LETTER FROM DETROIT

Contains Many Interesting Items.

Having gotten into the habit of writing to the Record, and being filled with a desire to help my good friend, the Editor, "fill" up the columns of his paper, I am going to try and see what I can think up for this week. If we lived back, in the old town, where everybody knows everybody else, it would not be near so hard to study up something worth reading, but being so far away, living in a city where friends are few and far between, and who are unknown to your readers, makes it difficult to get up a letter that is satisfactory to myself, and I suppose a great many people back there agree with me on that point.

With the above explanation and apology for what may seem of little interest to some of you, I will proceed to tell what little I know about our lives and conditions out in this neck of the woods. On coming home I found that the city had not changed much, except that they were getting ready for the scrap drive. The papers were holding up Baltimore as an example for what could be done in this line, and calling on the citizens to go ahead of our good old Maryland city. Well, they did, but considering that Detroit is so much larger in every way, I don't think we have much to brag about. But it was a queer sight to see what old scrap was brought out and placed on the curb in front of the houses.

The queerest thing we heard of was an old iron casket, with a "Swastika" on the top and the inscription on the sides—"For the use of Hitler." A woman did this, and I am sure you will agree with me, that she did not like that gentleman very much. The quota for Wayne County, which includes Detroit, was 10,000 tons, but they gathered up about 17,000 tons, and say that there is a whole lot to come yet. They are getting after old cars, and judging from what we saw in our travels back home and to our visit to Ohio—which I will tell you about later—I think the railroads will be swamped more than ever in order to get all this seemingly useless stuff to the steel mills, where it will be turned into materials to help win the war.

We have three such large mills in this vicinity—the Great Lakes, Ford and Rotary Electric Steel Mills. We went by the latter on a short trip to see our boy Ervin, near Rochester, on Monday evening, and saw a mountain of scrap piled up ready to be used. But we noticed that all the scrap gathered up in Wayne County, will serve to keep the mills open for only three days, even if their output is composed of half new ore. You can see by this what an immense amount of useless metal will be required to keep our war factories open, and I want to appeal to all of you to help all you can to help in this cause. As I heard one person say, the U. S. will be a much cleaner place after these drives are over, and places that have been filled with useless rubbish can once more see the light of day.

And now a little about our trip over the week-end down to Ohio. Three of my uncles settled there after the Civil War, but only the descendants of one, are settled there now, and judging from our experiences when visiting them—as we have done very frequently since coming to Detroit, I think they will stay there, and I don't blame them, either, for it is a fine country, once called the Jackson prairie, with land so fertile, and so deep that they do not use much fertilizer, and a great many burn the wheat and oats straw in the field, instead of turning it into fertilizer.

The place we visited is Bowling Green, which must not be confused with the city of the same name in Kentucky, which is much larger in every way. It is a nice little city of about 9000 inhabitants, and is spread over a great deal of ground. Situated as it is on the edge of the Great Ohio Oil fields, a great many of the residents are retired farmers, who having made their pile of money by leasing their lands to the Ohio Oil Company, on a bonus basis, have built themselves beautiful homes in the city-houses that look and are, I suppose, very comfortable. There are not many industries, and those who desire to work in shops, go to Toledo, which is about 25 miles northwest of Bowling Green. Property is pretty high in that city but rents are low—around $1.00 a month, but in surroundings villages you can buy a fine home for from $750. to $2000. We saw some of these and they are practically new, with modern conveniences. When we think of Detroit, where rents for the same kind, or even inferior to them, are around $60.00 a month it almost makes one feel like selling out here, and becoming a "Buckeye."

Well, we had a fine visit—were received by our cousins there with open arms, and after our very enjoyable visit to our old native town, which we wrote about last week, and a trip out to see our son, we certainly feel grateful to everyone who has in any way made these trips possible, and in addition are thankful that we have recovered so much from the serious illness of last winter and spring. As we told quite a number of parties in Taneytown, who were surprised to see us in such good shape, they were not more surprised than we were to be able to get around again and see and talk to our old friends.

I'll stop now as Providence permitting I intend to write a good many letters the coming winter (Continued on Eighth Page.)

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY MEETS.

Annual Campaign Drive For Funds Launched.

On October 5 the Children's Aid Society's 14th. annual campaign for funds was launched and will be carried on thru October 17th. The campaign was officially opened on Saturday, October 3, at a pre-campaign meeting at the Westminster Riding Club. The goal this year is $5,000 and the county should go "over the top" this year of all years. "The Youth of Today is the Hope of Tomorrow" and the kind of living that children experience in their early youth will largely determine the quality of citizenship that they will contribute to our democracy in the future.

If, at any time, it was important to provide security for underprivileged youth, it is most important at this time when so many forces are threatening the security of the whole world. The home is still the cradle of democracy and there is no substitute for home living for children. The work of the Children's Aid Society must go forward even during these times and while we are converting, curtailing, and conserving in material resources we should not neglect human resources. The Children's Aid Society is the only organization in the county that solicits contributions from the citizens for the care of dependent children. During the campaign days from October 5-17, all people in the county will be solicited for contributions either by letter or by personal visits.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK LADY

The Editor, The Carroll Record, Taneytown, Md.

Dear Editor:

I am on the train returning home after a delightful visit in Washington where, I should like to recall, I was entertained by two of your town folks living there, the Misses Birnie. Miss Eliza Birnie was my fellow student at the Cambridge School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture, Cambridge, Mass., now taken over by Harvard University for the duration.

We celebrated, last night, the eve of the fifth anniversary of the Birnie's arrival in their present home in Washington. Messrs. Anthony Schwarz and Richard Nelson were the other guests. Five candles around a "Federal" cake marked the day, with a replica of the government seal with a large V or "V" and "Welcome to the Merrylanders." Catslaw honey was presented to Miss Eliza Birnie in honor of her cat Felix, a most remarkable feline. Miss Eleanor received a changeable trivet in an old design reminiscent of childhood days.

Today at breakfast an emproptu George Washington (really the writer) presented the keys of the city to the two ladies.

As I read your fine paper while at the Birnie's home in Washington I feel that I should like to express to all their friends what pleasure it is to strangers in Washington to be taken into such a lovely home by such lovely people. I learned more about Maryland than I would have thought possible in ten days. Miss Eliza Birnie showed me old family portraits, antiques and gardening books, and gave me plants and cuttings from her charming garden. Miss Eleanor Birnie made her family cook-books come to life, and played one morning and an evening on a splendid Baltimore piano of the past century. I read Maryland books and newspapers.

