mrs. Howard Heltibrade, of near Mayberry. After two hours of argument, a verdict was for the defendant.

The second case grew out of the will of Mabel J. Lockard before the Jury. The caveat failed to prosecute and the verdict was given to sustain the will. The will is to be probated in the Orphans' Court of Carroll County. Numerous persons are interested in the case.

On Tuesday, Melvin Wildasin and Woodrow W. Miller, of Hanover, Pa, were before Judge Boylan in a jury trial, in a case growing out of a partnership in a bakery in Westminster in 1939. These two men purchased the business. The case was a lengthy one, and was carried over until Wednesday.

A number of minor cases were tried before Trial Justice, John Wood.

THE M. C. FUSS BUILDING.

Upon its completion, The Potomac Edison Company, the electric power company serving this area, will occupy the building now being erected on Baltimore Street in Taneytown by Merwyn C. Fuss.

With the rapid growth of Taneytown and the recent electrification of many homes in the rural areas in this neighborhood, officials of The Potomac Edison Company recognize the necessity for establishing business, sales, and engineering offices here in order to render the best service possible to its customers.

The new brick building being built for lease to Potomac Edison will be two-story structure with a modern electrical appliance store occupying the ground floor. On the lot behind the new building a large concrete block garage will be constructed to house the Company's fleet of automotive equipment.

It is expected that the building will be finished, furnished and ready for occupancy by early in the spring of 1942. At that time appropriate ceremonies will be held and the public will be invited to inspect the new offices and meet the personnel.

TANEYTOWN KIWANIS CLUB

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday evening, November 26, at 6 o'clock at Sault's Inn. There were present twenty-five members and four guests. The music period was in charge of Raymond Wright, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano.

The program was in charge of Charles Ritter, Chairman of the Agriculture Committee. Mr. Ritter introduced Mr. Garletts, teacher of agriculture in the Union Bridge High School, who spoke of the projects in poultry raising, sponsored by the Taneytown Club, which have been carried out by students of the school. Mr. Garletts also showed pictures describing the activities and methods of the projects. He announced winners in the successful completion of the projects as follows: First prize, Chas. Parish; Second prize, Byron Chen; Third prize, Monroe Harmon. Each prize winner spoke briefly of his project and the results attained.

CHORAL CLUB PROGRAM

The following program will be given by the Choral Club in the Lutheran Church, Nov. 30, at 7:30 P. M. Part I—Organ; Now thank we, all our God, Bachmann-Grace; Pastoral: J. S. Bach; Suite Gothique, L. Boellman, a Choral; b. Menuet.

Part II—Chorus; To music, Franz Schubert Arr. Wilson; Hark, Hark My Soul, H. R. Shelley; Beautiful Saviour, Christianen; The Good Shepherd, Solo; Master Let Me Walk with Thee; The offering "Berceuse" Dickinson.

Part III—Organ, Chant Des Pa roles; Bonnet; March Triomphale, Karg-Elert.

Part IV—Chorus; Columbus (Cantata) Hosmer; Hymn.

FIREWORKS

Under the power and authority delegated to the Insurance Commissioner by the Acts of 1941 rules and regulations were issued and enforced. These rules were designed to supplement the anti-fireworks bill held by the referendum petition.

The report shows that the casualties for Maryland dropped from 307 in 1940 to 17 in 1941, with no death or serious accident among that number. Of the 17 casualties, 7 of them were in municipalities in Prince George county, which have their own local laws, and do not come under the jurisdiction of the Insurance Department. Eight were in Baltimore City which also has its own local laws, leaving only two for the remainder of the State where the Insurance Commissioner had jurisdiction.

Farmers Should Make Repairs

Because the national defense program is expected to make it increasingly difficult to obtain new machinery and repair parts, Landon C. Burns, County Agent, suggests that Carroll County farmers keep their implements in good running condition, store them under cover, and get repair parts that will be needed next year, as soon as possible.

Mr. Burns says that even small amounts of fertilizer left in compartments of corn planters, grain drills, or other planting machinery, are likely to cause corrosion and harden, clogging the distributing equipment at planting time next spring.

He points out that now is a good time to thoroughly clean and wash all fertilizer out of planting equipment, and then cover the distributing mechanism with plenty of oil so it will be ready for use when rolled out of storage in the spring.

Any tools, nails, screws or bolts left in seed boxes may be overlooked in the rush of spring planting and damage machinery seriously.

In the matter of repairs, Mr. Burns reminds local farmers all wooden parts of the hay loader, such as raker bars and conveyor slats, should be checked carefully. Loose ones should be tightened and broken ones replaced. The conveyor ropes or chains also need careful checking to see if they are still strong enough to stand up under another season of wear.—L. C. Burns, County Agent

NATIONAL PROBLEMS

If those crazy officials who run the government do not ball things up too badly, and the farmers are permitted to raise the crops they deem necessary there will be sale for all they raise, after the war is over.

The Law of supply and demand—the only law in practice that has ever worked—will fill all needs if stupid New Deal (G.O. save the mark, this New Deal stuff as old in China long before the Christian Era began) will permit common sense to be used to direct the destinies of the future.

It is about time to let common sense have its way and say in dealing with world problems.

The slaughter of farrow sows and sucking pigs, and the plowing under of every third row of cotton, when people's bellies were hungry for lack of food, and backs were bare and cold for lack of clothing, is a crime that the people of this country are not going to forget or forgive. Such leaders should be sent back to their own farms to run and to ruin their own business; they have no right to control public business.

If such stupid leadership is the best the New Deal has to offer, it won't go very far in its effort to defeat a Hitler who took time to and did prepare for the war he turned loose on the world.

Politics should be side tracked for the duration. We need some of the Quaker Common Sense of a Hoover, and the Yankee shrewdness of a Coolidge to settle our unsettled National problems. We could well do away with some of the "shrewd politics" now being played in high places.

Common old-fashioned honesty will save our bacon; smart politics will bring us a peck of trouble. But after all, the people get the kind of government they wish and deserve.

AN UNFORTUNATE SITUATION

Our work room is being painted, which interfered greatly with composition and press work, of which we have a large amount on hand for the coming Christmas holiday season. We will, of course, do our best considering the circumstances.

A REMINDER AND A PLEA FOR THE A. R. C.

It is with regret that we call attention to the fact that Taneytown District is at this date far from reaching our quota for the Red Cross Roll Call. It is true we have had a great many solicitations recently, but when you tabulate them you find they were for ourselves—Child's Welfare for Children of Carroll Co., Ambulance Fund for ourselves; Christmas Seal Sales to stamp out tuberculosis in our own State. U. S. O. to provide relation for our own boys in camp. The Christmas treat for many children already over indulged.

One thing we are asked to do for others is the Red Cross gift. One contributor calls it her "Christmas gift to the world because the Red Cross goes everywhere."

If you have not done your bit, do it now, don't wait to be asked. Please

SHORT OF FOOD IN ENGLAND

Horse Meat now takes Place of Beef

Due to the shortage of food over in England, they are eating horse meat. We suppose that the old, the halt and the blind are used first.

Horse meat is said to be not so bad, and to have a sweetish taste by comparison with steers and cows.

This foreign demand is keeping up meat prices in this country, owing to this foreign market, and the canneries that pack sausage, dried beef, etc.

We think it is Missionary work as conducted by churches and the Red Cross. Playing Santa Claus now, is untimely, especially in giving costly gifts.

Of course, fish and other water life are used, fresh, canned and dried. The U. S. was formerly a good customer of Europe, for eggs both fresh and dried, but not now.

South America has profited, not only for hides, leather, and most other products. Mushrooms, honey, persimmons, nuts, rabbits, birds of all kinds, berries. Tobacco is also in great demand by soldiers.

The large exportation of apples from this country—especially York Imperials—has almost ceased because of lack of vessels to transport them.

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

Rehearsals are being held for the two comedies, "Ladies First" and "Crashing Society," which will be presented in the Taneytown School auditorium on Wednesday night, Dec. 10, at 8 o'clock. The cast of characters for "Ladies First" is as follows: George, Paul Sutcliffe; Harry, Edward Myers; Percy, Carroll Eckard; Mr. Melton, Herbert Bowers; Uncle Anthony, Harold Study; Bill, George Fream; Jack, Gerard Myers; Weary, Carroll Vaughn; Jimmy, James Teeter; Joe, Joseph Reaver.

The play tells the story of two boys, Harry and George, who disguise themselves as girls in order to get some money from their rich Uncle Anthony, who apparently never has liked boys. What happens while uncle is visiting at the boys' home forms the basis for the hilarious plot of this play.

"Crashing Society" portrays the mishaps of a newly-rich family that is trying to crash the social register. The cast of characters is: Adam, the husband, John Harmer; Elsie, Dunningan, the ruler of the Dumigan household, Hazel Sies; Marguerite, their oldest daughter, Marian Eckard; George, their son, Irvin Myers; Christabel, their youngest daughter, Mary Francis Six; Scruples—Scruples, their butler, Wirt Crapster; Miss Gadgett, tutor, Elizabeth Shorb; Mr. Van Witherspoon, leader in New York State, Glenn Smith; Mrs. Van Witherspoon, his wife, Mary Louise Alexander; Cyril Van Witherspoon, their son, Austin Davis; Agatha Mulrooney, virtuous, Letitia Smith; Miss Louise Miller, reporter, Anna Mae Kiser. The proceeds from the play will be used to buy new books for the library. Miss Helen Stump is coaching the players.

Dick Feeser and his Club Royal will play for the Christmas Dance to be held in the school auditorium, Friday night, December 19, from 9 to 12 P. M.

Edward Diffendal Receives Honor

Edward O. Diffendal, for 50 years service with The Democratic Advocate was given a banquet, last Saturday evening. Ed seems to have beat the Editor of The Record by two years in the biggest job on earth—publishing a Carroll County Weekly at $1.00 year—and making it pay.

In addition to the banquet, he received a gold chain from his employees and a watch by the Board of Directors. One of the honored guests was Wm. P. Cole, Member of Congress from the Second District.

All of the officials at the Court House were present. The dinner—Turkey, of course, was served at Clear Ridge Inn, near Uniontown. The Editor of The Record extends his best regards and congratulations.

TANEYTOWN COUPLE MARKS WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ritter were entertained in their home in Taneytown by their family on Monday evening, Nov. 24, in celebration of their 45th. wedding anniversary. This date was also celebrated as the 15th. anniversary of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide, Keymar, Md; and the fourth anniversary of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritter, Keymar, Md. Mrs. Ritter was presented with a corsage of gardenias and a diamond and sapphire brooch. Mr. Ritter received a carnation boutonniere and a watch chain set with a diamond and sapphire. The 45 year stone is the sapphire.

