This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, persons, and such matters as may be of community interest.

Churches, Lodges, Societies, Schools, etc. are requested to use our Special Notice Department for money-making events. Churches are especially given free use of our Church Notice Column, for brief notices concerning regular or special services. Large events will be cared for elsewhere in our columns.

The attention of persons interested in bowling is called to the program and prizes published on Page 3.

Miss Myrtle Morris and Miss Nell Hess, of Baltimore, spent the week with Mr. Elmer Hess and daughters.

Mrs. Edwin Baumgardner returned home on Monday from the Frederick Hospital, and is getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anders and son Robert David, spent the weekend at the Forney home with the children.

The Presbyterian Berean Bible Class will meet at the home of Mrs. Nettie Angell, Tuesday evening, Sept. 22nd, at 7:30 P. M.

Miss Catherine Carbaugh, of Baltimore, is spending her week's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carbaugh.

Miss Grace Witherow, of Washington, D. C., spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. J. W. Witherow, W. Baltimore Street.

Mrs. Norman Reindollar, spent from Friday until Tuesday with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baumgardner, in Baltimore.

Mrs. Harry Shirk who returned from the Frederick City Hospital, several weeks ago is still confined to bed at the home of her mother, Mrs. Vernon Crouse.

John Elliot who recently accepted a position in the office of the Koppers Co., Baltimore, spent the previous weekend with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Francis T. Elliot.

T. Sgt. James A. Boyd, 104th. A. B. S. N. Span State Armory, Atlantic City, N. J., spent Monday and Tuesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Boyd, Mill Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Forney, of Puerto Rico, announce the birth of a daughter weighing 6 lbs., named Sharron Felisa, August 27. The name Felisa means Phyllis in Spanish.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Brown, Kane, Pa., spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wantz. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brown and Miss Pauline Hess, of Waynesboro, Pa.

Taney Rebeckah Lodge No. 83, will hold their annual scrap social, Monday evening, Sept. 21. The Noble Grand requests all members to be present; also bring something to help make this social a success.

Edward Reid, who had previously been deferred, has passed his final examination, and is now at home enjoying his two week's furlough. He will eventually be sent to Camp Lee, Va., one of the distributing camps of this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith entertained to dinner, on Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cessna, Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. George Harner and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Fair. The occasion was the 25th. wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Cessna.

Those visiting Private Roland Forney, at Hadden Hall Hospital, Atlantic City, N. J., over Saturday and Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. David Forney, Miss Katherine Crumbacker, Mr. Kenneth Frock and Mr. Kenneth Smith. Pvt. Forney is looking and feeling fine and expects to go on light work this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mehring, daughter, Betty, son Jimmy, of Silver Spring, Md., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Baumgardner and Mrs. D. M. Mehring, on Sunday. Mrs. Mehring accompanied them to Silver Spring where she will spend some time with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mehring.

Pvt. Francis T. Elliot, Jr., visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Francis T. Elliot on Sunday. At present he is working in the Reception Center as a Preliminary Interviewer at Camp Ft. George G. Meade. He likes army life and says his only regret is that he did not enter the service sooner. In interviewing a colored soldier he asked: "Have you lived in the U. S. all of your life?"—to which the soldier replied, "No. I lived down in North Carolina for two years."

A letter received by Mr. and Mrs. John J. Reid, Detroit, Michigan, from Cyril L. Reid, their son, stating that he is pleased with his assignment at Camp Buckley, Colorado, where he is attending Technical School, in ground work, in the Air Corps, with the view of becoming an instructor in that branch of his country's service. Army life is not new to him as he served two and a half years as Supply Sergeant in the National Guard, a few years ago. Ferris A. Reid, Jr., son of the late Ferris A. Reid, is in the Navy, and is stationed at the Great Lakes Training Station, Illinois.

FUTURE BLACKOUTS

Will be Unannounced and Held Shortly.

Army approval of Maryland's plan for unannounced air raid daylight and night blackouts is expected within the next several days.

As soon as the approval is received, surprise tests may be called at any time in the day or night, according to Col. Henry S. Barrett, director of air-raid precautions.

Time and date of the surprise tests will be set by the First Fighter Command with headquarters in Philadelphia and will not be known by any State or local defense officials, Col. Barrett said.

According to present plans, the procedure in ordering the tests will follow the same channels that would be used in the event of an actual raid.

Daylight alerts will last for fifteen minutes while night blackouts will continue for thirty minutes, according to present plans.

Colonel Barrett said he has received reports from practically all local civilian defense directors in the State signifying that they are ready for surprise tests at any time.

CHILDREN'S AID MEET

The Second Quarterly Board Meeting of the Carroll County Children's Aid Society was held Monday, Sept. 14, at 2:00 P. M. in the committee room at the City Hall. There was a fine representation of District Chairmen and board members in spite of tire and gasoline shortage. Mrs. Frank T. Myers, presided. In the absence of the regular secretary, Mrs. Samuel Bare served as secretary pro tem. Following the regular order of business, Miss Custerbender read her service report. She also gave a verbal report of the Victory Garden Project sponsored by the Westminster Kiwanis Club for the children under the care of the Children's Aid Society. Seventeen children took part in the contest for the best Victory garden, all of which were quite successful. A number of prizes were awarded, the first prize being $3.00, and each child received $1.00 for participating. It was a very worth while project.

Reports were made by Mrs. L. Bennett, chairman of the Case Committee, Mrs. Harry Ditman, Chm. of the repair committee, and Mrs. Carroll Shunk, Chm. of the visiting committee.

The rest of the meeting was given over to making plans for the annual financial campaign which will be conducted October 5 to 17. State's Attorney, Donald C. Sponseller has consented to serve again this year as campaign chairman. Serving with him are Mrs. Samuel Bare, Mrs. Carroll Shunk, Mr. Ralph Hoffman, Henry Ackley, Mrs. David Taylor, Mrs. Pearce Wantz, Jr.

The campaign will have its formal opening on Saturday, October 3, at the Westminster Riding Club at which time chairman, solicitor, foster parents, and children, and interested friends will meet for campaign material, instructions, inspiration and entertainment. The committee for arrangements for this meeting will be Mrs. John Bennett, Mrs. Gloyd Lynch, Mrs. Edward Diffendal and Miss Madeline Shriver.

It was decided to dispense with the December meeting due to gas and tire rationing. Therefore plans for the Christmas projects will be made at the campaign outing meeting.

Mr. Norman Hess, County Commissioner and Board members of the CAS, made a few remarks in which he praised the work of the Children's Aid and said that in these troubled times it was really the work of such organizations as the Children's Aid that formed the first line of defense.

LETTER FROM A FORMER TANEYTOWN RESIDENT

The Carroll Record Co.

Gentlemen: Enclosed find check for $1.00 in payment on my subscription for another year, which makes it more than 35 since I left the old home town. I just can't get along without it. Sincerely,

Fire Company News

The Company met in regular monthly session Monday night.

The Company has outlined a course of training for all members of the Company. All firemen are to report at the Firemen Hall on Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. The training is to continue each week until all members are fully trained.

The Company will have an expert from the Hale Pump Factory here to make a complete check up on all equipment, and to instruct the company on pumping under every condition.

The Chief reported three fire calls during the last month, the ambulance committee reported seven calls during last month.

All active firemen are to be fingerprinted tonight (Friday) at 8 o'clock in the Firemen's Building.

Mrs. Edwards was brought home from Gettysburg Hospital in the Company ambulance. Mrs. Edgar Sell was removed from Dr. McVaugh's local hospital to her home in the Company ambulance.

All Firemen remember, 7 o'clock at the Firemen's Hall, Tuesday night.

LETTER WRITTEN

BY JOHN J. REID

While Visiting in Taneytown Among Relatives and Friends

Having plenty of time on hand, and not being able to get around very well, I have decided to inflict another letter on my friends who are readers of the Record, and on the Editor. May be a little description of the trip in here would interest some of you, so I will see what I can do in that line.

Having decided to come, with my physician's consent, we boarded the crack train of the P. R. R.—the Red Arrow, on Thursday evening, and landed at "home" on Friday morning, after a pleasant, but not very exciting journey. We were unfortunately in not being able to obtain a train, from which we would have been able to view the beautiful scenery in the Pennsylvania mountains or the rolling plains of Ohio, as our train carried us through these places at night.

