TANEYTOWN, MD., FRIDAY JANUARY 16, 1942.

$1.00 A YEAR

COMMUNITY LOCALS

This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personals, and such matters as may be of community interest. Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc. are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events. Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Large events will be cared for elsewhere in our columns.

Mrs. Mary H. Griffin, of Detroit, Mich., spent the past week-end with her mother, Mrs. John Kiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shoemaker left Wednesday for a two weeks' visit in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Waybright, of near Gettysburg, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Elmer Hess and daughters.

The Taneytown Jr. 4-H Girls' Club will meet Saturday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, at the home of Dorothy Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brooks, left Monday by auto for Sebring, Florida, where he has defense work as a carpenter.

Rev. L. B. Hafer is on a short trip to Philadelphia to attend a meeting of the National Executive Committee of the P. O. S. of A.

Mrs. Annie Harner, of Littlestown, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. William Little, East End, recuperating from a broken ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reinollar and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bower, attended the funeral of Mr. Keller Smith, at Mt. Airy, on Sunday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward Welker and children, Sandra and Ronald, moved on Saturday from Pleasant Unity, Pa., into one of Mr. George Sauble's houses. Rev. and Mrs. Welker will assist in managing "Sauble's Inn."

Two brothers report for duty at Camp Meade this week: Richard Hull left Monday and Sterling Hull, on Thursday. Sterling Hull had been in service, but on reaching the age limit, was released, but again was called.

About a week ago we received an interesting and lengthy letter from our good old friend and co-worker, John J. Reid, Detroit. It would have been interesting to many, if published; but, he said "No!" and that must be obeyed.

There was a time when it was thought that the building of a house—especially a big one—could not be accomplished during severe winter weather; but the men working on the immense C. O. Fuss building has disproved that, as the facts show it. Come and see.

George Baumgardner, who spent three weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baumgardner and other relatives, returned to his home in Ventura, Calif., on Monday morning. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ira Encler, who was visiting in Westminster.

Mrs. Charles Lamb and daughter, Dorothy, of Hanover, entertained to dinner on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Earle Bywaters, of York, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Ohler and daughter, Elizabeth, of Taneytown, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ohler's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

A telegram was received Wednesday telling of the death of Mrs. Hilda Demmitt, wife of William Demmitt. William Demmitt is a son of Dr. George Demmitt. Death resulted from an auto accident which occurred Tuesday, in Hollywood, Florida, where they lived.

It has been suggested and recommended by insurance companies and others that during the scarcity of tires and the restrictions on the sale of new cars that owners should make a note of the serial numbers of their cars and the motor number of their cars—for identification purposes in case of theft.

A Christian Endeavor Society was organized at the Taneytown United Brethren Church, on Sunday evening, January 11, 1942, with the following officers elected: President, William Copenhaver, Jr.; Vice-President, Miss Alice Hitchcock; Secretary, Miss Francis Six; Treasurer, Miss Miriam Copenhaver. The Advisor is the pastor, Rev. A. W. Gavin.

A New York City Editor and a Westminster Banker, spent Sunday afternoon skating in the beautiful and picturesque village of Detour (formerly Double Pine Creek). After several unsuccessful attempts to get up a party, which they very much regretted, they went alone. By their great skill and daring feats, they soon attracted the younger set and the high point of their afternoon sport was to circle over three creeks in three minutes. Why not have a skating club for Detour like they had in the gay nineties?

CHILDREN'S HOUR

The Children's Hour will be conducted in the Taneytown public library on Saturday afternoons beginning January 17th, until further notice. Send all the kiddies or bring them along and enjoy an hour's relaxation!

Choose towels of more than one color for your bathroom. They make a gay appearance blended side by side on the towel rack.

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

To the New and Old Baltimore Sun.

The Baltimore Sun recently had a "near strike" on hand, but The Sun is such an even running machine that "it shines for all" without fear or favor ever since the days of A. S. Abell & Co.

We happen to know some of the men on the force—especially Wm. F. Schmick—and we have had the unbroken experience of many years with it.

We even have ten volumes of The Sun Almanac, which Frank R. Kent edited in fine style, and have the faith that "when you see it in The Sun, it's true" as nearly as it is possible for human agency to make it so.

The Taneytown Fire Company Meets.

The Taneytown Fire Company met in regular session on Monday, Jan. 12, with the president, Donald Tracey in the chair.

Plans were begun for the annual supper to be held on Saturday, Feb. 26, 1942.

The Company expressed its deep appreciation for the support given by the public to the Company in the past year and is especially appreciative of the financial support given in the purchase of the ambulance.

A number of the county officers were present and installed officers for the year 1942. The officers installed and the committees appointed were as follows:

NEWS OF SCOUT TROOP 348

The local Boy Scout Troop No. 348 are making plans in cooperation with the civilian defense program, and it is hoped that the citizens of Taneytown will cooperate and assist them when called upon.

The Scouts have been collecting old papers but this work has been slowed down due to the fact that they have no suitable place to store it. Therefore, a special plea comes from the troop. If anyone has an old shed which could be used to store the waste paper, and will allow it to be used for this purpose, please get in touch with the Scoutmaster as soon as possible in order that this program may continue. When this storage place is secured, it will be announced just what day the collection will be made on each week in order that the paper can be gathered at least once a week.

The local Troop is looking forward with anticipation to "Scout Week" which is from Feb. 8 to 13. Many plans have been laid for activities for the troop up to and including Scout Week. The highlight of their plans will be the Jamboree in Westminster, on Feb. 13.

The Troop is planning of a program of 100% attendance during the next four weeks. The prizes for the contest are to be United States Savings Stamps.

There is now a new oil paint on the market which permits painting plaster walls when the plaster is only a day old and still damp.

REPORT OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Various Matters Acted Upon at Monthly Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education of Carroll County was held on Tuesday, January 6, 1942, at 9:45 o'clock.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The bills were approved as listed and ordered paid.

Fred Engle, president of the Carroll County Teachers' Association, and Scott Couchman, secretary, presented to the Board letter from the Teachers' Welfare Committee in which they asked the Board to consider adjusting the teachers' salary schedule to meet the increase in the cost of living and the competition of higher salaries in industry. The Board was very sympathetic toward this petition of the teachers and the superintendent was instructed to get further data and present it at the February meeting.

The Board approved sending the circular letter to patrons regarding the plans for the schools in case of air raids.

The Board approved the recommendation of the superintendent and staff that during the emergency Field Day, the Bisteddoff, and 7th Grade Promotion Exercises be abandoned, each school to take care of these activities rather than have them on a county-wide basis.

The Rules and Regulations for the schools of Carroll County were approved and ordered distributed to the schools.

The annual report for 1940-41 was approved as presented and the secretary was authorized to publish it in the county newspapers and also distribute it among the patrons.

The Board of Education will grant leaves of absence to bus contractors called into military service.

The meeting adjourned at 12:15 o'clock.

MOTOR VEHICLE TAX STAMPS

In accordance with instructions received from the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, the sale of motor vehicle tax stamps, effective February 1, 1942, the date of which sale was arranged for January 15, 1942, has been changed to January 27, 1942.

Shabby leather upholstery may be revived by washing with a cloth wrung out in warm water, to which a little vinegar has been added. Polish can be restored after washing by rubbing with a mixture of the whites of two eggs beaten up with a dash of turpentine.

ATTENTION

By authority of the Carroll County Council for Civilian Defense it has been announced that on Monday, January 19 a definite air raid alarm signal will be established for all of Carroll County. For the time being all towns that have fire sirens are to use same for air raid alarms with a waving effect for two minutes. The all clear signal will be one long blast for two minutes.

In addition the churches will be requested NOT to ring their bells for the duration of the war, except for air raid alarms as follows: An alarm—ring for two minutes. All clear—ring for two minutes. Ministers are requested to cooperate with their respective air raid wardens to the fullest extent.

Starting same date all lights in business houses must be put out when establishment is closed unless there is a caretaker on duty, who can turn our lights.

YOUR INCOME TAX.

Changes in the Law. Make Your Return Early.

Owing to changes in the income tax law, a very much larger number of persons will be required to make returns than heretofore. A vast number who will not have to pay tax will still be required to make returns, and a severe penalty may be imposed for not making a return, even though no tax may be due.

Among the changes in the law are two in particular that bring about this result. The one is lowering the exemption from $2000 for a married couple to $1500, and cutting the exemption for a single person to $750. This will increase the number of taxpayers very decidedly.

But another change, which many do not know, makes the necessity for making a return depend upon gross income, instead of net income, as heretofore. Proper deductions are allowing in determining whether tax is due, and how much, but no deductions are allowed in determining whether you must make a return. If your gross income amounted to $750, and you are single, you must make a return. If the gross income of a man and his wife together amounted to $1500, they must make a return.

Make your return now. The limit is less than two months ahead, and you may need assistance. If a large number rushed to the same person for help near the end of the period, it might not be possible to take care of all. It will be wise for you and the person who assists you, to do the task now.

4-H CLUB MEETS

A meeting of the Taneytown 4-H Club was held on Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, at Mary Louise Alexander's house. The president called the meeting to order. The girls sang "Jingle Bells" and the "4-H Pop Song." We then elected new officers.

They are as follows: President, Shirley Welk; Vice-President, Mary Ann Arnold; Secretary-Treasurer, Martha Messler.

The girls discussed the sale of sponges as a source of finances for the treasury. It was decided that this would not be an appropriate plan. Some of the girls brought material to make braided mats and rugs. Others brought knitting and one started a candlewick spread. Our leader, Belya Koons, showed us how to braid and crochet the rugs. Delicious refreshments were served.

MITE SOCIETY MEETS

The Mite Society of Trinity Lutheran Church met Wednesday evening for their devotional and business meeting, and the following program was given:

On the accordion and marimba, Doris and Fred Wildhild played "Beyond the Sunset," "The Old Rugged Cross" and "How Firm a Foundation"; poem, "To the New Year" and a reading, "New Year on Southern Benches" were read by Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner; piano solos, "First Invention in C Major" by Bach and "Mazurka in A minor" by Chopin; vocal sextette, "The Green Cathedral" and "A Twilight Cradle Song" by Mary Louise Alexander, Kathleen Sauble, Letitia Smith, Anna Mae Hartsock, Mary Utz and Ruth Hess, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano.

GOV. O'CONNOR CALLS ON MARYLAND

For Victory in the Pending War.

"Clearly this is a war of production," the Governor told the representatives of defense industries and public utility plants. "Twenty-five years ago Germany thought she would win the first World War with fifty per cent production and geared herself to that standard. Having failed there, she today has undertaken to achieve 100 per cent production. Unless we meet that standard of production, we too will fail."

The Governor declared that the time has come for the people of the State to change their point of view.

"No longer," he said, "are we merely defending our State and nation." We are committed to an all-out to defeat the Axis powers. Today we are waging, as a nation and as a State, a campaign for victory. The sooner every man and woman takes that view, the more quickly we will marshal the energy which will end the war.

"There is too much indifference, too much willingness to let the other fellow do the job. Too few of our people realize the seriousness of this war. It has not touched them yet. They are asleep to the dangers. Until they are aroused, our country will be easy prey to the treachery of saboteurs and Axis sympathizers. The times call for sacrifices and hard decisions. We must make them. We cannot afford to stand fast on our comparatively easy way of life, as did so many of the European countries that fell before the might of the Axis invasion."

The Governor urged citizens of Maryland to broaden their definition of defense to comprehend vigorous offense steps and to talk and work in terms of victory over the powers threatening our civilization, our freedom and our way of life.

"Then and then only," he said, "will we be aroused to the pitch that will help bring success to the armed forces which are carrying on the actual combat for us."

"It is in gearing up the State and the nation to meet and maintain all-out production that the energies and mental attitude of our citizenry are of vital importance. Every man and woman must lend himself to this effort if our State is to do its share. And Maryland occupies a most important place in the nation's war effort, both because of our location and because of our war industries."

