SERVICE MEN LETTERS Continue With Interesting Experiences.

Dear Mr. Stonesifer: It is ten o'clock Wednesday morning and I have several hours before I go on guard so will try to let you know what I have been doing. We moved out of camp Sorenson the 19th of August. We left at 9:30 P. M., we had over 100 trucks in our convoy, we drove all pirkt seek in our convoy. we drove all night and arrived at 6:10 Friday morning. While the cooks were making breakfast all of the Radar operators set the unit up, after breakfast we put up our pup tents and dug our fox holes, we then organized our Radar crews. I am in charge of crew No. 2, we work eight hours and have eight hours off, but there is so much to do the first week that you don't get eight hours off

Several days ago one of the fellows saw a six foot snake. We don't know what kind it was but we ran it into some brush. Three of us went into the brush with knives, but we couldn't get him. We cut him several times and ran him out into the open once, but he was to fast. We get into town about once every eight days. The town is a little bigger than Taneytown. It is about 85 to be here for the next four weeks; we go swimming in a creek about two hundred yards from camp. Yester-day we had three air attacks. When the alarm is given the men go to the machine gun or rifle enplaments; we also had a gas attack. We all camped in the woods about four miles from town. We have an orange grove on one side of us, and a grapefruit grove on the other side. I was into town yesterday and there were cows and hogs walking around the streets at the edge of town. Down here if you want to protect your property you have to fence it in to keep out the cows and pigs, instead of fencing in the animals. It don't make sense but

INCOME ESTIMATES MUST BE FILED

September 15th. is Dead Line Payments to be Made

Parks Rasin, Acting Collector of Internal Revenue, announced today that 1,200,000 copies of the Declaration of Estimated Income for the Calendar Year 1943, had been mailed out to 1,200,000 taxpayers in the Maryland district. It is estimated that 400,000 taxpayers in the district will be required under the Current Payment Tax Act of 1943 to file the form on or before September 15 and make payment of at least half the amount of the balance of 1943 tax estimated to be due at that time.

While most taxpayers will not be required to file the Declaration, Acting Collector Rasin said, because they are paying their tax in full through the withholding deductions made by their employers, he urged all taxpayers to read carefully the instruction sheets which accompanied the forms to determine whether they are required to make a declaration, so as to avoid penalties for either failure to file or for making substantial underestimates of 1943 income.

Many persons do not realize, Acting Collector Rasin said, that the withholding tax does not automatically make all persons current on their 1943 incomes. Generally speaking, single persons earning over $2700 a year or married persons earning over $3500 a year; those with outside incomes, such as from dividends, interest, rents, professional fees or business profits, and those classes not subject to withholdings, such as persons in the armed forces, clergymen, domestic servants and farm labor, will all be required to file declarations in order to place all taxpayers on an equal footing.

"If there is doubt in any one's mind as to whether he or she will have to file a declaration, "Acting Collector Rasin said, "I suggest that they communicate with this office at the earliest opportunity, and we will be glad to help them.

Acting Collector Rasin also asked employers to be prepared, if requested to give their employees a preliminary statement of the withholding deductions for each payroll period, and the amount of Victory tax withheld in the first six months, to help them compute their estimated total withholdings for the year. While law requires employers to furnish a written statement to employees only after the end of the year still the act does require the filing of a declaration by certain taxpayers on September 15th, and they may need this September 15th. declaration, it is not ders with their dealers for summer and their cooperation would be greatly appreciated.

PLEASURE DRIVING

Ban Lifted September_1st for Autoists

Commenting upon the lifting of the pleasure driving ban, effective Sept. 1, Leo H. McCormick, State Director said, "Needless to say, everyone in the State OPA is delighted to see this area relieved of the so-called "pleasure driving ban." We welcome the ure driving ban." decision to permit the public to de-termine for themselves what is essential driving and what is not, without making it a matter of legal en-forcement. In Maryland, of course, we never made it a practice to stop cars when pleasure driving was suspected.

The civilian supply of gasoline remains in a state of acute shortage in this area, so there is an obligation upon every motorist to restrict his use of that gasoline to minimum requirements. He must keep in mind constantly the urgent military needs which are to be met at all costs.

The State OPA is appreciative of the assistance given the program by state and city police and the many volunteer members of the special hearing panels. Should the necessity of reinstating the ban arise, we will expect the same type of public cooperation with a wartime regulation as was received this time from the majority of Marylanders. We sincerely hope the need will not arise.

