THE ANNUAL PICNIC

of the Fire Company Held on Wednesday.

The Taneytown Fire Company held its annual picnic on Wednesday. The afternoon was spent in games on the Carroll County Fair Grounds.

Changing from their usual custom of having their meal at the Fair Grounds, the firemen dined at Sauble's Inn. At 7 o'clock the fire fighters with the Mayor and City Council, County Commissioner, Norman R. Hess and other distinguished guests gathered at this famous inn and partook of a bounteous repast.

The chairman of the committee on arrangement, Doty Robb, presented the toastmaster, or as he jokingly called "roastmaster" Merwyn C. Fuss, who presided in his quite able manner. Presenting the Mayor, Norville P. Shoemaker; President of the City Council, Dr. C. M. Benner; County Commissioner, Norman R. Hess; President of Taneytown Fire Company, Donald Tracey and other officers of the Fire Company, each responding with remarks appropriate to the occasion. Mr. Simon Clopper of Smithsburg, Md., interested in fire-fighting and defense work was also introduced and made a splendid address.

Mr. Theodore R. McKeldin prominent Baltimore Attorney and candidate for Governor of Maryland was introduced and made the principal address using as his topic "the four great figures of Washington, Jefferson, Roosevelt and Lincoln carried on the mountain side at Mt. Rushmore, S. Dakota." Mr. McKeldin was in his usual fine form, holding his audience spell-bound with intervals of story-telling that caused his listeners to roar with laughter.

Mr. Clyde L. Hesson, treasurer of Taneytown Savings Bank acted as Chanlain for the occasion.

About eighty men were present and each one agreed that the event was quite successful and entertaining in every respect.

STORING OF GASOLINE DANGEROUS

Motorists are thinking more about gasoline than ever before. They are thinking about it as a commodity to conserve, and thinking in terms of hoarding it.

Gas rationing brought to light certain factors which should serve as a warning to all motorists, according to an announcement by Percy M. Burke Manager of the Westminster Branch of the Automobile Club of Maryland. Gasoline is dangerous to handle; it is dangerous to hoard not only to the owner but to the entire neighborhood. There has not been until recently any Federal regulations under the rationing program which prohibits the carrying of additional gasoline in containers in the Eastern rationed area.

Under the new Gasoline Rationing Regulations, though, "no person shall consume gasoline unless such gasoline was acquired by him or on his behalf in exchange for valid coupons." Recent interpretation by OPA counsel has ruled that this applies to persons coming into the rationed area. It does not apply to gasoline brought into the rationed area in the tank of the vehicle, including an auxiliary tank which is directly connected with the regular tank of the engine.

Maryland does not have a law prohibiting the carrying of gasoline although the Insurance Commissioner has prepared a code, not yet in effect, which we understand will be quite strict. Some cities limit or prohibit carrying of gasoline in containers as a fire hazard. Baltimore city prohibits the carrying of more than one gallon in the car, even if it is in a safety can, that is; an approved Underwriters ventilated can with automatic closure valve.

Some states tax any gasoline brought in other than carried in the regular tank; others impose a tax only when the additional amount is in excess of twenty gallons. Motorists should examine their insurance policies, although the standard from contract does not preclude such carrying of gasoline.

Storing of gasoline in or around the home is not prohibited by State law. The new regulations mentioned above probably will be very strict on this. Insurance policies for the home do not permit the storing of gasoline in the home, and the Insurance Commissioner will back up the companies in the voiding of claims where storage of gasoline can be proved.

The Duke of Kent, youngest brother of King George VI of Great Britain was killed in the crash of a plane in Northern Scotland on Tuesday morning. He was on a war mission to Iceland. The entire crew of the plane died with him excepting one man who was reported safe some time after the accident.

He married Princess Marina, of Greece in 1934 and three children were born to them.

The Duke visited Canada and the United States exactly a year ago, stopping in Washington as the guest of President Roosevelt, and making an extensive tour of war plants in both countries.

LETTERS OF SENATOR TYDINGS

Concerning the Use of Iron in Dairy Barns.

Dear Editor:

Last Saturday a number of dairy farmers stated that the whole dairy community had been ordered to put in iron and steel to replace wood, and other substances in their dairy barns. They were perplexed to understand why such an order was now issued when the Government was making a tremendous drive to obtain and conserve iron and steel.

I promised these gentlemen I would take up the matter with the War Production Board and advise them accordingly. Last Monday I made diligent inquiry of the two branches of the War Production Board concerned with this matter, and on Tuesday, August 25, I received a letter with enclosures, from Mr. William R. Tracy, Chief of the Farm Machine and Equipment Branch, Division of Industry Operations, which reads as follows:

"Dear Senator Tydings:

In compliance with your request of yesterday afternoon, we enclose a copy of the WPB Iron and Steel Conservation Order, M-126, and a copy of WPB Limitation Order L-26, together with Schedule A of the latter.

You will note from Schedule A of L-26 that items of Dairy Barn Equipment are listed in Group 15 and assigned varying quotas in percentages of 1940 calendar year production. These are the minimum quantities of these various items of equipment which were determined in conference with the U. S. Department of Agriculture as being needed to aid in the production of the current food program.

To a very great extent these percentages are estimated as being only sufficient to take care of necessary replacements due to dairy barn fires or other acts of God plus the expansion program required to meet the dairy products quota.

M-126 is an order issued by the Iron and Steel Branch which prohibits the use of iron or steel in the construction of the items listed in that order. You will note that cattle stanchions is listed under List A with the provision that no iron or steel may be used in their construction except hangers and fasteners beyond the other uses for metal covered under subparagraph (f) (6) (iii).

We understand that iron and steel conservation Order M-126 is in the course of being amended by the iron and steel branch of WPB and that the lists of prohibited items will be increased materially. It is very likely that livestock pens and stalls will be on this supplemental list in the very near future.

In view of the fact that the manufacturing quotas of all producers of dairy barn equipment for the current year are practically exhausted and of the further fact that the present outlook is that production quotas of these items for next year will be very substantially less than for the current year, we are inclined to discourage the use of this very limited amount of equipment for any other than the most essential purposes. The latter are limited to the essential replacement and expansion mentioned above.

We are not familiar with the Health Department regulations being enforced in the Baltimore Milk Shed beyond what you told us by telephone yesterday. However, from that understanding of the situation and in consideration of the critical needs for metals in war production as well as in the remaining essential civilian uses we are definitely of the opinion that unnecessary use of the limited existing stocks of dairy barn equipment for such purposes as you described should be discouraged, and prohibited rather than required by local authorities under present circumstances.

We shall be very glad to supply with any further information you desire and will appreciate learning from you any further developments in this respect. Very truly yours,
WILLIAM R. TRACY,
Chief Farm Machinery and Equipment Branch Division of Industry Operations.

From the above, and other enclosures which are rather bulky and hence not submitted herewith, the clear intention of the War Production Board is shown to be that iron and steel are to be used only for necessary replacements due to "dairy barn fires or other acts of God, plus the expansion program required to meet the dairy products quota." The letter and supporting memoranda clearly show that except for these purposes other materials than iron and steel will have to be used for dairy farms during the course of the continuance of the war.

As there is widespread interest in this subject, and I was advised by those who came to see me that the interests of some 3000 Maryland dairy farmers were affected, I would appreciate very much if you would include this entire letter in this week's issue of your paper. I know if you will do so you will render a real service to the dairy farmers of Maryland, who, through their spokesmen have asked me to get the facts concerning the above. Thanking you and with best wishes, I am sincerely yours,
M. E. TYDINGS.

P. O. S. OF A.

State Camp of Penna. Met at Gettysburg

The seventy-seventh annual session of the State Camp of Pennsylvania, P. O. S. of A. met at Gettysburg this week, beginning with an informal reception and dance on Monday evening, and business sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday forenoon. Tuesday evening there was an exemplification of degree work. Wednesday evening an entertainment furnished by the local committee for delegates and guests. There was a special program of entertainment for the ladies while the State Camp was in session.