"Every one of us have an obligation, in the present crisis, to contribute whatever we can, either in production or on morale, as a volunteer worker, or in influencing public opinion. To the degree that any of us falls short of our utmost in this respect, to just that extent are we failing in all-out support of the State's war effort."

TANEYTOWN KIWANIS CLUB

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting at Sauble's Inn on Tuesday evening at six o'clock; President, Harry M. Mohney presiding. The music period was in charge of Raymond Wright, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano. There were present thirty members and two visitors: Messrs Samuel Eberenz and Del Phillips, both of the North Baltimore Club.

President Mohney introduced Past Governor Miles S. Keifsnnyder, who proceeded to install the newly elected officers and directors for the year of 1942:

President, Robert W. Smith; Vice-President, Dr. Thomas S. Legg; Secretary, Rev. Alfred T. Sutcliffe; Treasurer, Edgar H. Essig; Immediate Past President, Harry M. Mohney; Directors, E. Elwood Baumgardner, Rev. Guy P. Bready, Chas. Cluts, John O. Crapster, Clyde L. Hesson, George L. Harner and Raymond Selby.

Del Phillips of the North Baltimore Club announced that his club will hold a victory ball at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore on Saturday evening, January 24, the proceeds to be donated to the Red Cross.

Announcement was also made of the tenth anniversary meeting of the Westminster Club, to be held at the Charles Carroll Hotel on the evening of January 27; and of the Mid-Winter Conference of the Capital District to be held at Charlottesville, Virginia, January 18 and 19.

The members of the Club were asked to report each month the amount subscribed by the families of the membership for Defense Stamps and Bonds, the goal of the Club to April 1 of this year being three thousand dollars.

That Kiwanis International is thoroughly interested in the national Defense program is evidenced by the program which the International Council has prepared and presented to the individual Clubs; and by the following recent action of the Taneytown organization: That the chairman of the Carroll County Defense Committee be informed of the willingness of our Club to cooperate in the National Defense program as carried on by the county set-up. Each Club Committee is asked to intensify its efforts in fulfilling its duties.

The program next week will be in charge of the Kiwanis Education Committee, George N. Shower, Chairman, and will observe the 27th anniversary of Kiwanis International.

Volunteers for Carroll County Red Cross.

As the County chairman for Civilian Defense Ambulance driving, I take this opportunity to inquire whether or not your district would like to organize. Here in Westminster, we are registering women (even men if they care to do so) who will be "on call" in the case of emergency to drive under and in any weather condition. All must have the required American Red Cross First Aid and special mechanical training. Our first class in the latter will be held on Monday, January 19 in Room 5 of the Westminster High School. The mechanic is one chosen by the Automobile Club of Maryland, and American Automobile Association and in the event your district wants to have such a unit Mr. Burke, Manager of the Westminster Branch of the Automobile Club will appoint a garage and mechanic in your locality. If there are any who desire to organize for this service please notify me.

War Headlines from Day to Day

Friday evening: Sub attacks Japanese ship within 100 miles of Tokyo British in hard battle above Lumpur. Congress may delay levying new taxes for six months.

Last Saturday both Moscow and China extended their war fronts. The brightest news of the day.

British planes blast enemy bases in Malaya. Japs draw up forces in Philippines.

Tuesday: Fire destroys U. S. transport near Alaska. 30 per cent food cost boost by Farm Block. (Farmers deny this, alleging heavy costs of transportation of produce to market).

Wednesday: 27 Japanese bombers staged raid over Wake Island, witness say. Dutch admit loss of Tarakan after Dutching air fields.

Thursday: morning headlines were largely unimportant. The U. S. production of war material is running at high gear. Japanese activity appeared to be making very slow progress.

Thursday: Nazi submarine foray in U. S. water suspected. Japs threaten death in Manila. Shooting to be the penalty for injury to Nipponese soldiers or civilians, also for "disturbing" peace—hostages to be seized.

A SERENADING

The Jr. I. O. O. F. Band gave Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hartsock, who were recently married, an old time serenading, Tuesday night, at their home in the Shriener Apartments, East Baltimore St. There were thirty-five boys, girls and grown people, including, Mr. J. R. Menchey, who is director and instructor of the band.

All had lots of fun and a good time. After the noise was over they were all invited to Carroll Hartsock's lunch room for refreshments, consisting of cookies, potato chips, pretzels, candy and orange-ade. At 10:30 o'clock all departed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hartsock a very happy married life together.

Random Thoughts

VERY "RANDOM"

We are wishing for the coming of "good old summer time" the Robins and the Jay birds—and for a new fountain pen that will write black enough to be easily read. Maybe it would be better still, if we should "backward, turn backward time in its flight," and be sure of getting something new for inspiration. A lot of folks do just this and this is our thought to them now. Even a good old Bentley clock did not strike twelve every time, but are still valuable "antiques." P. B. E.

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

MOST ACCIDENTS IN YOUR BEDROOM

More serious accidents occur in your homes than on the highways and, still harder to believe—the bedroom is the most dangerous place in the house for such accidents.

Dr. Nathan S. Davis III

In 1936, home accidents caused 38,500 deaths and 170,000 serious injuries while 37,800 were killed and 105,000 seriously injured in the much publicized highway accidents.

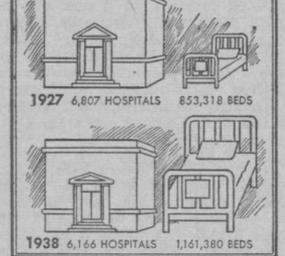

Mothers worry about their children being injured on the highways while traveling to and from school, yet it is a fact that four times as many boys and girls are seriously hurt at home.

The most frequent of fatal accidents for children under 15 years of age were burns and scalds. For those in the 25-64 age range, falls were the cause of nearly one-third of the deaths and in the older age group they were responsible for 75 per cent of the fatal accidents. Between them, burns and falls cause two-thirds of the accidental deaths in the homes.

Of these deaths, 27 per cent occur in the bedroom; 14 per cent in the living room; 13 per cent in the kitchen; 9 per cent on stairways; 7 per cent in the dining room; and 4 per cent in the bathroom. Other places in the home account for 3 per cent while only 23 per cent of these accidents occur on the grounds and outside of the house.

Most common of home accidents are falls with burns and scalds a close second. Next in order are poisoning (gas excepted), absorption of poisonous gases, mechanical suffocation and accidents brought about by firearms.

Bill-boards are used to show the number of fatal and non-fatal accidents in an area in comparison with a previous year. But who has ever seen a billboard showing the number of fatal and non-fatal accidents caused by falls, burns, scalds and other home accidents?

What judge has ever sent the mother of a child who has been slightly burned or a youngster suffering from a broken bone, to look at the pitifully burned, scarred and disabled children in a public hospital or to see the fracture wards full of those injured in falls at home?

Almost daily smashed cars are pictured in the newspapers but the rugs, stools and, yes, dogs, which many stumble and fall over with serious results do not appear in the press. Neither are there pictures of the dark stairs, the chairs and tables used as ladders, the broken steps, slippery floors and walks and other common causes of falls in the home.

A good deal is written about the danger of scalds and burns and of deaths from poisonous gases, especially carbon monoxide gas from automobile motors, but not nearly as much as about highway accidents. Perhaps one reason for this is that all automobile accidents are listed together whether they be those occurring at railroad crossings, at highway intersections, between intersections on highways, or jay-walking or those caused by children running in front of slow moving cars. On the other hand home accidents are written separately, printed in various sections of the newspapers and, consequently, are not so noticeable.

Twenty-eight safety rules for the home, which were prepared by the American Red Cross, National Safety Council, Metropolitan Life Insurance company and others will be furnished to all who send in a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Nathan S. Davis III, Winnetka, Ill.

To one who waits for health, a moment seems a year.

QUESTION BOX

Send questions to Dr. Nathan S. Davis III, Winnetka, Ill. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Q.—I am an expectant mother and have several teeth that need to come out. My dentist wants me to take gas. Will it have any effect on my baby if I do? Mrs. M.

A.—Taking gas will not have any effect on your baby unless it is given for a long period.

Q.—Is there any permanent effect to being knocked unconscious? E. J. A.—Sometimes there is but more often no effects can be found.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Despite the number of times I've seen it, to me, the Battery, down at the foot of Manhattan, is still New York's best free show. For one thing, there is the setting. Looking down the bay to the left is the East river ending its short journey from Long Island sound. To the right, the Hudson, having flowed from far upstate, reaches the bay. Beyond the East river is the busy Brooklyn water front. Beyond the Hudson is the Jersey shore with huge oil refineries sending skyward heavy clouds of black smoke. In the immediate foreground are three small bodies of land, Governors' island, headquarters of the second corps area of the army; Ellis island with its red brick buildings familiar to thousands of immigrants and Bedloe's island on which stands the Statue of Liberty. Five miles in the distance, is Staten island. Beyond that, the lower bay and then the Atlantic ocean.

The setting of course does not change. Yet what goes on at the Battery does change with each passing hour. In fact, it is never the same. It is like a motion picture film with neither beginning nor end. The life and action are continuous. Tugs push barges here and there, sometimes their cargoes are merely sand or bricks, sometimes bawling cattle and then again freight cars; and it still seems queer to me to see freight cars sailing about the bay. At this season there are picnic barges and that trim white hospital ship goes up and down the bay. There are excursion boats. Sound boats and river boats. Trim yachts may have as companions grotesque derricks and grain elevators. In former days, there were great liners putting majestically out to sea or just as majestically coming into port. But now there is war.

Warships bound for or from the Brooklyn navy yard may also be seen along with many other government craft. The funny little ferry that plies between Governors' island and the mainland. The somewhat somber Ellis island ferry. Clumsy-looking cutters that take customs men, public health officers and newspaper men out to meet ships. Lean government patrol boats that slip in and out silently and the crews of which are singularly uncommunicative. The cutters and the patrol boats as well as various other government craft, tie up in the shadow of the Barge office, that big granite building, which, seen from the deck of an incoming ship, looks very much like an oversized firehouse.

At the Battery is a small basin where the boatmen may tie up their craft. In the summer, many tenebrous youngsters use it as a swimming pool though the water is polluted. The boat basin is really a monument. It was built by the city and turned over to the boatmen in recognition of their heroic conduct July 30, 1871, when the State island ferry, the Westfield, blew up at her pier. The boatmen saved many lives. The boatmen of today carry on the tradition. Those who fall into the bay from the sea wall or who would seek a remedy for their troubles by leaping, usually are rescued by men of the Battery.

Battery park also interests me. Near the tall flagstaff is a tablet which marks the spot where the famous Liberty pole stood in the Revolution. When the British evacuated the city in 1783, they left their flag flying from the Liberty pole. Furthermore they greased it thinking it couldn't be climbed. An American soldier, David Van Arsdale, climbed the pole, took down the British emblem and hoisted Old Glory. From that day to this at dawn on Evacuation day, November 25, some Van Arsdale descendant has raised the United States flag to the top of the staff.

White ties and tails seem to be on their way to join the walking stick in oblivion. At least, the present trend is away from formality. A dinner jacket is now acceptable in many places where it was barred in the past. Invitations state either white or black tie if the affair is formal. Many a man goes directly from business to a dinner party and doesn't feel out of place because there are so many others who are not formally dressed. Also, soft collars and soft-bosomed shirts are worn with tuxedos. So far as I can learn, there are no mourners for the formal days or the past.

There are still places that insist on formal attire in the evening during the winter months. It's different in summer, however. The bars are let down at many smart places.

Couple Hears Son Is Alive After 30 Years

SEATTLE.—An aged Seattle couple, who for nearly 30 years believed that their son had died at sea, learned that he is living in Melbourne, Australia. Mr. and Mrs. John M. Pearson recently received a letter from their missing son, John, whom they last saw in 1905 before he "shipped out" for the Orient on a vessel.