I should like to remind all motorists that only basic A Rations were involved in the pleasure driving ban, other rations were issued for specific purposes. They must not be utilized for other than the specified types of

A TIP FROM MUSSOLINI

INTER-RACIAL HARMONY

We have in the United States a strange combination of people of many races, who have come here from all over the earth. It is a problem even in normal times to induce them all to live together in peace and harmony. Under the strains of wartime, antagonisms are likely to grow more bitter, and deeper rifts appear in the American unity which is so urgently needed.

Law abiding members of different R ATIFICATION NOTICE. races usually manage to get along In the Orphans' Court of Carroll County: have differing opinions, often they feel they are not justly treated, but they do not look to riots and violence as the way to settle these difficulties. They look to growing intelligence and education and reason and justice as the means by which harmonious cooperation can be produced.

Probably the best solution for the antagonism and conflicts of race elements is the Golden Rule. Those who give people the same kind of treatment they would like to get if they were in the place of these people usually get along rather comfortably in this world, and they help create the national unity which the country so urgently needs .- The Frederick Post

With hybrid corn, the important thing is NOT where the seed was grown, but how it performs where you plant it. The best way to compare varieties and decide which ones suit you the best is to see them growing side by side in a soil and climate similar to yours. That's why DeKalb has more than 3300 proving grounds or demonstration fields, throughout the corn-growing areas.

Guayule Rubber Passes

All Tests Satisfactorily SALINAS, CALIF.—Bales of a shrub, guayule, were dumped into the maw of a machinery assembly here recently, and nine hours later sheets of rubber were packed in 200pound boxes for shipment. This was the first output of natural rubber in commercial quantities in the United States since Pearl Harbor. The production will continue, day and night, to make six tons of rubber every 24 hours from 45 tons of this shrub. Available shrub is adequate for 600 tons. The extraction method is an old one, with machinery chopping, pounding, squeezing and washing the bush until it surrenders its rubber in the form of tiny curds that float to the top of a sediment tank, while the waterlogged pulp sinks to the bottom. The production of 600 tons here in the next three or four months isn't much compared with a federal program of synthetic production planned for a capacity output of a million tons a year. However, this synthetic capacity won't be reached for another 18 months; none has been made in government-owned plants yet.

Furthermore, the product here is rubber, not a synthetic, and there's a lot of difference.

Dog Saves Two Sisters;

Barks Warning of Gas CHICAGO. - Police credited a small mongrel dog with saving the lives of two sisters-Miss Dorothy Taylor, 44, and Mrs. Lorraine K. Hill, 46-from asphyxiation in their apartment.

According to police, Miss Taylor, who has been ill, taped up cracks in the kitchen and opened the burners on the gas range. Mrs. Hill was sleeping in the front bedroom.

The dog barked and wakened Mrs. Hill, who threw open the windows and called the fire department. An inhalator squad revived Miss Tay-

Fishing Tragedy Bared; Fatal to Trout, Heron

IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO .- Dr. E. F. Miller related this fish story: A fellow angler on Snake river snagged a piece of broken line with two hooks. On one hook was a dead blue heron, on the other a dead The fishermen surmised the trout had broken the line when hooked and had swum away dragging the other hook, possibly baited with a minnow. Later the heron spied the bait, dove for it and was hooked.

The trout pulled the bird beneath the water and both died.

Find Illness Is Biggest Drain on U. S. Manpower

Mongrel Dog Honored for Aiding Stricken Bird

OGDENSBURG, N. Y .- A New York State Humane society medal was awarded to Penny, a mongrel dog, who won international praise for his humanitarian impulses.

During a sleet storm last winter, Penny brought home to his owners, Mr. and Mrs. William G. McKee, an ice-coated partridge. The dog shared his own food with the bird until it was released this spring.

Mrs. McKee said news of Penny's act had brought laudatory letters from all over the United States, Australia and Hawaii.

78% in British Army Fit, Teetotalers Not More Able

LONDON.—Seventy-eight per cent of the men in the British army now are classed physically as A-1, Brigadier Frank D. Howitt, chief consulting physician to the British army, revealed.

In a recent experiment carried out at Aldershot to determine at what age a soldier has maximum phys. ical efficiency, he said, although it was found that the youngest soldiers were most agile, men up to the age of 38 in some cases had remarkable endurance.

