REVIEW STATE PAY

Definite steps toward a review of salaries of State Employees have been taken by the Standard Salary Board, Gov. O'Connor announced Wednesday.

Every State Department was requested to submit to be used in the preparation of a schedule of salaries to be recommended for the employees. The Governor announced recently that increases in the salaries of state employees were expected due to the fact that many State employees could obtain higher salaries under present circumstances in private industry. In fact, the State has lost the services of valuable employees who have accepted attractive offers in war industries.

CHURCH LAWN FETE

The Christian Endeavor Society of Grace Reformed Church will hold their annual "Lawn Fete" on Saturday evening, July 18. The committee have been appointed and plans are in progress for a very entertaining evening. The Junior Band from town will feature the music. A local talent program will also be presented. Besides usual refreshments that are to be sold a plate dinner will also be on sale from 4 P. M. The public is invited to come and have supper with them, and stay to enjoy the program that evening.

HOUGHTON LAKE, MICH.

A display folder of Houghton Lake, Michigan, has been handed to the office. If the war limitations did not prevent it would be fine to take the trip. The point of local interest is Mrs. Leala B. Stahl's cottage resort which is quite modern and attractive. Mrs. Stahl is a sister of Mrs. George I. Harman.

PASSES TO REST.

Aged Banker Dies at His Home in Linwood.

Jesse P. Garner, one of the outstanding citizens of Carroll County, died at his home, Linwood, on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, aged 79 years, 8 months, 20 days.

He was the son of Ephraim and Jerusha Garner. He was married to Eva Gilbert who preceded him in death by several years. He is survived by one sister, Emma F. Garner, of Owings Mills; one nephew, G. Fielder Gilbert, of Uniontown, and one niece, Minnie R. Garner, Linwood; also by five grand nieces and nephews of whom one is Dr. Fidelia Gilbert, a medical missionary in India.

Mr. Garner was a life-long member of the Uniontown Church of God, and Superintendent of the Sunday School for fifty years, until injured in an automobile accident several years ago since which time he has been in ill health.

He was a leader in his community for every movement for the moral and spiritual uplift of the people in general, and carried on a work of distributing religious literature, distributing at his own expense thousands of tracts. This work gave him great pleasure, and he continued it after his accident and age cut off some of his other activities. He organized the church prayer meeting, and conducted it during the last 20 years of his life.

Mr. Garner was connected with the Carroll County Savings Bank, Uniontown, for more than half a century, and for the last 33 years was its honored Treasurer.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 1:30 P. M. from his late residence, with further service in the Uniontown Church of God, in charge of the pastor, Rev. John H. Hoch.

BLACKOUT JULY 15-16

Arrangements were announced for a "dusk to dawn" blackout for Maryland next Wednesday night.

Four Maryland plants, the Martin, Bethlehem Steel, the Bethlehem-Fairchild Shipbuilding of Baltimore, and the Cumberland Celanese plant would be the only factories in the state which would not have to black out completely during the full half-hour the unannounced air-raid alarm is in effect. These four plants will black-out for ten minutes only.

Twenty-three counties in Baltimore City will be included in the test, but it was announced that Anne Arundel county would blackout for only two and a half hours.

With exception of the half-hour period, street and highway traffic will move with depressed headlights.

Canning factories if engaged for government canning will not have to stop the entire night but will be asked to stop during the half-hour alarm period. Rail transportation will not stop.

All homes, theatres, hotels, public buildings, hospitals will blackout completely in conformity with blackout rules and regulations but utilities will not be required to stop rendering service.

Taneytown and vicinity will be patrolled by plane and reports of lights radioed to Washington, under the supervision of Taneytown-CPA, and by Federal authority.

GOV. O'CONOR
Announces His Candidacy for Second Term.

The announcement of Governor O'Connor that he will be a candidate for re-election, which has been confidently expected, was issued on Wednesday. The statement covers more than two columns of newspaper and is a recital of some of the salient facts as to the activities of Maryland in the defense program and the war effort, and the Governor promises to discuss, before election, "every major question which should be or could be raised in such a contest."

In closing the announcement the Governor says:

"Humbly, I express the belief that the experience gained during the past years will be of increasing benefit during the troubled period ahead."

"For whatever it may be worth, that experience, plus all the industry and devotion to duty which I can supply, will be at the service of the people of Maryland, who constitute the only 'board of directors' to whom I shall be answerable."

"In the hope that I can continue to render service to the people of Maryland, which I will be creditable and worthy, I shall submit my candidacy for re-election."

THE WELFARE BOARD

The County Welfare Board met on Wednesday, July 1, in monthly session. The meeting was in charge of Dr. Charles R. Foutz, Chairman.

Miss Elinor Ebaugh gave a report showing that during April, May and June assistance checks had been discontinued to 67 families in the Old Age, Dependent Children, and General Assistance groups for the following reasons:

There were 24 families in which the recipient, who in many cases is a widow with children, obtained employment; ten families in which other persons in the household obtained employment; seven families in which relatives living elsewhere are able financially to support parents; six deaths which resulted in discontinuance of assistance; four families in which widows with children remarried; one family in which the head of the family recovered from prolonged illness; one in which the recipient was committed to a County institution; two in which the recipients moved away from County and State; and twelve for other reasons.

Mrs. Brown, Worker-in-Charge, explained that additional duties in connection with the war effort are being assigned the County Welfare Board. Recently Federal and State instructions have been received regarding the working relationship between the American Red Cross and the County Welfare Board in caring for Disaster Relief and Civilian War Aid, and regarding services to the armed forces and to the families of service men. The Board appointed Mrs. Brown as a committee of one to meet with a committee of the local Red Cross Chapter in order to assist with working out an agreement applicable to the specific needs of Carroll County.

As the result of urgent requests for day-time care for children of parents working in industry during the war emergency, the local agency is planning for the registration of homes in which parents may board their children during working hours.

Five new applications for Old Age Assistance were approved.

Prior to the business meeting Dr. Charles R. Foutz entertained at a luncheon in the main dining room of Beard's Restaurant the County Welfare Board members, the Board of County Commissioners, Mr. Howard H. Wine, Mr. Norman R. Hess and Mr. C. Scott Bollinger, Senator A. Earl Shipley, Counsel for the Board of Commissioners, Mr. Paul Kuhn, County Treasurer, and the members of the Welfare Board Staff.

VISITORS IN TANEYTOWN

Rev. and Mrs. Charles S. Owen returned Saturday from a trip to Rochester, New York, and brought with them their daughter, Joyce, 11 years old, who had remained in Rochester to finish her school year. They also brought with them Mrs. Owen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Vanderpool, of Rochester, who will spend several weeks in Taneytown.

Mr. Vanderpool is a meteorologist, and was connected with the weather bureau at Rochester for 49 years, and was in charge for 17 years.

This is the first visit of these people to this part of the country.

The cost of maintaining a man in the Navy for one year, exclusive of pay, is about $420.00.

STATE SECRETARIES TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Officials of Many States Will Meet in Baltimore

The State of Maryland will be host to the twenty-fifth annual conference of the National Association of Secretaries of State, which will be held from Wednesday to Friday of next week at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

Already thirty of the forty-eight Secretaries of State of the Nation, representing many of the far distant commonwealths, together with their wives and other State officials have accepted invitations to be present.

Among the special features of entertainment which have been arranged are a visit to Annapolis on Thursday, with lunch at Carvel Hall, followed by a tour of the Naval Academy, with tea at Government House, as the guests of Governor and Mrs. O'Connor. Hon. Thomas E. Jones, Secretary of State of Maryland, has also arranged for a visit to the Martin Bomber Plant for the members of the Association. Consent of the Martin Bomber Corporation, the War Production Board and the Department of the Navy has been secured for the visit, and it is expected that all visiting Secretaries of State will take advantage of this opportunity.

Wednesday will be largely taken up with business sessions, with the Maryland Secretary of State delivering the address of welcome, and Hon. Thad Eure, Secretary of State of North Carolina, and president of the National Association of Secretaries of State, as the principal speaker. Among other speakers at the first day's sessions will be the Hon. Sophia M. R. O'Hare, Secretary of State of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, one of the few women secretaries of State of the Union; and Hon. Breckinridge Long, Assistant Secretary of State, will speak at the evening session.

A state dinner will be served on Thursday evening at the hotel, with Governor O'Connor delivering the address. The public is invited to attend this dinner. Reservations may be made at the Emerson Hotel.

Hon. Earl W. Snell, Secretary of State of Oregon, will be the presiding officer at the Friday morning session.

It is expected that about one hundred and twenty-five persons representing the forty-eight states and the National government will be in attendance at the conference.

CAR POOLING

Immediate initiation of car-pooling programs throughout the State was urged by W. Frank Roberts, chairman of Governor O'Connor's Wartime Transportation Committee.

Mr. Roberts stressed that the aim of the program is to pool all automobiles for the transport of all types of workers, not alone for employees of war plants.

It is not the purpose of the program merely to allow car owners to get supplemental gas rations but largely to conserve machines.

"People just don't seem to realize," he added, "that no more cars are being manufactured."