SCIENTIST TELLS HOW ROUP LOSSES MAY BE LESSENER

"Control Roup!" should be the watchword of every poultryman. For it is another poultry profit taker that can certainly undermine a man's best efforts with chickens, unless proper care is taken to control it according to Dr. R. E. Lubbehusen, Pathologist with Purina Mills.

"To fight a trouble maker like Roup," says Dr. Lubbehusen, "a poultry raiser should be able to recognize its symptoms, then take the necessary steps to eliminate it."

Recognizing Symptoms

The disease, he says, may occur in a very severe, moderate or mild form. In the severe type, which is particularly disastrous in birds six to twelve weeks old, the first symptom noted is a light mucus discharge from the nose. This dries, plugging the nostrils and causing swelling of the cavities at the side of the head. Frequently, too, there is puffiness about the eyes, and occasionally swelling of the wattles. Mucus and cheesy material may collect in the cleft in the roof of the mouth. Mucus may also accumulate in the windpipe, causing the birds to gasp and cough.

Controlling Outbreak

"The first step in controlling outbreak is the removal of the affected birds," Lubbehusen recommends. "If this is done during the early stage when only a few birds are affected, it will help in stopping the spread of the disease. The recovery of the affected birds may be hastened by washing the nasal passages with lukewarm water solutions containing Purina Chlorena Powder in the proportion of one level teaspoonful per gallon of water. A like proportion should be added to the drinking water to help keep down the spread of infection."

"Very beneficial results," says Lubbehusen, "have been reported from the use of Purina Chlorena Powder as a dust spray over the heads of affected flocks. It has a definite antiseptic value, as well as being a distinct aid in clearing the nasal passages."

Hunter in a Wheel Chair Shoots Deer

PORTERVILLE, CALIF.—The first deer killed near California Hot Springs during the 1941 season was shot by a crippled man in a wheel chair.

Jeffrey Newman, a cripple at the health resort, drove his gasoline-powered chair a mile into the mountains east of here and shot the deer.

LITERAL

Conductor Haly tells this story of a passenger on a Chicago trolley: An elderly lady, evidently recently imported from the conductor's own home country, one day boarded his car at Thirty-fourth street. When he went to ask for her fare she solemnly handed him a clothespin.

"What's this for?" asked Haly.

"Money's what I want."

"Sure," replied the immigrant, "I was told that a clothespin would be good on any line."

Haly, being a good sport, supplied the needed fare.

OBSERVANT

"That man who sat next to me at dinner didn't have the manners of a pig."

"Strange; I thought he had."

Conscience Fund

"There is a man in this congregation," said the preacher, "who is flirting with another man's wife. Unless he puts $5 in the collection box, his name will be read from the pulpit."

When the box came back it contained 19 $5 bills and $2 with a note pinned to them which read: "This is all the cash I have with me. Will send balance tomorrow."

LARMONY

Raymond seemed unusually quiet for his seven years. "Did you not enjoy yourself at church?" asked his mother. "I guess so," he said indifferently. "What was the main hymn?" she asked. "It was one I didn't know," replied Raymond, "but I just sang 'Pennies From Heaven' as loud as I could and it worked out all right."

Wins Holstein in Essay Contest

Joyce Lee Rensberg, Middletown, Md., is at the halter of the registered Holstein-Friesian bull calf she won for writing the first prize essay on "Why My Dad Should Keep Purebreds and Why He Should Keep Holstein-Friesians".

Miss Rensberg's essay was first for the southeastern division of the essay contest sponsored by The Purebred Dairy Cattle Association, which is an organization of the several purebred dairy cattle registry associations. The Holstein bull calf won by Miss Rensberg is Dunloggin Master Oraggie, donated by Dunloggin, Ellicott City, Md.

Latest Items of Local News Furnished By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

FEESERSBURG.

One week of snow very little melting, and very cold weather—might as well call it an old-fashioned winter—minus horses and sleighs. Many people are longing for the "good old summer time."

Here are two items carried over from last week; on Jan. 1st., Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bohn attended a wedding near Hershey, Pa., where he served as bestman for his friend, Edwin Schwenk, Jr. and Miss Della Weidman, whose sister Catherine was bridesmaid.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren enjoyed a day of quilting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. P. Englar.

Mr. and Mrs. Snader Devilbiss, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smelser, Miss Mary Lee Smelser, Clinton Talbert and Harold Smelser, Jr., were entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Crawford, Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cookson, Sr., Mrs. B. L. Cookson, Mrs. W. P. Englar and Mrs. J. Walter Speicher were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wolfe, on Monday evening.

Anyone who has not as yet contributed to the Red Cross War Fund Drive can do so by seeing Mrs. Wilbur Halter or Miss Mary Lee Smelser. Mrs. Halter is chairman of the Uniontown district for this drive.

On Tuesday evening the Adult Organized classes of Pipe Creek Church met at the church for their January meeting. After the business session these classes with the young folks of the church met in the social hall and gave two miscellaneous showers in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hull and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Catzendafer who were married recently.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Uniontown Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Guy Cookson, Jr., on Wednesday evening.

Eleven persons from Uniontown and Pipe Creek Methodist Churches are attending the Leadership Training School and Young People's Institute at Westminster. The school began last Monday night and will continue for five consecutive Monday nights.

Rev. Paul F. Warner addressed a meeting in Calvary Methodist Church Mt. Airy, in Thursday evening.

In the Baltimore Districts of the Methodist Church there was an exchange of pulpits last Sunday in the interest of the Church Extension Society. Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of Freedom Charge, preached at Uniontown and Pipe Creek. Rev. Paul F. Warner preached at Sykesville.

On Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Belle Koons Shirk, with Davin Shaum and his mother, of Taneytown called at the Stuffle and Birely homes in our town. Mr. Shaum is an attentive student at St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg—driving to and fro each day; and teaches 32 music scholars at his home. Industrious people are always busy, and the other kind are generally lazy to mention.

Wilbur Miller, Jr., is home on furlough from Camp Meade. He expected two weeks release a month ago—which deferred from time to time, and now he's having a limited rest—but there's no place like home.

When you see this day's length will have gained 20 minutes since Christmas. Venus is having a bright shining time in the evening sky, with mercury for a rival—and its all very interesting.

Some of the seed catalogs for 1942 have arrived, and we are attracting considerable attention—with some new varieties of seeds. We live by faith—for here is frozen ground, and a depth of snow, yet we are planning our gardens for another season—trustingly.

We always tell of our unusual callers, and surely had some last Thursday evening when a neighbor came in carrying a bushel basket—covered over and said "I've brought something for you to see," and there was eight little Collie puppies—seven weeks old; and were they cute! Would like to have kept every one, but unable to give them proper care in zero weather—while house bound—only all baby animals seem innocent and dear.

Auto wrecks are always with us, one on Monday morning near home; but people will go out on icy roads and drive as fast as they please; and the high knobs on the hills are not reduced after more than a hundred years of travel. There is still some work to be done.

UNIONTOWN.

All those who are interested in the Red Cross Home Nursing Course are to contact Mrs. Harold Smelser of Uniontown for enrollment as soon as possible. The only expense will be a fee of 75 cents for text book. The place of meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Algot Flygare.

The following persons were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Feeser, on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Million, daughter, Betty, of Bachman's Valley; Misses Evelyn Crouse and Pauline Fritz.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Heltibridge, of Hagerstown, spent the week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Heltibridge.

Mr. Samuel Lawson had the misfortune to have his hand crushed while at work last week. At present he is in a Philadelphia hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard West and infant son, Howard Barton, returned to their home in Baltimore, on Saturday after having spent three weeks at Mrs. West's home here.

Mrs. B. L. Cookson, Mrs. Clarence Lockard and Mrs. Harry Haines attended the Homemakers' Club at the home of Mrs. E. D. Peters, near Union Bridge, on Tuesday.

Dr. Harry Baughman and son Peter, Gettysburg, Pa., paid a birthday call on his mother, Wednesday morning.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren enjoyed a day of quilting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. P. Englar.

Mr. and Mrs. Snader Devilbiss, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smelser, Miss Mary Lee Smelser, Clinton Talbert and Harold Smelser, Jr., were entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Crawford, Westminster.

Mrs. Guy Cookson, Sr., Mrs. B. L. Cookson, Mrs. W. P. Englar and Mrs. J. Walter Speicher were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wolfe, on Monday evening.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized in the New Windsor Methodist Church, on Saturday, Jan. 10, when Rev. Ledford, pastor of the church, married Miss Elizabeth Griffith, of Phoenix, Md., and Mr. Russell E. Pearson, of Winfield, Kansas.

Mrs. Philip Buckley Snader played Mendelssohn wedding march and O Promise Me by DeKoren. The sister of the bride, Miss Roberta Griffith and Mr. Russell W. Turner, of Baldwin, Md., stood with the bride and groom.

After a wedding dinner and an informal reception by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson left for their home in Kansas.

Mrs. W. Cora Stouffer entertained the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church at her home on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Engler, Mrs. Daisy Newcomer, and Mrs. Wilbur Fleming all attended a class social at Meadow Branch Church of the Brethren on Wednesday evening, near Westminster, Md.

MANCHESTER.

Rev. John S. Hollenbach, Manchester, was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Warner, Thursday at Lineboro.

Mrs. Thomas Sargusa was a caller at the reformed parsonage Manchester. Lazarus congregation, Lineboro, and St. Mark's congregation, Snydersburg, of the Manchester Evangelical and Reformed Charge paid their 1941 Benevolence budgets in full LITTLESTOWN.

Dr. L. L. Potter, Littlestown, was elected president of the Adams Co. Medical Society for 1942 at the annual meeting of the society held in the board room of the Annie M. Warner Hospital.

Miss Ella Biehl, W. King St., was removed in the community ambulance to the Hanover General Hospital on Wednesday. Some of the women of the town met in the basement of the P. O. S. of A. Hall and cut 100 baby shirts for the Red Cross. The shirts were taken by the women to their home for sewing.

The home defense signal committee decided to have another test signal some night this week. The bells which will be used will be the fire bell and the bells at St. John, St. Paul and the Catholic Churches. The purpose of the test is to find out if the system of ringing the bells will be effective in awakening the citizens of an approaching air raid.

Mrs. Esta Reindollar, Lombard St, was removed in the ambulance to the Hanover General Hospital, Friday.

The Littlestown Ministerial Association was host to the Adams County Ministerium at the bi-monthly meeting on Monday in St. Paul Lutheran Church. The business session started at 11 A. M., and was in charge of the president, the Rev. Lester M. Utz, York Spring. After the session the ministers and guests assembled at Schotties Hotel, where a banquet was served.

The Windsor Shoe basketball team turned in three victories. First Windsor 77, Marlow Cagers, of York 26. The girls turned back a Gettysburg girls team 27-12; the reserve game Littlestown 18, Gettysburg 14.

Esther Krout, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Krout, suffered a fracture of the left elbow in a fall while skating, and James Stonesifer was treated after he severed a finger on his left hand.

Mrs. Wesley Humbert, at whose home a fire occurred on Sunday morning left Monday to visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Yelton, Cumberland. Mrs. Humbert will remain there until her home is repaired.

One birth and three deaths during the month of December is reported by Samuel Renner.

Mrs. Sterling Bixler, who was seriously injured in an industrial accident at the Jackson Shoe Co., on December 29 was taken in the community ambulance from the Hanover General Hospital to the Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore, Tuesday morning. Mrs. Bixler who suffered the loss of her scalp and a number of other injuries as a result of falling into a speeding pulley has been a patient at the Hanover Hospital since the accident.

Miss Ella Biehl, was discharged from the Hospital. Her sister, Florence remains a patient. Both are improving, and J. Ray Reindollar was returned to her home, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Snyder, Baltimore, were callers Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Selby. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clutz, visited their daughter, Mrs. Wade Brown and son, at Hanover Hospital.

WOODBINE.

