Petty thievery is being committed in Taneytown and what is considered the lowest form was perpetrated Wednesday night when a sneak thief or thieves stole some clothing off the line at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clingan. Preceding this, gas was being taken from the car of B. Walter Crapster several nights but a strong lock stopped this pilfering.

FINE MEMORIAL DAY

Taneytown Exercises were Decidedly Successful.

In spite of gas rationing the observance of memorial day in Taneytown were witnessed by a large number of people who lined the streets or followed the parade to the Reformed cemetery, where the exercises were held.

The decoration of the graves having been attended to in advance, the parade was started at the monument forming on the Uniontown road, and marching directly to the cemetery.

In the line of march were D. Frank Harman, chief marshal mounted; police escort; Mayor and City Council and guests in cars; Taneytown Jr. I. O. O. F. Band; American Legion Color Corps and American Legion Unit; Spanish American War Veterans; Company C, Maryland State Guard; Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company; Minute Men, with an especially fine showing from the Baust Church group; Boy Scouts; Fraternal and Civic Organizations; School Children carrying flags.

At the cemetery the exercises were in charge of Merwyn C. Fuss. They began with singing America, led by Miss Hazel Hess; Invocation was offered by Rev. Charles S. Owen, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Taneytown, Piney Creek and Emmitsburg.

Rev. L. B. Hafer introduced the speaker for the occasion, Rev. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church, of Gettysburg. The address was one of the best ever given on Memorial Day, and held the attention of the entire audience, though most of them had to stand during the whole program.

Following the address Miss Hess led the singing of "America, The Beautiful." A firing squad from Company C fired three volleys, and taps were sounded by Francis Staley, a member of the Jr. I. O. O. F. Band.

Marching a little uncomfortable but clear skies made it possible to carry out the entire program as planned, and all in all the event was a decided success.

ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

Howard E. Sentz, 47 years of age, of Taneytown ended his life by hanging on Wednesday morning. He was discovered by his wife about 10:30 o'clock, and death had taken place a short time before.

The man was a quiet, peaceful citizen and respected by the community. He had been in ill health, which is supposed to have weighed upon his mind.

Dr. C. M. Benner, who was called, found life extinct. Sheriff Walter L. Shipley and his Chief Deputy, J. Wesley Mathias, together Dr. James Marsh, county medical officer conducted an investigation. Dr. Marsh signed a death certificate.

Further notice appears in our obituary column.

MAYOR & CITY COUNCIL MEETS

The Mayor and City Council met in regular session on Tuesday evening. The regular routine of business was transacted.

Numerous complaints were received from the citizens of the town regarding the over-hanging of trees, extending out over alley lines, and the crowding of shrubbery in the several alleys of the town. The Board took action requesting this situation be corrected by the property owners of town. This condition interferes with traffic on alleys, damaging automobiles by scratching same and interfering with keeping alleys in good repair and in a sanitary condition.

Legal notice to correct same, according to law, will be found in another column in this newspaper.

AUTHOR MARRIES

Many people here will be interested in the announcement from Sharon, Conn., that Miss Constance Kuhr, Brooklyn, N. Y., newspaperwoman and William B. Seabrook, Rhinebeck, N. Y., the writer and explorer, were married here last Thursday by Justice of the Peace Roland R. Marckres.

It was the third marriage for Seabrook, whose age was listed on the license as 56. His bride is 31. The couple was attended by Mrs. Marjorie Barkentin and Charles A. Chapman, both of Rhinebeck.

Seabrook, former newspaperman in Augusta, Ga., Atlanta and New York, is a son of the late Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Seabrook, of Westminster, and traveled in many out-of-the-way parts of the world for material for his books and magazine articles, which have been widely read. Seabrook's two former marriages ended in divorces.

In a letter received by Murray M. Baumgardner from his brother, Lt. Kenneth W. Baumgardner, now at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, the soldier expresses his appreciation of an army kit received from Taneytown. He says:

Yesterday (May 25) I received one of the army kits from the Taneytown community project. Let me say the following, and I wish it would be published in the Record.

First, the kit sent by the society is an indication that our friends and relatives back home are thinking of us and are behind us in the all-out fight for "Victory."

Second, it is a worthwhile effort made by the society, in that the composition of the kit is made up of worth-while articles.

I know that I speak for every man in the service from Taneytown who are receiving these "kits," that they are greatly appreciated and we can make constant use of them.

Thanking all the kind ladies who have given their time to this worthwhile effort, I personally want to express my appreciation.

A letter from Carroll N. Hahn also of Camp Shelby, conveys to The Record the same message. He says: "I was glad to get The Record. It is more like home when you can read it. It puts life right into you when you can read that good home paper. I am feeling fine now. Thank you for the paper."

Clifford Ott of the same camp writes the Manager expressing his appreciation and asking us to keep on sending the paper.

I have received the service kit and appreciate it very much. I have found every article to be very useful. I think it shows a great spirit of the community and I know all the boys who have received them will feel as I do about them. It is swell to receive something from your home town. Thank you so much.

PVT. J. HUNTER ELLIOT.

I received the beautiful soldiers' kit made by Mrs. Daniel Ohler, yesterday. I can make so much good use of all the items. I really do appreciate your thoughtfulness and kindness in thinking of all the boys in the service. It is because of your kind deeds back home that we will come home to you victorious. Best wishes to you all in your work and to each of you in person. Many thanks.

PVT. HARMAN G. ALBAUGH.

A FINE LETTER FROM A SERVICE MAN

To The Carroll Record Staff and the Committee for Service Men's Kits:

I wish to take this opportunity in thanking the staff of The Carroll Record for sending me their paper free of charge while in the service. I look forward to receiving it each week and find many interesting items in it.

Also I wish to thank all the people responsible for the Service Kits. They certainly were swell and very complete. It does us fellows good to know that our friends back home are still thinking of us.

I may add that I am enjoying "army life" very much. After the war is over I'm sure I won't regret the time I have spent in it. We put in long hours but if that will help lick the Japs we're willing.

Here's wishing everybody the best in everything. Sincerely,

SGT. DAVID H. ANGELL.

OPEN HOUSE

On Saturday (tomorrow) of The Potomac Edison Co.

The official opening of the newest store and general business headquarters in this part of Maryland will be marked by an "Open House" reception tomorrow (Saturday, June 6) at the new building on Baltimore street in Taneytown which has been taken over by The Potomac Edison Co.

The new general offices and appliance store for this area, under the management of S. E. Breth, have been open and doing business since June 1, but the welcome to the public to inspect the premises has been held over until tomorrow. Company officials felt that more people would be able to accept their invitation to visit the new building on a Saturday than on a week day.

Manager Breth announces that, in keeping with the times when any extra money, time and energy should be directed toward the country's war effort, no elaborate ceremonies are planned for official opening day.

It is pointed out by Mr. Breth that the "Open House" reception will be devoted largely to familiarizing the public with the services that are available and that will be rendered by the experienced personnel at the new and complete headquarters in Taneytown.

One attractive feature of the new establishment which will be seen tomorrow by the public is the Home Service Hall. Incorporated as a part of this room is a completely modern electric kitchen which will be used in demonstrating the important matters of proper nutrition and vitamin content of food. This hall will accommodate classes of at least 50 people.

With the daily increasing importance being attached to the maintenance and repair of electrical appliances, it is certain that present owners of this household equipment will be interested in the quarters of the Service Department. It again is completely equipped to render efficient maintenance and repair service.

In addition to these features of the Potomac Edison Company's new quarters in Taneytown, the new appliance store, where all items are sold subject to government regulations, the customers' records and billing department, the offices of the management, and other departments may be inspected.

The "Open House" reception at the new Taneytown offices on Baltimore Street will continue throughout the day and until 9 P. M.

NAVY RECRUITING OFFICER TO BE IN TANEYTOWN

For the convenience of the young men of the community who find it difficult to travel long distances to Navy Recruiting Stations for information regarding enlistment in the Navy a Representative of the Navy Recruiting Service will be at the Post Office in Taneytown on Wednesday, June 10, 1942, from 12:30 P. M. to 4:30 P. M. to answer any questions regarding enlistment in the Navy, also to accept applications for enlistment. Navy Recruiters are cooperating with the Nation-wide Conservation of tires and gasoline.

Since many rural families are not driving their cars more than necessary Navy Representatives will gladly call at the homes of men interested in enlistment in the Navy. Appointments may be made by writing the Navy Recruiting Station, City Hall, Hagerstown, Md. With the constant increase in ship production volunteers are urgently needed to aid in the operation of these ships against our enemies. Never before has the opportunity for fast advancement in the U. S. Navy been better than it is today. The field for highly skilled and technical training is broader than ever before. There is no limit to the education and training that the young man who is serving in the Navy can obtain.

WILL INSTALL PASTOR

Rev. Arlton W. Milbourn, of Great Bend, Pa., who was ordained by the Maryland Synod at Gettysburg last week, will be installed pastor of the North Carroll Lutheran Church, Lineboro and Jerusalem Lutheran Church, Bachman's Valley, at a joint service for the two congregations in the Lineboro church next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. R. C. Sorrick, president of the Maryland Synod, will give the charge to the congregation and perform the act of installation, while Rev. Dr. W. C. Waltemyer, professor of English Bible at Gettysburg will give the charge to the pastor.

A CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

We are all aware of the recent registration in connection with the sugar rationing, which was conducted in the High School building, the work being done by the teachers. A call has now gone throughout the county for volunteers to conduct a registration so as to be ready for whatever may be necessarily rationed. In Taneytown District we are asked to send in the names of 34 persons who will serve in two hours shifts. Our list is to be complete in 8 days.

This should not be considered a hardship compared to what our men in the service must face, so please send your name promptly to Miss Anna Galt. The work is to be done at the High School in Taneytown.

TANEYTOWN KIWANIS CLUB

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting at Sauble's Inn on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. President Robert W. Smith presided; members present, 27. Group singing was in charge of Raymond Wright, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano.

Announcement was made to the effect that the Chest would be carried to the Pikesville Club on Thursday evening, June 4, and arrangements were made for a number of the members to make the visitation.

The program was in charge of the Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club Work, Edward Reid, chairman. The speaker was the chairman of the committee who discussed the general theme of "Playgrounds." He said that whereas provision is made in Taneytown for playground facilities for children under twelve years of age, nothing is done for the boys and girls from the ages of 12 to 16, who are too young to get jobs and too old to enjoy the privileges of the community playground. The problem of what children of this age are to do, especially in the daytime, is aggravated with the closing of school for the summer vacation. Boy Scouting, while an answer to the problem for a small group, does not reach all.