Local administrators have been appointed in several key areas to conduct intensive car-sharing campaigns. Other communities are urged to initiate similar programs.

Mr. Roberts emphasized that the need for haste in forming and executing community program exists because when permanent rationing begins on July 22nd, community allotments will be figured in large measure on what the communities have done or might do in the way of conserving tires and rubber.

AGE, 101 YEARS

Mrs. Matilda Stansbury, who says with authority that the first hundred years are the hardest, celebrated her one hundred and first birthday at Hampstead, Tuesday.

Children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered for the annual family reunion to celebrate her birthday. But it was not as large as last year, her daughter, Miss Mary Stansbury said. Gasoline and tire shortages kept some of the family away.

SUGAR FOR CANNING

Next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 14, 15 and 16 applications for sugar for canning can be made at the Taneytown High School, from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M.—Miss Anna Galt, Chief Registrar.

REGISTRARS NEEDED

Again the Taneytown Branch of A. R. C. is asked to furnish registrars for the rationing of sugar to serve from 7 to 9 P. M., July 14, 1942 at the High School. If you will volunteer to serve notify Miss Anna Galt, chairman.

"From the top admirals to the newest seaman fresh from training station, they (the men at Pearl Harbor) fought with gallant courage and a complete disregard of personal danger."—Secretary of Navy Knox.

Profits of American corporations during the first quarter of 1942, after reported tax deductions, were about 8 per cent less than in the last quarter of 1941 on a seasonally adjusted basis.

PROGRESS OF WAR.

Reports as Coming Out of Washington.

Army Chief of Ordnance Campbell, speaking at Salisbury, N. C., said "Our tanks are superior to anything the enemy has. Type by type, our tanks have heavier guns, heavier armament and greater speed. Our high-velocity 75-millimeter guns in our M-3 tanks far and away outrange the best the Germans have. And we can fire this high-velocity 75 when the tank is in motion, which is more than any enemy tank, whatever its size, can do."

Gen. Campbell said the so-called "new German 88-mm. gun" is "about as secret as a Daisy water pistol. It has been known to us and our Allies for at least 10 years. We outmatch this gun with several of our field and antitank guns." He said the German 88 is effective as an antitank weapon only within its limited range.

U. S. machine guns, Gen. Campbell said, will "outfunction any enemy gun under the most adverse circumstances—in other words, they will keep firing when enemy guns have to shut down to change barrels." The United States "can build a better automobile, a better typewriter, a better icebox and we can build—and are building—better machine weapons," Gen. Campbell said. "The enemy cannot outdo American design and production of such things."

The "Flying Tigers" of the American Volunteer Group were placed under the Army Air Corps command in China and opened their operations with heavy raids on three key Japanese bases at Hankow, Nanchang and Canton. Six Japanese planes were destroyed without loss.

A Navy communique reported Army bombers scored hits on an enemy cruiser and sank a transport in the Aleutian Islands. In addition, Navy submarines sank three destroyers. The situation in the islands "has not changed materially," however, in the past two weeks, the Navy report said. The Office of Indian Affairs announced the loss of the Aleutian Islands west of Dutch Harbor, as well as the Pribilof Islands, have been classified as parts of a total evacuation zone. The Office said nearly 1,000 civilians have been removed from these areas by the Navy and transferred to the American mainland.

The first communique from U. S. headquarters of the European theatre reported six U. S. Douglas light bombers manned by U. S. pilots successfully attacked targets by daylight in German-occupied territory in a joint operation with RAF bombers. Two American planes were reported missing. The Navy said U. S. bombers carried out a second attack on Japanese-held Wake Island. The Navy also announced the U. S. aircraft carrier USS Yorktown carried aerial reinforcements to the British Island of Malta in the Mediterranean. Gen. MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported repeated air raids on Japanese-held territory in that area. The sinking of 17 more United Nations merchant vessels by enemy submarine action was announced.

The WPB said a new and greatly intensified campaign to salvage vital scrap materials will be formally opened July 13, because the only way the U. S. can meet materials requirements of war production is "to collect every last bit of scrap from every farm and home, and from every commercial enterprise and industry in the country." The iron and steel industry has raised about $1,500,000 and the glycerin industry about $500,000 to finance national advertising to stimulate scrap collection, the Board said. The farm implement industry has offered to assist the country's 12,000 State and local salvage committees in the collection of rural scrap. Materials to be sought in particular are iron and steel, rubber and waste fats.

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

BORROWING

Borrowing money, in its proper sense, means making an investment that is expected to bring in future profitable returns. In other words, "borrowing" means the employment of credit to induce progress.

But, borrowing means, also, a form of gambling. It encourages impatience with slow but sure methods. It often means setting up a pace that we can not afford to go—following reckless examples.

Borrowing also means "paying back" by individuals or, taxation by governments on individually owned property. Taxation means borrowing at the expense of others, with or without their consent.

And while we mainly borrow money, at the outset, before the end comes we may borrow trouble too, and plenty of it. Shakespeare wrote "Neither a borrower nor a lender be; for loan oft, loses both 'itself' and friend;" and this was a case in which the bard was wise beyond his generation.

Don't borrow merely because you can—perhaps only once. Credit is a valuable possession to be saved for an emergency. Do not squander it. P. B. E.

FUTURE RAINY DAY

A government can't spend its way to prosperity. It can't continue indefinitely to put out public funds in the hope of licking a depression.

That's one of the facts that we Americans learned during the depression of the '30's. It's one of the facts that we'll have to remember when this war is over.

When war orders stop, war payrolls will stop, too. Men and women who now work on munitions jobs will have to find employment making peacetime goods. And it will take time for them to find such employment. It will take time for industry to change over its factories to the manufacture of civilian products.

All this is in the future, it's true. Our main job now is to win the war, and anything that detracts from winning the war must be put aside for the duration. But there are many things that we can do now to provide for the rainy day that is bound to come. And industry should make plans, and is already making them, to that end.

LOST THEIR JOBS

An Associated Press dispatch of July 1 stated that 500,000 persons lost their jobs or their government aid when Congress refused to continue appropriations for the Civilian Conservation Corps, and sharply cut Works Progress Administration and National Youth Administration. It further stated that these three agencies have cost more than $17,000,000,000.

We have no way of verifying these figures, but we do not question their accuracy. It is at least enough to show the enormity of the schemes, which were potent means of political manipulation, but of little real benefit to the country, though they were loudly praised by New Dealers.

The CCC Camps were to give work for the unemployed. These could have been far better employed in their own neighborhoods if public officials had not rendered farmers and others unable to employ the help they badly needed. It never was a wholesome thing to take thousands of young people from their home towns and put them in camps to work on manufactured jobs.

As for WPA many towns and cities felt they were getting something for nothing, but it was one grand fallacy. Nearly every worthwhile work should have been done under state, county or community authority, and the bills should have been paid in the same way. More would have been accomplished at far less expense. Now we have the whole vast sum to pay and much more.

It is almost inconceivable that men should have supported such folly, and doubly so that they should have tried to force the continuance of it. Congress must bear its share of the guilt, but it somewhat redeems itself now that it puts an end to the disgraceful business.

L. B. H.

BLAST THEM

Cologne has been blasted. Germany now realizes that Goering's boast that no German city could be bombed was wrong. German cities can be bombed and should be bombed off the map. German criminal ruthlessness in bombing London and other England cities deserves retribution. They should suffer condign punishment. It can be done. It must be done if we are to win.

If the united nations assemble thousands of bombers in Norway and ample supply of bombs, and turn these bombers loose and send them over in waves of hundreds each, all destined for one city and that city is ruthlessly blasted and fire gutted until nothing but ashes and shambles remain, even tho the dead be numbered by the thousands, that must be done if we are to win.

Force, overwhelming, is the only language Germans know, "Krieg est Krieg" (war is war) is a language they understand. Why delay longer. They are ripe now for plucking. This war could be won in 1942 if we started now and went at it like soldiers.

When we have settled Hitler's hash, and hung him and Goebels, and Goering and Himmler and other Nazi criminals we can then turn the heat on Japan and knock the tiger teeth from their protruding jaws.

We have a big job ahead but it must be finished when over, with no armistice.

Germany must be dismembered. Her criminal leaders must suffer for their dastard crimes, the survivors of their victims must share their ill gotten gains. They must be penalized, if permitted to live. Their victims must enjoy the luxury of their spoils, and Japan must be shrunk to her actual size and given chance to associate with civilized Nations only after she has shown repentance. Big jobs ahead, but let's get at 'em!

TROUBLE ABOUT SUGAR

In an editorial entitled "Too Much Sugar," the Christian Science Monitor says:

"From being a prospectively scarce article a few months ago, sugar has become embarrassingly plentiful. Embarrassingly, that is, to the Office of Price Administration if current surmises are correct.

"The indications are that rationing was brought about largely by a consumer 'run' on sugar, rather than by any actual scarcity. The supply, which was estimated early in the year to fall behind demand, has actually outrun demand and sugar is piled up in warehouses to such an extent that refineries are partially shutting down. Still there is a transportation problem to get the sugar to some of the markets where it is needed; but basically there is plenty of sugar.

