NUMBERS FOR HOUSES

In Taneytown have been Assigned.

The Taneytown Chamber of Commerce met in regular monthly session Monday evening in the Municipal Building. Mr. David Smith, vice-president presided due to the absence at the opening of the meeting of the president, Merwyn C. Fust who arrived later in the evening. A large number of the members were present.

The Secretary, Bernard J. Arnold and Treasurer Charles R. Arnold made their reports, showing that the organization is in a very healthy financial condition. With the addition of several new members, the C. of C. now boasts of a membership of 179 members.

Among the business matters discussed, the announcement was made by the Mayor, Mr. Norville P. Shoemaker, that plans are completed for the numbering of homes; these designated numbers could be secured from the City's Secretary, Mr. Clyde L. Hesson, and property owners could then purchase the numbers from merchants offering them for sale and place same on their respective properties.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Man Meets Death by Accident

D. Steiner Englebrecht, a farmer living at Fairview, near Uniontown, met with a tragic death on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1942, at 2:30 P. M., while at work out in a field. He had been driving a manure spreader and it is thought while climbing up into the seat of the machine he must have slipped, falling between the horses and the machine. His body was dragged a distance of 60 feet, and when found was dead. His age was 50 years. He is survived by his wife, Ruth A.; his mother, Mrs. Heien J. Englebrecht; one daughter, Caroline D., and two step-children, Mrs. Sterling Lescalett, Taneytown, and George B. Harman, Union Bridge. Funeral services were held Friday morning at 10 o'clock, meeting at the United Brethren Church conducted by Rev. Arthur W. Garvin. The Taney Lodge I. O. O. F., of which he was a member, conducted services at the grave. Burial was made in the Lutheran cemetery.

CARROLL COUNTY CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

The 13th. annual meeting of the Carroll County Children's Aid Society will be held on Monday, February 2, at 2:00 P. M., in the Westminster Firemen's Building. Mrs. David H. Taylor, vice-president, will preside over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Frank T. Myers. The main speaker of the afternoon will be Hamilton H. Hackney, Judge of the Juvenile Court of Baltimore City, who will bring a vital message concerning the phase of Social Welfare Work. Judge has always been a loyal supporter of the Carroll County Children's Aid Society and his message should be of interest to all Children's Aid Workers and friends. A social hour will follow the meeting. It is hoped that there will be a large number in attendance.

Mr. Ogden Nash was elected president of the Maryland Children's Aid Society at its annual meeting. Mrs. Frank T. Myers and Mrs. Carroll Shunk of our Carroll County Children's Aid Society will serve on the Central Board with Mr. Nash.

The Maryland Children's Aid Society is a private child-care agency incorporated in 1911 to give help to the rural children of our State. Substitute family homes are used by the agency to replace the child's own environment.

The Directors of the agency are convinced that hundreds of children have become useful citizens of Maryland through the opportunities which the Society has been privileged to open for children.

The Executive Secretary, Katharine T. Kirwan, reports 698 children are under the Society's guardianship. The Society has five boys in the army six in the navy, two in the air service two in the merchant Marines; five boys are in defense industries, two girls are taking special vocational training. The Maryland Children's Aid Society made nine adoptions in 1941 and twenty-one members of its family were married.

Miss Kirwan further states that "the agency knows that it has its important work to carry forward. Its children will be part of the community which will have to carry on and rebuild after the war. It would certainly be a serious mistake to cut down on the care and protection of any Maryland boy and girl, it seems rather the part of wisdom to salvage every neglected child and put him in condition to bear his future responsibilities as a loyal citizen of Maryland. We are pushing our energies to collect tin cans, waste paper, scrap iron—what are we planning to do with the human matter—boys and girls that will be found among these waste materials?"

"The Maryland Children's Aid Society must increase its effort to meet the present emergency—this is no time to increase the insecurity of children."

When a man puts on a character he is a stranger to, there's as much difference between what he appears, and what he is really in himself, as there is between a vizor and a face—La Bruyere.

UNITED STATES TO RATION SUGAR

Sets Limit of 12 ounces per person per week

Another blow struck, bringing home the realization of the fact that we are actually at war, when last Sunday the papers appearing in Taneytown announced a sugar shortage. The Office of Price Administration announced the rationing of sugar to about two-thirds the per capita consumption of last year. Leon Henderson, price administrator, said a rationing system of sugar had been worked out and would be put into effect shortly.

Already the Office of Price Administration has designed ration books for the commodity and printing of these books will be started soon.

In making the announcement, Henderson pointed out that our normal annual Philippine sugar supply may be considered lost and the import of the same commodity from Hawaii will be curtailed due to the turn of events in the Pacific.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department announced that stores requiring consumers to buy a certain amount of other groceries in order to get sugar were liable to prosecution under anti-trust laws. A department official said penalties up to a $5,000 fine, a year's imprisonment, or both were possible.

Even with the reduction proposed, America still would be well above the sugar ration allowed the average person in England. The average Briton, according to the last figures available, draws eight ounces in sugar rations a week during the summer months and twelve ounces per week during the winter months.

The rationing figure was first set at one pound per person but was reduced to the 12-ounce limit to allow for restaurant sales.

The OPA officials reiterated, however, that OPA had plans for recovering hoarded supplies even from the shelves of householders if necessary, and advised persons having stocks on hand to begin using them immediately.

NEW WINDSOR PLANS FOR CIVILIAN DEFENSE

Word is being passed along that there will soon be an air raid alarm calling for a county-wide blackout. We are working at present, setting up an organization for civilian defense in New Windsor district. While our organization is not quite in final form a fine start has been made, and splendid interest and cooperation has been manifested by the citizens. At this time we can give you the following information:

1—The air raid alarm will be given by ringing four bells in town—the two church bells, the bell at B. R. C. and the bell at the firemen's building. At this signal turn out all lights and get under cover—clear the streets. An effort will be made to have the bells on rural churches rung, and this will serve to warn the rural people—who are also asked to turn out all lights.

2—Auxiliary policemen have volunteered their services under the direction of George Hoover, for your protection during blackout.

3—The air raid warden, is Clarence Bowers—with John Hesson, Ersie Benedict and John Strine as assistants.

4—A firemen's organization is being formed. A committee headed by Mr. Howard Roop has been appointed to investigate the possibility of buying a small, used, fire engine for the town and local vicinity.

5—Dr. Sterling Geatty has been appointed Medical Chief for the district and Mr. Byron Hartzler is chairman of the casualty and first aid station. Two first aid stations will be established and equipped.

6—Mrs. James Marsh, will head the nurses aid group.

7—A first aid course is being conducted at the High School, Monday of each week at 4:00 P. M. Another is being held in town—see Mrs. Edgar Nusbaum.

8—Volunteer Ambulance service is being organized with Mr. Joe Englar as chairman of the ambulance committee.

9—A survey of the district is being made to discover what can be done in case of evacuation from large cities.

10—A bomb squad, is being formed and people will be instructed as to how to handle incendiary bombs.

11—A committee is being formed to organize the rural area of the district for defense.

12—You are asked to register for civilian defense—in your district. You are under no obligation even though you register.

You will be kept informed as to the details of our district organization, as they develop. Give us your cooperation. Be on the alert for the first "Blackout" alarm. Committee on public information—Willard L. Hawkins, Chairman; Edgar Barnes and Rev. Warren Ledford.

CARROLL CO. MINISTERIAL UNION

The Carroll County Ministerial Union will meet in the Seminary Chapel, Westminster, Feb. 2, at 10:30 A. M. Speaker, Dr. Paul Warner, Professor in the Seminary. Subject: My Missionary Work in Japan. There will be an important business meeting.

FARMERS' INCOME TAX

Many Must Make Returns for the first time.

Owing to change in the income tax law a vast number of farmers must this year make returns for the first time. There are few farms where the gross income is less than $1500 for a year, and every married farmer with that gross income must make a return, while an unmarried farmer must do so if the gross income is $750 for the year.

Gross income means total receipts for milk, poultry products, live stock of all kinds, all kinds of grain, hay or straw sold, in short, everything that came in. The expenses may reduce his net income to where he has no tax to pay, or only a small amount, but that does not excuse him from making a return, or paying a penalty for not making one.

Every person should look into this matter at once, and get his figures together, so that he will have definite information. With thousands of people in a county making returns for the first time, there will be a rush with embarrassment and maybe disappointments, unless the matter is looked into early.

Many must be prepared for a much larger tax than formerly, due to the lower exemption, and especially to the fact that the surtax counts without exemption above the normal amounts, while formerly only persons who had an income of $4,000 or more above the first exemption, paid any surtax. It will not do for persons to neglect this matter, trusting to luck.

WILL BE A LONG AND HARD WAR

So says the President and Congress

While its envoys discussed with Secretary of State Hull means of maintaining peace in the Pacific, Japan's forces attacked the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, Wake and Midway Islands, Guam, Hong Kong and Malaya. In the attacks on American possessions there were approximately 3,000 casualties, one battleship and a destroyer were sunk several other U. S. ships severely damaged and a large number of planes put out of commission.

Stating that "always will be remembered the character of the onslaught against us," the President asked Congress to declare a state of war exists between the U. S. and the Japanese Empire. Following Congress's affirmative action, Germany and Italy—in accordance with their agreement with Japan—declared war on the United States. Almost immediately Congress declared war on the European members of the Axis.

Addressing the nation by radio, the President said "it will not only be a long war, it will be a hard war. Not only must the shame of Japanese treachery be wiped out, but the sources of international brutality, wherever they exist, must be absolutely and finally broken. With confidence in our armed forces—with the unbounding determination of our people—we will gain the inevitable triumph. We will win the war and we are going to win the peace that follows."