Following this a buffet supper was served. This table was attractively decorated with a centerpiece of flowers and candles, a three-tiered wedding cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom, a bowl of fruit, sandwiches, salads, nuts, candy, and ice cream molded in a shape of a bride and groom.

The other members of the family present were: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Baile, sons Robert and Melvin, New Windsor, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ritter, daughter, Mary, Littlestown, Pa.; Doris and Fred Wilhide, Keymar, Md.

LATEST WAR NEWS

The German forces are reported as now progressing in battle for Moscow. The British make a Western smash. A Finland high official says war on Russia will continue.

The U. S. Navy maintains a fleet hospital ship, the U. S. S. Relief, that represents the most advanced ideas in seagoing hospitalization. Its arrangement and equipment is comparable to that of the most modern civilian hospital.

Random Thoughts

MOTHERS' IN LAW We recently read a story entitled "A man, his wife and his mother-in-law." Of course mother-in-law was a trouble maker, and wanted to "boss" the whole family.

We do not believe that such stories are as general as they are made out to be. If the father and mother are peaceful and normal, there is the father-in-law who is sometimes a hard drinker, lazy, or some other form of no-accountness.

The world is full of trouble makers, back-biters and temperance haters, that may have been started by parents or grand-parents on bad roads. P. B. E.

CHRISTMAS PLANS

Every one wants to make his or her plans for Christmas, as usual. We like to think of an act "Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Man"; and especially do we like to imitate the Good Samaritan in the giving of gifts to whom we love.

But this big world is in turmoil as never before. Like it, or not, we must make the best of the situation.

Men, women and children, are starving and dying by hundreds of thousands. Where is our first duty, even in this situation that we did not help to create?

Yes, "there is a Santa Claus" but he does not always appear; or if he does, his bag of gifts is filled according to his wisdom.

A CONDITION AND NOT A THEORY

There are many Democrats in the Administration and in Congress who admit their inability to solve the questions of price control and inflation.

The indications that they have had "a bear by the tail" in recent weeks have pointed toward an "all-out" fight between those who want a bill that will cover all segments of the price structure, and those who want to exempt agriculture and labor and possibly other groups from the terms of a measure which Congress has been asked to enact.

Leon Henderson, Administrator of Price Control, and other staunch administrationists, have inveighed against ceilings on wages and agricultural commodities. The difficult political puzzle at the National Capital is how to change the situation and provide for ceilings on all prices.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard recently expressed his opinion that most well informed farmers who are familiar with the subject favor a price ceiling at 110% of parity, which he says will take care of farmers "pretty well." Mr. Wickard believes that "it has taken us a long time to sell the country on the idea of equality for the farmers," and advises, "Let's keep it so."

The new Agriculture Secretary is making a mark for himself in Washington, and he doesn't hesitate to bring the farm problems right down to date. In his opinion the chief worry of farmers is not farm prices today, but farm prices tomorrow.

"They want to produce," he declares, "but they know what surpluses did to their income in the past. They are wondering what will happen after the defense effort is over." —N. L. News Review.

GOV. O'CONNOR TO HELP EX-SERVICE MEN

Complying with the request of War Department officials who indicated that every facility of the National and State Government be used to solve the employment problem of such ex-service men, Governor O'Connor has enlisted the aid of the Maryland State Employment Service, whose entire staff will cooperate in the placement of soldiers, sailors and marines in civilian life.

Each man as he is released from the service will be informed of the name and location of the Re-employment Coordinator designated by the Governor. The Coordinators will outline plans whereby ex-service men can obtain re-employment with their former employers, if such is possible. In this connection it was pointed out that an Administration Bill, sponsored by Governor O'Connor, guaranteed service men in the employ of the State the return of their old positions when leaving State employment to enter the service.

USING THE SCISSOR

The Record uses the scissors to a moderate extent, every week. We do this in part to make up a well-balanced paper, and because some of our exchanges clip from The Record with credit, why should we not do likewise?

There are not, in fact, many new things in the whole world, even though they be copyrighted. The Bible, and Ancient and modern history, contain happenings the duplicates of today—the only differences being that the names of authors and actors are different.

It is unfair too, that mere possession of large capital should be left drive the smaller and poorer weekly papers off the field.

THE WAR IN GENERAL

Both special dispatches and radio broadcasts in general, are to be considered partial to some extent; but it does seem that the German forces are getting the worst of it, on most fronts.

Diplomacy in Europe—with Japan, for instance—is also to be taken with caution as to whether they mean what they seem to mean.

The U. S., too, is not much more dependable as indicating just what it means to do. Perhaps it does not know.

OPPOSING SCHOOLS

Two schools of thought are operating in our midst now—one led by Senator Wheeler and sneeringly dubbed isolationists. The other by no less a person than the president, which may be called internationalists.

Whether you stand for all help to England or not you belong to one or the other of these schools. The Gallup Poll informs us that 85% or more of the people do not want war.

My own belief is the percentage is higher. But when international bankers, and ambitious politicians join forces, they usually have their way and "the people be damned."

For my own part I believe Wheeler, Nye and Lindberg, who advocate complete preparedness and armament of America for defense of America, to be right, but Congress has abdicated and given the President full power to "do as he please" so let him please himself.

Congress should not permit itself to be jockeyed into a position of declaring a war that neither the people nor Congress desire, merely to please the President and the International Bankers? Do you like or approve such alliance? W. J. H.

CHRISTMAS SEALS FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

The 1941 tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale is well on its way and returns are starting to come in, it was announced today by Doctor Samuel Wolman, President of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

Doctor Wolman called attention to the fact that these health seals finance the anti-tuberculosis work of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association and asked that everyone not only purchase them but also use them on your mail.

"These stamps not only give our mail a brighter appearance," said Dr. Wolman, "but they also tell the world that you are for health and enlightenment in these dark days of international chaos and disaster.

"To withstand the ravages of tuberculosis, a person must have a strong and healthy body. It is, therefore, necessary that we be doubly careful in these times."

SENATOR TYDINGS, A TRUE PATRIOT

A man can do no more than his best. And the best is what Senator Tydings succeeded in doing when he made his great speech in the Senate last week.

The odds were against the 37 Senators, mostly from the north and west, who tried to keep America out of war by voting against the repeal of the neutrality law. But that they will be remembered in history when men like Radcliffe have long been forgotten, who of us will doubt?

Senator Tydings need not be concerned over the ironic and condescending attacks made on him in some quarters. He did what was right, and even his detractors must secretly honor and respect him.

History has a way of showing up true worth. Tydings may rest assured that his name, along with the names of the other thirty-seven, will be enshrined in the hearts and memory of Americans for many a day. And his immediate reward is not inconsiderable. Never before in his entire political career has he stood higher in the estimate of his constituents than he stands today. Marylanders are proud of their senior Senator. They are proud of his independence and courage of his patriotism and statesmanship. Would that we could feel the same about his colleague, Senator Radcliffe.

The desire to say something that will echo down the "corridors of time" seems to be an obsession with many of those holding high position in the present administration. Ickes, Knox and Stimson are always playing "Patrick Henry," albeit with poor success. Even Mrs. Roosevelt has her try at saying something "ringing" and memorable, poor lady. Great words must be charged with sincerity and feeling. And Senator Tydings' speech had both. Our choice for the honor of greatness falls upon the words he delivered in the Senate on November 4, against the repeal of the neutrality law. We haven't space here for the whole speech, but here is a part of what he said:

"Anyone who votes for complete repeal and who is not in favor of war by this country against Germany, Italy and possibly Japan, is so devoid, in my judgment, of mental processes, as to be a fit subject for a lunatic asylum. It is unadulterated hypocrisy.

"Both at home and abroad the peoples are deceived. The greatest nation on the face of the earth chooses a dishonest, pusillanimous, cowardly and craven attitude, in its international relations, an attitude which does not help our friends nor hurt our enemies to the extent that honesty would accomplish. This whole proposition is conceived in deceit, born in intrigue and reared in camouflage." —Town Union-News.

DEFENSE WAGES

Many of the pay increases that American employees have recently received have been based on the rising cost of living. It's true that the cost of living has gone up—5.6 per cent since the first of the year. But labor's hourly earnings have advanced just about twice that (11.3 per cent.)

A fact like that suggests that employees and labor unions, when they seek unusual wage increases during America's defense program, are in danger of establishing unfairly high wage rates. Such a policy is filled with many complications, for labor and for everyone else in America.

There are times, of course, when increased earnings for employees is both necessary and desirable. When that is true, however, they should be made in almost every case in the form of temporary wage bonuses rather than increases in basic wage rates.

We Americans must realize that a continuous rise in hourly rates is dangerous. It adds to the cost of goods, forcing prices up and helping to create an inflationary trend. But it does more than that. Unless it's checked, it may lead to serious post-war complications.

After this emergency government orders will drop sharply; industrial income will decrease. If America is faced then with wage rates fixed at high, uneconomic levels at a time when other costs, prices and profits are falling, a wave of unemployment will be the inevitable result—and widespread unemployment after the war is one of the things that we must try at all costs to avoid.—I. Press Service.

THE SUN IS HIGH

The day draws to a close
The shadows now appear
The sun now shines all o'er the land,
So why should we have fear?

The Times may not seem opulent
The day's work not be done,
Yet always after storms have passed,
There is a shining sun.

So when dark clouds o'erspread the sky
Remember this—the sun is nigh.
The sun is nigh, why fret and sigh,
'Tis bright and clear up in the sky.

Full-Grown Ocean Fish

Live but Twelve Months

In the great world of ocean life, we find animals of almost every size. They range from whales down to tiny forms of life which can be seen only with the help of a microscope.

Among the fish, we have extra large sharks which grow to a length of 50 or 60 feet. We also have small fish known as the gobies (pronounced go-biz).

Most gobies are from two to six inches in length, but certain kinds are shorter than two inches, and others are more than two feet long. One kind—when full grown—measures only a half inch from its nose to the tip of its tail. This little goby is found about the shores of the Philippine islands.

Although they are called "white," these gobies are not really white. They are almost like window glass; you can see through them.

The white goby has perhaps the shortest life of any animal with a backbone. It grows to old age within a year after being hatched. Where scientists have been able to study its life history they have found it dies in 12 months or less.

