BOARD OF EDUCATION MONTHLY MEETING. Argued by Att'y-General before Supreme Court. Attorney General William C. Walsh Taneytown High School to be and Assistant Attorney General Rob't E. Clapp, Jr., argued early this week before the Supreme Court of the United States a case which directly involves the right of an indigent per-son accused of crime to have counsel appointed for him by the Court. The case, which may have far-reaching effects throughout the entire country, is that of Smith Betts vs. Patrick J. Brady, Warden of the Penitentiary of Maryland.

Betts was accused of robbery in Carroll County, and at the time of trial, requested that the Judge appoint counsel for him as he did not have funds to employ counsel for himself. Judge Forsythe refused to appoint such counsel, it being the practice in the Fifth Judicial Circuit to appoint counsel only in cases where the prisoner might be subject to capital punishment, and at the trial Betts was found guilty, and sen-tenced to the Maryland Penitentiary.

Subsequent to his conviction, Betts tee was authorized to keep in touch with this situation. applied for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that the 14th. Amendwith this situation. Bixler was appointed to represent the Board of Education at Bond's decision, and certiorari was granted by the Supreme Court on Feb 16th. of this year. It has long been the practice of some of the Judges in Baltimore City, and in certain of the counties, to ap-point counsel for indigent prisoners only in cases involving capital punishment, and there are, at present, many prisomers confined in the penal insti-tutions of the State who were tried without having been represented by counsel. It is therefore, quite possible that these prisoners may be released by habeas corpus proceedings in the event that the Supreme Court

The WPB ordered a reduction in gasoline deliveries to filling stations in 17 Eastern States, the District of Columbia, Washington and Oregon, effective April 16, from the current four-fifths to two-thirds of the average amounts they received in December, January and February. Petro-leum Coordinator Ickes said the reduction may remove the necessity for card rationing of gasoline. Mr. Ickes announced the relocation of 1,400 miles of pipelines to increase East Coast oil supplies. The Board also prohibited the installation of new liquefied petroleum gas equipment. The WPB curtailed radical style changes in women's clothes and ordered manufacturers and dressmakers to eliminate excessive trimming in order to save an estimated 100 million yards of material. The Board ordered production of golf clubs halted May 31, and limited amounts of tinplate for canning condensed soups. The Board authorized manufacture this year of 18,000 freight cars and 300

TRUCK DITCHED NEAR TOWN

The truck of Emory Leister, haul-ing lime from the kilns in Hampstead was ditched at the junction of the Keymar and Keysville roads, Thurs-day morning. Mr. Leister was pro-ceeding toward Taneytown, when another vehicle coming out of the Keysville road forced him off the road. The soft ground in the ditch was hurned into a mud, the front springs broken, and other damage done to the truck. The load had to be removed and it was late in the afternoon when the truck was removed from its stopping place and towed away.

OLD-FASHIONED REVIVAL

Rev. Wm. E. Roop attended both sessions of the Dr. Chas. E. Fuller, o'd-fashioned revival, in Washington, C., on last Sunday, in the Uline Ice Arena.

Nearly nine thousand people were present in the afternoon meeting at 3:00 o'clock. The great choir sang most inspiringly, led by an expert vocal leader, from Rhode Island.

More than a quarter of a hundred were converted and came forward to grasp the hand of Dr. Fuller, the evangelist.

turns from the gardens are matched against the investment in the garden. Someone has said that "if you expect to live off your garden. you must be willing to live in it too." The reports from the gardeners show that the farmer, his wife and his children will have an equal share in the care of the garden and for people who live in town and have gardens in their back yards each member of the family will take a turn at caring for the garden. The fact that Carroll County poultry county is very well indicated by the victory garden reports show-that 72% of the number of people reporting will raise their own poultry, 42% will raise their own meat, 55% will have their own milk supply and 52% produce all of the fruit which can be grown in this climate. In February, a one-day victory gard-en school was conducted in Westminster with a number of speakers from the University of Maryland beside the County Agent and Home Demon-stration Agent for Carroll County. 4-H Club members are planning Victory Gardens as one of their victory projects and they will earn certificates and victory pins on the basis of these projects. Other people who have victory gardens will be awarded some type of recognition later in the year. NICE LITTLE BILL

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States on Tuesday laid before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives a sweeping series of tax proposals de-signed to raise $30,000,000,000 in the fiscal year 1943, with most of the in-crease to be laid on individuals rather than on corporations.

Among the plans proposed was a retail sales tax on a graduated scale, which would amount to an average of ten per cent on all consumer goods with no exemptions except direct purchases by the federal government. Nothing was said about how much of the money would be needed to pay additional inspectors, clerks, auditors and the like.

Other organizations are coming before the committee continually with proposals, objections and protests. It appears the members of the committee have something to sweat over.

Principal representations were from Taneytown, Littlestown, New Windsor, Manchester and Westminster.