I had been over this route before, in 1920, and so could tell just about how it looked, but Marlin, who had made the trip both ways, at night, missed it all. But, as I said before, I am here, among my many friends, and am mighty glad to be so fortunate, as although I have been living in the great city of Detroit for 25 years, I still have a warm spot in my heart for this fine old town. I just want to say that it looks more attractive every time I am fortunate enough to pay it a visit.

I want to tell you a little more about conditions in my home city. We have a number of problems to solve that you folks in small towns do not have to face—such as the housing, race and government situations. Just at present, owing to the war, and the fact that it is the newest of them all, the first is about as serious as any thing that has turned up for a long time. Our population has increased 400,000 the past year. People from every section of the country have been coming in, attracted by the work which is so easily obtained in the war plants, and the high wages paid. Houses are so hard to obtain that it is almost impossible to rent even a tent. And the rent ceiling and the difficulty they run into for materials, cause contractors to pause before they venture to build much. I do not know what a great many people will do when winter comes, as conditions will surely get worse then.

And there is the race question—and that is something for specialists in a social economy to study out. A few years after we came to Detroit, I predicted that some day this would cause trouble, but I never expected that this trouble would reach the proportions that it has now assumed. Our colored population has now reached such an immense number that I am sure it now exceeds that of Baltimore or Washington, and I am sorry to be compelled to say that it is not of the best in character. It seems that when a colored family comes up from the South, it does not care to mix with the colored people already here, nor do those who have been here some time, care to mix with them. The next thing they do is to try to settle in the midst of a white neighborhood, and when that happens, you can look out for trouble. I personally sympathize with the colored people in their struggle to exist, but I feel that when you mix races socially, you run into trouble and plenty of it, too. Our present Government, however, both Federal and State, seems to be on their side, probably on account of the value of their votes, especially at this time, and no one can tell what the outcome will be. Years ago, before electric and gasoline trucks came into such general use, manufacturers welcomed colored labor, but that time has passed, and now such labor is now a drug on the market.

I guess that government in large cities is all alike. There are good and bad officials everywhere, and I guess that Detroit is no worse than cities of our size elsewhere, only that out here their sins have caught up with them, and the size of the population in the penitentiaries has been appreciably increased the past year. At present, we are most concerned about the time our boys will be called to the training camps, and I assure you that they are going about as fast as they can be called. The draft boards do not seem to make any distinction between married and single men, or between those who are physically able to serve and those who are badly disabled. But this is war, and the sooner we realize it, the better we will be able to take what is coming, and I fear that is plenty.

I want to repeat a little of what I said in my letter last week. I have met so many old and new friends that I am almost convinced that everybody knows me. And do not for a moment think that I do not appreciate the many kind wishes both myself and family have received from almost everyone. If I cannot get around as much as I did on my former visits, please apply it to the fact that my physical condition does not enable me to do so, much as I would like to accept the many invitations I have received to make a visit to your homes. I do not know how long I will be with you, but rest assured that I will never forget the many kindnesses that have been shown me, on this, which may prove to be my last visit to the town where I spent the greater part of my long life.

SERVICE MEN LETTERS

Containing Thanks for Kits Given Them.

With our apologies to Private Francis T. Elliot, Jr., for having crowded his letter of acknowledgment to the Community Soldiers Kit Project, in our last issue, we are reprinting his letter as it was received by us:

Community Soldier's Kit Project
Taneytown, Maryland
Dear Members:

Before I enlisted in the service I heard a good bit about the Soldier's Kit being distributed to the boys from Taneytown and vicinity. I considered it a worthy project which showed thoughtfulness and patriotism. Now that I am the proud owner of one of these kits, I can fully realize the value of all of the articles included and the true significance it carries. It gives the soldier not only confidence in the folks back home but also arouses a spirit within himself and a loyalty to the cause for which he is preparing to fight.

I extend my heartfelt appreciation to you who have devoted your time and resources to provide this gift.

Sincerely,
PVT. FRANCIS T. ELLIOT, JR.,
Co. E, 1302 Service Unit
Fort George G. Meade, Md.

To The Carroll Record Office:

In reference to The Carroll Record paper, being sent complimentary to me by its publishers. I wish to thank members on the Staff, for their part in the publication. Receiving the Record while being in camp, (away from all of the town's news) helps inform me of the community's progress and achievements.

I would like to relay my acknowledgement of appreciation to those who, indirectly contribute to the support of this paper by having advertisements published. Hoping, the Record will continue to publish educational and interesting information in the future as it has in the past.

PVT. CHARLES M. FREALING, 387th. Engr. Bn. (Sep.)
Company "A"
Fort George G. Meade, Md.

I am starting my technical training next week, and will be stationed here for from three to six months. Again, may I thank you for sending me the Record. Your for democracy,

PVT WM. R. SELL, A. C.

COUNTY PASTOR RESIGNS

Rev. Robert W. Renkel, pastor of the Hampstead Lutheran Church, who has several times been a visitor at Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, has submitted his resignation as pastor to accept the unanimous call of the recently organized Ascension Evangelical Lutheran Church of Wiltondale, Baltimore. Mr. Renkel was installed as pastor of the Hampstead Parish on June 2, 1940. Mr. Renkel has been actively interested in the youth of the community and has made many friends among them. His address as of October 1st, will be 7005 York Road, Wiltondale, Baltimore, Md.

CORN CUTTING PARTY

Friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keefer, near town, last Saturday and assisted in cutting their corn crop. Mr. Keefer has been quite ill in the past.

Those present were: Monroe Wantz, John Price, Thomas Mason, Mr. Smith, John Harner, Wesley Shoemaker, Louis Keepers, Walter Hiltebrink, Fred Smith, Ellis Glass and Lee Stambaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Keefer were very appreciative of this fine deed.

GOVERNOR O'CONOR SAYS:

We dare not take victory for granted. We dare not minimize the long months of struggle and sacrifice that probably lie ahead.

You people know the cost that humanity has suffered to achieve law and order and justice. Our individual lives are but little when projected against that frightful cost. To dedicate them now to the maintenance of these values, to make our daily tasks more fruitful, even though more burdensome, is but little to ask and less to give.

Determine what you can do now—and then do it well. Your local Council of Defense is ready to help you—to help your country.

SUNSHINE AND LAUGHTER

A little bit of sunshine
A little bit of rain
Will keep the grass growing Likewise the golden grain.

A little bit of laughter,
A smile as we pass by,
Will make all others happy—
Don't believe it? Well just try.

THE WEEK OF WAR REPORTS.

Departments' and Boards' Activities.

All motorists in the non-rational areas of the country were asked by Price Administrator Henderson to observe the same rules in using their cars that are enforced in the rationed Eastern area, as a means of conserving rubber tires until a national gasoline rationing plan can be put into effect. He said it will be several weeks before coupon ration books can be printed to carry out the nationwide gas rationing recommended by the Baruch Rubber Committee. Unless the nation's 27,000,000 motorists cut their driving "to the bone," Mr. Henderson said, "we're likely to coast right into Hitler's lap."

The White House issued a chart prepared by the Society of Automotive Engineers showing that the normal life of a tire is doubled when the average driving speed is reduced from 40 to 20 miles an hour, or from 50 to 30 miles an hour. The President said he thought the chart should be brought to the attention of the country as a persuasive argument for slow driving.

The Baruch Rubber Committee recommended that motorists be curtailed to a general average of 5,000 miles a year. The committee also recommended a national speed limit of 35 miles an hour and compulsory periodic tire inspection. Complete reorganization of Government agencies concerned with the rubber program and appointment of a Rubber Administrator with full responsibility for conservation and synthetic production programs were also recommended. Additional rubber must be released to fully maintain essential civilian driving, reclaiming operations must be stepped up, and to increase synthetic production, the committee recommended immediate expansion of plant capacity for Buna S, butadiene, neoprene and alcohol, and elimination of any further substitution in plans for synthetic production. The President told his press conference virtually all of the Committee's recommendations except gasoline rationing will be put into effect immediately.

Gen. MacArthur's Australian headquarters reported Allied forces have

REDUCE SPEED—AID THE WAR EFFORT

Motorists throughout the state are being urged by the Automobile Club of Maryland not to sabotage the war effort by excessive speed.

Following reports that many drivers are exceeding the 40 miles an hour maximum requested by President Roosevelt and Governor Herbert R. O'Connor to conserve tires and gasoline, the Automobile Club of Maryland has asked the voluntary cooperation of all motorists to work together to prevent sabotage by speed.