We are very grateful that the mercury has risen a few degrees, but we have to be prepared for any temperature and just wish we could be as fortunate as Mrs. George Donhauser, who is visiting in St. Petersburg, Florida which is her annual winter custom and writes how much she is enjoying the warm sunshine and bathing.

This community has been saddened the past week by the passing to the Great Beyond, two local, veteran school teachers of Carroll County. Mrs. Cordy Griffith, Gaither, and J. Keller Smith, of Mt. Airy. Every citizen here, who attended Mt. Airy High School, while he was principal remembers him for his high ideals and sterling character. His sternness in adhering to those ideals were sometimes the cause of many little jokes played on him, which no longer seem funny, now that those boys and girls have grown to maturity and fully appreciate his fine qualities.

This correspondent received a letter from a friend at Houghton Lake, Michigan, Mrs. Lela B. Stahl last week, which was greatly enjoyed. It was like taking a trip to the northern state, which I would like to do only prefer going in summer time as she reported a snow storm was raging but glad to know she was warm, well and keeping faith concerning the great problems at hand.

In reading the Feesersburg column last week, the item about the Sexton of Mt. Union Church recalled to G. H. Baker, a story he was told, long ago concerning the late Albert Koons, during his sextonship. As the story goes, some boy placed a grandfather's clock in front of the altar in such a manner as to resemble a coffin. When the sexton entered about twilight (no electric lights in those days) to prepare for an evening service, he glimpsed the object, thinking it was a coffin and very much frightened, he made a hasty retreat. The pranksters were caught and duly punished.

The Rev. and Mrs. Karl Luther Mumford entertained Lutheran Aid Society at the parsonage last Tuesday afternoon. The attendance was less than usual—so many ladies couldn't get their cars started. The usual business routine was carried out, the president presiding. More money was voted to be given in answer to the Red Cross call. Mrs. William Pickett had a very interesting program arranged. The hostess served refreshments of cookies, root beer and grape juice. Next place of meeting will be announced later.

Two more local boys have been called to service, Ralph Condon and George Wolfe.

Wins by Millionth Chance In Fall From High Bridge

NEW YORK. — Charles Kirchmann, 46 years old, cashed in on a million-to-one bet and the payoff was his life.

Painting from a scaffold dangling 100 feet in the air from Brooklyn's Williamsburg bridge, he took a casual step and slipped off into space. Plummeting downward at terrific speed, his blindly flailing arms closed around a pipe encasing bridge cables.

Then electrician George Horst climbed down close to him and bound his wrists to the pipe. By that time policemen arrived and pulled him to safety with a rope.

Cannon Weighing Ton Brings Thieves $29.40

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—The city still has one of its two naval cannon from the famous old frigate Constitution—but not without a bit of detective work. The other 2,400-pound piece was stolen three months ago.

Police received a report two men had taken the remaining cannon from city property and hauled it away on a tractor-trailer. A witness gave them the license number of the vehicle.

Locating the truck and its operators, the patrolmen said the pair admitted selling the cannon to a junk dealer for $29.40.

MARRIED

BROWN—WORKINGER

Lieut. Frank L. Brown, Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. Frank L. Brown, of Milford, O., and Miss Loyette Workinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virmer Workinger, of Columbus, Ohio, were married Friday, Jan. 9th., in the chapel of Selfridge Field, Mich., by the groom's father, Lieut. Brown came to Taneytown quite frequently to visit his grandmother, the late Mrs. Lavina Fringer.

The couple motored to Maryland, and while Lieut. Brown is attending the Chemical Warfare School, at Aberdeen, for four weeks, Mrs. Brown will be the guest of Miss Mae Sanders, Taneytown. In February they will return to Selfridge Field where the groom is stationed as a First Lieutenant in Air Corps administration.

MRS. MARY E. J. STOVER

Mrs. MARY E. J. Stover, widow of the late Cornelius Stover, died at her home in Taneytown, Wednesday, January 14, 1942, at 12:35 P. M., after an illness of one year.

Mrs. Stover was aged 87 years, 3 months and 21 days, and was a daughter of the late Emanuel and Sarah Susanna (Jacobs) Overholzer. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, for 71 years, and was also a member of the Home Department of the Sunday School.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Vernon Crouse, Taneytown, Md., with whom she made her home; Mrs. Charles Campbell, Westminster, Md., and J. Samuel Stover, Taneytown, Md.; 14 grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Sarah A. Albaugh, Taneytown, Md.; Mrs. George W. Milne, McMinnville, Oregon; Mrs. John P. Eyer, of Ladiesburg; Mrs. Frank Crouse, Taneytown; Mrs. Jacob Fringer, York, Pa.; George C. Overholzer, Taneytown; Samuel M. Overholzer, New Midway; Jeremiah D. Overholzer, Taneytown; John J. Overholzer, of San Francisco, Calif. Her son, the late William J. Stover, preceded her in death, September 27, 1941. Her husband preceded her in death 25 years ago.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, January 17, meeting at the late residence at 2 o'clock, with further services in Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, by her pastor, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe and interment will be in the Lutheran cemetery. Friends may call at the late residence from 12 o'clock noon on Friday until the hour of services on Saturday.

J. KELLER SMITH

J. Keller Smith, former principal of the Mt. Airy and Taneytown High Schools, died Friday morning at 9:40 o'clock at the Frederick City Hospital, after an illness of several weeks. He was aged 54 years, 10 months and 21 days.

Mr. Smith, who resided at Mt. Airy, was forced to retire from the school system ten years ago because of ill health but at the time of his death still occupied a position on the Carroll County Board of Education.

Since his retirement he had served for about five years as chairman of the Carroll County Welfare Board and had been in the insurance business. He also was an active member of the Calvary Methodist Church at Mt. Airy.

He was a son of the late I. Statton and Virginia Keller Smith, of Washington County. Besides his wife, Mrs. Lucy Smith, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Virginia Murphy, Washington; and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Dean, near Middletown.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the late residence with services at the Calvary Methodist Church, Mt. Airy. The pastor, Rev. Ralph M. Sharpe, officiated. Pallbearers were: Harry Bellison, Frank Conaway, Lindsay Browning, Dewey Zimmerman, Pearce Bowlus and Raymond Hyson.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

Today 21 years ago we buried our dear old mother, Mrs. Mary B. Hahn Birely. Her loving son and wife, ANNA E. STAMBAUGH BIRELY AND FAMILY.

Canadian Life Revised by War

Old Industries Transformed, New Ones Created; Half Million in Uniform.

OTTAWA. — Two years of war have altered drastically the pattern of Canadian life.

Canada declared war on Germany in September, 1939.

Whole industries have been transformed to suit the purposes of war. New industries have been created. Production of strategic raw materials has been expanded to record heights.

Half a million Canadians have put on uniforms; more than 100,000 are serving overseas. Old taxes have been jacked up; new taxes have been added; $1,380,000,000 has been borrowed from the public.

The government's war expenditures are at the rate of $2,000,000,000 a year—almost 40 per cent of the national income. Canadians in the current fiscal year will have to give up, directly or indirectly, about 50 cents of every dollar earned.

The government's policy is pay-as-you-go. Between 73 and 79 per cent of federal expenditures in the current fiscal year are expected to come out of revenue.

Taxes Boosted.

As a result, many Canadians in the middle-income brackets will be paying from 6 to 10 times as much income tax as in 1939. In addition, there are new taxes on gasoline, travel fares, theater admissions and the like, and sharp increases in the taxes on automobiles, radios, cameras, phonographs, liquor, tobacco, sugar, beer, wine, cosmetics and other "luxuries."

Canada's navy of 13 ships and 3,600 men with which it entered the war has grown to 200 vessels and nearly 25,000 men. The active army, then 4,500 men, today consists of 220,000 volunteers, all available for service.

In the Royal Canadian air force are 55,000 volunteers, many already serving overseas, the others at the 65 schools and more than 100 air fields of the British commonwealth air training plan.

In manpower the RCAF has increased 12-fold and they are being trained faster than planes can be built for them. About 600 experienced United States pilots are among the instructors. Some 10 per cent of the RCAF personnel consists of United States citizens. Student air men also are in training from Australia, New Zealand and other parts of the empire.

Steel Output Jumps.

Patrolling the sea-lanes of the North Atlantic, the navy had lost some 400 men up to mid-summer. The RCAF listed around 300 killed or missing. The army, whose overseas units have been stationed most of the time in Iceland or England, listed 56 killed; 84 missing, 214 died and 150 wounded up to June 20.

Canada's industrial expansion has been as phenomenal as any phase of her war effort. Output of alloy steel has jumped 500 per cent since the start of the war; aggregate steel production has been almost doubled. Automobile factories have delivered more than 120,000 motor vehicles.

Aircraft production, in its infancy when the war began, has been stepped up to 180 planes monthly. Shipyards employing more than 20,000 workers, compared to 1,500, are rushing construction of freighters, mine-sweepers, corvettes, auxiliary cruisers and hundreds of smaller craft.

Aluminum production has reached the point where Canada could provide metal for 50,000 planes a year. In 1938 Canada exported $24,000,000 worth of aluminum to 59 countries. In a two-month period this year the Aluminum Company of Canada received orders from the United States alone aggregating $126,000,000.

Find Churchill Eligible To Membership in S.A.R.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The general-organizational committee of Syracuse chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, has determined that Winston Churchill, British war premier, is eligible for membership in the organization through three ancestors who served against England in the war that freed the American colonies.

The ancestors were Sgt. Samuel Jerome, Maj. Lebbeus Ball and Pvt. Reuben Murray. Members of the Jerome family settled at Pompey, Onondaga county, after the Revolution and the prime minister's mother was Jennie Jerome. Members of the Jerome family, cousins of Mr. Churchill, are still numerous in the Pompey section.

Mansion of Revolution May Become State Park

HARRISBURG, PA.—Pottsgrove, Colonial mansion at Norristown, which extended hospitality to Washington during the Valley Forge winter of the Revolution, may become a state park.

Martha Washington was a guest at the historic mansion noted for its size and the beauty of its hand-carved wainscoting, when she undertook the journey north from Virginia to be near her husband.

"What are your wife's most expensive clothes?" "A coat of tan. First, she pays to get it on and then she pays to get it off."

IT'S PURE-EE-NA

Forty odd years ago, a young man with a bent towards scientific livestock feeding, then a rather new-fangled idea, became interested in the commercially mixed feed business. His venture proved successful and is today commonly referred to as Purina Mills. The young man's name was Wm. H. Danforth, now Chairman of the Board of that Company.

And in "Purina," Mr. Danforth gave to farming America a word that probably today is one of the most pronounced in our language. Very likely no one knows how many ways Purina is mispronounced, but there is only one correct way of saying it.

The name Purina, which is part of the name given to feeds and supplements distributed by our local Checkered-board dealer comes from the common word "pure". And the correct pronunciation is "pure-ee-na". That's the way it is pronounced in the home offices and at the experimental farm and in the laboratories of the Company. That's the way the man who coined it says it.

The most common mispronunciation is "pure-eye-na". Other garbled editions are "pur-ee-na", "pa-roo-na", and even "proo-na". But there is only one right way, and that is "pure-ee-na," says our local Checkered-board dealer.

BROOD SOWS GET BATHS AT EXPERIMENTAL FARM

At the Purina Experimental Farm, Gray Summit, Missouri, they actually give their brood sows baths with warm water and soap. But to get one, a sower must show promise of delivering a litter of pigs within twenty-four hours.

This Farm finds that it pays! By washing the prospective mother sow, they remove the germs and worm eggs that are so often found on sow teats and udders—dangerous to the delicate systems of newborn pigs.

Along with giving prospective mother sows baths, this Farm practices thorough disinfection. Both brood sows and farrowing quarters are sprayed with a 1% solution of Purina Cre-so-fec before baby pigs arrive.

Snaky and Buggy, Too, Is This Job But She Loves It

Women Has Many Duties As Husband's Assistant At Saguaro Monument.