The meeting was devoted principally to entertainment of which the chief features were music by local talent, tricks by a magician, and an address by Rev. Richard M. Lundberg, of the Westminster Episcopal Church, on life in Japan and the attack on Pearl Harbor.

WOMEN, TAKE NOTICE

The Office of Price Administration on Tuesday gave some very specific instructions with regard to styles of men's clothing. Among other things it warned that any one-even a wife -who puts cuffs on a man's trousers, will be liable to severe penalties. Other style hints are that "over-coats will be less full, contributing to the effect of simple tailoring that well-dressed men have always favored." Top coats and overcoats will be from two to four inches shorter than at present.

"Completely 'out' are vest with double-breasted suits; the second pair of paints with two-pants suits; full dress coats, cutaways and double-breasted tuxedos, the OPA explained.

However, it was asserted that the order to simplify styles so that woolens might be conserved will not make as radical a difference in fashions "as believed in some quarters."

The Secretary of the Navy is in direct charge of every matter relating to the Navy both afloat and ashore.

Random Thoughts

THE UNEXPECTED

The unexpected does happen. We are much inclined toward operating our lives about as we operating our lives about as we op-erate our autos. We put on speed, unnecessarily. We cut around corners without seeing far ahead. We "step on the gas," and take a chance that nothing will happen.

And then, when it does happen, our regrets can not repair the damage. How we like the easy roads of life. How we take pride in our strength and smartness. How we despise restraint, and rules of safety. And then, when it does happen, that need not have happened, and, we can not dodge our responsibility, we may try to resent the "bad luck," as we call it, but away back in our conscience we know where the blame properly rests. "Thou art the man," and "It might have been," are two of the most serious short sentences in P. B. E. any language.

OUR PATRIOTIC DAYS

We have a lot of them, dedicated to patriotic causes-Washington's birthday, Memorial Day, Flag Day, Independence Day, (and in Maryland) Defenders day, and Armistice Day.

Back in the days (only a few short years ago) when we celebrated with zest these various holidays, the patriotic fires burned bright in the minds and hearts of our people. Then the day was set apart for a particular purpose and used as such. Now the days seem set apart only to gad about and have a hilarious old time.

These days were each set apart to commemorate the deeds and daring of men who were not afraid to die for liberty.

Now, foolish simpletons, born under tyranny, and educated in old world "isms" flee those countries to escape the fate meted out to the lowly, and are no sooner settled here than they begin to scheme and connive to force upon us the very "ims" they fled from in the old world. And silly fools that they are, they think we will fall for their scheme and tolerate their conniving. We will protect our own, and if necessary deny to all these connivers the privilege of our hospitality. The east side slums of New York brooded and bred a Trotzky and an Emma Goodman, and thousands of other crack pots. This is a land of liberty, but not of license.

We, loyal citizens, must keep alive the faith of the fathers, and we can best do so by celebrating on these days.

STALIN AND HITLER

Stalin and Hitler are now at each other throats. We are pleased to back toward their own soil. The at all newsstands Russians seem to be good cold weath. er fighters. What they will be able to do after the thaw drive up about May 1st. is yet to be seen. If Russia with British and United States help can hold Hitler during the summer, there isn't much doubt but that the Russians can advance next winter, and if they do it is probable they can force the fight on to German territory a thing that did not happen in the first World War, and has not yet happened in this one, and what will happen when that day arrives can now only be guessed at. My guess is that the Germans will throw up their hands and surrender before they will let their own land be devastated. They know they can pay for defeat easier than they can rebuild war destroyed property.

We must guard against too much chumniness with the Bolsheviks, even tho they are now fighting battles we should be forced to fight if they did not do so. It is none of our business what kind of government the Russians have in Russia, or the Germans have in Germany, that is. their own business; and it is none of their business what kind of government we have in these United States and we are determined that they shall not make it their business while there remains an American alive able to bear arms to repel such enemy. Property Title Of 1838 Proved Roots of Trees 100 Years Old Used in Claim.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS .- Roots of trees more than 100 years old have proved title claims to a small parcel of oil rich land in Upshur county.

Mineral rights to the land were given to W. C. Turnbow in 1938 and a second grant made by Bascom Giles, land commissioner, in 1939 on the theory that no one legally owned the land.

Experiments Show Drunk

Tests Unfair, Medics Say Police tests for drunkenness may be unfair to suspected motorists, experiments reported by two Stanford university medical school physicians indicate.

Their challenge is aimed at police tests which rely on the concentration of alcohol in the system as an index to drunkenness. Results of such tests are admissible as evidence in drunken driving cases in several states and cities. Writing in the November issue of Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, Drs. Henry Newman and Mason Abramson conclude that drunkenness depends not alone on how much you drank, but when you drank it. They do not infer, however, that motorists can drink with safety.

They assert: . "The presence of alcohol in the body over a period of several hours affects a change in the presence of the nervous system to alcohol with the result that concentrations which originally produced drunkenness no longer are capable of showing this effect."