Twelve states have already reduced speed limits to 40 miles, while the Governors of ten others have publicly pledged cooperation with the Presidential appeal on a voluntary basis. Highway patrol officers in two other states stop motorists traveling in excess of 40 miles per hour, and cite them for reckless or unsafe driving if they find upon examination mechanical imperfections in the car, or bad tires.

"While surveys show an increasing response by motorists to the appeal, legislative action is regarded as necessary to make the speed reduction effort fully effective for all drivers." Such action cannot be taken until the next session of the General Assembly in 1943. The majority of motorists, according to Percy M. Burke, Westminster Branch Manager of the Club, are complying voluntarily, but there are many who ignore the importance of reduced speed in the tire conservation program.

"Observance of the 40-mile-per-hour speed 'ceiling' is an important plank in the state-wide 'Drive for Victory' motor vehicle conservation program being conducted by the Automobile Club in connection with many civic organizations.

"Speed has always been the major cause of traffic accidents; it has always been wasteful to the point of profligacy; today, with shortages in practically all of the items necessary for automobiles operation and with the necessity for conserving materials vital to the war effort, excessive speed has become nothing less than unpatriotic.

"Slower speeds will result in direct money economics, in extending the life of your car. At high speeds you use twice as much gasoline and seven times as much oil to cover the same distance as would be required at lower speeds. At high speeds you waste over half of the potential mileage in your tires—now more precious than gold.

"You will find that slowing down in driving will help you to maintain a degree of calmness and composure so necessary in these times of wild rumors and war-jitters. Everyone should be working at the utmost peak of effort to aid the war effort, but that does not include frantic and purposeless scurrying to and fro. Take it easy when driving and save your nerve energy for more important tasks."

"Invest the savings, effected by slower speeds, in additional War Bonds and Stamps."

DR. R. S. McVAUGH

Called to Service with Our Fighting Forces.

Dr. R. S. McVaugh, local physician, has been called for service with the armed forces and expects to close his office September 29 or 30th. Dr. McVaugh came to Taneytown in June, 1939, and has had his office on East Baltimore Street since that time. His equipment will be left here and he plans to return and resume his practice immediately after he is discharged.

The shortage of doctors in the various services is serious and is becoming more so as these services enlarge to include so many millions of our boys. This shortage is being met by offering commissions to the younger, physically fit doctors. Those who do not accept these commissions are then subject to the regular draft. It has been estimated that all physically fit doctors under the age of 45 will be in some government service before the end of the war. Although this will inconvenience many of the "folks back home," the boys doing the actual fighting must, at all cost, be adequately cared for.

Dr. McVaugh, on being offered a commission, asked for duty with the Navy and expects to be assigned to either the U. S. Coast Guard or the U. S. Maritime Service. He does not know at this time where he will be sent.

Mrs. McVaugh will accompany the doctor if he is sent to a station where quarters are obtainable. Otherwise she expects to return to duty as a private nurse.

Random Thoughts

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

ABLE—AND WILLING

Ability and willingness are often closely associated, but yet frequently wide apart. We may be "able" to do something, but if "willingness" and action do not accompany ability, failure appears.

We may be fully "able" to pay our debts, or care for ourselves without help, but if we fail in performance, the debt remains unpaid.

The will, mind and body, represent a valuable trio, but they must co-operate in order to produce desirable results. The most of our falsifying is accompanied by the absence of one or the other of the trio.

At times, mere laziness steps in without much invitation on our part because we are easily susceptible to it, and ready with an "if" of some sort, by way of poor excuse.

Be watchful of the "able" fellow, who is liberal with talk but shy with performance, for "actions speak louder than words." We may be as strong as a horse, but as balky as a mule, or as deceitful as a Delilah. P. B. E.

THE "WHY" OF SCRAP

As furnaces are roaring to produce more steel for tanks, planes and guns Uncle Sam's scrap pile is rapidly diminishing. The need for scrap and more scrap is becoming daily more critical.

It might be asked why in this land of plenty, with its huge deposits of iron ore, there is such an urgent and unprecedented demand for scrap iron and steel. There are good reasons. Steel is made of scrap and pig iron—metal melted from iron ore. Even in normal times scrap supplies about one half the raw material for steel production—and the reason behind it is that scrap contains much valuable alloy material which is recovered in steel production. With the shortage in critical materials—such as nickel, tungsten, chromium and other metals needed for the many types of alloy for the production of weapons—such recovery becomes all the more imperative. Too, while there is abundant ore available for the production of pig iron, much labor and extensive transportation facilities are needed to mine, purify and transport the ore to the steel mills.

These are only a few reasons why scrap collection of the ferrous metals and other materials is essential to war production. The salvaging of scrap is a job for every man, woman and child in America. We must dig—and dig deep—in the "mine-above-the-ground," the rich reserve of junk which wasteful America has accumulated through the years. Those mining operations may well determine whether and how soon—we will win the war!

Beginning Friday, September 25th, 1942, Taneytown will officially open its drive of Salvage of Junk. Every one is urged to begin now to be on the lookout for any old metal, rubber, etc., and collect same and have it ready for collection.

The Minute Men of Taneytown will sponsor this drive and as our country needs the scrap we ask everyone to cooperate in this fine undertaking.

STILL EXPANDING

Frequent reference has been made by us and by publications of much wider circulation, to the ever increasing number of persons on the government pay roll. Just now our attention is called to this by a news item sent out by the Scottish Rite News Bureau, as follows:

"The size of the federal pay roll is an elastic item, but in ten years its elasticity has been tested for expansion and not contraction. When President Herbert Hoover went out of office on March 4, 1933, there were over 69,000 civilian employees on the government pay roll in the District of Columbia. Today there are close to 250,000. In the Coolidge Administration there were about 750,000 civilian employees for the country and its territories as a whole. When World War II started in September, 1939, there were approximately 900,000 civilian employees, but at the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor there were 1,560,000. Today, the total has reached 2,300,000, and Civil Service officials say that they would not be surprised if it should reach 3,000,000 within another year.

A breakdown of the figures shows that today the War Department is employing as many civilians as the entire Government did three years ago. The figures for June and July, 1942, show that there was a net increase each month of around 100,000 civilian employees. The term "net" needs clarification. The Civil Service Commission placed 197,000 employees in June and 213,364 in July. But about half of these were replacements for resignations.

Those employees in the government agencies transferred from Washington to other cities, in order to save office space in the Capital and ease the housing shortage there, are still under Departmental Service. While additional agencies may be transferred out of Washington, it is expected that more than 50,000 workers will be brought to the Capital during the coming year, thus further complicating the housing and transportation problems of the District of Columbia and nearby Maryland and Virginia areas. Applications for government positions have been averaging almost one million per month.

There are a good many citizens who feel that the work of the government departments could be done as well with about half the present number of employees.

We fully agree that the vast number of persons, many of them with hardly anything to do, hinders rather than helps us to "win the war." This is true in many departments, particularly in the Department of Agriculture. It would be fine if a lot were sent out to cut off corn for farmers whose sons have been taken away for army, navy or air service.

PREPARE NOW

America must be prepared to feed the world. War torn and poverty stricken Europe will require a generation to adjust itself even though the war is now, and it is not likely to stop now and may last for several years. War feeds itself on the hates and grudges of the participants as it proceeds, and I think that is right. If we hated a little more we would naturally fight a little harder. It is pure nonsense to talk of loving your enemies who are destroying your home and slaying the members of your family. You may love them, I hate the beasts. Hitler can be crushed and Japan defeated, but neither of these things will happen soon, so get ready for a long war and a costly war.

Much will depend on the American farmer. He must feed our own people, our armed forces, and the starving world, and he may be depended upon to do it, and he doesn't need tricky politicians in high places to feed him taffy or give him graft, to do so. He is a man, upstanding and patriotic to the core. Trust him, he will help us win the war. After the war is over it is going to be a different world to live in.

If England has the gumption to grant Dominion status to India and other possessions—she may hold her Empire, but freedom is in the wind and most of these colonies will demand to be free and independent, just as our own colonies did before we won our liberty.

England is a great country and her citizens have a patriotic loyalty not found elsewhere. Aside from our narrow partisanship I believe, on the whole, American (at least those who think) are, if anything, more patriotic than the British.