The California coast has the blind goby. This small, pink fish has a smooth skin. When young, it has eyes which work very well, but these lose their sight as time goes on. The young one fastens itself to the dark underside of a rock, or slowly moves about dark openings between rocks. It has little use for eyesight, and by the time it grows up it is quite blind.

Birds Most Skillful of ### Animals in Nest Building

Because their young—at first only eggs—are so utterly helpless, birds have developed a skill in home building that few animals can equal.

Except for the excellent bird-like structures built by field mice, kangaroo rats and gophers, the most pretentious mammalian nest is probably that of the beaver. This symbol of industry not only builds an elaborate home, but equips it with a swimming pool.

Yet the home building instinct of the beaver, highly developed as it is, has only incidental, not essential survival value for the species. Some beavers are content with holes dug in a stream bank, and do very well there. The same goes for the beaver's little cousin, the muskrat, which also can teach most birds something about nest building.

Some birds build no nests at all, but there is usually a valid reason for such an aberration.

The California condor broods in inaccessible places, and finds a nest unnecessary.

Many sea birds have no enemies, or they nest together in such vast numbers that no nest building material is available.

Some shore birds brood on bare shore, where a nest structure would be dangerously conspicuous. Other birds dig secure cavities in trees and in the earth and by the time the nest is dug they are apparently too tired to finish it up with a fuzzy lining.

'Next of Kin' in Britain

Can't Even Show Grief

LONDON.—"The next of kin have been informed . . ."

Behind that sentence by which Britain announces the death of her soldiers, sailors, and airmen lies one of the grimest situations of the war—the silent, inward suffering of the living who may not even disclose their mourning.

Here is what happens. A naval officer's ship is sunk. The admiral quietly informs the wife or parents that nothing can be said about it. "It might give information to the enemy," is the counsel.

The wife, or parents—or often the fiancée—must smile and carry on in the normal way. They go through dozens of trying scenes.

"What do you hear from John?"
"When's Bill getting leave?"
These are questions for which no truthful and yet obediently patriotic answer can be given.

Only after the government issues a communique describing a particular action may the bereaved tell of their losses.

PORK and BEANS EN CASSEROLE

Score a Touchdown on Football Supper Menus

WITH football season at hand, we asked the wife of one of our most famous football coaches, Mrs. Lou Little, what she likes to serve after the game.

"We like to entertain in a simple manner," said Mrs. Little. "There must be good food, not elaborate but plenty of it. Everyone will like this menu from the hungriest player to the daintiest feminine guest."

FOOTBALL SUPPER MENU

Hot Mulled Cider
Casserole of Pork and Beans
Buttered Hot Date-Nut Bread
Celery, Pickles, Chili Sauce
Jellied Cole Slaw

Football Doughnuts Coffee

As you plan Mrs. Little's menu, you will find it is not only good to eat and simple to prepare; it is economical too.

To get the party off to a good start, Hot Mulled Cider is served in punch cups. This is easy to make—just heat sticks of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves in cider for 3 or 4 minutes.

For the Casserole use canned pork and beans with tomato sauce; heat in a hot oven about twenty minutes. The decoration is merely half slices of canned date-nut bread. Put them around the top of the beans about five minutes before the casserole comes from the oven.

Ordinary cole slaw is delicious with this menu, but molding it with plain gelatine makes it even more interesting. A little chopped green pepper and pimiento will give it color.

To make "Football Doughnuts": Cut inch rounds of regular dough; pull them gently into ovals, and fry as usual. They will puff up and look like footballs. Imitation "lacings" can be put on with white confectioners' sugar icing to further resemblance.

This is a good year for all to have their cellars as full of food as possible.

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

HEALTH ROUND-UP ALSO FOR ADULTS

To lessen the chance of acquiring diseases from other children and to find and if possible correct any defects, progressive towns and counties have started the "Pre-School Round-Up," "Summer Round-Up," and school health programs. However, the health of children is in danger for they are exposed daily to parents, teachers and other adults who may have tuberculosis or some other chronic infectious diseases or are carriers of disease.

It is imperative, therefore, that campaigns be started for a general "Health Round-Up" of adults. It has been definitely shown that periodic health examinations of adults improve the health and increase the efficiency of those examined and elevate the standards of health of the community.

Many state and county medical societies, public health departments, women's clubs, and parent-teachers associations have made "Pre-School Round-Ups" their most important undertaking.

It is only natural that parents are interested in doing everything in their power to keep their children well. They now know that proper prenatal care is the best way in which to insure a healthy baby and are learning that regular medical supervision during the first years of life is necessary to its normal healthy development.

The medical profession is convinced that the periodic health inventories should be made by the family doctor. He knows the ancestry, environment and economic situation of the family and its social problems, may even have cared for one or both of the parents since their birth which he may also have attended. He has cared for the child since its birth both in health and disease and is the one who should make the examinations and carry out the immunization programs, etc., incident to the "Round-Ups." He should also prescribe what may be needed for the prevention of disease and for the correction of any defects that may be found in any member of the family. Because of his intimate knowledge of the child and of the family, he is much better able to differentiate between functional and organic disorders and to detect slight abnormalities than is a strange physician, no matter how eminent a specialist the latter may be.

The "Pre-School and Summer Round-Ups" are important not only as a method of taking stock of the health of the children of a community and of making sure that each and every child is vaccinated and immunized against diphtheria; but also because they call attention to the need for similar "Round-Ups" of those with whom the children come in contact.

It is well to keep in mind, then, the value of having children examined by physician. So, now that the schools are open for the season, it would be well to see to it that your children and all with whom they will come in contact at home and at school are examined by a physician, preferably by their family doctor and that his recommendations are carried out.

"Life is short, and the art long; the occasion fleeting; experience fallacious, and judgment difficult. The physician must not only be prepared to do what is right himself, but also to make the patient, the attendants, and externals cooperate."—Hippocrates.

QUESTION BOX

Send questions to Dr. Nathan S. Davis III, Winnetka, Ill. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Q.—I am too fat and I have dieted and exercised and taken off a few pounds. But it comes right back. One of my neighbors takes thyroid to keep her weight down. Do you think I need it, too? Miss R.

A.—Thyroid should be taken only when prescribed by a physician. Remain on the diet until you have lost the amount desired, then increase it just enough to prevent gain in weight.

JOHN S. TEETER & SONS, INC., BUILDERS OF FINE PUBLIC AND PRIVATE ROADS

An outstanding concern in its field that has built many miles of fine paved roads in this section of Maryland and Pennsylvania is that of John S. Teeter & Sons, Inc., of Gettysburg, Pa., and Taneytown, Md. While one of the largest and best equipped concerns of its kind in this section today, it is worthy of note that when the business was established by the senior member of the firm, John S. Teeter, it was indeed in a very small way.

Mr. Teeter began quarrying stone back in 1918, which was sold in limited quantities. From an humble beginning the business has grown and expanded year after year and today this concern supplies each year many thousands of tons of crushed stone in needed sizes for all types of road work, concrete paving and building construction. During recent years the concern has installed the latest and best equipment for producing, crushing and delivering stone, and is therefore in a position to meet all competition as to price—quality and service considered.

It was back in 1924 that the firm entered the road construction field, building in that year its first concrete bridge not far from Taneytown. Since then they have built numerous bridges and completed many, many miles of public highways and private driveways and also have given careful attention to grading and landscaping work and excavating of cellars and foundations for buildings.

All work entrusted to this local concern is handled in a competent, efficient, trustworthy manner, under the personal direction of one of the firm members. Mr. John S. Teeter is president; his eldest son, John D., is general manager in charge of construction, and Daniel E. Teeter, a prominent attorney of Gettysburg, is secretary. In closing a most successful year in 1941 every member of the firm is greatly appreciative of the patronage accorded the concern during this period and previous years.

S. LEASE WARNER HANDLES HIGH GRADE ANTHRACITE AND BITUMINOUS COAL

The season of the year is at hand when everyone most give serious thought to his heating problem. Those who use coal will be interested in the service rendered by S. Lease Warner, of Frizellburg, Md., who entered the coal business on very small scale in 1933. At that time he had but one truck so his service was necessarily limited. As his business increased he added to his equipment and facilities and today operates a modern coal yard which has a capacity of upward of five hundred tons and special power equipment for loading. With this vast storage capacity and three fast modern trucks this local concern is in a position to fill orders promptly and make deliveries without delay to all points at home and in the surrounding territory, including Westminster and Taneytown.

This is strictly a local concern, the proprietor and manager is S. Lease Warner, a man well and favorably known throughout the trade territory. He handles high-grade Anthracite and Bituminous coal which is sold at competitive prices. People in this, as well as other sections of the country, find it to their advantage to buy their coal supply from a reliable and dependable local dealer such as that of S. Lease Warner, who is always interested in giving his patrons the best of coal, full weight and making prompt deliveries.

A Lowly Nickel Proves Undoing of Holdup Man

KANSAS CITY.—That one nickel overlooked by a holdup man in a filling station till turned out to be an expensive oversight.

It enabled Marion Nichols, the operator, to call the police from his pay phone. The resulting broadcast reached a squad car as the patrolmen, who had stopped a speeding taxicab, were questioning the driver and the passenger who held a water gun in his hand.

The cab, the broadcast informed the officers, had been commandeered by the robber as he left the filling station.

Wanderer, Aged 90, Freed To Continue Trip West

ALBANY, N. Y.—The police judge thought there must be a typographical error when he read the vagrant's age as 90.

"Yep, I'm 90 all right," asserted William Mahar, attired in polo shirt and slacks. Then he asked for leniency to resume his journey. Where to?

"I'm a-heading west," he replied. "I'm just a roamer. It's the only life I've ever known and I'm afraid if I stopped now I'd die."

The judge suspended sentence and the old man walked into the heavy rain outside.

NORMAN SAUBLE OPERATES MODERN HATCHERY AND DUCK FARM

Among the more progressive poultrymen operating in the local territory might well be mentioned the name of Norman Sauble, proprietor of the Hatchery at Taneytown, Md., which bears his name. After the fire of four years ago this concern built a new hatchery of the most modern design which has been equipped with up-to-date hatching machines with a total capacity of 65,000.

About four months of the years custom hatching is done and baby chicks produced and furnished the trade, and throughout the entire year ducklings are hatched from eggs produced at Sauble's duck farm where a large flock of White Pekins are maintained for breeding purposes. Baby chicks are produced from eggs produced by high-grade breeders including such popular breeds as Barred and White Rocks, N. H. Reds and White Leghorns. Prices charged will be found to be comparatively reasonable for the quality stock sold and service rendered.