Besides, we saw antique and modern Washington, but it took two of them separately to wear down the feet of one accustomed to seeing the World's Fair every day for two years. I left them in worse condition than I am, but secure in their Maryland past, their Washington present, and their Maryland (?) future. Then perhaps they will invite me to Taneytown.

Yours very truly,
MARY DIXON,
Flushing, N. Y.

U. B. CONFERENCE

Rev. A. W. Garvin Returned to Taneytown.

The 154th. session of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ came to a close on Thursday evening in the Messiah Church, at Shippensburg, Pa., when the Stationing Committee's report was read by the Bishop G. D. Batdorf. The address given by the Bishop G. D. Batdorf was stirring and the people were held for nearly an hour by the message.

The first time in the history of the Conference with the method and change of the combined Budget of the Benevolence of the church the conference can report a full allotment of $70,000 plus $586.28. There were 130 churches which paid their quotas in full and that 53 of these were second-mile churches, having paid 5% or more, above the quota.

There was a gratifying report on the General Ministerial Pension Fund report. The report showed that 104 churches had paid their quotas up 100% and that six churches had gone the second-mile mark by paying 5% or more above the allotment. There were still 45 churches which have not reached their goals. The conference reports from every source showed a remarkable progress in every way. Taneytown was among the 100 percent churches in both reports.

There were few changes in the conference. Rev. Paul Emenheiser, of Old Otterbein Church, Baltimore, was transferred to Wormleysburg, Pa.; Rev. W. C. Wachter goes to Old Otterbein, Baltimore; Rev. Wm. Beatty, of Jefferson goes to Lemasters; and Miller Schmuck to Jefferson; Rev. G. C. Daugherty returns to Hanover; Rev. Harold March receives the Shermansdale Charge; Rev. A. W. Garvin was returned to Taneytown. All the other pastors in the vicinity of Taneytown section were returned. There were no changes in the ministry in Hagerstown, Chambersburg or York. The conference will meet in the Third Church in York for the 155th. session in 1943, the Rev. E. E. Redding is pastor.

LOST OR STOLEN GASOLINE RATION BOOKS

Dr. F. G. Holloway, Chairman of War Price and Rationing Board No. 8 of Carroll County, reports that quite a number of people have lost their supplemental ration books as well as the Basic A book through misplacement or someone stealing them. In order to safeguard this valuable property he suggested that these books be kept on the person rather than in the car. It is suggested that men carry them in their wallet rather than in the glove compartment of the car.

PRIZES FOR SAFETY SLOGAN CONTEST

Annapolis, October 7: As an additional incentive to the students of the State to participate in the Traffic Safety Slogan Contest being conducted by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Governor Herbert R. O'Connor has made available three prizes of war saving stamps for the best slogan submitted.

The contest is being conducted State-wide among the pupils of the high schools, in an endeavor to secure effective safety slogans for use in educational work. The Safety Commission feels that the use of slogans is one of the most potent means of bringing safety messages to drivers. Experience has shown that brief slogans are remembered better than volumes of other materials.

All high schools have been notified of this contest, and it is hoped that much interest will be created.

The prizes are to be awarded as follows: First prize, $15; Second prize $10 and third prize, $5—all to be paid in War Savings Stamps.

The contest closes October 31st. Pupils have been asked to submit their entries to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, 1003 Union Trust Building, Baltimore.

THE WEEK OF WAR REPORTS.

Departments' and Boards' Activities.

Following passage by Congress of the Second Price Control Act, President Roosevelt ordered ceilings placed over wages, salaries, profits, farm prices and rents, and appointed Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes as Director of Economic Stabilization with the job of developing a national economic policy.

Justice Byrnes resigned from the Court to accept the new position. He will have authority over all Government agencies in the economic field and will be assisted by a 14-man economic stabilization board composed of eight agency heads and six private citizens.

Immediately following the President's Executive Order, Price Administrator Henderson imposed emergency 60-day price ceilings on virtually all exempt food items, bringing 90 percent of the family food budget under rigid control. Previously only 60 percent was controlled. Under control for the first time are butter, cheese, evaporated and condensed milk, eggs, poultry, flour, dry onions, potatoes, fresh and canned fruits and juices, dry edible beans, cornmeal and mutton. Food retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and processors are affected. Each dealer's price is frozen at the highest level he charged in the five days September 28 to October 2, inclusive. The permanent ceiling later may entail some price reductions, Mr. Henderson said.

Administrator Henderson also completed new orders freezing all uncontrolled urban and rural rents at levels of last March 1. He announced the Office of Price Administration would amend existing regulations to prevent eviction of tenants resulting from sales of rental property, a practice which he said in many cases has become a device to avoid the effect of rent control. Previously rent control was limited to approximately 400 designated defense rental areas.

The program will depict the struggle for freedom, from the days of our forefathers to the present, second World War conflict, by the presentation of a tableau depicting the spirit of '76 and the singing of Yankee Doodle.

The second episode will portray a typical American scene with people from all walks of life represented, and the singing of our National air America.

The third scene will be the presentation of the flag by two Boy Scouts and the singing of several patriotic songs concluding with The Star Spangled Banner.

The fourth scene will include the spirit of Freedom as embodied in 1942. All phases of National Defense in our present day struggle for freedom, will be represented.

KIWANIS CLUB MEETS

Columbus Day Observed With Program.

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday evening, Oct. 7, at 6 o'clock, at Sauble's Inn, President Robert W. Smith presiding. The music period was in charge of Wallace Reindollar, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling at the piano. There were present 24 members.

The program was in charge of the Publicity Committee. The Chairman introduced Rev. L. B. Hafer as the speaker of the evening. Inasmuch as the program was intended to observe Columbus Day, the tenor of Rev. Hafer's address was on the life and character of Christopher Columbus and the influence of his life and voyages of discovery upon modern times.

Rev. Hafer expressed the opinion that Columbus Day should be observed generally, as no days since his have so changed the ideas, the aims, and the ambitions of the world. His time is called the "turning point of history."

Many things were brought out in the address tending to show, not only the interest that a study of the life and career of Christopher Columbus ought to arouse in the mind of the average student, but also the peculiar character of the man himself, qualities which contributed to his accomplishments and activities. His academic preparation, including a thorough knowledge of astronomy and cosmography, his patience and determination as once and again he was rebuffed and refused as he applied for aid at the court of the King of Portugal, then to the king of his own country, Italy, and finally to Spain where he secured the help he needed to make a voyage possible in order that he might test his theory concerning the roundness of the earth, the difficulties of the voyage itself together with the unwillingness of the crew to proceed on what they considered an unknown and dangerous voyage. Very eloquent are the entries in his "ship's log" which appear so often, "Today we sailed on."