The attendance was somewhat reduced on account of the difficulties of travel, but the official roll call showed 250 delegates in attendance, besides visitors and their ladies.

Much business was attended to, and one of the hottest debates in the history of the state camp took place over the report of the committee on appeals, which sustained the State Executive Committee in the expulsion of several members for violation of the laws of the order. After several hours of debate the report was adopted by a close vote. Then harmony speeches were made and everything ended in peace.

At the closing session Thursday morning new officers were installed by National President, Hugh G. Mitchell, of North Carolina, assisted by National Vice-Pres., H. S. Helms and National Treasurer Clinton H. Paul, of Pennsylvania, and National Master of Forms, Rev. L. B. Hafer, of Taneytown, who was also one of the speakers at the opening meeting.

A notable feature was the election to honorary life membership of Dr. Francis B. Haas, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Charles H. Essig, an outstanding philanthropist, Reading, Pa., for his work and gifts for public play grounds and in combating tuberculosis, and Dr. A. C. Martz, state head of Civilian Defense. The first two were present for the conferring of the honor. Dr. Martz, because of public duty could not be present in person.

THE GREAT FREDERICK FAIR

The Great Frederick Fair one of the oldest agricultural fairs in the United States, will be held this year on October 6, 7, 8 and 9th. Practically every variety of farm and garden produce grown in Frederick County, the largest in Maryland, will be shown at the Frederick Fair.

The 82nd premium list will be mailed September 1st. One new class has been added this year and the premiums in many classes have been increased.

Shows will be held every night and will include all the regular George A. Hamid attractions.

Friday afternoon, October 9 feature will be a State-wide pulling contest in front of the grandstand. The Frederick County Agricultural Society conducted the first pulling contest ever held in Maryland at their first fair which was held October 1853. The horse pulling contest attracted many people last year. Substantial prizes are again offered in the two classes. The Friday afternoon program includes all regular grandstand attractions and several running races.

Homemakers are advised to take the best possible care of everything they own—they may not be able to replace things that wear out.

Farm fires are usually discovered too late to do more than remove the contents of the building, and even that is often impossible.

Practically all the "junk" around your house—anything metal or rubber rags, manila rope, hurler bags—can be used in making essential war materials.

Random Thoughts

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

READ ADVERTISEMENTS!

Whether you want to "buy something" or not, there is an educational value in advertising—some hint, or value that you may find profitable in the future. Of course, a lot of folks do read the advertisements in all of the papers and magazines that come into their homes.

Not every advertisement, nor all of any one, but enough to keep posted in a more or less general way on what business men have to tell you. For the same reason give other features of your visitors a once-over, at least, for things you want to know about are often found in unexpected places.

And as you read "use your head" and carry on a sort of personal analysis of what you read—whether it is likely to be true, or just boastfully "stretched," and whether statements made are representative of facts and why? or why not?

Advertisements are stories that are told, and story like, some are tales and adventures. Play a sort of game in trying to classify them.

TAX SOURCES

The multiplication of taxes to a point far beyond the wildest dreams of any one, brings home to us all a study of the sources from which revenue for government, Federal, State, County and local, ought to be drawn.

Governor O'Connor proposes to reduce the state income tax. Now William L. Henderson, chairman of the State Tax Commission, presents in a letter to The Sun, Baltimore, a long argument in favor of the income tax, and we believe he presents a good argument.

Of course, if the State government has a $9,000,000 surplus, the taxpayers should be relieved, and the question is, where shall the relief be applied. One may think that in the long run it does not matter much how or where, but we ought to be sure that the tax burden is evenly distributed.

Personally, the writer has held for a long time that income is the only proper source of tax. Whether it comes under that name or not matters little. It may be on real estate or personal property, but can only be justified if these are producing or can be made to produce income. Without income, any tax is a confiscation of capital resources.

It is claimed that every economist approves a retail sales tax. So much the worse for the so-called economists. A sales tax is not on income, but is a draft on the capital resources, and as it falls heaviest on the poor, it is unjustifiable.

Two things need to be kept in mind as we study taxation and the sources of revenue. First is to use revenue economically, so that the need of taxation may be kept as low as possible. The spending program on an unnecessary scale is always inspired from the pit, and is bound to bring its authors into disrepute sooner or later.

The second thing is to see that directly or indirectly the tax shall be on income, allowing the taxpayer first to live, and then drawing on the purses of men and women in a graduated way, always keeping "ability to pay" as the dominating principle.

LEAD ON!

Now is the time for courageous leadership. In the past months there has been too much pleading and not enough leading. The people are ready to follow the leaders are to lead—because the people look ahead and the leaders too often look backwards to make certain they are followed.

This is an hour fraught with opportunity—whether it be an opportunity to forge stronger the bulwarks of our democracy or a crisis in which we face the weakening of our system of government. We the free voters have it in our power to elect the men who can carry through, who dare to lead us to victory.

We cannot afford to repeat the tragic mistakes of the past. We cannot isolate ourselves as communities, states or sections any more than we can isolate ourselves as a nation. Those who thought so have too late seen the fallacy of their judgment.

Therefore, because of the democratic idealism of our nation, we must be especially careful to select as our candidate only that man or woman whose ideals are our ideals, who will not be swayed by pride of power, by favoritism, by prejudices, and who will not put party loyalties ahead of the public interest. They must not only have political honesty and honor but they must be able to recognize propaganda for what it is and see beyond purely local issues. They must feel that once elected they are the representatives of the whole people, not of any one group or clique.

We have enough to do to fight the enemy. We have neither time nor energy enough to fight one another. No individual or group at the present time has the right to think or act in terms of personal interest to the detriment of the general national good. To discuss and debate is a priceless privilege—but it is a privilege that must not be carried to excess.

We need men who dare to act as the occasion demands for the good of the nation as a whole—not for their own particular group or clique.

We need men whose eyes are on the road straight ahead—not on their political fences.

We need men who have courage to do the job without fear or favor—who once elected to office remember that their task is to represent all the citizens of their community, state or nation and who act accordingly.

We must pick our leaders for their ability and courage and then command them to lead!—Ruth Taylor.

KEEPING OURSELVES PURE

While we let a newspaperman talk to us in this issue about the Bible, it will do no harm to let the famous Gene Tunney talk to us about personal purity. This noted prize fighter wrote a magazine article recently in which he talked to soldiers.

He flatly told the soldiers that they should keep themselves pure in mind and body simply for the sake of being pure; that they should be chaste because of their duty to their wives and children, present or future; that they should remain sinless because a clear conscience is one of man's most valuable possessions.

Tunney restated the often ignored fact that it takes more than the fear of consequences to make a man good, that no amount of coercion will force him to do right if he wants to do wrong.

Another editor commenting on this says: "Although not in so many words, Tunney is heralding the example of Shadrach, Meshach and Abendego. When King Nebuchadnezzar ordered them to worship a graven image with the threat of death, they answered that their God could deliver them from death.

"But," they added, in effect, "even if He doesn't deliver us, we are still going to do the right thing because it is right." L. B. H.

CHASE THEM OUT!

We have no desire to tell our Army and our Navy what they should do in this hour of danger. The common citizen desires action, fierce and forceful. The Japs have seized and are holding three of our islands in the Alutians. That is American property, that is an invasion of America.

That is a challenge to our sovereignty and our liberty. Shall we tolerate it? No, not without a fight, and before that fight is over somebody is going to be hurt and hurt badly.

The Japs are either stupid fools or conceited Asses to attack us as they have. Japan is more vulnerable than we are. Her cities are open, paper and wood constructed, hence easily attacked and destroyed. Fools that they are, they will find this out to their sorrow and soon.

