SOME HISTORICAL FACTS ON LINCOLN

Connected With Taneytown Families.

I have just read in this issue of the Record of the "presentation of facts" in the life of Abraham Lincoln, in the Taneytown High School, given recently by my cousin Wirt Crapster, commemorating the Birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

I should like to add a little real history, which no doubt Carroll countians shall find of interest. On the land along Monocacy now owned by the Misses Baumgardner, the family of Thomas and Mary Wilson lived. They settled there in 1751, and Thomas had acquired 1122 acres by 1764, at the time of his death. He left Mary with 10 children, the youngest being less than a year of age.

The third child was Susanna Wilson who married Biggar Head, son of Ann Biggar and John Head, of Calvert Co., Md. They moved to Kentucky about 1786-8—and their son Jesse Head married the parents of Abraham Lincoln. I know this from family history, and further proof of it—May 23, 1938 in "Lincoln Lore." A Bulletin No. 476 of the "Lincoln Natural Life Foundation," by Dr. Louis A. Warren, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, in which he states:

"Jesse Head, Methodist by Faith, born in Frederick Co., Md., 6-10-1768, and as early as 1797 was in Kentucky."

The Washington Co. Ky. Court on February 8, 1803 authorized him to solemnize the rites of matrimony. And three years later, on June 12, 1806, he served as officiating clergyman at the wedding of Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, two young persons he had personally known for many years.

Joseph Wilson the 5th, child was my Grandmother, Susan Wilson Biggs-Close's grandfather, a Revolutionary soldier, of Frederick Co., Md., and resident thereof—and my D. A. R. ancestor. Sincerely,
MRS. ETHEL CLOSE BUCKEY,
1530 Sheffield Road,
Baltimore, Md.

The estimate that the East Coast ban on non-essential driving was saving 30,000 barrels a day was made in Washington recently by Prentiss M. Brown, OPA Administrator. The estimate was based on reports from the petroleum industry showing that at various points along the East Coast passenger car gasoline consumption has fallen off from 15 percent to 25 percent since the ban went into effect early in January.

The Price Administrator at that time, paid tribute to the cooperative spirit of the American people in commenting upon the success of the emergency measure.

Mr. Brown also explained that our petroleum supply situation in the Eastern area is critical and promises to remain so for the next month or six weeks. "It is necessary," he added, "to have this curtailment in order to keep the value of fuel oil coupons as high as possible."

The Office of Price Administration announced today that the maximum price established in the Maryland area for 93-score butter, packed in one-pound cartons in quarter-pound prints, is 57 cents per pound in the Independent retail stores. This is the highest price that any retailer who sells from a store may charge for this type butter. The maximum price at which a route seller, such as the dairy companies, may charge will be 58c per pound for 93-score butter, packed in one-pound cartons in quarter-pound prints.

TANEYTOWN SCHOOL NEWS.

The faculty of the Taneytown and Harney Schools assisted by the patrons and some of the Seniors and Juniors of the High School worked together at the school from Wednesday through Saturday issuing War Ration Book II. Three thousand five hundred and seventy-seven books were issued.

The library has been fortunate in receiving an exceptionally interesting exhibit on Latin America. More than ever before, it becomes imperative for North Americans to cement our friendship with the Americans who live south of us, so that together we may build democratic solidarity in this hemisphere.

On top of a display case were the twenty-one flags of our good neighbors. The care of the exhibit is a group of selected books on such subjects as art, archaeology, folklore, history and picture books. Various Indian crafts ranging from weaving to painted objects d'art could be seen. The following objects are on display: 1 small box with pottery and about 1500 to 2000 years old; 1 painted pig; 1 mat from Mexico; 1 woven sash from Peru; 1 woven sash from Guatemala; 1 Indian shopping bag; 1 straw doll; 2 fiesta masks from Mexico; 1 knitted Andean Indian cap; 25 Books on the Latin American countries; 19 pamphlets.

Included in the display are numerous educational and picturesque posters and small mounts on clothing, people, coins, cloth, instruments, Bolivar, and paper money.

This unusual exhibition was sent to us by the Federal Security Agency, U. S. office of Education, Washington, D. C.

The Third Grade is having their assembly program, March 10, 1943, at 2:45 P. M. in the auditorium. Mrs. Stuart Weidner, who lived in Alaska for eight years will be the speaker. The public is cordially invited.

RATIONING BOARD

Gasoline Saved by Auto Driving and Ceiling Prices

Car owners in Carroll County were congratulated today by Dr. Fred Holloway, Chairman of the Carroll Co. War Price and Rationing Board, for their part in helping the East Coast save 30,000 barrels of gasoline a day through the ban on non-essential driving.

Pointing out that this saving is making possible more space in tank cars and motor trucks for transporting home heating oil in this area, the ration board chairman emphasized the importance of continuing, and increasing, if possible, the saving at least during the crucial winter weeks immediately ahead.

"I know that the fine cooperation which our own citizens have given the drive has played a vital part in the success of the ban throughout the East where lack of transportation has made petroleum supplies desperately short this winter," Dr. Holloway said. "The response of the great majority of the motorists public shows how we can meet problems when we are faced with the need for action."

"I think no one will dispute my belief that there is no choice between driving for fun or convenience, and heating homes or keeping war plants running. And that is exactly what we are up against. Until warm weather sets in, it will be necessary to use every available tank car for fuel oil to heat homes and operate industrial plants doing war work. That means less gasoline can be brought in."

The estimate that the East Coast ban on non-essential driving was saving 30,000 barrels a day was made in Washington recently by Prentiss M. Brown, OPA Administrator. The estimate was based on reports from the petroleum industry showing that at various points along the East Coast passenger car gasoline consumption has fallen off from 15 percent to 25 percent since the ban went into effect early in January.

The Price Administrator at that time, paid tribute to the cooperative spirit of the American people in commenting upon the success of the emergency measure.

The maximum price at which a route seller, such as the dairy companies, may charge will be 58c per pound for 93-score butter, packed in one-pound cartons in quarter-pound prints.

A recent survey showed that in most independent retail stores, higher prices than the above were charged. We are calling the attention of the housewife to the fact that this is a fixed price and should, in any instance she find that her grocer is charging more than 57 cents per pound for one-pound packages, or 29 cents for a half pound, or 14 cents for a quarter pound for 93-score butter, packed as stated above, she should report this first to her grocer, and if he does not comply with the regulation, report the fact to the Office of Price Administration.

Lower score butter is lower in price as follows: 92-score, 57 cents in stores; 57 cents from routes; 90-score 56c from stores, 57c from routes; 89-score 56c in stores, 57c from routes; cooking butter 54c from stores, 56c from routes.

1943 RED CROSS DRIVE IS NOW ON

The Taneytown District Quota is $1300.00.

Within the next several days, you will be contacted by, perhaps, your neighbor, asking for your contribution to the 1943 American Red Cross War Fund.

The American Red Cross is supported by the public, and operates under Congressional charter and international treaty. In war, it is an auxiliary of the armed forces. Today its activities girdle the globe. In the theatres of war, Red Cross workers bridge the gap between the service man and his family; aid the sick and wounded; provide blood plasma, and through Red Cross clubs, give service men an American home abroad. Here on the home front, Red Cross resources stand mobilized against disaster and the reach of war. Millions of adult and junior members help guard our national security. They aid service and ex-service men and their families; provide voluntary nurses' aides, classes in nutrition, home nursing, first aid, and allied activities.

The 1943 War Fund goal is $125,000,000, 65 percent of which goes directly to benefit those in the armed forces in innumerable different ways. The other 35 percent is devoted to home front work. In this drive, each local chapter of the Red Cross has its own quota which it will strive to reach through local subscriptions. The Taneytown district has been assigned a quota of $1,300. May we suggest that you decide now to give to the war fund, to give all that you can possibly afford—and then add some to it.

If, within the next few days, you have not been contacted by one of your neighbors, serving as a voluntary solicitor, you are invited to bring your subscription to either the Birnie Trust Company or to the Taneytown Savings Bank, where, in recognition of your subscription, you will be given the label button, window sticker, and certificate of membership.