The speaker made a number of suggestions and then asked for the expression of opinions and for further suggestions from the members present. Some of the suggested activities are hobby clubs, craftsmanship activities, work on farms, a soft ball league to be sponsored by Sunday Schools or industrial or mercantile establishments, the setting up of some arrangement such as is done in larger towns and cities whereby in certain areas water is turned on from fire hydrants and children are allowed to frolic in the hydrant stream. No action was taken but the whole matter was taken into serious consideration with the promise of some definite decision to be reached at an early future meeting.

The meeting next week will be in charge of the Boys and Girls committee, the general theme of the program being "Flag Day."

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The June meeting of the Taneytown Homemakers' Club was held on Thursday afternoon, June 4, at the home of the president, Mrs. Walter Bower.

The meeting was opened with a duet, "Victory Garden Song" by Mrs. Ibach and Miss Virginia Bower.

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved each member responded to the usual call by telling her favorite summer evening pastime. Mrs. Owens, a new member, was added to our roll.

The Club contributed the sum of $5.00 towards the soldier's kits. These kits were greatly appreciated by all who received them.

The picnic, which will take the place of the regular meeting will be held on July 2, at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith. Mrs. Ellis Ohler was made chairman of the refreshment committee and Mrs. Smith of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Allen Feeser and Miss Belva Koons were appointed as the new project demonstrators.

Miss Hoffman continued her demonstration on clothing construction. The meeting adjourned to meet the first Thursday in July.

THE LADIES' AID SOCIETY MEET

The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Reformed Church met in regular session Thursday, June 4th. The meeting opened by singing of the hymn "America the Beautiful," followed by Scripture reading by Mrs. Mervin Wantz and Prayer by Mrs. Clarence Dorn. After singing the hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth" the business session was held.

The following program was arranged by the committee, Mrs. Mervin Wantz and Mrs. Edna Baumgardner: Recitation, "Each Little Flower that Opens," Barbara Eckard; Vocal Duet, "Speak, My Lord," Mrs. Edgar Fink and Mrs. Margaret Eckard; Vocal Trio selections, "Farther Along," "Living for Jesus," "Take Time to be Holy," Edgar Yealy, Edwin Flickinger and Norman Johnson, accompanied by Miss Bernice Bowers, all of Littlestown; Cornet Duet, "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," Norman Johnson and Edgar Yealy; Readings, "Tribute to Father," "Things My Dad Don't Know," Mrs. Carol Frock; Instrumental Solo, "By the Sea," Doris Koons.

The meeting closed with singing the hymn, "O Master, Let me Walk with Thee" and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

ARMY PLANE CRASHES

A U. S. army plane which left the air depot at Middletown, Pa., last Monday at 1:45 P. M., flew only about 40 miles until it crashed on Big Flat Mountain, a part of the South Mountain range, and about 22 miles northeast of Chambersburg.

First Lieutenant J. C. Femeuella, the pilot was killed and Second Lt. Alexander Salm, of Tuxedo, N. Y., was injured. He was taken to the Chambersburg Hospital.

Salm was found wandering in a dazed condition about four miles from the wreck, after which a search was made for the plane, which was long overdue at Louisville, Ky.

The plane did not catch fire, but Salm was unable to give any details of the accident.

Random Thoughts

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

IT CAN'T BE DONE

News items of a complimentary character about ourselves or members of our family, are just right for a newspaper to publish, or for everybody to tell, but we are apt to think differently about such items concerning somebody else. Does this prevalent truth have a short name?

Is it human nature, a common frailty, self pride, an appetite for sweets, or just wanting to be petted and admired?

At any rate, it is something as prevalent as "fly-time" in the Summer months; and notwithstanding it, newspapers are still published and people still talk, doing their best, perhaps, to please everybody. And this is maybe the short name for the malady—everybody trying always to get something that pleases them.

This, of course, is one of the things that "can't be done" but, like the search for perpetual motion, we keep at it. Humanity never quite reaches that perfection stage, and we would not be happy if it did. A game that we know the answer to, in advance, is not interesting. To be always agreed with, is too monotonous.

ANOTHER BUSINESS FOR TANEYTOWN

We welcome another business to Taneytown. The new district office of The Potomac Edison Company for the Taneytown area was opened for business on Monday, June 1st, on E. Baltimore St.

We know that this addition to our town's business will be a boost for Taneytown. Our past business experience with this firm was always highly gratifying and commendable.

Then, too, this office manned by experienced personnel means an addition to our population—an addition of men and women, whom we are sure we will be proud to gather into our circle of Taneytown's citizens, to whom we say "Welcome to Taneytown; may our associations with each other, both in a business and friendly way be most profitable and pleasant."

REJOICING IN RUIN

The most satisfying news to come to the Allies for a long time was the story of the raid Friday night on the German city of Cologne. Yet it would be a ghoul's glee that could be felt over it without another feeling of pity and regret.

The only reason we can rejoice over reading of the destruction of an important city is that it may help to put a stop to the forces of destruction. The last generation has witnessed what seems to be the folly of the phrase, "war to end war," and yet we cling to the hope that such a thing may be possible. As yet the world is not ready to adopt any other way so we do rejoice that the Germans are being taught such lessons, and we hope the truth may be brought home to Japan in the same way.

Cologne has been an important city on the left bank of the Rhine for a long, long time. The thing for which it is best known is its famous cathedral, now more than a thousand years old. It did not reach completion for several hundred years, and in fact it has never been perfected according to the original design, but for more than six hundred years it has aroused the admiration of the world. We wonder what happened to the marvelous cathedral in the destruction of Friday night.

Ultimately the world must find a better way of promoting peace and prosperity. "War to end war" is an empty phrase. What has been demonstrated within the memory of many of us is the uselessness of our present and former means of protection. The great wall of China doubtless kept back the mongols for a long time, but a Chinese wall or a Maginot line is as useless now as a rail fence. The only thing that seems to count now is the bomber, and how long will it be until the world comes to see that there is nothing constructive in them, or in any of our present methods? How long until we shall see that the only thing being accomplished is ruin? How long until some other method, even more hellish than those now in use shall counter-balance all our present achievements.

Perhaps when a large part of the wealth of the world is at the bottom of the sea, when the achievements of many centuries have been blotted out, and when countless millions of young men lie buried in foreign soil, "They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks."

L. B. H.

WE MUST REMEMBER—

America did not ask for this war. It was thrust upon us by a treacherous enemy.

From pioneer days, we have been an ingenious people beginning in a vast, undeveloped country. We have had the inventive skill and resolution to shorten distances and lighten toil with machinery. We have built more motor cars, trucks, railroads, and mining machinery than any other country. We have turned the forests, oil fields and farms into productive wealth. We have the horse-power and the man-power.

There is only one thing that can lose this war for us—the greatest war in world history—and that is complacency, half-hearted effort, failure to face the shocking possibility of defeat. "Let-George-do-it" won't work this time.

In this battle for our inalienable rights and freedoms, no one can stand on the side lines. All of us are fighters now.

WOULD IT BE BETTER?

In several editorials recently we indicated our opposition to a movement for international government. We believe nations ought voluntarily to live in peace and cooperation without surrendering anything of their independence.

We can not deny the fact, however, that the movement is on, and we believe that the sooner the general public is made aware of the fact, the better it will be for our nation and the world. Let people take a stand on this question, with eyes open and discriminating minds.

We quote here an editorial from The Christian Science Monitor, which is well edited though we question whether its leaning in this instance is wise. The editorial is headed, "Toward a Better Order."

"After United Nations victory—Balkan federation? Such federation may be a key to reorganization of Europe. Its prospect is discussed by refugees arriving in Cairo from Balkan states now under the Nazi yoke, according to a dispatch from the Egyptian capital by a special correspondent of this newspaper."

Such reports are interesting because they indicate progress toward the first prerequisite of Balkan federation, namely, a desire for co-operation among the peoples directly involved. Discussion of federation by others, no matter how well-intentioned and theoretically sound, cannot accomplish its aim while cultural and historical traditions, plus suspicion and hatred, stand between the peoples of the proposed member nations.

It is understandable that nations which have only recently satisfied their aspirations by achieving nation-states should be reluctant to consider plans for international co-operation that may seem to set nationalism at a discount. It is understandable that territorial disputes, when constantly fanned by intrigue of great powers intent to divide and rule, should appear more important to small nations than the increased welfare and security they might obtain through subordinating these disputes to the common good.

For some time it has seemed that these influences would postpone for many years any development toward international government. But the war and the brutal treatment which small and largest states have received at the hands of conquerors are evidently preparing world thought to accept a better order."

In our own judgment the declaration should stand, "That these united colonies (now States) are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states."

PROHIBITION FOR THE DURATION

In theory alcohol is a poison and its effect upon the cells of the body is deleterious, yet many men drink in moderation and live to a ripe old age beyond the biblical span of life. When I was a young man in college out west, James J. Corbett who had recently defeated the great John L. Sullivan gave an address before our Athletic Association in which he intimated that he could go on a night "bender" and then go to Turkish bath and sweat it out next day be as good as he ever was.

When I heard him say it I thought him wrong, and I haven't since changed my mind. Corbett was a splendid specimen of humanity—perhaps the nearest to an Adonis of any one who ever wore the champion's belt but his tripping ultimately sapped his vitality and left him an easy victim for the smaller and older Bob Fitzsimmons, whose solar plexus blow that knocked out Corbett, has remained to this day a pugilistic classic.

Alcohol is now needed to make rubber, to make munitions, to win the war. It is not needed for stimulants as now generally used.

So, it is my belief, that the very best thing we could now do would be to enact prohibition, but in language that would make the law self-revocate after peace was declared.

The question is not one of morals, it is one of patriotism. If we cannot have both liquor and victory, let's have victory—for victory is more important.

When I was a small boy we had an old man named "Bige" Osborn who helped out, and 'tho he was beyond 70 years of age he could hold his own with the rest of the hands.

One rainy day in the wood shed he told me how as a young man he used to go to the woods, fell trees, cut them into cord wood lengths, split and pile them, and that his average days work was four cords a day. That is at-least twice as much as the average man alone will now do. But another thing he told me was that he took with him daily a pint of whiskey, and drank it all, and never felt the effects of it. In my boyhood days, it was the common custom to give the men at harvest time a swig of grog in the middle of the morning and again in the afternoon, and it was my particular task to get astride of "old kit"—a gentle mule—and ride to town three miles away, and get the gallon jug filled with liquor for the hands.