We are in this war up to our ears, and each of the 133 million of us must be wholehearted for victory. Win we must, win we will, for we have the "will" to win.

REMINDER TO LAYMEN

One of the esteemed ladies of Taneytown has handed in the poem below. It is not new, but is a good selection and comes from a good group of laymen.

While we are thinking day and night about war, it will do us good to remember that we can not get along without the church, and that we ought to keep the church active and aggressive.

IS THIS THE ANSWER—

Leave it to the ministers, and soon the church will die;
Leave it to the women folks—the young will pass it by:

For the church is all that lifts us from the coarse and selfish mob
And the church that is to prosper needs the layman on the job.

Now a layman has his business and a layman has his joys.
But he also has the training of the little girls and boys
And I wonder how he'd like it if there were no churches here,
And he had to raise his children in a godless atmosphere?

Its the churches special function to uphold the finer things
To teach that way of living from which all that's noble springs.
But the minister can't do it single handed and alone,
For the laymen of the country are the churches corner stone.

When you see a church that's empty, though its doors are open wide
Its not a church that's dying; its the laymen that (who) have died.
For its not by song or sermon that the churches work is done.
Its the laymen of the country who for God must carry on.—Compliments of the Washington, Pa., District Laymen.

We do not know whether the good lady had in mind particularly the laymen of the Taneytown churches or not, but we know a lot of fellows who ought to take the hint.

100,000 WAYS TO WIN THE WAR

How America's inventors are thinking up tricks to beat the Axis and, while some of the ideas seem crazy, they may show the way to bring defeat to our enemies. Look for this fascinating illustrated feature in the September 27th issue of The American Weekly the big Magazine distributed with the Baltimore Sunday American. On sale at all newsstands.

"PRIORITY"

We have a new word in our dictionary, a word that is on everyone's lips, that comes into every conversation, that hangs over every purchase, that is taking an unprecedented part in our daily lives. It is the word "priority."

Just what does priority mean? The answer is very simple. Priority is simply putting first things first.

As a nation and as individuals, we have one job today—the job of winning this war. This must come before anything else, because, if we don't win it, there won't be anything else. And defeat would be unthinkable to any of us.

The quicker we win the war, the sooner can we return to the way of life we want to live, to the full enjoyment of the advantages and happinesses of the democratic way of life. The quicker we win it, the sooner can our factories revert to the production of those things which make life easier and more enjoyable. The quicker we win it, the sooner will our boys come home, our families live again as families should, in peace and prosperity, free from fear, free to plan again for the future.

Here is where priority comes in. Priority means that we must put the war effort first. We must ask ourselves before we buy anything, whether or not it is essential. We must use our money for war bonds, not for luxuries. War bonds have priority on all spare cash—and spare cash means all that is not needed for bare living expenses. We must remember that non-essentials not only take money, but they take man-power to make and transport; they take space needed for war materials; they use up steel and rubber and gas to move them from place to place. Luxuries do not have priority. They are "out"—for the duration.

Priority means that we must work hard at those things which are essential. In industry, if we have the strength. In civilian defense, and other volunteer war tasks, if we cannot give all our time. We must remember that there is priority on our ability to work, and because of that priority we must keep fit and ready to do our share.

Priority means that we have no time to indulge in hatred, prejudice or discrimination, or in the spreading of ill-feeling toward any group of our fellow citizens. All of our energies, mental as well as physical, must be devoted to the one end of winning the war quickly. There is no priority on personal dislikes and morale-sapping grudges—and above all, in passing on subversive rumors. There is no priority on careless talk.

Lets not cavil at the discomforts of priorities. Let's use the word for what it is—a help in winning this war speedily. We can win it, if we bend every effort to the task—and if we put first things first.—By Ruth Taylor.

PRICE STABILITY FOLLOWS WAGE STABILITY

There are two basic fallacies in our present tax policy. First, it does not spread the tax burden equitably through all classes of industries and individuals. Second, it fails almost completely in coming to grips with the problem of high and rising industrial wages. And big wages, unless they are largely absorbed by taxation of one kind or another, will continue to represent the most inflationary influence of the time.

A commentator recently observed that a large part, if not all, of the additional revenue which the pending tax bill seeks to raise, will be consumed by the increase in the cost of war materials resulting from increases in wages, and the payment of time-and-a-half for overtime work. About six months ago, it was estimated that overtime pay alone would add about $5,000,000,000 to the cost of the war program on the basis of appropriations then requested or authorized for war production but not yet spent. Since that time, a number of labor groups have been given substantial pay jumps.

The powers-that-be talk a great deal about the necessity of absorbing, through taxation, the vast amount of excess purchasing power that war spending has created. Yet the plain fact is that they impose the bulk of the tax burden on industries and individuals who in many cases have not profited at all from the war. Great beneficiaries of war spending are the high-wage groups—and it is these groups, possessors of billions in excess purchasing power, which have barely been tapped by the tax collector. Our lawmakers still refuse to face the facts.—Industrial News Review.

SEAMEN HEROES

Appreciation of the heroic service which merchant seamen have been rendering throughout the years of the war is at last taking tangible form. The turning over of the Kermit Roosevelt Oyster Bay Estate for use as a convalescent home for seamen survivors of torpedoing is a step in the direction of meeting a long-felt need.

Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt's words: "It is no sacrifice. We are profoundly conscious that it is a privilege," will find an echo in the heart of every participant in the program of the newly formed United Seamen's Service. The program, to be financed by the shipping industry, seamen, and friends, includes the establishment of fifteen rehabilitation homes as well as clubhouses, recreational facilities, canteen and other services. All of which are richly deserved by the men who are constantly braving submarine infested seas to carry supplies so desperately needed by the fighting Allies.

It is welcome news, too, that plans are being made both in the United States and abroad, to set up service clubs in every seaport of the United Nations. Thus not Americans and British alone, but Polish, Dutch, Greek, Norwegian, and seamen of other nations, who have been carrying on so courageously far from their homelands, will be benefited. And from London comes word that awards formerly bestowed on members of the fighting forces exclusively are now open to merchant seamen. That is as it should be.—Christian Science Monitor.

OPPORTUNITY

Mrs. Smythe-Brown was making the final arrangements for her elaborate reception.

"Bridget," she said to her old servant, "for the first 30 minutes after six o'clock I want you to stand at the drawing-room and call guests' names as they arrive."

"Very well, ma'am," Bridget replied. "I've been wantin' to do that to some of your friends for years."

Youngster, Aged 14, Is

Professional Magician

PITTSBURGH.—Gilbert Daniels, 14, youngest professional magician in this area, is the envy of all the neighborhood kids.

For Gilbert can pull rabbits out of hats, read minds, and do most everything the older mystics have done.

A protege of his magic-minded scoutmaster, Kenneth Dietz, Gilbert inherited the honor of being the youngest magic-maker when his teacher was inducted into the army.

The youth had been acting as assistant to Dietz, performing as drummer, chalk-talk artist, and proving an apt pupil in rope-twirling, mind-reading and dramatics. He also designed most of the apparatus used in the act, making it in his manual training class at Swissvale high school.

When he was drafted, Dietz left most of his magic equipment in care of his protege. The boy, during his five years in the magic "business" has acted as assistant at over 100 performances Dietz has given.

He is the youngest member of Mystic 52, Pittsburgh Musicians club, and has already attended a convention of the International Brotherhood of Magicians at Cincinnati.

How To Keep Cool Healthfully

By BETTY BARCLAY

Do you know why that "tired feeling" in hot weather? It's not only the heat and humidity, but too little liquid of the right kind. And, of course, fatigue is the first sign of vitamin C shortage. Not only must vitamin C be included in the daily diet because it cannot be stored in the body, but exposure to high temperatures causes more rapid loss of it from body tissues. When you perspire, you are losing vitamin C rapidly.

That's why with the first signs of warm weather, lemonade takes its place as a favorite "cooling drink." Not only is this beverage actually cooling, it's healthful refreshment as well. Lemons are a foremost source of vitamin C, which definitely counteracts fatigue.

That's why, too, that industrial workers are turning more and more to lemonade in their lunch box thermos bottles and for their mid-morning and mid-afternoon refreshment.

Lemonade makes it easy to drink large quantities of liquid to supply the moisture lost by the body through increased perspiration and also to supply needed vitamin C. Fatigue usually means lowered vitamin C reserve, especially when the weather is sizzling hot; so, for a pepper-upper, it's no wonder lemonade heads the beverage popularity list in so many different age groups.