PYTHIAN ANNIVERSARY

The Pythian Sisters Past Chiefs Club held their regular meeting and 2nd anniversary of the Club at the home of Mrs. Augustus Crabbs, Tuesday evening, March 3. The meeting opened by singing "O Columbia the Gem of the Ocean"; the Lord's Prayer in unison; reading of minutes; Roll-call was answered by the favorite spring flower. 14 members and 3 guests were present at the meeting.

Mrs. Howard Baker the president presided during the meeting. Four of the members were each presented with a beautiful handkerchief for their birthday and "Happy Birthday To You" was sung. After the business session and the singing of "Maryland, My Maryland" the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting to be the first Tuesday in April, at the home of Mrs. Frank Crouse, April 6, 1943.

The hostess invited all to the social room where the table was beautifully decorated in red, white and blue and a beautiful large birthday cake with two candles for the 2nd. anniversary of the Club. Games were played and all enjoyed the evening. About 26 were present.

HOMEMAKERS' CLUB MEETS

The Taneytown Homemakers' Club held its monthly meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Walter A. Bower, on Thursday afternoon, March 4, at 2:00 o'clock.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition," and "Over There."

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, each member responded to the roll-call by telling her chief family recreation. A new member, Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner was added to the roll.

Mrs. Rein Motter reported that there was a balance of $23.00 in the treasury. The club agreed to give a donation of $5.00 to the Red Cross.

A splendid demonstration, "Repairing Methods for Men's Clothing" was given by Miss Adeline Hoffman, Home Demonstration Agent.

The meeting adjourned to meet the first Thursday in April.

WHEAT QUOTAS SUSPENDED

Wheat marketing quotas have been suspended by Agriculture Secretary Wickard in a move to insure adequate food and feed supplies. This action lifts marketing quotas and releases at once for food or market any wheat which has been stored. Wheat farmers who meet 90 percent of their farm war crop goals in 1943 will be eligible for AAA wheat payments and wheat loans even though they exceed their wheat allotments. About 350,000 victory farm volunteers will be recruited from non-farm youth for farm work during the spring and summer months. Troop units from nearby military installations will be used for emergency labor to harvest the long staple cotton crop in the area near Phoenix, Arizona.

War Price and Rationing Board No. 237-1 announces that on Sunday, March 1, 1943, OPA inspectors reported twenty-seven motorists for a violation of the ban on pleasure driving. These OPA investigators will continue their surveys of the county.

VICTORY BOOK WEEK

Proclaimed by Governor O'Connor, March 1st to 6th

Governor O'Connor last week officially proclaimed this week Victory Book week. The proclamation is as follows:

"Whereas, March 1st. to 6th. has been designated as "Victory Book Week" for the purpose of obtaining an adequate supply of good and wholesome literature for our men in the armed forces, and

Whereas, reading matter, particularly good books are vital to the morale and happiness of our soldiers, sailors and marines, whether in camps, on ship boards or in the numerous U. S. O. centers where these men seek and find recreation, and

Whereas, the importance of good books as a means of enjoyment and to while away many long and lonely hours is urged by the American Red Cross, the American Library Association, the United Service Organization and many other co-operating agencies.

Now, therefore, I, Herbert R. O'Connor, Governor of Maryland, do hereby designate the week of March 1st. to 6th., as "Victory Book Week," and do urge strongly upon the people of Maryland the great service they can render for National Defense if they will donate and influence others to give any books-fiction, adventure, western, detective, mystery or others—and would further urge that they bear in mind that any book that they have found enjoyable and would like to keep, would be a good book to give.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State of Maryland, at the City of Annapolis, this 24th. day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-three.

HERBERT R. O'CONNOR, Gov.
Thomas Elmo Jones, Sec. of State.

FARMERS GET GAS FOR SIX MONTHS

Farmers may obtain gasoline for their tractors, engines and other non-highway equipment for a period of six months instead of three months under a change in rationing regulations announced by the OPA.

The change is being made because of the variability of farming operations which frequently make it difficult for farmers to estimate their requirements for only a three-month period. It will also save the farmers time.

GAS TO DRIVE TO WORK

Car owners who drive to work and do not get enough mileage from their B Ration Book may now get additional allowance—if they show they cannot get to their jobs any other way.

Applications must be made to local rationing boards and must fulfill the following conditions in addition to needing more gas:

1. That driving is between home and a fixed place of work, in connection with their principal occupation.
2. That either a ride-sharing arrangement has been made or that the vehicle carries a full load, and
3. That alternative transportation is inadequate.

OUTLAW 'COMBINATION SALES'

Sales of used wheel tractors, combines, corn pickers, corn binders, or power-operated hay balers in combination with other used farm equipment or commodities have been prohibited by the OPA. Numerous complaints have been received that the combination sales device is being employed to force to pay exorbitant prices for such items. The scheme used is to sell an uncontrolled machine of little value jointly with a controlled item at a price which greatly exceeds the ceiling for the machine which is under price control.

Random Thoughts

(This is a reprint of an article formerly published. Owing to the popularity of these Random Thoughts we will for a time reproduce others of the same type.)

"SPRING GREENS"

We wonder whether undergoing a course of "Spring greens"—dandelion, narrow leaf dock, sour grass, mustard and a number of other greens and sprouts—and sassafras root bark tea, are not just an old-time idea that such truck is "good for the blood."

It is a pretty clearly established fact now, that according to experts, spinach does not meet its reputation. And kale and carrots are not recommended very highly by the medical profession for vitamins—or whatever it is that they are supposed to contain.

Some of the other old remedies like snake root, calamus, sea tea, chamomile, hoarhound, wood-bitney, etc., likely helped to kill more than they cured.

Anyway, the average span of life is higher now than it ever was, notwithstanding the apparent increase in heart ailments, tuberculosis and appendicitis, Surgery, anaesthetics, antiseptics, X-ray photography, better diagnoses and the war against germs, are away ahead of the old "barb" remedies.

At any rate "spring greens" are going out except with a few old-timers who still hang on to vegetable antiques. P. B. E.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1943

OUR MONEY CREATORS

"Congress shall have power to coin money and to regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, etc." That statement is from the Constitution of the United States and is a part of our fundamental law, yet Congress has not in a hundred and fifty years exercised that power, except for one time during the Civil War when Lincoln, in spite of the Money Creators opposition, when he issued green-backs to carry on the war.

The Money Creators raised "merry hell" about this and predicted that it would ruin the country, but we are not yet ruined and that Lincoln money is still circulating and is as good as the day it was issued—that is, dollar for dollar it is the equal of any other dollars circulating. Had the money creators prevailed over Lincoln, their creation to date would have drawn taxes to about 2 billion dollars which the people would have had to pay. That two billion has been saved for the people. The question naturally arises, if Lincoln could save those billions for us, why cannot our Congress (the sole money creating power in our government) also save us the interest burdens we are forced to bear.

This money creating business as carried on has always been more or less of a racket. In former days when National Banks flooded the country with national bank notes it was possible for a few men with a few thousand dollars to buy government bonds and then deposit them with the Treasury and have the government print with out cost and issue to them 95% of the face value of the bonds deposited as money (bank notes) and at the same time the government paid these money creators the interest on the bonds. In other words the government paid interest on 95% deposited for the 5% which the government actually kept. A pretty good bargain for the money creators. The wonder to me has always been why these Money Creators even let that 5% slip thru their fingers without paying to them the tribute.

The Federal Reserve Bank (a privately owned corporation) has succeeded the old National Bank gang and has learned from them the lessons and improved upon them. It costs the FRB 30c per 1000 dollars worth of money to issue, and the FRB issues this money to its subordinate banks and exacts $50 per one thousand issued. A pretty good profit that, eh? The interest these FRB chaps used to exact was 3% higher, but now that their rake off is billions they are lowering the rates. Generous guys, those FRB chaps!

But, fellow citizens, and taxpayers, why should you and I pay tribute to these FRB money lords, when we the people have it in our own power thru the Congress of the United States to "coin money and regulate the value thereof." Can you assign one single legitimate reason for this shenanigan?