TUCSON, ARIZ.—She stuffs newspapers under the screen doors to keep out scorpions; feeds under-nourished Gila monsters; operates a short-wave radio transmitter; helps answer the questions of 20,000 visitors on the desert without electricity, telephone or a bathroom. Most women wouldn't care for such a life but Mrs. Don W. Egermayer, wife of the custodian of Saguaro National monument in Arizona, loves it. As Honorary Custodian Without Pay she shares a husband's duties and takes over completely when he is away on inspection trips or fighting forest fires.

It is no job for a woman who is afraid to stay alone for several days and nights at a stretch, or who goes all a-flutter at the thought of insects and reptiles. The monument, 17 miles east of Tucson, fairly teems with wild life, and Uncle Sam says none of it can be harmed. If a rattlesnake shows up it is captured and transported elsewhere in the protected area.

The honorary custodian really has her hands full when her husband is away. Before leaving he makes sure that she has plenty of groceries and supplies, which must be brought from Tucson, and water, which is hauled 13 miles. She doesn't have time to get lonesome, and tries not to worry about him. As for being afraid at night, she remarks: "I just take Poky (their chow dog) and my gun and go to bed."

When alone at the little adobe headquarters she communicates with forest rangers by radio, watches for the outbreak of fires in the distant hills during lightning storms, and answers the questions of a steady stream of visitors.

Almost every sightseer asks: "Where is the monument?" They seem to expect to see a huge stone structure somewhere in the 63,284 acres of desert land. But in the government's book a national monument is an area set aside for the preservation of natural wonders and wild life, in this case a fine stand of caguaro, or giant cactus.

You'd think they might develop hobbies apart from their work, but on Mondays, their day off, you are apt to find them out taking color photographs of desert scenes or ministering to some wild creature. Mrs. Egermayer once fed eggs to a gaunt, hungry Gila monster until it was able to get along by itself.

Ox Cart Days to Flying Era Spanned at Age 95

BIG SPRING, TEXAS. — Mother Zinn's 95 years have spanned almost every form of transportation known to man.

Formally known as Mrs. R. B. Zinn, but beloved by hundreds in this community as "Mother Zinn," the pioneer Texas settler recently celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday. For celebration she took her first airplane trip. The air was rough and Dr. P. W. Malone, who piloted her in his airplane, asked if the weather made her uncomfortable. "I should say not," she said. "It's not rougher than lots of country roads."

As a small girl, "Mother Zinn" rode in an ox cart, almost the most primitive form of transportation known. She came to Big Spring with her husband in 1883.

"I took my first ox cart ride when I was a girl of 16," she remarked on her birthday. "We made a trip from Cass to Pettus counties in 1864 during the Civil war." After the airplane trip, the Methodist church gave her a reception. "They said a lot of nice things about me," she said. "And I was thrilled. Goodness, I don't feel a day over 50."

Churchill Gets New Post, Warden of Cinque Ports

LONDON.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill has been appointed lord warden of the cinque ports, but will not be installed or take up residence at Walmer castle until after the war. He succeeds the late earl of Willingdon.

The post, an honorary one, carries no salary, and no uniform is provided. It might well be regarded as a liability, as the holder must pay rates on the official residence. The original cinque ports are Hastings, Sandwich, Dover, Romney and Hythe. In the old days they were entrusted with the defense of Britain's shores and the protection of passage to the continent. After the Norman conquest, Winchelsea and Rye were added but retained the title of "the two ancient towns."

Girl Named Worker Is Heiress to $1,000,000

DETROIT.—Blonde Virginia Hansen, an attractive office worker, nursed a cold and planned what she would do with a $1,000,000 inheritance from her father's estate. She became rich overnight when a judge at Los Angeles, Calif., awarded her sole ownership in the Bear Film company after ruling that her father wanted her to inherit it, although her mother had been estranged from him.

Colds Continue a Very Serious Poultry Problem

Exact Cause of Disease Remains Unsolved.

Long a serious problem to poultrymen, the common cold continues to be one of his worst enemies.

"No one has discovered just what causes colds in poultry," reports R. E. Smith, head of the Sanitation Department of the Ralston Purina Company. "But it is well known that the disease often develops as a result of exposure to dampness, cold, drafts, and conditions brought about by crowding and poor ventilation."

Smith suggests the following eight point sanitation program as a safeguard against costly losses from colds:

1. Eliminate drafts, dampness and crowding.
2. Scrub fountains daily with a stiff brush and disinfect them with Chlorox solution.
3. If necessary, give the birds a mild flush.
4. Clean the poultry house thoroughly and disinfect with a solution of Cre-so-fec.
5. Supply plenty of clean litter.
6. If colds occur, remove sick birds immediately. Burn those which die.
7. At the first observance of colds, close the house and dust the birds with Chloroxa Powder until they sneeze frequently. Repeat with light dustings daily until the birds show improvement.
8. Keep the flock on full feed. If feed consumption drops, feed Layena checkers at night. To further increase feed consumption, it may be advisable to add an appetizer such as Chek-R-Ton to the laying mash.

ERROR'S NOTE: Chloroxa Cre-so-fec and Chek-R-Ton are handled by our local Purina distributor for flock owners to help control the colds that may develop in their chickens. He can supply complete directions for the use of all three products.

50 Years Ago (NEW WINDSOR)

Who remember the Dorsey boys of Unionville with their large pack of hunting dogs that used to pass through town? Swarthy and handsomely dressed in somber black hunting coats and peaked caps, setting their coal-black horses like centaurs with long hunting horns slung over their shoulders. They created a sensation as they paraded through the principal streets, one ahead of their pack ranging from curb to curb in perfect formation under absolute control and to the sound of their heels. Once through town the hounds catching a scent, would break ranks and take to the open fields, their bell-like baying floating back to us in the distance. The riders, sound in their horns would go into a dead run and lifting their trained horses' heads would roar over the fences like birds and quickly vanish from sight leaving us all a thrill.

How many remember Simon, the tinner, busy in his little shop making our tin dippers, dishpans and milk buckets out of his shined metal? In imagination I can still hear the snip, snip of his large shears as he cut and shaped his forms. Also who remembers Henry the potter man who stood by his turn table and with his deft hands fashioned from clay all kind of "bots" as he called them? Our milk pots, flower pots, jugs and 1 gallon, 10 gallon containers for pickles, chow chow and sauerkraut all came from him in the old days.

Do you remember the old town pump with its crystal cold water that stood at the corner next to Dr. Buffington's office? Many a refreshing drink I took there after a hot and dusty walk into town and the farmers all stopped there to water their thirsty horses. And how they loved this spot—you could see them prick up their ears and pull with fresh energy when still a block away often neighing their pleasure at the treat in store. Even the butterflies and bees gathered at the gutter to sip from the little flow of waste water that trickled to the middle of the dusty street. Here and there could be seen children on the sidewalk swinging their shining peals wending their way to this mecca, and mothers too would come with a larger bucket and gathering their long skirts and many petticoats lightly around them would step precariously from stepping stone as they crossed the street thus avoiding the dust or mud. As the stones were worn and rounded from the friction of wagon wheels, many casualties to their dignity at least were recorded.

And who remembers the convicts from the county seat busy (?) breaking large stones into smaller ones in this same muddy street. They were indeed a rough and tough looking lot and we boys needed no urging to keep our distance.

How many remember the old Doctor's office under the spreading grape vines? As youngsters we used to skedaddle quickly past avoiding looking that way for this was indeed a place of horrors and wild horses could not have dragged us in that yard. It was freely circulated among us that therein were at least two skeletons shining white and luminous in a remote corner. Some of the boys averred they had seen them from across the street when the curtains which were usually drawn were raised and the sun shone through and far worse it was rumored among us that the Dr. had packed in alcohol in barrels all the legs, arms and fingers that he had cut out of wounded soldiers in the war. Strange how such rumors got started for he was a brave self-sacrificing army surgeon all through the war and afterwards devoted his life to alleviating distress. G. E. W.

TRIBUTE TO THE FLAG

Remember as you look at your flag, which is the symbol of your nation, that it is red because of human sacrifice, that it has blue in it because some were true—true blue—that it has white in it because some wove into it the white shining purity of their lives. And the stars are there because of the great hope in the hearts of many of a greater, holier, nobler America.

The Stars and Stripes is the symbol of our nation's glory. It came into being a long time ago. Those who made it and lived for it and died for it are among our nation's greatest. They have passed into the silence of history, but by their devotion and courage and the splendor of their lives they ask you to be the flagmakers of tomorrow, making its red a little deeper by your sacrifice, its blue a little more like the blue of heaven by your loyalty, its whiteness more like the purity of the snow by your purity of life, its stars a little brighter by your devotion of their highest hopes.

Its Stars and Stripes are your dreams and your labors. They can be bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith because you have made so out of your heart. For you are the makers of the flag, the living symbol of your nation. So live and work that it will never fly over injustice, tyranny, oppression, but ever and always over righteousness, over people made happy by kindness and goodness.

"One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, one Nation, evermore!"—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Lungfish Can Live Out Of Water Many Months

A common everyday fish may have an air sac in its body, but it is not used for breathing. Fish breathe with gills. In other words, oxygen is taken from the water as it passes through the gills. The chief purpose of the air sac is to keep the fish in balance, so it won't fall over when it swims about. In the Lake Victoria region of Africa, also in some other parts, there are fish which have turned the air sac into a lung. It serves to take oxygen from the air. An African lungfish (also called a mudfish) is from two to three feet long and has a weight of six or seven pounds. When the river in which it swims dries up, it goes into the mud at the bottom and curls up. The mud dries around it. Balls of mud taken from such river beds can be shipped thousands of miles without death coming to the fish inside. When an aquarium receives such a mud ball, a man may crack it open a bit before it is dropped in a tank of water. The mud melts away in the water, and from it comes a fish more or less like an eel. It uncurls, but seems rather sleepy. In an hour or so, it swims about in a lively way. Mudfish of much the same kind are found in certain river swamps of South America. The Australian "Barramunda" is another relative of the African lungfish.

Gaining Maximum Yield From Peas, Beans, Lupins

Peas, beans and lupins belong to a family of plants known botanically as legumes. They have the unusual attribute of taking nitrogen from the air and secreting it in the roots in little bumps easily seen when the plant is pulled up. These are usually referred to as nodules. A special form of bacteria performs the work for the legumes of taking the nitrogen from the air. In some soils these bacteria are absent or deficient and it is necessary to inoculate it with a culture containing it. To accomplish this the seed is treated before sowing. To gain the maximum yield from peas, beans and other legumes, particularly in large plantings, the seed may be inoculated with nitrogen culture now commercially available and sold by all seed houses, the cans containing complete direction for its use. The various legumes require different cultures, clovers and alfalfa being legumes as well as peas and beans. It would be an interesting experiment for the home gardener to plant a row of inoculated peas and beans and another row which has not had the nitrogen inoculation and note the difference in the vigor and growth of the two rows.

Tree Rings

Dr. Andrew Ellicott Douglass, University of Arizona astronomer, is the founder of the Twentieth century science of "dendrochronology"—telling time (in years) by means of tree rings. The thickness of the annual growth rings in trees is proportional to the year's rainfall. Thus the rings fall in patterns corresponding to the varying rainfall supplies during the life span of the tree. By matching patterns from logs of recent date to successively older and older specimens, Dr. Douglass carried a continuous record back several hundred years. Examining logs in the ruins of Indian pueblos built before Columbus, he was able to tell the exact year when the wood was cut. Recently Dr. Douglass announced that his rainfall calendar had been carried back to the lifetime of Christ, specifically to the year 11 A. D.

Hispanic Society

The Hispanic Society of America is an international organization, with a membership limited to 100 active and 300 corresponding members, which include specialists and scholars of all countries who have become distinguished in the Hispanic field. The deed of foundation provides for the establishment, in the city of New York, of a public library and museum designed to be a link between the English, Spanish and Portuguese-speaking peoples. It provides also for the advancement of the study of the Spanish and Portuguese languages, literature, art and history and the study of the countries wherein Spanish and Portuguese are or have been spoken languages.