The President announced he had instructed the Army and Navy to take all steps necessary to U. S. defense. The War and Navy Department announced that the Army and Navy had beaten off attempted Japanese troop landings in the Philippines, sunk a 29,000-ton Japanese battleship, a cruiser and a destroyer, scored hits on the battleship Kongo; that Marine garrisons at Midway and Wake were holding out; that Navy Secretary Knox had flown to Hawaii.

Congress passed legislation removing the ban on U. S. Army men from serving outside the hemisphere. Congress also granted the Army and Navy permission to hold enlisted men for the duration.

Following air raid alarms in San Francisco and New York, the office of Civilian Defense ordered all Pacific and East coast and District of Columbia air raid volunteers on the alert. OGD director LaGuardia announced enrollment of 350,000 air raid wardens and other volunteers and called for three times the existing permanent fire personnel, plus one air raid warden for every 500 persons.

The War Department asked all Governors to be "on the alert" with home guards and State troopers available to meet any situation; instructed special plant protection services to protect all arsenals, factories and storage deposits against sabotage.

The Navy initiated censorship on all outgoing communications and forbade publication of any naval information that might be of value to the enemy. The Army restricted information of troop movements except when announced by the War Department. The Maritime Commission requested the press, radio and other news channels to refrain from publishing information about merchant vessels in any waters.

The President authorized the Defense Communication Board to designate radio facilities of the nation for use, control, inspection or closure by Federal agencies. The Federal Communications Commission prohibited operation of amateur radio stations in all U. S. territory.

The White House issued a statement that "the Lend-Lease program is and will continue in full operation." The statement said "It was the German hope that if the U. S. and Japan could be pushed into war, that such a conflict would put an end to the Lend-Lease program." Germany and Japan, the President said, "are conducting their military and naval operations in accordance with a joint plan. The American people must realize it can be matched only with similar grand strategy."

The Economic Defense Board prohibited exports to Japan and Japanese occupied territory, to Japanese nationals all over the world, and to China—except for shipments to the Burma Road via Rangoon. The Board also stopped exports of all rubber until notice except in connection with Lend-Lease and to U. S. forces.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau ordered a halt to any commerce or communication with Japan or her allies, ordered all borders closed to Japanese and froze all assets of Japanese nationals or businesses.

Stating that defense expenditure increases will have to be matched by increases in purchases of defense bonds and stamps.

TANEYTOWN PUBLIC LIBRARY

KIWANIS MEETS.

In charge of Membership and Classification Com.

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday evening at six o'clock at Sauble's Inn; President Robert W. Smith, presiding. The music period was in charge of Harry M. Mohny, with Mrs. George Harner at the piano. There were present twenty-one members and two guests; Messrs Jack and Byron Hartzler of Union Bridge.

It was announced that members of the Club are invited to attend the special inter-club meeting of the Town Club on Wednesday evening, Feb. 6th. Attention was called to the Blood Donor Service meeting to be held at Westminster on February 10, from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M., and from 2 to 5 P. M.

The program was in charge of the Membership and Classification Committee, Raymond Selby, Chairman. During the program, special musical numbers were given by Messrs Jack and Byron Hartzler. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Guy P. Bready, a member of the Taneytown Club who discussed the relation of Kiwanis members to regular attendance at weekly meetings.

The program next week will be in charge of the Music Committee, Raymond Wright, Chairman.

WE MUST SPEND IN ORDER TO WIN

Congress is now considering the largest budget in the history of the world.

Every resource of the Nation is dedicated to an all out fight for victory.

Billion in taxes and mountains of debt will be needed to finance the war. Good citizens will pay every dollar needed and make any and every sacrifice—even to life itself—to save our Democracy.

But Government must also sacrifice—tax dollars must be rationed. All non-essential expenditures must be cut to the bone and money thus saved devoted to assure victory over the enemies of our country.

We cannot continue to spend millions upon millions for WPA, NYA, CCC and all the other peace-time, depression-born agencies when billions are so vitally needed to win the war.

Everybody realizes this—and here at last is the opportunity for citizens themselves to do something about it.

In Congress the "Joint Congressional Committee on non-essential expenditures" (The Byrd committee) in its preliminary report has recommended specific savings amounting to $1,700,000,000.

In the 48 states citizens are united with the national Citizens Emergency committee (Dr. Wriston, Chairman)—to insist on Federal non-defense economy.

In Maryland patriotic citizens must do their share.

GUERNSEY SOLD TO WILLIAMS

Peterborough, N. H.—Frank Williams, of Taneytown, recently purchased a registered Guernsey bull from Mrs. Anne P. Emerson, of Brooklandville, Md., to add to his local herd. Brooklandwood Anchor 304862 is the name under which this animal is registered with The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

Random Thoughts

OPTIMISM

The practice of looking on the bright side of things, and being hopeful in our beliefs, is one of the fine components of human existence, and an offset to the trend of many who appear to be always predicting disaster or something disagreeable.

Cases are numerous in which persons in a community are always ready with "cold water" to throw on well meant efforts that need only encouragement to turn out both helpful and profitable to all.

Being optimistic is much like being thankful. It is the care, the nursing and proper cultivation that make good crops come along in due course of time.

When asked—How is your health? the optimist before answering, is apt to catch himself before saying he is "poorly" and can usually say "I might be worse."

It is the fellow who don't grouch over every little pain, that helps to spread a healthy atmosphere for himself and those about him.

The world contains a lot of trouble of one kind or another for almost everybody. In fact, we can not avoid all of the "slings and arrows" as Shakespeare wrote no matter how hard we try; but it is from bumps and upsets that we gather courage to determine that we may be down, though not out. "THE FUNNIES"

This is what children usually call the highly colored supplements of many of our daily papers. Presumably they are as "cheap" as they appear to be, or they could not be used so liberally.

Of course, their extra vagrant colored sheets are meant to amuse children, and likely they do, but there is a big question of doubt as to whether parents should permit such amusements.

DON'T BE A PINCHER!

There are persons in every community, that storekeepers do not like to see come within their doors.

They pinch the oranges and peaches to be sure that they are "just right" and see that they have paid the very lowest price.

If they can secure gifts in addition, so much the better, sometimes there are gifts handed out; but, the stingy ones do not get them.

Sometimes there are "sales" advertised, but it is more or less an "inside" secret that the best buying customers are tipped off.

RADIO SERVICE

There is only the "tuning in" process to be done to demonstrate that what comes to us over the wires is pretty much of a hodge-podge.

We get flashes from the war fronts the merits of somebody's pills, or chicken feed to demonstrate our criticism to be well founded.

Yes, the radio is a wonderful invention and we would not like to be without it, but the facts that much of what we received is just "stuff" and not true.

Plain, everybody U. S. "politics" comes in, too. And by "politics" we mean hoped for results.

Sunday sermons may be excepted from much if not all of criticism. Some really fine and helpful sermons are heard, and the "Word of God" through this service is actual purity.

THE MIDDLE OF A FIX

We are in the middle of a mighty nasty fix, whether we like it or not. With war all around us we need to do some exact thinking. Before things get better they will get a whole lot worse.

Perhaps an all-out help for the fighting nations is the wise procedure if we furnish the implements of war to England and Russia, and China, and the fighting Dutch in the East Indies, we may not have to do much fighting ourselves, but it will be the part of wisdom, that our leaders do not bank too heavily on such contingency.

Of course we should give all the planes, and guns and munitions we can spare, but always there should be held in reserve enough right here at home to meet our own needs if they arise, and, don't kid yourself, they are apt to arise and soon.

This is going to be a grim and serious war before it is finished, and it is up to all of us to do our full share to terminate it.

We will get best results if each one does his own job well. Let the General run the Army, and the Admirals the Navy, and each of us his own job down to the least of us, and a big job will be done well. Hitler with his years of preparation has become as near an expert in warfare as exists, and the Japs—his sneaking partner in the Pacific, know the ways of the sea. They will cause a lot of trouble before they are trounced, but it can be done. We have the men—probably the most intellectual lot that ever shouldered arms, we have the materials for making the munitionments of war: we have the resources in brain and brawn, so let's get at it and get it done with as soon as we are able.

This is not the time to be wasting time on plans for settlement. Let's settle the war first, then it will be an easy job to settle the peace.

THE MISSING WORD

Washington, D. C., January—I enjoyed a day in New York this week, as it seems rather quiet and orderly up there, compared with Washington, over-manning its borders with twice as many people as we have room for. For instance, I saw a New York taxi run through a red light on the Avenue, a Buick driver make a "U" turn, a girl jump out of a cab in motion and the driver run after her; and a bare-legged young lady skating on ice in Rockefeller Plaza. Nobody looked excited or in a hurry, and when I asked the dapper clerk at the hotel about it he wasn't surprised. "Oh, New York doesn't pretend to be as fast as Washington any more," he admitted.

Madame Litvinoff, wife of the Russian Ambassador, is an English woman—a distinct personality, who works with her hands and thinks with her head. She says "the thing most noticeable about Hollywood glamor girls is that they all look alike."

A Washington newsman has described the winter climate of Moscow as "the same as Duluth". I edited a county seat newspaper for 10 years in the Duluth area and if I can identify the man who wrote that slur on my beloved old neck o' the woods I think I'll censor him on the nose.

When you get up an hour ahead of yourself on daylight savings time, February 9, don't feel grumpy—think of the tragic state of 130 million others who are also feeling sorry for themselves.

They're moving valuable art exhibits from the great galleries on the seaboard to places of hiding and safety—but a lot of modern art that I've seen couldn't be damaged by a World War.

Now, I'll admit that this whole article is bunk. But is is very unusual in one respect because it is about the only correspondence out of Washington today that doesn't mention the subject everybody is talking and writing about—war—J. E. Jones

A WEEK OF THE WAR

President Roosevelt told his press conference an inter-allied supply council and similar joint commands are in existence, and excellent progress is being made to strengthen the position of the United Nations in the Southwest Pacific.