The main idea of Columbus was a missionary idea. He convinced the queen of Spain that he ought to carry the Gospel to the unknown places of the earth. His purpose was at the same time partly selfish. His selfish purposes were the cause of the bad treatment which he afterwards received.

One of the big things that Columbus did was to teach the world the art of "sailing on." The great men of the world have had to learn to stick to their tasks. The man who knows that he has a mission to perform and will "sail on" is the man who will always bring blessing to the world.

Next Wednesday evening will be "Ladies Night" and the program will be in charge of the music committee.

CHURCH SOCIAL HELD

The Mite Society and the Brotherhood of Trinity Lutheran Church, Taneytown, held a joint social Wednesday night. The two societies first held their monthly meeting separately, and then joined in the evening entertainment in the Sunday School room.

The pastor, Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, presided, and in lieu of an address, interspersed the program with short readings and appropriate remarks. Mrs. Murray Baumgardner and Mrs. Sterling Ecker rendered two vocal duets, with Miss Hazel Hess at the piano; Eddie and George Sauble gave an instrumental duet; Mrs. Olive Martin and Mrs. Albert Wildie gave a vocal duet, with Miss Marian Martin accompanying; Francis Staley played two cornet numbers, accompanied by James Fair.

Mr. Clyde L. Hesson was called upon without notice for a short address, and was fully up to the occasion, after which refreshments were served and a general good time was enjoyed.

One of the Navy's greatest obstacles in training men is the lack of men with scientific and technical background.

Random Thoughts

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

HOW DO WE GIVE?

In these modern days, one must not be too hasty in adopting every new idea that is promoted. It is safer to consider—who will be hurt, if many are to be benefited? Disinterested benefactors are not traveling around, by chance, dispensing gifts.

There is just as much doubt concerning new ways of making profit, as there is concerning the merits of new patent medicine. Fakes abound.

Without unduly adopting an attitude of suspicion, it is quite worth while asking mentally, "what is in it?" for promoters—not always connected with "politics" but in other matters it is often also in order to ask—"How much did you give?"

Sometimes it is actually a bad habit for us to give just in order to "get rid of" a solicitor, for there is a wide difference between being liberal, and giving carelessly in a spend-thrift manner.

THE FARMER AND INFLATION

The passage by an overwhelming vote of both houses of Congress of legislation requiring that the full cost of production shall be considered in trying to fix parity prices, ought to go far toward giving confidence to the farmer that he is to receive better treatment than he has received in the past; but it is still necessary to give people the truth about the situation, so that by no means may they be robbed of their just right, and that the public may understand that the farmer is not trying to hog the situation as many newspapers and writers would have us to believe.

We received an article from Geo. Sachse, manager of the Maryland Tobacco Growers Association, of Baltimore, under the above heading. The article is to long for our use, but it is so clear and to the point that we give some extracts, and some of the pertinent facts contained in it.

"The farmers of the United States understand and admit that inflation must be avoided if the future stability of our country is to be preserved; therefore they are interested in preventing inflation, as are all other patriotic citizens of this country.

There has been a great deal of publicity given to the fact that if the "Cost of Labor" is included in parity prices of agricultural products, inflation is sure to result; as then the farmer would get more than his share of national income.

First, let us understand parity price computation as it exists. The base period is 1909 to 1914, which means that the farmer should today have the same purchasing power and standard as he had in those years. In computing parity prices today on that basis, the factors considered are (1) The cost of commodities purchased by the farmers; (2) Taxes; (3) Interest. There, we have the whole great secret of the misunderstood term of "Parity Price" for agricultural products. It has nothing whatever to do with the comparison of farmers' income with the income of industrial labor.

As an example of how parity is computed, the percentage increase in the cost of commodities purchased by farmers, taxes, and interest, of the current date over 1909 to 1914 is added to what the farmers receive for their products in 1909 to 1914, and the result is parity price.

The cost of farm labor in 1909 to 1914 was from 75c to $1.00 per day; today the cost of farm labor, when it can possibly be secured, is from $4.00 to $6.00 per day, depending on the location and the work to be done, and in times of harvesting emergency is even higher. In many cases this year farmers produced their crops and could not get labor at any price at harvest time. As a result, part of their crops were left in the field, and they lost the entire cost of production.

The above formula of parity price computation does not take into consideration any increase in the cost of labor, and if it should increase to $8 to $10 a day, the parity price would not increase even the smallest fraction of a cent. This does not put the farmer in a position to compete with industry in employing labor to do farm work; consequently he must be held down in production to what he and his family can produce. Even that family is dwindling in size due to the draft of young men into our armed forces, while others, including many farm women are leaving the family group to seek more lucrative positions in industry. Secretary Wickard stated last week that agriculture must prepare itself for 2,000,000 men to be removed from the farms in 1943.

The farmers of the United States are as interested in winning the war as any other group of persons or individuals, and they want to do something to contribute to this end. What more can they do than produce the food supply for the American people and our allies? How can they do this when their parity prices do not include the cost of hiring labor to work their farms? The farmer is not interested in making a profit from this labor; as his only ambition and aim is to help the war effort by keeping his right to help win the war in this way, but he must receive in the price of the products he sells the cost of the labor he employs to produce these products."

Mr. Sachse shows that when the farmer is allowed the necessary cost of farm labor as cost of production it adds only a trifle to the whole cost of living. An increase of 10% in parity to the farmer would add only three-tenths of 1% to the cost of living.

He further shows from official figures that while 22½% of the population live on farms, only eight and one-fifth percent of the national income goes to the farming people; and that while the average income per person, including those working and those not able to work, on the farm was $254 per year, the average counted in the same way for persons not on the farm was $826. These figures are for the year 1941.

It is plain that the outcry against the farmer has exhibited the rankest kind of injustice and comes from people who either do not know the situation, or who do not care.

A NASTY FIX

We are in the middle of a nasty fix and very few of us seem to realize it. Before it is over we will receive a lot of cuts and bruises. Of course we will win in the end, but the end is not yet.

Back during the first World War I wrote a little book—Autocracy vs. Democracy in which I urged preparedness on the Swiss system. I still believe that the best plan to safeguard our future.