Woolens, Worsted

The consumer should remember that large or small percentages of other fibers—rayon, cotton, silk—have been added to wool fabrics in the past years. Often these combination fabrics, as "silk-and-wool" dress materials, are beautiful and with unusual possibilities in taking colors and dyes. One other point on which every buyer should be alert, is the difference between "woolen" and "worsted." Woolens are soft, fluffy, spongy, and their wearing qualities depend on the twist of the yarn and the weave of the material. Worsteds are more wiry and free from nap, and provide excellent wear, although they tend to get shiny after continued use.

SHORT STORY

Her First Sale

By KARL GRAYSON
(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

ADELINE KIRBY, the famous short story writer, told me this story one day at a Writer's Guild luncheon. "In a way," she began, smiling, "I don't blame the beginner writers for feeling that the editors to whom they submit their manuscripts are without feeling or pity. I can understand how they feel and what provokes their skepticism. I was that way myself. And then something happened that changed my opinion of editors. I guess perhaps I made it happen. Anyway, I found out they were quite human. "I started in early, began submitting stories before I'd finished high school. You see, I always had the urge to write. And because no one had much faith in my ability, I determined at an early age to prove to everyone they were wrong and I was right. "And so when I was fourteen I pecked off my first story on an old broken down typewriter and shipped it off. Of course it came back, and the shock of that first rejection was quite a blow. But I survived. I tucked the manuscript away in an old trunk (the trunk's filled to overflowing now) and began another story. This, too, came back. And so did the next and the next. It was pretty discouraging business and pretty disheartening, especially when the folks smiled and shook their heads sympathetically, and little brother Jerry jeered quite openly. "After high school, at Smith, I continued to write on the average of two stories a month. They were returned without fail, and with never a word of encouragement. I began to think of editors as grim-visaged, ugly looking people, whose lives were dedicated to the sole purpose of rejecting unknown writers' manuscripts, and in doing which they took a fenshish delight. "Up until my junior year at college I had been going about the business in rather a hit or miss manner, writing whatever type of story that seemed best suited to my mood, and shooting it off to the magazine that paid the highest rates. But that same year I attended a lecture given by one of our foremost writers. This writer, much to my surprise, had undergone a period of apprenticeship filled with as many trials and discouragements as my own. It had occurred to him after awhile, he said, to study the types of stories that certain magazines published and to attempt to model his own stuff after their particular formula. "This seemed to me like a wholly sensible thing to do. I decided to adopt the plan myself, and forthwith selected a half dozen of our leading magazines in which I would like to see my work. I bought them regularly and studied them diligently. Presently I had boiled the half dozen down to two, one of which became my real aim. It was called Morton's Magazine. Thereafter I modeled and designed every new story for Morton's. And I continued to do so for two years. But the results were the same. The old phobia about the inhumanity of editors began to assert itself again. It just didn't seem possible to me that any man or woman with human blood in his veins could be heartless enough to continue rejecting my yarns, especially when some of those yarns were as good if not better than stories they published every week. Or so I thought. "At any rate, graduation came and I was still an unknown writer without a single sale to my credit. I spent that summer at home and in the fall persuaded my family to let me live in New York for a year, in the hopes of finding a job. My real purpose, of course, was to call on the editor of Morton's Magazine, and a few others, and find out for myself if they were as inhuman and pitiless as I thought. Also to ask why my stories weren't suited to their darned old publications. "The editor of Morton's Magazine, I learned, was named Sam Jones, which to me wasn't a very romantic sounding combination of words, and served to substantiate my suspicions before I even saw the gentleman. "It wasn't so easy getting into see Mr. Jones. He was, it appeared, a very busy man, and besides that he employed a whole staff of people whose jobs were to talk with and console would-be writers. But being a woman and a very persistent woman I was eventually ushered into Mr. Jones' office. "Sight of him was quite a shock, quite a come down, I might add. He was a large man, immaculately attired and possessed a very pleasant face and a gentle voice. He greeted me courteously. Actually, "Miss Kirby," he said, as if running through the category of names in his mind. "Ah, yes, I remember. You've sent us any number of stories, Miss Kirby, all of which, I regret to say, were found unsuitable to our publication. I'm sorry. "So am I," I said. "Tell me, Mr. Jones," I asked, voicing the grievance of most would-be writers, "do you actually read my stuff?" "Why, of course. We read all the manuscripts—" "Will you please read this one, then?" I thrust a manuscript toward him with a sort of vehemence that fairly made him gasp. "Of course," he said. "In the regular course of things your story—" "Thank you," I rose. "I'll be back next week to get your reaction." "That," said Mr. Jones, "won't be necessary. If the story is found unsuitable, it will be returned to you." "If you don't mind," I said, "I'll be back next week." And I went out. "In a week I was back. The story hadn't been returned, and I was living in the hopes that by my brusqueness I had made an impression on Mr. Jones. Impressions, I thought, helped sell stories. Mr. Jones' secretary declared the great man was busy and was on the point of telling me to go home, when Sam himself came through his office door and almost bumped into me. I planted myself in front of him. "Fancy!" I said. "You remember me, of course?" "Mr. Jones nodded. "Of course," he smiled. "And I regret to say that your story was found—" "Are you sure you read it?" I asked him almost savagely. "Indeed I read it. I—" "And you read those little poems at the beginning of each chapter?" I interrupted again. "The little poems, too," he agreed. "But even the little poems—" "Ha!" I thrust forward my jaw belligerently. "I knew it! I knew you weren't reading my stuff, Mr. Jones, there were no little poems at the beginning of each chapter. Now what do you think of that?" "Mr. Jones took a nervous look around. The room was full of people, all of whom seemed to have stopped whatever they were doing to listen. Suddenly he looked down at me. "Follow me," he said, and turned back into his office. "I followed him, actually trembling because of the horrible thing I'd done. Mr. Jones stood near his desk. He looked at me and I looked at him, and suddenly he began to laugh. He laughed till the tears rolled down his cheeks and he was forced to sit from weakness. "That," he said, "was about the smartest thing I've ever run up against. Miss Kirby, I apologize." "Yes, Mr. Jones apologized for telling me he'd read the story. I remained with him for more than an hour. He explained that they'd received so many stories from me and all of them had been so outstandingly poor, that two years ago they'd stopped reading them. He asked me if I blamed them, I said, no, I didn't but would he read this new yarn? He would and he did and he bought it. And that's how I got my first story published and discovered that editors were human. There's a moral to this story, which is this: If you want to write, make a business of it, study your markets and don't submit anything till you're pretty sure of your ground."

He looked at me and I looked at him and suddenly he began to laugh.

Robin Goes Aristocratic As Pet of the Household

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—Mrs. Fred Hoffman was playing golf recently and found a robin that had blown out of its nest during a rainstorm. She took the bird home and fed it hard-boiled eggs. When the bird had recovered, Mrs. Hoffman put it in a tree so that it could fly away. The bird, which has been named Pete, refused to leave, hopping back to Mrs. Hoffman's door. Pete's a regular boarder at the Hoffman home now and prefers hamburger, although the bird will eat a worm or bug caught by the neighborhood children. Pete refuses to have anything to do with other robins.

Fever From Milk Infects Some 12,000,000 People

Some 12,000,000 people in the U. S. are infected with the germs of a strange, lingering, milk-borne disease called undulant fever (brucellosis). So wrote Health Officer Harold Jerome Harris of Westport, N. Y. Undulant fever may smolder for years, suddenly flare up into a complex disease resembling typhoid, malaria or tuberculosis. It is caused by any of three germs of the group Brucella (named after Sir David Bruce, who discovered the strain in 1886). Brucellae infect cattle, sheep, goats and pigs, cause a disease known as contagious abortion. Between 11 and 20 per cent of all U. S. cattle are infected, causing a yearly loss to farmers of some $80,000,000. The disease is transmitted to man through milk, butter, cheese, and through handling of infected carcasses; it is not passed from one person to another. Anyone who lives in the country and drinks unpasteurized milk from an infected cow, or pours a spot of tainted cream in his coffee, is liable to come down with a low fever and vague pains. He may feel fine every morning, but in the afternoon his temperature soars, and he gradually loses strength.

Leading Dairymen Follow a Program of Cycle Feeding

Maximum Results Depend On a Carefully Planned Feeding System.

To be successful, a dairyman must give careful attention to the manner in which he feeds during the four stages of a cow's life! These four stages include the period of pregnancy when the calf embryo is developing; the calf's first four months starting period; the growing stage when the young heifer passes from calfhood to cowhood; and the productive years when the mature cow returns possible profits.

Purina Experimental Farm Dairy Feeding Program

The average dairyman might well profit from the experience with the dairy herd at the Purina Experimental Farm, Gray Summit, Mo., where the following feeding program is followed during the four periods of each cow's life. Two months before each cow freshens, even though she may be giving 30 to 40 pounds of milk, she is dried off abruptly. During those two months she is fed a ration of a bulky carbohydrate nature, high in minerals and vitamins. This helps build the calf she is carrying, and adds approximately 100 pounds to her own body weight. Dry and freshening Cow Chow or a mixture of half ground oats and half Bulky Las with good quality mixed hay are recommended during this period.

After freshening, each cow is fed this same bulky ration for several weeks and then gradually changed to a milking ration built to promote high production. An individual usually reaches peak production in three months.

The amount of milking feed is then regulated to keep her producing near the same high level during the entire lactation period.

By following this method of feeding, coupled with good management, the Purina Experimental Farm herd of rather ordinary grade Holsteins has been built up to a point where last year it averaged 13,341 pounds of milk.

Cost $87.50 to grow a cow at Purina Farm

Replacement stock raised at the Purina Experimental Farm over the last 14 years has cost an average of $87.50 for all feed required to put an individual into the herd as a first calf heifer. These replacements have been averaging better than 9,000 pounds of milk their first year in the herd.

The figures show there's little chance of losing money on a 9,000-pound heifer that cost only $87.50 to produce.

JOHN THE BAPTIST AND JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:1-6, 15-17, 21, 22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.—Luke 3:22.

"A reed shaken with the wind?" No. "A man clothed in soft raiment?" No. "A prophet?" Yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet. For this is he, of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face. . . . Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist." Such was the testimony of Jesus (Matt. 11:7-11) about the man who in our lesson of today bears his testimony concerning Jesus.

I. John: the Preacher of Repentance (vv. 1-3).

The times in which a man lives will often make or break him. If times are dark and difficult most men submit to the burden of the day without protest or effort. But not so with John. The period in which he lived is graphically brought before us as we consider the names of civil and religious leaders mentioned in verses 1 and 2. Tiberius Caesar, the emperor, was virtual dictator, "talented, ambitious, cruel, licentious, infamous, inhuman" (Van Doren). Pilate was the governor of Judea, who later condemned Jesus to the cross. Herod was a seducer and murderer. Annas and Caiaphas shared the infamy into which the priesthood had fallen.

God needed a man with a flaming message of judgment, and He had him ready out in the wilderness, far from decadent Rome and spiritually dead Jerusalem. Upon this man John came the message, a word from God—"Repent"—which stirred the whole countryside. But he had even a greater mission.

II. John—the Forerunner of Jesus (vv. 4-6).

He humbly identifies himself as the voice in the wilderness prophesied by Isaiah. His was the important duty of preparing the way for the coming of the Lord Jesus.

The picture is that of the preparation for the coming of an oriental monarch. When he "was about to make a journey, a servant was sent before him to prepare the highway. Valleys needed to be filled, hills lowered, crooked places made straight, rough ways made smooth. Thus, before men would be ready to receive Christ, moral obstacles must be removed, men must repent of their sins and turn from them" (Erdman).