It is the duty and should be the business of our leaders to protect America first, then lend-lease to others what we can spare. We do not object to helping others but "God helps them who help themselves" and we want our leaders to remember that old-time and true slogan.

Japan is said to have now 10,000 to 25,000 soldiers established on our three Alaska islands. That is ten thousand or twenty-five thousand too many. Get them out, no matter what the cost.

The Germans have sunk 400 or more of our peaceful vessels right at our Atlantic seaboard—some in sight of land, that is 400 too many! Lives of thousands of our men in peaceful pursuit have been sacrificed to this mad Melock of war—German planned. It is time to change the record. If we have the planes they should be loaded with depth bombs and sent out to destroy these German Sharks of the sea.

Our government has done a good job in the arrest, trial and execution of the six German spies, and the imprisonment of the two others. These trials and executions prove to the world that democracy still functions with us even in the midst of war. Thank God for America and the American way of life. W. J. H.

PUT YOUR SEWING MACHINE TO WORK

Women can be of great help to Uncle Sam by putting their sewing machines to work salvaging textile and clothing waste and keeping the budget within bounds. Mrs. Christine Frederick, noted home economist, offers valuable suggestions for sewing in the September 6th. issue of The American Weekly the big Magazine distributed with the Baltimore Sunday American. On sale at all newsstands.

BOOKS FOR A SOLDIER

We give below a letter written by a newspaperman, and published in the writer's own paper. It is a letter to his son, who was called for service under the draft. The writer was W. Henson Purcell, editor of the Daily American, West Frankfort, Ill.

Believing the letter will be of interest to our boys in the service, as well as to our readers at home, we reprint it. Here is what Mr. Purcell said to his son:

"There are two things that I want to give you, Bill, as you go to join our fathers' sons in this business of killing, from which God alone knows whether you will return.

"Both went with me into the army twenty-five years ago.

"One is a khaki-covered textbook on military methods and soldiery. Peruse its pages and endeavor to master the art of being a good soldier. But it will bring to you the satisfaction of doing well whatever you do. It will help you to learn more quickly what is expected of a good soldier.

"The other, also khaki-covered, is a Bible. Don't feel that to take it is being sissy.

"There will no doubt be times when to just hold it in your hand will bring a mysterious comfort. I confess that I read it but little while I was in uniform.

"Yet there were times when its nearness—the knowledge that it had stood the test of all time and countless other wars—seemed to sort of satisfy my longing for you and Mom—till my homesickness for all the peaceful ways of life that had been disrupted by war.

"Take them, Bill, and use them. Make the most of the army and come back a better man than when you left. There is, you know, a personal as well as a national victory to be won.

"It seems a bit silly, doesn't it, to send you away with a gun in one hand and a Bible in the other? The gun to kill. The Bible: 'Thou Shalt Not.'

"There is no explanation except that the gun appears for the present to be necessary to our national security. The Bible has ever been our hope of eternal security.

"Learn to use the gun, Bill, but rely, finally, upon the Bible.

"And may the Good Lord—although I confess it is a big assignment—watch over and keep you, and those who go with you as the guardians of American freedom, until the day—and may He speed the day—when we shall thank God for peace and a safe homecoming.

"So long, Bill." L. B. H.

BANKS AND SMALL BUSINESS

Much has been heard in Washington about the necessity for protecting the small business man during the turmoil of war—but, according to a spokesman for small business, very little has actually been done by government.

Instead, some of the most effective work to help adjust small business to the war program is being done by a private enterprise—banking.

Banks in all parts of the country are offering small business an invaluable service which has two distinct phases. First, whenever possible they are making loans to convert plants to war work. Second, and equally important, they are in a position to give small business accurate advice on how it may fit itself into the war picture.

The small business man hasn't the facilities for dealing with all the intricacies involved in obtaining war contracts. He simply doesn't understand how to go about it. The banks do—and their advice is free for the asking.—Industrial News Review.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

It's not a pleasant picture to contemplate, but War calls for "blood and sweat and tears." And the Army Medical Corps, with its efficient nurses and its volunteer Red Cross "Angels of Mercy," needs thousands of surgical beds for field and base hospitals on every front.

These beds cost approximately $22 each. They are the latest thing in modern hospital beds, with elevating springs. In some instances surgical cots are used in temporary field hospitals and there is a folding bed which may be used in ambulances. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps can buy many of these beds for the Army. You'll sleep better if you know our boys have every hospital comfort. Buy War Bonds every pay day. Invest ten percent of your income.

Five Sleep Inducers for

The War Public to Try

Thought control (to induce sleep) varies all the way from counting sheep to the more esoteric forms of autophony, research shows. All schemes are methods of limiting consciousness. Each of the following plans has its adherents:

1—Listening to imaginary drops of rain falling on an imaginary tin roof (said to be better than counting sheep because it requires less mental effort).

2—Assigning names to each letter of the alphabet. A is for Albert, B is for Benjamin, etc. (Or take animals, fish, names of countries, anything you like.)

3—Painting large imaginary 3s extremely slowly on a large black wall with an imaginary brush and an imaginary tin of imaginary white paint. (This one is cited on the authority of an eminent psychologist, who is of the opinion that anybody who paints three of the 3s in this very slow manner will find it virtually impossible to keep awake.)

4—Repeated religious formulas or mantras. (For those who are ill at ease or unaccustomed to move in this sphere, the age-old Buddhist formula, "Om mani padme hum," has been found efficacious in lifting the mind out of its preoccupations).

5—Reciting nonsense verses slowly, over and over. (Lewis Carroll's "Jabberwocky" or Edward Lear's limericks will come in handy here.)

Traveler's Tree for Thirsty People
Madagascar, erroneously called the land of the man-eating tree, is in truth the land of the tree-drinking man.

British soldiers landing on the big French island off southeast Africa will find no carnivorous vegetation larger than the pitcher plant. This shrub, four feet high, bears jug-shaped, water-filled pitchers in which it traps and digests unwary insects.

What the exploring Britons will enjoy is the Traveler's Tree, a lifesaver for the thirsty. It is a palm, often 100 feet high, whose big fronds condense moisture and collect it in a natural reservoir close to the trunk. A spear tap, and out gushes a quart of pure, sweet water, says the National Geographic society.

Free Postage

The franking privilege, that is, the right to send mail without paying postage, is extended under three heads: Congressional frank mail, for members of the legislative branch of the federal government; official penalty mail (under penalty for private use) for members of the executive and judicial branches of the government and personal free mail under signature for authorized persons—now conferred upon members of the armed forces of the United States and generally conferred on widows of Presidents of the United States.

Efficient Tractor Operation

To operate a tractor at full load costs only one-eighth more than at half load, but twice as much work is accomplished. The only noticeable difference in full-load operating costs is increased fuel consumption. Other costs, including labor, depreciation and maintenance, remain almost the same. Farmers who are pressed for labor this year can well keep this in mind. Pulling more than one implement at a time and operating at higher speeds are two ways to keep the tractor well loaded.

If You Get a Vacation

To prevent week-end traffic congestion, Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, urged vacationists to do their traveling during the middle of the week whenever possible. At the same time, Mr. Eastman said that vacations should be staggered throughout the year instead of being concentrated during the summer months.

You might as well Confess!

Almost everyone likes a mystery—almost everyone enjoys the thrilling excitement of tracking down a criminal with an ace detective. But some are a little ashamed to admit reading mysteries. Well—you needn't be.

Maybe you didn't know that many college professors, bank presidents, great scientists, captains of industry, even the President of the United States all like their mysteries. In fact, millions of Americans are reading more mysteries today than ever before. Why? Mainly because these fast-paced, easy-reading stories are both relaxing and refreshing. It is for them—and for you—that we are publishing

Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine

Edited by Ellery Queen, famous detective of the radio, the movies, and best-seller books, it is devoted exclusively to the best in detective crime short-story literature. And we mean literature. The fact that a story owes its plot to crime and detection need not prevent its being well written. Short detective fiction that is well written is not too readily available. But we are finding them—in books, in magazines, in the files of famous authors—and by arrangement with other publishers as well as with authors, we reprint in the approved Reader's Digest manner the best detective fiction to be procured.