If every boy before reaching his 21st birthday were compelled to serve a year in military training, and then a month of vacation re-training up to the time he reached his 35th birthday we would not be allowed by any power or combination of powers, and the cost would not be as much in a hundred years, as this second world war has already cost us. Will we ever get wise and do the right—the American thing? I doubt it.

MORE ABOUT THE FARMER

When we quoted from George Sachse with regard to the farmer and inflation in another editorial in this issue, we had no idea that our blood was to be started boiling later the same day; but so it happened. We read Frank R. Kent's column on The Dictatorship Threat.

We frequently read the comments of that distinguished writer and in many cases we agree with him, but this particular production, of October 2, was so completely devoid of common sense that it not only caused disagreement, but it aroused our ire.

Kent says "the national interests have been damaged and the fight against inflation made harder." And all because the farmers' friend in Congress have insisted on taking farm labor into consideration in determining parity prices. His remedy is to have Congress rebel and "kick them," the farm lobbyists, all over the lot. I submit that that attitude is not only lacking in common sense, but it is not even decent.

In the name of reason, how could the farmer's purchasing power be computed without counting the cost of labor. That has been forced up for the farmer without his consent, and unless it is counted among costs along with cost of purchase taxes and interest the farmer is reduced to plain slavery, and there is nothing in store for him but bankruptcy, and the fellows who denounce the farmers will suffer far more than the trifling increase in cost of living which the cost of farm labor brings.

The truth is that inflation is here, and with the unreasonable wages paid in industry and by the government itself, and with the outrageous multiplication of government jobs, there is no power that can stop it. The farmer has mighty little to do with it.

Why can we not be decent enough to be willing to see everybody having a comfortable living? That is all that the farmers ask. But while the income per person on the farm is less than one-third of the income in other occupations, according to government figures, do not call the farmer a grabber.

L. B. H.

RUBBER AND GAS

The baruch report on the rubber question marked an intelligent and forthright approach to the country's Number 1 domestic problem. The most important recommendations concern national gasoline rationing, a 35-mile speed limit, compulsory tire inspection, production of synthetic rubber at the rate of 1,100,000 tons a year—and the suggestion that more rubber be made available to the public for retreading and recapping tires in order to maintain necessary civilian driving.

No one can deny that the elimination of unessential driving is now necessary. But we must not make the mistake of establishing an arbitrary rationing system which would cripple production in many parts of the country. In the West, for instance, thousands of people must drive 20, 50 or 100 miles a day in the course of their farming and business operations. If this part of the country was too severely in auto use, there would be a catastrophic slow-down in activity in all lines.

The big thing now is to make unprecedented efforts to increase synthetic rubber production—as well as to conserve what rubber we have in all practical ways. The appointment of William M. Jeffers as chief of the rubber drive, is a step in the right direction. Mr. Jeffers is a business man of distinction, and he is a man who is used to getting results.

The American car owner will cooperate fully in any program laid down by the government. And it is the duty of the government to place in effect a wise and flexible system of rationing and conservation which will permit necessary driving for civilians according to location and activity.—Industrial News Review.

MAKE WAY FOR GUNS

The order cutting off all special trains to games and race tracks, all special cars to carry orchestra and football teams, and even of extra sections of regular passenger trains except where such extras have been run at least twenty percent of the time for some months past, is admittedly radical. Some people may be irritated by it; but people who feel that way have no comprehension of the transportation situation as it stands now.

The whole system is working at very close to capacity. A plane at the Bartlett Hayward plant, a ship on the ways at Fairfield, is nothing at all as long as it remains unmoved; it might as well be just so much ore still in the mines, as far as winning the war is concerned. To be of any value, the stuff has to be moved to where it is needed; and moving the incomprehensibly great tonnage of our war production is a job that is straining the whole transportation system, and the railroads in chief.

A vivid demonstration of the intensity of the strain was furnished here when the truckers quit work for a few hours only; a continuation of even that brief stoppage threatened to choke the whole port of Baltimore, second largest in the country, and to force an embargo until the accumulation could be cleared.

On the railroads even the slightest interruption piles up traffic in an appalling way. Shall we then side track a dozen freight trains, carrying guns and tanks and planes, in order to let a football special go by? Still we make a battalion of engineers, headed for Ireland or Hawaii, wait for a day because all the passenger cars are in using carrying people to the race tracks? Shall the railroads permit indefinitely the use of refrigerator cars for shipping wholly luxury items, such as the California dahlias lately reported here in the Baltimore market? Not if we really mean to win this war.

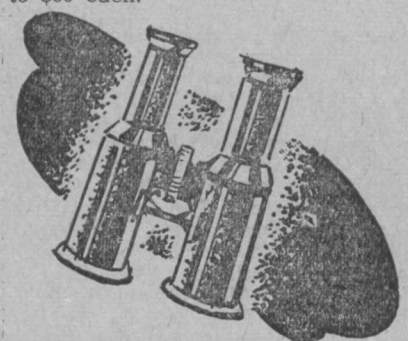

The stuff must be moved. The stuff is going to be moved. Anybody who, for whatever reason gets in the way of the movement is going to be run over.—The Baltimore Sun.

Thrill the appetites of the family with tasty meals that are different. ### What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Navy is making a plea to civilians to turn in their binoculars for military use during the War. The Army and Navy both need binoculars for navigation and scouting purposes. Depending on the power of the lenses, they cost from $50 to $80 each.

If you have a set of 6 x 30 up to 7 x 50-power lenses binoculars loan them to the Army or Navy. If not, your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help buy this equipment for our fighting forces. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday will do the job . . . and provide the "eyes" through which a scouting pilot may spot an enemy battleship.

Discusses Four Basic

Needs for Happiness

Four ways to promote human happiness in spite of the war were described by Dr. M. E. John, associate professor of rural sociology at the Pennsylvania State college.

Four basic desires must be satisfied if people are to be happy, in either wartime or normal times, Dr. John said. They are (1) the desire for recognition, (2) the desire to explain one's relationship to his environment, (3) satisfaction of physiological needs, and (4) affectionate family relationships.

"War does not change these needs in people," he said. "It merely changes the way we meet them. Where customary activities are thwarted, substitutes must be found."

Families whose sons have gone to war, for example, should substitute increased participation in community activities for interrupted family relationships, he suggested. Civilian defense projects and work in organized charities will prevent loneliness and self-pity.

Furthermore, in group activities many people will develop unsuspected talents and receive the recognition they need to be happy.

The need for physical stamina in wartime steps up the attention given to health and nutrition problems and thus contributes to the sum total of human happiness, Dr. John added. Communities who want contented citizens must provide sanitation and adequate housing for them.