The army announced Gen. MacArthur's forces have repulsed continuous heavy attacks by reinforced Japanese units on Bataan Peninsula, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy with comparatively low losses to the defenders. The entire Japanese 14th Army, together with other units, landed on Luzon. U. S. Army forces sank a Japanese cruiser and a large tanker 100 miles off Jolo, and shot down 16 enemy planes in the Philippines.

The Navy announced the freighter SS Brazos was sunk in a collision 120 miles southwest of Cape Hatteras and during the past week U boats sank the City of Atlanta, the Latvian freighter Ciltvaria, the tankers Coimbra and Allan Jackson, and torpedoed the tanker Malay. The Navy did not announce number of U-boats sunk or captured but said "some of the recent visitors to our territorial waters will never enjoy the return trip portion of their voyage." The U. S. Navy sank three enemy ships off Tokyo Bay and torpedoed a 5,000 ton enemy vessel in Binanga Bay.

The President said the United Nations are collaborating with the U. S. to effect transfers to the American armed service of the Americans who had enlisted before the war under foreign flags. War Secretary Stimson announced completion of plans for the formation of a 6th. Armored Division and two additional all-Negro units; an infantry division and an air pursuit squadron. The House passed and sent to the Senate legislation appropriating 12,500,000,000 to provide 33,000 new Army planes and equipment for them.

President Roosevelt asked Congress for $15,960,000,000 for the Navy and signed a bill authorizing establishment of a special limited-service Marine Corps composed of World War veterans and older men to be used in patrolling and guarding vital facilities. The Navy announced that students in school or college who have not yet reached their 20th. birthday may enlist in the Naval Reserve with permission to complete the current school year before reporting for duty.

President Roosevelt asked Congress for $100,000,000 to be used by the OCD for air raid protection of civilians. Congress authorized the the responsibility for civilian protection with OCD. The FBI announced it will conduct special war traffic schools for police of 120 strategically located cities. The War Department announced that in cooperation with the OCD it will establish six more schools to teach civilian defense workers protection against chemical weapons such as incendiary bombs.

Labor Secretary Perkins reported hourly earnings of wage earners in manufacturing industries rose 1.5 per cent to a new high of 78.1 per cent—15 per cent above the same time last year. Average hours worked per week (40.3 hours) were 4 per cent above last year and weekly earnings ($32.81), 2 per cent higher.

President Roosevelt asked Congress for $300,000,000 to aid workers who lose their jobs temporarily because of conversion of civilian industry to war production, if the worker is willing to take special training to fit him for a war industry job. Under the program workers would receive a weekly benefit payment equal to 60 percent of regular earnings, but in no case more than $24 a week in benefits for 26 weeks. The Federal grant would make up the difference between unemployment compensation paid by the State and the 60 per cent war dislocation benefit.

Cosmetics, Lingerie Are Army Issue Now

New Items Listed as Women Join Canadian Forces.

OTTAWA, CAN.—"Cosmetics, lingerie (auxiliary forces, for the use of)." For the first time in history such an item may appear in paymasters' records here, as Canada organizes auxiliary forces of women for her army and air force.

Members of the new body, whose duties will include ambulance and car driving, telephone operating, stenography, assisting in dental operations and in operation of X-ray apparatus, will be paid "slightly less" than soldiers of corresponding rank in the army.

The women will wear a khaki uniform, similar to those worn by the women's transport corps in England.

The uniforms will not be finished in bulk, as soldiers' garb is, but will be issued in semi-ready form, so that they can be further fitted to meet the needs of the individual wearer.

This, the designer explains, is due in part to the wider variation in various portions of feminine anatomy.

The designer has also refused to undertake responsibility for designing any undergarments to accompany the uniform. Each recruit will receive an initial allowance of $15 to meet such needs; thereafter, she will be limited to the specified $3 monthly.

The issue to each woman accepted in the corps, will include one cap, two "officer pattern" jackets, two slightly gored skirts, three shirts, two ties, three pairs of stockings, two pairs of brown shoes, one pair of rubbers, one greatcoat, one raincoat, brown leather gloves and a "knick-knack" haversack.

War Children From Great Britain Going American

NEW YORK. — British children who were taken from the war zone and brought to America more than a year ago are losing their English and Scottish accents.

The British-American ambulance corps, which sponsors goodwill broadcasts between the children and their parents, reports the youngsters are becoming American-minded. For example, the change that has taken place in Jack and Jain McDonald is cited.

They are the sons of a Clydebank shipbuilder who arrived in this country about a year ago. Since then they have lived in Chattanooga, Tenn. On a recent broadcast they startled their father with slow southern drawls.

Asked whether he preferred cricket to baseball, Jack responded: "Ah don't know how to play cricket any moah."

Other instances are cited in which popular American slang has invaded the children's speech. "Everything's swell" or "O.K.," they tell their fathers and mothers. The traditional British reserve, associated with young as well as old, seems to have disappeared.

Ouch!

A Washington paper reports that "The men's Bible class were hosts to the ladies of the Helping Hand society at a lawn party Saturday night. Sandwiches, pie, and pinch were served in abundance."

If You're Itching to Kibitz, Read This

CARTHAGE, MO.—A new occupational disease called "the kibitzer itch" has turned up. A stone wall around the side of a new building offered a leaning ledge that the construction kibitzers couldn't resist. Growing along the wall was a vine. It was poison ivy. You probably have guessed what happened.

Science Exposes Spurious Picture

Had Passed as 'Rembrandt' More Than 200 Years.

PHILADELPHIA.—A painting accepted by experts for more than 200 years as the work of Rembrandt Van Rijn, Seventeenth-century Dutch master, has been found spurious and withdrawn from the John G. Johnson collection at the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

The canvas, entitled "Crucifixion," was discovered to be an "attribution," it was announced by Henri G. Marceau, curator of the collection and assistant director of the museum. The painting, about 18 by 30 inches, shows Christ against the Cross, a cross barely discernible and only detected in outline. Whose work it was could not be determined, but it was thought to be the effort of a follower of Rembrandt.

The spurious Rembrandt was detected during an examination of the entire collection with scientific devices, including X-rays, ultra-violet rays and microphotography, Mr. Marceau said. The tests, which have been under way for two years and are not expected to be completed until 1946, have also turned up several other spurious paintings. "But we doubt," Mr. Marceau said, "that any collection in America could be subjected to the same searching test without similar discoveries."

More than 1,200 paintings, valued at between $7,000,000 and $12,000,000 are included in the collection gathered by Mr. Johnson, Philadelphia attorney, who died in 1917. Now owned by the city, the collection covers seven centuries of art and is the most comprehensive in the nation. Seven hundred items from it will be hung in 20 new galleries at the museum.

Goes to Town by Moose Team Hitched to Buggy

CHELMSFORD, ONT.—There was a time when farmers pulled their teams up when an automobile passed, held them in check as they reared at the strange contraption and hoped for the best. Many tourists who are traveling the interesting road between Chelmsford Ont., and Sudbury, famous nickel mining country, are reversing this procedure by pulling their cars to a halt at the side of the road, rubbing their eyes and then wondering whether they see aright. The reason is Albert Vallancourt and his strange team of two moose hitched to a buggy.

It all started late last fall when Albert Vallancourt, French-Canadian northwoodsman, and a companion, combing the woods for wolves, heard the bleat of a young moose in distress. Following the cry, they found a bear attacking the infant animal and one well-aimed shot by Vallancourt put the bear where all good bears eventually go . . . on the floor of the hunter's lodge.

Vallancourt took the baby moose home with him. Several months later a French boy came to call and offered a playmate for Vallancourt's moose. Thus began one of the strangest teams to pull a cart. While Vallancourt does not use them for farming, he finds that they offer a fast and exciting way of getting him places.

HOUSEWIVES DEMAND EGGS THAT ARE OF SUPERIOR QUALITY

Eggs may look alike on the outside, but there's a big difference when you break them open and see the inside. That's why housewives are often disappointed in so-called "choice" eggs. The eggs are choice as far as size and appearance are concerned, but when you break them open, the quality isn't there.

Now, with payrolls of non-agricultural workers the largest in the country's history, and with general salaries at a high level, more and more housewives are demanding eggs that are choice inside as well as out, and they have the money to put down on the counter to pay for them, says C. S. Johnson, poultry specialist with Purina Mills.

That is why Johnson suggests that all poultry raisers seriously consider producing high quality eggs. He recommends that by feeding flocks an all-mash ration called "Layena" and by following the Purina Layena Plan, eggs are produced that have shells stronger and more dense than the shells of ordinary eggs, yolks are of a uniform, rich, lemon-yellow color and firm in texture, whites that are thick and jelly-like, and the eggs have a fine taste and flavor.

This, Johnson asserts, is the kind of egg the housewife wants to serve on her table these days.

Editor's Note: If you wish a taste treat and would like to try these Layena eggs, give our local Purina distributor a ring. He will be happy to tell you where they can be obtained.

Servant (who responds to a ring)—Excuse me, please, but we are in great trouble here today. The gentleman of the house has been blown up in an explosion.
Peddler—Ha! Hurt much?
Servant—Blown to atoms. Only a grease spot left of him.
Peddler—Ah! Only a grease spot, you say? Well, here's a bottle of my champion eradicator, which will remove that grease spot in two minutes.

a Fog

The colonel, making a night tour of the camp, was challenged by a sentry who had been standing at his post for two hours in a driving rain.
"Who's there?" demanded the sentry.
"Friend," replied the colonel.
"Welcome to our mist!" said the sentry.

FEESBURG.

The last days of January, and what a full month it has been: War—and rumors of war, defense bonds, Red Cross funds, fires, robberies, auto wrecks, injuries, deaths, earnest prayers, and good church services, Evangelistic meetings; evil and good smiles and tears—and one month of the new year gone.