Such masters as Dashiell Hammett, Agatha Christie, Stuart Palmer and Ellery Queen are to be found in it. But stories are selected on their merits, not on author's names. Tough and suave, casual and swift, comic and tragic, they are mingled with refreshing variety and stimulating change of pace. Rare gems, fit for the most critical, delightful to the most naive. You will find the new magazine well printed—sharp and clear kind to the eyes. You will find the size same as The Reader's Digest—convenient to hold, to handle, to slip into your pocket. You will find the cover as pleasing to look at as a book jacket. And you will find the contents the most satisfying quarter's worth of good entertainment you have found in many a day. On sale at all good newsstands—25c a copy.

SPECIAL 10C OFFER TO READERS OF The Carroll Record

ies new and old—60,000 words of thrilling mysteries—for only 10c, the cost of postage and handling.

Please Don't Call Washington unless you must!

WITH the war effort of 27 United Nations centered upon it, Washington is probably the busiest city in the world. It is fast outgrowing its physical limits—and its telephone facilities.

Since Pearl Harbor, long distance telephone calls in and out of Washington have increased from 45,000 a day to about 70,000 or more than 50 per cent. Some of these calls, of vital importance, get caught in the rush.

Now, it is no longer possible to expand telephone facilities as in the past because critical materials are needed for the fighting fronts.

So we must ask you to cut down on every call you can to Washington and other busy cities across the country—so that the Army, Navy and the Government can have the right-of-way to get America's biggest job done.

If you must make a long distance call, won't you place it in the off-peak hours—

Find Refuge in English Village

Fisherfolk From France and Belgium Live Own Lives In Alien Land.

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH ENGLAND.—In this part of England there has sprung up since the war began a little section of transplanted Belgium and France. Here Breton and Flemish fishermen have come with their boats and families to seek sanctuary from the Gestapo until the ill wind that blows over their stricken lands disappears, to carry on their accustomed ways and live their own lives among the English, who speak another tongue, but who are fighting their fight for freedom.

These refugees are not exactly happy here. Many of them are homesick and some of them are homesick, but the heartaches of exile are more welcome to them than the slavery that they know awaits them if they sail their boats back across the waters they have crossed.

The village inhabited by these fishermen is one of the few of its kind in these islands. Its houses jut out from hillside tiers. If one stands along the waterfront and looks upward, they seem to grow one out of another. To reach the water from the cliff-top one must descend narrow stairs winding and twisting between the cottages and dropping precipitously.

Like Native Land.

The refugees came to this village naturally. It was the nearest thing to their native surroundings.

When the war began this English village had a population of 7,700. It was a strictly English fishing village, and it had only occasional visitors.

One such visitor came more than 100 years ago. He was a Frenchman running away from Napoleon. He came with bags of gold and ideas. He bought a hilltop and built a large villa. Then it occurred to him that his grounds and view should be beautified. At the other end of his cliff-top he built from native stone a structure that looks now like the ruin of a Norman castle. A high wind blew away most of the cross atop what looks like the ruins of a medieval chapel. The rest remains as built.

Now it is a village of more than 10,000. One thousand three hundred of the additional population are Belgian, about 100 are French and the rest are British evacuees.

Belgian children in this village are bilingual. If one stands in the street to listen to them, one hears the strange business of children halting in the middle of a sentence begun in Flemish and switching to English in order to get the most telling phrase.

Resent Foreign Talk.

Atop the hill there is a hotel of high standards. It is filled with people who have come here to escape the rigors of bombing—they are representative of the sort who populate several celebrated "funk holes" along the coast—and they are severe in their attitude. To them it means nothing that a large number of Belgians and French have braved a 200-mile crossing in small boats with their wives and children to find a home in a land of their liking. To them the visitors from across the Channel are just aliens. They resent their "foreign" talk.

As far as the village government is concerned the Belgians and the French do not exist. An inquirer asking about them is told:

"They have nothing to do with us. They have their bureau. Go and see them."

The Belgians do have a bureau to look after their own people. The French as yet have none. The Free French are lacking the kind of diplomatic recognition that, once granted, would make such efforts possible. Meanwhile, the Belgian office is looking out for the French.

Late Hours of Students

Blamed on 'Dance Hunger'

LONDON, Ont.—"Not enough to eat at school dances" is being used as an excuse by some collegiate students for staying out until two and three o'clock in the morning. The students leave the school dances and go downtown to eat, according to a statement made at a recent meeting of the London board of education.

However, it was reported that there is a sufficient amount of food to suit any guest at the dance.

Mrs. J. E. Richards, president of the home and school council and a member of the deputation appearing before the board to ask for some assistance in solving the problem of children being on the streets late at night, said that some parents worried because their children stayed out very late after they had attended school dances.

One-Armed RAF Flier

Blasts 4 Nazi Bombers

LONDON.—Squadron Leader J. A. F. MacLachlan, who wouldn't let the loss of an arm interfere with his royal air force career, shot down two of four German bombers destroyed over France one night recently and damaged two others. He has operated his fighter with a metal arm since an amputation resulting from his being shot down over Malta some time ago. His present night score is seven planes downed.

WFO Service

Give Window Screens

A Thorough Washing

In order to get the jump on flies and mosquitoes, window screens and screen doors should be put up before the first flying insect makes its appearance. Windows that are to be screened should be washed inside and out beforehand, because it is usually impossible to wash them comfortably again while the screens are up.

The screens, too, should be cleaned before being fastened into place. Even though they were brushed and washed before storing, there will be enough dust on them to make a scrubbing necessary. Spraying with a garden hose will remove only a little of the winter dust, and more thorough methods should be employed.

Fill a large pail with warm sudsy water, and use a scrub brush on the wire mesh. Rinse with a sponge dipped in clear warm water, or with a hose. Then repeat the process on the other side of each screen. Let dry in the sun and wind.

If the cleaning must be done indoors, use the basement laundry tubs or the bathtub, but in that case spread an old sheet or other large cloth on the bottom of the tub to prevent scratching the porcelain surface.

Screens should be scrubbed before either the mesh or the frame is repainted.

Homemakers Are Urged to Save Their Cooking Fats

Housewives are urged to save all used cooking fat in order to turn this fat into explosives for use by the United Nations.

Fats make glycerin and glycerin makes explosives. Millions of pounds of glycerin are needed, and housewives can help supply it.

Homemakers are advised to get all cooking good from the fats first. Then strain them and pour the fats into a clean wide-mouthed can, but not a glass container. Store the fats in a refrigerator or a cool dark place until you have collected at least one pound.

When housewives have a pound take it to the meat dealer who is co-operating in this drive. He will weigh the can of fat, pay the established price for it, and start it on its way to the war industries.

Don't let the fats stand so long that they become rancid. Once they become rancid the glycerin content is reduced. Do not take the fats to the meat dealer on week-ends if it can be avoided. Help him by bringing them in early in the week.

FEESBURG.

Monday—clear sky and delightful, cool, after a rainy Sunday evening. Oh! it was cozy to close the doors and read an interesting biography. Our one regret is that there's no good hymn sings or religious music on the radio on Sunday evening.

A birthday party was given Miss Dessie Elliott, of Harrisburg, who has spent the summer with her aunt, Mrs. Truman Hamburg, on the G. B. Warehime farm at this place on last Friday evening. A dozen or more guests beside the family were present and many play games were indulged in. Refreshments consisted of two kinds of ice cream and several varieties of cake—including a birthday cake with 18 candles on it, and other good things. May her happy times increase.