Is This an Example of #### Nature Making an Error?

One of the finds of the Smithsonian institution expedition which spent the summer exploring ancient deposits in Montana was the fossilized skeleton of a bird-footed dinosaur. This creature, according to Charles W. Gilmore, leader of the expedition, left a track which, except for its size, was strikingly like that of a present-day bird.

Living 120 million years ago this animal represents one of Nature's attempts to alter her monsters of that age to enable them to endure the changing conditions on earth. The bird-dinosaur weighed less than a ton. Unlike some of the heavier members of the family whose legs would barely support their great weight it possessed speed which enabled it to escape many dangers to which the large slow creatures fell prey.

Of course Nature went farther in the bird direction and created flying reptiles with a 20-foot wingspread. These are known to us as pterodactyls. They proved, however, to be one of Nature's mistakes. Neither flying nor walking well they were entirely unfitted to live in the hostile surroundings in which they found themselves. They would drop on their prey from the air, but once on the ground they were practically helpless and would have to crawl to the top of a hill to again launch themselves.

For a Close Shave

Modern American women, who are used to clean-shaven men, possibly were more disturbed than anyone else when the War Production board restricted the number of razor blades that may be manufactured. However, the conservation bureau of OPA came to their rescue, and gave out instructions as to how the life and usefulness of the blades may be extended. Proper shaving technique and correct care of the blade after the shave, say these Washington authorities, go a long way toward prolonging the usefulness of razor blades. Washing the face thoroughly with soap and water before shaving is one of the steps recommended not only by the OPA but also by most of the manufacturers of shaving soaps and creams. This face washing helps the lather to make each individual hair less resistant and not so likely to dull the edge of the blade. The preliminary face wash serves also to reduce the chances of infection from razor cuts.

What'll They Think Up Next?

Development of a new technique in wrapping oranges and other citrus makes possible preservation of these products for several months. Tests in the laboratories of the Florida Experiment station demonstrated that grapefruit wrapped in plexiglass and stored at 70 degrees temperature for seven months retained its texture and juices, and seed showed no indication of sprouting. The wrapping allows transmission of carbon dioxide with enough rapidity to keep the fruit from suffocating, but transmits moisture vapor slowly enough to prevent loss of moisture, retaining the juices and fullness of the fruit, and preserving vitamin content.

Good Eyes for Production

Good eyes are exactly as important on the production line as on the firing line.

Studies in recent years have indicated that approximately half of the workers in industry had visual defects. With the withdrawal of the younger men to the armed forces, very likely somewhere near 60 per cent of the war workers have shortcomings in vision. It is estimated that half of the adults with visual defects, through ignorance or neglect fail to correct such defects and bring their eyes up to par. Thus it appears likely that several million war workers are carrying on their tasks in a half seeing world.

FEESBURG.

Look who's here! October—in her bright colors, frosty mornings, falling leaves, corn husking, pumpkin pies, making cider—fresh apple butter; some noted anniversaries—for we discover a continent this month, and last of all—Hallowe'en.

There was preaching services at the Methodist Church in Middleburg morning and evening on Sunday, by the pastor Rev. W. Allen. At night he spoke earnestly on the sin of ingratitude, which deserved a larger audience.

The covered dish social in the church hall at Middleburg last Thursday evening proved quite a success as to attendance, sociability, and a large variety of good things to eat, beside a nice sum of money for the treasury of the Aid Society.

Sunday School at Mt. Union conducted by Roger Sentz on Sunday morning was well attended, and offering made to the Jewish Mission in Baltimore $5.00 from the treasury beside individual gifts. They also decided to send a shower of post cards on Wednesday to the pastor, Rev. G. W. Bowersox, Jr., at Mt. University Hospital, Baltimore, where he is steadily improving, and hopes to be home soon.

We are in receipt of the "Parish Messenger" for the last quarter of the year, from Seven Valleys Lutheran Parish composed of Friedensaal's Church, St. Paul's and Trinity—Rev. M. L. Kroh, pastor. It is quite interesting with births, baptisms, confirmations, weddings, their sick list and deaths. Millard and Henry Kroh, sons of the pastor, had their tonsils removed in June. A joint council meeting in July decided to grant their pastor a vacation of four weeks, instead of two weeks as heretofore; also to increase his salary $200 in appreciation of his services. Improvements were made at each church with expenses fully met. Congratulations!

For the benefit of New Windsor's correspondent we will say the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee" is founded on the Dream of Jacob as given in Gen. 28:11-12, 18-9, and for "Ein Feste Burg" Martin Luther was inspired—when in trouble by the first 7 verses of the 46th Psalm.

Saturday was a day of sales around us; some of our citizens went to Keymar to the household sale of Mrs. Crawford; and others to the stock and implement sale of Seven Fogle while some went both places. A crowd of people attended the latter—where prices soared. Two other sales were not far away, and there's more to follow soon.

Mrs. Myrtle Koons Sentz after spending a short vacation with her mother at the home of her sister in Uniontown was with her aunt, Rosa Koons Bohn for the close of last week and visited other relatives in Union Bridge. She returned to her work at the Sewing Factory in Taneytown on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sellers, both of whom have secured employment in Washington, D. C., spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Roger Sentz and family.

With two sisters and brothers of Roland Forney, Miss Catherine Crumbacker, spent the week-end at Atlantic City where Roland is located at the Ritz Hotel for military service and she had a nice sight-seeing trip.

We will have an opportunity to vote against the movies on Sunday at the coming election, and do trust the voters of Carroll County will for righteousness sake, "Remember the Sabbath Day to Keep it Holy." How dare we ask God to protect our boys, and give us the victory in this dreadful war, if we are breaking his commandments at home?

'Tis time to start our sick-list but tho' somewhat earlier than other years but that sudden change of weather from extreme heat to unusual cold within a few hours—caused sore throats, grip, arthritis, and various diseases of colds—so many are indisposed at this writing.

The morning paper (Tuesday) announces the death of our early neighbor and life-long friend, Roy H. Stover at the Hanover General Hospital, where he had been a patient since Sept. 24, and had undergone an operation. He was 63 years of age, and leaves his good wife (nee Ella Dutera) and three married sons. He had been employed by the Century Ribbon Mills, Inc., as an inspector; but was in failing health for some time. We knew him best in his early life, and he was a dear little fellow and pal of our youngest brother; and what those two didn't inspect is still unknown. Funeral services was held at his home in Hanover on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. John S. Tome of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, officiating, with interment in Mt. Olive cemetery. Of a large family only his brother John W. Stover of York and one sister, Mrs. Minerva S. Seifert, Harrisburg, remain.