Last Wednesday morning while L. K. Birely and Mrs. Addie Crumbacker were on their way to the funeral of Miss Ida Garber, at Mt. Union; his auto slipped off the road and in his haste he must have stepped on the wrong lever, and went through a fence and banged into a pole. Neighbors brought them home with a badly torn hand, and in much pain. The doctor was called—who served and dressed his hand and had him taken to Frederick Hospital in the Hartzler ambulance, where the X-rays revealed 5 ribs fractured and system badly shocked. He is getting along as well as can be expected. Mrs. Crumbacker is still on the couch with bruises and injured knees—too stiff for present use; but both are in good spirits, and know results might have been much worse. Our splendid neighbors are attentive and kind.

The Maurice Grindler family was notified of the death of an infant child of their cousin, Mrs. Virgie Smith, of Finksburg, where the funeral was held on Saturday.

Harry Lambert, of Mt. Union has been quite ill, threatened with pneumonia, and still confined to the house. Be careful of colds.

Many friends called at the Birely home last week and Rev. M. L. Fearnow, of Union Bridge, pastor of the Methodist Churches of Middleburg and Johnsville, was among the number on Sunday afternoon. It is interesting to hear of his ministry in Western Virginia.

There was a larger attendance at Sunday School at Mt. Union on Sunday morning, with Frank P. Bohn, Superintendent. A good story book was presented to Raymond Reifsnider, aged 6 years—for his second year's regular attendance. Miss Rosellen Wilhide led the C. E. meeting afterwards. The last Sunday in each month is devoted to Missions, and all offerings are given to that treasury.

The expected arrival on Sunday—when Marcus Wolfe and wife, of Philadelphia, visited at his brother Cleon's home. Their father and sister, Erma, of Bark Hill, were present also and all enjoyed a roasted chicken dinner—with accessories, a nice little family party.

A number of persons from this neighborhood attended the farm show at Harrisburg, last week. We asked one man what he saw there and he replied: "Oh, the finest horses I ever saw, splendid cows and other animals; and splendid machinery with modern improvements. Wonder if a woman would have seen any vegetables, flowers, or fine needle work?"

Mrs. Lulu Grindler assisted the Clarence Buffington family of Mt. Union, with a large butchering, for three days last week—and aren't we pleased when that is well done.

Mrs. Wilbur Miller is on the sick list—with an attack of grippie; and as "Major Bowes" says "where it will stop, nobody knows."

Speaking of being tired out, and retiring, some of our fellows are having "tire" troubles of their own trying to get repair, or new ones. After doing their part, signing paper or contracts and receiving promises; they wait and wait and wait some one has said we'll have to return to the horse and buggy, and that sounds safe and good—but after all this rapid transit, can the drivers reduce their speed?

We know that money has been soaring, but now it is marching in dimes; people are generous, and how will they celebrate the birthday of the next president ten years or more from now?

Yes, our beautiful red bird deceived us last week—but we've often heard that beauty is deceitful and no snow followed his appearance; but the past two days he and his mate are strutting proudly about outside our window, and its hard to keep on writing when they are near; but what men do they bring—for they are rare in this locality. The "Sap Suckers" too are very pretty and nearly as interesting to watch—but more numerous.

The flower for January is the snow drop and the birthstone—garnet. The days are lengthening and a bright moon lights the nights—and time marches on!

LITTLESTOWN.

Thomas E. Myers, well known truck farmer, near town, died suddenly Thursday at his home. He was aged 55 years. Death according to Dr. C. C. Crist, County Coroner, resulted from coronary thrombosis. Mr. Myers was in his usual health at 9 A. M. he left the house to feed his chickens, upon failure to return to the house Mrs. Myers began a search for him and found him lying near the chicken house. Dr. D. B. Coover, was called and confirmed the fact that death had already taken place. Surviving besides his wife are five children. He was a member of the Reformed Church. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from his late residence. Rev. Kenneth James, of St. John's Church, officiated; interment was made in Mt. Carmel cemetery.

Mrs. Martha L. Plunkert, widow of James S. Plunkert, who had formerly resided near Littlestown, died Thursday at her home in Hanover, at the age of 63 years. Funeral was held Sunday afternoon at her late home. Rev. John C. Brumbach, officiated; interment was made in Mt. Carmel cemetery.

Miss Florence Biehl, W. King St. who was injured on January 4, in an automobile, was discharged from the Hanover General Hospital and removed to her home.

Mrs. Mae Hartman, Liberty, N. Y., arrived Sunday morning to visit her mother, Mrs. George S. Kump, who is seriously ill.

Black Farmers Union, held a business and social meeting in the hall at Black Corner, Wednesday evening. It was open to the public.

A large crowd was in attendance last Wednesday evening at the Hobby Show which was held by the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Oliver Reaver, Lombard St., was admitted to the Annie M. Warner Hospital. She was taken in the ambulance.

Miss Nellie Hoffman, Littlestown, is a patient in the West Side Sanitarium, York.

Mrs. John LeGore has returned to her home after spending three months in Puerto Rico with her son.

There was a large attendance at the card party sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the John W. Ocker Post, on Thursday evening.

The new overhead doors have been placed at the Alpha Fire Company building.

Red Cross sewing is progressing nicely. The women met Tuesday afternoon cutting garments. These consisted of overalls and shirts.

The first of a series of three air raid defense training schools to be conducted in town was held Tuesday evening with 35 men in attendance. The two hours instruction was conducted by L. V. Stock, Principal of the Biglerville High School, who recently received special training at Harrisburg. It was announced there will be a county-wide test of a black-out.

Some people attended a special service Monday evening in St. James Lutheran, Gettysburg, when the 61st anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor was observed.

Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Rotary Club, son and father and father and son night was observed. About sixty were in attendance. The entertainment was furnished by Ernest W. Dunbar of the Blue Ridge Rubber Company, Taneytown. He showed pictures of the Rotary convention held in York. The oldest father present was E. R. Stavely who was a guest of his son Lloyd L. Stavely.

Mr. Henderson has revealed that the individual sugar allowance may be as low as twelve ounces a week per person. Girls how about making candy for your friends?

HARNEY.

Mrs. Leonard H. Kalbfleisch, of Baltimore, spent several days here the past week at the homes of Sam'l D. Snider and sister, Ruth, and Mrs. Hannah C. Eckenrode.

Lucille Stambaugh, York, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stambaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bollinger have received word from their son, Private Paul Bollinger that he is in a hospital with a fractured limb, which he received in the battle from somewhere in the Philippines.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Snair, Taneytown, visited at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl-in-ton Shriver.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wolf visited Sunday with Mr. Sentman Shriver.

Chas. Reck, Manchester, spent Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wm. Reck.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Eckenrode and daughter, Mrs. H. C. Eckenrode, Mrs. L. H. Kalbfleisch and Ruth Snider, spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Eckenrode, Hollinger Apartment, Emmitsburg, Md.

FRIZELLBURG.

A meeting in the interest of civilian defense was held in the hall here last Monday night with a surprisingly large attendance. The purpose of the meeting was to formulate plans for defense in case of air raids and to give each citizen an idea of what they can do for safety in such occurrence.

Walter Brillhart was chosen and served as chairman. Sargeant Flygare, Uniontown, was the first speaker. He reviewed briefly the activities of the war up to the present time. He concluded his remarks with detailed information regarding the part each one should and can do to prevent panic, disaster, fire, or even death. Harry J. Myers, Pleasant Valley, district air raid warden assisted in the work and gave a most helpful talk along the same line. Of course all were apparently patriotic and declared they were willing to do what they could. Raymond Hailey was appointed to ring bell on hall and John Berwager the church bell. Road police were next chosen and Norman Myers, Clarence Myers, John Schaffer and Layton Hailey were each assigned a road leading out of town. The part required of the women is already worked out and will be taken care of by them. The next question before the meeting in which not all but many are interested was a water project for fire protection. Ever since I was a boy this problem was talked of, discussed, and argued and every time it flopped, and it really is a hard nut to crack in so small a community with approximately 150 inhabitants. First the amount of money is limited, and unity and cooperation is lacking. I hope the matter can be worked out to a successful conclusion and with perfect satisfaction to all. Well, one step probably in the right direction has been made. A board of managers was appointed the other night comprising of John Harman, Howard Reichard, Harry K. Myers, William Warner and Elder Hare. The fitness and qualification of these men are without question and the people feel safe with the matter in their hands. Let's wait. What will happen is more than a guess just now.

Our folks have been responding splendidly to the Victory Book Campaign. Lillian Mason and Dorothy Wantz have been especially active as solicitors and have collected more than 100 books. Any good books will be appreciated and can be taken to the home of Bessye Zile until Feb. 4th.

Sabbath School will be conducted here next Sunday at 10 A. M. The evangelistic meeting to continue two weeks will start this Sunday night at 7:30 P. M. Rev. Hiram Lefever, of Lancaster, will be the guest speaker for the entire series. Rev. J. H. Hoch will be in charge.

NEW DESIGNS FOR YOUR COOKIE JAR

(See Recipes Below)

COOKIE SURPRISES

All crisp, crunchy, and some slightly nutty, all of today's recipes are so fashioned as to send you on a real cookie-baking spree. Fill that lovely cookie jar of yours until the sides are fairly bulging with goodies so you can have cookies a-plenty to put in the children's lunch boxes, to serve as afternoon snacks, and as a pick-up for mealtime.

If you're doing some baking for a bazaar, there's nothing quite like plates of yummy cookies to put over the sales. Remember, you can sell a lot more, if you give out some samples. These can be set on plates with white paper doilies, for sampling, and those to be sold put in boxes already fixed. Cookies can be sold by the dozen if they're fancy and somewhat elaborate, by the pound if they're small drop cookies or squares.