E. F. KEILHOLTZ, WELL KNOWN LIVE STOCK DEALER OF EMMITSBURG

When a livestock dealer goes steadily along year after year for forty years it is a pretty good sign that his service and dealings is about the average and is meeting with the general approval of the trade. Such is the record of E. F. Keilholtz, of Emmitsburg, Md., whose services have covered a period of two score years—and he is today one of the leading men in his field in this section of the State.

Mr. Keilholtz buys and sells most all kinds of live stock, including feeders, fresh cows, calves, hogs, etc. At the barn in Emmitsburg he has usually a number of head of stock on hand for sale which is always priced right and guaranteed as represented.

There is always a decided advantage in dealing with a reliable and dependable local concern such as this whose reputation for fair square dealings is soundly established.

CHARLES BAKER FURNISHES PURE, FRESH MILK TO LOCAL PATRONS

An old experienced hand in the dairy business who began serving milk to the trade of Taneytown about eight or nine years ago, is Charles Baker who operates a modern dairy farm just a short distance from town. He has selected a herd of dairy cows featuring Ayershire stock which are good producers. New power milking equipment has just been installed and the milking and handling of the product is done under rigid sanitary conditions. All the stock has been T. B. and Bloodtested.

Mr. Baker furnishes his many patrons with pure, fresh, raw milk just as it comes from the cow with nothing added and nothing taken away. This milk is safe for babies as well as grown-ups and is most economical for the entire family use and for cooking. This local concern maintains an efficient delivery system which bring the milk direct to your home within a short time after milking.

MARTIN BROS. HANDLES QUALITY FEEDS AND FARM MACHINERY

With so many men leaving the farms for the army and defense industries it is important that the resultant labor shortage be overcome in an effective manner. This can best be done with the aid of modern farm machinery and equipment such as that made by the International Harvester Co., and handled locally by Martin Brothers, of Emmitsburg, Md.

Martin Brothers handle a complete line of farm machinery for every local need and are also featuring tractors of the most modern design for every farm and power requirement. With such equipment farmers can produce more and better crops at less cost and thereby reap a greater profit for their efforts. After all, success in farming, as in other lines of endeavor, is measured by profit. International trucks are handled by this local concern which advised the writer that there is an "international" for practically every hauling requirement from the light speedy pickup truck to the big heavy duty type—all efficient, dependable and economical to operate.

If you buy any equipment, tractor or truck from this reliable and dependable local dealer you will get the service you expect and are entitled to and in addition they handle a large stock of repair parts and feature the well known and popular line of Purina feeds for all live stock and poultry. This business is owned and managed by B. D. Martin who is personally interested in pleasing and satisfying his many patrons.

FEESEBURG.

After the welcome rain of Saturday night and early Sunday morning it is easy to give thanks, and two special days for Thanksgiving is not too many. Have you noticed what a deeper healthier green the grain fields are since then; and cisterns have clear soft water for washing—that feels like satin to one's hands after using hard water awhile.

Despite the inclemency there was an audience at Mt. Union on Sunday morning when Rev. Bowersox preached a sermon suitable for the season from Ps. 107:15 and there was good music. Mrs. Cleon Wolfe and Mrs. Bruce Shirk placed baskets of chrysanthemums at the front of the church. The Pastor's Weekly Bulletin contains earnest advice on "Thanksgiving all the time"; reports of the oyster suppers of Baust and Mt. Union; announcements of Thanksgiving services in the charge, notes of interest concerning the sick and coming special meetings; and expressions of sympathy for the families of Mrs. Harry Spielman—for the death of her husband; and to the Russell Hann family for the loss of their son. Both services were held at Winter's Church by Rev. Geo. Bowersox and Rev. Carl Mumford, of Woodbine.

L. K. Birely attended the Union Services in Union Bridge Methodist Church on Thanksgiving Day. Four pastors of the town were present, and Rev. C. C. Sellers of the Lutheran Church delivered a good message. The music was uplifting—with Miss Marguerite Anders at the organ, and Mr. Thomas Yates sang "Savior hear Us." The offering was donated to the Red Cross work as usual. We have just one tho't about the Thanksgiving services; Is there any one who does not receive good things from above—but how many return to give thanks? Please read Luke 17:17.

Mt. Union held their Thank-offering service on Sunday evening—not to a crowded house. Frank P. Bohn presided, and the pastor conducted a Thanksgiving quiz, which proved very interesting. A sheet of paper containing the letters of the alphabet in a row, was given each one to write on the line what you could give thanks for beginning with that letter. We received an answered copy, and it seems they responded well; with the Pastor's good comments. The Thank-offerings were received and counted—while the audience sang many choruses amounting to $55.00—then all "Praise God" to arrive, but the home talent, with piano and violin, did well.

Miss Catherine Crumbacker is receiving visitors at her home now as she returned from the Hospital on Friday after a 12 day stay in an encouraging condition, and is able to be on her feet again. She certainly wasn't slighted in kind attentions, and we are glad for her speedy recovery.

On Sunday the Wilbur Miller family attended the funeral of their cousin, Arthur Boone who was burned so severely from an explosion in the basement of the Renner Motor Co., new Midway, where he was working alone on Wednesday evening, that he died the next night in the Frederick Hospital. Service and burial was held at the Church of the Brethren in Rocky Ridge.

Mrs. Myrtle Koons Sentz and all her family, with her mother, Mrs. J. Addison Koons, attended a large Thanksgiving dinner party at the home of her brother, Roland Koons, near Taneytown, last Thursday evening; where about one hundred persons, including the little folks, partook of chicken, oysters, and the tempting accessories; a feast for a king.

Mr. J. L. Sellers, spent the annual holiday and first this week with his parents, near Belleville, Va. It must be good to go back to one's early home and associations. He returned to Maryland, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buffington spent Thanksgiving in Baltimore with their daughter, Edith, whose son Hobart Shirk is in camp in North Carolina. If they attended a dance—we've not been told.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Wolfe visited the Rittenhouse Radio Home, near Lewistown, on Sunday afternoon; a Christian home for boys—made possible by funds and gifts from his Radio audience, to which they have already 30 applicants on the waiting list, and hope to occupy by Easter time. Our neighbors were graciously received, and shown over the home which they found very pleasant and convenient.

Colds seem to prevail this early in the seasons, and they are bad enough but we don't like to hear of pneumonia. Then there's the old familiar rheumatism—often masquerading under a more fashionable name but the pain is the same—and who has escaped it? Some of our good nurses are afflicted with it now.

Nov. 19, 1863—President Lincoln made his famous Gettysburg address—and we long remember what he said there: Nov. 26, 1832 the first street railway in the U. S. began operation in New York; and Nov. 28, 1783—first U. S. Government Post-office established in N. Y. City.

Our first hail and snow for the season fell on Saturday night preceding the rain; and it sounded nice and wintery against the East window panes—when one was snug and cozy inside; but our sympathy always reaches out to the needy.

Man Goes Fishing and Gets Boy With Tall Yarn

TEANECK, N. J.—John Siansen Jr. went fishing and caught a boy. He was unaware of his catch until Mrs. Siansen, on his return, looked into the rear compartment of the automobile.

There she found 11-year-old Richard Hoffman of the Bronx sound asleep and thoroughly entangled in Siansen's fishing tackle. Several fish hooks were imbedded in the boy's clothing.

Richard told police that he "went to bed in the Bronx and the next thing I knew I was walking along Route 4, near Teaneck."

Police couldn't decide whether the boy was a sleep-walker or a fibber. He told them he walked the mile and a half from Teaneck to Hackensack, where he crawled into Siansen's car and went to sleep. He was wearing pajamas under his clothing and had a small frying pan in his blouse.

Richard was turned over to his aunt, Mrs. Mary H. Hoffman, of Manhattan.

Woman's Half of House Is Without an Entrance

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—Remember the one about the fellow who bought half a cow, then found he owned the end which had to be fed but didn't give milk?

Alexis Smith's problem is somewhat like that.

Alexis and her parents, the Alexander Smiths, agreed to split 50-50 on the cost of their new $10,000 home. So Alexis designed half of it, including the barbecue pit, playroom with a projection booth, and her bedroom. Her folks designed their half.

Running by after work the other night to see how the new wallpaper looked, she found she couldn't get in. The front and back doors are on her parents' half of the house.

"Old Taneytown" in an "Everybody's Effort"

At this time we invite comments and criticism from our readers, but always signed by contributors as an evidence of good faith.

We are pretty tired of the job, and feel that we have made both errors and omissions.

What we want now is an "everybody's instalment or two that will help close—as everything must—whether good, bad, or indifferent.

Our office Manager will continue his 25 or 47 year articles or both.

Old Taneytown 25 Years Ago

The first woman law-maker, Miss Jeanette Rankin, was elected to Congress this year. Miss Rankin was showered with proposals of marriage from all sections of the country. Her pictures also were being sought by scores of firms and agencies for advertising purposes. A tooth paste company offered $5,000 for a photo of her teeth. An auto company wanted to present her with a new machine, if she would consent to advertisement of her ownership.

Westminster had a $12,000 fire, burning the flour mill, abattoir and pumping station of the Consolidated Public Utilities Company.

The closing-out sale of the stock of merchandise of D. M. Mehring & Son was conducted by a Mr. H. H. Baum. Mr. Mehring was retiring from business.

The office portion of the Railroad station was being enlarged, the better to accommodate the increased business of the Company.

Delmont Koons, living with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ohler was run over by an automobile, driven by John W. Hill. Young Koons received a broken leg.

Owing to an embargo on wheat and the fact that their elevators were full, The Reindollar Company and The Taneytown Grain & Supply Company discontinued buying wheat until further notice.

The members of the Lutheran congregation at Silver Run shipped six barrels of jarred fruit and vegetables to the Orphans' Home, at Loysville, Pa.

The Hotel property known as the "Elliot House" in Taneytown, was offered for sale by the owner, Chas. A. Elliot. This property was situated on the square and described as having 21 rooms, and good stables. Water and gas throughout the house.

SUCCESSFUL SCRAMBLED EGGS

"She can't even scramble an egg"—this statement is proverbially made about new brides, as though scrambling an egg were the easiest thing in the world to do. And after all, the preparation of a dish of scrambled eggs is an easy thing to do, but it does require a certain amount of knowledge, for just a little too much heat, or a trifle too much stirring, and the eggs become grainy and curdled in appearance, unattractive in appearance, and unappetizing generally.

Scrambling eggs in a double boiler over hot water is one way of insuring the fact that they will coagulate into a creamy, tender mass. An even simpler method, however, and one which uses direct heat, is made possible by the modern electric range. You see the surface units of these modern ranges can be set to furnish a heat just as low and steady as that provided by the double boiler.