In Bige Osborn's day liquor was not licensed and cost 3c to 4c a pint, when I toted the liquor for the men sixty odd years ago, good liquor cost 25c to 35c a pint, but the Civil War made revenue a necessity and liquor and tobacco were taxed as was matches. The first World War, followed by Squandaramia has increased demand for tax money. Bige Osborn's good liquor (straight whiskey) cost 25c up a gallon, now our "cert." rot-gut stuff which is about one-fourth straight whiskey and the fill up alcohol and water and this stuff is taxed by governments about $5.00 per gallon, and it begins to look like the higher she is taxed the more she is drunk. But notwithstanding all this tax revenue, that booze now brings into the treasury, I still think that prohibition for the duration would be the wise thing.

A lump of sugar eaten between meals will give harvest hands all the pep and none of the headache that booze brings. Try it and see for yourself.

SAVE THE GARDENS

Flower-destroying dogs are said to be running riot in Lutherville, and housewives who prize their gardens have made unsuccessful efforts to put a stop to their depredations.

A bird in a flower bush adds an extra touch of beauty to the floral scene. But whoever heard of a poodle in a pansy bed or a dog among the heliotropes. Surely, never before in the art of flower arrangement has such a thing occurred. No wonder the Lutherville housewives are up in arms.

Victory gardens, too, must be protected. It is discouraging, to say the least, to see a choice bed of radishes or a prize row of peas uprooted and destroyed by visiting canines. Dogs have their place, it is true. They are man's best friend, his companion through the ages. But every one will readily agree that they have no place in a garden, unless they are cast in iron, and even on that point there is no unanimity of opinion—The Union News.

U. S. Has Two Years Supply of Quinine

Dutch Indies Is Principal Source of Drug.

WASHINGTON.—Before war broke out in the Pacific, the United States had laid in a 10,000,000-ounce supply of quinine, precious drug used in the prevention and cure of malaria, a report from the National Geographic society points out.

"Because 90 per cent of the world's quinine—obtained from the bark of the cinchona tree—comes from the Netherlands Indies, the United States has placed the substance on the nation's list of strategic materials, the only drug thus singled out."

"A record total of 7,920 tons of cinchona bark was exported from the Netherlands Indies in 1940. But new supplies of quinine from the Far East now are cut off, temporarily at least. At the normal rate of consumption, the 10,000,000-ounce quinine reserve would meet all United States needs for from two to three years. In an emergency it could be spread out to satisfy all probable demands for from four to five years."

"The malarial mosquito thrives in the wet tropics. The advance of full-scale war into the equatorial regions therefore in all likelihood will necessitate increased use of anti-malarial drugs."

"Although chemical substitutes for quinine have been developed in the laboratory, quinine sulphate, from the bark of the cinchona tree, still is the staple malaria remedy."

"The United States can obtain considerable quinine from South America."

"Quinine has other uses than in combating malaria. It is a traditional cold and influenza remedy, and also finds its way into hair tonics, bitters for cooking and beverages, including 'tonic water.'"

Dutch, English, Indian

Names Reflect New York

The concluding chapter of the 10-volume "History of the State of New York," published by the Columbia University Press, under the auspices of the New York State Historical association, is devoted to the origin of place names. English names, according to the publishers, make up the largest group, with Dutch names second and Indian third. Oddly enough, English place names began to invade the state before the end of the Dutch regime in 1664—such names as Easthampton, Southampton, Chester, Rye, Hempstead, Jamaica.

The names of 20 of the state's 62 counties are Indian, either of Iroquoian or Algonquian origin. Cohoes, for example, means "a canoe falling," and is derived from an accident in which a loaded canoe went over the falls.

France claimed about two-thirds of New York for a century and a half and the result is a survival of a number of French place names, as Orleans and St. Lawrence counties. The Dutch, on the other hand, held political control for only about 55 years, but left many more place names—the counties of Orange, Nassau, Rensselaer, Cortland, Schuylers, Bronx (although Jonas Bronck, who gave his name to the county, borough, cocktail and cheer, was a Dane). German survivals are few, although the services of Baron von Steuben and the gallant stand of General Herkimer at Oriskany resulted in counties being named after them.

Famous Richmond, Va., Church's Background

For 80 years the mother church of Richmond, Va. Methodism has stood as a prominent landmark at Broad and Twentieth streets. Many marvel at its needle spire.

Richmond's Methodists formed a pastoral charge in 1798. Having no church they met in the old county courthouse and the house of delegates, writes Virginia Kennady in the Richmond Times-Dispatch. Later they gathered to worship in the Parrot family's stable.

Early in 1800 the 28 worshippers formed the First Church. The building was erected at Nineteenth and Franklin streets, where a tobacco warehouse now stands. At Fourteenth and Franklin streets in 1828, a more spacious church was built in what was thought to be a desirable and convenient location. A fire demolished it in 1835, but in a year it was restored.

The tide of population was flowing to more attractive sections of the city and the decaying church realized this. The congregation was divided and two larger, handsomer churches were planned. Nine trustees for one of them were elected in 1858. On Christmas day of the next year, the father of Dr. William Parker was appointed to find a site for this church. He chose the northeast corner of Broad street at Eleventh street, and Broad street Methodist was built. The remaining communicants of the First Church formed Trinity, now standing nine blocks east at Twentieth and Broad streets.

Packing House Efficiency

One need only follow the progress of a carcass through a packing house to realize the complexity of production and the multifariousness of the uses to which an animal can be put. After butchering the hide is removed by experts who accomplish their task with the least possible damage to the skin. The hide is then cured in brine for 30 days before being sold for the manufacture of shoes, harness, saddlery, belting and related goods.

The tail hair is preserved for employment in upholstery, in the manufacture of brushes and like products. The body hair, removed in the process of tanning, is sold for felting or for mixing with plaster. Ear hair makes the best-known artists' brushes.

For Ski Troopers

A new development in equipment for the army's ski troops has been announced by the war department. The items have already been tested by quartermaster corps technicians and have been devised to take care of a ski-trooper's repairs. A repair kit, carried as emergency equipment by one out of every four to eight ski-troopers, is made of a light metal and fits any ski. It is designed as a makeshift to get a ski-trooper back to his post when the tip of his ski has been so damaged that it cannot be used. Also included in the new equipment is a repair kit containing a bag of tools necessary to repair skis. The entire repair unit weighs less than eight ounces.

Cast Own Soldiers

Lead soldiers will be scarce in South Africa, but boys will be able to make their own or else play with rubber soldiers. American manufacturers of toys have been sending rubber soldiers, mostly painted in drab khaki and gray, which are to be seen in many Johannesburg store windows. A new device on sale is an outfit which includes a mould of a soldier. Little boys can cast their own soldiers, and when they have knocked them out of shape with heavy machine-gun fire, they can put the mangled corpses in to the mould and send their armies forth to battle again.

As a matter of fact, that's all it is.

It enables a store or factory with a lot of merchandise to sell to find a lot of people who want it.

The people who use advertising find it the cheapest way of doing this job.

BY ORDER OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF
CARROLL COUNTY

By L. L. STEVENSON

Double or Nothing: During a lull in a Saturday night bridge session, Dick Mockler told of a friend who had been held up in Boston. Not only was all his cash taken, but he was stripped of his jewelry even to a stick pin. Nevertheless, the victim retained presence of mind enough to request a refund so that he would not have to walk home. The bandits were considerate to the extent of tossing him a coin. But when he examined it, he found it was a counterfeit quarter he had been carrying for luck. By that time, the thugs had disappeared, so he set out in search of a policeman. Curiously enough, he found not one but a pair, a small cop on horseback and a big one on foot. The little cop announced he would give chase and ordered the big one to follow. The big cop looked up at him and inquired, "Will that horse of yours carry two?"

Assistance: A lot of small eateries scattered about the outskirts of the city formerly closed at midnight because of lack of patronage. Now they remain open all around the clock. The war is the reason. Air raid wardens are hungry when they go on and off their tours of duty, hence a demand for hot dogs and hamburgers that means profits through the night. Incidentally, while the air wardens in midtown are quite snappy in trench coats and steel helmets, those in the more remote sections dress for comfort and not for style. As a result on cold nights, they wear all the clothes they can put on. Nevertheless, reports have it that they are just as efficient and just as devoted to their duties as their well-dressed fellow workers.

Loss: Possibly the Provincetown Playhouse down in Greenview Village couldn't be classified as a landmark. It was once merely a cow barn or maybe a place for horses. At any rate, it was originally built for a stable. Despite that fact, when it was finally turned into a playhouse, Eugene O'Neill, Louis Wolheim, Paul Robeson and many others of the stage who are now known over the nation and even farther, got their start there. But the little structure on MacDougall street fell on evil days and efforts of newcomers to revive its past glories met with little success. So now the Provincetown Playhouse is being razed to make place for a structure which will bring a much larger income.

Doubling Up: Nineteen hundred and forty-two looms as the biggest marriage year in the history of the nation. Such is the belief of Dorothy Jaffe. Fifteen per cent of the couples who will become husband and wife before the birth of 1943 will go to the altar because of the draft. Ten per cent will take the vows for economic reasons. Ten per cent more will do so because of the proddings of various advertisers. The remaining 65 per cent will set up homes of their own because of a plain, old-fashioned love of one for the other. Miss Jaffe should know what she is talking about. She is the head of what is said to be the largest matrimonial bureau in the country. In the last 15 years, she has engineered more than 10,000 marriages and taking it all in all, that's a lot of weddings for which to be responsible.

And New York: Paris is a city for women; London is a city for men; New York is a city for both men and women. Such is the opinion of tall, soft-spoken, alert Paul Henried. New York means much to this personable young Austrian. He came to this country from London where he had been appearing on the stage and screen for five years. At the time he left, the British capital had been blacked out for a year. Hence it surprised and at first bewildered him, to find New York ablaze with light. He can't forget that spectacle—the great city bright and dazzling. It has so lingered with him that when he returned after a year in Hollywood, one of the first things he did was to go to Broadway and relive his original thrill.

End Piece: Karen Morley of the movies informs us that green is her favorite color though in the theater, green is usually regarded as a jinx. Her favorite director-producer is Luther Green. In addition, she likes pistachio ice cream which is green. Maybe all this fondness for green is due to the fact that she was born on St. Patrick's day.