The interest we are now forced to pay is more than two billion dollars a year and growing fast. Why issue bonds? Why waste paper doing so when it is not needed. Let the folding money be issued by Congress backed by the 22 billions of gold we have buried at Ft. Knox and the several billions of silver buried at West Point, and if that isn't enough then let Congress decide to issue money on the credit of the United States up to say 5% of the assessed valuation of all the property in the U. S. fantastic, eh? Why? Doesn't Congress have all the property in the U. S. Fantastic power to tax the power to destroy? Why then shouldn't the Congress exercise the power to tax to save the people the billions paid unnecessarily to private money creators.

Think you this is but a brain storm of mine when I make these brief suggestions? Well I am in good company. Henry Ford, our very greatest industrial genius, advocated the idea years ago. Thomas Edison also believed in it and proclaimed it. All honest men believe in it. Only those who benefit by the graft oppose the congressional saving. How long, Oh Lord, How Long! W. J. H.

UNFAIR TO FARMERS AND WORKERS

Washington, D. C., March—A breakdown of manpower shows that on the basis of present plans the armed services of the United States demand 10,700,000 for the war effort. More than 62,500,000 of America's population will be either in the armed services or employed in various capacities. The official estimate brings 60%, or 38 million, under the heads of "military forces" and war production. The farm situation calls for 8,500,000 workers, and about the best that Secretary Wickard has been able to do is express hopes that 3,000,000 men, women and children may be enlisted to take the places of skilled and regular farm hands who for various reasons have left the farm. The President, Secretary Wickard, Manpower Chairman McNutt and the Congress of the United States apparently agree that the greatest threat to agriculture is manpower.

No one disputes the Secretary of Agriculture who is so optimistic as to predict that the 1943 crops will be the greatest on record. But just how these crops are to be harvested, even with the help of "volunteers" and soldiers is a puzzle for which the answer is lacking. There are not more than 5 million farm workers in sight, and their numbers are decreasing. The reason is that farm workers have no trouble in getting jobs in war production plants at twice the wages they get on the farms.

We are starting right now on a broad food rationing plan, and an emergency price ceiling program has been clamped hurriedly on fresh vegetables at levels that existed about the middle of February. Practically every effort and every plan to increase the rate of pay of farm workers has failed to get the support of the Administration and the war agencies. Senators and Congressmen argue this point and call it unfair to farm workers. It is perfectly evident that the nation is short of manpower. It also appears that the food shortage is mounting with each passing week. And there you are. The farm worker must get more money from now on, or the full harvest will not be gathered from the fields this fall. "Incentive payments," or "subsidies" are in disfavor with Congress. You can't run the farm without men, and you can't get men to work on the farms this year unless they get higher wages than the farmers pay. Senators, Congressmen, Admirals, Generals, Administrators, and all other classes of politicians apparently have not discovered that it takes something more than speeches to make farm workers stay on the farm.—J. E. Jones.

THE WORLD AFTER THE WAR

The terrible calamity of war from which the world suffers can be attributed to failure to make good use of the victory won in the first World War. Germany was thoroughly subdued at that time, and Japan was not committing any special mischief.

The present war may be said to be due the failure of the United States, Britain and France, victors in the first war, to make good use of their victory, and plan for a better world and a peace that would be permanent. Hence, we are told, it is necessary to plan better this time, and so reconstruct world Government that no such thing can happen again.

Any plan that will persuade the nations to settle down and live in peace, should be adopted and backed up to the limit. It is not so easy to formulate plans that will make everyone behave like a good little Sunday School pupil, which will induce selfish nations to give up their destructive policies, and satisfy the normal aspirations of the human race.

The first essential for a peaceful world after the war, would seem to be for the peaceful nations to maintain such strong military power that no warlike nation will dare attack them. So long as we have peace, the world will make good progress.

There will be terrific problems to be worked out. The hungry nations will clamor for food from our country and for help in rebuilding their industries. The United States will be generous, but when people have misfortunes they usually have to emerge from them through their own struggle and self-reliance. The American people can not undertake to solve all problems of the whole world, but they will try to be helpful. The nations can all solve their own problems, if they will give up the idea of attaining prosperity through war, and concentrate on peaceful industry and commerce.—The Frederick Post.

KITCHEN REVOLUTION

The food shortage and the rationing may combine to make American consumers feel they are on a wartime basis, but this is only partially true. To be fully co-operative in helping the farmer save the world from famine, American housewives will have to learn there are foods expensive in terms of labor, no less than in money.

For many years the American housewife has been urged to find many of her food values in dairy products, meats, eggs and vegetables that require many man-hours to produce and handle. The switch must now be made to find these nutritional factors in easily grown cereals and potatoes, with mixed-in proteins from field vegetables, such as soya-bean flour.

Well-balanced meals, replete with essential values, can be prepared from foods cheaper in terms of labor. The stringencies of rationing will doubtless turn the thoughts of housewives in these directions.

The Government, the newspapers, and other agencies must co-operate in presenting accurate information on this subject, for it actually means a revolution in most of the kitchens of America. Many of the eating habits and favored recipes of a generation must be set aside.

Special care and thought might well be given to kitchen suggestions that will retain for American women much of the freedom from long hours over sink and range that they have gained in recent years. Already some are learning that many fruits and vegetables require little or no cooking or preparation before going on the table.—Christian Science Monitor.

LACK OF EDUCATION

A business man submits the following: I feel that our educational system lacks something. By our educational system I do not mean that the system in this community but the country over. I feel that when one graduates from high school he should be able to read simple English readily, use correct grammar, spell, punctuate, compose a grammatical sentence and be able to do readily simple arithmetic. I am not contending that some graduates can do all these things, but I know from experience that many cannot. I am not concerned with what other things are taught at school, but I feel that graduation from high school should depend upon an acceptable working knowledge of these things. I have employed high school graduates in my business, only to find they could not read fluently, could not spell, punctuate or do the simplest business arithmetic. I think we should try to do less things superficially and devote the time to doing a few things thoroughly. I do not mean to say that the three R's are the end and aim of education, but I do feel that without them any education is superficial.—The Caroline Sun.

THE CAN BRIGADE

It is a good thing that some people are able to see the humorous side of any situation. John O'Ren in his column "Down the Spellway" in the Baltimore Sun last Friday, used a little rhyme by Amy Greif which will bring smiles to the faces of many readers. Here it is:

CHARGE OF THE CAN BRIGADE
Apologies to Tennyson)

Most registrants fail to declare any excess stocks, check reveals.—News item.

Half an inch, half an inch,
Half an inch downward,
Into the public schools;
Crept our lines forward;
Teachers to right of us,
Teachers to left of us,
Teachers in front of us,
None of them blundered!
Were pantry shelves well aired?
Were all their secrets bared?
Were all the cans declared?
Most of us wondered!

Ours but to use both eyes,
Writing correct replies,
We and our canned supplies
Now must be sundered!
When will its memory fade?
Oh, the long lines we made!
(Some of us need first aid—
Couple of hundred)!

AMY GREIF.

NOW COME THE "MOPS" WORKING FOR VICTORY

They are working on the home front—those housewives doing their bit behind the frying pan, washing machines and basins—taking their cues from the WAACS and WAVES and banding together in the "Maternal Order of Patriots"—"MOPS" to you. Read about these patriotic women in the March 14th issue of the American Weekly the big Magazine distributed with The Baltimore Sunday American. Ask your Newsdealer to reserve your copy.

Mountain sik troops carry on their backs little oil burners which weigh about three pounds and occupy about 8 by 4 inches in the pack. The burners can be set up and used to work in a minute; boil water in ten minutes; operate at full blast continuously for 4½ hours on one filling; and be used for heating as well as cooking.

RIGHT VARIETIES BRING BEST RETURNS

Certain kinds and varieties of vegetables are more satisfactory than others for small Victory Gardens, according to Dexter Ferry of Ferry-Morse Seed Co. Wise selection is particularly important this year, he says, because the need for food conservation is keen. He gives the following hints for raising quality crops of bumper size destined to give a home gardener a special glow of patriotic pride.