Tart lemonade increases the flow of saliva and, according to authorities, that is an explanation for its great thirst-quenching qualities. With the curtailment of many beverages, this year's plentiful supply of lemons for old-fashioned lemonade will come in handy. Why not join the throng and serve lemonade, garnished as pictured, at your next opportunity? For each person to be served add 1 cup cold water to the juice of 1 lemon and add ice to chill.

Sweeten to taste, but keep it tart for refreshment and health. Many regularly drink plain lemon juice and water. Garnish with slices of lemon attractively edged. If desired, cloves may be stuck in the lemon, as illustrated. This gives a navy motif to the beverage. In making lemonade it's well to remember to use fresh juice and plenty of it and ice enough to make the drink truly frosty and thirst-quenching.

Strange Effects Follow Blast in Ordnance Plant

Explosion Heard and Felt at Points Hundreds of Miles Away.

CHICAGO.—Odd occurrences accompanied the murderous explosion recently in the army ordnance plant at Elwood, Ill., southwest of this city. The blast, which occurred about 2:30 one morning, was heard and felt at points nearly a hundred miles away.

In the nearby village of Elwood virtually no damage was caused. Many windows in Kankakee, 20 miles away, were shattered. In Berwyn, where houses shook and furniture rattled, several residents telephoned to the police and reported burglars. Berwyn borders Chicago directly west.

Along the North Shore, from Wilmette to Waukegan, slamming doors puzzled householders. From Hammond and Park Ridge came reports that pictures had been shaken from walls. Many Chicagoans who felt the explosion thought an earthquake had occurred.

Turns on the Water.

Two potted plants on a kitchen window sill in the Peter Hanson home in Elwood were hurled across the room and into the sink by the force of the blast. As they crashed into the sink they turned on the water. The noise awakened the Hansons, who mistook it for thunder. Then Mrs. Hanson heard the water running, "Get up," she told her husband. "It's raining; close the windows."

John Phelan of Joliet was driving along the highway a few hundred yards from the Elwood plant when the explosion occurred. His car was lifted from the road and dropped half into a ditch. But Phelan heard nothing.

Although the explosion shook buildings and broke windows far beyond the area in which it could be heard, it did not register upon seismographs, which record earthquakes. This is because seismographs record only those disturbances that shake the basic rock far below the surface. The Elwood blast's force was carried by the upper soil strata.

Phones Kept Busy.

Windows rattled in all parts of Aurora in the seconds that followed the blast. Sgt. Harold Kellet said he lost count of the phone calls he received from citizens who thought burglars were tampering with their windows.

Though windows were smashed and buildings shook in Joliet, the roar of the explosion was mistaken for thunder by most persons who heard it. There was little stir until morning when newspapers spread the story.

At Lockport, where the blast was both heard and felt, officials received hundreds of phone calls, according to Fire Chief William Clark. Most callers feared a large oil plant there had exploded, few asking about the ordnance plant, he said.

Two windows in the Gary police station were shattered and the pieces blown inward at the instant of the ordnance plant blast, but Desk Sgt. Chester Westcott heard no explosion, he said. Within the next four minutes he received 11 phone calls as householders reported burglars trying to enter through windows. Police squads were kept busy more than an hour answering similar calls.

His One-Man Farewell

Party Lands Him in Jail

CINCINNATI.—"I was celebrating because I'm going to the army Friday. I drank everything they would sell me—beer, whiskey, gin and rum," boasted Everett McConnell, 29, after his arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

McConnell was arrested by Patrolmen Fred Zobel and Thomas Kaufman. He drove west on Court street, they charged, during the heavy market rush hour, barely missing trucks and stand operators. At one point his vehicle leaped in the air, bouncing along for more than 30 feet, and leaving short skid marks, the officers reported.

Bark of Puppy Saves

Baby From Rattlesnake

CASOR, N. C.—Spotty, a bird dog puppy, was there in the clutch, and today three-year-old Patricia Whisnant was none the worse for a brush with a rattlesnake.

Patricia was playing in a field when the four-foot rattler coiled and began his war chant.

The child was unaware of danger, but the puppy leaped between the girl and the snake, barking furiously and circling the snake. The barking attracted Patricia's brother, who was cutting wheat nearby, and he killed the snake.

Suspect's Name on Jury

Panel for His Own Trial

SOUTHPORT, N. C.—In the midst of the drawing of a special venire of 100 "good men and true" for possible jury service in a murder trial, the name of Dorsey Cox was called.

Clerk of Court Sam Bennett, to whom the name had a familiar sound, groped back through his memory for a moment, then jumped up suddenly, exclaiming:

"He's ineligible. He's the man on trial."

CORRESPONDENCE

Latest Items of Local News Furnished By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Fast Mail, west on W. M. R. S., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time. All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESERSBURG.

Cool and delightful just between summer and autumn, and all things bright and beautiful, work or pleasure; and some of our folks are enjoying the late vacations.

All the community was startled to learn that Rev. G. E. Bowersox, Jr., was taken to Md. University Hospital last Thursday suffering with a severe stitch in his back, that upset all his plans. His wife was with him on Friday and Saturday and at last reports he was resting easier—when he didn't move—we are praying for his complete recovery.

In the absence of the pastor on Sunday morning Mr. Robert Fisher, a Senior, of Gettysburg Seminary preached at Mt. Union from Isa. 12:3, his theme—"Wells of Salvation." Baskets of autumn flowers were placed at the front of the church by Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. C. S. Wolfe. The choir sang "God be Merciful to Me" and the music was splendid. The speaker preached first at Winter's Church then Mt. Union and at Reading, Pa., in the evening—a full day.

From the weekly Bulletin of the Uniontown Charge we learn that Edw. Haifley, of Baust Church is the most recent member of the parish to join the armed forces of the country. There was a special service at Winter's Church on Aug. 2 at which American and Christian flags were dedicated—very nice ones. The pastor spoke on the theme "Under two Flags." Later in the month at their annual chicken supper over 200 plates were served, clearing over $100. Mention is made of two showers in the Wilhide family at Mt. Union for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lesight (Rosellen Wilhide) and for Mr. (Mrs. Earl)—within one month.

St. Paul's Sunday School held their annual summer treat in the Hall in Uniontown—enjoyed by all. Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Wolfe entertained the following persons last week: their brother Stanley Gilbert, wife and daughter, Miss Margaret, of Bethel Heights for Sunday evening supper; on Tuesday father Wolfe and daughter, Erma, of Bark Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wolfe, of Reading, Pa., and sister, Miss Esther Wolfe, of Lansdowne, Philadelphia, ate supper with them; and later Mrs. Hall Martin, of New Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robertson and daughter, Betty were evening visitors; and the past Sunday Mr. Robert Fisher, of Williamsport, Pa.; Misses Frances and Charlotte Bohn dined at the same place.

Woodrow Miller, of Baltimore, surprised his parents at Mt. Union with a visit on Thursday of last week, well and hearty, but his whereabouts for the future seems as uncertain as for most of the young men we know.

Miss Catherine Crumbacker, with Mr. and Mrs. David Forney, of Coperville, and friends accompanied them to see their son, Roland Forney at Atlantic City over the week-end. He is in military service but confined to the Hospital these past weeks, and the Dr. allowed him to be with his visitors on Sunday.

A letter from Russell Wetzel, at Camp Blanding, Fla., tells of a pleasant two weeks furlough, the longest he has had—which he spent with friends at Atlanta, Ga., who treated him royally—and he is contented.

On Thursday of last week, L. K. Birely, his sister, Sue, Mrs. Addie Crumbacker, and Mrs. Ruth Koons Zollickoff drove to Gettysburg to see an optician and purchased new glasses, then drove on to Biglerville to get some peaches—which are over for this year and orchards are empty, but found enough to eat—no choice ones. Enjoyed several lunches, and a nice drive homeward before 6 P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Zollickoff, of Uniontown; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Shirk, of Taneytown, gave their cousins, L. K. and Susie E. Birely, of this place, a surprise picnic Saturday afternoon; so journeyed to Pigeon Hills beyond Hanover, which must be a delightful place in hot weather. There are several lakes, a number of cabins, outdoor fire-places for cooking, good cold water to drink, tables on which to spread lunches and plenty of shade of oak trees and pines. Better not say what became of the bountiful supper—only it was of the disappearing variety—and no one came home hungry.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crumbacker and mother Crumbacker took supper with the Crouse-Crumbackers on Saturday evening. Charles had a fishing trip on Friday afternoon along Big Pipe Creek but caught nothing. The Class of Smiling Sunbeams were invited to meet this month at the home of Miss Elsie Fritz who lives with her uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith on the F. Snyder farm on the Union Bridge road—on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Alfred Zollickoff, of Uniontown, was one of the Judges at the flower show in Middleburg on Saturday, where they had pretty plants and cut flowers. Some who didn't expect notice received first prize for bouquets. Small plants were sold and all refreshments making a nice total for the church treasury.