On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Angell (nee Esther Sentz) and child Johnny, moved from the home of her uncle, Roland Koons, near Taneytown with whom they have lived since their marriage three years ago, to the house owned by D. Repp in Middleburg long owned by the J. Wilson family and sons.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Ethel Elizabeth Erb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Erb, of Uniontown, to Earl Roland Wilhide, son of Ross and Emma Stansbury Wilhide, on Sunday, August 23, 1942. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul F. Warner of the Methodist Church of Uniontown at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Reba Erb Skinner, in Union Bridge. Only the immediate families were present, and the couple left for a southern motor trip, and on their return they will reside in their furnished apartment in Baltimore. May their best dreams come true.

There was Sunday School and C. E. meeting at Mt. Union on Sunday morning, Mrs. C. S. Wolfe and Roger Sentz conducting. S. S. and Sue E. Birely in charge of C. E. afterward; not as many were present as usual but wonderful lessons on "Jacob's Vision"; and world wide fellowship under the title, "Blest be the tie that binds." The pastor, Rev. G. E. Bowersox and wife are expected home this week, and he will preach next Sunday at 9:30 A. M.

Our helpful little neighbor, Rodney son of Joseph and Reda S. Bostian is afflicted with ivy poisoning, so severe that the services of the Doctor were required; we were subject to the same torment and never could decide which was worse the ailment or its treatment so we are sympathetic with the victim.

One evening last week when Mrs. Claud Moore was visiting her sister, at Woodsboro, one of her small nieces undertook carrying her eight month old baby and let him drop on the concrete walk, rendering him unconscious for some time and injuring his head, but seems to have recovered.

Then on Monday evening Jackie the 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Moore ran across the road in front of an approaching car, which the driver could barely check in time to save the child's life and tears and nerves were badly unstrung—as a number of persons were witnesses; a little child knows no fear and is quick as a bird in movement.

On Wednesday of last week, Mrs. C. S. Wolfe received word of the death of Noah Reindollar who married her sister, Mollie Utermahlen, deceased. Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe viewed his body at the C. O. Fuss Funeral Home in Taneytown, where the services were conducted on Friday afternoon by Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, and interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery, Uniontown.

Another group of campers are along Big Pipe Creek near Crouse's Mill. It sounds well that one of the neighbors said "they are nice orderly boys, they came to the house for some supplies and were well mannered." These boys are a bouquet for the center of your feast.

School time is drawing near and we are counting the days and hours—that is those who are tired of vacation. Are doing so; and clothing must be got in readiness, and supplies of pencils, pads, etc.; a new lunch box or pocket book to buy lunches; planning who'll be our seat-mate this year and there will be many little tots going for the first time, who will learn much more than their books tell them and never seem as innocent again. Growing up is a painful thing but it would be worse if we never grew up so we have to move on with time.

Now the farmers who planted tomatos for the factories are having a heavy job gathering them—all washed down and such soft ground this season. Some of the men are out with their tractors mowing down grass and weeds, but plowing has been delayed by the wet weather. No, we do not consider a farmer's life monotonous; too many varieties of work and weather.

According to the women and the fruit this seems to be peach week, when many hours of labor will store many bushels of peaches for another winter, then there's prunes and grapes to take care of too, and we are just free from a large kettle of chili sauce; so work is not scarce—and some one down in Washington said we might have a little more sugar for canning—so there!

THOSE PESKY JAPS

Call them out—those sturdy fellows Let them have their chance at war, Do not place barriers before them, Let them have abundant store.

Do not think our youth are softies Just because they like to dance— Give them arms and full equipment, They will 'gainst the foe advance.

"War is Hell" as Sherman named it, And it gets worse all the while, But the end will come ne'er doubt it, Buck up soldier, 'gin to smile.

Whose afraid of crazy Hitler, Or that shrimp—Horrifito Both are cowards and conceited Thinking us they'll overthrow.

What funny little fellow With his Chaplin like mustache, Does he think he can defeat us With his arrogance so brash?

What a weakling gods the Japs have In their stoog—the Emperor, They'll know before all is ended, Fools they were on us to war.

Just send over our Doolittle With his brains and magic touch; He will give them what they're seeking And they'll find it is quite much.

Get them out of our Alaska; Chase them from Australian's shore Drive them from Oceania, Trust them never, nevermore.

Puncture their inflated ego, Shrink them to their proper size, Give them over to Great China, Let them be China's war prize.

W. J. H. 8-21-42.

To add warmth to the kitchen and get away from the "laboratory look," finish the plywood cabinets with a light stain that retains the pattern of the wood in a mellow tone.

A plywood training plane requires about a fifth as much of the material as does an all-plywood house for a war-worker's family.

Enough fir plywood will be made this year to build 400,000 all-plywood houses.

THE WEEK OF WAR REPORTS.

Departments' and Boards' Activities.

War Production Chairman Nelson announced the War Production Board is rerating every project in the war program to secure the "maximum impact on the enemy now." Combat planes, particularly bombers, are at the top of this new list, Mr. Nelson said.

Chairman Nelson reported the U. S. is now producing munitions three and a half times the rate in November, 1941, the month before Pearl Harbor. July production, he said, was 16 percent above June production, but 7 percent short of production forecasts made at the beginning of July. "The big job ahead of us right now is to bring our program into balance and make sure that we use our materials and facilities as wisely as possible," he said. "This means that we must redouble our efforts, particularly on the low spots, if we are to make our goals by the year's end."

Aircraft production increased 11 percent in July over June output, Mr. Nelson said. Although combat plane production rose 6 percent, it was not up to expectations. He also reported: overall ordnance production in July increased 26 percent over June output, and was very close to schedules; production of medium tanks was 35 percent greater than in the previous month and considerably ahead of schedules; light tanks up 15 percent also were ahead of schedules; antiaircraft guns exceeded schedules by "a wide margin"; merchant ships were up 6 percent and "nearly one schedule for the month," deliveries of major naval combat vessels were ahead of those in June and "considerably ahead of forecasts."

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported Allied fighter pilots using new battle tactics shot down at least 13 Japanese planes, and probably 15 or more, out of an enemy fleet of 47 which attacked Darwin. No Allied planes were lost. The Navy reported the Marines' hold on at least three of the Solomon Islands is now well established. When 700 Japanese counter-attacked of one of the islands, 670 were killed and the other 30 taken prisoners, Pacific Fleet Commander Nimitz reported. The Marine losses were 28 killed and 72 wounded. Admiral Nimitz also announced a force of Marines made a successful landing on Makin Island, killed 80 Japanese, wrecked various installations and then withdrew.

U. S. Army headquarters, European theater, announced arrival in Britain of the largest U. S. convoy of the war, with more men and material for the American Air Forces which had already begun precision bombing by daylight of Nazi-occupied Europe. U. S. Flying Fortresses bombed the Nazi transportation system at Amiens and Abbeville. In a battle over the North Sea, four flying fortresses shot down three German fighters and damaged nine others, while all the U. S. planes returned safely. A U. S. Ranger battalion joined with Canadian and British forces in a nine-hour raid on Dieppe, France. The Navy reported U. S. submarines operating in the Aleutians and in the Far East sank a cruiser or destroyer and damaged a destroyer, sank two cargo ships and a transport, and damaged another cargo ship. The torpedoing of seven more United Nations merchantmen by enemy submarines was announced.