"Although bush beans yield well, pole beans will produce several times as much for the same space occupied. Beans of the Kentucky Wonder type are especially practical because if some of the pods become too old for snaps, the beans inside are delicious for 'green shells.'

"Beets will 'kill two birds with one stone' for they furnish a green leafy vegetable during their young stage and beet roots later in the season for use and for storage. A row of Swiss chard, no more than ten feet long, will supply a family with greens all summer if the outer leaves are kept picked and the inner leaves allowed to keep on growing.

"Cabbages are usually thought of in connection with large gardens. But the government stresses this crunchy leafy vegetable because of its high vitamin content. Many a small garden, therefore, will include cabbage. "Only careful selection, however," Mr. Ferry states, "will produce enough heads to be worth the effort. Early small heading varieties such as Copenhagen Market are best. The plants are so compact that twelve to fifteen heads can be grown satisfactorily in a twenty-foot row.

"Vines of the spreading type," he continues, — "melon, winter squash, and pumpkin, — are often a nuisance in small quarters. They know no boundaries and seldom stop running all summer. Summer squash varieties of compact habit are ideal, particularly the improved straightneck strains. They take up comparatively little space for the quantities of tasty succulent fruits they produce. "Some varieties of tomato yield far better than others for the amount of room the vines take up. A Victory Gardener will not go wrong in choosing Marglobe to get a lot of excellent fruit from little space."

GARDEN PLANNING IMPORTANT

The Victory garden should be large enough to raise all the fresh vegetables a family can use, but not so big that it cannot be well cared for. According to tests made at Ferry-Morse Seed Breeding Station near Detroit, Michigan, a 15-x-30 foot garden will produce plenty of vegetables for a family of two or three; a 20-x-40 or a 25-x-50 foot garden is ample for a household of four or five and sometimes more. Farm families with no lack of space are urged to plant and use in one way or another all the vegetables possible, but to plan in advance to use seed to best advantage.

It is a simple matter to determine how much seed to use. A standard size packet of radish seed will plant at least a 25-foot row, according to Ferry-Morse findings. The same is true of carrot, summer squash, spinach, and snap beans. Of such vegetables as require quite wide spacing in the row, as beet and Swiss chard, a packet of seed can be made to plant as much as fifty feet of row.

If one packet of radish or lettuce seed will produce more than the family can use while the vegetables are tender and tasty, sow only part of the seed the first time, and the rest in about two weeks. This is also a practical plan with carrots and beets so that young roots will be coming on for use at frequent intervals instead of all at one time.

Seed packets of such vegetables as parsley and the kitchen herbs often produce more plants than a family can possibly use. Seed of tender vegetables,—tomato, pepper, egg plant,—started indoors for later transplanting outside frequently yield many more plants than most home gardeners have room for. Surplus plants might be shared with gardening neighbors to good advantage. An exchange of varieties as well as planting experiences over the backyard fence gives added zest to home gardening and definitely avoids waste.

Ask Reader
Two women were comparing their experiences of matrimony.
"Yes," said the lady in pink, "I owe much of my success and happiness during marriage to two books. They have been a source of help and inspiration lots of time."
"Two books!" exclaimed the one in blue. "Whatever were they?"
"Mother's cook book and father's check book," was the calm reply.

Q. Can vitamins make me more attractive?

A. Vitamins can't give you curly hair or a perfect figure, but they can mean a softer, clearer skin if your troubles are caused by vitamin deficiencies. Good health, one of the best beauty aids, is often reflected by an improved appearance.

Q. What vitamins do we need?

A. Daily minimum requirements established by U. S. authorities have been officially adopted by the medical profession for six vitamins—A, B, B<sub>2</sub>, P-P, C and D.

Q. Are minerals essential?

A. Minerals, like vitamins, are essential food constituents. Least likely to be abundant in your daily diet are calcium and iron. Phosphorus is important, too.

Q. What can be done when children refuse to eat?

A. If a child is well otherwise, a "picky" appetite can often be materially improved by supplementing meals with vitamins and minerals in tablet form.

HIS BUSINESS

The strong man was explaining his act to his agent.
"I place a heavy stone on my head," he asserted, "and then my assistant picks up a 16-pound sledgehammer, swings it with all his might—and cracks the stone in half."
The agent grew dizzy at the thought.
"That's marvelous," he enthused.
"But, how about your head—don't you ever feel it?"
The strong man waved a hand.
"Yes," he admitted. "That's why I carry aspirin!"

"There's a man down the road a bit who wants a man to do a road's work."
"Oh, thank you, sir! But for your timely warning I might have run right into him."

FEESBURG.

Here we go "march"-ing on, as gentle as a lamb. The snow of Friday has all disappeared, and the landscape looks bare and bleak; but this month will bring up buds and early blossoms.

A fancy sunshine basket of yellow and blue—from Mt. Union Sunday School was presented to L. K. Birely last week filled with fruit and green vegetables, with a lovely card a-top.

Mrs. E. T. Gause spent last week at Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore, and returned home on Sunday evening where the neighbors had rendered assistance during her absence.

Saturday seemed to be Dentist day for this community, as three households were treated to fillings, extractions, and other attentions. A good subject for debate would be: "Which is worse—having teeth drawn or filled?"

Mrs. John Davis (nee Maggie Crouse) spent last Thursday visiting friends in this town; while her children with whom she lives at her old home, were away for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Files, of Lancaster, Pa., were at her parents home last week, and on Friday her mother, Mrs. Wilbur Miller, Sr., accompanied them back to York to visit her sister, Mrs. Lulu Renner Main.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haugh, New Midway, were callers at the Birely home on Sunday afternoon. Their only child, Norval Haugh is in the medical corps at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Michigan, where he recently passed their graduation with honor. He was home on furlough at the beginning of the year.

A letter from one of the boys at Los Angeles, Cal., says while it was so cold here, it was hot out there, but just then (Feb. 23) it had been raining since Saturday, and he really enjoyed it. He adds: "These victory gardens make me laugh; a tiny row of this and that and their gardens are finished in about one good meal. If some of these city folks could see a real garden—wonder what they would think them?"

Private Marvin Breighner, Kearn Hospital, Utah, who was critically ill with cerebellar meningitis is so well that he is coming to Littlestown this week to spend some time with his parents.

Mrs. Catherine E. Smith, nonagenarian, widow of Jacob T. Smith, died Wednesday night at her home North Queen Street. She was aged 91 years; the oldest resident of town. She was a member of St. Paul Lutheran Church. Surviving are four children: Mrs. William Dillman, of Littlestown; J. Frank Smith and Miss Myrtle Smith at home and Mrs. Jennie Hewitt, Gettysburg, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret McClellan, who will observe her 100th birthday anniversary in April. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at the J. W. Little and Son Funeral Home, her pastor the Rev. D. S. Kammerer, officiated; interment was made in the Evergreen cemetery, Gettysburg.

William Eline, a well-known building contractor in Littlestown for many years, died at his home in York. He was aged 80 years. The funeral was held Thursday morning in St. Aloysius Catholic Church. The Rev. John H. Weber will be celebrant; interment in the church cemetery.

LITTLESTOWN.

Mrs. Charles Fasold has returned to her home in Selingsgrave after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kroh.

AQUARIUS BIRTHDAYS

February—month of blizzards and of snow, Out of your turmoil forth have sprung Great Souls who left their mark and Ours to go.

To run the cycles round, nor do they bring Ought but renown to those who follow on The paths they trod with frosted and with blistering feet— Great men, strong men, nor ever did they shrink.

From duties call, no matter what the task might be, With God their judge, and Conscience for their guide They wrought each task before them set.

And so we profit thru the years as Time rolls on, And so we stand erect and strong— world leaders In a day when sanity is needed, and all beside Seems wrapped in jealousy and selfish pride.

What keeps us in the straight and narrow path, You ask? Yet for answer be the glory and renown They brought to us—Great Washington, Stately Lincoln— For never month has passed in any land in any clime That has produced the equal of these men of ours.