A spatula is a useful tool in scrambling eggs by this method and I like to use it in this way. Just when the egg mixture starts to coagulate on the bottom of the pan, the spatula is used to lift the thickened mass, allowing the liquid portion to run down underneath. This occasional lifting motion is the only stirring necessary, since the eggs coagulate evenly and slowly over the controlled heat of the electric surface unit.

Scrambled eggs are of the best consistency for serving if they are removed from the heat while they are still a little soft because the heat retained by the utensil and also within the mass of egg itself will complete the cooking before they can be served.

There is no end to the number of variations of scrambled eggs that can be made. For a quick luncheon or a midnight snack they may be piled high on crisp toast squares which have previously been spread with deviled ham. Peanut butter fans will find that peanut butter may be used in the same way with delicious results.

The custom of serving scrambled eggs with fish is perhaps less common. For breakfast, however, eggs are especially tempting if scrambled with tender, white flakes of codfish and served on toast. Served this way they have the same salty tang as codfish balls, but are much easier and quicker to prepare. The recipe is given here as it may be prepared on a surface unit of the electric range.

Egg and Cod Scramble

(Serves 4)

¼ pound salt codfish
(¾ cup shredded)

4 eggs
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
4 slices toasted bread, cut in half crosswise

3 sprigs parsley

Soak codfish over night or for several hours, drain, and separate into shreds. Beat eggs until light, then add milk and codfish and mix well. Melt butter in small skillet on surface unit of electric range using a low heat. Pour in the egg-cod-milk mixture, and switch to a medium heat. Cook about 9 minutes, or until the eggs are set, lifting the mixture occasionally from the bottom of a pan with a spatula. Remove from heat when eggs are slightly softer than desired for serving. Arrange on toast triangles and garnish with parsley. Serve immediately.

Scrambled eggs may be served "muffin-man" style for Sunday night suppers, and will make a complete menu when combined with sandwiches, a raw fruit salad and creamy hot chocolate.

To serve scrambled eggs in this manner, split buttered English muffins and toast under the electric broiler. On one of the split toasted halves place a slice of heated baked or boiled ham—on the other toasted half arrange a spoonful of scrambled egg. Put the two halves together, and secure with a toothpick. Cut in two with a sharp knife to expedite eating—and plan to have a generous supply to meet the demand.

To increase milk production by seven billion pounds will call for a lot more rails, strainers and things, the Agriculture Department informs.

NO TRESPASSING

The name of any property owner, or tenant, will be inserted under this heading weekly until December 15th., for 25 cents cash in advance.

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass on my premises with dog, gun, or trap, for the purpose of shooting or taking game of any kind, nor for fishing, or in any way injuring or destroying property.

This warning applies to both Day and Night Hunting or Trapping.

SWEEEPING the nation is a rousing new song, "Fight for Freedom," with words by Kenneth Webb, well known New York producer of radio shows, and music by Harold Levey, formerly musical director for Warner Bros. who, as publishers of the song, through their division, M. Witmark and Sons, have donated 10,000 copies to the Fight for Freedom Committee. (Copies may be obtained from the Fight for Freedom Committee, 1270 Sixth Avenue, New York City, by sending ten cents to cover postage and packing costs.)

The lyrics of "Fight for Freedom" follow:

One and all,
Hear the call,
Hear the call of Liberty,
Ringing clear,
Far and near,
To the sky!
Through the night,
Shining bright,
Freedom's torch is kept alight
As we sound our battle cry—

Fight, Fight for Freedom,
Stand by your guns.
Liberty is calling.
Her daughters and her sons.
From hill and valley,
From shore to shore,
Anything worth keeping
Is worth fighting for.

Land of the free,
Home of the brave
To Tyranny,
Who'll be a slave?
Our pledge shall be
Rather the grave
Than lose our land of Liberty.

Fight, Fight for Freedom,
Keep her torch bright.
Every land of Liberty
Must battle for the right.
As our forefathers
In days of yore,
Anything worth keeping
Is worth fighting for.

Fight, Fight for Freedom,
Where is your pride?
Will you lose the Liberty
For which your fathers died?
Wake from your sleeping,
Now we implore.
Anything worth keeping
Is worth fighting for.

They Also Hoped For Friendliness

WITH unfailing diligence the Associated Press brings us the news that Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry, Jr., of Pittsburgh, invited 2,500 friends to a glorious party absolutely unmarred by any silly war talk because host and hostess forbid it. They just cast aside doubts and fears and sensibilities and had the most amusing good, clean fun with the slogan, "The spirit of friendliness is what this country needs."

It is a crying pity that the Associated Press, and all our other sources of daily news, have been so thoughtless as to let us know that on this same night some 25,000 youths died on the plains of Russia, or were wounded and left to die.

In China the teeming yellow millions crouched in warm shadows and waited to see which must be the regular sacrifice to the benevolence of the new order in Asia.

In Yugoslavia and Norway, in Holland and Greece, in Belgium and Poland and Denmark, uncounted thousands lay wide-eyed in the darkness, their tramped hearts a battleground between the stabbing aches of yesterday and the horrible, shapeless, inevitable agonies of tomorrow.

In all these places, and along the deserts and rivers and forests and pavements of a hemisphere, terror-deformed men and women lay listening to the echoing shrieks of loved ones who had thought friendliness was what Europe and Africa and Asia needed.

They had watched torture and been tortured; had crept like furtive hunted rats through dark ways or huddled in ditches under the searching hail of machine guns; had run, clasping babies in their arms, from homes never to be seen again, and had been swallowed up in the vast, heaving, diseased misery of a homeless world.

All of them covered before a black inhuman terror that filled their skies, and, in fact, the skies everywhere, except that blessed bit of blue above the lucky home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry, Jr., in Pittsburgh, where nobody talks about a scandal like war and everybody basks in friendliness.

How nice to live there.

HOLDING THE WHEEL

Your left hand should be above the center and your right hand just below the center, or in other words, like the position of the hands on a clock at 10-20. This position gives you the best control—it enables you to put your arms, shoulders and all your strength into steering if you have to.

A hand at the bottom of the wheel has no power. Try it and see! With today's good roads, many drivers forget the importance of gripping the wheel correctly and let their hands sort of lie in their laps while the car rolls. But it's a dangerous habit. A tire can blow. In that case you've got to fight the wheel, whereas if you were in the right position, all you'd need to do would be to tighten your grip and ride it out.

OPERATING THE CLUTCH

Learning to operate the clutch without jerking or jumping the car is not easy. But remember, only skilled drivers are smooth drivers. They understand the clutch and use it correctly.

Try this procedure in your driveway or on an untraveled street: Drive the car at crawl speed. In low gear and with the engine turning over slowly, you can control the speed of the moving car with your left foot on the clutch pedal. Find the spot in clutch movement where the car crawls at one mile an hour. Clutch movement at this stage will be very slight. The important thing is learning to locate the spot where the clutch goes out. This point controls movement of the car. Practice the maneuver described above. It will help you to master the clutch.

BRAKES vs. HORN

If all cars stopped IN TIME, there would be no accidents. It is highly important that you learn not to "outdrive" your eyes. You must be able to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. If you can see ahead only 20 feet—and no more—you must be able to stop in that 20 feet.

Stopping is important, but what is even more important is being READY to stop. Know what your brakes can do. They vary. Whenever you get into a strange car, test the brakes first.

Some drivers, instead of preparing to stop in time, just blow the horn and hope for good luck. When two such drivers approach a corner, the skilled driver, when he KNOWS he must stop, STARTS HIS STOPPING EARLY.

LET THE ENGINE HELP YOU BRAKE

At any speed—other than very, very low—let the engine help you brake. It doesn't hurt the engine and it doesn't require any gas. In using the engine for a brake, leave the clutch in until you are nearly to the stopping point. Then kick the clutch out and make the stop. In the illustration, the left foot is getting ready to depress the clutch pedal when the brake and engine have slowed the car down to the proper speed.

If you can see far ahead that you must make a stop, the engine can do much of the braking for you and thus save the brakes from excessive wear.

CHRISTMAS eve. Streets white with swirling snow flakes.

Marionetta, behind the counters of the five-and-ten, peered into one of the little ten-cent mirrors it was her business to sell.

Marionetta was crying because there was no Santa Claus. More than anything she hated to go back to the tiny basement flat that she and mother and Jim called home, and tell Jim the truth.

Jim, or Jimmy, as Marionetta always called him, was crippled. Marionetta insisted that he was too little yet to know about Santa Claus. She had gone without her lunch for days and days and saved her nickels and dimes to buy the things Jimmy wanted.

That very morning she had started out to work, her precious savings tucked away in her purse, her heart all but singing out loud.

Then, when she got off the car, someone in the motley crowd bumped her elbow and her purse was knocked from her hand. Marionetta dived for it, but another dived at the same time and when she straightened up a small, flying figure was crossing the street. That was why her feet lagged on her homeward way.

Jimmy shouted with delight.

Her hand on the door of the basement flat, at the dirty tenement house where she lived, she noticed a big automobile drawing up at the curb, and an elegantly dressed lady slumping. Showing off! She turned her back on the picture, flung open the door and stepped inside.

"Hello, Sis," Jimmy looked up brightly. "Tonight's the night!"

Marionetta looked dully at her mother.

"I lost my purse," she said tonelessly. "Some kid snatched it this morning. It looked just like that McCarty kid that comes here to play with Jimmy so much but he ran so fast I couldn't be sure."

"Don't cry, honey," her mother said. "We'll make out, somehow."

There was a knock. Mrs. Clancy went to the door and opened it. There stood the lady of the big automobile, her arms piled high with packages.

"Is this where Jimmy Clancy lives?"

"Yes, ma'am," Mrs. Clancy stepped back. "Won't you come in?"

The lady stepped inside. She kept smiling at Jimmy, whose eyes were wide and bright.

"I met Santa Claus down the street this afternoon, Jimmy," she said, "and he asked if I would bring these things to you. He said he was going to be very busy tonight."

Jimmy was feverishly tearing at the packages, which the lady had dropped into a big chair beside him. As his heart's desires emerged from their tinsel wrappings Jimmy shouted with delight.

Under cover of the excitement Marionetta drew near the pretty lady and whispered:

"Tell me how you knew about Jimmy?"