Two men were tested by requiring them to aim a gun at a moving target while under the influence of alcohol. Accuracy dropped rapidly after the first drink, but gradually returned to normal despite small doses which kept the alcohol concentration in their systems constant. In one test the amount of alcohol in the subjects system was kept constant for four hours after the first drink. A second drink, equal to the first, did not affect his aim.

"Apparently," the authors state, "the four-hour period at a lower alcohol concentration had been effective in 'adapting' the nervous system . .

Drs. Abramson and Newman conclude that "the effect of a given concentration of alcohol depends not only on its absolute value but also on how long a time it has been present in the body.'

Noah Webster Noted for Work on the Dictionary

Noah Webster, lexicographer (Oc-tober 16, 1758-May 28, 1843), was born in West Hartford, Conn., son of Noah and Mercy (descendant of William Bradford, second governor of Plymouth colony) Webster. He was graduated from Yale, 1778; studied law and admitted to bar at Hartford, 1781. In 1783 he published his famous "Grammatical Institute of the English Language," nicknamed the "Blue Backed Speller," which has sold nearly 100,000,000 copies. He married Rebecca Greenleaf in Boston and they had eight children. In 1793 he launched a daily newspaper in New York called the Minerva, backed by the Federalist party, and a bi-weekly called the Herald, names afterwards changed to Commercial Advertiser and Spectator, respectively. Later he published "A Compendious Dictionary of the Eng-ican Dictionary of the English Language," printed in two quarto volumes, 1828. Versatile, he wrote school books, economic, political and medical treatises, works on statistics and climatology, and five dictionaries. In early youth as a Freethinker, he became a Congregationalist in 1808.

land owners, believed they had title to the area 150 feet wide and 21/2 miles long.

Original surveys had been made in 1838 and old field notes listed such boundaries as a "pine stump" at one corner, a "hickory tree" at another, an "oak tree at another." The trees vanished with time.

Ben Garret, who was hired to survey the property for the property owners, excavated where the old marks were supposed to have been located.

At one point he dug 18 inches and found a root system that led to an old stump. By comparing this with root systems of existing trees it was determined that it was the root of an oak tree.

Garrett found a large post oak tree marked "TNC" at another corner. He cored the tree and found that the marking was made at least 100 years before.

Chief Justice Atwood McDonald of the second court of civil appeals here voided the "vacancy grant" and gave clear claim to the property to the owners.

Will Reopen Iron Ore

Mine Idle for 24 Years PITTSBURGH.-A large iron-ore deposit in the Adirondack mountains-idle since the last war-will be reopened by Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation to increase its supply of pig iron for war production. The company will move the town of Benson Mines to a nearby site to make way for the development of the iron-ore field in St. Lawrence county, New York. The village is located at the old ore pit used by Bethlehem Steel corporation during World War I. It is the home of about 50 dwellings, one church and one school.

Officials expect to employ between mine for production and by 1943 it is expected to yield 2,400,000 tons of crude ore annually, or about 800,-000 tons of iron concentrate to be shipped to the furnaces.

The mineral at the idle mine is of better quality than ore from the Mesabi and Marquette ranges of Minnesota and Michigan, officials said. The Benson ore has a content of 65 per cent compared with an average of approximately 52 per cent for the Great Lakes ores.

Largest Aviary in World

There's a lot to do at Santa Catalina, off, the coast of southern California. You can hunt wild goats, wild bear and quail. You can ride, play golf, hike and swim. You can lie on the sand beaches or visit the seal rocks. The whole place is a photographer's dream-come-true. There are 26 varieties of native trees and 100 species of native birds. The hills are a mass of colored wild flowers.

Probably the largest aviary in the world is there. Sheltered among shrubbery and brilliantly colored flowers that rival their own gay plumage are more than 7,000 rare birds. They represent nearly 650 species collected from all parts of the globe, writes Paul Light in the St. Paul Pioneer Press. There are ostriches as large as a small horse and humming birds as small as a large thimble, birds that dance and birds that talk. And proud beauties that merely strut their proud plumage. There's a pair of rhinocer-os hornbills that look like a bad dream and a couple of king vultures.

Early Talking Picture The first full-length all-talking pic-ture was "Lights of New York," shown in New York the week of August 20, 1928.

Thomas Edison made experiments with sound and exhibited a film with phonograph accompaniment in 1913. What Price Glory," and the 1927 version of "Seventh Heaven" included sound effects and talking principles were used in "Don Juan" (1926), "The Jazz Singer" (1927), "Tenderloin" (1928) and "Glorious Betsey" (1928).

Vegetable Sponges

One of the many curious plants that grow in Ecuador is the vegetable sponge gourd. It grows to a height of 10 to 15 feet and bears a soft shelled gourd, the interior of which is fibrous and is used as a bath sponge, for washing dishes and other cleaning purposs as it absorbs water and can be squeezed out in much the same manner as a sea sponge.

Banker Points Out That

They Can Survive Years.

By C. W. LAMB (President, Springfield, N. Y., Bank For Co-operatives.)