Their loyalty and their chivalry outstanding are; They lived for others, that is why we see All mankind halt upon the day that gave them birth To pay deserved homage to their worth.

Washington, Lincoln, great noble souls Who lived from Time and Eternity, aye and posterity.

They lived in deeds they wrought and work most nobly done Time will not efface nor blot out what they did.

They did not traffic in the blood of men Nor seek to gain renown by trifling deed; They were tall men, gaunt, farseeing, kind

To and their fellow-men were never blind And to any need that might arise before them.

Great men they were with vision clear To penetrate the future and to see Their country as it ought to be, and free.

We stand in awe and look upon the pedestal That holds their moulded form and wonder at their majesty And their simplicity. They were not arrogant Nor did they strut before their fellow-men

To show the power that was in them found. Bold men, brave men, they lived To make mankind free. They are gone But Time cannot efface their memory or blot out

The deeds that they have done. Their work lives on And will bridge Time, and hold forth to Eternity.

ON BECOMING OLD

Now that the span of life has been lengthened and the average is now about 66 years of age, it can be seen that there are more older individuals in proportion to the general population than at any time in the world's known history.

This means that many men past 65, active mentally and physically, are being "retired" from their positions in industry.

What is going to become of these individuals physically aside from any financial considerations?

Many of them are going to become "old" almost immediately because they are removed from their everyday habits of life. Some of our older folk are wise in that they have prepared themselves previously to meet their day of retirement by some definite daily occupation or hobby.

Dr. E. Breuler, in his book "Text of Psychiatry" states "Senility (old age) often becomes a disease only as a result of the sudden stopping of the ordinary attractions of life."

Postponing Old Age. There is a worker in a coal yard in Pittsburgh who, at the end of 50 years service with one company, was called to the office and presented with a suitably engraved gold watch, a present of $500, and told that from that date till he died his wages would be paid but he need not report for work any more.

He told his employers that he would accept the watch and the money but that he would report as usual for work every morning. This workman knew that his whole life was bound up in that coal yard and his fellow workmen. To remain in bed in the morning, have a late breakfast, or irregular meals, would upset his normal mental and physical habits—indigestion, constipation, depression of spirits—and bring on "real" old age.

The thought then is that while some who are retired may have to find work of some kind, those that can live in their own home or with their children should establish regular daily health habits as to food, exercise and sleep.

Production Now Is Farmers' Weapon

Survey Shows Good Crop Lands Limited

Generals know that this war can't be won just by relying on luck. Victory will be achieved by careful strategy and relentless action.

Neither can farmers win their share of the war on a gamble. Production is their weapon. Production must be planned for victory. Farm strategy is based on balancing output so as to turn out the right things at the right time through efficient use of American farm resources.

Many believe America has plenty of good farm land. But surveys show that good crop lands are sharply limited. Of the present area of 530 million acres available for crops, only 340 million acres can be classed as really good land. The rest is too steep, too rough, too shallow or too infertile for profitable cultivation.

Labor, machinery and materials are short now, too. These conditions make it imperative for wartime agriculture to adjust itself to producing needed crops with maximum efficiency.

U. S. farmers can't afford to grow large quantities of crops not vitally needed. With present acreage and the large carry-over in storage, there is an abundance of wheat, for instance. Boosting the wheat output now would not be a contribution to the nation's war effort. Consequently production goals for wheat called for a 12 per cent decrease in acreage. Land thus released from wheat Civilian supplies of canned vegetables from next summer's estimated pack will be increased by approximately 10 million cases under new food orders which provide changes in the amounts of certain processed foods that must be reserved for government requirements from the 1943 pack. Most of the increase will be in canned tomatoes and snap beans with no significant change in fruits and juices.

Roman Ruins

Medjez-el-Bab is at the eastern edge of Tunisia's richest agricultural region, says a National Geographic society bulletin. This region is known to many tourists for its wealth of Roman ruins. The town lies on high ground sloping down to the Medjerda, Tunisia's principal river, at a point 40 miles west of Tunis and 55 miles south of Bizerte. Medjez-el-Bab means "Gateway to the Sea." Upstream from the town the Medjerda is a winding silver tape flowing between two chains of the Atlas mountains. Below the town it is muddy and sluggish, crossing low land to the Gulf of Tunis. At Medjez-el-Bab a Roman bridge of many arches, reconstructed of ancient stone in the 18th century, spans the stream. Crumbling remains of Roman baths, arches and mausoleums are numerous in the vicinity. The town flanks the route of a military road which connected ancient Carthage, near Tunis, with Tebessa in Algeria. Today a railroad and a highway cover the same route.

SIZE OF ARMED FORCES

President Roosevelt said the goal of 7,500,000 men in the U. S. Army by the end of 1943 was decided on last August, has never been changed, and will not be changed. The goal for 1944, he said, will probably be decided this fall. This year's army goal also calls for 700,000 officers, which would make a total of 8,200,000 men in the army. Adding the goal set for the other armed services, the grand total of all our armed forces by the end of 1943 would be almost 11,000,000.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH
 By Dr. Jas. W. Barton

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

SNORING

The unfair part about snoring is that the individual doing the snoring enjoys sleep while he annoys others by preventing sleep. Snoring is caused by something interfering with the passage of air to and from the lungs; the obstruction can be at various points between lungs and outside of mouth and nose. To find out just what part of nose, throat or bronchial tubes is being partly obstructed requires careful observation by physician, nurse, or some member of the household.

The commonest causes of obstruction are:

- (1) Falling backward of the tongue when the individual is lying on his back.
- (2) An accumulation of mucous, large or small, in the nose or throat.
- (3) The muscles of the soft palate become so relaxed in sleep that the soft palate falls against the roof of the hard palate. This interferes with the passage of air through the nose when the individual is lying on his back.
- (4) The muscles controlling the vocal cords during deep sleep become greatly relaxed so that the throat becomes partially closed and air has less space to pass through this part of the throat going in and coming out of the lungs. Thus when one is awake and lets his throat hang "loose," as it were, thus closing the passage, the breathing in and out causes snoring.

Preventive Methods.

Now that some of the causes of snoring are known, what can be done about it?

There are cases where the obstruction is on one side of the nose. By lying on that side, the outer side or wing of the nose drops away from the division membrane (septum) thus giving a wide opening or passage for air.

When the cause of snoring is an accumulation of mucous in the nose and throat, vigorous blowing of the nose first through one nostril and then the other before going to sleep may prevent snoring.

Tying a handkerchief or band around top of head and under chin keeps mouth from hanging open.

Experience shows that if snoring individual lying on his back is disturbed and turns and lies on either side or on his abdomen, he stops snoring. If, then, he can be prevented from lying on his back by mechanical means, snoring may be prevented.

Prevention of Mental Disorders

Just a few years ago tuberculosis—consumption—was considered a fatal disease; the patient might last for months or even a year or two, but the disease would surely carry him off. Similarly with diabetes and pernicious anemia. Today, tuberculosis stands well down the list of the causes of death and to have tuberculosis is no longer a death warrant.

Similarly with diabetes and pernicious anemia. As long as diabetics take their insulin regularly they are safe, and patients with pernicious anemia have but to use liver or liver extract to keep alive.

What appears to be an even harder problem is the prevention and cure of mental ailments, yet Dr. Frederic H. Leavitt, Philadelphia, as guest editor of the Medical World, states this should be tackled just as tuberculosis was tackled and overcome. Tuberculosis, the great white plague, was captain of the legions of death. Through a campaign of education in acquainting the general public with knowledge of the cause, prevention and treatment, tuberculosis, in many places, has dropped from first to fifth place as a cause of death.

That the same results may be obtained in the prevention of mental ailments is the belief of the medical profession. It can be accomplished by a campaign of educating the general public as to the cause, prevention and treatment.

Dr. Leavitt points out the excellent results by educating the public about mental ailments obtained in the treatment of that "great destroyer" of the minds of young men and women—dementia praecox or persistent dream state—particularly by the treatment with insulin and metrazol shock.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Women at War today are saving for Women at Peace when the War is won. They are buying War Bonds as thrifty housewives, saving to buy those handy, convenient and necessary electrical appliances when their Bonds mature.