It also was found that teetotalers were no better physically than those who smoked and drank. Likewise, men who had been in sedentary occupations before joining up proved themselves just as fit as those who had always done manual labor.

His Jump From Corporal To Major Sets a Record

LONDON .- One day a lance corporal, the next a major. That was the leap in British army rank made by Maj. Charles Bateson, 40 years old. The explanation here is that the major sought a commission for a long time, but was denied his appeals on the ground of age. Then the war office found he had been in the reserve officers all the time but did not know it.

Keeper of the Bees BAINBRIDGE, GA. — The Bainbridge army air field today boasts a new "Keeper of the Bees."

He is Staff Sergt. Harry Reynolds of Rome, Ga.

When a swarm of bees recently lighted on the fence of his squadron area, Sergt. Reynolds, an amateur apiarist, proceeded to aid the bees in transferring to a large wooden hive. Wearing his gas mask and gloves, with trousers and shirt cuffs taped tightly, he dived into the swarming mass and scooped them into the hive.

With the assistance of Lieut. Frederick Sears, Portland, Ore., he finally got most of the insects safely in the box. The others left the fence and crawled, through small bored holes, to their queen bee.

DETROIT LETTER

In my last week's letter, I mentioned something about the way the members of the Socialite Register, as they term themselves, to distinguish themselves from the common people, had been getting around OPA regulations. These people, most of whom live out Crosse Pointe way, seem to have more money than they know what to do with, according to the excuses they offered at the hearing of their cases before the Regional Commissioner of the OPA and offered about all the excuses that could have been thought of, in explaining why they thought they had more privileges than other not so well supplied with this world's goods, and have not surely put themselves in a very favorable light in the minds of the great majority of their fellow citi-

One man was surprised to learn that $2.00 was not an excessive price to pay for a pound of beef, a woman said she ordered a coffeeless coffee substitute, and was delivered one that required ration points, and others said that they had ordered their goods before rationing. One woman handed in an inventory of what goods that were rationed, and that were rationable and it showed that she had gotten 1,276 cans of processed canned goods, and meat enough to raise the total of 8,076 points. Her attorney said it was all a ghastly mistake, and we think so too, when we know that many other people were unable to get any of the above goods at all.

The wife of the President of the leading evening paper, was caught in this investigation. She bought 24 jars of deviled ham without giving up any points, and a great many people were greatly surprised, as this paper has always bragged about its high integrity, and we were surely amazed that such a thing could happen in the family of such a high official of that company. Cheese, shortening, sugar, and other articles were mentioned at the hearing, and one woman even pleaded sickness is an excuse for not reading rationing regulations. The final disposition of these cases has, at this writing, been announced, and we will tell you next week, how these parties have fared at the hands of the proper authorities

Quite a little excitement was caused in Detroit last week, by the uncovering of a German spy ring, which has been operating here for some time, by the FBI. This is said to be one of the most important said to be one of the most important amination. The plane was almost a jobs this very efficient organization has ever done, as it looks as if several hundred persons will be involved, before the investigation is over. persons were arrested, among them being two native-born American citizens, and all of whom were thought to be as patriotic as any one would wish, but it turned out that you can-not trust anyone, if there is any money in sight. The leader is said to be a graduate of the German School for spies, and is generally called a Countes as was another member of the ring, and one of the American-born suspects is a popular and successful physician. Whether this will be develop into another Max Stephan case remains to be seen, but a great deal of importance seems to be attached to this arrest. It also shows what such an organization as the FBI is worth to this country, and temperature there for the past month has been between 105 to 114 degrees. Recently he flew down to Mexico on official business; and the flew down to Mexico on official business of the flew down to Mexico on official business; and the flew down to Mexico on official business of the flew down to Mexico on official business of the flew down to Mexico on official business of the flew down to Mexico on official business of the flew down to Mexico on official business of the flew down to Mexico on this spy ring, could do to help Hitler and his gang of cut-throats win this

This case takes up page after page of the daily papers, and reads like a Each day more arrests fairy tale. are being made, while accounts of their activities, are almost unbelievable. I have not the space or ability to give you a full report of what is happening, nor can I tell you where it will end. If the ones who are American citizens, or in fact any of those arrested are found guilty they face the death penalty, and the lightest sentence they can receive is 30 years in solitary confinement. We have learned since writing the above that several more suspects have been tak en into custody, including the wife of one of the Professors in Wayne University, Detroit's highest public institution of learning, and we would not be surprised to learn that the earned man, who is not a naturalized citizen, has had his finger in the pie too. Their activities took in all the war plants, and it has been shown that reports of what they had been doing had been sent regularly to the Nazis, their employers.