The essentials for a sound agricultural co-operative program can be summed up as follows:

First, an enthusiastic group of farm people, with membership activities to include the farm women and older children. Then the willingness of members to make a substantial initial investment. Third, a hundred per cent purchase of needed supplies handled by the organization

Other points to promote a successful co-operative are:

Personal attendance at all meetings, personal responsibilities for the election of a board of directors, capable management, budgeting at the beginning of each year of expected receipts and expenditures, an independent audit, control to remain in the hands of the farmers, a conservative credit policy, a sound pricing policy, keeping the investment in fixed assets to a minimum, no speculation in inventories, and strict adherence to recognized business principles.

Agricultural co-operatives can survive the years and grow old gracefully if their foundations and superstructures are fashioned from honest materials and the workmen do their best. Such co-operatives are like the sturdy old New England farm buildings which have survived the centuries.

Cigarette Paper Flax

One of the romances of American industry is the manufacture of cigarette paper from flax fiber-an American raw material that has created a new American industry.

For years, American cigarette producers bought their cigarette paper in France. It was made from linen rags imported from Russia, Poland and the Balkan countries. American buyers had long ago real-ized that this was an unstable supply and they hurried to start cigarette paper making in America be-ed none too soon. No paper is being imported and the existing supply in this country will soon be exhausted. South Carolina has the one Amerimand. Farmers in California are

Crush Nerve and Paralytic Can Walk

Doctors Tell of Marvelous Results of Surgery.

LOS ANGELES.-Mason Hohl, 18 years old, was given a perfect rating in his medical examination at the University of California at Los Angeles. Doctors probably wondered how he got that two-inch scar on his right leg, just below the knee. But they didn't ask.

Young Hohl didn't mention that it was his only physical reminder that he barely was able to stumble along only 18 months ago, bady crippled by infantile paralysis.

Now he's a member of the R.O.T.C. unit and walks and runs as easily as any of his fellow cadets. Dr. Anthonie van Harreveld and Dr. Harvey E. Billig Jr., a lieutenant in the navy medical corps, told how they discovered a polio treatment which effected marvelous results on five patients.

ing an entire nerve, degeneration of which caused paralysis in the muscle. As the nerve fibers struggle to re-establish connection with the muscle, they grow and multiply by division. Thus they eventually motivate not only the muscle fibers which the nerves supplied before the crushing but many times that number.

Hohl and the next three patients underwent operations in which incisions were made on their legs.

The fifth was a 42-year-old woman who became an infantile paralysis victim in 1904. Instead of surgery, manual pressure was exerted against the femoral nerve in the thigh. Muscles supplied by the nerve have improved so much that she now can straighten her knee.

The next step is to determine to what extent manual pressure will crush nerves and thus obviate surgery.

CARLIN'S AMUSEMENT PARK

Carlin's Amusement Park, located in Baltimore, and well known to many of our readers who at one time or another, have visited this famous amusement and recreational project, famous announces that its 23rd. season gets under way next Saturday afternoon, April 18th. with a formal opening program beginning at 2 o'clock. During the winter months under personal direction of the founder, John J. Carlin, an army of painters, carpenters and mechanics have been busy re-decorating and setting up many new innovations which bring the park up to the new standard of "work-and-play" routine recently advocated by President Roosevelt at his special press conference devoted to the nation's amusement parks and recreational activities.

A program of picnic grove expansion, planting and landscaping, is fast nearing completion, and will afford vast accommodations for thousands of defense workers and families who have recently moved into Baltimore. The half-mile long Midway will once again afford a veritable "acre of fun" in games, thrill rides and other modern entertainment devices. A feature attraction of the opening day program will be Black's Society Circus with a host of four-footed performers, fresh from their circus winter quarters. Mr. Carlin announces that he will continue the park's 20-year policy of free admission, free outdoor exhibitions and picnicking for the general public.

Brazen: Pigeons that make their homes in Manhattan have little fear of human beings. So many men, women and children provide free meals for them and so accustomed have they become to close association with humanity, they refuse to take flight unless there is a gesture they regard as menacing. The pigeons that infest the public library strut the sidewalk at Fifth avenue and 42nd street just as if they were out in some open field. The appearance of a dog, however, usually causes them to use their wings. Not so the pigeons of Columbus circle. One of this department's scouts reports that on a recent Sunday afternoon, she not only saw them ignore a dog on a leash, but furthermore, when a leashless mongrel came along, the citified birds remained on the ground with the result that the mutt had to fairly paw its way through the feathered mass.

Advice: When Francia White had to give up her post as air raid warden because she was going on a singing tour of army camps under U.S.O. auspices, she wasn't worried so much about the human beings in her district as about the great number of pets in a large apartment house on her beat. Every family has a cat or dog and some have two or three. So she gave much attention to pet protection. To make sure her successor would do the same, she wrote out a complete set of rules based on her long experience with birds and animals. Her most important advice was that if the assigned shelter is too small forpets, leave them in the apartment. but don't confine them on a leash. Given the run of the premises they can be trusted to find the safest spot themselves.