Alleged Counterfeiter

Hit by Slot Machines

AKRON.—Even when you make your own nickels and quarters for use in slot machines, you can't win—according to a 38-year-old Akron man held in city jail for investigation by U. S. treasury department agents.

Detectives seized the man in his apartment when they found crude molds for making counterfeit coins and a quantity of pots and pans from which, officers charged, was extracted the metal for the bogus coins.

The raid followed a complaint from slot machine owners that the man was suspected of passing the counterfeit coins in machines in the Ellet district. A 43-year-old woman, found in the man's apartment, also was held for investigation.

Detective Ellis U. Harper said the man declared he had lost a large amount of money in the slot machines before deciding to make his own coins. But even when he was playing "on the house," so to speak, the man told Harper, "I still don't win."

Suspends Jail Sentence

Provided Man Marries

WILKES-BARRE, PA. — James Brown, 26, has to be a good husband, or else! Arrested for robbery, he was sentenced by Judge J. Harold Flannery. A young woman stepped to the bar and asked permission to speak. "I am Alice Winchek," she said. "James and I had planned to get married when this happened. I can promise you that if you give him his freedom and let us get married, he will settle down and reform." Flannery thought it over and agreed to suspend the sentence, "provided you marry this young woman, stop your drinking and report to the proper authorities at regular intervals." He added: "If marriage doesn't reform you, the prison sentence must be served."

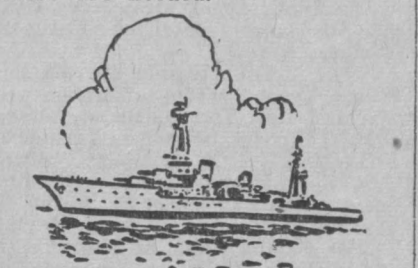

Supposed Hunger Strike

Called Off by Police

WAUKEGAN, ILL. — Mrs. Mae Lantz, central figure in an extortion and love scandal in 1939, was released from St. Therese's hospital after taking food that ended a supposed hunger strike. She announced the hunger strike by pasting notes in the window of her shop. Police took her to the hospital and she was given nourishment. Hospital authorities said she was in excellent condition for one who had fasted nearly 100 hours.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

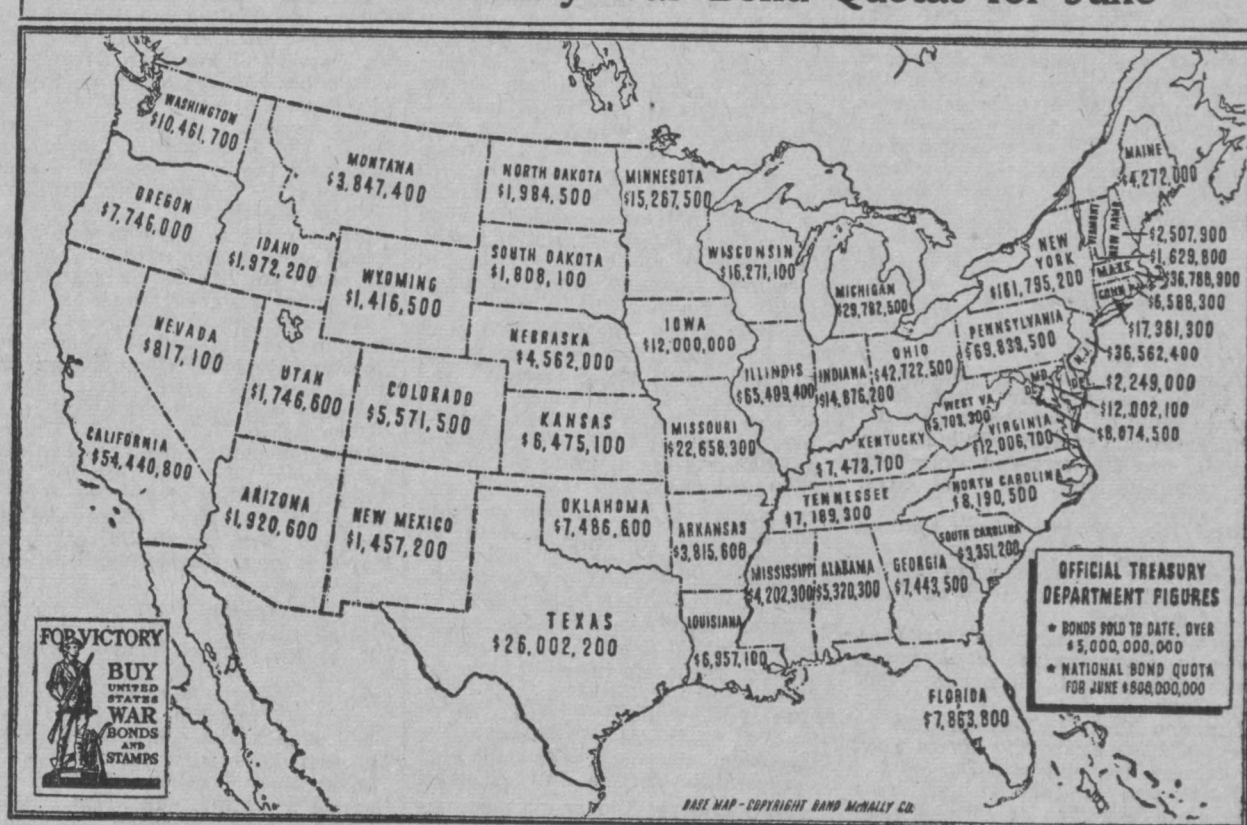

Navy Cruisers are built in two classes, light and heavy, the latter displacing about 10,000 tons. Our navy has about an equal number of light and heavy Cruisers, the 10,000 ton Cruiser costing approximately $20,000,000. Many Cruisers are under construction and many more are needed.

To pay for these speedy and powerful ships with their heavy guns and armament we must buy War Bonds. Citizens of a large town or a given community, working in unity, could buy one of these ships for the Navy if they put at least ten percent of their income in War Bonds every pay day.

U. S. Treasury Department

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for June

The above map of the country shows the War Bond Quota by states for the month of June totalling $800,000,000. Everybody every pay day is expected to invest at least ten per cent of his income in War Bonds to aid in financing America's offensive against the Axis powers.

The ultimate quota for the nation will be on a basis of one billion dollars per month effective in July. This sum is necessary to provide for all-out production of planes, guns, ships and munitions adequate to arm our fighting men with the tools necessary to win the war.

Dumpy and Hippy— That's U. S. Beauty!

Department of Agriculture Uses Tape Measure.

WASHINGTON.—The average American woman is dumpy. If that's a seditious statement take it up with the agriculture department.

A department scientific compendium of research into feminine sizes and shapes reveals that the average American woman is short, heavy for her height, thick-waisted and hippy.

By measuring 59 external dimensions of 14,698 women selected at random in seven states and the District of Columbia, the department's bureau of home economics arrived at data which it believes is fairly representative, when boiled down and averaged up, of the nation's 40,000,000 white women over 18.

The mean woman, as the department calls her, stands only 5 feet 3 inches tall while weighing 133 1/2 pounds. She has a 15.27 neck, a 35.62 bust, a 29.15 waist and—heaven help her—a 38.82 hip.

When you consider that the current ideal of feminine beauty is a creature 5 feet 6 inches tall weighing 122 pounds with a 34 bust, 25 waist and 35 hip, you get an idea of how far the mean American woman misses the mark.

"A surprisingly large proportion of women," the report goes on, "are short but stout or tall but slender," and you can't gauge a girl's hips by her bust or vice versa.

To aid manufacturers of women's clothing, the department sought a system for predicting all dimensions from a given few. Since no scientific study of the kind had ever been made before, the department undertook to measure everything from ankle height to shoulder slope and from neck girth to sitting-spread.

FEESERSBURG.

Enter lovely June! with ripening grain (barley now) fruits, garden vegetables, glorious days and nights, and a wealth of roses and romance; schools will close and vacation time of freedom for another summer be here to enjoy. Once at Blue Ridge College we heard a Riley's poem recite James Whitcomb Riley's poem entitled, "knee deep in June." It was splendidly done, and a young woman sitting by us became so enthusiastic it seemed likely she'd roll on the grass on the campus for a test.

Last week Maurice Late on the P. Rinehart farm, accidentally cut his leg with a hatchet; it seemed only a small affair but bled so profusely the Dr. had to give it some attention.

A friend came in with an empty mouth on Saturday after a session with the Dentist who had extracted 17 teeth, and that's a lot of friends to lose all at once, and it was time to suggest a lot of soft food, some of which may not seem palatable when the family is eating chicken or steak. The trouble is one is supposed to feel so relieved and spry—but it does not renew our youth.

Harry Donald, son of Donald and Frances Crabbs Lambert, accompanied the Emmert Miller family and mother Margraff to their former home at Accident, Garrett Co., for the closing days last week. What a fine trip that was for a young fellow but "Jimmie" was missed at S. S.

A number of our soldier boys were home for the Decoration holidays; all looking well and making the best of a bad bargain—for all war is wrong. Have none of the leaders reason enough to arbitrate, and sign another Armistice—for which we pray.

Roger Sentz conducted the S. S. at Mt. Union on Sunday in the continued absence of F. P. Bohn, Supt., and Mrs. C. Wolfe took charge of the Missionary meeting which followed. Good services—but not fully attended.

What a heavy thunder gust on Sunday evening after the extreme of the last days of May. There were mutterings of thunder in the distant most of the afternoon, and in the evening it drew nearer—until it became alarming, and for nearly an hour we've rarely heard heavier peals with vivid lightning, and a rush of rain.

How helpless we are in a riot of the elements!

Gardens are growing nicely and so are the weeds with the ground too wet to attack them. There's much complaint about the cut-worms that are destroying sweet potato vines, tomatoes, peppers, cabbage, etc. Their taste for vegetables seems to be increasing—how are we going to save our good things from their ravages? More war-fare.

The Boston Herald of May 24 announces that Fred K. Mougey, Business Agent of the State Department of mental health has been commissioned a Captain in the Army Air Forces, and will be stationed at Randolph Field, Texas. He was an Infantry Lieutenant in the first World War, and the same column carries his picture in uniform.