We enjoyed a ride out to near Rochester, one day last week-the first for a long time, and were surprised at the way the crops are coming on. Of course there is no fruit of any consequences, owing to the long rainy season last Spring, but Mother Nature has certainly tried to make up for that, when she went to work on And we could the vegetable crop. not help seeing the difference in the size of the population along the road, as when we first began to make this very large industrial and war plants have been located out that way. might say immense, for many them cover acres of ground. great Hudson Naval Arsenal. the Chrysler, equally as great, Tank Airsenal, Briggs, Retary Electric Steel Company, and dozens of smaller conerns are all located along the Mound Road, which for years was noted as a mere political plaything, built to please the Real Estate men, who had subdivided everything for twenty-five miles in the country, and dwelling nouses of every description are to be seen along almost the whole length of the road—15 or more miles. The Real Estate men are certainly cashing on their investments in farm land along this road.

There is a whole lot more happenings that I might tell you about, but my letter is getting too long, so no more for this time,

The school teachers, 8,547 in number, were by far the largest group to receive the bonus, Governor O'Conor pointed out. Employees of State Departments and Agencies paid from General Funds totaled 2,794.

In the State Roads Commission there was a total of 428 salaried emplovees, including bridge and ferry workers who received the bonu while there were 520 employees paid from Special Funds, and 299 from Federal Funds.

Play at Cat and Mouse With Japs

Aussies Tell How They Were Hunted With Dogs.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA.-Seventeen young Australians, members of the guerrilla force which harried the Japanese throughout the island of Timor for more than a year, have returned to home duty after playing cat-and-mouse with the enemy.

It wasn't fun, said the Australians, and the Japanese didn't play fairly. They used bloodhounds.

During the first year of guerrilla warfare in Timor, Allied gunmen killed 2,100 Japanese against the loss of 26 of their own troops. During the first five months, only three Australians were killed, while 30 Japanese officers and 500 soldiers were knocked off

A number of Portuguese families, the white residents of Portuguese Timor, are virtual prisoners of the Japanese and are confined rigidly to a restricted sector of Dili, the capital.

The group was near starvation when finally rescued by Australian and American forces.

American Aid to Russia Is Proving Effective

WASHINGTON.-Lend-Lease Administrator E. R. Stettinius Jr., in a special report on shipments to tussia in the 19 months ended April 30, asserted that American weapons in Russian hands "have made themselves felt against the enemy with effectiveness.

The most important single contribution of lend-lease to the Soviets. Stettinius said, is completed weapons—tanks, planes and guns by the thousands. Many of the planes have been flown all the way or assembled en route after being delivered part way in American ships.

"A close second in importance as a vital contribution to the Russian offense," the report said, "has been the volume of raw materials shipped by lend-lease and fabricated into weapons of war by Russia's own industrial plants. Of these materials, the largest single item up to April 30 was 725,000 tons of steel and steel products, followed by 145,000 tons of copper, brass, nickel, molybdenum and other materials.

"Large as food shipments have been," the report said, "they have been small in comparison with the critical Russian needs."

Modern Methods Protect Soldiers From Diseases

American soldiers in North Africa are almost entirely free of infectious and contagious diseases. Before United States troops landed in North Africa last November, the medical intelligence service of the surgeon general's department had complete details in hand as to the conditions to be guarded against, and preventive measures were promptly put into effect.

One of the most effective forces against the hordes of mosquitoes has been a new lotion which the soldier rubs on his face and hands and other exposed parts of his body. Only a few drops are required. A single application of the lotion repels the mosquitoes for at least 400 minutes, probably in excess of a normal tour of duty.

Flies and other insects have been fought with a bomb-like device which the soldier sets off with a trigger. It contains a spray that kills all the flies and insects in a room of ordinary size, but is harmless to humans. The elimination of lice is accomplished by an entirely new powder, to be sprinkled on clothes. In consequence, the elaborate apparatus used in the last war is no longer required. As a general rule, however, American troops in Africa have been free of the pest.

The sanitary corps, another unit of the surgeon general's department, has cleaned up breeding places of insects in and near American-occupied areas, usually through spreading fuel oil and arsenic dust on stagnant ponds and pools.