"What to do, then? Should OPA lift rationing? Probably not, for the machinery is expensive to set up and may be necessary later. But the quota per ticket could be increased. It is not even certain that this step would relieve the warehouses much. One OPA official is said to have toyed with the idea of asking housewives to store a year's supply of sugar in advance. But not many would want a bag of sugar turning hard in the cellar—or the kitchenette."

But why beat about the bush in this matter? The rationing may have been proposed in good faith, but it has turned out to be ridiculous, and the proposal to keep up this costly and annoying business because we may need it later, is about as bad. Why not be honest about it. End sugar rationing and that would end the desire to hoard sugar.

ARMY OF INSPECTORS

Price Administrator Leon Henderson thinks he needs about 60,000 men to enforce price regulations and rationing. It is very true that it will be a big job if all the millions of dealers are to be personally watched to see that they comply with the rules laid down.

But the Retail Grocers, in convention, asked the Government to trust the retail merchants in the enforcement of rationing and price ceilings, especially since they would be aided, or watched, by the consumers. They further declared that every Congressman who "votes for this army of new federal employees thereby evidences his lack of faith in the honesty and patriotism of thousands of his constituents."

It would certainly be much better if the public would conform to necessary war-time decrees without arrangements for special enforcement. And there is really no proof that the people need to be coerced into observing Governmental regulation to help win the war—at least not beyond what can be done by the present law-enforcement officers. There is some point to the grocers' contention that it would be better to have this army of "enforcement personnel" acting against the Axis rather than policing their fellow-citizens.

There is a growing suspicion that the Government offices have been in much too great a hurry to hire new personnel since the war activity started. New employees have been packed in so thick and fast that they get in each other's way. Secretary of the Navy Knox is credited with calling a halt to the increased inflowing of new employees into his Department. He directed officials to carefully classify the workers according to their abilities, and to weed out the unfit. As a result the work is now being done much better by a smaller number.

There is an example for other big officials to consider. There has been too much of a suggestion of excitement, almost of madness, in the Capital rush. It gave occasion—not justification—for that grocery official to say that "Washington is the only insane asylum that is run by its own inmates."—Pathfinder.

ARE WE TOO EASY?

Are we too easy? In the past weeks I have heard many people say that we are taking this war too lightly; that we are soft; that we are lulling ourselves into dangerous complacency with a lullaby of over-emphasized successes, and under-realized defeats; that what we need is martial music, marching men—and a sight of heartbreak and tears.

Are we too easy? This war is almost too great to be grasped by the mind of man. Are we taking it lightly for fear of facing what defeat would mean—the complete destruction of civilization as we know it, a return to the barbarism of the Dark Ages, a reversal to the rule of brute force, an eradication of all religions, a domination of all the peoples of the earth by a group of sadistic degenerates? Are we afraid to look that possibility in the face?

Are we too easy? Have we grown soft? This war will call upon the utmost that each and every one of us can bring to it of brain and brawn, of selfless, self-sacrificing devotion to an ideal. Can it be true that the progress we have made, the education we have gained has weakened our morale and courage, rather than made us more efficient, intelligent human beings?

Are we too easy? Have we drifted into the half sleep of complacency? Must we be coddled by only bright stories? Have we reached the state of adulating men for doing their duty, and glossing over neglects and defeats? We are a young nation—but we are not childish. We can stand up to defeat as well as we can withstand the dangers of success. Every school child is familiar with the hazards of over-confidence in the story of Braddock's defeat.

Are we too easy? Must we be spurred to patriotism? Must our fighting of this war be a matter of emotional stimulants, or will our intense desire for freedom for all—irrespective of class, race, nationality or religion—our belief that prosperity for all lies in the practical application of democracy, our intense hatred of tyranny of any kind, carry us through to victory?

Are we too easy? Only you—the people of America—can answer this question.—Ruth Taylor.

TROUBLE ON THE FARM

The statistics show that farm income has risen substantially during the past year. What the statistics do not show is that the farmer's costs have also risen heavily—and that such problems as labor are getting steadily worse.

Dairy farming is a case in point. Cows must be milked twice a day, seven days a week. Expert experience labor is necessary. But the farmer must pay several times as much for this kind of labor as he used to, even when he can get it. In many areas, it is virtually unobtainable at any price. Workers have gone to the cities, attracted by the high wages and relatively short hours of war industries.

The consumer wants cheap milk, and in many states milk is a public utility, with its price controlled by state boards. But the farmer can't sell milk at a fixed price if his labor cost steadily rises. As yet, no one seems to have any feasible solution to this problem. It simply illustrates that, contrary to the belief of many city people, everything isn't perfect down on the farm.—Industrial News Review.

THE FATE OF DEMOCRACY

The fate of democracy is at stake. Our opponents are ruthless, desperate and powerful. The victorious outcome of this fatal struggle demands the full expression of the resourcefulness, initiative and devotion to the cause of liberty which each and every American citizen possesses, and of which he should be at all times conscious. There can be no compromise. There can be no respite until the enemy is crushed.

None of us can dare to do less than his full part in the common effort.—Governor O'Connor.

NEW WAYS TO ECONOMIZE IN THE KITCHEN

Helpful suggestions to increase household efficiency and hold down expenses during these war days. Read the advice of Mrs. Christine Frederick noted home economist, in the July 19th issue of The American Weekly the big magazine distributed with The Baltimore Sunday American. ### Ancient Burial Ground Discovered in Florida

From the southernmost end of Florida comes the report that an ancient Indian burial ground containing hundreds of skeletons has been discovered. In this burial ground, according to the report, the not unusual practice of American aborigines of burying their dead in a sitting posture was manifest. Also, the not unusual claim that the skeletons were those of giants was made by the discoverers.

It was said that while no complete skeletons could be assembled because of the extent the bones had composed during the centuries of their burial, it was apparent that all had belonged to persons about 8 feet in height.

This claim, however, will not impress specialized anthropologists. They hear too many similar ones, none of which have ever been proven. The majority of scientists still stand firmly on the belief, in spite of all claims, that a race of giants never existed. They think that since man's appearance on earth he has grown very slowly but steadily larger and that ancient skeletons would tend, therefore, to be smaller instead of larger than those of modern man.

Dr. Alex Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution, who receives scores of claims of discovered skeletons of giants says, however, that most of these claims are made in good faith.

First Vermont Flag Was The Stars and Stripes

The first Vermont flag of which there is any record was the Stars and Stripes, with the addition of the word "Vermont." This was adopted by act of legislature in 1803, according to information obtained in the course of research work done on the origin and form of the Vermont flag at the Wilbur library in the Fleming museum of the University of Vermont. There have been four different Vermont flags, an act of the Vermont legislature in 1837 providing for a second flag, which was unchanged until 1919.

The flag which was established in 1919 lasted only four years, and in 1923 the legislature provided for the present Vermont flag, which is blue and carries the coat of arms of the state. It is considered strange that during the years Vermont was an independent commonwealth, from 1771 to 1791, as far as is possible to discover—there was no state flag—this at a time at which "pomp and ceremony of war and of civil state" was by no means disregarded.

The second Vermont flag was decreed to be 13 stripes, alternate red and white, with one large star, white in a blue field and the coat of arms of the State of Vermont therein. This remained the state flag of Vermont until 1919.

First Commercially Successful Boat

Historians differ as to the real importance of the contributions made by Robert Fulton to the development of steam navigation. The authors of American school histories, after paying scant tribute to the earlier work of John Fitch, usually credit the invention of the steamboat to Fulton. Many writers who have dealt with the subject more extensively are inclined to represent Fulton as an opportunist who originated nothing, but who discovered ways of exploiting the inventions of others in a successful business enterprise.

The truth probably lies between these extremes, writes W. Mack Angus in "Technology Review." Beyond question, the Clermont was the first commercially successful steamer, and honor is due to Fulton for building her and proving that the steamboat could be something more than an interesting novelty.

On the other hand, it is now generally appreciated that Fulton did not invent but improved and developed the steamboat. Furthermore, the work of his predecessors and contemporaries gave him a rather broad foundation upon which to build.

Special Stamps Issued

With the abolishment of the franking privilege (restored a few years later), taking effect on July 1, 1873, the postmaster general of the United States, as required by law, provided a series of stamps of special design for each of the executive departments of the government for the prepayment of postage on official matter. All designs, except for the post office department, bore in the center profile busts of various Americans.

In each case, the one-cent denomination bore likeness of Franklin, the two-cent a bust of Jackson, the three-cent a profile of Washington, and the remainder as follows: Six-cent, Lincoln; seven-cent, Stanton; 10-cent, Jefferson; 12-cent, Clay; 15-cent, Webster; 24-cent, Scott; 30-cent, Hamilton; 90-cent, Perry; $2, $5, $10 and $20, Seward.

The state department, printing its adhesives in green, was the only branch to use all denominations.

Small Rodents

Vole is an English name for several species of small rodents belonging to the rat family, particularly the water vole and the field vole. Water voles have small ears, short tails and use only the hind legs in swimming. They are about the size of a brown rat. The field voles have stumpy tails, thick bodies and are about the size of common mice. They do great damage to the grain crops.

MEN WANTED

There's more than one way that advertising brings men to work.