Strictly Business: Another civilian defense note comes into mind, a bit dealing with a group of opportunists reported to be busily canvassing the borough of Brooklyn! Their business is selling sand bags for the protection of homes and they are said to be doing well, the demand being fairly heavy. Their profits are con-siderable. They live in the Brighton beach section so to obtain supplies, all they have to do is visit Coney and Brighton beaches and steal all the sand they think they need. Thus with stocks coming without cost, they merely have to worry about bags and overhead—and perhaps the risk of being arrested for meddling with city property.

Competition: At a war relief rally the other evening, to raise funds, the master of ceremonies raffled off tickets for stage and radio tickets. At one point, the bidding became sharp between a man and a woman seated at opposite sides of the auditorium. After raising and re-raising each other several times, the man dropped out and the tickets went to the woman. The man was Charles Martin, writer and producer and the woman was Tallulah Bankhead, star of the same radio show. And the tickets were for their next broadcast. * * * Long Ago: Though many New Yorkers have been forced to lay up their cars and thus have been driven to trolleys, busses and the subway, so far as has been observed, there hasn't been a great increase in the number of horses and buggies in Manhattan. Hence the other evening when a horse and buggy passed through Times square there was a general craning of necks. The rig stopped in front of the Hotel Woodstock in 43rd street and a man and a woman got out. It wasn't some kind of an advertising stunt. As shown by the hotel register, they had driven all the way down from Ludlow, Vt. * * *

In Factory Jobs Deft Fingers Are Superior in Handling Small Parts

In War Work.

Fair Sex Excel

BUFFALO, N. Y .- The women who are being employed in everincreasing numbers by Buffalo war factories in many instances are superior to the men they replace as electrical workers, mechanical assemblers, inspectors and welders, personnel managers agree.

The superior ability of women as inspectors has been proved at Fedders Manufacturing company, Inc., where 140 examine the links manufactured by the company to fasten machine-gun bullets to strips, Edmund R. Walker, general manager, asserted.

"When we started this work we ran three shifts-two day tricks with women workers and a night one with men, since women were forbidden by the state law to work nights," he declared. "After a few months we discovered that the men could not adapt themselves to the work, at which they were much less efficient than the women, and we abolished the night shift, lengthening the line during the daytime, so that we needed to hire only girls." Deft Fingers Needed.

Each inspector examines thousands of links a day, the executive asserted. Sensitivity of fingers and attention to detail are important, as one defective link can cause a machine gun to jam.

Ninety per cent of the girls employed at Fedders have not worked in a factory before, but have been office workers, nurses, teachers or department store clerks.

At the Buffalo plant of the Bell Aircraft corporation, which has employed 39 women since December 23, dress sizes range from 12 to 42a range which might be found in any group of department store clerks, typists or housewives. Bell Aircraft is the first large local company to order uniforms for its women workers, who will wear powder blue tailored jackets and slacks, navy blue snoods and sweaters, low heels and no jewelry. Hair nets, low heels and removal of jewelry are requested in factories to prevent accidents.

"Because women's hands are more flexible and they can work more rapidly at small tasks than men, we have found them even better at some of the work than the men whom they are replacing," Mrs. Irene W. Paul, women's supervisor, said.

Girls Found More Adept.

At the Colonial Radio corporation plant, where women have been employed for some time in radio assembly, more than 50 per cent of the employees doing defense work are women and more will be hired if the factory loses large numbers of its men to the army and navy, Charles J. Kolb, manager of industrial relations, said.

"Small assembly such as we do here requires nimbleness of fingers and is too monotonous for men," Miss Joan Gillan, president of Local 501 Auxiliary, United Electrical and Radio Workers, asserted. "The girls are quicker and more adept than men at spot welding, coil winding and soldering."

Rock Collecting Fever Costs Woman Fur Coat

SALT LAKE CITY .- Mrs. Grace G. Dearborn of Boston, Mass., admitted that her "collecting spirit" had gotten the better of her.

Mrs. Dearborn, secretary of the Boston Mineral club, visited Utah recently to add a few crystal rocks, found in abundance in Utah, to her collection.

She had, at the same time, been saving her money to buy a new winter coat.

But when she saw some of the "rare and superb" specimens of stone, she did a little re-allocating and ended up using her "coat fund" as collection expenses in gathering up seven suitcases full of the formations to take home.

Fire Dyes His Chickens,

Farmer Is Awarded $235

HOUSTON, TEXAS. - Farmer Fritz Muesse got $235 because an oil fire dyed his white chickens black and caused his daughter, Mary, 10, to suffer an attack of asthma.

A Shell Pipeline company pipe across his farm sprang a leak, Muesse told District Judge Ben Wilson, and the oil caught fire. It shrouded his home and hen house with black smoke.

Mary became ill and the chickens practically quit laying, Muesse testified.