800 Uniform Laws Aid

Close Interstate Action More than 800 uniform laws designed to facilitate interstate action are now on statute books in 48 states as a result of half a century of activity. More than 60 of the 800 laws were added this year by legislatures of the various states, and more are pending. Many of the 65 different uniform laws are to facilitate business and trade, which were hampered by statutory differences in the past, others pertain to social questions and some laws have been adopted this year to deal with wartime prob-

While the outstanding adoption of a uniform law has been the Negotiable Instruments act, enacted by all 48 states, at least 40 states have enacted the Veterans' Guardianship act. By 1942 at least 18 states had passed the Simultaneous Death act. and with the enacting of the law in 13 more states this year, over half the states now have this provision.

Every uniform law has been adopted by at least one state; some of them have been enacted by 30 or more states. For example, the Declaratory Judgments act and the Stock Transfer acts are now on the books in 34 and 35 states, respectively. Other uniform laws which have been adopted extensively concern such subjects as execution of wills, use of drugs, transfer of property, desertion and nonsupport.

Here Are Eleven Rules

For Preserving Linens If you want to sleep on bed sheets or dry your face with a towel for the duration of the war, you'd better mend your ways! Needs of the armed forces and our allies threaten to deplete stocks of material for work garments, towels, sheets and napery unless extreme care is taken to preserve present supplies. Among the rules recommended by linen suppliers for any time are:

Avoid all stains to tablecloths by putting smaller portions on plates and sitting closer to the table; use bedspreads to protect bed linens and blankets; dry towels before putting them in the clothes hamper. prevents transfer of stains, mildew and incubation of disease germs.

If you wear a work uniform, be sure you get the right size. Illfitting garments are torn easily; don't hang uniforms or dresses on nails. Use hangers; don't use towels for wiping sinks, stoves, furniture, machinery; remove nail polish and lipstick with facial tissue, not tow-

Wash and rinse your hands thoroughly before using a towel; wash your brow before you mop it. Perspiration injures fabric, water doesn't; don't wipe razors and other sharp instruments on towels; don't pull bath towels back and forth across your body. This weakens fabric in center.

U. S. Produces Citrus Oils As a result of the war, the oil cells in the rinds of citrus fruits that formerly went to waste are now giving up their contents to supply on and orange oils that flavor United States foods, beverages and medicines, the department of agriculture reports.

Until 1939, Italy supplied the United States with quantities of these Italian small farmers and farm laborers extracted them, either by scraping the rind surface with a spoon, or by twisting the fruit against ridges set within a funnel-a sort of orange juice extractor in reverse-catching the oil from the ruptured cells as it trickled down the spout.

When war cut off shipping from Italy, citrus distributors here began to produce more citrus oil and byproducts-usually expelling them from the rinds in hydraulic cold presses after the pulp had been removed.

Thin With Vegetable Water

Soups are always enjoyed especially during the winter months. In the warmer months, jellied consommes and bouillons are particularly appealing. We can use vegetable water in both of these types, either when making the soup at home or in serving the commercially canned concentrated soups. Instead of using plain tap water to thin the soup, add vegetable cooking water and increase the nutritive value.

Vegetable beverages have become increasingly popular in recent years, and many of these can be made at home by combining the liquid from cooked vegetable with tomato juice and seasoning to taste. A little experimentation many times gives surprising results. In making such mixtures, remember that parsley adds greatly to the flavor.

Flea Beetles Garden Menace

Most common of the many kinds of flea beetles are the black ones. about the size of a pinhead. As they are small, gardeners seldom notice them until they have done much damage by eating leaves. They feed on both the upper and lower sides of the foliage.

They make up in numbers what they lack in size, and riddle the leaves with small holes. Injured leaves turn yellow or brown and dry. Young plants may be severely stunted or killed. Tomato, potato, eggplant, and pepper are favorites of the flea beetle, and cauliflower, broccoli. cabbage, radish and other plants are often injured.

Safe and Sound

By VIC YARDMAN Associated Newspapers-WNU Features.

THE day that Shorty Steers, a stranger, arrived at the Leaning B cattle ranch he not only beat Luke Maynard to the draw, but gave him a thorough beating as well. Leaning B punchers who had been an audience to the scene, were secretly delighted. They hated Luke Maynard because he was a bully. Previous attempts on the part of one or another of them to retaliate because of his practical jokes which oft-times resulted in personal injury, had met with dismal failure. His ignominy was complete when he suffered defeat at the hands of Shorty, who was about half his size, and Shorty instantly became a hero in the eyes of the punchers.