House cleaning is the order of the day now. We do not find as much dust as some years, but we won't say a word about the spider webs—only "they are found in Kings palaces"—and we might as well install Royalty.

The corn pickers is another wonderful invention, and very much in demand just now, and what would the farmer do—with all the able men at military tactics? They are trying hard to get the ground ready, and wheat sown, and some is coming thru nicely.

In the middle of his fourth consecutive term as State's Attorney for Carroll County, Mr. Brown submitted to the Court his resignation from the duties of that high and important Office. His competency, and the character of his public service are indicated in the following letter, signed by HON. F. NEAL PARKE, then Chief Judge, and by HON. WILLIAM HENRY FORSYTHE, JR., then Associate, and now Chief Judge of this Circuit:

May 29, 1933.

"Theodore F. Brown, Esq.,
The State's Attorney of Carroll County.
Westminster, Maryland.
Sir:

The receipt of your recent letter requesting that the court accept your resignation of the office of State's Attorney for Carroll County as of June 1, 1933, has caused the court much concern; and it is unwilling to accept your resignation without making an appeal to you to reconsider your action and withdraw your resignation before it becomes effective.

The undersigned members of the court subscribe this letter because they are the two who are familiar with the manner of your performance of your official duties, and of their social and economic value, which are far in excess of any possible remuneration." They wrote the words—not as practitioners, but as Judges—a fateful difference.

At no time has the administration of true justice by the Courts been more important to lawyers and laymen alike.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) F. NEAL PARKE,
(Signed) WM. HENRY FORSYTHE, JR.

No,—this is not adroit political palaver by men in high places,—calculated to bolster the cause of an associate in any campaign.

Neither is it the effort of attorneys to influence the electorate to place upon the bench anyone who might, conceivably, be a "friendly court" to them as practicing lawyers.

Rather is it true, genuine recognition of the ability of Theodore F. Brown. Fresh in their minds were his consecration, his sacrifices and his indefatigable effort during his previous fourteen years in the administration of justice in Carroll County. "They are the two who are familiar with the manner of your performance of your official duties, and of their great social and economic value, which are far in excess of any possible remuneration." They wrote the words—not as practitioners, but as Judges—a fateful difference.

At no time has the administration of true justice by the Courts been more important to lawyers and laymen alike.

A Bit of Trickery

By
R. HILL WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers—WNU Features.

IN ORDER to gain an end, Preston Mason had resorted to artifice. "Come on out," he urged the beautiful Ina, "for just a minute. I've something to tell you, and it's important, too." Ina yielded. Once outside, alone, away from the country club ball-room lights, Preston turned to her and smiled.

Ina eyed him coldly. "So! It was a trick! You didn't have anything important to say. I might have known. I might have remembered that you couldn't have anything important to say. You're not bright enough."

She started away, but Preston caught her arm. "Now, Ina, wait a minute. My real purpose was to warn you against David Rollins." "Warn me against him!" Ina stared.

"You've been seeing David a lot lately. Too much. First thing you know he'll simply take it for granted you're interested in him, and then you'll find yourself in a jam. David isn't the man you want to marry, in spite of his money. You're not his type. Besides, you're in love with me."

"Well!" Ina choked, groping for adequate words to express her rage. "Preston Mason, I think you're the most insolent, insulting, conceited person I've ever known. I wouldn't marry you if you were the last person on earth! You—you haven't even a sense of honor or self-respect, else you wouldn't have tricked me into coming out here."

"Preston Mason, I think you're the most insolent, insulting, conceited person I've ever known."

"If you didn't care," said Preston easily, "you wouldn't have let yourself be tricked."

Which remark stung Ina to the quick. She whirled, white with rage, and left him standing there. Inside she saw David Rollins, and she went to him. "Take me home, David. I've—I've a headache."

David was delighted. He got her wraps and helped her into his $3,000 roadster and tucked a robe about her slippers feet, for the night was chilly. His concern regarding her alleged headache was thrilling. So thrilling, in fact, that when they reached the drive at Ina's home she did not at once offer to get out. Instead, in reply to his questions she admitted that her headache had vanished and she felt quite fit.

Whereupon David reached into his pocket and produced a little box. Ina gasped when he opened it at the sight of the diamond that sparkled there.

"Darling," he said, "I know I shouldn't expect you to love me so soon, but tomorrow I'm leaving for Chicago on a two weeks' business trip. I thought if—would you wear it until I got back. Sort of—an approval. It would make me tremendously happy, and you would have two weeks to think things over."

He waited hopefully, his eyes pleading. Ina's thoughts were chaotic. Presently she thought of Preston Mason and the episode on the club veranda. She thought of this and she thought of that. And in the end she held out her hand and David slipped the ring on the proper finger and then kissed her.

Three days after David's departure Ina gave up trying to drive thoughts of Preston from her mind and quite openly began to wonder why he hadn't called. It wasn't like Preston not to call. That was what had always annoyed her about Preston. He had always taken it for granted that she wanted him to call, that she was interested in him, that she even loved him. His attitude went against her grain. If he only weren't so irresponsible, if he possessed a sense of honor or scruples or was willing to admit that her winning required an effort, she might—well, she might even like Preston.

Obviously Preston had changed. She hadn't seen him since that night at the country club and he hadn't called by phone. Not like Preston at all. Almost with a feeling of horror she wondered whether he had ceased being interested in her. She wondered, too, what he would be like, if such were the case. Finally, she decided to find out. It was as good an excuse as any to see him.

The next day she went for a walk, returning on the Bristol road at about the time Preston was due to come along, en route home from his duties in the neighboring town. She heard the familiar chug of his ancient automobile before it reached her, and despite herself her heart began to pound. She knew a feeling of relief when the chugging slowed down and a familiar voice asked her if she wanted to ride.

During the drive back to town Preston talked about the weather and about the country club dance and even touched on the general chaotic condition of the world. When he deposited her at her own doorstep Ina was furious. He hadn't even mentioned her ring, or their quarrel, or the fact that he was contemplating suicide because of her engagement. The insolent thing!

It was four full days before Ina cooled off enough to inveigle another ride from Preston. During that period he hadn't called, and she had been wholly miserable because of his neglect. This time she suppressed her pride by sheer will-power and phoned him.

"Preston," she said, "I have to get over to Oakland tonight and the folks are using our car. Would you drive me over and back?"