Here's an interesting variation of the filled cookie, both dainty and delectable.

Corn Flake Filled Cookies. (Makes 36 medium-sized cookies)

1 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
3 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups cornflakes

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add alternately with water and flavoring to first mixture. Stir in coarsely rolled corn flakes. Chill. Roll dough to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutter. Spread one round with filling, put on a second round and press edges together with a fork. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a hot (425 degrees) oven about 12 minutes.

Filling.

1 1/2 cups chopped dates
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon orange rind

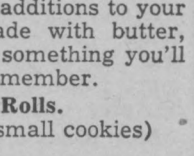

Combine all ingredients together and cook until soft paste is formed. Cool before filling cookies.

These little butter balls make good nibbling and smart additions to your teatime table. Made with butter, their flavor will be something you'll long cherish and remember.

Butter Rolls. (Makes 7 dozen small cookies)

1/4 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup finely chopped nuts

Cream brown sugar and shortening. Add beaten eggs and vanilla. Add flour and baking powder. Roll into balls the size of marbles. Mix the granulated sugar and nuts and roll the balls in the mixture. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 10 minutes. These cookies will flatten slightly.

LYNN SAYS:

An assortment of cookies, freshly baked and packed in tins with waxed paper between layers makes a delightful present for youngsters away at school and for friends you seldom see. When your own cookie jar has been filled to bulging, pack a few boxes from what you have and spread cheer to others, too.

Careful packing in tins with waxed paper will keep even small dainty cookies fresh for a long time. Some flavors like chocolate improve after they stand for some time. Chewy, nutty cookies are the more chewy and delicious after several days. Spicy cookies become moist and well flavored after standing.

*Recipe Given

Your cookie jar problem can be solved very neatly with toothsome oatmeal cookies with flecks of chocolate in them:

Oatmeal Cookies. (Makes 4 dozen)

1/2 cup butter or shortening
1 cup brown sugar
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 egg, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sifted flour
1 1/2 cups fine rolled oats
7 ounces chocolate pieces

Cream butter and sugar. Add orange rind, egg, vanilla and beat well. Add salt and flour which has been mixed with the oats. Add chocolate pieces and work into batter. Drop by spoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate (375 degrees) oven.

Recommendations are in for the old favorites of which you never tire. If you want to make a pretty and at the same time, a very successful platter, you might try alternate rows of both these Ginger Cookies and

Brownies:

Soft Ginger Cookies. (Makes 5 dozen)

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup molasses
3/4 cup evaporated milk
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon each, ginger, cinnamon

Cream sugar and shortening, add egg and molasses. Beat well, add milk and blend well. Mix dry ingredients and add to batter. Last add soda, dissolved in 2 tablespoons warm water. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake 15 minutes in a hot (375 degrees) oven.

Brownies. (Makes 2 dozen)

1/2 cup butter or shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
3/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs and sugar together. Add to this melted butter and chocolate and blend. Add flour, baking powder, nuts, and beat well. Pour into a greased pan and bake 30 minutes in a 350-degree oven. Cool and cut in squares.

For a delicious variation of the brownie recipe, you'll like the addition of 1/4 cup of bran cereal in place of the chopped nuts. They'll give you a slightly different flavored cookie, but guaranteed to please you, just as well.

Meat-Macaroni Casserole.

1 package macaroni
1/2 cup salad oil
1 pound hamburger
1 dry onion, minced
1 green pepper, minced
1 clove garlic, if desired
1 can tomato soup
2 cups peas
2 cups corn
Salt and pepper

Cook the macaroni in plenty of boiling salted water and when tender, put in a sieve and rinse with cold water. Meanwhile fry the hamburger in the heated oil, stirring it occasionally to separate it. Skim out the meat and in the same fat cook onion, pepper and garlic till tender, but not browned. Garlic may be omitted entirely, and it is usually removed after the onion and pepper are cooked. Combine all ingredients and simmer 20 to 30 minutes to heat thoroughly and blend flavors, then serve.

He Was Stand-in For Buffalo Bill

Rodeo Veteran Tells How He Used to Fool Crowds.

CHICAGO.—Hi Cy.

"Hi!"

Hear tell you've been Buffalo Bill on occasion.

"Yes, sir, lots of times I've stood in for Colonel Cody."

Col. Cy Compton has been cheered as Buffalo Bill many a time by people all over the United States and Europe.

"Well, sir," said the colonel, "I used to ride with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Congress of Rough Riders of the World. I was with him from 1896 to 1913. When the show closed I was king of the cowboys!"

How come you to be mistook for Buffalo Bill, pard? You don't look like the famous colonel.

"Nope," said Cy, "but I could be made to look like him with a wig and a goatee. Every once in a while in the old days, Colonel Cody would call me and say:

"I don't feel like ridin' today, Cy. You take my place." So I'd dress up in a wig and goatee and a Buffalo Bill outfit and ride in his place.

No one in the audience knew the difference and half the folks in the show didn't even know. I still pay tribute to the greatest character that ever came out of the old West by dressing up to resemble him as I used to in the old days."

How long you been riding, Colonel Compton?

"Ever since I was a kid. I've been following the rodeos for five years now. I'm 66, but you know how it is. The show business never lets go of you."

Cy is here with the rodeo at the Chicago Stadium and he's doing a big loop roping act in which he catches six horses at a time. He's got a home out in California on a "ranch" of five acres.

Britain Removes Frills From Women's Undies

LONDON.—Streamlined and stamped underwear for women is the latest wrinkle in Britain's war effort. The board of trade announced that the new government-controlled undies would have no frills, little, if any, lace and would be within reach of everyone's pocketbook.

Each garment will bear a monogram, but not the fancy silk-woven initials sometimes used. Instead, it will carry the cold government stamp—CC 41 (CC meaning controlled commodity).

Luxury underwear, however, still will be obtainable, but it is possible that a pair of pink panties (uncontrolled) may cost $15.

Judge in West Virginia Laughs at Locksmiths

LOGAN, W. VA.—The best safe cracker in these parts is Judge J. E. ("Ned") Peck. The judge has been careful to maintain his amateur standing. He has made a study of safe locks. "Lots of times the tumbler become worn," he said, "and you have to try a number of combinations on them before they'll open. Usually one of 27 combinations sometimes 29 have to be tried. On the other hand, I've hit the right combination the first time. It's no trick at all. My fingers feel the tumblers fall."

The Maiden

There was a fair maiden named Bate Who once angled to capture a mate; She caught Mr. Fish

And thus got her wish— Then the fish and the bait met their fate.

HUMANS

"People are funny."

"How so?"

"In this Van Million divorce suit they divided $25,000,000 amicably and then scrapped about the custody of a pug dog."

50 Years Ago (NEW WINDSOR)

How many remember the Charley Norris "Emporium" where we got our mail, tobacco, watches, dime novel "thrillers," the New York Ledger and other weekly magazines, candy, spices, "Enterprise" coffee, the famous "hot-pot composition" for sore throat and colds and patent medicines for man and beast. On display was a wonder music box which when you wound it up gave forth tinkly little tunes that delighted our childish hearts.

Unless I am mistaken Charlie also had a leading part in establishing the "Roller Skating Rink" where the swains upheld their maidens as they gaily glided around on roller skates—that is when they were not down on the polished floor in a helpless tangle. I remember how astonished we were to see the Salvation Army lasses, stationed in town, whirling around on the arms of their lucky escorts.

How well we remember the awe with which we regarded the old brick "fial house" with its high barred windows. It stood in the alley back of the Methodist Church site and it was a place of great curiosity to us especially when some "drunk" was continuing his celebration therein. Who remembers the name of the tough customer they finally succeeded in landing in the "hoosegow" only to find on the morning after that he had dug his way out and disappeared.

As a child I remember the big dam covering the meadows between the R. R. and the old Englar Mill, with its great stone breast wide enough so that the old roadway crossed over it at least part of the way. How we used to shudder and sheer away from the edges when crossing in fear of falling into the depths below. How many recall the old covered causeway, carrying water from the upper reaches of the dam through town close by the R. R. tracks to run the machinery in the old shop where the defunct creamery now stands.

And how well I remember the gang of "smart" town boys who made life miserable for us green country bumpkins, whenever we visited their busy little town to gape at its wonders. They frequently chased us with stones, calling us choice names the while and taunting us to stand and fight. But thanks to long legs and strong country lungs they never caught us. These tough kids are now staid and respectable city fathers with never a thought to the misery they caused us so many years ago.

Unreeling of Cocoons Most Tedious Silk Task

In Japan, silkworm culture is a family undertaking, a part time job on some 2,000,000 farms. In the month and a half each spring when the worms are growing and spinning, the entire family participates in their care. A large part of the house is given over to them, the family keeping only one or two rooms. Similar enterprises in America involved the building of separate sheds for the exclusive use of the worms.

The most tedious of all the tasks connected with silk production is the unreeling of the cocoons. First the cocoon is put in hot water to soften the gummy substance which binds the threads. Then the reeler, usually a girl, seeks out the loose ends by which the cocoon was attached to the branch. One thread is too thin alone, so she joins the threads of five or six cocoons and reels them as one. Reeled separately, a thousand miles of silk filament would be required to make a pound. To produce that weight of thread, 2,500 to 3,000 cocoons must be unrolled. Last year it was announced that mechanical devices had been developed to triple the speed of reeling, but still the cost would be prohibitive at American wages.

After reeling, the silk is inspected and rewound into skeins of several ounces each. These are combined into "books" of five to ten pounds which, in turn, are packed in bales of 160 to 200 pounds for shipment. Each bale represents the life work of some 500,000 hand-fed silkworms.

Gold, Platinum Formed From Mercury Experiment

Gold and platinum have been formed from mercury by bombardment of the liquid metal with high-speed neutrons in experiments at Harvard university by Dr. R. Sherr and Dr. K. T. Bainbridge. Ten different isotopes of the three metals were found after the bombardment. There were three kinds of gold, four kinds of platinum and the remainder were of mercury.