The most important way is when advertising is used to increase sales.

Instead of "men wanted," it says, "customers wanted."

And more customers mean more jobs in the stores and factories that keep busy by using advertising.

The Carroll Record

This American Tire Made From This American Bush

O'Neill Jones Kloesner
Proving that manufacture of tires from the American grown guayule shrub is practical, William O'Neill, president of The General Tire & Rubber Co., has turned over to Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, a specimen of the mature plant and a tire made entirely of guayule rubber. The tire was made in the same General Tire plant and in the same machines used in making tires from far eastern rubber. O'Neill has urged the development of guayule as an emergency rubber supply for years. A bill now before Congress calls for the immediate planting of all available guayule seed in the states of Texas, California, New Mexico and Arizona. Because it thus far is impossible to make a tire from synthetic rubber alone, O'Neill is urging the growth of guayule to supplement the 400,000 ton production of synthetic already announced by Jones. American Legion Posts in all parts of the country are supporting the O'Neill guayule program, which O'Neill discussed this week with Secretary Jones and H. J. Kloesner, president of the Rubber Reserve Corporation.

DO YOU ALWAYS VOTE?

Only one country in the world—our own—gives every individual an equal voice in running public affairs. That is a privilege and a right that deserves protection.

Only one country in the world—our own—permits every voter to kick publicly about his officials if they don't do things to suit him. That is the right of free speech, another thing that deserves protection.

Yet it is a sad commentary on our public state of mind that so many folks say "What's the use of my voting? They have a slate fixed up and my vote doesn't make any difference."

That is the attitude that makes poor government possible. Let's take a look at the record of a large middle-western city. For generations it had been run by professional politicians of a low type. Municipal affairs were run, not for the benefit of the city, but for the benefit of the grafters. Taxes were sky high, and the city never got its money's worth in service.

One day a little group of leading citizens got together and said to themselves, "Let's stop this 'what's the use' attitude. Let's do something about this crooked administration. Let's have a city government we can be proud of instead of apologizing for."

That group started things. They studied the facts of the situation, and gave these politicians pitiless publicity. They woke the people up—made them think constructively. They put up honest candidates for office, and got honest people out to the polls to vote for them.

In a very short time, that city had a model government. Taxes were reduced. City administration was improved. The people knew exactly what their tax dollars were being spent for. There was no graft—no cheap political patronage.

During the depths of the depression that city handled its relief work at less cost per capita than any other large city in the country, and handled it better.

If the government in your own community—state, county, town or township—is not what it should be, the place to start action to correct the trouble is right under your own hat.

You have at least two next door neighbors; talk it over with them. If they agree with you that something ought to be done, get a group together and start action.

There are two important facts to bear in mind. First, nothing at all will be done unless somebody starts it. Second, the place to correct local political ills is at the polls. The wrong men can never be elected to office, or re-elected, if they fail to get a sufficient majority in the voting.

Remember that the smallest political unit we have is the precinct or the township. That is where you live, where you know nearly everybody. The voters in that area are easily within reach of your influence. And that is the place to start any kind of reform movement that needs starting. The key man to begin with is you.

If there is a situation that needs to be cleaned up, get tough; talk about it, and, above all, vote the right men into office. That's the way to vote the wrong ones out.

Pagan Indians Favor One White Man Idea—War

Isolated Tribe in Northern Michigan Adhere to Ancient Culture.

WATERSMEET, MICH.—Paganism and the Indian culture of the days before Columbus are making a determined stand in the wilds of northern Michigan. They'll have no truck with white men, or their swing bands, or their marriages, or their divorces, or their priests and preachers—those resolute Chippewas of Lac Vieux desert, an isolated spot whose nearest white town is Watersmeet, Mich.

But there's one thing the white men are doing that the steel souled tribesmen go in for with a will. They have laid aside their pipes of peace and have declared war formally on the Axis.

Americans First.

The young braves are more than willing to enlist, and a conscientious objector is as rare as a redskin divorce among the solemn faced aborigines.

"Any land good enough to live in," says George A. Cadotte, tribal interpreter, "is good enough to fight for. That is our creed. We are Americans, first and last, and war is our inheritance."

Sacred drums beat a rhythmic tattoo in the night and you can hear the chomp-chomp of moccasined feet around the fireside. Primitive powwows, weird medicine dances and fantastic rites are as much in vogue in this lake studded Michigan-Wisconsin border paradise as benefits, bargain days and ball games are in Chicago.

There are no glittering shops, gyp joints, theaters, churches, night clubs—not even a post office—in this strange remnant of the frontier. Newspapers and radios are rarities. No one ever heard of a formal marriage ceremony and the Indians have no word for divorce.

In fact, the rules of the outside world just don't go. Back in 1854, when Indian lands were ceded to the government, scattered bands were assigned to various reservations. The Lac Vieux desert band found itself at the L'Anse tract on Lake Superior.

In sharp contrast to the fertile soil their forefathers had defended against the Sioux in the "land of lakes," the new homeland was a marsh.

They Just Turn Rebel.

The band rebelled, returning to Lac Vieux desert—only to find that Uncle Sam had taken over. In desperation, the leaders appealed to President Lincoln—in about 1863—and the "Great Emancipator" promptly signed over a 40 acre tract to the band without reservation privileges.

Since that day, generations of rebel Indians have revered Lincoln, even though their knowledge of Honest Abe begins and ends at Lac Vieux desert. In 1870, President Ulysses S. Grant added 46 acres to the original tract, giving the band 86 acres of primitive wilderness in which to hunt, fish, and trap—even though "white man law is boss."

Life among the pagans is a medley of ancient and modern. Homes are crude—white man style—but worship is by tribal tradition. At home the tribesmen speak Chippewa, which is "white man" for Ojibway—outside they speak English. If they commit a crime they are tried in a white man's court.

Eighty Indians—from newborn babes to 80 year old squaws and wrinkled braves, make up the band today. Originally it numbered 200. Big chief is youthful John Ackley, and medicine man is venerable John Pete, 77 years old, who speaks little English. Interpreter and unofficial agent is Cadotte, educated Indian who speaks fluent English and received commercial training in Superior, Wis., before he drifted in to stay early in the depression.

Most Willing to Fight

For Mother, Troops Vote

SAN PEDRO, CALIF.—Mother won by a landslide when soldiers at Fort MacArthur took a vote to find out for whom they were most willing to fight.

After her it was a close race between father and Col. W. W. Hicks, commanding officer at the Fort. The colonel had an edge.

Ranked in the first 10 women were the boys' sisters, wives, sweethearts and Mrs. Roosevelt. In the first 10 men were President Roosevelt, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Winston Churchill.

Tenth in the women's list was Ann Sheridan, the movie actress. Tenth in the men's poll was "Sergeant Mulligan," a flat-faced English bulldog, the camp mascot.

Sisters Find Each Other

After 60-Year Separation

MERIDIAN, MISS.—Mrs. Georgia Graham of Meridian has ended her 60-year quest—that of locating her sister. Traced through a letter written to a friend in Atlanta, Mrs. Graham's long search, which took her from New York to California, terminated when she found that Mrs. S. C. Styron of Atlanta is the former Lena Garvin, her sister. The two had become separated since the death of their mother 60 years ago.

FEESERSBURG.

Yes, we had a "safe and sane" 4th. of July. Never knew a quieter one, nor less visitors on a holiday. No fire crackers—only flags displayed at various places; and some good patriotic sermons.

The preaching service preceded S. S. at Mt. Union on Sunday morning; a good morning, a good service, with many good people missing. Rev. Bowersox gave a review of the last meeting of Synod at Gettysburg; and it is well that the membership should learn more of the work of their, and what their denomination stands for. There is a scarcity of ministers since so many have gone into service as Chaplains. The music and anthems were of National melody. On Thursday evening July 16 the men of the charge will meet at Winter's Church to organize a Parish Brotherhood.

Supper guests at the home of C. S. Wolfe on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bohn and child, Marlene, of Union Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Aldridge, of Thurmont. Mrs. Aldridge was Elizabeth Long, R. N., of Frederick City Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Files were at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Miller for the week-end. She expecting to remain a week, but a call to military service for some of the Pa. family, took them both back to Lancaster on Sunday evening.

Pvt. Wilbur Miller, Jr., was home on a furlough last week, but returned to Camp A. P. Hill at Fredericksburg, Va., on Monday evening.

Mr. John Carbaugh, of Chambersburg, is visiting the M. Grinders and friends in this town. He with Mr. Grinder spent Sunday in Baltimore, with other relatives.

On Saturday morning the Grinders discovered that 40 or more of their young chickens, and five little guinea pigs had disappeared. One's first thought is of thieves—but as the birds were not heavy enough for frying, who'd want the care of them? Well it was a sorry loss but when later a part of the floor was lifted there laid the remains of bones, heads and feathers the work of some rodent, possibly a rat or two.

Roger W. Sentz has disposed of his daily milk route to Westminster, and finds he still has enough work to keep him busy. Last week he moved all the church yard and cemetery at Mt. Union, and with the recent showers it does look fine.