"Why," said Preston, politely enthusiastic, "I'd love to."

And in ten minutes he was out front. Midway to Bristol the car of ancient vintage gave a couple of fitful coughs and died. Preston looked concerned and apologetic. Of all times to have this happen! Would there be serious consequences if she didn't reach Oakland within the hour?

Oh, no, Ina told him, it wasn't important. And she blessed the fact that Preston wasn't rich, because if he were rich he could afford a car that wouldn't break down.

There was nothing to do but wait until another car came along by which they could send word to the nearest garage. Ina made herself comfortable. Preston lit a cigarette. There followed a period of silence. Presently Preston sat upright with a start.

"What is it?" asked Ina in faint alarm.

"Heavens!" said Preston. "I just thought of something." Without warning he leaned over and kissed her. "There."

"Preston Mason," began Ina angrily, but Preston interrupted.

"Now don't start lecturing about my sense of honor. I've a clear conscience. It just occurred to me that if you had no moral sense of honor than to go out with me while you're engaged to another man, there's no reason for me to be bothered by scruples either."

"I'm not engaged."

"You're wearing David's ring."

"It's only on approval and—"

"To teach me a lesson," Preston finished.

Ina bit her lip. "Oh, Preston, everything's so confused in my mind. I don't know what to do. I really didn't have to go to Oakland tonight. I—"

"Well, the car isn't really broken down, either. I can start it any time. Shall I?" He turned on the ignition switch.

Ina blinked. "Preston Mason, you just haven't a sense of honor. However, since we're already stopped—"

"I get it," Preston grinned. And he turned off the ignition switch, and put the key into his pocket.

Eye-Conscious Class

STATE COLLEGE, PA.—Prospective Johnny Doughboys with weak eyes won't flunk the army physical examination at the Pennsylvania State college under a new "eye-conscious" program originated by the school of physical education and athletics.

A compulsory vision clinic has been established for freshman hygiene classes in order to make potential draftees more "eye-minded." The clinic will be conducted by H. R. Jones, chairman of the Pittsburgh division, Illuminating Engineering Society of America.

Uncle Sam's future soldiers will be instructed in three phases. The students will be taught by lecture and demonstration concerning the proper care of eyes; preliminary examinations will be made by the student health service and college reading clinic; and students will be guided to the right type of eye specialists for correction. If financial assistance is needed, college authorities will direct them to available loan funds.

"We believe that students must feel responsible for preparing themselves now, not when they get in the army," Dr. Arthur F. Davis, associate professor of physical education in charge of the program, said. "This clinic prepares students mentally and helps them beat the gun."

Dr. Davis said that the college would also teach the future draftee and volunteer about preventive eye-strain. Advice will be given on eye rest, adequate illumination, eye cleanliness, study habits, protection from infectious diseases, fatigue, nutrition, and light evolution.

Two surveys will be made. There will be a study of lighting conditions in dormitory and fraternity rooms, and another group will determine laboratory lighting where concentrated work is done.

"If the army and navy want men who can see clearly, students must be taught to prevent instead of waiting to cure eye conditions," Dr. Davis said.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 2:14-17; John 6:66-70; Philippians 3:7-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—What things were gained to me, those I counted loss for Christ.—Philippians 3:7.

Loyalty is undoubtedly one of the finest traits of mankind. Because of its strength, its fidelity to duty, etc., shrewd men have learned to play upon man's loyalty, making it serve evil and ignoble ends. Unworthy causes, having thus gained the interest of man by fair means or foul, have demanded blind loyalty. Even in the carrying out of crime there has been the suggestion that there is some kind of a code of honor, a loyalty among thieves.

All this does not change the fact that there is a high and holy impulse in man to stand true to the right; and in the Christian, to be found ever loyal to the Christ, whose we are and whom we serve. Faith in Christ (our lesson of last week) is rightly followed by loyalty to Him. It manifests itself in three ways.

I. Following Christ (Mark 2:14-17).

Without obedience there is no use talking about loyalty. When Jesus said: "Follow me," Matthew (Levi) arose and followed. He was a sinner (v. 17), a man of the despised calling of tax-gatherer (v. 14), but he was ready for the call of Jesus.

Notice also that following Christ carries with it the privilege and obligation (it is both) of making Him known to our friends. Matthew did not wait until he had made a new circle of friends and then invite them to a feast. He celebrated his entrance upon the new life of faith by a friendly and effective testimony before his friends who were publicans and sinners.

Notice the words of Jesus in verse 17. It is not good people, satisfied in their own self-righteousness, who get to heaven. It is sinners, saved by grace, who will there magnify the Saviour's name.

II. Faithfulness to Christ (John 6:66-69).

It is one thing to begin, but quite another to persevere in well doing. Jesus had been doing many miracles and a host of followers had flocked to Him. He had not only done great deeds, but had spoken beautiful words about the Fatherhood of God, the power of the Holy Spirit, etc. He had fed the five thousand, and the, liked that too.

But now He had talked about a broken body, about partaking of His flesh and His blood, and they did not like it. This reached too deeply into the necessity for a personal spiritual experience, and one that spoke of sacrifice, and many of the disciples "walked no more with him" (v. 66).

How perfect a picture of the "religious experience" of multitudes of men and women in our day.

The true disciple, however, stands truest in just such an hour. "We believe," said Peter, and he spoke better than ever before in his life. "We don't understand everything (that's the thought back of "To whom shall we go?"), but we believe, and we will stand fast." Blessed word of loyalty!

Observe that Peter and his brethren recognized Christ as the "Holy One of God," that is, God's Son in a unique and intimate sense, One close to and participating in the holiness of God. Loyalty will not hold on any lesser concept of Christ. There is no incentive to real service and sacrifice in the watered-out religious faith of the modernistic liberal!

III. Forsaking All for Christ (Phil. 3:7-11).

There were a number of things in the life of Paul as a natural man of which he was justifiably proud, but which in the light of his relationship to Christ paled into insignificance. The best this world can offer looks like rubbish (v. 8)—which it really is—when one catches a glimpse of Jesus Christ.

Turn your eyes upon Jesus, Look full in His wonderful face, And the things of earth will grow strangely dim.

In the light of His glory and grace. However, that experience of Paul's was only the beginning of a life of devotion to the Lord, which is expressed in words the depth of which we cannot fully plumb. What does it mean to know "the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, being made comfortable unto his death"? We do not fully know, but certain we are that it speaks of a fellowship with Christ that is very deep and intimate; a life of power, because He lives in and works through the believer; a sharing with Him of the hatred and bitterness of the world, yes, of death, if need be, for Him, in the assurance of resurrection.