Selective Service Director Hershey said draft boards will begin calling men with dependents before Christmas. He said single men with "secondary" dependents, such as aged or crippled relatives, will be called first; married men whose wives work, next; then men with dependent wives; and finally men who have wives and children. He said the reservoir of 1-A men throughout the country is "practically exhausted." Selective Service headquarters said Class 1-B (men fit for limited military service only) will be eliminated and beginning September 1, all registrants who are not totally disqualified will be reclassified in 1-A while those not suited for any military service will be placed in 4-F. In the case of men reclassified in 1-A, the Army will determine after induction whether they will be assigned to full or limited service.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said he would approve a plan of livestock ceiling prices which "must not permit abnormal profits to anyone in the industry at the expense of the producers or consumers." Mr. Wickard also said he now favors repeal of the provision of the Price Control Act "that prohibits ceilings on processed farm products if the ceiling price reflects a farm price of less than 110 percent of parity." He said farm prices "have reached parity on an average." The WPB Food Requirements Committee asked the armed forces, the Lend-Lease Administration, and the War Production Board to collaborate in working out a program for allocation of all Government meat purchases as equitably as possible among Federally inspected packers. The Agricultural Marketing Administration bought $137,900,000 worth of foodstuffs during July for the United Nations and other requirements, including 80,000 pounds of dehydrated beef.

Tire quotas will have to follow a downward trend the rest of this year to keep within the amount of rubber earmarked by the WPB for the purpose, the Office of Price Administration said. The office asked local rationing boards for the "strictest possible interpretation" of a recent amendment to tire rationing regulations restricting truck eligibility to vehicles essential to the war effort or public health and safety.

WPB Chairman Nelson appointed Under Secretary of War Patterson,

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes and Price Administrator Henderson as a committee to determine whether fuel oil should be rationed in the east coast area this winter. Because of the shortage of fuel oil in the area, Mr. Ickes prohibited the hauling of automotive gasoline by rail in 20 Middle Western and Southwestern States in order to divert enough tank cars to carry 100,000 barrels of fuel oil daily to the rationed area. If the withdrawal of these 5,000 to 7,000 tank cars creates a shortage, rationing should be extended, Mr. Ickes said.

Forty-Seven Years Ago.

The Taneytown Band serenaded Harry M. Clabaugh at his home and received a hearty and welcome reception.

Taneytown was unable to raise a ball game—not even a "kids' game"—(we are experiencing the same thing now but nearly all of our young men have "gone to war.")

Mr. Harry B. Miller, agent at Taneytown for the P. R. R. was married to Miss Emma F. Weikert, at Philadelphia, Pa.

An election was held in Littlestown in November, determining whether that town was to have a water supply or not. The town authorities were favorable to the proposition and the plan was to issue 4 percent bonds to the amount of $16,500, and erect a plant.

(One of our faithful readers of our 47 years ago column and a contributor to The Record writes, setting us straight on Maidensville. Thanks! His letter follows):

Dear Editor: Who wrote all about Maidensville 47 years ago? Like the immortal G. Washington my sins I must confess—I did it with my little school boys pen, these first efforts were crude and amateurish but their acceptance and the encouragement lent by "Ye kind Editor" (P. B. E.) led me on to aspire to higher things and at the time I got a great "kick" out of it whether the public did or not.

Maidensville (so named originally from the large number of old maid residents, was and is a sleepy little village of perhaps a dozen houses along the state road on the heights above Linwood. After I left and ceased boosting the place it returned to its perfect somnolence, modest and humble as it may be yet it is home, the well beloved scene of my childhood memories, throughout the busy years of strenuous work and strife spent amidst the turmoil of great cities it has ever been the goal of my thoughts, a haven where serenity, peace and contentment awaits.

LOOK Lady
By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

Hallways are to homes what receiving lines are to receptions—a friendly, welcoming introduction to your home. And yet, hallways often are the bane of the homemaker's existence.

Actually, to accomplish their purpose, hallways, like receiving lines, should be practical as well as decorative. And for both practical and decorative values, we know of nothing so charming and useful as one of the new type cedar chests.

These modern pieces of furniture hide away an appreciable amount of out-of-season clothing, or family trinkets, and at the same time give guaranteed moth-protection to all woolen articles.

Casualty, we do not feel hallway furniture must match the wood or styling of dining or living room period furniture. Although, of course, it is quite possible to do so, regardless of whether your furniture is maple, walnut or mahogany.

You will scarcely recognize the new cedar chests in their guise of lowboy, highboy or console form. And they do come in a variety of woods and finishes, too, if you desire your hallway to repeat or introduce the theme or setting for the rest of the house.

Dramatic height is given to this square hall by placing one of the new console type cedar chests in front of a wall hanging. Veneered in any finish desired, the main part of such chests is made of seventy per cent red cedar heartwood to give moth-protection to woolens stored inside. Entrance to the chest is gained by lifting the lid.

Besides providing ample utility and protective space, the new lowboy, highboy and console styles offer unlimited decorative appeal. For instance, the chests with somewhat of an Italian design have a rich distinguished appearance when placed in front of a tapestry hung from the wall. Or a pair of heavy candlesticks and a fruit bowl may more suitably fit in with the decorative scheme you have in mind.

In new modern homes, with accent on white enameled woodwork and highly waxed floors, cedar chests with the popular bleached mahogany exterior strike the right note for a gay, cheerful entrance. Decorative motif on top of such a chest could be ferns or cacti garden, in season, or informal bouquets of seasonal flowers: your own would be lovely, if you have a garden.

So whatever your hallway problem, there is a cedar chest designed to meet the need, and based on its utilitarian as well as decorative value, actually is a sound and conservative buy.

Pointed Paragraphs

South American Colors Smart

The South American way having captured the fancy of North American women, full skirts, big tropical prints and daring Peruvian and Brazilian peasant colors—tomato red, strong yellows and dark bluish greens—add pepper and spice to the Summer fashion diet of washables. A little sugar, too, if American Institute of Laundering recommendations for washing are followed!

Based on their tested recipes for washing colors and fabrics safely, the Laundry Institute recommends that tomato red never be washed with any other color except red, and strong yellows with no other colors except yellows. Dark bluish green, however, may be washed with dark browns, dark blues, purples, or dark greens without marring true color tones. And, because most of these colors are found in linen-like rayons, water definitely on the coolish side, no more than 70 degrees Fahrenheit, should be used for washing.

Trailers—Jobs—War Bonds!

The average income of families in trailer coaches at various war construction sites is well over $250 a month—and average expenses are less than $125! Most of the difference goes into war bonds.

Unions "Fully Protected"

Labor unions "now have complete statutory protection from external attack," and "are more secure (under the law) than the church, than the political party, than any other private institution known to democracy," the Inland Steel Company argued in a recent War Labor Board case in which imposition of the closed shop in industry was in dispute.

Methodist Schools Replan

The 125 Methodist colleges and universities throughout the nation have revamped their schedules in order to provide students with the same high type of curriculum under the geared-up wartime programs, as has always characterized their institutions.

Department stores all over the country are reporting the best yard goods season in history.

Intelligent Animal
By STANLEY CORDELL

EZRA POWERS who is Groveton's oldest inhabitant and Andy Small, the next oldest inhabitant, are forever arguing and reminiscing. The other day I found them arguing over the relative merits of cats and dogs.

"Dogs are the brainy ones. You can't lose 'em," said Andy. "No matter how far from home they go they can always get back. There aren't many cats that can do that." He paused and smiled dreamily, while those of us who were fortunate enough to be on hand at the moment, held our breaths. We feared that the argument might end there, yet we knew somehow that Andy had a story to back up his theory. His next statement, therefore, was something of a surprise.

"However," said Andy, smiling craftily, "I can tell you a story about a dog who didn't come back."

Ezra Powers, though plainly suspicious, took the statement as an acknowledgment of defeat, and smiled willingly enough. "Go on," he said, "let's hear you disprove your own theory."

So Andy, as was his custom before beginning a yarn, filled and lighted his pipe and settled himself comfortably.

This here story (began Andy) is about a dog named Tamar.

A feller named Dave Cram was Tamar's owner. Dave lived up near North Falls about 25 years ago.

A feller named Dave Cram was Tamar's owner.

Dead now, he is. Killed when a timber log rolled off a truck and crushed him. Tamar's dead, too. Died of loneliness, they say.