Men are hauling their wheat and threshing at some places. There was a combine in our field on Monday but it stuck in the mud of the low ground, and has gone on to another farm beyond Union Bridge, a disappointment to the owners of field and machine. No wonder if they sing—"Where do we go from here, boys."

We have jarred and dried a bushel of beans—a warm days work on Friday, but we like them best that way in winter-time. The watermelons are the best we've had in years and our cucumbers are doing fine; then there's blackberries and fresh apple pie, too.

We hear nothing of the victory gardens so joyfully begun in May—but perhaps the continuous rains flooded or washed them away. Sometimes it is easy to start things, but to keep them going carefully—requires determination.

Last week Mt. Union received an assignment of empty jars from the Deaconess' Mother House, in Baltimore, for distribution among the members—to be refilled with fruit and vegetables for the Home.

In Jan. 1776 a Lutheran pastor stood in his pulpit at Woodstock, Va., and preached with godly fervor and patriotic warmth; "There is a time for all things," he ended, "a time to preach, and a time to pray, but there is also a time to fight—and that time has now come." Then he flung open his gown to reveal beneath it the uniform of the Continental Army. A drum beat before the door; a bugle call rang through the church; and before the end of service 300 members of the congregation had enlisted—with their pastor a Colonel. It was John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg, son of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, of Holland whose arrival in the U. S. 200 years ago we celebrate this year, as the real founder and patriarch of the Lutheran Church in America.

To all who love history it is interesting to know that Geneva Switzerland will celebrate its 2000th. anniversary this summer, and an important city from its very beginning. "Geneva's great university dates back to Calvin's days and ever since the city has been singled out as one of Europe's foremost seats of learning." No wonder this is called the New World—we are in our babyhood beside that.

Picnics, carnivals, suppers and dances, provide attraction and entertainment at this season, tho' not as many family reunions thus far as in recent years. There's boating and fishing too and one need not cross the ocean, nor travel far from home to enjoy these pleasures.

The days length has lost 11 minutes since June 21st, the longest day; and each morning the Sun rises a little farther to the South—causing our changing seasons.

My Commission expires May 3, 1943.

My little two-year-old son has been learning Bible verses, which he recites at the time of family prayer each day. One morning he assayed Luke 18:16, which he quoted in this fashion, "Suffer the little children to come under to me." That is not an accurate quotation, but as a reflection of the spirit and manner in which one must come to Christ it is very accurate indeed. Not only a little child but also the man or woman who comes to Christ comes under to Him. The man who is saved placed himself under the Blood which Christ shed for man's redemption. Surrender to the Lord Jesus means coming under His dominion, bringing oneself under allegiance to Him. The surrendered believer takes upon himself the yoke of Christ and bows his shoulders under His burden. The Lord tells us His yoke is easy and His burden is light, but no yoke can be placed on a neck that is not bowed and no burden carried on a back unbent.
No man can be saved until he recognizes himself as a sinner and is conscious of his need of salvation. The proud of heart and the haughty of spirit must be humbled and brought low if he is to experience the saving grace of God. It is by simple, trusting faith in the Lord Jesus Christ that men are redeemed. "Except ye become as little children," says Christ, "ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Trusting Christ we serve under His leadership; we fight under His banner; we rest under His love; we trust under His power. Our sins are under His blood; our lives are under His care; our wills are under His command. Coming to Christ we come out from under the guilt of sins, from under the wrath of God, which abides on the unbeliever (John 3:36). When we come to Christ it is a coming "under to Him." Our wills, our lives, our thoughts, our duties, are brought into captivity to the Lord Jesus. We are subjects under His sway, Whom we acknowledge as the King of our lives.

WAR GARDEN INSECT SERIES—No. 5

Aphis and Beetles War on Peas and Beans

Captain Jinks of the horse marines, who fed his horse on corn and beans, had nothing on the commissary department of the American Army. The government has announced its plan of taking a big share of this year's commercial crop of peas and beans, so we must grow our own—and that calls for another battle right in our own backyard. As usual, the insect pests must be dealt with.

One of those feared by most growers and canners is the pea aphid. Not only does the aphid infestation produce wilted pea vines, but by "stinging" the pod they cause it to be deformed, thereby reducing the crop. The pod injury is caused by the insertion of the bill of the aphid to draw sap for food.

Black Leaf 40 sprayed at the rate of one teaspoonful to a gallon of soapy water, will control the pea aphid. Be sure you hit them.

Poison the Mexican Bean Beetle

Beans are attacked by the Mexican bean beetle, which eats on the underside of the leaves, giving the plants a lace-like appearance as the upper part of the leaf dries and causes spots to break through. The adult Mexican bean beetle lays eggs of orange-yellow hue, attaching them to the underside of the leaf. These eggs hatch in a week or two and out comes a fat worm, which grows to about one-third of an inch long and half as wide. It is yellow, has black-tipped spines on its back and has a heavy appetite. In due time it passes through the pupa stage and in about thirty days after the egg is laid it becomes a full grown beetle.

Control is attained through poisonous dusts applied to the underside of the leaves, or by adding three pounds of calcium arsenate

Frescoes Displayed Are Centuries Old

Frescoes painted during the last seven centuries by scholars of the Brescian school are being brought to light in the Church of St. Francis of Brescia.

The church, which was constructed 250 years before the discovery of America, has been declared a national monument by the ministry of education.

When built in 1242 the walls of the church were nude of paintings. Attentive research work now has revealed that during each consecutive century Brescian painters executed a series of fine frescoes on the walls of the edifice.

Among the frescoes the most important from an artistic point of view is a portrait of St. Elizabeth, believed to have been painted by an unknown artist of the Fourteenth century. The frail, slant-eyed kneeling saint is painted in vivid colors and delicate lines. St. Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew II, king of Hungary, died in 1231 and was canonized in 1235.

Another fresco which adds proof to the belief that the Franciscan fathers had founded a university in Brescia has been discovered between the second and third altar on the right wall of the ancient church. It shows three rubicund Franciscan monks teaching a group of students.

Russia, Ireland Helped Little Theater Group

Stanislavski's Moscow Art theater in Russia and the Abbey theater in Dublin furthered the little theater movement. After the World war community drama was encouraged in all countries; in England the British Drama league was founded at Chaldron, Surrey, in 1919 and within ten years included more than 1,500 groups.

In the United States, the Little Theater movement can safely be said to have started with the organization of three groups in Chicago, during 1906 and 1907. Of the three, Hull House theater had the greatest influence. In 1911 the Wisconsin Dramatic society was organized, followed the next year by the Little Theater of Chicago and the Toy Theater of Boston. During the next 15 years community theaters grew up all over the country and ranged from rebuilt barns to modern theater buildings.

There are three types of little theaters: The art theater, created by young American artists in order to express their art through drama; the college theater, which grew out of the value of dramatic method in teaching and a desire to stimulate an understanding of the world's great drama; and the community theater, to provide good entertainment for the average taste at a reasonable cost.

Scott's Biography

The Scottish novelist and poet Sir Walter Scott was born August 15, 1771, at Edinburgh where he attended school. In 1792 he was called to the bar. After his marriage in 1797 to Charlotte Charpentier and his appointment as deputy sheriff of Selkirkshire about 1800, he devoted much time to writing, gaining great success with such poems as "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," "Marmion," and "The Lady of the Lake." Seeking greater fame, Scott turned his attention to historical novels, producing an amazing number of romantic tales, including "Guy Mannering," "Ivanhoe," "Kenilworth," and "Quentin Durward." Meanwhile he built a magnificent estate, Abbotsford. In 1820 he was created a baronet.

About 1805 Scott became a secret partner in a publishing firm and when it failed in 1826 he was faced with financial ruin. Instead of declaring himself bankrupt he devoted the remaining years of his life to paying off his debts but his intense work toward this end impaired his health and he suffered a paralysis in 1830. His death occurred September 21, 1832, at Abbotsford.

Pyorrhea Cure

Dr. Olin Kirkland of Montgomery, Ala., a specialist in periodontia, recently claimed that one of the most feared of dental diseases, pyorrhea, can be cured without the patient losing his molars, incisors and bicusps. Prescribed treatment in cases of pyorrhea, he said, calls for minor surgical operations in which infected sections of the gum are cut away. Dr. Kirkland said the gum has the power of regrowth and that it soon replaces the parts removed in order to prevent spread of the disease. He emphasized that the mouth is a source of infection but that the diseases present can be held in check through proper and systematic treatment or prophylaxis.

Ship Christenings

In ancient times when a new ship was launched the libation (or pouring of wine) was practiced, consecrating the ship to the god whose image she bore. The action of blessing ships is alluded to by the monks of St. Denys, and records of ship christenings are found as far back as 1418 when the bishop of Bangor was sent to Southampton, England, to bless the king's ships for successful voyages. On October 20, 1797, the Constitution, first U. S. navy ship launched, was christened by an officer who broke a bottle of wine over her prow. Champagne probably is used because it is a rare and expensive wine and suitable, therefore, for such an important occasion.

The Three Selected

By R. H. WILKINSON
(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

THE lack of distinguished citizens in our town was distressing to us twenty-five years ago," said Ezra Atkins. "The neighboring town of Harkins had its Lawyer Norcross, who had been elected to the state legislature, and its Clayton Jones, who had developed into a violinist of state-wide repute. The village of Slatteryville on our south had its famous architects and writers and politicians. But Martindale had no one. The thing was bad, tremendously so.