Later, inside the bunkhouse, Shorty handed a sealed letter to Dave Lambert, the Leaning B foreman. Lambert scanned the contents.

"So, the old man sent you up here to run down the jigger what's been robbin' our payroll for the last six months, eh?" He looked Shorty over carefully. "Well, effin I just hadn't seen what you done to Luke, I'd say the old man was nuts. I guess, however, he knows what he's doin'. How do you figure on goin' about catchin' this here highway robber?'

Two weeks after his arrival. Dave Lambert sent Shorty down to Cactus Bend for the payroll. Despite Shorty's cocksure air and the fact that he had beaten Luke Maynard in fair fight, Dave could not reconcile himself to the fact of Shorty's fitness for the job. Still, the old man was the boss, and the letter had stated definitely that Shorty was to have free rein.

Bije Thompson, president of the Cactus Bend Savings bank, was sur-called for the payroll money. In order to make sure the cowboy was the man he claimed, he called Dave on the phone.

Shorty grinned when Bije shoved over the money. "Son," the bank president cautioned, "you be care-You ought to have a body-

"Maybe I ought," said Shorty, and took the money and went out. Halfway back to the ranch three masked men stepped in the path of his pinto horse and leveled guns at him.

In no time at all Shorty was trussed securely and the pinto, responding to a sharp slap on the rump, was galloping up the trail. Five hundred yards from the scene of the holdup, the horse slowed down to a walk and finally stopped. Working feverishly, Shorty had loosened himself from his bonds five minutes later and was pounding back to the scene of operations. He picked up the trail and followed it cautiously. A half hour later he heard a sharp command up ahead. Working his way to a high point of land he witnessed a surprising scene. The three bandits who had relieved him of the payroll were being held up by a single masked Shorty waited until the trio had been bound and sent off in a manner similar to what he had experienced. then he worked his way down the hill, circled and came out onto the trail. Here he prepared an ambush and, being gunless, had to leap from a tree onto the back of the lone rider. The resulting fight was something that Shorty hadn't bargained It took all of his skill and for. strength to overpower the hold-up gentleman.

Two hours later he rode into the Leaning B ranch yard, driving his prisoner ahead of him, just as Luke Maynard appeared in the door. Luke's eyes bulged at sight of the man Shorty had captured. "Why, you danged lunkhead, the jigger you got there is Bije Thompson, president of our bank.

"And highway robber de luxe. Keep your shirt on, Lambert, while I explain." He told about being held up by the trio, glancing toward Luke Maynard with a broad grin. "I recognized 'em as some of the boys from the ranch an' figured it as a joke. Then when I seen 'em held up by this jigger, I ambushed him an' took him prisoner. I guess that ends my job here, fer which I ain't unthankful."

The familiar grin spread across Shorty's face. "Why, shucks," he "I almost forgot." He lifted up his shirt. "Me wantin' to keep that money safe an' sound I had it in a belt around my waist all the time.'

New High Is Indicated

For Produce of the Farm WASHINGTON. - Chester C. Davis, war food administrator, said that despite floods and an unfavorable spring the present outlook indicates greater farm production this year than at any time in history except last year.

In a radio address, the administrator said farmers broke all-time records in 1939, again in 1940, 1941 and 1942.

"But our civilian consumers alone ate up 85 per cent of that enormous production of last year," Davis said. 'Only 15 per cent of it went to our armed forces and lend-lease. The last two years have been a great feast for our civilian consumers."

ISRAEL CALLED TO BE A HOLY PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT-Leviticus 19:1-4, 11-18, 32-GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye holy; for I am holy.—I Peter 1:16.

Labor Day, 1943, with a war-torn world, finds us facing a social order deeply divided regarding the rights and wrongs of the relationship between man and man, especially cap-Ital and labor.

For these many years we have talked of a planned economy where kindness and justice shall control all dealings of man with his fellow man. But to accomplish such a result apart from the hand of God to guide and restrain, has proved to be im-

Selfishness and sin control too much of the thought and action of our world. We need to be reminded, as was Israel in our lesson, that God has called us to be a holy people. His holiness is not just something of which one sings in a hymn or talks in a sermon. It means among other things, real social jus-

God has always stood for social righteousness. The underlying moral law of the universe demands it, and the law of God as revealed to His people developed and implemented it for successful functioning, were we only wise enough to see and follow it.