On Monday, May 25, at 3 P. M., Frederick K. Mougey, of Brookline, and Miss Doreen B. Glover, Quincy, were quietly married in the church; he is now at St. Anthony Hotel. A letter informs us that his mother, Mrs. Wm. Lincoln Birely, has been sick the past month, and will probably enter the Hospital again for observation. The shock of her son's hurried marriage, because of his sudden call to the colors, has put her in a bad nervous condition—confined to bed by the Doctor's orders.

A young heifer belonging to J. L. Sellers, nearly drowned Sunday, when found by some boys hanging over the bandhead downward, in a distressing condition. They called a Doctor and worked with her several hours, and she revived and could be sheltered. She was living on Monday morning with a lively calf by her side.

Some of our farmers are planting tomatoes now for factory use—acres of them, and thousands of plants. One man is setting out 2000 plants—and even when they use a mechanical planter, there is plenty of hard work. They can be thankful for cooler weather since the rain storm of Sunday night, and another on Monday night.

Aren't we having a time to find where and when we were born—perhaps 40 years ago when birth certificates were not in vogue. We read of one man who wrote, and traveled for said information—in vain; so far his own peace of mind decided he had never been born.

We have a new inhabitant now that Scott Crabbs has purchased a goat which lets itself be heard. They are considered good mowers, and may be some fashionable in this neighborhood. Strawberries are still with us—at different prices, some 15c a box and 12½c nice big berries and early cherries are ripening and not abundant at many places; may be the heavy snow fall of March 29 had something to do with it, and maybe if we can't get sufficient sugar—we won't have much fruit.

I'M A PILGRIM

I'm a pilgrim, I'm a stranger
In a land where all is known.
I am journeying to a far land
Which will later be my home.

But I know while here I tarry,
There is work for me to do,
If to myself and country
I am in all things true blue.

Now as ne'er before is needed
Man of mettle, men of might,
For on every side about us
Enemies always are in sight.

Strength and courage to protect it
Is the thing we now most need,
If in righteous peaceful victory
We and Allies would succeed.
God of Righteousness and Goodness
Grant us courage firm to stand
On the battle front of Freedom
To protect our Native Land!

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Army's fighter planes are the finest in the world and develop speeds up to 400 miles an hour. They cost approximately $100,000 each, provide fighter escorts for the huge flying fortresses, and combine speed, range, altitude and blistering fire power.

America's plane production plants are working over-time turning out thousands of these fighter planes. War Savings Bonds will help pay for them and the American people are committed to at least ten percent of their income to finance their cost in War Bonds. Every American, buying his share every pay day, will make it comparatively easy to supply our army and navy air corps with these supreme Eagles of the air.

HON. THOMAS E. COOK VISITS THE EASTERN SHORE OF MD.

(For The Record).

Thomas E. Cook, candidate for Governor in the coming election this Fall, has just returned from a two weeks trip through the Eastern Shore of Maryland. He first visited Elkton, where he met with some of his political friends and then on to the cities of Chestertown, Easton, Salisbury, Ocean City, Pocomoke City, Crisfield and Princess Anne, contacting his supporters in each place. Mr. Cook says he received wonderful encouragement from all the groups he met with. He also talked with many farmers and laborers, who voiced themselves as being very much dissatisfied with the present administration.

Throughout the entire Shore he passed out circulars in bold face type warning the voters of Maryland to be aware of the old political hacks, who are trying to whitewash themselves with war. Cook states in the circular that the old Free State of Maryland will stand forever and the State must be turned back to the people and taken out of the hands of a few professional politicians who have had their hands at the very throats of the taxpayers for many years.

SAFETY RECORD OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

"Again Carroll County can be proud of its clear record for another year—no traffic accidents to school children enroute to and from class at intersections protected by safety patrol members," Percy M. Burke, of Westminster Branch Manager of the Automobile Club of Maryland announced Monday.

"We believe this fine record is made possible only by the splendid safety education work of school teachers, the fine cooperation of school authorities, police and city authorities and the unstinting duty performed by AAA school safety members," Mr. Burke said.

"It is particularly gratifying to report this fact to parents of school-age children. Highest praise is due the faithful patrol members who daily took their posts to protect classmates against traffic hazards. Patrol members of Maryland are among some 300,000 young 'Guardians of Safety' in 3,200 communities throughout the United States who are sponsored and equipped by AAA motor clubs.

"The Automobile Club of Maryland salutes this splendid record of the school-age pedestrian group which sets an example for older pedestrians. While traffic fatalities involving adults practically doubled in the period from 1922 to 1940, the record of school-age children declined about one-third due to emphasis on traffic safety in the classroom."

More than 500 Merit Award Certificates have been awarded by the Westminster Branch of the Automobile Club of Maryland, to Safety Patrol Students in the schools of Carroll County. Besides the certificates, a number of bronze pins were awarded patrolmen who had performed outstanding work.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

ONE day Nazi troops guarding the Skoda munition works in Czechoslovakia found a drawing of a gigantic tortoise on the walls. The tortoise may not have meant anything particular to the Nazis, but for the Czech workers it meant "slow down." In fact, in all the Nazi-occupied countries the tortoise has become one of the symbols of rebellion, Curt Reiss reports in his fascinating book, "Underground Europe."

CURT REISS

Such trifling incidents multiplied a thousand and a hundred thousand fold are doing considerable to throw the German production plans off schedule, says the author of "Underground Europe."

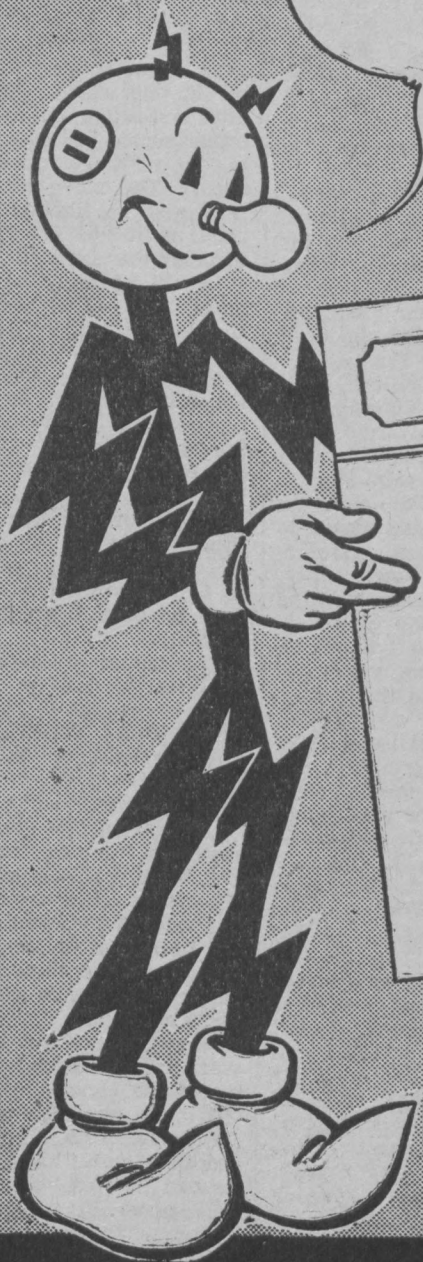

One of the neatest tricks in sabotage is mentioned in F. C. Weiskopf's "Dawn Breaks," a novel about the underground movement in Central Europe. The workers when they are drinking their beer at lunch next to their machines, simply blow some of the suds down the whitehot gun barrels. It leaves no trace, but the barrel is never the same again. The steel coils unevenly, and unevenly cooled steel cannot withstand the stresses set up by the expanding gases at every firing.

Eighty years ago, a French peasant girl, Bernadette Soubirous, saw a vision of the Madonna in a cavern at Lourdes. Since then, thousands of people have made pilgrimages to the grotto, and many have claimed they were cured of their ailments by the miraculous waters of the spring there. Franz Werfel, internationally famous novelist, was in Lourdes at the time France fell, and was so moved by the story of Bernadette that he resolved if ever he escaped to freedom and lived to write again, he would write a novel about her. He finally made his way to America by way of Lisbon and set to work on the book. His forthcoming novel, "The Song of Bernadette," is the result, and the Book-of-the-Month Club has selected it as the Club's June book.

What do celebrities eat? Frank Case, suave proprietor of New York's Hotel Algonquin, whose dining room for many years has been a famous meeting place for literary and theatrical headliners, says he's often asked this question. His answers may be found in a new kind of cookbook, "Feeding the Lions." Evidently celebrities like the same kind of food we ordinary mortals eat. Orson Welles, for instance, goes for boiled beef with horseradish sauce. Gary Cooper and Moss Hart both cast their vote for boiled beef hash, while movie star Walter Huston prefers plain roast

Brave Nazi Mines To Recover Ten Million in Gold

Deep Sea Divers Risk Lives To Salvage Treasure From Sunken Liner.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — How deep sea divers, fending off floating mines, salvaged $10,000,000 in gold from a sunken liner in the South Pacific was disclosed in messages to an industrial firm. The wreck was 428 feet beneath the surface.
Ten tons of gold bars were retrieved from the wreck of the trans-Pacific liner Niagara, which struck a German mine near the Hens and Chickens islands off Whangarei Harbor in New Zealand on June 19, 1940. The work set a record for deep sea salvage.
The bullion was the second most valuable cargo ever recovered from the sea. The depth of the descent by divers has only been exceeded by Dr. William Beebe's bathysphere.

Hush, Hush Job.

The account of the salvage was received by the International General Electric company from Nelson Jones, a representative in Wellington, New Zealand.
"The whole affair was very definitely of the hush, hush variety," Jones reported, "but the job has been successfully concluded and I understand the gold is safely in America."

Jones assembled the underwater lighting equipment and took part in the operations.

An old light draft ship, the Claymore, was reconitioned for the salvage work and an observation bell, a steel cylinder weighing 5,500 pounds and equipped with plate glass windows, was obtained.

A tedious search with echo-sounding devices was required to find the ship. In the course of this, Diver John Johnson of Melbourne descended 528 feet in the bell.

Delicate Work.

The wreck was located on February 2, 1941. Divers blasted their way into the ship, with men of the Royal Australian navy assisting.

Step by step, the salvagers worked toward the bullion room. A delicately placed explosive charge blew away the hinges of the door without disturbing the contents.

The deep sea salvage record previously was held by the Italians who in four years recovered some $3,000,000 in gold from the liner Egypt which sank off Brest in 396 feet of water after a collision in 1922.