"And they haven't gotten back on the job yet," he added. Judge Wilson awarded $235 damages.

British Boy, 15, Takes Gun, Goes on Nazi Hunt

LONDON. - A 15-year-old boy, whose mother said he "had quite made up his mind to have a go at the Germans," gave Scotland Yard a bad day when he took a submachine gun and 100 rounds of ammunition from a reform school and went out on his own.

But he was found with the machine gun and all the ammunition. He hadn't found any Germans.

His father, a Home Guard, said the boy "was so anxious to join the army he would not wait and unfortunately chose this method."

Patient Hitch-Hiker

Gets Life in Ambulance LOS GATOS, CALIF .- An ambulance sent to pick up F. L. Radis after he had driven his auto over a 350-foot embankment was flagged down by a man on the highway. It was Radis himself.

"This is a break," said the slight-ly injured motorist. "I've been trying to hitch-hike into town but couldn't get a lift."

Briton Wno Painted 'SOS'

To Free Ship Gets Medal LONDON. - Thomas Huggett, a teward aboard the German-capured 8,046-ton tanker San Casimiro, received the British empire medal or his feat a year ago in surreptitiously painting a three-foot high deck sign, which enabled British patrols to recapture the ship.

The San Casimiro was taken by the German battleship Gneisenau last March in the Western Atlantic, and a prize crew under Lieut. Otto Grenz was put aboard her.

As the tanker neared England en route to a German-held port, a British plane from the aircraft carrier Ark Royal flew over. Mixing a paste of flour and water Huggett evaded the prize crew, found a bit of un-inhabited deck and painted his big sign. When the Nazi commander discovered it, he told Huggett:

"My compliments. A nice job. Now scrub it off."

But a British plane had spotted the sign, and in a short time the British battle cruiser Renown appeared on the horizon and recaptured the ship.

Blackout for Hen Houses:

Normal Light for Laying BERKELEY, CALIF. - Poultrymen who for years have illuminated their poultry houses in winter to fool the hens were advised to discontinue the practice during the war.

W. E. Newlon, a specialist in poultry for the agricultural extension service of the University of California, explained that blackouts made it necessary to turn out the hen-house lights now and then. This confused the hens even more than the continuous wintertime illumination, and its results were less fortunate.

Artificial light, he said, advanced the period of peak egg production but it did not boost the total annual production and its irregular use was detrimental. During the war emer-gency, he declared, "total egg production is more important than seasonal production."

Just Yell for Smith and You'll Get Air Warden

PEORIA .- A new civilian defense problem-the Smiths-has arisen in a five-mile-square area embracing East Peoria and its suburbs, in Tazewell county.

Residents of a trio of adjacent locations there are wondering how to avoid Smith-confusion when they start yelling for their chief air-raid warden during any potential aerial bombings. Claude Smith, Clarence Smith and Clyde Smith are the chief wardens for, respectively, Creve Coeur, East Peoria and Washington road, a highway connecting five thickly populated subdivisions.

None of the Smiths have middle initials, nor are they related. All three are First World war veterans.

one had the indecency to disturb him from indulging his hobby, which was taking apart and putting together broken-down automobiles. Still, this was important.

"Hello," she said, stepping through the gate and standing near Gordon's legs. The legs wriggled. Six feet and two inches of male youth emerged from beneath the car. A grease-besmeared and an-noyed countenance stared at Della. "Lo, Del," said the youth, and waited. "Got something to talk over with you," Della said. "It's about us. Father wants us to get married." Gordon grunted. "Mine does too," he said unhappily.

"You got it too, eh? Well, what are you going to do, let your father tell you whom you're going to marry?

"Not by a jugful, I'm not!" The youth sat upright. "What does he think I am? Telling me whom I'm to marry!" "I thought you'd feel that way about it. I don't like the idea, either. Father said a lot of things about family friendship, and how he agreed with your father when we were kids to marry us off when we'd grown."

Gordon's eyes blazed. "Well, he's a little late for that stuff! You

And, I warn had known for years, and who was her next door neighbor, displayed considerable annoyance when anyask you again to reconsider.'

"I'm sorry, Father, but I feel that such things should be left entirely to Della and me, without outside interference.

"In that case, son, the firm of Black & Son, attorneys, is no longer in existence. You are discharged, ousted! You will also be cut from my will!"

My will! Gordon grinned. "Cut away. You have the final say-so there." "And you, Della," said Mr. Keith severely, "will receive similar treat-ment. Of course, for the time being you may remain in our home. But you need expect no inheritance from me; your weekly allowance will also be discontinued."

Della stood up and her face was grave. "Very well, Father. My answer is the same as Gordon's. I'll not submit to any such tyranny!

She turned and started toward the door, Gordon close to her heels. They were part way out when Mr. Black spoke.

"Gordon!" The youth turned and waited. "Come back in here. Both of you. This thing has gone far enough. Mr. Keith and I thoughthoped you two would fall in love. We wanted you to. And we got tired of waiting. We tried to force you into this thing—by threats. I can see now we were wrong. After all, every one must choose for himself in such matters."