One kind of gold isotope was half gone in 48 minutes, the second kind had a half-life of 65 hours and the third isotope 78 hours. The synthetic platinum also had brief half-life spans, 27 minutes, 85 minutes, 19 hours and two days. All of the isotopes were radio-active and broke down to other more stable forms of the same elements. The rate at which this happens is indicated by the half-life, which means that in the given period half of the material has broken down, and in a similar period half of the rest will do likewise, in a continuing process. Gold, platinum and mercury differ but slightly in atomic weight. By shooting extra neutrons into the nucleus of the mercury atom, its atomic weight can be raised, but this also can result in other particles being forced out of the nucleus.

No Dummy Oil Well

People who never saw a real oil well on a downtown street may be skeptical of this story, but east Texans will not be surprised.

There is one oil well in front of a tire company and others behind the building, all operated from a central pumping unit. Many persons believed that the well in front of the building was an advertisement for the gasoline station.

Such persons were surprised recently when the well "blew out" its packing and ran wild for several minutes. Oil blew across the top of the building and covered two parked automobiles. Fire trucks rushed to the scene, because a careless smoker could have started a disastrous fire.

But the well was closed in, and the uninformed thought that the oil well was real and not a dummy.

Two Threads in Weaving

In any form of weaving there are two kinds of thread—the warp, which runs lengthwise of the finished fabric, and the filling, which runs across at right angles with the warp. In the simplest form of weaving the filling goes over one warp thread, under the next, over the third, under the fourth and so on. Many fancy yarns are made, and are woven into intricate designs. The plain weave is an open weave, cooler for summer-wear garments, and is found in tropical worsteds, rayon fabrics and most washable cotton and linen fabrics. Twill weave is closer, warmer, and used for overcoats, suits, uniforms, and is more durable than the plain weave for heavier yarns.

Duster, Sprayer

There are two pieces of equipment which every gardener must have. These are a duster, which can be one of the small hand types, and a sprayer that also might be one of the small one-quart outfits provided the problems encountered are small.

In the experience of most individuals charged with the responsibility of caring for an average-sized garden that one of the two gallon, or larger, pneumatic pressure sprayers is better. Such an outfit easily pumps up a head of air and will do considerable spraying of even the hardest-to-distribute fluids for a long time before repumping is again necessary. Such an outfit is also useful for small tree spraying jobs.

SHORT STORY

An Odd Experience

By MEREDITH SCHOLL

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

EVERY once in a while one comes in contact with the unexplainable something which strengthens our belief that there is something behind this thing called life. My experience with Byron Horne was of that sort. Byron was a gambler when I met him. That was at the Hialeah track. We were both young and footloose and out for a good time and we found a lot in common. We walked around together all that winter and became close friends. In the summer we went up to Narragansett and Salem, then back to Tropical park and Hialeah in the winter.

It was at Miami that Byron met Lillian Bickford. You've heard about this love at first sight business? Well, that's the way it was with Byron. I never did see a man become so cracked over a girl.

For a time Lillian played around with Byron. Or perhaps that's putting it too strongly. She tolerated him. Pitted him, to my way of thinking. Anyway, when she suddenly woke up to the fact that Byron was serious, she broke the thing off. There wasn't any use, she said, letting it continue. She didn't love him, had never given him to believe that she did, and unless he could think of her only as a friend, it was best for both of them to call a halt at once.

Byron was like a crazy man. He pleaded with her, begged her to give him a chance to prove his worth. And at last he resorted to threat. She'd either marry him, he said, or no one. He'd not let her marry anyone else. Crazy talk.

It wasn't Lillian's fault. She tried to reason with him at first, explaining that she didn't have any intention of marrying anyone right away. Then when Byron got ugly she grew contemptuous. If she wanted to marry anyone she would, and nothing he could do or say would stop her.

Byron was like a crazy man. He pleaded with her, begged her to give him a chance to prove his worth.

The next day she left for the north. Byron followed. And because I was his friend and the season was nearly ended anyway, I went with him. Lillian lived in Boston, and Byron and I took up residence in a rooming house on Beacon street, not far from the Bickford homestead.

He called at the Bickford estate and was thrown out by the butler. Then he began phoning, but the same butler told him where to head in.

I tried to argue him back to his senses. But it was like talking to a stone wall. I'd heard about guys being affected that way, but Byron's case was my first experience.

In July he read in the papers that the Bickfords had gone to Bar Harbor, and within 30 minutes we were headed for the resort too. We put up at the same hotel and he'd sit in the lobby for hours, waiting for her to come down. But Lillian wouldn't listen. If he didn't cease bothering her, she said, she'd have him arrested.

Byron didn't believe her, and he kept on. But Lillian was serious. One day in the lobby she called a house detective. The detective grasped Byron by the scruff of the neck and turned him over to the local police. The next day Lillian and her father appeared in the district court, and Byron was given 30 days to think it over.

By the time Byron got out Lillian and her folks had gone. I brought him over to the new hotel where I was staying and tried to argue him into forgetting her. A change had come over him. He didn't say anything, but sat in moody silence, drinking my liquor.

That winter we went to California. And the first person we saw after registering at the hotel was Lillian. That's fate for you. She was with a young good-looking chap, and she looked right at Byron without recognizing him. That's how much he'd changed.

Byron never said a word. Odd, I thought. He never said anything, even after we read in the papers that Lillian and this young chap, Sydney Young, his name was, were going to be married within a month out at Santa Barbara. Curious the way he was acting.

Five days passed and suddenly Byron disappeared. He stayed away two days and then came into the room late one afternoon. He was grinning, but there was a wild look in his eyes.

"Well," he said, "it's all fixed."

"What's all fixed?" I asked.

He laughed. "I said she never would marry anyone else, and she never will. I'm going to kill 'em both. Tomorrow night. I've got everything arranged."

"You're crazy!" I told him.

"You'll hang for it."

But he didn't hear me. He'd sunk into a chair and picked up a bottle. I came and stood over him. "Don't be a fool, Byron. You can't get away with it. What do you want to kill a couple of innocent kids for? It isn't fair or right. They're both good kids!"

But he only sat there, grinning and drinking. I got kind of panicky. He was my friend, but it wasn't right to stand by and let him knock off a couple of innocent youngsters. I went out, but when I got back an hour later with a copper, Byron was gone.

Well, heck, it was hard trying to sell the copper the idea that Lillian Bickford was in danger. He sort of snickered. The Bickfords were big shots. They'd be looked after.

I didn't know what to do. Then I thought of calling the Bickfords. When they told me Lillian and Sydney had gone to Hillstown to spend the night with some friends I went cold. Byron had found out about that trip and that's where he planned to kill 'em.

I yelled into the phone to have 'em stopped—and at that minute the earthquake happened. The building shook and I fell down, and went out for awhile. When I came to folks were running around yelling and there was a general hullabaloo.

It wasn't a bad quake. Just a little shake-out with no real damage. By morning things were pretty near normal, although the papers were full of the phenomenon. I bought one and read the headlines. Only one man had been killed, a man identified as Byron Horne, who was found in a Hillstown rooming house, dead by asphyxiation. The quake had cracked a gas pipe in his room, and the gas had slowly leaked out. Mr. Horne had been drinking and probably thought his drowsiness due to the liquor. His was the only life that had been taken as the result of the earthquake, one of the mildest jolts ever reported.

Spider Gets Name From Spinning; Not Insects

The word "spider" grew out of an old Anglo-Saxon word meaning "to spin." We may give this meaning as "spinner," and that is a good way to describe this little animal.

Silk is spun by spiders, good silk which could be made into thread and woven into cloth if enough of it were obtained. Spiders do not get along well together, and that is why they are not kept in colonies like silkworms.

Some spiders never spin webs in the open air. Yet they use silk in preparing nests, and for other purposes.

A person is apt to think of spiders as insects, but men of science do not class them as insects. They are classified as "arachnids." They differ in several ways from true insects.

A true insect has six legs, but a spider has eight. The body of a true insect is divided into three main parts, but the spider's body has only two main parts.

Most kinds of insects have wings. Certain insects, like ants, seldom have them, but in the spider world we find no wings at all. There are hundreds of kinds of spiders but none can spread wings and fly.

The nearest thing to a "flying spider" is one which spins out silk, and then sails through the air when blown by a strong breeze. A little "aviator" of this type may travel miles before landing.

Many female spiders spin silken cases in which to place their eggs, and then drag the egg case after them as they move about. When the young spiders hatch they may crawl on the body of the mother and cling there day after day.

Spiders differ a great deal in size. Some, when full-grown, can stand on a dime and have space left over. Others are very large.

The largest member of the whole tribe is the so-called "bird-eating spider." It is a native of the tropics, and is found chiefly in South America.

Some bird-eating spiders are large enough to spread their legs clear across a man's hand. The body alone may be as much as three inches long.

The bird-eating spider has a hairy covering. It lives chiefly on insects, but has been known to attack and kill hummingbirds.

Egyptian Social Butterflies

Egypt's social butterflies went to their beauty parlors for the "works" too, eyebrows plucked, hair waved, mud baths and all the rest of the ritual. Spicy lip salves were used in 3,500 B. C. and palms of hands and heels were hennaed for beauty.

Find Wreckage of Plane Long Lost

Missing Pilot Set Off for Europe Two Years Ago.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.—The weather-beaten wreckage of a tiny plane found in the wilderness of Newfoundland told of the disaster which befell Thomas H. Smith of Clarksburg, W. Va., who set off for trans-Atlantic adventure in his "baby clipper" two years ago.

"Walking out to avoid freezing," said a note left in the plane by Smith, flier, who took off from Old Orchard Beach, Maine, May 28, 1939.