"The situation," he went on, "wasn't healthful to the future of a town such as Martindale, a town whose citizenry was overenthusiastic and hopeful regarding the future. It wasn't inducive to progress. What we needed was a leader, or a group of leaders, to set the pace. What we wanted was an incentive to achieve with one or two or three outstanding figures as models. Someone to whom mothers could refer their children and say: 'There now, if you do so and so, Bobby, you might even be as great a man as John Doe some day.'

"However, the smoldering discontent of Martindale citizenry did not burst into flame until the day that nearly our whole population journeyed over to Dracut one bright June morning to witness the laying of the cornerstone of a new library by Joshua Crandall, banker, who had departed from his native town

The village of Slatteryville on our south had its famous architects and writers and politicians. But Martindale had no one.

some years ago and made a fortune as treasurer of a Boston trust company. On this day he was back to receive the plaudits of his one-time fellow citizens and to lay the cornerstone of the library, for the construction of which he had donated money.

"Martindaleites trooped home that evening in a thoughtful mood. They had been awed by Banker Crandall and there was a feeling in their hearts of envy toward the township of Dracut because it could claim such a distinguished citizen for its own.

"On the day following this memorable event Harvey Cluett, Martindale's first selectman, called a meeting of some of the town's leading citizens. In his opening speech to the gathering he summed the thing up very nicely and gave voice to the thoughts that were uppermost in each of their minds.

"Fellow citizens," said First Selectman Cluett, "we of Martindale are unfortunate in being unable to point to no one man or group of men among us who had distinguished himself to the point of becoming great. No town or village could find itself in a more unhappy situation. For, like other towns, Martindale has a future in which every man of us is keenly interested. We have a large and healthy crop of children rapidly growing into men and women; youngsters who will soon take over the reins and direct the destiny of our beloved village. It seems a pity that the parents of these children cannot point with pride and respect to some of those here gathered with the purpose of influencing their offspring to become better men and women. If, when these children become old enough to reason, they discover Martindale to be minus great and honored men, they, the children, will lose interest and lack pride in the town which our esteemed forefathers carved from the wilderness, sure as shootin'.

"Therefore, friends," Cluett continued, "I propose the following suggestion: Let the town elect by popular vote three of its citizens to compose a committee, this committee to confer at length and within a month appoint three other citizens to become known as Distinguished Citizens. And from the moment of the appointing let every man, woman and child in Martindale honor and revere and respect the names of the Distinguished Citizens, thereby making of them great men. Needless to say, those chosen will be men of good repute, honest, upright and outstanding in their particular fields. The act will have its psychological value, for those appointed will be invested with a responsibility that will immediately aid them in their efforts to become the splendid influence on our children which we will expect them to be."

"First Selectman Cluett finished amid applause that continued for fully five minutes. And shortly after a special town meeting was held and a committee, composed of Albert Burns, Philip Nast and Joseph Hanlon was elected and endowed with authority to appoint three men to become hereafter known as Martindale's three Distinguished Citizens.

"The appointment was to take place within a month, and during that thirty days there was an atmosphere of excitement and anticipation about Martindale that had not been prevalent since the return of Perley Winters from the Spanish-American war. Every male citizen of any importance whatever was on his very best behavior. For there was not one but who regarded the appointment to the Distinguished Citizens group as the greatest honor that could befall him.

"Speculation ran riot among the women of the town, and among the males who admitted their chance of appointment was nil. At least two dozen names were discussed as possible appointees. But eventually the list of prospects was boiled down to six, namely, Martin Blake, lumber king of the Suncook Valley; Elias Whipple, proprietor of the Suncook hotel; Jim Darrow, owner of the Martindale Department store; Alex Strout, lively stable owner and station agent; Horace Latimer, superintendent of schools; and Melvin Cross, owner of the Martindale box shop.

"During the month of speculation the forthcoming event assumed importance unequalled by any election of town officers ever held. No other topic of conversation was discussed. And early on the day of appointment the town hall was jammed to capacity.

"By now practically everyone admitted that the aforementioned six were the only possibilities left in the race, with success leaning slightly toward Blake, Latimer and Whipple. However, were about even on Cross and Darrow, as a possible victor, and in the event of their defeat indications pointed to ill-feeling that might have a bad effect on the morale of the three Distinguished Citizens. In fact, the very purpose of the appointment had nearly been lost sight of in the more important light of personal prejudices.

"The appointing committee was made more and more aware of the importance of their decision. It was a situation that needed delicate handling. The influences of the three victors on the children of Martindale was problematical.

"At 11:55 Philip Nast, spokesman for the committee of three, appeared on the town hall stage and handed a sealed envelope to First Selectman Cluett. Spokesman Nast then took himself away and joined the other two committeemen at a discreet distance from the town hall and not too far from the railroad station.

"First Selectman Cluett stood on the stage and looked down into the faces of the voters and noted with a feeling of vague uneasiness that the front-row seats contained the six most likely prospects, and that the six were unsimiling and rather set in their expressions.

"However, First Selectman Cluett took his courage in his hands, so to speak, and slit the sealed envelope. The sound which the slitting caused could have been heard two blocks away, so intent was the silence.

Wherein the Ancestors Of Lemurs Are Revived

The lemurs arose from insect eating ancestors similar to the living tree shrews. These, in turn, came from more primitive mammals in which the young were born in a relatively undeveloped state, as in the pouched mammals of the present day. These came from egg-laying mammals, and these from cold-blooded, scaly reptiles. Our reptilian ancestors emerged from amphibians, laid their eggs in water, the amphibians came from fishes with lungs and without limbs; these fishes were derived from still more primitive jawless fish; and these from eyeless, water living ancestors, which possessed only a primitive substitute for a backbone, as in the simple lancelet of today. These were probably derived from bilaterally symmetrical animals similar to the larvae of modern starfish, and these from animals like our living flatworms. Before these our ancestors did not have a right and left side, but were radially symmetrical and in other respects like the Hydra. Their ancestors, in turn, were probably the colonial protozoa, tiny bundles of practically undifferentiated cells, derived from simple protozoan ancestors, animals in which the body was composed of only a single cell.

Suit of Boy Friend Now

In Army Adorns Steno
DENVER.—The slack suit blonde Fayetta Sanford wore to her job in the Colorado Capitol definitely was mannish looking.

It had been her boy friend's new sport suit until he went to the army. "He can't wear it for the duration, and it was a good looking outfit, so I had it made over for myself," explained Fayetta, state welfare department stenographer.

Her example impressed a friend, Mrs. Frances Karkeke, civil service commission stenographer. "My husband is going to the army soon," she said. "He won't be able to say anything if I want to have his civilian pants cut down."

Judge Splits a 'Fee' For Traffic Violation

PORTLAND, ORE.—Cupid got Mrs. Elizabeth Andrus into trouble, and then helped her out of it. She told Judge A. E. Wheelock she was hurrying to get a young couple to the marriage license bureau, so her husband, a minister, could marry them, when she was halted for traffic violation. "How much did your husband get for marrying the couple?" asked the judge. When told that the fee was $5, the judge decided to "split" an original fine of $5 to $2.50.

Judge Fines Speeding Father, Then Remits It

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO.—"You probably couldn't have been much use at the hospital," City Judge C. A. Bailey told Elmer A. Ihler, who offered the alibi to a speeding charge that he was hastening to attend the birth of his first son. The judge imposed a fine of $5. As an afterthought, he remitted the fine and told Ihler to save the ticket to show his son some day "just how much trouble he got you into."

Why Johnny Failed

Like every other communistic effort in the United States the Shaker colonies failed. In one way they were the most successful of all such experiments, for the Shakers were excellent farmers and made the most of their extensive land holdings. They have virtually disappeared. They had no children.

They left behind them one idea which since their time has come into universal use—the putting of garden and flower seeds into little paper packages for sale. For more than 20 years—roughly from 1820 to 1840—the Shakers at Union village, near Lebanon, supplied Cincinnati with seeds. They had such a reputation for good seed corn and for blue grass, timothy and clover seed that they had a virtual monopoly.

Still, good farmers as they were, occasionally they did unaccountable things. There was a colony near Dayton, the leader of which forbade the pruning of orchard trees, saying it was a wicked attempt to improve upon the work of God. If trees were intended to be pruned, God would have pruned them, was his argument. The consequence was that in a few years the orchard at that colony was a total failure.

Japanese and Chinese

Excluding the granting of citizenship by "jus soli" (right of soil) to Japanese and Chinese born in this country, there were only two periods in the history of the United States when Japanese and Chinese could have become citizens. The first naturalization act in 1790 applied only to "free white persons," but between 1873-75 the words, "free white persons" were omitted by error and during that period Japanese and Chinese could have been legally naturalized although none were. The second period was between June 24, 1935, and January 1, 1937. An act of June 24, 1935, provided that any alien veteran of the World war might be naturalized, if certain conditions were met, provided the petition for citizenship was filed with a court having naturalization jurisdiction between June 24, 1935, and January 1, 1937.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

ADAM AND EVE: TEMPTATION AND SIN

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 3:1-13, 23, 24.
GOLDEN TEXT—The soul that sinneth, it shall die.—Ezekiel 18:4.