Isaiah says that "all flesh shall see the salvation of God," something which God has made possible, but which we have not even yet fully carried out. The gospel is universal in its character—for all mankind. This prophetic word will, of course, have its complete fulfillment when the King comes to reign. Then "they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest of them" (Jer. 31:34).

III. John—the Follower of Jesus (vv. 15-17).

The humility of the man, his recognition of true greatness in Christ, his willingness to efface self, is seen in the words of these verses and in such other passages as John 1:29-30, where he directed his disciples to Jesus, whom they followed, and John 3:28-30, where in response to the effort to make him jealous of Jesus because his (John's) disciples followed Him, John replied, "He must increase, but I must decrease." He was glad to be the friend of the Bridegroom who rejoiced when the bridegroom came (John 3:29). He declared himself unworthy to loose the latchet of Christ's shoe (Luke 3:16).

The Christian virtue of humility is evil spoken of by a world of force and hatred, but it is still precious in the sight of God, and the ornament par excellence of Christian character. "Be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud and giveth grace to the humble" (1 Pet. 5:5).

As he put himself in the background, John put Christ forward as the one whose baptism would not be a material element, water, indicating the inward change of repentance, but would be with Holy Ghost fire, cleansing and transforming life.

However, the Christ who comes as a Saviour to the repentant one, comes also as the flaming fire of judgment upon the impenitent. There is wheat and chaff in the world of men, and the fan of Christ will soon separate, the wheat which goes into His eternal garner from the chaff which He will burn with unquenchable fire.

Our God is a God of unfathomable grace, but He is also a God of severest judgment upon those "that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." Read the solemn words of II Thessalonians 1:7-9. It is an awful thing to reject the Saviour, and thus to make Him our Judge.

World's Greatest Dip Gives Some Inside Dope

The two most vulnerable spots for daps are a man's hip pockets and inside coat pockets. Because of this, the Great Dr. Giovanni insists that the best place to carry money and valuables is in the small change pocket in the front of the trousers. To foil some of the dishonest brethren he has invented a pick-pocket-proof pocket which is really two pockets in one, the second pocket being protected by a zipper. Ideal for dinner-check fumbler.

In all of his suits Giovanni has two fairly deep change pockets sewn into the front of his trousers. This makes it difficult for daps to get at the money here because first, he must face you, second, he must unbutton your coat before he can get at the pockets.

Women, Dr. Giovanni insists, are very careless with their handbags. Purse-snatchers can be foiled if a woman carries her bag correctly, however. All she need do is put her wrist through the hand loop of the purse, grasp it by the catch, which automatically twists the strap, and carry the bag close to her side in an upside-down position.

Giovanni has snatched the belongings of the most famous personalities in both this continent and Europe. He has dropped in at Mrs. Marshall Field's to swipe the duke of Marlborough's money and Lord Allington's waistcoat. He has flown from France to provide the laughs at a dinner given by Lady Astor for the now duke of Windsor. At the Hotel du Golf in Deauville he has robbed the maharaja of Rajppla and Prince Farid of Persia and Joe Davies, former ambassador to Russia called him all the way from London to Brussels to go through the pockets of Europe's keenest diplomats.

Powdered Metal Making Its Bow Into Industry

TNT is not the only kind of powder that is useful in the campaign for the defense of democracy.

There is now another that is achieving victories in the preparedness effort and will accomplish even greater ones in the peace time to come. It is powdered metal, which is coming rapidly into extensive use in industry as a material out of which metal objects can be pressed in finished form and in complex shapes, saving a vast amount of work in machining operations.

Apart from its industrial importance, scientists are revealing strange new activities of atoms when metals are reduced to extremely fine powders.

One of the feats of the atoms in tying powdered particles together is known as the "zipper action" in which free surface atomic forces in each of two adjoining metal particles reach out and establish contact across a small gap in space and lock themselves together with the tremendous powers that are inherent in atoms at close range.

In doing so, they pull adjoining atoms on either side into similar close contact so that the atomic powers can become effective, and they, too, become locked. This causes other nearby atoms to lock in a progressive chain reaction like a closing zipper. Powdered-metal technique differs from ordinary metal-working processes.

Grasshoppers 'Act' Like Humans

Someone who threw away a partly filled quart bottle of whisky near Fresno, Calif., is responsible for plunging several thousand of the nearby grasshopper population into the depths of drunkenness.

Carl Hughes, a deputy agricultural commissioner, picked up the bottle in a field near the highway and found it jammed full of grasshoppers, all of them hilariously intoxicated and trying to go places with as little success as a human drunk.

A few who could get out of the "miniature bar" had completely lost their equilibrium and they took a nose dive whenever they tried to spread their wings.

Out they came, one at a time, and wobbled around like sailors on dry land. Sometimes one would fold up with his nose in the dirt, just plain cockeyed drunk, and lay there.

The early arrivals went outside for a breath of air and when they returned for just one more drink, the bottle was seething with hoppers, young and old, and all of them four sheets in the wind and quite content to stay there.

Clematis Climbers

Clematis are among the most handsome of all our climbers for trellis, porch or even fence use. Although the plants have many staunch admirers, there are still gardeners who regard them apprehensively as something lovely to look at—but very difficult to grow. Fortunately this is not the case, and if a few simple requirements are met clematis will twine their graceful way up any trellis or arbor with a profusion of delicate foliage and large or small flowers that will delight any gardener's heart.

Partial shade and well-drained soil that is not too acid are the essentials for success with them. A. C. McLean of Rutgers college of horticulture tells us "They need not be barred from gardens fully exposed to the sun, however, for if a heavy mulch that will keep the roots cool, is applied, good results can be expected."

PROPER FEEDING OF CHICK DURING INCUBATION IS VITAL FACTOR

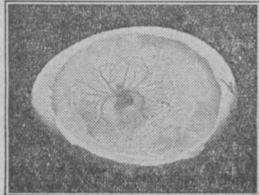

Growing Embryo Must Be Fully Nourished to Develop Into Vigorous Chick.

Feed the chick before it's hatched! That's a part of the modern way of raising baby chicks. Sounds different, doesn't it?

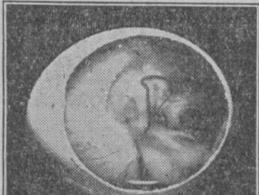

Actually, chicks sold at the hatchery or local feed dealer are not day-old chicks. They are 22 days old. They were 21 days old before they were hatched out of the shell. During the 21 days they are still in the shell, they had to be fed. This is known as embryo-feeding.

Variety and Balances

Think of all the food material there must be in a hatching egg to develop a strong, vigorous chick—one that will

A fertile egg in the fourth day of incubation. Heart, one eye and part of the chick's vertebrae are visible. Improper feeding of the breeding stock causes most deaths at this stage.

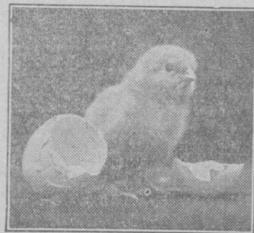

On the eleventh day the outline of the chick's body is distinct. Embryo mortality on this day is caused chiefly by improper breeding.

Here's the chick embryo on the 19th day of incubation. Chick now begins to breathe. Improper feeding of the breeding stock, and faulty incubation cause losses here.

21st day: out of the shell. Still wet and tired after the struggle to escape its 21-day prison.

21st day: wide awake . . . yet a reserve supply of food must be in its body to give it strength. Embryo feeding supplies the nourishment.

get off to a good start. Proteins, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins—all of them must be there to make a bouncing baby chick. From where do all these food materials come? All of them must come from the feed that the hen eats. If there is a shortage of just one essential vitamin in her ration, there is a shortage of that vitamin in the egg she lays. When hatched, an inferior chick results.

When buying baby chicks, the chick raiser must manage to get a look behind the scenes. Questions must be asked. It's very important to learn what ration was fed the breeder flock from which the eggs were obtained. The production record of the flock and whether or not there has been trouble from disease should be looked into also.

Built for Embryo Feeding
Very reliable poultry rations built for producing eggs that will hatch out strong, vigorous chicks . . . embryo-fed chicks if you please . . . are available to local breeder flock owners in the familiar checkerboard bag. These rations were developed at the nationally famous Purina Experimental Farm. While it sounds trite, actually thousands of eggs were hatched in testing out these rations.

In these rations are Pura-e-tene, the vitamin A concentrate; Puri-Flave, the vitamin G concentrate; cod liver oil and sardine oil for their vitamin D content. Chicks hatched from eggs laid by hens getting these rations are known as Purina embryo-fed chicks. They are available in every locality, at the store with the checkerboard sign.

CERTAIN FEEDS PRODUCE EGGS WITH GREEN AND RED YOLKS

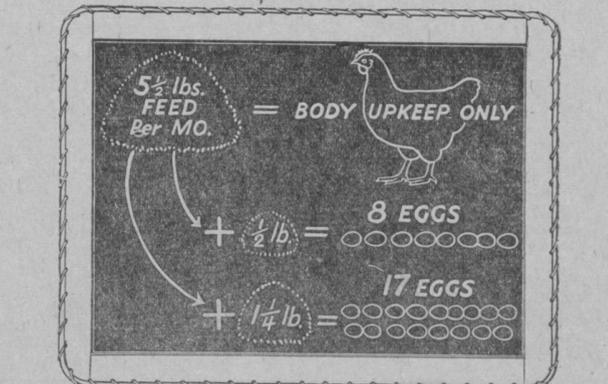

Scientific research into the coloring of egg yolks inside the shell, by the addition of certain ingredients to the laying ration, attracted keen attention from visitors at the recent International Baby Chick Convention held at Kansas City, Missouri. The experiments showed that by mixing ingredients rich in red or green coloring matter into the ration fed to laying hens at the Convention, their eggs had either red or green yolks.

An unusual part of the exhibit was the chicks on display that were hatched from eggs with green yolks. Their skins showed the influence of the green coloring matter that the mother hens had originally eaten with their laying mash.

A number of 4- and 5-week-old chicks were dissected at the exhibit, revealing the green coloring matter vividly in some of the internal organs. "This proves conclusively," stated Chas. Hicks, poultry specialist, in charge of the demonstration for Purina Mills, "that the feed a hen eats influences her chicks even after they have been out of the shell four or five weeks."

Only one conclusion could be drawn by visitors at this unusual exhibit—the important part feed plays in making eggs that hatch out strong vigorous chicks.

HERE'S WHY IT'S IMPORTANT TO FEED A LAYING HEN RIGHT

Nature demands that a pullet use approximately 5 1/2 lbs. of feed per month for body upkeep. Her egg production depends on the amount she eats, over these 5 1/2 lbs.

Although a laying hen isn't a machine, the kind and amount of feed she eats does determine the number of eggs she will lay!

According to J. H. McAdams, poultry specialist with Purina Mills, a strong, healthy, well-bred pullet will lay heavily for a short time even on a deficient ration by drawing upon her body for the egg-making materials she needs and which the feed fails to supply.

But eventually he points out, one of two things happens. Either the bird lays herself to death, or she quits laying in order to rebuild her body.

"The poultryman, anxious to sell lots of eggs, doesn't want either of these to happen. He's after continued high production. And to get it he must feed his flock for body upkeep, then for eggs. For Nature demands that a pullet use approximately 5 1/2 pounds of feed per month for body upkeep. The number of eggs she will lay depends on the amount over 5 1/2 pounds she can be persuaded to eat," says McAdams.