No trace has been found of the flier. It is believed he died trying to make his way from a spot so isolated that his plane lay there unnoticed for two years in spite of extensive aerial flights over Newfoundland since the war.

Smith's note indicated that he realized he had only a slight chance to be found after the crash of his frail, 670-pound plane far from any settlement.

He wrote that his next of kin was Harvey S. Smith, of Clarksburg, W. Va. Then, it is believed, he began his search for civilization immediately, knowing his plight had been unobserved and that searchers would have to explore a vast area of sea and land between his starting point and his goal, Slyn Head, Ireland.

The exact place of the crash was not disclosed, but reports here said it was about 50 miles inland in western Newfoundland.

Royal Canadian air force fliers were understood to have spotted the plane. It was then photographed from the air and its wing marking checked with United States authorities who identified it as Smith's.

Members of the United States army air corps were said to have reached the wrecked plane and found the note.

Jilted Suitor Murders Model and Ends His Life

NEW YORK.—A lovers' quarrel was blamed for the deaths of Janet Wood, 23, pretty brunette clothing model, and Frederick Rabe, 34-year-old writer.

Their bodies were found by Gust Thorsteinsson, a clerk in the Icelandic consulate, when she returned to the upper East Side apartment she shared with Miss Wood.

Listing the case as one of murder and suicide, detectives said Rabe attempted a reconciliation with Miss Wood and that when he failed he shot her, then himself.

Detectives said they learned from Miss Thorsteinsson that her roommate had told Rabe a week ago that she was "through with him."

Miss Wood formerly lived in Englewood, N. J.

"You say you and your husband have separated?"
 "Yes, he spends his vacation in the country and I go to the seashore."

Accomplished
 Two elderly men at a club were discussing the table manners of a new member.

"Well, what do you think of him?" asked one.

"Very remarkable," replied the other, thoughtfully. "I've heard soup gargled and syphoned, but, upon my word, that's the first time I've ever known it to be yodeled."

Equal to It

A farmer's son, just home from school, seemed to take pride in using college slang, and at the breakfast table called out: "Mother, chase the cow down this way!"

Mother was equal to the occasion, and remarked to husband: "Give the poor calf some milk. Don't you hear him bawling for it?"

JESUS CALLS FOUR DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 5:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Followers of Christ are those who have not counted their goods nor their persons their own, but have willingly yielded all to Him. Obviously many who profess to follow Him have only done so in that measure which will not interfere with their own plans and interests. They need to study this lesson with care.

The call of Christ is one which demands willing and wholehearted obedience.

I. Yielded Possessions (vv. 1-3).

These disciples had already responded to the ministry of Jesus and had followed Him for a time (see John 1:35-4:54), but they did not yet know the fullness of surrender to Christ and had now gone back to their old work of fishing. May they not be typical of many in our day who know the Lord and have for a time followed Him closely, but have again become engrossed in their daily vocation, perhaps just making money?

Jesus was now ready to call them out into a lifetime of service, and the first thing He did was to ask the use of their chief possession, their boat. That was first yielded to Him.

It was not by chance that it was Peter's boat which was just at hand when the Master needed it. Such things do not "just happen." The destinies of men are in the hands of God, and with His children the simplest happening is known to and controlled by Him. He who numbers the hairs on our heads, He who observes the fall of the sparrow, knows about everything that happens to us.

II. Yielded Service (vv. 4-7).

Having completed His teaching by word, Jesus had a special object lesson for Peter and the others concerning the fruitfulness of service apart from His guidance and control, and the blessed results which come from obedience to Him.

Taking them where he found them, He showed the disciples that He was the Master even of their secular vocation of fishing. He is the One who knows more about your business than you do, who can give or withhold His blessing. All that we have has come to us from His hand, and it is all within His control.

This Almighty One was ready to call these fishermen out into the greater business of fishing for men by revealing to them His mighty power to bless and prosper the fisherman—who becomes a fisher of men.

III. Yielded Lives (vv. 8-11).

The giving of their possessions, the yielding of their work into His hands in obedience, led up to His call for the yielding of their lives.

Often we speak of God's claims upon the life of the Christian as though it were the fiat of an autocrat, one who demands his rights. God might well do so, for He has full authority and power over all of us, but He is a gracious God and gently leads His children along to the place where they make their own decision to leave all and follow Him.

The work of God in the world is carried on by men. The joy of proclaiming the gospel was not given to the angels, but to redeemed men and women. Knowing the regenerating grace of God in their own lives, they have been called during all this Christian era to go out to tell others.

In preparation for that ministry our Lord needed yielded lives, which He sought and found in these humble fishermen. They were "not visionaries or dreamers, but were practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the school of common toil. . . . Though unlearned so far as formal theological training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of the Son of God Himself they received matchless informal training . . . leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through a study of His Word, assisted by His Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Christ no longer walks this earth to seek and call out disciples as He did these men, but the blessed succession of those of whom it may be said, "They forsook all and followed Him" (v. 11), continues to this day.

We repeat what we have said before, that one of the thrilling things about teaching Sunday school is that somewhere, in some class this next Sunday, God is going to touch the heart of some boy or girl who will be a leader for Him for the next generation.

Scientists Study Newly

Discovered Arizona Pits

Strewn like giant shell holes across the sun-scorched Arizona plain, a score of newly discovered pits 40 miles southeast of Meteor crater are being studied by an expedition which includes Dr. Harvey Nininger, curator of the Denver museum and president of the Society for Research on Meteorites, who heads the expedition which hopes to prove the craters were caused by meteorites.

If so, they contain thousands of pounds of nickel now vitally needed for national defense metal production, the scientists pointed out.

There is a strong possibility, the experts acknowledged, that the pits were caused by the tail of a comet which smashed to earth thousands of years ago, or by fragments of an exploding meteorite.

There's a chance also, Dr. Nininger admitted, that the perfect circle craters may prove to be sink holes caused by a large underground river.

The pits, which average 300 feet in diameter and 150 feet in depth, will be studied with a magnetometer, radio sounding device, and also with special acids and other geophysical equipment. The expedition also will carry drilling apparatus.

Five hundred thousand pounds of nickel valued at $300,000,000 are contained in the 10,000,000-ton meteorite located underground just south of Meteor crater, government geologists estimate.

The Barringer family of Philadelphia has spent $500,000 since 1909 in mining operations at the crater.

Sun Floating in Thick

Cloud, Claim Scientists

Evidence "consistent with the hypothesis" that the sun is floating in a dust and gas layer thick enough to cause light to require 1,500 years to travel through it has been found by three University of Wisconsin astronomers in observations at Mt. Wilson observatory, Los Angeles.

This indicates that, but for the obscuring cloud, the sun's light would be many times more brilliant than at present!

The earth itself, however, is near the center of the all-enveloping absorbing layer, it was said, and thus the light from a star outside of the clouds would be reduced about 15 per cent in reaching the earth.

Also, being near the sun—astronomically, at least—the earth would not get the full effect of the obscuration of the sun's light.

Distant stars, too, in many cases would appear many times brighter but for gas and dust clouds in nearby space, the savants said.

Making the observations were Drs. Joel Stebbins, C. M. Huffer and A. E. Whitford. They used a photoelectric cell attached to telescopes here and at Madison, Wis., they reported in the current issue of the Astrophysical Journal.

About 30 per cent of a star's light is absorbed as it passes through the clouds, they reported.

Wool-Labeling Law

It is reassuring to learn that the labels which are made mandatory by the new wool-labeling law must state both the kind of wool, the proportion of it, and the proportion of any added material or wool substitute. Here is the way some of these new labels read on clothing articles featuring a popular and fine quality of wool textile used in making coats and dresses:

- (1) XXXXX Woolen—Eighty-five per cent virgin wool; 15 per cent Angora rabbit hair.
- (2) Ninety-five per cent virgin wool; 5 per cent pure silk decoration.
- (3) Ninety-five per cent virgin wool; 5 per cent Angora rabbit hair. And so on with other mixtures and proportions.

What! No Soap

Did you ever dash into a rest-room to tidy up before a meal, to find to your dismay there wasn't any soap with which to remove the grime of your motor trip? Did you? Of course you did! And we can almost hear your disheartened expression, "No soap!"

All of which brings us directly to the good news we have for you of new tissue thin disks that lather immediately in any kind of water.

A good supply of disks is contained in a flat case, no larger than a compact, so you can carry them in your handbag. They are the bright idea of a famous cosmetician and are a grand bon voyage remembrance as well as a "must" for your own handbag.

Rubbing Hunchback

A curious figure of a hunchback, carved from black basalt by some old cliff-dweller sculptor, was unearthed in a prehistoric refuse-heap near Mesa Verde, Colo., not long ago.

The "Hunchback of Mesa Verde" as this early example of Indian art has been named, stands a trifle less than six inches tall and the rough surface of his hump has been worn smooth from contact with hundreds of human hands.

Whether this resulted from the "rubs" of America's first gamblers, or whether from being carried about as a talisman against the primitive cliff-dwellers' particular form of the Evil Eye, is, however, not known.

TO YOUR Good Health by DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

INFLUENCE OF WEATHER ON HEALTH AND DISEASE

Everyone knows of people who can predict a change in the weather because rheumatic or previously injured joints become stiff and painful, but few appreciate that such changes affect the health and well-being of all. In the days before bacteria and viruses were proven to be the causes of many of our most common diseases, most of them were believed to be due to climatic and weather conditions.

Dr. Nathan S. Davis III

Typhoid fever, cholera and other water-borne diseases and malaria, yellow fever and other diseases carried by insects that breed in standing water were most prevalent in wet seasons. They were considered to be caused by high humidity, high atmospheric pressures and dampness. As it became known that one or another type of organism caused such diseases, the members of the medical profession paid less attention to the effects of weather on health.