Gordon came across the room quickly and placed his arm about his father's shoulder. "I'm sorry, Dad. I didn't mean to hurt your feelings-but, well, I'm glad you see it our way.'

Near by Della was clinging to the neck of old Mr. Keith. The old men looked at each other and grinned sheepishly. The two young people looked at each other and smiled happily. "And now," said Della, "now that we've won, Gordon, I suppose it's all right to tell?"

Gordon nodded. "Of course. No good to keep it a secret."

Mr. Black and Mr. Keith looked puzzled. And Della said happily, 'It isn't that Gordon and I don't love each other. We do, very much. It's simply that we're like our old dads - stubborn and independent. Nobody was going to tell us what to do. Not even our pops. And so when we first got wind of this thing last week and were told about this proposed conference tonight, we just slipped away and got married that very day, without anyone telling us we could or couldn't."

She Threads Root Hairs With Microscope Help

AUSTIN, TEXAS .- Finer than any thread and any needle's eye ever handled by woman are the root hairs and capillary needles used by Prof. Hilda Rosene.

She has just done a threading job at the University of Texas that will place her name in scientific records for all time. The threads are the fine white hairs seen on some roots. They are so slender that in mass they appear like bits of mist. She has separated them individually and threaded them separately into capillary glass tubes that are so small the work has to be done under a microscope. The tubes contain water. Her experiment proves that the business of these root hairs is to absorb water. For 250 years the scientific world had assumed that the hairs were for water absorption but no one ever proved it before, probably because the job was too difficult. Additionally, this proof promises to be the first step in some new, important scientific experiments in the electrical properties of these root hairs. Without her threading technique the experiments could not be done.

Same here. They've certainly got a nerve. Dad said he'd give me a week to decide. That's a laugh!' The youth's head disappeared beneath the car again. "See you to-night," he called. "Dance at the country club."

Della nodded indifferently and went back through the gate. A week later she and Gordon confronted their parents in the library of the Black home. The conference had been called for eight sharp. It was now 8:45.

The elder Keith looked up and glowered as they entered. The elder Black silently indicated chairs. "You young folks," began the lat-

"Both of you," the elder Black went on, "have reached the marriageable age. And as you probably know, it has long been the wish of Mr. Keith and myself that his daughter and my son should one day be joined in matrimony. Nothing would give us more pleasure than thus to have the families united. We have watched you closely. We find that you are happy in each other's company. You are conge-nial, helpful, kind. In short, we are convinced we are making no mistake in demanding-requesting-that our wishes be fulfilled."

The elder Black took a long breath and sat down. The elder Keith nodded in silent approval and stared at the victims. "Well, what have you to say, Gordon?"

The elder Black glowered. "Take care, young man! This is a serious business."

"Serious for you, perhaps, but decidedly absurd to me. Father or no father, no one is going to tell me who I'm to marry." "And you, Della?"

"Absolutely preposterous! It's silly and-old-fashioned. Why you'd think we were living in China or somewhere!"

"Then neither of you will respect our wishes?"

"Your commands. Your wishes don't enter into it."

The elder Black stood up and impressively removed his spectacles.

Fish do not have eyelids, and for simple reason-they live in the water and the water keeps their eyes moist.

Most kinds of land animals have eyelids. The main purpose of the lids is to guard the eyes from dust, or anything else which may come into them. One way the eyes are guarded is by blinking the lids; this spreads a bit of moisture over the surface. You and I blink our eyes more than we might think, unless we stop to take note of it.

Ordinary fish go into the air so seldom that they do not need lids to guard their eyes. Even the foureyed fish has water close by; it dips its head often enough to clear the eyes which are kept in the open air.

Four-eyed fish? Yes, that's what they are called.

Four-eyed fish are from six to eight inches long. They live chiefly in salt water, but sometimes go into rivers. One place where they are found is Surinam, or Dutch Guiana, the home of the Surniam toad and other strange forms of life. In markets of Brazil, four-eyed fish are sold to housewives who take them home to cook. It may be that most of those housewives give little thought to the amazing kind of fish they buy. No other kind in the world has four eyes.

From one point of view, we might say this fish has only one pair of eyes, with each one "double." Yet a band of color cuts through on each Gordon crossed and uncrossed his side, and gives the eye the work of er upward.

So the eyes on each side are separate, and the name of "four-eyed fish" can hardly be called a mistake. We may wonder why, in this special case, Nature made the eyes that way.

The answer is to be found in a certain fact: The fish has the habit of swimming and floating at the surface of the water. It needs to be able to look up and down at the same time.

To see insects above the water. it needs eyes which look upward. These insects supply much of its food.

There are little "bugs" and other game to be obtained just under the surface of the water, and to see these the fish needs down-looking eyes.

When a person walks very slowly, we may say he is going "at a snail's pace." However small his speed, we may be sure it is faster than a snail can travel. One mile in two weeks would be a fairly good record for a

It has only one foot, and the wonder is that it can move at all.