Women know that money saved now will help win the peace, putting their menfolks to work in our domestic factories when the war is over. They know purchase of War Bonds today will help their family and the whole country tide over the readjustment period from War to Peace.

The usual gossip was being enjoyed over the back-garden fence. "Did you hear about the row at No. 17 last night?" said the lady at No. 3.
 "No; what was it?" asked her neighbor at No. 5 eagerly.
 "Well, she broke a chair over her husband's head, but I hear she's very sorry for it now."
 "Pity she didn't think before she did it then."
 "Yes," sighed No. 3; "it was one of her best chairs."

LETTER FROM DETROIT

Immediately after receiving my copy of the Record, of the issue of the 12th, I turned to the Editorial page in order to see what my good friends who are helping the Editor out, had to say, and the very first article was one about the thing that has been bothering our people in this state—the proposed change of time. I had no idea that you folks were kicking about the manner in which the modern New Dealer chieftain was endeavoring to imitate Joshua, of old Biblical times, as it would seem that the one hour difference from correct time would not make a great deal of difference to you, as it did not to us for the past 26 years.

But with us it makes a great deal of difference, especially to the farmers, who object to getting up so many hours before daylight, and to the school children who go to school in the dark, as we are still another hour further ahead of the sun than you are.

After a great deal of discussion, both in the dailies and among the members of the Legislature, which is in session at this time, a law was passed and signed by the Governor, giving each community the privilege of using its own time. So now, a timetable for our state would look like a crossword puzzle. Detroit voted on the 15th, to stay on Eastern Standard War Time, while cities less than a hundred miles away, voted to go back where we were last year. But the rural sections, all over the State, some of them containing large manufacturing cities which voted to stay with Detroit in this matter, are making the change, and if a dweller on those sections wants to keep up with the correct time when he has business to transact, in his county seat, he must set his watch an hour ahead, and set it back when he goes home. Pretty much of a mix-up, isn't it?

With a fellow as old as I am, and unable to work, it does not make much difference what time they want to use, but really I cannot see where they gain much by this fast time. What you gain in the morning, you lose in the afternoon, in Detroit, at least, for almost all the factories are on a 40-hour week, and change shifts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and it would seem to be a waste of electricity in those factories that do not work three shifts.

As I said before, we had a Primary Election out here, on the 15th, and as usual, I voted. And I want to say here, that although I have always been opposed to this way of selecting candidates, I never realized before just what a farce this system is. Only nominees for three offices were voted for—two in the county and one in the city; not a single State Officer was even mentioned on the ballot, although seven or eight are to be elected at the general Spring election in April—these nominees are to be named by the convention method, later on. Only about 50,000 votes were cast, out of over 600,000 on the poll books. At an estimated cost of $1.00 a vote, you can figure what a costly thing this useless part of our election laws is.

I hope I have not tired you by the seemingly useless article, but I wanted to tell you something about how the taxpayers' money is wasted.

I have not often mentioned anything that occurs in our family circle, but maybe a little about the whereabouts of our youngest boy, Cyril, would not be out of place. He left for the South Pacific, on the 26th of December, and we have heard from him only once; then he wrote that he had arrived at an island in the Pacific, south of the Equator, and that they had an uneventful voyage. He says he is well and that they tell him that where he is stationed, is a pretty good place to be. Of course we are hoping for his safe return, to what he calls "the good old United States."

The World Smiles

By R. H. WILKINSON
 Associated Newspapers.
 WNU Features.

OVER the top of her newspaper Janie saw that the young man with the blond hair was watching her. She knew suddenly that he was going to speak. It gave her a little thrill, yet she didn't know what to do. He had nice eyes and a pleasant face, but you never could tell about men these days, young or old. More, if she permitted herself to follow her own impulse, he'd get the wrong impression.

"Forgive me for appearing so bold," he began, dropping into the chair opposite her, "but the fact is, I just had an impulse and decided to follow it." Janie picked up her coffee cup and began to drink. She tried hard to ignore him. She didn't want to, but she didn't want him to get the impression that she could be picked up.

"Do you mind if I sit here?" he asked. "I don't mind at all," said Janie. She folded her newspaper, tucked it under her arm and walked away. She felt his eyes watching her go. At the cashier's desk it was a terrible temptation to look back, but she resisted it.

Outside she had a moment of regret. The young man hadn't been rude or even forward. He probably felt about her as she felt about him. He wanted to meet her and there was simply no other way. Drat convention! She sighed, wondering if he would be at the restaurant tomorrow morning. She decided there was one way to find out.

Janie spent the day calling on the people whose help-wanted ads she had checked in the morning paper. As usual she was unsuccessful. Either the jobs were filled or she didn't qualify or there were dozens there ahead of her or the job was straight commission. She couldn't work on commission. She hadn't enough money left to finance herself for more than two or three days, even with going without lunches and spending only forty cents for dinner. She had to have a salary job, or else.

Janie was halfway through her breakfast the next morning when the blond young man came in. From the corner of her eye she saw that he hesitated at sight of her, then went on. She dawdled over her coffee, deliberately, hating herself for doing it. When she saw him approaching she folded her newspaper.

"I beg your pardon, do you mind—"

Janie stood up and walked away without looking at him. She hated herself more than ever. He was nice. He wanted to meet her. Yet, suppose she encouraged his advances? He'd think—she couldn't help but think—she was cheap! Oh, why did it have to be that way? This day was a repetition of the one previous. No job. Not even the hope of a job. Janie returned to her four-flight walk-up feeling tired and discouraged. Tomorrow—if something didn't happen tomorrow she'd have to admit defeat. She'd have to spend her remaining $1.23 on a railroad ticket back to the small town she had dreamed of getting away from all her life. Tears appeared in Janie's eyes.

The blond young man was already in the cafeteria when Janie entered the next morning. Sight of him made her more miserable. It reminded her that here was one more thing she wanted to do and couldn't because she was a girl, a nice girl. Deliberately she crossed to the opposite side of the room and sat down. She was glad that this would be her last morning at the restaurant. She didn't want to see the blond young man again because—because—

Janie hadn't seen the other girl sit down at the table behind her. All she knew was that the blond young man was coming toward her, and she decided to insult him, even threaten to call the manager. The words were practically formed on her lips, and then a surprising thing happened. The blond young man passed by without a look and spoke to the girl at the table behind. Janie couldn't help overhearing the conversation.

"I beg your pardon," he was saying to the other girl, "do you mind if I sit down?" "Not at all, Mr. Cutler."

"Oh, then you know my name?" "Who doesn't know Robert Cutler, the great stylist at Weatherbee's?" "That makes it easier. You see, I've been looking for a model for a long time. I've visited all the cafeterias and restaurants in town looking for a particular type. The job pays fifty dollars a week. Two days ago I found just what I was looking for, in here, but—well, difficulties arose. Rather hard to explain. However, this morning I was lucky. You came in and—well, would you like the job?"

"Thank you, so much. I do wish I could accept, but you see I'm modeling for Fontenalla, under contract. I couldn't break it."

The young man sighed. "What a pity! Well, I suppose I'll have to go elsewhere—"

"Wait a minute!" Janie spoke while turning around in her chair.

Then she stopped speaking. The blond young man and his companion were both looking at her and grinning. "I—I—" began Janie. "The blond young man rose. 'Forgive me for resorting to such an underhanded method of promoting myself. It seemed like my only chance, and I was so afraid some morning you wouldn't come back . . . You do need a job, don't you? I saw you reading the want ads. Would you consider modeling for me at Weatherbee's?'"

Janie's senses reeled. She shook her head, got control of herself and smiled. It was a lovely smile. The young man smiled back. His companion smiled. The bus boy smiled. It seemed to Janie that even the surly oafs at the long counter, wolfing down their breakfasts, were smiling.

Marion

By M. SCHOLL
 Associated Newspapers.

SYLVIA'S hand trembled as she picked up the phone. "Give me Main 0520," she told the operator. "Hello?" It was Roger's voice. "It's Sylvia, Roger."