Anyhow, this here Tamar dog was about the smartest hound you'd want to see. Dave taught her all sorts of tricks. She would fetch home from the store in a basket. She'd shove Dave's slippers under the stove along about dark of cold winter evenings. She'd sit in the bow seat of Dave's canoe and never move a muscle while Dave shot the craft through the Upper Rapids. She'd do most anything, and most of all find her way home alone.

Tamar would follow Dave to the woods every morning and most likely roam off by herself while Dave worked with the boys at Dakins' camp. Come nightfall, Dave would return alone, always knowing that sooner or later Tamar would show up and yip to be let in.

This Dave was sort of an odd stick. Every so often he'd get a restless itch and hie himself off to Boston or Portland for a couple of days' spree. Two years after he got Tamar, such a feeling took possession of him, and nothing would do but what he'd have to go. There was, however, the problem of Tamar to consider. Dave couldn't leave the poor brute to starve, and it wouldn't do much good to ask a neighbor to take her in. For he knew Tamar would come back to the cabin and mope around and whine till Dave got back.

And so in the end Dave decided upon a plan. He'd take the dog with him as far as Gilford and board her there at a public kennel, picking her up on his return trip. Gilford, Dave figured, was far enough away so that Tamar wouldn't know her way home and, therefore wouldn't make any serious attempts to get loose.

A day or two before Dave was ready to start Tamar began to act peculiar. She seemed nervous and became whiny. Dave attributed it to the dog's intelligence. He reasoned that Tamar knew he was going away and wanted to be taken along.

Tamar did, in fact, act more contented when Dave set out and whistled for the dog to follow. They traveled by stage to Gilford, and Dave had no difficulty in locating the public kennel. He exacted a promise from the keeper of dogs to pay extra special attention to Tamar, and paid the score before departing. At the last moment he noticed that Tamar was acting restless and nervous again, and he sort of hated to leave such an intelligent animal in the hands of a strange kennel owner.

Dave was gone six days. He returned to Gilford eagerly looking forward to seeing Tamar. But Tamar was gone. The dog had, according to the keeper of the kennel, jumped the fence the second day of her imprisonment and fled.

Dave was disappointed, but he smiled. Tamar, he knew, possessed that sixth sense that would lead her home. He hoped the neighbors had fed the dog.

Late that night Dave arrived home. But Tamar was missing. And there were no signs of her having been there. The next morning Dave inquired confidently of the neighbors, only to learn that none of them had seen hide nor hair of good old Tamar.

Dave walked into the village to make further inquiries, only to meet with like answers.

By now Dave was alarmed. He loved that dog as much as most folks love their children. So he hired a rig and drove about the countryside, stopping at every house he came to. But all to no avail. Tamar had simply vanished, apparently lost while trying to find her way home.

In desperation Dave inserted an advertisement in the North Falls weekly newspaper, offering a reward. When this brought no results, he advertised in other newspapers, and felt helpless and lonely while waiting for replies. He had already looked at some 20-odd dogs, only to discover that none of them even resembled Tamar.

But at length arrived a letter which described a dog that must certainly be Tamar. Dave hastened to Painesville, the nearest town to North Falls, midway to Gilford, and looked up the sender of the letter.

The letter-writer said that a strange dog had been living in his barn for almost a month. The dog was a vicious animal, and no one had been able to approach her.

When he heard that about viciousness Dave became a little doubtful, but he went out to investigate. And the moment he stepped into the barn, he knew he'd found the lost Tamar. A dull thumping sound greeted his ears. And there was Tamar lying in a corner, her tail thumping a steady tattoo on the barn floor.

Andy paused in his narrative, and whacked his pipe against a rung of the chain on which he was sitting.

"Which proves," said Ezra Powers triumphantly, "that I'm right and you're wrong."

"Which proves," said Andy, grinning, "just the opposite. Tamar, it turned out, was a heap more intelligent than I gave her credit for. After Tamar escaped from that kennel she set out on a beeline for home, which fact is proven because Painesville lies on a direct line between North Falls and Gilford."

"And why," asked Ezra, "didn't she keep going?"

Andy grinned again. "Why, you see," he explained, "Tamar had been acting queer, and when Dave found her lying there with three small pups to care for, it explained everything, even her viciousness toward the writer of that letter."

Greeting Cards Show a Basic Social Urge

Man has always found some means by which to exchange greetings and salutations upon appropriate occasions. The papyrus salutations used by the Egyptians; the Apostle Paul's phrase "Grace to you and Peace" in his Epistles; the exchange of symbols such as gloves, garters, handkerchiefs, or bows, in the Dark Ages of Europe—all these were manifestations of this basic social urge.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the appearance in England of the first known Christmas Greeting Card. The original card is now in the possession of the British museum.

In the United States the first greeting cards were the work of a Boston lithographer, Louis Prang—an exile of the German revolution of 1848—who made the public conscious of the value of fine art reproductions. His example soon led others to venture into the field—others who first published only Christmas cards, but who soon commenced to manufacture a wide variety of types of greeting cards. Shortly after the beginning of the Twentieth century, greeting card publishers began to spring up in increasing numbers.

After the early 1920s and continuing to the present time, the public demand for more and better greeting cards has continued to grow rapidly.

Today the exchange of greeting cards is the accepted means by which millions of Americans remember their friends and loved ones, not only at Christmas, but throughout the year. And the greeting card in America, by answering in its own modern way, social needs that are age-old, is rapidly becoming indigenous to our national life.

Big Wheels

During the rainy season only vehicles with two huge wheels six to eight feet high can traverse the pampas. After a few days of rain a main road in Paraguay or the Argentine pampas will be more like a muddy river bed than a road, and only oxen are strong enough to drag a wagon through the heavy mud. To keep the axles off the ground, the wheels are made very large, and they leave ruts two feet deep. On such roads automobiles are useless.

First New "Cat" Cracker

FIRST of the new fluid catalyst refining units (shown above) which will boost the nation's supply of 100-octane aviation gasoline is in successful operation, the Standard Oil Company (N. J.) announced today. In the first ten days of operation, the new unit exceeded anticipated capacity by 20 per cent. Engineers commented that the first large scale units of such intricate design and revolutionary principle were usually subject to "children's diseases" but in this case only the mildest forms occurred and have already been remedied satisfactorily.

Success of the initial operation is of importance to the entire industry since more than 30 similar plants throughout the country are being built (about 20% by Esso refineries and the remainder by other oil companies) at a cost of well over $100,000,000. It is these same units, called fluid catalytic crackers, which the Standard Oil Company (N. J.) recently announced might be operated by a newly discovered procedure which would enable production of the anticipated volumes of 100-octane aviation gasoline and at the same time turn out a substantial volume of raw materials required for the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

All told, the fluid catalytic crackers now under construction and which are scheduled for completion in the middle of 1943 will provide a potential annual production, under the new procedure, of enough additional butylenes for 400,000 tons of Buna S rubber and 240,000 tons of Butyl rubber.

JACOB SEEKS GOD'S HELP

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 22:1-2, 27-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.—Psalm 46:1.

"O God, our help in ages past,
Our refuge in the stormy blast,
And our eternal home."
—Isaac Watts.

How true it is that "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." Jacob found it so, even though his trouble came upon him because of his own misdeeds.

God had prospered him at Haran, but in due time he was led by circumstance and by direct guidance to return to his own land (Gen. 31:1-3). Hindrances arose, but Jacob pressed on. As he came toward home, however, he recalled the sin which had caused him to flee. He remembered now how he had defrauded Esau and this:

I. Guilt Brought Fear (vv. 2-8).

It always does. The sinful act of 20 years before now faced Jacob. He had left it behind and had all but forgotten it. He had hoped that the years would cover it, but they did not—and they never do.

"Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23)—perhaps not this week or this year, or next; but until it is dealt with and forgiven it is there to rise up and plague you sooner or later.

Jacob's fear was increased by hearing that Esau came out to meet him with 400 men. He tried by his own devices to meet the situation, but ultimately realized that his predicament had reached the point where only God could help him.