The following table has been worked out as a guide to the amount of feed pullets require per day at various rates of production:

| Rate of production | Lbs. feed Needed for 100 Pullets |
|--------------------|----------------------------------|
| 40% | 20 to 22 |
| 50% | 23 to 25 |
| 60% | 26 to 28 |
| 70% | 30 to 32 |

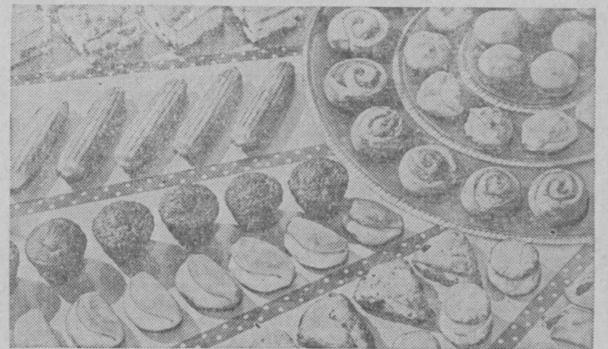

When production reaches the higher brackets, it often becomes difficult to keep hens eating as much feed as they should to maintain their body weight, McAdams points out.

"First of all," he says, "it is imperative that the laying mash be of high quality so that every ounce a bird consumes is chock full of egg-making and body building materials. Stirring this mash in the hoppers regularly will help keep birds interested and eating. Adding some of this mash fresh several times daily also helps. Feeding it as a wet mash or in pellet form (Layena Checkers) at noon also helps maintain consumption at the level necessary for high production.

"Other ways of increasing the laying flock's mash consumption are the use of more than ample hopper space, placing the hoppers where the light is brightest, and the use of electric lights to assure the flock a 13-hour working day.

"You just don't dare let a high producing hen drop in body weight," emphasizes McAdams. "If you do, expect her to go into a molt!"

NEW WAYS FOR YOUR BAKING DAYS
(See Recipes Below)

HOT BREADS—QUICKLY

Crisp, hot rolls? Cinnamon filled and twisted full of nuts, sugar and raisins? Muffins golden and plump standing high in peaks? Scones spread with jam or jelly? Why, of course, they're yumm y, and what's better, they can all be made in a jiffy. With the cooler weather setting in, you homemakers can return the hot breads and their baking into your schedules.

Or is there a bake sale or a bazaara included in the fall and winter schedule of your church or club activities? Nothing will fill the bill quite so nicely as a few trays of freshly baked biscuits, rolls, and bread.

Although cakes and pies can be baked at home by individual members, these hot breads can be made, oh, so quickly right in the church kitchen because they need only a few supplies and a few minutes to bake. They'll give your display a more complete array of baked goods and will also be a good substantial contrast to the fancier displays. To make things easy, serve them in pans (if you can spare them) to save time in making displays.

If you're planning a sale of bakery goods, have one section of a table set aside for selling individual pieces of cakes, pie, cookies, or a roll. When people realize how delicious a mouthful is, they can hardly resist buying a bagful.

As a good starter, consider the possibilities of the humble baking-powder biscuit.

Baking Powder Biscuits. (Makes 12 biscuits)

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or shortening

Milk to mix
Sift the flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, then cut in shortening. Add milk and mix just enough to hold together in large flakes. Pat to 1/4 of an inch thickness on a floured board and cut with a biscuit cutter. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes.

*Butterscotch Rolls.

Make baking-powder biscuits as given in the recipe above and pat on floured board. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle generously with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll as for jelly roll and cut in 1/2-inch pieces. Put 1/2 teaspoon of butter and 1 teaspoon of brown sugar in each muffin pan and lay the pieces of rolled dough on top of them. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees.)

LYNN SAYS:

Quick breads require less attention than yeast breads, but there are a few pointers about them you ought to bear in mind.

Beware of overmixing the batter or dough. For the baking powder variety work the fat into the flour or mixed dry ingredients only until mixed. Then stop, quickly. Mix in the milk with a few whirls, but do not overmix unless you want tough, leathery biscuits.

The secret of good muffins is to mix the batter only until blended. Even the egg should be only slightly beaten. If you want the muffins high in peaks, add a tablespoonful or two of extra flour to the recipe. Honey, jam and jelly are indicated for muffins as grand pick-ups for meals.

Always measure ingredients unless you have the extraordinary quality of guessing accurately. There is such a thing, but it is rare, so remember to use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measurements are level unless otherwise stated.

Ovens for most quick breads are hotter than for the yeast varieties. Set the meter correctly when heating and do not put batter or dough in until the oven has reached the desired temperature.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

Baked Pork Chops Apple Sauce
Scalloped Potatoes Baked Squash
*Butterscotch Rolls Beverage
Waldorf Salad
*Oranges in Syrup
*Recipe Given

Pecan Rolls.

Make as for butterscotch rolls, except add chopped pecans before rolling as jelly roll. Place broken pecan nutmeats in muffin tins with butter and sugar before putting in rolled dough. Bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes.

Plain Muffins. (Makes 1 dozen)

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
3/4 cup milk

4 tablespoons melted shortening
Mix the dry ingredients. Add the milk to the egg and mix with the dry ingredients. To this add the shortening. Stir till just mixed. Fill greased muffin tins quickly with two tablespoonfuls to each pan. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 25 minutes.

The muffin recipe may also be baked in a square pan and topped with the following: 2 tablespoons sugar rubbed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons butter. Rub until crumbled in appearance and sprinkle over the top of batter before baking. Do your meals need toning up or do you want to make your bakery goods sale a smash hit? Either way, these scones will do the trick!

Holiday Fruit Scones. (Makes 2 dozen scones)

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter or shortening
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup finely cut, seedless raisins
2 eggs
1/2 cup light cream.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, sugar, and sift again. Cut in shortening, add orange rind and raisins. Reserve about 1/2 of one egg white for glaze. Beat remaining eggs well, add cream, and then add to flour mixture. Stir the whole mixture vigorously until it forms a soft dough and follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out immediately on a floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1/2 inch thick and cut in small triangles. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush tops lightly with reserved egg white, slightly beaten, sprinkle with additional sugar. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 10 minutes or until browned. Serve with jam or jelly.

This bread was inspired by corn on the cob, and pleasantly simulates that favorite vegetable because of the use of cornmeal in the recipe:

Corn Sticks or Muffins. (Makes 12)

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
3/4 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
3/4 cup cornmeal
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter or shortening
Mix flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, and sift. Add corn meal and mix well. Combine eggs, milk, shortening; add to flour mixture, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in greased muffin pans or corn-shaped pans in hot oven (425 degrees) 25 minutes.

*Oranges in Syrup. (For 6 people)

Peel 6 oranges, remove all skin and membrane with knife, but leave orange whole. Make a syrup by boiling the following ingredients 10 minutes: 1 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 cup sugar. Place oranges in this, boil for 1 minute. Remove to serving dish. Chill thoroughly, sprinkle with coconut before serving.

A TIMELY POEM ON WAR

The following poem "War" was written by Judge Henry Jackson Hunt III, well known poet of Rockville, Md., in the honor and memory of Capt. Colin T. Kelley who so gallantly sacrificed his life for his country.

WAR

From where comes the Hell of it
Cannon and shell of it
From where comes the filth and the stench;
Consumed in the toil of it
Blood on the soil of it,
As earth heart is torn with a wrench
That's when the Mothers cry
Then's when the children die,
And sweethearts, young widows, are shorn;
But still the dictators say
On with the vilest fray,
That e'er to the world has been born.
Aeroplanes soar o'erhead
Bombs scatter civil dead,
Their faces turned with disgust;
Mechanized units roar
The battle is at our door,
But cope with the Devil we must.
So gird well your loins me lad
Proud destiny makes ye glad,
To answer the roll of the drums;
E'en though you leave behind
All that is dear and kind
When your country has need of her sons.
Emotions raked fore and aft
Barbed is the cruel shaft,
That crucifies men in their prime;
Yet to exist and die
Leaving a name so high,
That's what makes living sublime.

A watch is always posted when clothes are drying at the Providence,
R. I., naval training station.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Service: A newspaper friend, who works from 4 p. m. until midnight, reached his home in a suburban section about 1:30 the other morning. As he intended to leave on a fishing trip in a few hours, he parked his car in front of his house with the gasoline tank almost empty. At five, he arose, assebled his tackle and went outside. The car was gone. So he started for an all-night drugstore to report the theft to the police. Within a block of his residence, he came on his car parked at the curb. Not only was it undamaged, but the gasoline tank had been filled to capacity and on the back seat was a full five-gallon can. Also there was a spare wheel with a brand new tire. Whoever had taken the car had plainly made preparations for a long journey. But what brought about a change in plans my friend has been unable to find out.

Doubles: Here's another motor car story with court records as proof of authenticity: Weary from a long night of band leading, Teddy Powell was speeding home from New Jersey. Out of the shadows, sputtered a motorcycle and a cop edged the maestro over to the curb. "Honest," said Teddy, "I'm driving fast because I am tired and I want to get home. I'm Teddy Powell, band leader."

"Oh, yeah?" responded the officer. "We arrested the real Teddy just an hour ago." At the station, the truth came out. The trombonist in Powell's band, when stopped for fast driving, had given the name of the leader and had been released immediately. So the real Teddy Powell had to pay a double fine. What happened to the trombonist at rehearsal next day is not a part of the court records.

Mystery: Lillian Hellman, author of several hits including the current "Watch on the Rhine" and "The Little Foxes" of several seasons back, was the guest of honor at a cocktail party following a special pre-view of the movie version of the latter play. While she was surrounded by admirers raving about both the play and movie, a young research worker for a magazine fought her way forward and was introduced.

"Oh, Miss Hellman!" she gushed. "I've been wanting especially to meet you. There is something I wish to ask you." "Yes?" inquired the playwright. "How do you manage to smoke through your veil without burning it up?"

Sleuth: One of the elevator men in the building that houses District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office has high hopes of some day joining the prosecutor's staff. Bred in the most elegant detective story manner he flippantly refers to machine guns as "typewriters" and bombs as "pineapples." When a tall, dark and well-dressed man carried a violin case into his car recently he immediately became suspicious and demanded to know what he had. The stranger obligingly opened the case and revealed a violin. He was Richard Korn, Dewey's former assistant, who gave up a career in law for one in music.

Safety First: The foregoing brings to mind Raymond Scott, band leader and composer of wacky works. He sent a package to his office with the label, "Infernal Machine." A hysterical secretary, glimpsing the label, promptly hurled the bundle out of the window. When Scott showed up he was nettled no end to learn that the manuscript of his latest composition, "Infernal Machine" had been thrown away immediately on its arrival. He has made a resolution now to keep his staff informed of the tags he attaches to his compositions.

End Piece: Having started with a yarn about a car, might as well finish up with one: Never having been there haven't had an opportunity to check, but Edward Trevor reports that in Sao Paulo, Brazil, motorists pay a fee each year to safeguard their autos against thieves and damage while parked. The driver hands over $1, a small metal tag is attached to the radiator and he is safe for the next 12 months. A special force of police is maintained by the city solely to protect automobiles bearing the tags.

Animal Is Ahead in Donkey Baseball Game
YUBA CITY, CALIF. — Fred Tatton came out second best in an argument with a donkey during a donkey baseball game here. He bit the obstinate animal on the ear to urge it on. The donkey, inspired, bit Tatton. Bystanders separated the two, took Tatton to the hospital. The donkey stayed in the game.

FROM THE SOCIAL SECURITY BOARD

Here is a message from the Social Security Board to men and women who are receiving monthly retirement payments under the Social Security Act. If you should be called back to your old job, or if you go to work on any job that is covered by the Social Security Act, and if the job pays you as much as $15 a month (that is more than $14.99) you must notify the Social Security Board. The law says your retirement payments must stop while you are drawing wages on any such job. So if this applies to you, notify the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C. Your benefits will begin again when you stop work again.

The defense program is bringing back to the job many a man who thought he had retired for good. If you are such a man and if you have been receiving retirement insurance benefits under the Social Security Act, you should notify the Social Security Board that you have gone back to work. Your benefit payments must be suspended during any month in which you earn as much as $15 a month (that is, more than $14.99) on any job that is covered by the Social Security Act. Write to the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C. You may call the office of the Social Security Board for information about this matter. The office is located at 74 W. Washington St., Hagerstown, Md. The telephone number is 2163.