Only the White Star liner Laurentic, torpedoed off Ireland in 120 feet of water during the First World War, is believed to have yielded greater treasure than the Niagara. British navy divers retrieved $19,000,000 in gold and silver over a seven-year period.

Felon Rides 200 Miles Hanging to Seaplane

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA.—A convict of the Southern penal colony at Aracua won perilous but brief freedom by hitching a ride on a pontoon of a military seaplane which delivers mail to the colony.

The desperate man clung to the float for nearly 200 miles. The wind ripped his clothing off but he stuck on. Finally the crew discovered its passenger and set the plane down on a river.

Here's Good Recipe for Medicine to Give Japs

CHARLESTOWN, IND.—Sh-sh-sh! Don't breathe a word about how much smokeless powder is being made in the war department's Indiana ordnance works here. But for those (if any) who would like to make some on the kitchen stove, here's the unofficial recipe, straight from the horse's mouth!

Gather the lint from father's cotton underwear, put it in a kettle of water and bring to a boil; evaporate the water and put the dry residue in a pot with some diluted sulphuric acid (obtainable by emptying your car battery) and add a dash of wart remover, otherwise known as nitric acid. Stir the mixture for half an hour, remove the lint and place it in boiling water containing baking soda.

Next, take out the wad and churn it in rubbing alcohol or home brew, and add finger nail polish containing ether. Churn it some more and then dry. And—DON'T LIGHT ANY MATCHES IN THE VICINITY because what you have is good medicine for Japs and Germans but not for you. It's gun cotton, mister—nitrocellulose.

Army Seeks 14 Horses Strayed in Maneuvers

Third army headquarters has advertised that 14 cavalry horses strayed from their organizations during the war games.

The army'd like to have them back.

Something Settled

By MEREDITH SCHOLL
(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

THE late twilight enshrouded Lorraine as she sat on the hammock on the porch.
Kenneth came up the walk. She called out to him and he came eagerly toward her.
"Lorraine!" He sat down, groping for her hand.

"Mom says Roger is coming home!"

"Roger?" A chill swept through him. "Roger?" he repeated. "My brother?"

"Mom says your mom had a letter and he's coming for two weeks." Kenneth released her hand. He sat cold and rigid. "He's here," he said. "He came an hour ago. He's over at the house now."

Her excitement was like a living something there in the darkness, like a barrier suddenly looming between them.

"Here?" She caught her breath. "Then—then—"

Kenneth turned on her savagely. "So that's it? So it's Roger you love—want—after all? It wasn't me? All you wanted in me was what belonged to him. All these months that he's been away, you haven't loved me at all. It's him you wanted, him you planned to get, through me!"

And Kenneth struck again, a savage jab that caught his brother under the chin.

"Kenneth!"

"That's it! I know now. I should have known all along. But I wouldn't let myself believe it. I wanted you to love me, I wanted to think you did. I made myself think you did!"

"Kenneth, please! It isn't that. It isn't! I—I—knew you were lonesome, and so was I and—and we did have good times together, didn't we?"

"You're lying! You're lying now the way you've lied all these months—to me. Leading me on. Letting me think you cared! I should have known, but I loved you too much to let myself believe. I was weak. Weak like I've always been."

"Kenneth, don't. You're not as bad—as that!"

He laughed harshly, standing up, clutching at the hammock chains for support, staring into the darkness.

"Because I'm afraid."

"He's coming over. He'll be here any minute. He'll take you in his arms and kiss your lips—and you'll want him to." He paused, not hearing the girl's quick breathing. "He'll take you from me, like he's taken everything else. Ever since we've been kids. Because he's big and strong and fun-loving and everyone approves. And I'll let him. I'll stand by and grin with that hero-worship look on my face—because I'm afraid!"

He started toward the steps, lurching drunkenly, a strange, hard whimper coming from between his lips. Lorraine followed him, clutching at his arm.

"Kenneth, don't! I can't stand it to see you this way. You shouldn't take on so. Kenneth! Please!"

He shook her off violently. "I'm not blaming you! Not blaming you at all. Nobody loves a coward. Only," his words tightened, "you shouldn't have let me think as you—did."

Footsteps sounded on the concrete walk. A cheery greeting came to them out of the darkness. "Hello, Lorraine!" It was Roger. Big, strong, handsome Roger. Coming toward them through the gloom.

The two on the steps waited, silent, dreading his coming, yet grateful for it, afraid of what might happen.

The big man materialized out of the darkness. He was grinning, hurrying along, but he stopped at sight of them on the steps; the grin faded, because he sensed, with seeing the look in his brother's eyes.

"Kenneth!" he cried, trying to sound good natured. "What the heck are you doing over at my girl's, you danged little runt?"

"She's not your girl. She's mine! She's been mine ever since you went away. Mine! Do you hear! Mine!"

"Yours. Lord, son, what's come over you? Yours? Lorraine yours? A little runt like you?"

"Ask her!" Kenneth said tightly. "Ask her how we've been carrying on." Behind him, Lorraine moved; her fingers pressed into his shoulders.

Roger's face was suddenly dark. "Listen, you little squirt. Lorraine belongs to me. She always has. She wouldn't waste time on a weakling like you."

"Then come and get her! Come take her like you have everything else of mine that you wanted. Let's see you try!"

A moment the big man hesitated. Then in the gloom he smiled and came up the steps. "That's what I'm aiming to do, shaver. Now get—"

Kenneth swung blindly. The force of the blow surprised him, awakened in him a spirit of confidence and faith in his own strength. The feel of his knuckles against Roger's jaw was good. Sight of Roger staggering back brought a sense of joy and delight.

"Why, you—" Roger came at him, his face contorted, his hands reaching out. But Kenneth stepped down, under the reaching hands, and swung once more. The blow sunk deep into Roger's middle. The big man grunted and bent forward a little. And Kenneth struck again, a savage jab that caught his brother under the chin. And he followed this blow with another.

"You've always taken what you wanted. Never considered me. Always laughed and scoffed and joked when I protested." His voice was low and vibrant and harsh, filled with passion and hatred. In that moment he wasn't Kenneth the weakling, the small, puny, laughed-at younger brother. All the humiliation and anger and hatred he had known and stored in his soul until there was no longer room for more was investing him with an unnatural strength. It was the spirit of what he had always longed to be asserting itself.

Presently it was over. Roger lay at his feet, bleeding from a half-dozen wounds. Kenneth stood over him, his lips drawn back, sensing for the first time the sweet contentment and exultation that is the reward of victory in physical combat.

As from a great distance he heard Lorraine's voice. "Kenneth. Oh, my darling! My dear! However could you have thought it wasn't you I loved?"

He became conscious of her hands clutching at him. He turned to face her, cold, aloof, triumphant.

"You fool! Keep your hands off me!"

She staggered back beneath his thrust. "Kenneth!" Her cheeks were white, her eyes incredulous. "You do—love me! You said I was yours—you proved that no one could take me from you. Oh, I was a fool not to have known before it was you I wanted, needed."

But Kenneth had turned away, was being lost in the gloom. His laugh, hard and unreal, came drifting back to her. She heard his voice.

"And I should have known it was you—I didn't want nor need. I thought you possessed what I was seeking, but now I know that I was wrong. For I've found it, and it was in me, not you."

Donkeys From All Parts Of World Doctor's Hobby

"You remind me of a donkey!" This remark made by a friend is vividly recalled to Dr. Comer M. Woodward, professor of sociology at Emory university, because from it grew the idea which resulted in his unique collection.

Dr. Woodward has accumulated more than 150 miniature donkeys from all parts of the world.

When Dr. Woodward is asked why this collection interests him, he laughs and says: "Seeing these donkeys constantly reminds me of the times I have made a jackass of myself and warns me to be more careful in the future."

In a more serious mood, he continues: "When I look at these donkeys I am reminded of many people in this world. The donkey has always been a burden bearer, and many people feel that they carry the burden of the world on their shoulders. The slow, stubborn donkey may also be likened to the human race as it has sought to progress through the ages."

A set of eight brightly colored horses are valued highly by Professor Woodward. They are called "Ming" horses, and are replicas of some that date back to the Ming Dynasty in China. Because the Emperor Ming liked brightly colored horses, he often had his horses painted. Little replicas were made by the Chinese and used in their homes for decorative purposes much as we use toy animals today.

A set of these toy horses was given to Dr. Woodward by another friend who became interested in his collection.

The genial professor of sociology also has a donkey carved by the man who plays the part of John in the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau, an addition to the collection made by a former student on his return from Europe.

Interest in the donkeys does not stop with his collection. All through Dr. Woodward's home evidences of the little critters are found. His day begins and ends with donkeys. On his breakfast cream pitcher is the image of a donkey, the books he reads are held in place by donkey book ends, and his pipe rests in a donkey holder. Moreover, Dr. Woodward collects humorous stories and anecdotes concerning donkeys.

With a chuckle, the Emory professor remarks that when he gets old and doesn't have anything to do, he can look at his collection and it will serve to recall some of his accomplishments, people he has known, and the impression he has left with certain persons.

PROVING GROUND FOR HOG FEEDS

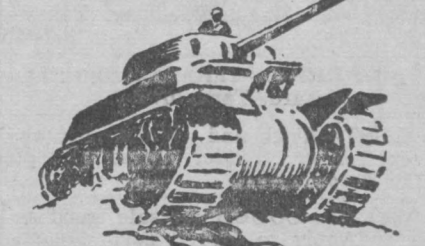

Here is shown a section of the Brood Sow Unit of the Purina Experimental Farm, Gray Summit, Missouri. Established in 1926, literally thousands of hogs have gone through this unit to determine what should go into hog feeds.