How like us, trying everything else until we realize its futility, and then turning to God. How delightfully simplified life becomes when we turn to God first. Yet we are glad that Jacob's

II. Fear Brought Prayer (vv. 9-12).

It was fear prayer, too, although, as W. H. Griffith Thomas suggests, it is strange that after his blessed personal experience with God he addressed Him only as the God of his fathers and not his own God (v. 9). Then, too, his faith seemed a bit weak, for it was coupled with great fear (v. 11).

We are told that fear is not a proper motive for turning men to God. Perhaps it is not the highest motive, but both in Scripture and in experience we find it to be true that fear often leads men to God in real repentance and faith. If the goodness and grace of God do not touch man's heart, it is assuredly far better that he should be saved through fear than to be eternally lost.

Jacob, however, needed a further experience of dependence upon God before he could be brought back in peace into the land. He was led to send everyone away so that he was alone when the Lord dealt with him and

III. Prayer Brought Blessing (vv. 27-29).

Jacob, who had by deceit taken the promise from Esau instead of awaiting God's time to give it to him, was now about to attempt another skillful scheme which would have won over Esau and sent Jacob into his land glorying in his own ability. In spite of all God's dealings with him, he was still Jacob the supplanter. So God had to deal with him.

We sometimes think of the grace of God only as that which brings us blessing and joy, but often God is being most gracious and considerate of our real need by sending opposition and hardship.

The divine visitor let Jacob struggle all night, giving him a chance to submit of his own will; but when it was evident that he would not, he was shown that his own strength would not do, for he was made lame (v. 25).

The very thing which made Jacob sure of his own strength became his weakest point at the touch of God. He was not the last one to learn that lesson.

The comment of F. B. Meyer on this entire scene is most helpful: "Note that Jacob did not lay hold of this visitor, but the visitor lay hold of him. This is not a picture of a man coming to God, to wrestle with God in prayer, but a record of God coming to man, to break the spirit of stubbornness and self-sufficiency which a particular man has for too long a time habitually manifested. All right these two wrestled, the one from heaven and the one of earth, and when, at the dawn of day, Jacob saw that he could not prevail against the man, in his exhaustion and weariness he suddenly felt the touch of the stranger's hand on his thigh. Immediately his thigh was out of joint, rendering him absolutely helpless. But now Jacob realized that the one with whom he had wrestled all night was a divine person; and, whereas early in the night he was held in the grip of the other, now he refused to release his grasp of the visitor until he received a blessing from him."

VOTE FOR JUDGE JAMES E. BOYLAN, JR. and keep in office a tried, able, just and fearless Judge

An Editorial

Judge William Henry Forsythe, Jr.

Judge Forsythe has been an associate judge of Anne Arundel, Howard and Carroll Counties since December, 1907, and until he was appointed Chief Judge in February, 1941, to fill the vacancy in the Court of Appeals of Maryland caused by the retirement of former Chief Judge Francis Neal Parke. Consequently, the term of Judge Forsythe will expire on December, 1942, unless he is renominated and elected. His opponent is Associate Judge Ridgely P. Melvin, of Annapolis, who was elected in 1938 to a fifteen year term which will expire in 1953.

Judge Melvin has not resigned as Associate Judge, but continues to hold his office as Associate Judge so that if defeated in his candidacy for the nomination as Chief Judge he will continue as an Associate Judge until the expiration of his term in 1953. On the other hand, if he defeats Judge Forsythe in the primary and is elected this November, there will be a vacancy and a new Associate Judge will be appointed until the next general election after 1942.

The possibility of such an undesirable situation arising is the least of the reasons for the renomination and election of Judge Forsythe, whose record has established him in the respect, confidence and esteem of this Judicial Circuit. He has been a faithful and diligent judge. Patient, though firm, considerate and impartial, he has deservedly won an enviable reputation as a Judge for fair and high repute. He is thus known to the people of Carroll County, and is so regarded throughout this Judicial Circuit.

As set forth in an editorial published in "The Ellicott City Times" of May 28, 1942:

"At the time of his appointment as Chief Judge and a member of the Court of Appeals, which was after the election of Judge Melvin in 1938 as Associate Judge the ability, integrity and capacity of Judge Forsythe made his selection so obvious and desirable that he received the unanimous endorsement of every member of the Bars of Anne Arundel, Carroll and Howard Counties, and the executive sanction of Governor O'Connor, whose judgment had the general approval of the electorate.

The well-founded expectations of his judicial qualifications have been fulfilled by the career of Judge Forsythe in the Court of Appeals. Courteous, dignified, impartial and fair, his long experience as Associate Judge, his knowledge of the law, his firm grasp of its principles and his consistent and unswerving devotion to their wise enforcement have made him a valuable addition to the Court of Appeals.

At the general election in 1942, seven of the eight members of the Court of Appeals will be up for election. There is no certainty how many of these will be elected. At no time since the Constitution of 1867 has it been more imperative from the standpoint of the public interest and of a sound public policy for an able and experienced judge to be supported and retained in the Court of Appeals in order to assure the preservation of an unbroken continuity of judicial procedure and tradition in that eminent tribunal. While it is true Judge Forsythe will be seventy years old in May, 1944, nevertheless his services to this Circuit and the State will never be more valuable than during this fateful period.

The fact that Judge Melvin is a younger man gives point to the wisdom of having the junior wait on the wisdom and experience of greater years and experience."

In these sentiments the Democratic Advocate fully concurs. It is, moreover, a notable circumstance that in their endorsement of Judge Melvin's rival candidacy, the members of the Bar of Anne Arundel County, who participated in that endorsement, were constrained by the facts to set forth in their document their recognition of Judge Forsythe's distinguished career "both as Associate and Chief Judge" and their appreciation of his judicial services.

In this estimate Judge Ridgely P. Melvin fully concurred. In this reply of January 28th., 1942, to the endorsement of his Bar, Judge Melvin concluded the announcement of his candidacy with this sentence: "I would like, however, to express my hearty accord, especially, with the tribute given Judge Forsythe in the Resolution."

So, it is of record that there is no sound reason nor public interest to be served by the defeat of Judge Forsythe, whose long experience on the Bench makes it all the more desirable that the Court of Appeals continue to profit by his ripe and rich judicial attainments.

On these grounds, this paper considers it of great public concern that Judge Forsythe be nominated and elected. In this conclusion, it is supported by those great newspapers, whose opportunities for knowledge of conditions and whose wisdom in judgment are far superior to this journal. In its issue of June 16, 1942, The Baltimore Sun has a leading editorial which, in its closing paragraph, declares.

"the public will save the court from unnecessary confusion and will preserve experience in office by electing the sitting members, Chief Judge Bond's election in Baltimore will be taken as a matter of course. In the counties, Judge Collins, FORSYTHE, and Marbury, Democrats, and Judge Sloan and Delaplaine, Republicans, should be elected without regard to party line."

An editorial in the Evening Sun of June 16th. voiced the same conclusion.

Aside from the ambition of Associate Judge Melvin immediately to displace Chief Judge Forsythe to the disadvantage of the State, the only basis remaining is the contention that there should be no further delay in having the Chief Judge a resident of Anne Arundel County. The residence of a judge adds no judicial attribute.

The Democratic Advocate has too high a regard for the intelligence and public spirit of the voters of Anne Arundel County to entertain the supposition that they would let their desire to have the Chief Judge a resident of their own County prevail over their duty to act in the public interest with reference to the selection of a member of the Court of Appeals of Maryland.

It is our opinion that after reflection, the voters of Anne Arundel County and of Howard County, as well as of Carroll County, will agree with this paper that they can serve the Fifth Judicial Circuit and the State of Maryland best by voting in the primary for Chief Judge William H. Forsythe, Jr. and thereby assure his experience and wisdom to the Court of Appeals of Maryland.