"Why, my dear, it's such a strange story! This morning I saw a little boy snatch a purse that someone dropped, and when he ran away I had my chauffeur follow him and bring him back to me. He told me he wanted to keep the money to buy some toys for a little crippled friend whose folks were too poor to buy things for him. I promised him I'd play Santa Claus to Jimmy if he'd promise me to wait on that corner for the girl who dropped the purse, every morning at the same hour, until he found her and gave it back to her."

"Why," cried Marionetta, "did you ever hear anything so like a fairy tale? That was my purse, and it really was Jerry McCarty, mother! There was such a crowd he couldn't see who dropped it. He'd never have stolen—but it wasn't stealing. And just to think that a moment ago I was doubting the Christmas saint!"

The lady laughed. Then in that clear voice she said:

"Well, just to make you even more sure of him, I'm going to bring a famous doctor to see Jimmy the day after tomorrow, and I'm going to have him take Jimmy to a hospital and cure that bad leg of his. The good Christmas saint doesn't want to find him crippled when he comes back next year."

Pack on Back Prevents Hollow in Your Backbone

"The only way to learn to walk miles without getting very tired is to begin right now—today—to walk at least two miles every day. At the end of the month, resolve to walk three miles a day," a famous beautician says. "All walking should be done on flat heels, with weight on the outside of the feet and toes pointed forward. Take big steps. And do not let the upper half of the body settle down into hip sockets. Keep chest high, stomach in, with lower ribs pulled up and away from hips."

You can push a heavier load without danger of straining yourself if you will keep knees slightly bent, base of spine tucked under and center of the back pushed out—back—as far as possible. When knees are straight and there is a deep hollow in the middle of the backbone, you cannot push as heavy a load. And even the lighter load that you can push may cause you to strain your back or rupture the abdominal wall.

If you want to learn to carry a pack on your back, get out the snapshots you took last year of your fishing guide, and study his posture. Notice that when he had a pack on his back there was absolutely no hollow in his backbone. He seemed to lean slightly forward and the center of his back was pushed out and back until it touched the pack. He never seemed to get tired.

And if you straighten out your own spinal column instead of going around with a hollow in the middle of it, you won't, either—whether you have to carry a pack or lift weights or do any of the other hard jobs that are part of the various civilian defense drills.

Induc(k)ed to Confess, Prisoner Tells Police

A little yellow baby duck that knows the difference between right and wrong put its master, Lester Malone, Los Angeles, behind bars and on the road to regeneration.

Malone walked up to Patrolman Lester Hamilton and confessed that he had stolen an automobile and that he was intoxicated. The second part of the confession was unnecessary.

But the duck, peeping out from under Malone's arm, quacked corroboration.

"I want to give myself up," Malone told the officer. "This lil' duck has shown me the error of my ways. I want to make good for its sake." Hamilton was impressed. He took Malone to the city jail and booked him for drunkenness with a hold for the inspectors' bureau so they could check on the stolen car.

In the morning he appeared before Police Judge Joseph A. Kennedy on the drunk charge. True to his pledge to the duck, he pleaded guilty.

"And now, what about the stolen car?" the judge asked.

"Well, the duck's crazy on that," Malone declared. "I can't imagine how he made me say that. I never stole a car."

The duck went to a box in the desk sergeant's office, but its troubles had only started. It set up an awful fuss.

After all, it seemed to be demanding, "I helped you guys out by bringing this man around, so why should I have to stay in jail?"

Hosiery Mending

A hosiery mender uses a needle with a latch over the hook which slips into the runner, picks up a loop and knits it back into the stocking. Single-thread runs can be repaired so efficiently an expert couldn't tell the difference.

To repair a snag costs 5 cents and runners 10 cents, with average hosiery repairs running from 15 to 25 cents. And here's some advice for saving on stockings:

1—Rinse your silk or nylon hose daily. Squeeze out, don't rub.

2—Don't hang out to dry. Stockings hung in the wind get tangled with one another and this breaks threads.

3—Fold stockings and wrap in tissue paper before storing away.

4—Wetting a finger and slapping it on a run gives only temporary relief, and besides, on certain shades of silk the wet spot looms up like a mosquito bite.

Powder 'Outs' Magnesium Fires

A powder has been developed to extinguish burning magnesium metal and alloys, incendiary bombs, sodium, potassium, aluminum, zinc and iron. The usual extinguishing agents have no extinguishing effect on burning magnesium alloys. Some other materials, such as sand and powdered talc have been used for handling magnesium fires, but none has been found completely satisfactory and effective.

The new powder effectively smother burning magnesium and other metals because it is chemically inert to metals. It consists of a non-inflammable, nonabrasive powder with which is incorporated a small percentage of material which forms a heavy vapor when heated and excludes air.

Wash Garden Gloves

Weekly washing of canvas garden gloves will keep them in good condition. Turn them wrong side out, soak an hour or longer in cold water to cover and then wash with the rest of the laundry. Three pairs of gloves will last the average home gardener a season.

"WE'RE tired of the camp and we're going to move on. See?"

Orrek Gordon lifted his head. "Going to walk out on me and quit? Your wages are good here."

The foreman of the lumber gang sneered. "Say, money ain't everything. We want to get back to town and we're going." He slouched back to the tent and joined the crowd of surly men around the great campfire.

From the log bungalow beyond the camp twinkled many lights. Orrek stared at the Christmas candles. Marcia had placed them there, saying they brought peace to the household. And now, with his men walking out on him, Marcia would be lost to him.

A skimming sound on the firm snow aroused him and Marcia, a gay little figure in her white furs, caught at his arm and came to a stand-

"Why stay out here when I want you?"

still on her skis. "Why stay out here when I want you, Orrek? We're making up a bridge table."

A bridge table when his future career was toppling down!

"Orrek, what's wrong with the men?" she asked. "My maid told me there had been a row there."

Orrek's eyes blazed as he tucked the small hand under his arm. How he loved her! In a few brief sentences he told her of the discontent among his men. "It's the loneliness that gets them," he finished, "the lack of amusement."

"If they walk out you cannot keep your contract. That will queer you with the owners." She turned and left him in silence.

Back at the bungalow Marcia tumbled the contents of her clothes closet while talking rapidly to her maid, Ninette. "Isn't it lucky that I taught you those chords, Ninette?"

The camp men, grumbling around the fire, fell into a sudden silence as the gay plink-a-plunk of a banjo sounded in the clearing.

Gebert, surly gang leader, jerked out his pipe. "Listen, boys!"

Down the hill Marcia came gaily, her fingers bringing jolly notes from the strings. The frosty air echoed and re-echoed as Ninette joined in.

"I know that," declared Gebert. Carried along by memories, the men joined in, forgetting the loneliness of the Christmas eve, forgetting their fancied troubles.

Marcia had come to the very edge of the great fire and stood there picking at the strings. Above her towered the man she loved, just beyond her stood the men in a semi-circle, their unshaven faces lighted by a mutual love of music.

"How many of you play small instruments?" she asked softly.

The answers brought a quick smile to her lips. "I thought there would be many of you to help me out," she cried.

"I want to have a string-band," hurried Marcia, "and I need volunteers. A violin, maybe two or three. A guitar—"

"I play the flute," interrupted Jacques.

"At home I have an accordion," came a wistful voice, "but—"

"Fine," interrupted Marcia. "I have, tonight, made out an order that should have been mailed sooner. It is my Christmas gift to our men. The order is for musical instruments. I wish each man would write down his instrument and give it to me. With luck we should have the orders filled in three days and we'll practice hard so that New Year's day may find us ready. How about it?"

There was an instant response as hardened palms came together. Just beyond the pines a wolf howled, but Marcia was looking up into her lover's eyes.

Wrapping Small Gifts

An unusual way to wrap a number of small gifts that are to be given in a good-sized Christmas box is to tuck each one in an envelope made of either plain red, holly, silver or gold paper. Wrap each gift first in plain white tissue paper, folded in envelope style, and seal the flaps of both the inner and outer envelopes with contrasting seals. Patterns for the envelopes can be cut from ordinary envelopes by tearing one apart and either enlarging on it or trimming it down.

Find Hero Guilty Of 'Stealing' Bomb

Doomed by Groggy Heart, He Refuses to Pay Fine.

LONDON.—With piercing whistle, a 110-pound bomb hurtled through the roof of a West End apartment building, during a German air raid and came to rest—unexploded—beneath an empty bed.

In a room of the house next door, Frederick Leighton-Morris heard the rush of the bomb and the crash of breaking glass.

"That may be on our house," he said. "I'd better go and have a look round."

Now Frederick Leighton-Morris, aged 30, has only four more years to live. He has been turned down by the police and auxiliary fire service with—his own description—"A groggy heart and wonky lungs," and this night of all nights he desired peace and quiet.

Running upstairs on to the roof, and feeling his way over the tiles, he found the hole in the roof made by the bomb.

It was too dark to see anything through the hole, so he lowered himself through it, coming to rest beside a bed—and the bomb!

Deciding that the sooner he disposed of this menace the better, he hugged it to his chest, and began to stagger downstairs.

Once it slipped and fell, badly bruising his foot.

He lifted it up again and began to walk towards St. James' park, to dump it in the safest spot. But at this point, the arm of the law reached out. He was stopped by three policemen, and placed under arrest: "For contravening a police order by entering an apartment building to remove an unexploded bomb," he was told.

"All right," said Leighton-Morris, "I'll go quietly."

But his attitude later in court was decidedly different.

Pleading guilty to a charge of attempting to remove a delayed action bomb which according to the prosecution, might have gone off, he was fined $500. The alternative—three months in jail.

His reply to the sentence was: "I absolutely refuse to pay the fine. I'll go to jail." But Judge Jay has given the man with four years to live four weeks to decide.

Steeplejack Is Trapped In the Spire by Wedding

MENDON, MICH.—Harry Appleman has the somewhat dubious distinction of having attended a wedding while a steeplejack and without intention, invitation or the proper sartorial splendor.

The town's only blacksmith for years, he offered to repair the $1,200 clock in the steeple of St. Edward's church.

His offer accepted, Appleman climbed through the choir loft and a trapdoor to the clock. He heard an occasional strain of music but decided it was only a rehearsal. After completing the job, he stepped down into the balcony and saw the choir singing for a wedding which had just started.

Chagrined, the blacksmith turned steeplejack, climbed back through the hole and waited until the wedding was over.

"I hope that was the hottest place I'll ever have to be in," he told townspeople later.

Doctor's Will Erases All Outstanding Fees

BROCKTON, MASS.—Patients of the late Dr. Alfred C. Smith, who practiced here for more than 40 years, were pleased to learn that his will contained this clause: "I hereby release any and all patients of mine from any debt or debts on my books on account to be due me from them at the time of my decease."