This is an "all out" Christian experience, nothing held back, nothing thought to be too difficult or trying—everything gladly given in unstinted love and devotion to Christ. Now the Christian church is languishing for the want of those who will forsake all to follow Him in complete faithfulness.

LETTER FROM DETROIT

months, as it is one of the things I can do while sitting down. So I will have to keep a little back for the next letter.

Before closing, I wish to qualify my statement about the fertility of the Jackson prairie, as far as the use of fertilizer goes. You know land wears out and in 25 years when the situation was as I stated above, things may have changed, and I do not want to write anything that would create a desire on the part of my farmer friends in Carroll county to pull up stakes and move to Ohio. You have the most beautiful country in the world, and also the best land. So just stick to it, and some time the clouds that now surround you, will break, lack of help, etc., and the sun will shine as it did before the dreadful days of war.

The Coast Guard has underway the greatest building program in its history.

GOVERNOR O'CONOR SAYS

The silent, grim determined attitude of our people is a splendid one. The absence of fanfare and flourish is a true indication of their quiet acceptance of a great task.

No stirring slogans were necessary to enlist the thousands of loyal Marylanders who stand 24 hour watch in "spotter" posts. No cheerleaders were necessary to create Maryland's efficient and alert Civilian Defense organization. The toiling hands of labor were not spurred on by flag waving or fiery oratory to accomplish the seemingly impossible in war production.

Yes, this is a people's war. We are all in it. We are all in it with both hands and feet. We are too busy for hymns of hate. Our song will be withheld until we have earned the right to lift our voices in a jubilant hymn of victory.

ANNOUNCEMENT

By

A. EARL SHIPLEY

Republican Candidate for State Senator

Four years ago I asked the people of Carroll County to support me for the office of State Senator, and while I made no one-term representations at the time, it was my purpose not to seek reelection.

The experience of service in the 1939 and 1941 sessions was all that I had hoped it would be, and through diligent effort I was able to accomplish my entire program of local legislation for my County. This program has had the support of, and has been participated in by, a conservative Board of County Commissioners during the period of my service in the State Senate and as counsel to the County Commissioners.

At this time Carroll County needs very little by way of legislation of a purely local character, but it may require tireless vigilance on the part of its legislative representatives to preserve and keep its present institutions and its enviable fiscal position among the counties of the state and nation. Its public school construction program is almost completed; it has control of the maintenance and construction of county roads, financed by revenues from gasoline taxes, and it owns adequate modern road machines and equipment; the taxpayers enjoy a reasonably equitable assessment of their property, and some improvement in the methods and mechanics of property assessment is in contemplation for action on a state-wide scale by the next Legislature; our school teachers and many of our public officers are being more adequately compensated for their work in the service of the county, notwithstanding a reasonably low tax rate; and all county indebtedness of every nature has been completely liquidated and a pay-as-you-go basis definitely adopted and in practice.

From a personal viewpoint I should aspire to no greater honor than that which was accorded me by the General Assembly of Maryland through service upon many of the important Committees of the Senate, in membership through 1939 and 1940 on the Legislative Council, and in the unanimous endorsement of my colleagues in the Senate for appointment as a Circuit Court Judge.

Beyond these many considerations, coupled with the confidence shown by my own people through my former election, I have no greater aspirations, and I had hoped that my party would produce some other candidate for the office of State Senator at the coming election. However, none appeared or showed evidence of a desire for this service.

The next Legislature will have tremendous problems of state-wide significance to meet and deal with, particularly if world peace is realized during the next four years. And it was with the extreme gravity of our present situation in mind, and with the hope that my action would be in accord with the wishes of the citizens of Carroll County, that I filed my certificate of candidacy for re-election. Because of my participation in other activities in the interests of our war effort, I shall not have the time nor the gasoline to make an extensive campaign, and that is my explanation of and excuse for this lengthy announcement.

If the county electorate desires me to continue my service in the State Senate during another term, I promise to support the legislative program of the next Governor of Maryland, as I did that of the present Governor, whenever it appears to me to be sound and desirable in the interest of the whole state, and as vigorously to oppose any part of such program as may appear to have been too hastily conceived, partisan in its scope, or otherwise undesirable, according to my limited understanding.

A. EARL SHIPLEY,

WESTMINSTER, MARYLAND.

NORMAN R. HESS for County Commissioner

The pressing need of Carroll County is more good roads. I am in favor of building as fast as the tax payers can pay.

It took seven years to pay the $300,000 debt of the County, 1935 to 1942. If you approve of a debt-free County, elect a man who will keep it that way.

Your support is respectfully solicited.

THANK YOU!

Watch for advertisement next week and vote November 3.

USE A
RED BARN PAINT

A good dependable Barn Red made of really high grade materials is a rare thing. Most barn paints are made down to a price. Not how good but how cheap!

Your painter charges just as much to apply a cheap paint that will soon get dark and go to pieces as for a fine, satisfactory paint.

Our C & D. Barn Paint is a bright red and will not disappear. It is made of pure Linseed Oil and Red Oxide. A splendid paint and only costs $1.75 A GALLON in 5-gallon cans.

INVEST 10% OF YOUR INCOME IN WAR BONDS

Money talks. But money can't talk us out of the trouble we are in now. Money has got to work. Money has got to fight...

Your dollars are desperately needed to buy faster planes, heavier tanks, harder-hitting guns, to knock out our enemies.

Invest 10% or more of your income in War bonds. Your money will all come back with interest—and more of our boys will come back, too, if you give them the superior weapons needed for victory.

Too old
to fight?
Not me!

"Isn't my defense work fighting? Isn't my purchase of War Bonds fighting? Isn't my 'going without' things I need fighting? And how about my bank account— isn't that fighting? I keep it growing—the bank keeps it working for Victory!"

We'll say you're fighting, mister. And you are right about that bank account. People who make regular thrift deposits help themselves and their country. Thrift is vital to America. Let's all practice it.

County Commissioner

Having 4 years experience as County Commissioner from 1930 to 1934 and helped reduce the tax rate from $1.65 to $1.00, and during the depression when the County Business was managed to the best interest for the taxpayer. I stand for the maintenance of the school on the high standard that they are. I stand for each district in the County getting its equal share of the road money for roads. I believe in EQUAL RIGHTS for all and SPECIAL PRIVILEGES TO NONE. Because of gas and tire rationing I will be unable to see you personally so I take this means to earnestly ask for your support at the election.