Oh me! Loads of sweet corn and more loads of red, red tomatoes are being hauled to the cannery; while at other places men are filling silos—when help can be secured, so some of our neighbors are very busy at the barn—and in the house; but "the blessing of earth is Toil."

UNIONTOWN

Miss Gwyn Barker, London, England, visited Dr. Grace Fox, Sunday Monday. Miss Margaret Fox and Mrs. John A. Massey, Washington, D. C., were luncheon guests on Wednesday at the Fox home.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ritter and children, of Littlestown, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide.

A SURPRISE PARTY

On Sunday September 6, a surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birnie Bowers in honor of Mrs. Bowers' mother, Mrs. Elmer Hawk; it being her 80th birthday. A very pleasant afternoon was spent. Refreshments were served to about 27. She received very useful gifts.

Those present were: Mrs. Elmer Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Birnie Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shildt, Mr. and Mrs. John Sentz and children, Treva and Patsy; Mrs. Beulah Eckenrode, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Bowers, children, Bobby and Jackie; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Baumgardner, children Genevieve, Richard, Louise and LeRoy; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bowers and son, Larry; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. William Vaughn.

LITTLESTOWN.

During the electrical storm which passed over town last Wednesday evening, lightning fired the barn of Joseph Spalding, near town, along the Gettysburg-Littlestown highway tenanted by James Rang. The bolt struck the 33x64 foot barn a frame structure with a tin roof. The lightning knocked the telephone out of commission which made it necessary to send a man to town to get the firemen. While the barn could not be saved, they kept the flames from spreading to other buildings. A tractor and three other pieces of farm machinery were taken out of the barn. The firemen had to remain for about two hours. All the grain and a corn worker and roller was destroyed.

Miss Charlotte Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Long, S. Queen St., was removed to the Hanover General Hospital, Wednesday in the community ambulance.

Miss Dorothy Taggart, art teacher who resigned last summer has reconsidered the matter, and accepted re-election. Her salary was fixed at $1300. She has taught here for four years.

The leather money belts which the High School Alumni Association will send to all the boys and girls of town and R. D. who are serving their country.

Miss Ruthanna Bowers and Miss Irma Epley, New Oxford, have returned home from a four day trip to Atlantic City.

The Milk Control Commission are holding meetings about an order requiring consumers to pay a cash deposit on milk bottles. This is one thing that ought to have been put into a law. One milk dealer told me that it cost from one to three hundred dollars to buy milk bottles which are not returned or broke.

Miss Irene Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walters, James St., was removed to her home from the Hanover General Hospital in the community ambulance.

Glenn A. Snyder, fireman second class is the first boy of town to be listed as missing in action in world war. Glenn is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. New pews have been installed in the St. John Lutheran Church; the news were made possible through the generous contribution of Mr. and Mrs. William Seasley, faithful members of the church. The old pulpit furniture which was in the church and had been presented by the late Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Myers has been reupholstered and refinished by the daughters of the deceased, Mrs. George W. Stoner and Mrs. Emma Sindoll. The furniture was put in the Sunday School room.

On Wednesday afternoon at 2:20 o'clock we had an air raid for 30 minutes; it was put on as a full air raid. After the alarm was given the fire alarm was given and the firemen made a run; then the firemen made another run. The men went to the air raid shelter building and waited for those that were hurt. All that was needed was an airplane to fly over the town. Everybody was off the street and all autos came to a stop.

GARNER REUNION

The fifth annual reunion of the descendants of the late Tobias E. Garner was held on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 13, 1942, at Winter's Church, near New Windsor, Md. SWEEPSTAKE PRIZES AT THE CARROLL COUNTY FAIR

Many people received blue ribbons for exhibits at the County Fair this year but the top prizes of all are the sweepstake prizes. These prizes are paid to the exhibitors who have the highest quality exhibits at the Fair in both the adult department and the girls 4-H club department. This year's winners in the adult department are: Mrs. Edward Strevig, of Westminster No. 2; Mrs. Byron Stull, Taneytown, No. 2; Miss Catherine Myers, Westminster, No. 1. The prizes are in the form of scholarships to the Rural Women's Short Course for 1943.

The three who placed high in the Girls 4-H Club Department are: Shirley Weik, Taneytown 4-H Club; Betty Green, Sam's Creek 4-H Club; Mary Florence Peltz, Westminster 4-H Club, and the runner ups are: Betty Lou Royer and Mary Frances Six, Taneytown 4-H Clubs. Edna Crammer of the Sam's Creek 4-H Club, who is just 10 years old, placed very high but could not be awarded one of the sweepstake prizes. The sweepstake prizes are in the form of scholarships to the 1943 Club Week and 4-H Club girls who attend State Club Week at the University of Maryland must be twelve years old.

The girls who received the sweepstake prizes last year were: Olive Hoff, Dorothy Hoff, of the New Windsor 4-H Club; and Vivian Alexander, of the Sam's Creek 4-H Club, and since Club Week was not held this year, the girls were paid in Defense Stamps in the amount of the Club Week scholarships.

Those who received the Rural Women's Short Course scholarships in the adult department were: Mrs. Oscar Ensor, Westminster; Miss Anna Harman, Taneytown; and Miss Esther Mae Wilson, Littlestown No. 1. Since Short Course was not held this year the amount of these scholarships will be paid to the winners in Defense Stamps.

VICTORY FLOWER SHOW

The annual flower show and luncheon given by the Homemakers' Club of Taneytown, will take place on September 24, at the Firemen's building. Luncheon will be served from 12:00 to 2:00, and everyone is invited to come and eat there that day and to see the flowers. There has been some misunderstanding in the past concerning invitations to this luncheon. We want to make it clear that the general public is welcomed, and that it is not necessary to make reservations for lunch.

All entries for the flower show must be in by ten o'clock that morning—this is a rule that we must strictly adhere to this year, because of the great confusion late entries have caused our Judges in other years. The following classes will be judged (and only the following classes. No classes other than these will be added):

DIVISION 1 SPECIMEN CLASSES

(One Bloom)

- Class 1—Dahlias
 - a. Large Flowering
 - b. Small Flowering
 - c. Single Flowering
 - d. Cactus, Large
 - e. Cactus, Small
 - f. Pompon

Class 2—Chrysanthemums

- b. Double, 1 Spray
- c. Single, 1 Spray
- d. Pompon, 1 Spray

Class 3—Zinnias

- a. Large Flowering
- b. Small Flowering
- c. Fantasy

Class 4—Marigolds

- a. Large Flowering
- b. Small Flowering, 1 Spray
- c. Pompon, 1 Spray

Class 5—Hybrid Tea Roses

- One bloom in each color class constitutes an entry to each person, however, it is not necessary to enter a rose in each color class
 - a. Pink
 - b. Red
 - c. Yellow
 - d. Eicolor
 - e. Single roses

DIV. 2 ARRANGEMENT CLASSES

(The following classes are to be judged for arrangement, as well as for the flowers used)

Class 6—Collection of fall flowers.

Not less than five or more than ten, one of each kind. (A list of names of the flowers to accompany entry.)

Class 7—Horticultural Table.

Where any beautiful or interesting flower or plant novelty may be exhibited. Gourds included.

Man Robbed of Toe, $400

And Ring in Second Try

LONG BEACH, CALIF.—Robbers, who a month ago injured one of Nicholas Periseck's fingers so badly in trying to remove a ring that the finger had to be amputated, robbed him again and cut off one of his toes.

Periseck said in the first holdup the robbers took $75 and tried to cut off his finger when his $750 diamond ring proved too tight to slip off.

Later they not only got the ring, from another finger, but found $400 he had hidden in a shoe. Then the robber leader cut off his toe.