The finished creation of God was "very good," but before long it was marred by sin. Dr. Hart-Davies in his book on Genesis speaks of a brick from the walls of ancient Babylon, now in the British museum. It "bears the imprint of one of Babylon's mighty kings. Right over the center of the royal seal is deeply impressed the footprint of a 'pariah' dog which apparently trod upon it when it was soft and plastic. Human nature is like that brick. Man originally was made in the image of God, but over the divine likeness there has been superimposed the dirty disfigurement of the devil's imprint."

We see first in our lesson the appearance of the serpent who is the subtle emissary of—

I. Satan (vv. 1-5).

Man, because he was made in God's image, was not a mere automaton, having no moral choice. He was a free being who had to choose between good and evil. Obedience to God is the underlying moral principle of the universe. Man was given an opportunity to obey the prohibition of one tree in the Garden of Eden. The principle of prohibition in the midst of a world of privilege thus has divine sanction.

Satan provided the occasion for man's fall into sin. He came, not as the cloven-hoofed monstrosity of modern cartoonists, but as a creature more subtle than all other creation. His approach in our day is just as smooth and cultured (II Cor. 11:14).

II. Sin (v. 6).

Let us be clear that sin is not a necessity, not a natural weakness of man, not a falling upward in the progress of the race, but a deliberate choice to transgress the law of God. At once it showed its true nature by reaching out and leading another into transgression.

The one who listens to a slander against God can easily begin to doubt His Word, and then it is not difficult to look at what God has forbidden. Then the desire of the flesh takes hold and disobedience follows (cf. I John 2:16).

III. Shame (vv. 7-13).

The breaking of a right relationship with God broke the perfection of man's fellowship with man. Innocence was swallowed up in a sense of shame. But the shame is far deeper than a sense of nakedness. It speaks of a heart marked with sin which makes man hide from God.

Satan had promised Adam and Eve that they should know more about good and evil (v. 5), but all the good they learned about was what they had now lost, and the evil they learned was the sin which now blackened their souls and darkened their lives.

And with them fell the whole human race, for Paul tells us in Romans 5:12 that "by one man sin entered the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

IV. Sorrow (vv. 23, 24).

Man and his help meet, who had begun with such glorious promise in the garden, now had the great sorrow of being driven out by God. No longer to be trusted, man was kept out by the cherubim, mysterious angelic beings with the awful flaming sword.

Labor, which in the garden had been but a pleasant diversion, became a struggle against a thorn-infested ground. Sorrow was linked with motherhood, and man began to bear the heavy responsibilities of life (see Gen. 3:14-19).

But we must not close our lesson without pointing out that in the midst of judgment God provided mercy. The promise of man's redemption is written first in God's Book in Genesis 3:15, and from there the scarlet thread of redemption truth runs right through the Bible to its last chapter.

Even in judging the first Adam for his sin, God thus promised the coming of the second Adam who was to redeem the race. We became members of the first Adam's family by natural birth—without the privilege of choice. We become members of the family of the second Adam by a new birth—a spiritual, supernatural rebirth. But the latter is by our own choice! (I Cor. 15:21, 22, 45).

Wayside Ministering

Jesus was never bound down to the size of his audience. He was neither elated by a big crowd nor discouraged by an audience of one. In fact, some of his most wonderful teachings were given to individuals whom he met by the wayside, the woman of Samaria, Zacchaeus, Mary and Martha, the Syrophenician woman, Nicodemus, the woman taken in adultery, the blind man in the temple, are only a few of those to whom Jesus gave of his best as he passed them on the way.

Color Simplification

Definition Now Sought

Scientist, led by the American Pharmaceutical association, seek to simplify the naming of colors to eliminate such meaningless terms as "blackish white," "reddish green" and "whitish."

Dr. Deane B. Judd of the National Bureau of Standards, and Kenneth L. Kelly, research associate, announced the new system of names as the result of a six-year research project of the Pharmaceutical association, which is interested in color names for describing official drugs used in the treatment of disease.

The new system is based on using such fundamental terms as red, yellow, green, blue and purple with the component hues of pink, orange, brown and olive along with the modifiers faint, pale, light, brilliant, weak, vivid, strong, dusky, dark and deep. Further modifications are brought by using the adverb "very."

The term of very dark blue, for example, under the new system relates to a definite standard of color rather than to the color education of the individual observer.

"The question of color nomenclature is complicated by the fact that there are 100,000,000 distinguishable colors, of which some 10,000,000 are producible by dyes and pigments, and for which in the present system there are approximately 500 color names," Dr. Judd said in discussing the new nomenclature.

Unusual Rural Carving

Baffling Historians

An engraving, carefully carved in the solid stone bank of a small branch in a wooded section near Marthasville, Mo., has baffled historians and writers who have attempted to translate it. The engraving is near Devil's Boot, a cave near the early settlement of Charrette Village, which was settled by French fur traders about 1763, the time St. Louis was being settled.

The engraved words are in Latin and at the beginning is the date line, "November 28, 1880." Then follows: "Demo Vilo Et Tuus Commodum Gratia Homo Causa Genero."

The letters are even in design and were done apparently by someone skilled in that work.

Floyd C. Shoemaker, Columbia, Mo., secretary of the Missouri Historical society, in a letter to E. C. Kehr, editor of the Marthasville Record, gives a possible partial explanation:

He says: "Marthasville was the location of a number of so-called 'Latin farmers,' men from the universities and colleges of Europe who had come to find fortune in the New World, and that while these men were engaged in farming, tried to keep up their Latin, even perhaps to the extent of carrying on conversation in that language."

For Blackouts: Red or White Lights

Contrary to popular opinion red or white lights—not blue—offer the best protection against bumps and bombs during blackouts. This fact was revealed by a scientific testing organization in Chicago.

Under blackout conditions, indoors or out, the eye focuses poorly on blue light, much better on white or red, tests show. People's slower adaptation to blue causes more accidents on the ground and counterweight, aviators having had a longer period for dark adaptation, can detect blue more easily than white or red. Several times the ordinary intensity of red light may be used, it was found, without more danger of detection from the air than blue.

While no official announcements have been made for blackout lighting it is thought white light of very low brightness perhaps screened by a neutralizing color will be used for street lighting. This would seem advisable since to aviators red lights might indicate vulnerable objectives.

There is no justification it is held for replacing with blue the red and white lights now used on cars.

Discover Second Highest Mountain

The second highest mountain in the world has never been seen by people living near it. It had no native name when discovered by outsiders recently, Paul Petzoldt, Idaho mountain climber, stated. He explained the mystery of the mountain, called K-2, in the Himalayas, being unseen throughout centuries by describing it as a mighty peak surrounded by other high mountains and barred from approach by glaciers. Petzoldt said that he discovered a white Tibetan race near the mountain which had been safeguarded from foreign invasions throughout the centuries by the inaccessible approaches to their mountain clinging domain. He said that the white race lived mostly on barley and dried apricots, did not know what salt was and consequently many of them suffered from big goiters, "some as big as buckets."

His 'Company' Invited

Malcolm Underwood of Los Angeles was quite the man-about-town. Then he was drafted. In the mail he received an invitation to a party, which had been forwarded from his address in town. "Miss So-and-So," read the engraved invitation, "requests the company of Malcolm Underwood to a formal dinner dance, etc., etc." "Dear Miss So-and-So," wrote back Private Underwood, Headquarters troop, 11th cavalry, "we accept with pleasure your kind invitation. However, dress for the evening was not stipulated. Should we wear field-jackets and steel helmets? There are 200 in my company, you know."

TO YOUR Good Health

By DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

HEALTH AUDIT WEEK

IN YOUR COMMUNITY

As the old year goes out and the new comes in large and small businesses and industries, and the farmers must all take stock. The certified public accountants do a land office business. This year because so many more will have to pay income taxes, there will be even more stock taking and auditing than usual. The farmers are taking stock not only that they may correctly determine their taxable income but also to determine the condition and quantity of their stock and farm equipment. During the winter months, they will be busy cleaning up and renovating all of the equipment that will be needed for the spring planting and cultivating.

Much attention is given to the stock of goods on hand, to physical equipment, to mechanical needs, to earnings and losses, but few even consider inventories of the health of the men, women and children who will be needed to carry on next year.

and thereafter. Many large industries require the physical examination of all new employees. The pre-employment examinations are to eliminate the unfit and so lessen accidents that might injure many. The examinations that are made annually are for the purpose of finding defects early that they may be remedied before they are disabling. Large industries have found this procedure well worth while and many smaller concerns are adopting it.

Annual Health Audit.

The small business man and farmer whose future depends so much on their fitness to continue at work have sadly neglected the audit of this most valuable asset, health.