Beads Cat Finds Are Real Pearls

Mistress Gets $400 Reward For Their Return.

RYE, N. Y.—Mrs. May Birdsell, a blonde housewife, told friends how she "almost dropped dead" when she discovered that a string of beads she had lifted from the claws of her kitten and had worn carelessly for three days consisted of real pearls, valued at $7,500. She nearly wept, she said, when she recalled that the kitten which had brought her the necklace had been an unwelcome guest at her home at first and that three months ago she tried to give it away.

The discovery that the beads were pearls came when Mrs. Birdsell read an advertisement by Mrs. Elgood M. Lufkin offering a $500 reward for the necklace, which she had lost.

The advertisement said the necklace had a strand of 24 pearls and another strand of 107 and when Mrs. Birdsell, her fingers trembling, laid the beads on the kitchen table and counted 107 pearls, she knew they were the lost jewels. The strand of 24 was not found.

She saw the kitten playing with something on the sidewalk in front of her apartment. The cat apparently had dragged the beads from the street.

Because the necklace was not found intact—the other strand apparently having been lost when a car ran over it—Mrs. Birdsell did not receive the full reward, according to officials at the Albert R. Lee company, where the jewels were insured, but she received $400.

Love Scenes in Movies

Arouse Bushmen's Anger

DARWIN, AUSTRALIA.—Twenty Arhem natives walked 400 miles to see their first moving picture at Darwin, but they became so disgusted at the love scenes that they left the show before it was finished.

Darwin police said none of the natives wanted to see another movie. They didn't like the kissing.

News of the white man's new flickers was brought to the tribe by a young man named Jacala.

Jacala had served a sentence in a Darwin jail for the fatal spearing of a tribal chief. He could see the movie's neon signs from his cell. He wanted to see why so many persons went into a movie when he was released, but police hurried him out of town.

But Jacala returned to his tribe and told them of the white man's new entertainment. He persuaded the tribe to go to Darwin and see for themselves. It took the tribe 40 days to make the journey.

Other movie-going natives forgot to warn them of the kissing scenes, which are obliterated by native movie fans, who flash electric torches when the kissing and hugging starts.

CHRISTIAN LOVE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:34, 35; I Corinthians 13:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—We love him, because he first loved us.—I John 4:19.

Many important things enlist the interest of the Christian, but we need to beware lest we neglect what Jesus declared to be the first and great commandment—that we love God; and its necessary sequel—that we love our neighbor. If love is forgotten (and who can deny that it often is in our day?), the very foundations are shaken. We need a revival of Christian love.

I. Love—A Mark of Discipleship (John 13:34, 35).

Do you want to know whether a man is a Christian? Find out whether he loves his brethren. Such is the test Jesus gives in these verses.

1. Commanded. It is the will and purpose of God that the followers of Christ should have a real love for one another. It is not to be a matter of impulse or chance, but the love God has for us should constrain us to love one another. This is love.

2. Exemplified. God has loved us. He does love us. How infinitely much is wrapped up in these simple words! He even gave His Son to die for us because He loved us (John 3:16). How then can we withhold our love from Him and from one another?

II. Love—A Christian Grace (I Cor. 13).

In a world where hatred prevails, and is in fact glorified, this chapter needs to be read and reread. We find that love is

1. Essential (vv. 1-3). Life has many excellent gifts and men quite properly seek after them. How do they compare with love, and what do they amount to apart from love? Glowing, angelic eloquence; the attainments of knowledge and culture; mountain-moving faith; liberal-hearted charity; martyr-like self-sacrifice—without love they are all as nothing. Apart from Christ and His love operating in our hearts and lives the worthiest attainments of men are vain and empty. Love is the very essence of a satisfying and useful life.

2. Effective (vv. 4-7). Does love really work, or is this just a fine-sounding but obsolete theory? It works.

Think of the things in life which irritate and depress us; then put opposite them the qualities of Christian love as given in verses 4 to 7, and you will agree that what this world needs most of all is love.

Remember that talking about love or reading about it or studying it in the Sunday school will not make it effective. We must put it into practice. Why not start now? You will be surprised at the results.

3. Eternal (vv. 8, 12). Many gifts are only temporary in their usefulness; in fact, almost everything that man makes or does (apart from his service for God) is transient. Even so vital a matter as prophecy shall one day find its end in fulfillment. Hope shall eventually find its longing expectation satisfied. Faith will be justified in seeing what it has believed. Childish things will be put away by the full-grown man, knowledge will increase and darkness disappear.

But love—love is eternal. It never fails, and will never fail. God is love and God is eternal. From all eternity and unto all eternity love continues. Therefore, we agree with Paul who in the verse preceding this chapter (I Cor. 12:31) says that while you may covet the best gifts, here is the more excellent way—love.

Let us be clear about this. Love is not a substitute for regeneration, and certainly regeneration is no excuse for lack of love. Read John 13:34, 35 again and remember that if we are Christ's disciples we will count it a high privilege to keep this first and great commandment of love.

Dependence on God

Poverty in any shape helps to stir in man a sense of need, a disposition to consider himself as dependent. . . The real puzzle of life consists not in the fact of widespread poverty but in that of widespread affluence; in the fact that so many are sufficiently endowed with "goods" as to believe they can live by them, and so cease to look for their true life to God their Father.—E. Lyttleton.

Death Becomes Transparent

And so the empty tomb becomes the symbol of a thoroughfare between life in time and life in the unshadowed presence of our God. Death is now like a short tunnel which is near my home; I can look through it and see the other side! In the risen Lord death becomes transparent. "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"—Dr. J. D. Jowett.

MINERAL AND VITAMIN RICHES FOR HEALTH
(See Recipes Below)

YOUR DEFENSE: HEALTH

Help yourself to your share of health by giving your meals plenty of health-giving foods and ward off the lack of resistance to disease that comes from not getting enough of properly balanced foods.

Economy and health will be the key words this season and throughout the country you homemakers will have to take your part and build the backbone of the country by feeding your families food that builds strong bodies, steady nerves and high morale.

Fortunately, good, health-building food is not just achieved through more buying power, but through wise buying. You can use canned vegetables or low-priced fresh vegetables, cheaper cuts of meat, milk and canned fruits.

You've been hearing lots about vitamins, so check yourself on them: Vitamin A is for resistance to infection, for growth and general well-being. You'll need it for your eyes, too, for poor vision and night blindness are common symptoms of the body's lack of this vitamin. You'll find it aplenty in milk, butter, vegetables green and yellow, fruits and eggs. It's also the one vitamin which you can store in the body.

Vitamin B1, sometimes called thiamin, is for appetite and good digestion. This vitamin's for good morale. If you're lazy, grouchy or nervous look into the matter. The chances are that you've been neglecting pork, liver, meat, enriched cereals and enriched bread flour, nuts, and peas.

Vitamin B2 is sometimes called vitamin G also and also goes under the name riboflavin. If your nails have been brittle and grow slowly and break off easily or your hair and skin are generally in poor condition, add some of these good sources of vitamin B2 to your diet: milk, liver, eggs, cheese, lean meats and leafy vegetables.

Gums bleeding? Teeth decay easily? Perhaps you're missing out on vitamin C, for this is the vitamin that goes right into your system and helps you have good teeth and bones. If your diet contains plenty of citrus fruits (lemons, oranges, grapefruit), tomatoes, fresh fruits and vegetables, you won't have trouble with teeth, bones, or wounds not healing.

Vitamin D boosts vitamin C and calcium into action, makes them utilize the other vitamins and minerals. Vitamin D isn't easy to find in foods, although eggs, salmon, sardines and herring contain some of it. Milk can be fortified with this vitamin and then it is called "irradiated." Most common way of getting the vitamin is either through milk of this type or by taking cod liver oil in winter, sunbaths in the summer, for it is formed in the skin by the ultraviolet rays of the sun. That's the round-up of vitamins. Now, how about minerals? You've probably heard that you need calcium to build good bones and teeth, but did you know that you need it to help your blood to clot when you have a wound and that you need it also to regulate your muscle contraction? No food keeps people from getting old indefinitely but if you've good calcium deposits, you'll at least postpone old age for awhile. Milk and green vegetables burst with calcium so use them every day. Don't forget the salads: carrots, cabbage, and celery aren't too expensive in winter and they're calcium-rich.

Phosphorus works together with calcium in building bones and nerves. Milk, cereals, meat, cheese, eggs, nuts—all these have a good phosphorus content.

Iron's a marvelous pep-you-upper. Not only does it guard against lagging energy but also digestive disturbances and general irritability. Iron goes to work and makes red, red blood cells that are just about the hardest working cells you'll ever find. The red blood cell shuttles between your lungs and your 7,000-mile-long circulatory system dropping off the oxygen and carrying out the carbon dioxide.

You need lots of iron so don't miss a day on iron foods. That means you'll be eating plenty of liver, molasses, oatmeal, dried apricots, eggs, whole wheat, lean beef, cabbage, oysters and raisins from now on.

Iron by itself is apt to be a bit lazy. It needs copper to make it get to work, so be sure to have prunes often, whole-grain cereals, oatmeal, dried fruits, liver and oysters at some one of your three meals.

Iodine spells power. It is released to your system by the thyroid gland which is near the Adam's apple. Sluggishness, mental and physical, are the result of lack of iodine or thyroid deficiency. Seafood contains iodine as well as garden vegetables. Salt has been iodized to help out general deficiency, and cranberries if raised in low-lying lands near the sea are a popular source of iodine. Magnesium balances calcium, and as you're getting your milk you'll be getting magnesium, too. Other sources are green leafy vegetables. That's the line-up. You'll notice that many foods contain both or several kinds of essential minerals and vitamins. Of course that should make the job you have to do easier.

*Liver and Vegetable Pie.
(Serves 6 to 8)

¼ pound salt pork
1¾ cups cooked pork liver, cut in pieces
1½ cups sliced onions
1 cup diced carrots
2½ cups boiling water
1½ teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca
Black pepper and salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Fry salt pork, add liver and brown slightly. Cook onions and carrots until tender in boiling salted water. Drain, measure liquid and add water to make 2 cups. Add vegetables and meat to liquid, then remaining ingredients and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Turn into greased casserole.

Cover casserole with the following: Mix 1 cup sifted flour with 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cut in 3 tablespoons shortening, add milk (about 6 tablespoons) and mix until soft dough is formed. Pat to ¼-inch thickness, cut several slits on top. Fit over casserole. Bake in a hot (450 degrees) oven, 20 minutes.