Some snails live under water, but others spend their lives on land. Land snails, or garden snails, have lungs. Each of the little animals has only one lung, not two as a human being has.

A garden snail has two pairs of "horns." There is a short pair used as feelers. The long "horns" are even more important; at the end of each one is an eye.

The foot of a garden snail forms the whole lower side of its body. In tests, they have crossed the blade of a razor without being hurt. This is due, in part, to the fact that the foot is "tough." More important is the care the snail takes not to bear down too hard.

Among the snails which may be classed as "water snails," there is one kind of special interest. It is the violet snail.

Violet snails have spiral shells about an inch and a half wide. The shells are of violet color, which explains the name.

The great thing about these snails is their ability to make rafts and float about on the ocean! The rafts, are composed of a kind of gelatine. The gelatine comes from a sticky juice which the snail sends out and which hardens when it touches the air and water.

his noise, and it has been suggested that the blackbird cunningly makes a great outcry in one part of the arden or woodland, and then, at the ast moment, slips quietly away to oost in safety somewhere else. And the cat, or other prowling enemy, which thinks it knows where a silly blackbird is sleeping, will later search in vain. There is another possibility, writes a correspondent to the Times of London. May not the blackbird's purpose be to draw the enemy from its lurking place? So that if no enemy appears the bird may conclude that there is nothing to worry about and that it is safe to go to bed in the usual bush. Whereas, if a cat or other prowler does show itself, there will still be time to find another roosting place. Thus the blackbird's apparently senseless outcry and its habit of flitting to and fro in the high-light of dusk might both be explained.

themselves going that way. Then there are those who present high ethical standards without the spiritual dynamic needed to live up to them. To tell a man to be good without telling him of the Saviour who can make him good is mockery. Then, those of Christ's day were condemned for hating God's witnesses. They were willing to build sepulchers for the dead prophets (killed by their fathers), but were not willing to hear the living prophets. How true to life that is! The very ones who hate and hinder those who are preaching God's Word, speak and sing smoothly of the faith of our fathers, and claim as their own the witnesses of a past day.

Christ also pointed out that while professing to interpret the law they obscured its meaning. They threw away the key to knowledge so that neither they nor their people could learn-and yet they continued to teach. Have not the false teachers of our day done likewise? They deny the integrity and authority of the only infallible Word-the Bible; they reject the deity of our Saviour, Christ, and yet they talk about being Christians and preachers of the truth. Woe be unto them in the day of God's judgment and wrath!

III. Enmity Intensified (vv. 53, 54).

The scribes and Pharisees had two approaches: they sought vehemently to provoke Him to overspeak, and they craftily laid in wait for Him. The writer of these notes has seen both methods at work in our day. Liberals, or modernists as they are called, profess for the most part to a suave courtesy which makes them speak smoothly and gently about the conservative and orthodox believer or teacher; but if one only has eyes to see, there is often the strong and cruel hand of iron hidden under the velvet glove.

Whatever may be the approach, be assured of this-every effort to reveal false teaching in its true light, or to deal with hypocrisy in spiritual things will bring intensified opposition. Christ took it-we too can take it in His name and for His sake.

Praise the Lord

I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; yea, I will praise him among the multitude. For he shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him from those who condemn his soul.-Psalm 109:30-31.

The wedding ring dates back to at least the Second century B. C., when it was merged with the betrothal ring. Its origin has been at-tributed both to the Egyptians and the early Romans. At first it was secular in significance, the Romans using a signet ring to indicate that the husband was endowing his worldly goods upon his wife and that she had the right to seal all such goods. The church apparently did not recognize the existence of the wedding ring until the Second century A. D. and the first record of a ring used in a wedding ceremony is in the Fifth century.

Plain iron circlets were used at first but gradually these gave way to gold and gem-studded rings. Gimmel rings, consisting of two or more loops linked together, were used for a long time.

Wedding rings have been worn on different fingers and even on the toes. In many countries both husband and wife wear rings and the common practice of wearing the ring on the third finger of the left hand supposedly arose from a popular but erroneous belief that a vein ran straight from that finger to the heart.

Rio's a Federal District

The city of Rio de Janeiro is not a part of the 20 states of Brazil. It is a federal district, just as Washington, our own capital, is a federal district. The Monroe palace houses the government and is near the southern end of the Avenida Rio Branco, one of the most beautiful boulevards in the world. It is 110 feet wide, a mile and one half long and is lined with beautiful buildings four or five stories high. Its side walks are of tile laid by Portuguese tileworkers from Lisbon.

If You Want to Know

If two equal quantities of water, cold and hot, are placed under identical natural freezing conditions, the cold water will freeze first, because of the time required to remove the heat from the hot water.

To a limited extent it is true that water which first has been heated will freeze more rapidly than unheated water, provided they have the same temperature when subjected to freezing, because of the difference in density and the amount of dissolved air.