"You told the cops about that other job," Periseck quoted him. "We'll give you something to remember us by."

Watchdog Neglects to Guard His Master's Car

MATTAPAN, MASS.—Folango, a Great Dane of 140 pounds, proved false to his master, Francis E. Daidario of Mattapan when he permitted a 16-year-old escaped inmate of the Shirley School to steal the automobile which he was guarding and race it through the streets of Charlestown.

When, after a wild chase, the police caught up with the youth, who had wrecked the car, he was calm about his detection and arrest. But the dog, bigger than the driver, was cringing with fear in the rear of the car.

The youth, according to police, has been returned to Shirley.

OFFICIAL U. S. TREASURY WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR SEPTEMBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—September War Bond Quotas for the 3,070 counties in the nation were announced today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, to make up the national September total of $775,000,000.

The September quota for the State of Maryland is $11,250,000.

In fixing the county quotas, the Treasury has continued its announced policy of setting the monthly quotas in line with the seasonal distribution of income with the billion-dollar monthly national average as the annual goal.

The national quota for May, when the nation went on the billion-a-month annual basis, was $600,000,000. For June the quota was $800,000,000 and for July it jumped to $1,000,000,000. The August quota was $815,000,000, so to maintain the billion-dollar annual monthly average, the quotas for the Fall and Winter months must necessarily be stepped up considerably to reach the objective set.

Fight! Work! and Save!

A War Message on WAR BONDS

from the President of the United States

"... The American people know that if we would raise the billions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.

"Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.

"If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income.

"In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.

"We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.

"We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

.... Franklin D. Roosevelt

Japs Terrorized By Demon Planes Of Flying Tigers

Fuselages Painted to Look Like Snouts of Sharks Spread Terror.

WASHINGTON. — Children scare
each other by making a horrid face and saying, "Boo!"

And so do men. They've been doing it for hundreds of years and are still doing it.

Latest and most spectacular evidence of it is in the Far East where the American Volunteer group
("The Flying Tigers"), in U. S. planes whose fuselages are painted to resemble the snouts of tiger sharks, have struck terror into the hearts of Jap airmen.

This is not to imply that the Yankees under command of Gen.
Claire L. Chennault have had such astounding success in sending Japs crashing earthward merely through the use of paint and brush and not by vastly superior airmanship. Nor does it mean that the Japanese scare easily, says the Chicago Herald-American.

But psychologists and anthropologists are of the opinion that the weird decoration of the American planes, which began as a grim "gag"
is not without its psychological effect on the Nips.

It would be setting one's face against the experience of all mankind to deny it, they say.

It's Old Stuff.

Ages ago, some bright soul among the earliest representatives of mankind on earth introduced an innovation in battle by wearing the head of a tiger or lion that he had killed with his spear. His appearance was as much of a shock to the Neanderthal warriors on the other side as the first British tanks were to the Germans in World War I.

The example was generally imitated, but soon it was found that wearing the head of an animal was hot and uncomfortable. So another innovator took to wearing a strange headpiece and painting his face to resemble the animal. It's still being done wherever primitive tribes exist—among the natives of Africa and Asia and the Pacific islands.

The Flying Tigers therefore have a good deal of human history to justify them in turning their airplanes into semblances of wide-mouthed tiger sharks with a vicious array of teeth.

The lad who first suggested it to them knew something of Japanese ways and thinking. The tiger shark is as much feared by the Japs as is the tiger by the natives of Burma, Malaya, India and other far eastern countries.

Large numbers of Japs, an island people, garner their livelihood at sea, as fishermen. Their great enemy is the swift-striking, terrible tiger shark, most vicious of all the voracious shark family. Superstitious Japs believe these sharks are demons.

Started in World War.

Japs don't like to die, even though their leaders try to build up for them
a legend of fearlessness in the face of death. And they prefer, if they must die, not to be eaten by sharks.
In their religion such an end seriously compromises their chances of entry into Jap heaven.

The practice of adorning planes with characteristic insignia began in World War I and has been followed ever since, though never with quite the pictorial effectiveness achieved by the Flying Tigers. Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's 94th Aero squadron
in World War I adopted an Uncle Sam hat in a ring as its "coat of arms"—a sign that German fliers soon learned to respect.

The American Indian, especially those on the Pacific coast, says Dr.
Wissler, a leading authority on the red man, painted his canoe in imitation of animals.

A few weeks ago an American shipyard launched two new cargo ships as part of the Victory Fleet.
Each of these vessels has an enormous eye painted on either side of the prow, where the anchor-chains slide. Workmen said this was to put the "evil eye" on Axis submarines. The ships certainly present a hobgoblin appearance.

Not That Kind

By
R. H. WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers—WNU Features.

WHEN Rod Brooke proposed to Hazel Emmons, she didn't exactly laugh at him.

She said: "Rod, the man I marry must be strong and brave and fearless. He must be able to protect me, to fight for me, to—if necessary—die for me." She paused and looked down at medium-sized, meticulously garbed Rod and smiled maternally. "I'm sorry, Rod, but that's the type of girl I am."

Hazel was the best-looking and most popular girl in Turnersville, a member of the dramatic society, and the daughter of the town's most distinguished citizen.

Rod's face took on a wounded
look (very nicely registered), then he smiled, flicked an imaginary speck of dust from his coat sleeve,
and said: "Oh, I didn't know that.
However—" And he shrugged, picked up his spotless Panama hat,
placed it carefully atop his blond curly head and departed from the bailiwick of Emmons.

Hazel was not exactly annoyed, but she was vaguely disturbed and troubled. It hadn't been quite as she had anticipated. Rod should have carried on a bit, looked more grieved. If, in fact, he had staged a bit of pleading, even threatened to leap into the river, Hazel would have liked it better.

She went up to her room, closed and locked the door and sat down to consult with her inner emotions. After all, Rod was quite a boy around Turnersville, about the best that the town, or nearby towns had to offer.

Perhaps she should have snapped him up. Hazel's sense of the dramatic always had warned her to hold her horses, as some day the proverbial knight would come galloping along on his snow-white charger and make Lochinvar love to her in the moonlight. But practical reasoning conflicted with this fancy, because you cannot hold your horses in a small town for several years without finding yourself holding the well-known sack.

However, Hazel could not rid her mind of the cherished thought that the man who would win her hand must be a bearcat for physical courage and endurance, et cetera. Pondering the situation at the moment, she qualified the restrictions so that they might include the boy just thwarted. In a word, Hazel agreed with herself that if Rod could prove himself courageous and possessed of protective instincts, even though bested in battle, she would reconsider her decision.

But Rod must be tested, and to this Hazel solicited the services of one Johnny McCarthy, a stoker employed by her father in his woolen mill.

"You understand," she said to Mr.
McCarthy, "I don't want you to hurt
Mr. Brooke. You may, of course, bruise him up a bit in order to make the thing seem realistic. But nothing serious."

It is doubtful whether the powerful Mr. McCarthy grasped the significance of Hazel's purpose (in fact she had always seemed a little queer to him) but he understood the value and denomination of the bill she tendered him, and agreed to play his part.

Thrilled as she had never dreamed she could be thrilled, Hazel arranged everything very nicely and conveniently. At the point where the drive of her father's vast estate joined with a by-street, she and Johnny McCarthy waited one moonlit evening, listening to the approaching strains of an off-key whistle.

The whistler was dapper Rod Brooke, meticulously garbed as usual, and not without his spotless Panama hat.

Rod was quite alone, and as he neared the Emmons' estate entrance he saw a vision that caused him to cease his musical efforts and hasten forward in all haste.

"Here, here," he said, laying a restraining hand on the arm of Johnny McCarthy, which arm was at the moment encircling Hazel Emmons' waist. "Come, come, my good man.
You appear to be making a bit of a nuisance of yourself. Loose the woman at once!"

Mr. McCarthy looked over his shoulder and leered. However, his reply was drowned by the screaming pleas of the seemingly terrified Hazel to be saved. Her exact words were incoherent, though if she had spoken with profound diction and articulation it is doubtful whether Rod would have heard. For at that moment Mr. McCarthy made a pass at him in such a vigorous manner that Rod shuddered.

Mr. McCarthy, astonished at his failure to connect, made haste to recover his equilibrium and renewed the attack. But immediate renewal was impeded because Rod's fist had found its way to Mr. McCarthy's jaw with a hairy force that caused the Emmons' stoker to grunt. Another blow caught him flush on the mouth, knocking a solid front tooth loose of its moorings.