Stimson's Apology to Wheeler Begs Issue-'Fight for Freedom'

WASHINGTON (Special)—War Secretary Stimson's retraction of charges that he wronged Senator Wheeler, isolationist America First leader, must have the effect of creating doubt in the country over who runs the War Department.

This was pointed out this week by officers of the Fight for Freedom Committee. The War Secretary recently apologized publicly to the America First leader for stating that he was using the mails to provoke discontent among the nearly million selectees in uniform.

The Fight for Freedom Committee, whose membership is expanding by thousands daily, according to officers here, sent the following telegram to Secretary Stimson:

"We note with mixed emotions your statement in regard to Senator Wheeler. We are proud of your fairness and magnanimity, but we regret that you have allowed Senator Wheeler to maneuver himself into a position in which the issue was narrowed down to a question of whether or not he had intended his postcards to reach the men in the armed forces. This seems to us beside the point. The issue is not what Senator Wheeler intended to do, but what he has done.

"Early this year Senator Wheeler accused the President of wanting to 'prowl under every fourth American boy.' This was a malicious and untrue statement designed to frighten the American people and destroy their confidence in their President.

"Later, Senator Wheeler spread the ridiculous story that the Army was purchasing a million and a half coffins—again an attempt to frighten the American people.

'Incitement to Mutiny'

"In April, speaking at an America First rally in Chicago, Senator Wheeler said: 'The President may have the power—if the Army and Navy obey—to send convoys.' This was incitement to mutiny.

"A short time ago, Senator Wheeler endangered the lives of American sailors and marines by prematurely disclosing the departure of the Iceland expedition. We do not think he did this for the traitorous purpose of informing our enemies, but the fact is that he did so inform them.

"Senator Wheeler's postcard campaign may not have been intended to reach men in the armed forces, but the fact which you yourself state is that it did reach them.

"The issue seems to us to be this: Whether intentionally or not, the fact is that Senator Wheeler has aroused unwarranted fear among the American people, has sown distrust of our President, has incited the armed forces to mutiny, has made available to our enemies secret military information, and now recently has undermined the morale of our armed forces. One may assume that he has done none of these things intentionally. The fact still remains that he has done them.

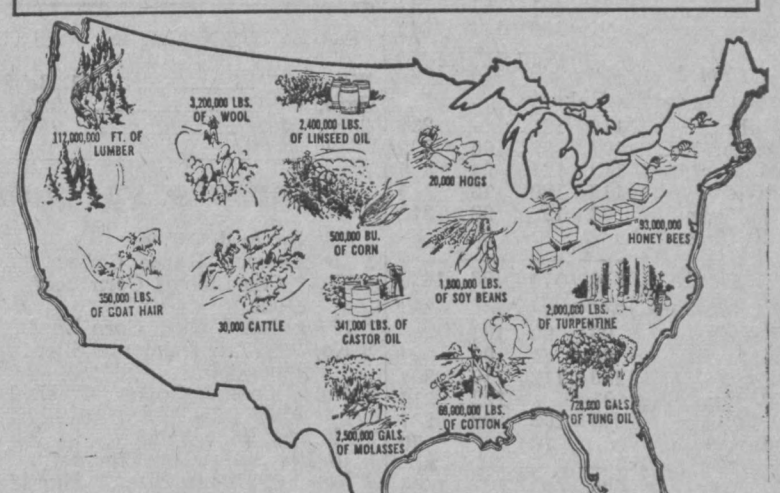

"Habitual carelessness with firearms does not make a man an intentional murderer. But the fact that a man has one shooting accident after another 'because he did not know the gun was loaded' does make him a dangerous citizen.

Cost to Taxpayers

"We note that the America First Committee has demanded an apology from you. You will know best how to deal with this piece of impudence. Whatever may have been the intention of the joint postcard campaign of Senator Wheeler and the America First Committee, these facts stand out with complete clarity. It cost $1,000 to refund to Senator Wheeler by the America First Committee. It cost $10,000 to send out a million postcards. These $10,000 were not provided by the America First Committee's contributors, whose names it declines to disclose, but by the taxpayers of the country through the abuse of Senator Wheeler's franking privilege.

"It seems to us that if any further apologies are in order, one apology is due to the American people for the misuse of their funds, and another is due to you for the untrue and derogatory statements made by Senator Wheeler in regard to your competence to fulfill the duties of your high office."

CROP BENEFITS

In expending its $500,000,000 for soil conservation in 1942 the Department of Agriculture has decided to make a slight decrease in payment rates all along the line, except in the case of wheat and Virginia sun cured tobacco.

The wheat rate will be raised from 8 to 10 1/2 cents a bushel because the acreage allotment was reduced 12 per cent. While the one minor type of tobacco will enjoy a raise from 8 to 9 cents a pound in the soil conservation program, all the other types of tobacco will lose a tenth of a cent—fire cured from 1.5 to 1.4 cents a pound; dark air cured from 1 to 9 cents; Pennsylvania type from 5 to 4 cents; Georgia-Florida type from 1 to 9 cents.

Soil aid payments for cotton will drop from 1.37 to 1.25 cents a pound; corn from 8 to 9 cents a bushel; rice from 5.5 to 3 cents for 100 pounds, and peanuts from $2.25 to $1.45 a ton.

These soil conservation payments are made to farmers who plant with in the agreed allotments and carry out soil-building practices. Because of slightly larger acreage allotments in these crops (except wheat) for next year, however, payments are expected to be about the same as this year.—The Pathfinder.

A committee of more than twenty food experts has been appointed to create a new official Navy cook book. Suggested recipes are tested on groups of civilian athletes before being approved for use by the U. S. Navy.

Sailors serving on the newest of Uncle Sam's ships eat from stainless steel trays with compartments to hold china, glassware, and the various foods of the meal. These dishes and trays are washed in automatic dishwashers and rinsed at extremely high temperature to assure complete sanitation.

Ice cream, sodas, candy bars and other sweets and refreshments are served in the canteens aboard ship in the U. S. Navy which are as popular on a Navy ship as the bars on a luxury liner. All alcoholic beverages were banned from the Navy in 1914.

"Have you a match?" Yes, but I have no cigar." Then you have no use for a match.

FIFTY YEARS FROM NOW

Fifty years from now, I guess, There'll be some sort of press, With a button you push to mount a roll; When she runs, you take a nap or stroll. Or read a magazine, if you like, Or take a ride, if you brought your bike. When you wake or return, the job is done. Then push a button; send the truck on the run. When the bell rings, you're so happy and gay. What a relief from a hard-working day!

Fifty years from now, I guess, I'll be a helluva looking thing on a press. Old and gray, stooped and bent, Wondering where my best days went. Folding carbon is a snap, they say, But the way it delivers will make me gray.

Probably what will cause me to bend is walking the runaway on Number Ten. Number one, seven and four to boot—I think is going to make me stoop. But after all, fifty years let's not mention. For I'll have eight years of my old age pension. —Oscar Seitz.

Signal flags used by ships in the U. S. Navy are the result of the developments of several hundred years. Shapes, designs and colors are restricted to those easily distinguishable. At first the national flags of the ships were used. Later the flags of foreign countries were added. This use of foreign flags, particularly in emergency codes, was in vogue in the American and British Navies during the American Revolution. The earlier codes were very simple and contained only a few easily remembered signals. The red flag used as a signal for battle is not of any particular known origin, but was one of the unwritten customs of the sea.

One of the new sailor's first additions to his new U. S. Navy vocabulary is the understanding that "4th-class liberty" will turn out to be the somewhat dubious privilege of a squint through the long-range telescope at the distant shore. He will also learn what he called a "gang-plank on land" is called "brow" in the Navy; that a Navy vessel is not a "boat" but a ship; that coffee on shipboard is called "joe" or "java" and salads are "grass."

"Oh Doctor! Came over the telephone. "What can I do for the baby? He has swallowed a dime!" "Well, you sure don't want to spend $2.00 to get a dime do you?" And then, the telephone cured to work.

"Hope, is the bridge over the stream of disappointment."

Cedar Springs, Mich., claiming to be the center of the red flannel underwear industry, put on a red flannel festival to advertise the fact.

Figures show that the great number of recruits in Uncle Sam's Navy enlist because they want to learn a trade. The most popular trades are aviation metalsmith, welding, machinist and electrician.

The Service Schools of the U. S. Navy, where sailors are trained, are divided into three classifications. Class A schools offer elementary instruction in certain specialties to recruits; Class B supplement the training afloat by giving more advanced instruction in certain specialties to selected, experienced enlisted men; and Class C schools give advanced instruction in certain subjects not normally a part of shipboard teaching.

Upon completion of twenty years of service in the U. S. Navy, a sailor, if physically fit, can transfer to the Fleet Reserve and receive one-half of his base pay.

Medals and decorations in the U. S. Navy are, for the most part, worn on the left breast. This custom may be traced from the practice of the Crusaders of the Middle Ages wearing the badge of honor of their orders near the heart.

Every shore station in the U. S. Navy has a barber shop, tailor shop, cobbler shop, pool and billiard room, and photography shop for the use of enlisted men.

Medical officers in the U. S. Navy conduct daily inspections of the ship's galleys where the food is prepared.

'The Navy Comes First'

The gray-haired man in civilian clothes told the store clerk he wanted to buy some trousers. The clerk showed him a pair of trousers that seemed to please, and the customer went into an alcove to try them on. Then, in came two navy petty officers. The clerk told the man in the alcove that the house tailor was busy with the petty officers, would the customer mind waiting?

"The navy comes first," he explained. "You know, national defense."

Smilingly, the customer said he'd wait. Some time later the clerk returned and the trousers were fitted. "Will you charge it?" the customer asked. "The name is Kimmel."

"Admiral Husband E. Kimmel!" the clerk exclaimed. "That's right," said the commander in chief of the United States fleet, smiling again.

That Ace of Spades Is Hard Luck Card for Him

MARBLEHEAD, MASS.—A suspected burglar gave himself a raw deal when he allegedly dropped an ace of spades in a private home. Police matched the card with a deck found on the suspect and noted that the ace was missing from the deck. They locked him up on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time. Local wags said it was a case of "trumping" an ace by someone.

None Hurt as Tractor Rolls Over Dynamite

CHARLESTON, MO.—Lynn Hardesty, pilot for a caterpillar tractor, keeps his eyes to the rear to watch knives on the subgrade machine that he operates for a highway construction job.

One of the laborers left a box of dynamite in the tractor's path. His machine struck it, rolled over it—and kept right on going.