However, some attention is again being given to the influences of weather on health and disease. It is known that in the north temperate zone, "colds," sore throats, sinus infections, bronchitis and pneumonias are most prevalent from November through April but the probable connection between the high incidence and the lack of ultra violet rays from the sun during these months is not appreciated.

It has long been known that a stimulating climate, one in which weather and especially temperature varies greatly causes civilization to reach the highest levels. However, extreme changes have a detrimental effect, especially on the sick who may even be benefited by constant temperature and weather conditions. For example, the individual who has a high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries benefits from a constant fairly warm climate and reacts badly to the marked changes in temperature, humidity and atmospheric pressure. Such an individual will often consult his physician when there has been a sudden and great rise in temperature with an equally abrupt rise in humidity and barometric pressure and state that he feels much worse and is sure that his blood pressure is much higher than usual. But under such circumstances, instead of being higher, the blood pressure is often distinctly lower than it has been. This fall in blood pressure and the changes in the circulation and in cellular chemistry that result, is probably the reason that so many, under such atmospheric conditions, have "strokes."

These rapid changes in the weather conditions also have an effect on the healthy and seem to decrease their ability to withstand infections. Everyone knows that colds are more prevalent during a winter thaw with relatively high temperatures following abruptly on an unusually cold spell. Such weather is also "pneumonia weather."

There are, then, plenty of reasons for the development of aches and pains with changes in the weather; for your feeling blue and depressed in bad weather and full of vim, vigor and vitality when the sun is shining, the weather cool, and the barometer low.

The cattle know when to leave their pasture, but a foolish man knows not the measure of his own appetite.

QUESTION BOX

Send questions to Dr. Nathan S. Davis III, Winnetka, Ill. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Q.—Will buttermilk and lemon juice bleach freckles?
A.—Buttermilk and lemon juice are harmless and not very effective. Perhaps the new method of peeling skin safely may be of help for freckles.

Q.—Are boils caused by a virus, or some external cause? M. S.

A.—Boils are usually caused by a staphylococcus, a bacterium and not by a virus. Both are external causes.

CHEAPER TO RAISE GOOD HEIFERS THAN BUY THEM

Every dairyman who has gone out to buy replacement stock knows how hard it is to obtain just what he wants. Naturally, the man with surplus stock wants to keep the best heifers for the improvement of his own herd and that leaves only those of poorer quality available for the buyer.

But many dairymen have shunned the idea of raising replacement dairy stock because they believed it unprofitable, as well as extremely bothersome.

This opinion, however, is contrary to the belief of D. H. Van Pelt, dairy specialist with Purina Mills. He says that it's actually more profitable, as well as preferable, for each dairyman to produce his own replacement stock.

He uses tests conducted at the Purina Experimental Farm, Gray Summit, Mo., to prove his contention. At the time the Purina Holstein herd was purchased in 1928, he says, the average production of the herd was 6,500 pounds of milk. Last year, the average production of the herd was 12,143 pounds.

According to Van Pelt, every single animal in this herd is a descendant of one of the original animals purchased in 1928.

No Milk After First Month

When growing out the replacements for this herd, not a drop of milk is fed after the heifer calves are a month old. Instead, they receive Calf Startena, a dry feed ration which this Farm has found to give extremely good results, up to sixteen weeks. From then until freshening they are fed Purina Dry and Freshening Chow, a special body building feed, with roughage.

This plan has proven so satisfactory that Holstein heifers at the Purina Farm freshen at about 24 months of age, weighing approximately 1200 pounds. This is three to four months earlier than the average for the breed, and the weight is the same as that ordinarily expected for 28 to 30-month-old heifers.

Editor's Note: A copy of a bulletin explaining in detail the Purina plan for raising heifers may be obtained from our local Purina dealer, without charge.

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

The Music Department of the Taneytown High School will present "Little Women," an operetta in three acts from the novel by Louisa M. Alcott, and arranged by Geoffrey O'Hara. The presentation of this operetta will be in the High School auditorium on Friday evening, Feb. 6, at eight o'clock.

After trying several people for different characters the cast is complete and ready to thrill the audience with an enjoyable evening. The cast of characters are as follows:

Jo, Mary Louise Alexander; Amy, Ruth Hess; Beth, Martha Messler; Meg, Mary Utz; Mr. March, Glenn Smith; Mrs. March, Hazel Sies; Aunt March, Patricia Butler; Hannah, Letitia Smith; Laurie, John Harner; Brooke, Herbert Bowers; Professor Blazer, Wirt Crapster; Vaughan, Jas. Teeter; David Ralston, Carroll Eckard; Tom Billings, Albert Crabbe; George Smith, Frank Moose; Sallie Gardener, Thelma Roop; Irene Gardener, Kathleen Sauble; Mary Gardener, Louise Foreman; Joan Gardener, Anna Mae Hartsock; Julia Gardener, Erma Unger.

The chorus, which will help the main characters sing several selections, consists of the following pupils: Truth Myers, Marjorie Jenkins, Alice Hitchcock, Carolyn Johnson, Ruth Hiltbrich, Charlotte Baker, Jean Mohney, Treva Brower, Ruth Waltz, June Brown, Alice Crapster, Miriam Copenhaver, Marion Eckard, Marie Hilbert, Mary Frances Six, Frances Sell, Calvin Hoy, George Null, Francis Shaum, Irvin Myers, Harmon Stone, Elwood Fream. All patronage will be greatly appreciated.

The Senior Class Taneytown High School will sponsor the movie, "One Foot in Heaven," which will be shown at the Taneytown Theatre, in March.

NOTES ABOUT WHITE HOUSE

Prime Minister Winston Churchill's "siren suit," a overall outfit he wears during air raids, proved such a hit at the White House that Mrs. Roosevelt is going to have one made for the President.

Patents are on the decline, will slump more in 1942, predicts the Patent Office. The 151-year history of the office shows that there is a dropping off of invention during wartime. The 41,122 patents granted in 1941 was a drop of 1,100 from 1940 figures.

A number of taxicabs have been offered to the Office of Civilian Defense by the District Cab Association. They will be converted into ambulances for use during the emergency. Record number of marriage licenses—10,354 of them—were issued by the District marriage license bureau last year. Former high was 7,727 for 1940.

ORPHANS' COURT PROCEEDINGS

A Beatrice Gladhill, administratrix of the estate of Wilbur S. Gladhill, deceased, returned inventory of money and report of sale of goods and chattels.

John L. Schweigart, administrator of the estate of Fannie S. Schweigart deceased, returned report of sale of goods and chattels.

Letters of administration on the estate of Frances Erb, deceased, were granted unto Robert L. Erb, who received order to notify creditors and warrant to appraise goods and chattels.

H. Legare Webb, administrator of the estate of Henry H. Morman, deceased, filed his second and final account.

Harry F. Wilt, executor of the estate of John D. Wilt, deceased, filed his first administration account.

Delpha V. Wentz, administrator of the estate of Emma A. Turner, deceased, returned inventories of goods and chattels, money, debts due and received order to sell goods and chattels.

RED CROSS NUTRITION CLASSES

The regular standard Red Cross Nutrition Course will be given in several communities in Carroll County beginning in February, under the direction of Miss Adeline M. Hoffman, Home Demonstration Agent, and co-Chairman of Nutrition under the Women's Division of Civilian Defense. The standard course consists of 10 lessons, each 2 hours in length and people who complete the course are eligible to take the canteen course which also includes 10 lessons of 2 hours each.

All people interested in Canteen service should note that the nutrition course is prerequisite to the canteen course and since both call for 20 hours of work it will be important to complete the Nutrition Course as soon as possible.

Courses will be given both in the evening and afternoon and the frequency of meetings will be determined by the groups which organize for this work. People may enroll for the nutrition courses at the Red Cross headquarters at the Historical Society, with Mrs. Helen Harbaugh; or at the Home Demonstration Office, in the Postoffice Building.

One man asked another why he had such a "lost" look. His answer was as follows:

"I married a widow who had a grown-up step-daughter. My father came to see me, of course, and, being a widower, he fell in love with my step-daughter and married her. My father, therefore, became my son-in-law, and my step-daughter became my mother, because she had married my father."

"In due time my wife had a son, who was, of course, my father's brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my step-daughter. My father's wife, who was my step-daughter, remember, also had a son, who was my brother and at the same time my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter."

"Now my wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was, therefore, my wife's husband and grandchild, and, as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather."

"I understand that Ruth and Helen are at swords' points over Bobby." "At pin" points, would be nearer the truth."

Greatness Thrust Upon Him

Uncle—Well, Johnny, how are you getting on in school?" Johnny—Oh, I'm as great as George Washington, now.

Uncle—You are, and how is that? Johnny—Well, I went down in history this term.

Quick Thinking

Teacher—Now, which boy can name five things that contain milk? Freckle-faced Jimmie—Butter, cheese, ice cream, and two cows.—Commerce Gusher.

German Girl Weds Nazi After His Death at Front

BERLIN.—A German girl became a widow without ever having been a wife, when she formally wedded a dead man.

The girl had been the fiance of Sergt. Otto Ernst Maiwald, a German soldier in Africa. Last June Maiwald performed the so-called long-distance marriage service before the commander of his unit.

By the time the marriage papers reached the girl in her home town of Ebersdorf, he had been killed in action. Nevertheless, she went before a registrar and signed the marriage papers Maiwald had signed, and under Nazi law became entitled to pension and other benefits of a widow of a soldier who died in action.

The Effect of War on Our Loan Policy

With the coming of war, the loan policy of America's banks everywhere shifted to a wartime basis.

This does not mean that war and defense loans are the only kind that banks will make. But it does mean that loans which will contribute to Victory will have preference.

We will continue lending for non-defense purposes whenever such loans are sound and invite you to apply when you wish credit.