"Oh, hello, darling!" He was making an effort to sound eager. "I—I was wondering when you'd be home. It's after 10."

"Ten o'clock? Good heavens! Well, don't worry, I'll be along any minute now."

"Are you alone?" "Sure. Just Marion and me." There it was. The thing she had feared. Marion!

She hung up and stared dully into space. After all these months. A year. It would be a year tomorrow, that they were married. It had been a movie that had awakened in her the first glimmering of suspicion. One of those triangular things involving a man, his wife and his secretary. The preview had said: "Any man who leaves his wife and goes to work with another woman might be the man in this picture." Or something like that. At first it had meant nothing. Nothing at all.

During the weeks that followed she found herself recalling the situation presented in the film. She began to notice little things, things that hadn't impressed her at first. He was becoming less attentive. He wore an absent, detached look. Heretofore she had attributed this to worry about business. There was the new house, for example. They had planned to start building it after their first year.

Sylvia got up and went upstairs to their bedroom. At the writing desk she deliberated only a moment. No need to be elaborate or accusing or condemning. Merely set down the facts. Try to appear understanding. She wrote hurriedly, signed merely "Sylvia," inserted the note into its envelope without reading it through. She laid the note on Roger's pillow, then tried to put her mind on what to pack. Only a few things now. Later she could return and get the rest of her belongings. The front door opened and closed. She stood listening. "Sylvia!" There was only one course open now. To face the issue and be as self-possessed as possible.

She dabbed at her nose with a powder puff before going out. Roger was in the hall with a strange man. "Started off to bed without me, eh?" he chided. "Nice girl! Getting to the old marriage stage so quick."

"Well, here they are," Roger said, removing a sheaf of papers. "Wanted to wait till tomorrow—our anniversary—to show 'em to you, but Jim's leaving town and I thought you might want to suggest some changes." "Changes?" Sylvia stared, feeling a little queer.

"Sure. In the house. Plans for the house, you know. Been working on 'em nights with Jim so we could get 'em done for the anniversary. Big surprise. Hey, what's the matter? Come on in here." Sylvia had reeled and steadied herself against the banister. She was staring at the stranger.

Roger looked from one to the other of them. "S'cuse. Forgot you two hadn't met. Darling, this is Jim Marion. Old friend. Architect. Kind of a secretary. Jim, my wife. Now, let's get into the living room and give these a general once-over, eh?" Sylvia's throat felt dry. It required an effort to get control of herself. "In a minute," she said, "I'll be there in a minute, darling." And she turned and rushed back up the stairs toward where the note lay on Roger's pillow.

Yes, It Is

Goniophotometry is a highly useful activity today. A goniophotometer measures the light reflected from painted surfaces at various angles. While peacetime finishes generally aimed at gloss, war paint must avoid tell-tale reflection of the sun's rays. Paint may appear dull as dust under a high sun, but when the light strikes at a small angle, as when the sun is low, the drab coating becomes sometimes mirror bright. In paint research laboratories specially developed military paints are measured in a few minutes for reflection power—or the lack of it—from all angles with the goniophotometer.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for March 7

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

BIBLE TEACHINGS AGAINST DRUNKENNESS

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 30:16, 17; Isaiah 28:14, 17; Galatians 5:19-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it."—Isaiah 24:9.

Sowing and reaping is one of those universal laws which applies in all realms of life. What we sow we reap, whether in the farmer's field, in our national life, or in the life of the individual. It is true physically, mentally, morally and spiritually.

How surprising then that intelligent Americans think we can go on with the use of intoxicants which have destroyed other nations and expect to escape the same sad consequences. Professional men have wrecked their careers, business men lost their hard earned positions, and rich men dissipated their inheritances; and at the same time each of them has fallen into moral decay—all through their inability to control their desire for drink. Yet we continue to license its sale, and so another generation of young men must meet the same temptation.

Our lesson presents three results of drunkenness.

I. Military Defeat (1 Sam. 30:16, 17).

A crisis in the life of King David is related in this chapter. The Amalekites had taken Ziklag. The king and his family were prisoners, held by a host of barbarous men far too strong for them to oppose. He inquired of God and was told to attack. With his little army of 400 men he defeated them. Why? Because in a drunken debauch they were celebrating their victory of the day before.

This was not the first, nor the last, time that military defeat followed indulgence in alcoholic beverages. It has happened even in the present war. Have we learned the lesson? Will we avoid that danger?

In this country our armed forces and defense workers are constantly exposed to temptation—and how many of them fall, anyone may know who has eyes to see.

From distant battlefronts come disquieting reports that intoxicants are among the "supplies" which find quick transportation to the very front, where they are soon put to their destructive use.

II. National Decay (Isa. 28:14, 17).
Isaiah was a mighty voice against moral corruption, and for the righteousness of God. With true prophetic insight he saw beneath the outward prosperity and apparent glory of his people, and exposed the sins which would soon destroy them as a nation. Outstanding among these destructive forces was drunkenness.

Turning first to the northern kingdom of Israel (for the nation had now been divided), he tells them that though their valleys may be fertile and their cities resplendent, the collapse of all their boasted greatness will surely come if they live in revelry and drunkenness.

He speaks of the coming of "the mighty and the strong one" (v. 2) who will be like a destroying storm. He refers to Assyria—itself an ungodly people, but used of God to scourge His own people who had become indulgent and sinful.

There is a truth here which we need to learn. When nations forget God and fail in their responsibilities to Him and to their fellow men; when they become vain and self-indulgent, God will bring judgment upon them. He may use as His instrument nations who are themselves pagan, to accomplish His purpose.

III. Eternal Destruction (Gal. 5:19-21).
Military loss and national declension should be enough to align every right thinking person against intoxicants. But far worse is the fact that they bring many, many men and women into eternal separation from God.

In this passage "drunkenness and revellings" find their proper place with the other works of the flesh which close the door to the kingdom of God. There is no use trying to dismiss or cover it up as the unfortunate weakness of an otherwise nice person, or the natural result of a bit of social fellowship.

America has too long regarded a drunken person as a joke—or at most a bit of a nuisance to be indulged and tolerated. The Bible says that "they who practice such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" (v. 21).

That is plain enough, isn't it? Mr. Drinker, outside or inside the church, had you better not think about that before you drink again? Christ, is it not time for you to do something more effective to deliver the young men and women of America from the constant temptation now placed before them?

Keep Brood Sows Gaining

Brood sows should be kept gaining at the rate of about one pound per day up to farrowing time. Difficulty in farrowing, pig eating, and poor milk flow are often traceable to inadequate rations. A good ration includes a pound of oats per sow daily, a small amount of protein supplement such as tankage or soybean meal, free access to legume hay and enough corn to put on the desired gain.

By Sense of Touch Girl Is Convicted of Theft

EAST CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—A blind man's sense of touch enabled him to identify, as his, a stolen pocketbook, in district court here.

The victim of the theft was Roscoe E. Mills, 45, of Cambridge, totally blind and minus one leg. He was maimed in a mine explosion years ago. The suspect was Mrs. Mary McCarron, 22, of Cambridge. The pocketbook contained $135.

Judge Arthur P. Stone was presiding in East Cambridge court when the case was called. The woman pleaded not guilty. Testimony by police traced the pocketbook to her room, where it was found, empty, behind a mirror. She also had purchased new clothes and accessories since the theft.

The court asked the blind man if he could identify the pocket book. The blind man first described "two snaps which do not work." The pocketbook had such snaps. The article was given to him. He felt it carefully and said: "This is mine."

The girl was found guilty and her case continued. She was held in $1,000 bail.

Professional
"At the amateur games yesterday Tom Grasshopper broke the records for the standing jump, but the officials refused to recognize the performance."

"Why, how's that?"
"They decided that he jumped for a living."

Catcher—Well, been fishing, eh?
Angler (grimly)—Yes, indeed, caught the 9:10 train there, the 5:47 back, got caught in the rain, caught a cold, and will I catch it when I get home!

Salads
"Perhaps you can tell me."
"What is it?"
"Well, I only go to the woods once a year and I have been wondering what the bugs live on in the meantime."