The inventory of the health of all who work in a store or small factory, from the owner down to the office boy, and of all who work on the farm should be the most important item in the annual audit. It would be a great improvement if the printed forms often used in the taking of stock, provided first for a notation that all owners, officers and employees had been examined and found fit to carry on at their usual jobs. As the efficiency of an employee, officer or owner is materially affected by the illness of members of his family, stock should also be taken of their families' health. The Christmas holidays, when the children are home from school, when business has quieted down, when work on the farm is not as heavy as at many other seasons, furnish an ideal time to take the health inventory.

Here's an Idea.

Why not make the last week in the year HEALTH AUDIT WEEK? The members of your County Medical society would co-operate and might even make special rates for health examinations made at that time, especially if the whole family were included and if the examinations were paid for when made. Your health is your most important asset; is much more valuable than great riches and should be guarded even more carefully. Remember that many diseases can be cured only when discovered early, even before you become conscious of them. When discovered later they are incurable or disabling for a much longer period. Why not start the ball rolling by organizing a HEALTH AUDIT WEEK in your county?

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Car Wrecked Twice and

Stolen All in One Day

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — R. M. Aiken, employee of the Jacksonville naval air station, thought it was bad enough when another machine clipped his front fender, but his troubles had only begun.

A policeman ordered both cars moved a short distance away while a conference was called to agree on damages. When Aiken returned for his car it was gone, but it turned up when officers went to another accident in which the stolen car had piled into a light pole. The car was wrecked twice and stolen once in the same day.

Catching Tire Thieves

Easy for Old Cowhand

GRAND PRAIRIE, TEXAS.—Catching tire thieves is a cinch out here in the cow country—you don't even have to chase 'em. Aroused by a noise in his garage, C. F. Witherspoon grabbed his lasso, made a throw and caught the intruder the first try. All Witherspoon had to do was haul in the thief and call the town marshal.

Talkative Thief Meets

An Obliging Customer

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—Jess W. Spain didn't find many sympathetic police ears when he gave details of his $171 robbery.

"I woke up and found a man sitting on my bed," related Spain. "We talked a little while, then I turned over and went to sleep. In the morning I found my billfold gone."

Mountain Feud Called

Off to Whip the Axis

NORFOLK, VA.—Once upon a time, when a Hatfield saw a McCoy—or vice versa—it was the signal for a shooting bee.

And today "those feudin' mountain boys" whose bloody war in the mountains of Kentucky and West Virginia made history, have taken up their rifles "for better game—the Japs and Germans," explained Fred Hatfield, 21-year-old apprentice seaman.

This time the Hatfields and the McCoy's are fighting on the same side. Navy recruits from both clans met the other day in Norfolk to shake hands and pledge co-operation in whipping the Axis. They were Fred and Irvin Hatfield, both apprentice seamen, and Robert H. McCoy, a navy recruit, and Kenneth W. McCoy, in training here as a chief specialist in the physical fitness program.

The famous feud is believed to have started over a 50-cent debt on a hog. It ended by the marriage of a Hatfield boy to a McCoy girl. Fred Hatfield said that no one pays any attention to the feud now.

"But fighting is in our blood," Fred said, "and there'll be plenty of Hatfields and McCoy's out there in the Atlantic and Pacific shootin'."

Criminal Made Normal

By Surgery, Expert Says

NEW ORLEANS.—Dr. Ralph S. Banay, chief of the department of psychiatry at Sing Sing prison, described a feat of brain surgery as "the most dramatic achievement attributable to psychiatry."

He said that through the operation a 52-year-old Sing Sing inmate convicted of a statutory offense had turned into a normal and emotionally adjusted human being. Dr. Banay said that six months had elapsed since the operation and that the man had recovered completely without any impairment of his intellectual facilities.

High School Boy Keeps

Bees in His Bedroom

CLEVELAND.—Tom Paisley, a 15-year-old high school sophomore of suburban Shaker Heights, keeps thousands of bees in his bedroom.

The bees, in fact, have their own private entrance to his bedroom. Through a hole in the bedroom window frame the bees enter a small passageway that leads to their glass-enclosed hive.

Young Paisley became interested in bee supply several years ago, and took a correspondence course in bee culture, which is conducted by Ohio State university. He has eight hives on his family's farm in Mentor, Ohio, but maintains his bedroom apiary as well.

To Rattle a Rattler:

Just Rhumba on His Roof

PIERRE, S. D.—Want to give a rattlesnake the jitters? Jump up and down on the ground near him. It scares him half to death.

A. M. Jackley, South Dakota snake exterminator, reported that a hay crew found two rattlesnakes in a window, killed them, and on returning for the next load found more snakes.

The more snakes they killed, the more appeared. Jackley said the vibrations of the truck drove the snakes from mouse and gopher burrows. The men tallied up 77 snakes from the five acres.

Vitamins in All Grades

For all practical purposes the food value of meat, particularly in relation to protein, minerals and vitamins, is the same regardless of grade.

Long Time, Long Distance

Michael Fenelon recently retired as postman in Tagoat, Eire, after covering nearly 250,000 miles on foot and bicycle on his rounds in 52 years.

Vinyon Gloves

Gloves made of vinyon silk are described by chemists as shrink-proof and easy to clean because the yarn absorbs no moisture.

Germany Means Neighbor

The derivation and meaning of the word "Germany" is from the Roman "Germanus" which means "neighbors."

Prisoner Is Missing;

Turns Out It's Mascot

RALEIGH, N. C.—Prison clerk searched in vain for the fingerprints and record of Jiggs Thebear, listed as one of the 150 prisoners transferred from the Perquimans county camp to Caldonia prison farm. They discovered that the prisoner was really Jiggs, the bear, a pet of the Perquimans men.

WAR'S CLUTCHING HANDS

REACH FOR FAMILY PUP

War now has reached out its clutching hands to grasp the pet dog member of the family, and they squeeze where it hurts most—his "tummy."

For quite some time, hamburger has been a delicacy with pet dogs—because of higher beef prices. But Uncle Sam really put the pet dog in the pleasure car driver class when he announced that tin cans must be used for other and more important uses than canned dog food.

To the dog and his owner, this may prove a blessing in disguise. During the emergency many pet dog owners will turn to dry dog feeds. And they will be surprised to learn that for years large kennel owners have been using dry dog feeds because of their completeness and economy. These owners like the glossiness of coat, brightness of eye, and the thrifty condition that some of these dry dog feeds produce.

One prominent dry dog food, known the country over, comes in both checker and meal form. Its crunchy checkers come in two sizes, one for small dogs and the other for larger ones. The meal is fed moistened with hot water and mixed with table scraps. Many owners feed both checkers and meal, using the meal when there are suitable table scraps.

What do these dry dog foods contain? From our local Purina distributor we learned that his Dog Chow is a combination of meat meal, dried skim milk, brewer's dried yeast, wheat germ, barley malt, soybean oil meal, dried beet pulp, Riboflavin supplement, Puratene (carotene), molasses, corn grits, cereal food, dried raisins, steamed bone meal, iodized salt, Vitamin A and D feeding oil. He says that at the Purina Experimental Farm where it was developed, twelve successive generations of dogs have been raised on this ration alone, and water, with fine results.

Our local distributor says that at first some dogs may find dry dog foods not as palatable as the hamburger or canned dog food they have been used to, but by withholding other food and giving a little personal attention at feeding time, the owner can quickly teach the family pet to look forward to receiving his war ration.

WEEK OF THE WAR

The rubber scrap salvage campaign will close at midnight July 10. The Public Buildings Administration reported 15,000 pounds of scrap rubber were salvaged from Federal buildings during the first two weeks of the campaign. The War Department said the Army faces a 250,000-ton rubber shortage by the end of 1943, but present plans do not include military requisitioning of civilian tires.

Price Administrator Henderson said consumers may purchase an extra two pounds of sugar between July 10 and August 22, in addition to the basic half-pound-a-week. He said the new east coast coupon system for gasoline rationing will grant a fraction of a gallon more per week than temporary A cards, but the conditions that must be met to obtain supplemental rations under the permanent system are so strict that most motorists will have to get along on the minimum. Motorists will register for A books July 9, 10 and 11.

Transportation Director Eastman banned for the duration all automobile midget car and motorcycle racing meets, effective July 10. He also asked that State and county fairs be postponed for the duration to help relieve the strain on transport facilities. The ODT postponed until July 15 the date on which over-the-road carriers will be required to be loaded to at least 75 percent of capacity for return trips and on which tank trucks will be limited to one delivery daily. The Office reported the majority of milk dealers have put their deliveries on an every-other-day basis and have reduced mileage by an average of 25 percent. The Office authorized its 51 field offices to begin action immediately upon applications for special permits under the truck conservation regulations.

President Roosevelt signed the $42 billion Army Supply Bill for fiscal 1943. The War Department said men in Class 1-B because of minor physical defects will be inducted into limited military service under a regular quota system in order to release fully qualified soldiers for duty with task forces. Only those 1-B's "who are able to bring to the Army a useful vocation which was followed in civil life" will be called.

To release new space for production one company is microfilming documents and records that go back as far as 1882. The records now take 45,000 sq. ft. for storage; microfilmed, they will need a vault only 10 feet square.

A company which turns out fire extinguishers for fighting craft is pushing a program which provides a workshop for employees, where they can work out time-saving production ideas on their own or company time.