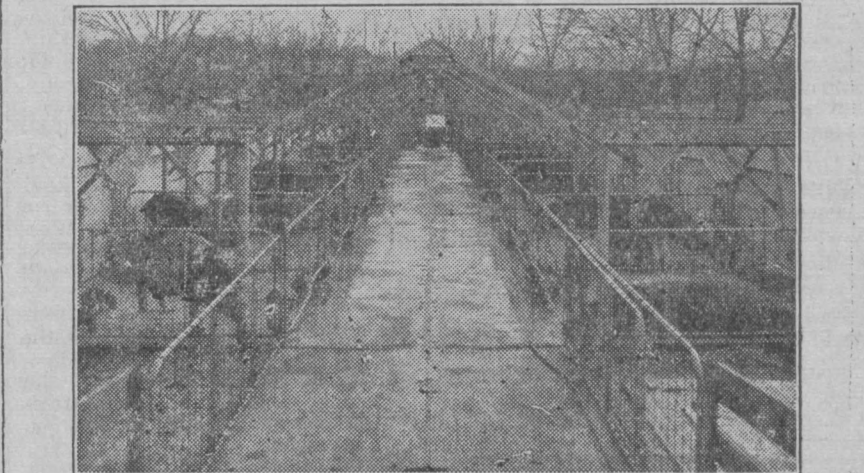

It was at this Unit that a three year study was made of the minerals needed in hog feeds. Anemia in pigs received a six season study. During this same period, the feeding values of various types of proteins and the influence of various vitamins in hog rations were extensively tested. In 1935, a study was begun on the influence of birth-weight on the number of pigs weaned and the weight of the pigs at weaning time. Purina Sow and Pig Chow was developed as a result of these studies. One example of the progress made at

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.
U. S. Treasury Department

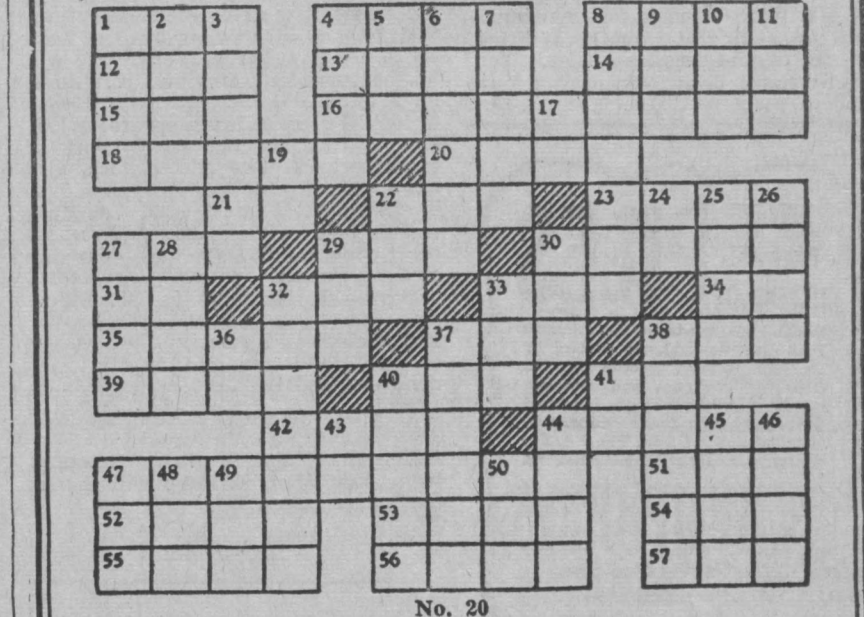

the Purina Farm is shown in the figures below, which give the average number of pigs weaned per litter, since 1926:

	1926	1933	1939	Spring 1941
6.6 pigs	7.4 pigs	9.3 pigs	9.57 pigs

These figures show the steady improvement made by following a sound plan of good breeding, sound management, careful sanitation and proper feeding. These figures are not just a few sows but on the entire herd, numbering between 60 and 70 brood sows, weaning two litters of pigs a year. In the spring of 1941, the average weight of all pigs at the Purina Farm at weaning time (nine weeks) was 41.5 pounds. The average number of hogs marketed from each sow for the years 1938-1940, inclusive, was 17½ hogs.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

FRIDAY: THE DAY OF SUFFERING (II)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-46; Mark 15:33, 34.

GOLDEN TEXT—But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.

Dark and distressing days have often come upon the earth, but the darkest day of all history was that day when cruel men with wicked hearts laid unholy hands upon the Son of God and crucified Him. And yet, by the grace of God, it was a day of bright hope for the sinful sons of men, for on that day complete redemption was wrought out. The veil was rent and the new and living way into the holy presence of God (Heb. 10:20) was opened for you and for me.

The cross is popular as an ornament on a church or on a golden chain, but it is far more than that. It speaks of the black hour of the Saviour's cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" and it also tells us of the One who became sin for us that we might know the righteousness of God (II Cor. 5:21).

Three thoughts emerge from our lesson.

I. Crucifixion—Bringing Life (Luke 23:33, 34a).

"There they crucified him"—four words summing up the almost unbelievable thing that took place on Calvary. He died; but in that death life and immortality were brought to light (II Tim. 1:10).

As believers in Christ, we are interested in all that took place at the crucifixion, for we know that as we contemplate Him on the cross we can say with Luther, "For me, for me!" And yet it was not for us alone that He died—it was for all mankind. So we turn to our unconverted friends and direct them to "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). He was crucified that they might live eternally. He who had only a plea for the forgiveness of His persecutors (v. 34a) tenderly offers His forgiveness to men today.

II. Rejection—Bringing Acceptance (Luke 23:34b-43).

Those who appear around the cross afford an interesting and striking picture of humanity. There were the indifferent ones, those not interested at all in who was being crucified, but only eager to share in the division of His garments.

There stood the people "beholding"—perplexed unable to believe that the miracle-working Christ was about to die. Verily, they were as sheep without a shepherd.

Then we see those who scoffed. They knew His claim to be the Son of God and hated Him for it. Now at last they had their chance to rail at Him, to ridicule and taunt. More ignorant and yet equally derisive, we see the mocking soldiers.

Even one of the thieves by His side "railed on him" (v. 39), ridiculing His claim. But here is the marvelous thing—the other thief, rough and wicked person that he was, saw in Christ a Saviour to whom he turned in faith, which was quickly and fully honored (vv. 42, 43).

The picture is thus complete. The Rejected One is "the way" to acceptance for all who believe (John 14:6). He said, "I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved" (John 10:9).

III. Darkness—Bringing Light (Luke 23:44, 45; Mark 15:33, 34).

Physical darkness fell over the scene at the cross, as though all nature would go into mourning, or sought to shield the suffering Saviour from the curious and hateful eyes of men. Then, too, it was God's sign that this was not the death of any ordinary man, even as it spoke of the judgment of those who had laid violent, sinful hands on His Son.

But deeper yet was the spiritual darkness into which Jesus went, as bearing the horrible load of the sins of the world He "was made sin for us" (II Cor. 5:21), and God the Father turned away from Him. We cannot fathom the full meaning of that hour, and we dare not attempt to explain it. We can only accept it and thank God that because He was made sin for us we may by faith be "made the righteousness of God in him."

Out of the darkness of that hour shone forth the one light which nothing in time or eternity can dim.

Route to Happiness

The truest and happiest of earthly lives, proven over and over again by hard actual experience, is that life which accepts and observes most nearly St. Paul's great postulate, "Here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come." Rightfully pursued, it in no way interferes with the intensest enjoyment of our time here on earth. We have but to see that we do God's will in everything.

Sunshine States Have Little Tooth-Decay

Studies have shown that certain southern states with abundant sunshine have less tooth decay than states where old Sol doesn't beam so generously. And we know that the ultra-violet in sunshine helps build up vitamin D in the human body.

Maybe that is one reason that one county in Texas was discovered recently where teeth were almost perfect. They have 3,000 hours of sunshine each year.

Another reason might be that people living in such a sunny climate have sunny dispositions and do not suffer from upset emotions.

In Deaf Smith county, according to a report to the American Dental Association by Dr. Edward Taylor of the Texas state department of health, 43 native-born people ranging from two years to middle age were picked at random, their teeth examined and no cavities found.

This remarkable condition was attributed, in part, to the high percent of calcium carbonate in the soil in that locality. Calcium being one of the minerals important in tooth formation.

Other minerals also are high in the soil and water in Deaf Smith county. Wheat ground into flour there is found to contain six times as much phosphorus as that found in ordinary flour. Milk samples tested there were as much as 30 per cent higher in phosphorus content than accepted standards. Vegetables and meats also probably are especially rich in minerals.

All these would add essential elements of calcium and phosphorus to the "tooth diet."

Tin Can Plays Important Part in American Life

"Should we lose our can opener we sure would have to give up housekeeping."

This remark, tossed off by the bride in a one-and-a-half apartment, tips off the tin can's paramount importance in American families. Every item of family food, from soup to nuts, is obtainable in tin containers, making it possible to prepare three "balanced" meals a day for any family without recourse to "fresh" foods, according to the United States Steel News. It is estimated that this country depends upon the tin can for 50 per cent of its food supply.

The article, "The Tin Can—Boon to Man," sets out some interesting information about tin cans. "The list of odd uses for tin cans, which crop up in the most unexpected places, is almost endless," writes the author. Among the examples he cites is the experience of Roy Chapman Andrews, the famed explorer. Traversing the desolate wastes of the Gobi desert, deep in inner Mongolia, he glimpsed a monastery with a glistening "gold" roof. He found, kerosene cans, hammered flat. Rust from the untreated edges gave it a golden appearance.

Block houses in Manchukuo are made bullet proof by a new sort of armor—baled tin cans. The cans are dried by heat, then crushed into tight bundles by large presses. In San Francisco, Chinese morticians use tin cans to ship back to China for burial the ashes of cremated Chinese who die in 'Frisco.

First Use of Castor Beans

Castor beans came into prominence during World War I in response to the demand for more suitable lubricant for aircraft engines than the petroleum oils available at the time. Several thousand tons of the beans were produced in the southern states for this purpose in 1918-19. The Texas Agricultural Experiment station was involved in this work and conducted tests with varieties of castor beans at several places in the state in 1918. The yields in these tests ranged from nothing for some of the varieties at all places to 62 bushels per acre for the best variety at Troup. Although the tests were conducted only one year, the yields obtained indicated in a general way the possibilities of growing the crop.

Superstitions About Bible

Under an old Scotch superstition the Bible was consulted before breakfast on New Year's morning. The Book was opened at random and a finger placed on the page, and the verse to which it pointed supposedly predicted the happiness or misery of the person for the coming year.

Other common New Year superstitions are that a death will occur in the house during the year if a candle or lamp is taken out of the house on New Year's day and that misfortune will dog anyone who throws away on New Year's day anything at all, no matter how worthless.

Gypsum Does It

The California state department of agriculture classes gypsum as an agricultural mineral, but the alfalfa and Ladino clover growers in many parts of the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys of California consider it to be a very effective and economical fertilizer for their crops, as well as a soil amendment.

The extension service in one California county ran lengthy tests with various simple and combined fertilizers on both alfalfa and Ladino, and in both cases 500 pounds of gypsum to the acre stood well towards the top of the list.