Now Mr. McCarthy was ordinarily a man of patience. But this was going a bit too far. All in a flash
he forgot Hazel's instructions, forgot, the large denomination of the bill
she had tendered him, and concerned himself with but a single thought: Vengeance!

He came plunging into the fray, head lowered, ham-like fist flaying the atmosphere. Rod had retreated, not far, but far enough to avoid collision with Mr. McCarthy's knuckles. He directed a powerful hynamaker
at the stoker's solar plexus.

The mill worker grunted and buckled up. Rod then leaped forward and began pommeling the McCarthy visage with such effectiveness that presently the McCarthy hulk was sprawled on the ground and the McCarthy mind was temporarily unconcerned with matters of a worldly nature.

At this point in the drama, Hazel, held speechless from the first, let out a shriek and flung herself with a nicely executed dramatic gesture around Rod's neck.

"Rod! Oh, my darling! You were —superb! Oh, it was grand! But, Rod, could I have doubted you? And to think I even insinuated you were not the brave, strong man I so longed for. Precious, you will forgive me, won't you?"

Whereupon Rod led Miss Emmons gently but firmly to one side, sighed deeply, flicked a bit of dust from his coat and shook his head sadly.

"Hazel, this was merely an emergency measure. It isn't in my line at all. I don't fancy being the sort of man you require."

"But, darling, you won't have to.
Why, goodness me, now that I know you can protect me, I hope you don't think I would encourage such things as common street fighting."

Rod still looked sad. "Hazel, you don't understand. There is one other thing I don't fancy. And that is a woman who needs protecting.

"Some women are like that, you know. They must be protected. They require it and it's bothersome. I'm sorry, but that's not the type of man I am."

Rod picked up his Panama hat
from the dust, set it jauntily atop his curly blond head, and continued on his way. Standing by the gate, Hazel could hear his off-key whistle becoming dim in the distance.

Check on Heating System
Before Winter Sets In

Now is an excellent time to plan and begin repair and renovation work on roofs in preparation for winter, and to check over all sections of the heating system of the home in advance of the resumption of furnace operation.

When winter snows pile up on the roof, weak spots in the shingling or other type of roofing may result in leaks which often spoil interior decoration materials such as plaster and wallpaper.

In this connection, a little check-over of the roof now and the completion of any necessary repair work may preclude the necessity of future, greater expenditure on renovation of the interior wall coverings of the home.

While the roofing is being checked, the eavestroughs and attached draining pipes also can be looked over and any desirable repairs or improvements made.

The provisions for ensuring continuation of the roof drainage around the chimney, where it projects out of the roof, will bear a particularly close check, as a weak spot in the roof drainage easily may develop there.

Cool September and October evenings may require the use of a small amount of heat in the furnace before winter actually arrives. It is deemed advisable by housing authorities that householders check their heating systems at least annually and August is a good time to do so.

Keeping the heating system up to scratch is desirable both for the protection of the home against possible fire hazard and for maintaining a high degree of heating efficiency. An efficient heating system pays dividends by keeping costs down.

Among points that may be checked to good advantage are the furnace grate, or the gas outlets in the furnace; the chimney pipes in all parts of the home; the hot air vents, if that system is in operation, or the steam pipes and radiators.

In homes using coal furnaces particularly, the chimneys should be cleaned thoroughly to insure fire protection and efficient heating.

Metal parts of the chimney system should be checked over carefully to determine if there are any badly rusted or weakened portions.

After the necessary check-overs have been made, the required repairs can be planned well in advance.

"Sailing, Sailing . . ." to Work

Gasoline rationing is a boon to pretty Maxine Arien's inventiveness. This Atlantic City, N. J., stenographer ripped a bed sheet into sail form, attached it to her rowboat and daily sails along the beautiful inland waterway to and from her office.

WEEK OF THE WAR

kept the Japanese thrust toward Port Moresby bottled in the towering Owen Stanley mountains while Allied aircraft swept the seas surrounding the island, bombing enemy supply ships. Gen. MacArthur announced September 14 that United Nations bombers attacked three Japanese cargo ships, apparently bound for New Guinea, and American Flying Fortresses bombed a Japanese cruiser off the southeast coast of New Britain. Earlier, the Fortresses hit two enemy destroyers in the same area. Japanese bombers continued to attack U. S. forces in the Solomons and the enemy has "reinforced and supplied" Japanese troops in the interior of Guadalcanal where U. S. Marines are engaged in mopping up operations, the Navy reported. The Navy said that 20 more Japanese planes have been shot down in three heavy bombing attacks—bringing to at least 143 the number of Jap planes officially reported shot down since operations began Aug. 7.

U. S. Army headquarters in London reported American Flying Fortresses and medium bombers successfully bombed the Schiedam shipyards at Rotterdam, railway yards at Utrecht, an airplane factory and the St. Omer airdrome in Nazi-occupied France. Damage to intercepting enemy planes included 17 fighters destroyed, 25 more probably destroyed and 25 damaged. Two Fortresses were listed as missing, the first American losses in 12 straight attacks on Nazi territory in Europe. The Navy announced the sinking of eight more United Nations merchant vessels by enemy submarines.

The White House announced that during July Army Chief of Staff Marshall, Chief of Naval Operations King and Special Adviser to the President Hopkins conferred with high British officials in London and at these conferences certain vital military decisions directed toward taking the offensive were made. The President, in a radio address, said the power of Germany must be broken on the continent of Europe and "Preparations are being made here and in Britain toward this purpose." Under Secretary of War Patterson, speaking in Muskegon, Mich., said that more than 600,000 men in the armed forces are overseas and this force "will be doubled and doubled and doubled to the limit of our manpower." W. Averell Harriman, Special Lend-Lease Minister to London, said the Russians "are determined to fight to the finish, alone with their own resources if need be. But they will fight on with even more strength and courage if we give effective aid."

President Roosevelt told his press conference he did not think it would be necessary to call up 18 and 19-year-olds before the first of next year because Army training facilities at present are only equal to the number of men being taken in, but he is discussing with the Army whether enabling legislation will be needed soon. Army Ground Forces Commander McNair announced the number of Army divisions in existence or being mobilized has more than doubled since January 1.

War Secretary Stimson announced the Air Transport Command will establish an experimental unit of 50 trained women aviators, the Women's Auxiliary Ferrying Squadron, to ferry smaller Army planes from factories to airfields. The Weather Bureau called for 75 women airplane pilots to take a course in meteorology. Mr. Stimson also said the Army expects to call most, and possibly all, student reservists who have reached Selective Service age to active duty by the end of the college term beginning in September. The Coast Guard is forming a fleet of 250 fire-fighting boats, most of them embodying a new design in propulsion and fire-fighting machinery, to be used in protecting water-front facilities along U. S. coasts.

Office of Defense Transportation Director Eastman announced "No special train or bus service, including charter bus service, to football games or other sports events will be permitted. At the same time I am directing that steps be taken by my office to prevent the overcrowding of regular trains serving areas in which such events are to be held." The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled that for the duration all railroad carriers may disregard any present regulations governing length of trains when necessary to assure prompt movement of freight or passengers.

The ODT ordered all operators of commercial rubber borne vehicles except motorcycles to carry and show a "Certificate of Necessity" in order to obtain gasoline, tires or parts after November 15. The regulation covers almost 5,000,000 non-military trucks, 150,000 buses, 50,000 taxicabs and all ambulances and hearses. Applications for certificates, as well as other pertinent information, will be mailed about September 23 to all persons who registered last December 31 as owners of motor vehicles available for public rental.

War Production Nelson asked war workers to stop taking an extra day off and to refrain from "quickie" strikes over minor grievances because such absences slow production. He said the nation's production record is not nearly good enough. The President by Executive Order prohibited payment of "penalty double-time" pay for work on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, but permitted payment of double-time for the seventh consecutive day's work and of time-and-a-half for all overtime work after 40 hours a week. Under Secretary of War Patterson said U. S. plane production in August was greater than that of Germany, Italy and Japan combined and tank production, already at an impressive high, will be twice as great in December.

The Navy teaches 50 trades, most of them as good in civilian life as in the Navy.

The letter "V" in Naval aircraft signifies heavier-than-air ships and "Z" lighter-than-air.