HOME'S FIRE BURNING

"Did you ever do any fighting at close range?"
"Sure. Most of my married life was spent in a flat."

His Last Heiress
"Now, George, don't be foolish and rock the boat."
"Not on your life. I lost the chance of marrying an heiress that way once."

Even, Stephen
"So you are going to give your wife a present consisting of a $150 set of furs. What's she giving you?"
"Her promise not to get anything for me that I'll have to pay for."

Costs—Plus
"Will your wife's vacation cost you much?"
"I don't know. I hope she's won enough at bridge to offset the china I've broken."

Envious
"What form of summer amusement pleases you most?"
"Staying at home and writing to people at summer resorts about how cool it is in the city."

A Ring-er
"Be mine."
"Eh?"
"You shall be queen of my heart."
"Um. Let's have a look at the crown jewels."

Probably
"I wouldn't marry the best woman living."
"It would give her a comfortable feeling if she knew it, probably."

Thank You
An elderly maiden aunt received this note from her ten-year-old niece: "Dear Aunt Martha: Thank you for the nice present. I have always wanted a pincushion, although not very much."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By Dr. Jas. W. Barton

FIRST AID ERRORS

One of the jokes of 20 years ago was the expression "the patient has had all his teeth removed but he still has his rheumatism." This "joke" died a natural death because while the removal of infected teeth sometimes stirred up the poisons around the teeth and these poisons increased the rheumatic pain, nevertheless within six weeks to six months in the majority of cases, there was actually complete or partial relief from pain. As this has occurred in so many cases, jokes about the teeth going but not the rheumatism are now seldom heard.

It would appear that some of our jokesmiths are now making fun of those who are taking courses in first aid to the injured. Thus a recent newspaper item recounted the experience of a group of first aid students who set a supposed fractured leg. After the leg was splinted, in attempting to place the victim in an ambulance, he fell off the stretcher and did break his leg. In placing him inside the ambulance, his head was outside the ambulance door a couple of inches and in closing the ambulance door his head received a concussion. He thus arrived at the hospital with a fractured leg and a head concussion. The item ended with the remark that "with a little more training this group could be sent against the enemy."

What Should Be Done.
While most of us know how to splint a broken bone, stop bleeding, and treat shock, there is sometimes a lack of knowledge shown in handling head injuries. As almost 50 per cent of fatal traffic accidents show concussion—blow on head which shocks or shakes the brain without fracturing the skull—just what should or should not be done is important.

Dr. C. J. Potthoff, Minneapolis, in the Journal of the American Medical Association states that whether there is concussion or a stroke of apoplexy the care should be: 1. Keep the victim quiet. 2. Raise the head somewhat if the face is red; keep it level if the face is pale. 3. Give the victim no stimulants. 4. Apply an ice cap if available to his head.

We should try to remember these simple rules regarding head injuries.

Anxiety Is Cause Of Many Symptoms

A patient consulting a physician for the first time had a rapid heart beat, complained of indigestion and inability to sleep, had lost weight and was extremely nervous. The physician had the patient rest for a few minutes and gave him a magazine to read. However, when a second examination was made the patient still had the rapid heart beat and nervousness. The physician naturally suspected early goiter, but a metabolism test showed that while the body processes were working at a higher rate than normal, they were almost within the normal limits.

The physician then asked the straight question, "Have you anything on your mind; are you worrying about anything?"

The patient admitted that he was in a constant state of worry.

The physician then explained to him that the tenseness caused by worry and anxiety could cause all the symptoms present. The heart rate would increase, the stomach movements would be irregular and perhaps stop for minutes at a time, the nerves would be on edge, and spastic constipation or diarrhoea could result.

It would be well to recall the findings in 10 cases of Dr. Gilbert M. Beck, Buffalo General hospital, as recorded some months ago in the New York State Journal of Medicine. There is not a typical symptom or combination of symptoms of goiter that has not been observed in typical anxiety neurosis. It is caused by guilt, fear, or feeling of insecurity in the nervous or emotional type of individual. For instance, after a nervous or emotional upset such as a disturbing dream, the heart pounds, misses beats, and there is breathlessness, stomach and intestine disturbances, sweats, tremblings, head noises, weakness and feelings of warmth and cold.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—I have had two X-rays of my chest and nothing showed, but I get so many head colds that I keep worrying about getting tuberculosis of the lungs.

A.—As X-ray shows no sign of tuberculosis you should not worry. However, if you have the "other" signs—gradual loss of weight, tiredness, rise in temperature—get examination by your physician and dentist as some infection may be present.

Culture in Industry

By FLORENCE C. WEED

Apples

New non-food uses are being sought by apple men so that a market can be kept for all the apples raised in this country. From pulp and peel comes pectin, that gelatinous substance which makes jelly. When extracted from apples and bottled in liquid form, it is sold to housewives to be added to other fruit juices to make them "jell."

Scientists also are trying to find a method to produce apple juice that will not cloud on standing.

Studies are being made to find ways to recover wax from apple skins to use in stencil sheets and water proof coatings. Apple seed oils also are being investigated. Cider is always a staple crop.

New industrial uses for apples are expected to develop as soon as improved methods can be discovered for drying pomace and waste products. This would permit indefinite storage and remove valuable material from being a nuisance.

Although there are only half as many apple trees in the country as 30 years ago, the apple crop has declined only 8 per cent because poor trees have been removed and good trees made to produce more fruit.

Agricultural Notes

Ohio agricultural agents have a supply of leaflets describing how to build outdoor storages for fruits and vegetables.

Price ceilings on scrap metals set by OPA will not be raised, according to OPA officials. There will be no profit in hoarding—only a loss of self respect by anyone gambling for personal gain at the expense of the common effort to win the war.

Treatment for Grubs

Cattle infested with grubs (sometimes called "warbles" or "wolves") should be treated in the following way: Mix a powder containing one part of 5 per cent rotenone content derris or cube powder and two parts of wettable sulphur. The powder should be applied to the back of the infested animal with a shaker and rubbed in lightly with the hand. Other methods of control are a derris or cube wash, or the use of a power sprayer in distributing a rotenone-sulphur mixture over the backs of the animals.

Noted Artist Paints War Poster

Urging Americans to "Keep 'em Flying" through the purchase of more War Bonds, the above poster will soon make its appearance in several hundred thousand stores and display spots throughout the country. It was painted by Georges Schreiber, internationally known artist, whose pictures hang in the Metropolitan and Whitney Museums in New York and other museums in various cities.

THE RAM THAT KNOWS THE RATTLE OF MACHINE GUNS

We take great pride in our livestock, for we have some of the best to be found anywhere.

England also takes pride in its livestock. Many of our breeds of cattle, sheep and horses come from there.

We think farming has been hard this past season, with the shortage of labor and machinery. It has been harder elsewhere. In England, for example, feed is scarce, meats are needed badly by the people, and German airmen machine gun the farm animals in the fields every chance they get. We must remember this all the time—and buy War Bonds—all that we possibly can.

There are two good reasons for buying War Bonds. The first is that it will give our boys the guns and planes and tanks they must have. The second is that War Bonds are a sound investment. They never depreciate in value. They return a third more than the original cost in ten years. You can cash them if you need the money any time after sixty days. Buy Bonds now—to help your country and to help yourself—at your bank or post office.

Because certain kinds of coal are now difficult to obtain, those planning to convert to coal make arrangements to secure their supply before starting actual conversion. Coal consumers are urged to place orders for their entire next winter's supply immediately, to accept the coal as it can be delivered, and to place it in protective storage during summer months when production and transportation are more readily available.

INCOME TAX LOANS TO RESPONSIBLE PERSONS

It is not Necessary to be a Depositor

Like most Americans you are willing to shoulder your share of the stiffer income taxes which are necessary to meet the enormous costs of this war. But though you are willing, you may not be ready to meet the March 15th installment. We realize that this may be the case with many of our citizens and we desire to help out in this situation by making selected Income Tax loans. We shall be glad to discuss the matter with you confidentially.