Hunting Etiquette for Dogs in Kansas Style

IOLA, KAN.—It's quail hunting etiquette for hunters to toss their dogs the heads of the dead birds they have retrieved. Cliff Washburn and Burt Lawrence were neglecting the rule although they were having great luck. Near the end of the day, the dog took matters into his own hands, bit off the head of a bird.

Missing Heiress Found in Canada

Search for Beneficiary of Scotch Will Succeeds.

LONDON, ONT.—A highly successful "court of missing heirs" was recently conducted in this city when a story appeared about a $15,000 legacy which was waiting for a Scottish woman now in Canada, if only she could be found.

She has been found. C. W. Garside of the city hall staff, a friend of the family in question, who started the search in this country, said that he had established that Miss Marjory Leggatt, the girl in question, lives in Montreal and that she is the proper beneficiary.

The money is part of an estate of £6,000 left by Donald Leggatt, Glasgow, Scotland, school teacher. Half of this amount was to go to his sister, Marjory, and is being held in trust for her by her 81-year-old father in Scotland.

It was believed Miss Leggatt lived in this country but her place of residence had been unknown to her family. Mr. Garside has received a letter from a Marjory Leggatt, living in Montreal.

The writer told Mr. Garside she was the only sister of the late Donald Leggatt who was a teacher under the Glasgow school board at the time she came to Canada. She went on to say that she did not know the address of the Leggatt family at the present time.

Mr. Garside said he communicated with Miss Leggatt by telephone and said he had determined to his satisfaction that she is the missing heir.

BASS SEASON OPENS JULY 1

Maryland's black bass season and other species of game and fresh water fish in non-tidal waters opens Wednesday, July 1 and will continue until Nov. 30th.

All persons over the age of 14 years must purchase an angler's license to fish in the waters of this state above tidewater. The licenses may be obtained from the Clerk of the Court, Westminster, Md., the cost of them as follows: Resident of State, $1.25; non-resident of State, $5.50. Penalty fishing without a license is $10.00.

The license must be carried at all times while fishing and must be exhibited when requested by any game or fish warden or any officer of this State. The license must be worn conspicuously when fishing. The creel limit on bass is ten in one day and the legal size is ten inches. The season for catching Trout closes July 15th.

Persons who purchased their angler's license early in the season received a synopsis of the fish laws when they purchased there license that read the opening of the bass season is June 15, that is a mistake, the opening season for catching black bass is July 1.

A ruling of Mr. Hall Hammond, Deputy Attorney General of Maryland said that Paragraphs 1 and 2 of Section 81, Chapter 837, Acts of 1941, means that it shall be unlawful to fish with more than two rods under the immediate control of the angler, each rod to have not more than one line and one hook. We believe that rod, hook and line, each of which is mentioned in the singular, constitute one implement of fishing, so to speak, and that the phrase not to exceed two in number refers to the unit, and thus limits the angler to two hooks in the aggregate, one on each line.

LOOK UP AT THE STARS

"When it is dark enough, you can see the stars."

Do you feel downcast and disheartened? Do you feel that there is no ray of light on your horizon? That all is gloom, that the war and its attendant evils are too much to bear—that ahead there is nothing?

"When it is dark enough, you can see the stars."

Look around you. The lads you knew have gone to war. Careless and thoughtless, you called them—but when their hour came they went with shoulders squared to courage and a gay tilt to their chins. They gave up cherished ambitions and went to face hardships, change, privations, even death. They are stars in the sky of your community.

Look around you. See how your neighbors have accepted the restrictions of war, uncomplaining and cheerful. Notice how gladly they do without those things which they thought were necessities: the housewife learning to make do, buying carefully and spending little; the business man reregulating his business in order to do his part: the man who works with his hands, putting aside his hard-won long-sought standards of living, to speed production: the farmer, keeping everlastingly at back-breaking toil to raise the food for Victory. Here are real stars in your sky!

Look around you. See how unified your community is today. Notice the new sense of being an active partner that has come over hitherto preoccupied citizens: how your fellow townsmen are joining in Civilian Defense, backing the U. S. O. and the War Bond Drives, giving of themselves as well as of money. Here are stars in your sky.

Look around you. See the courage in time of trouble, the fellowship of sorrow, the brotherhood of disaster. Everywhere there is evidence of a growing selflessness, of greater neighborliness, an impatience with selfishness, a striving for the right. These are imperishable stars in your sky.

"When it is dark enough, you can see the stars." Look up and rejoice.—By Ruth Taylor.

succeed without air superiority and we mean to have it."

Army Services of Supply Chief Somervell, also in London, said U. S. and British officials are working on a program to standardize military equipment, including tanks and planes, so such equipment may be exchanged freely. Chief of Staff Marshall said American troops are "landing in England and they will land in France."

Under Secretary of War Patterson reported the President's goal of 60,000 planes in 1942 will be surpassed "by a substantial margin," and tank and ammunition production are keeping pace with schedules. He said Army ordnance monthly deliveries are 458 times as great as two years ago. The WPB said production of new machine tools is 72 per cent above last year.

Chief of Staff Marshall announced there will be nearly 4,500,000 soldiers under arms by the end of 1942 rather than 3,600,000 as originally planned at the start of the war. During the past four weeks alone the Army strength has been increased by 300,000 men, he said. The Civil Aeronautics Administration called for volunteers to be trained as glider pilots in the Army Air Forces. The glider training is open to men 18 to 35 holding pilot licenses of private grade or higher, to graduates of the CAA program and to pilots completing 200 or more glider flights.

The President asked Congress for an additional $600 million for expansion of naval aviation and of warship tonnage. The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the Navy to acquire 24 nonrigid blimps, raising the present limit on the number of such ships to 72. The Navy Department authorized enlistment of 10,000 additional college juniors, seniors and graduates between 19 and 28 for Reserve midshipman training leading to commissions as ensigns.

A Navy communique reported U. S. submarines in Far Eastern waters sank two Japanese cargo ships, probably sank a third, and damaged one heavy cruiser. The Navy also announced the U. S. destroyer Blakely reached an undisclosed port with 10 of her crew missing and six injured after being torpedoed in the Caribbean area.

During the week the Navy reported one large, 11 medium-sized and four small United Nations merchant vessels (11 of U. S. registry), and a U. S. trawler were torpedoed or sunk by shellfire in the Atlantic and Caribbean areas. Survivors were landed at east coast and Caribbean ports. The State Department said the U. S. is abiding by the rule of the Geneva Prisoners of War Convention, and the German, Italian and Japanese governments are apparently doing the same.

The WPB reported more than 400,000 scrapped automobiles from auto graveyards yielded 350,000 tons of scrap metal during April, approximately 200,000 tons more than the average monthly yield for 1941. The Board said American motorists have in the tires and the works of their automobiles a rubber reserve of about 1,200,000 tons.

The WPB said a Victory safety razor with a plastic handle, a zinc cap, and a zinc or plastic guard will go into production in a few months and will be offered to the public when the present supply is used up. The Board announced it invites specific inquiries from manufacturers as to how they may employ casein, a basic chemical made from skimmed milk, as a substitute product for scarce chemicals. Production of all musical instruments except violins, cellos and some guitars was halted. Piano manufacturers will turn out gliders, organ factories will make blowers for Link gliders used in ground training of pilots, and factories which made French horns, trombones, trumpets, etc., will manufacture precision instruments for airplanes.

Price Administrator Henderson said there will be more rationing of essential articles, but the country is a long way from a complete rationing system. He said there will be additional shortage in power, fuel reserves and transportation. WPB Automotive Division Chief Kanzler reported nationwide rationing of gasoline would help relieve potential rubber and automotive replacement parts shortages. Board Chairman Nelson said administrative difficulties will make it impossible to institute such gasoline rationing before July 1. The OPA reported the June ration quota for new passenger automobiles will be 40,000 plus carry-over of unused quotas from March, April or May.

The Treasury said War Bond sales from May 1 to May 29 totaled $615 million, while the quota for the month was $600 million. April sales were $536 million. The June quota is $800 million, and the goal will be raised to $1,000 million in July. The Treasury said 1,000,000 retailers throughout the country are being asked to sell war bonds and stamps equaling the value of four percent of total merchandise sales in July, or approximately $160 million worth.

GASOLINE STORED IN RESIDENCES RESTRICTED

John B. Gontum, State Insurance Commissioner, today called attention to the fact that most fire insurance policies prohibit, or restrict under rigid regulations, the keeping of gasoline, benzine or naptha in residences or other buildings, or their vicinity.

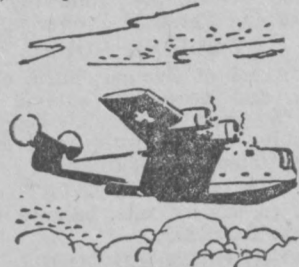

All persons are warned that not only do they endanger their property but their lives by failing to observe precautions in handling gasoline and other inflammable and explosive products.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The giant four-motored Navy Patrol Bombers are the world's most powerful planes. They cost approximately $700,000 each. The Navy also has a lighter Bomber called the Scout Bomber which costs about $143,000 apiece.

The battle for Britain was almost lost because England had none of these giant four-motored planes with which to fight back. We need thousands of them and they are coming off the assembly lines in our production plants at a high rate of speed today. You can help buy these for your Navy by purchasing War Bonds and Stamps every pay day. Put at least ten percent into Bonds or Stamps and help your county go over its Quota.

SAVE AND SERVE

One of the greatest sources of national strength may be found in the pooled savings of the people—in the banks of the country.

Today, you must think of yourself, of course, and of the future of your family. But you must also think of others, of the welfare of your neighbors, and of your community. You must think of the security of your country.

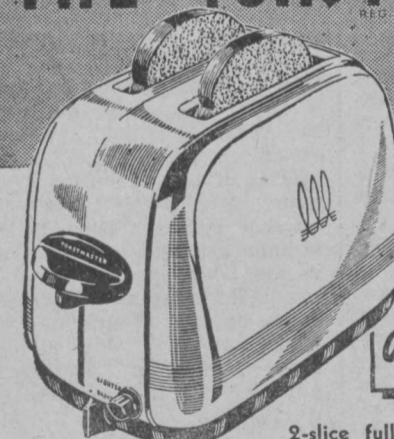

So, in these critical times, it is your duty—and it is to your own interest—to "save and serve."