It is time that all God's people emphasize God's moral principles in the life of society. Never forgetting that its first business is to preach the redeeming gospel of Christ, the church ought also to make its influence felt for social righteousness.

Our lesson speaks first of the foundational matter in all social justice, namely: I. Holiness of Heart Before God

(Lev. 19:1-4). Because God is holy, His people were to be holy. It was not a matter of choice or impulse. They belonged to a holy God, they were to be a holy people.

There is an idea current in the church today which has served Satan well, namely, that holiness of life is something which is not required; that it is expected only of a few folk who are spiritually minded, and that the other professed followers of Christ may go on living a worldly, careless, powerless life. It is the devil's own lie. God expects every Christian to be holy.

Such rightness with God shows itself in a rightness with others, which we note as our second point:

II. Holiness of Life Before Men (Lev. 19:11-18, 32-34).

How intensely practical and workable in daily e laws here given to Israel. They are just as apropos to our present day.

1. Honesty (vv. 11-13). No stealing, no perjury, no lying, no oppression, no withholding of wages, none of these could be tolerated, for they dishonored God's name. Think what the elimination of dishonesty in dealing between men would accomplish. Most of our social problems would be solved overnight. Merchants would do well to read verses 35 and 36 in this connection.

2. Kindness (v. 14). The deaf cannot hear what we say about them, nor can the blind see what we do. But the eternal God hears and sees, and He expects us to be kind to them.

3. Fairness (vv. 15, 16). Some assume that a man must be right because he is rich. Others are equally sure that the poor are always worthy of special considera-

Note the condemnation of the talebearer. Every gossip who reads these words knows that God condemns that evil practice. Nor does He countenance indifference to the welfare of others. Their blood cries out to Him for deliverance (v. 16).

4. Love (vv. 17, 18). "Love thy neighbor as thyself." That is the standard. How much have we done to meet it?

A rebuke may be necessary, but love will not permit grudges, or the seeking of vengeance, even when we have been wronged.

5. Respect (vv. 3, 32). God's Word always stresses the need of a right attitude toward parents. Children need to learn anew the lesson of verse 3.

Then there are the aged (v. 32). Old age pensions doubtless have their place in our complex social order, but perhaps they would not be needed if men and women honored the hoary head and the face of an old man. A pension does not take the place of honor and love for the aged, even though it may pay the bills. God has high standards.

6. Consideration (vv. 33, 34). The man who knows God will not be party to taking advantage of a stranger. He remembers that he too has been a stranger. To meet with loving kindness and tender care when one is in a strange place should inspire one to go and do like-

LABOR DAY (September 6, 1943)

• In paying a heartfelt tribute to labor, America is all-inclusive. The farmer, the engineer, the clerk and the thousands of other workers are playing vitally important roles in the winning of the war.

Without foods, wars could never be won. Despite the many handicaps resulting from war, the American farmer has redoubled his efforts to increase production.

Age is no hand?cap to many a wartime job. And thousands of mothers and grandmothers—in the factory, in the office and on the farm-are doing their part to insure complete

The skill and ingenuity of American working men is a decisive factor in hastening an inevitable victory. The loud roar of our industry is now reaching its crescendo.

The housewife has an important job-and she is getting it done. Through volunteer work with civilian defense, Red Cross or community projects, she is contributing directly to the war effort.

Many youngsters with little or no previous training are stepping into jobs on farms and in factories. They are doing a man's work and are shouldering responsibilities beyond their years.

Dead Steer Kicks Him

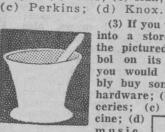

And Breaks Five Ribs VACAVILLE, CALIF. - George Higson found that even a dead steer can be almost deadly. The animal had been slaughtered, and Higson had grabbed both hind legs to roll it over for skinning. The reflexes in the steer's muscles were so powerful he landed 10 feet away against a kettle. Five ribs were broken.

THIRD WAR LOAN WORKERS WARNED AGAINST OPTIMISM

At a meeting of volunteer leaders who, with the help of hundreds of volunteer workers, will soon start their "bond invasion" of every plant, office, street, home to sell those extra $100 War Bonds in Carroll County during the Third War Loan Drive which starts September 9th, Chairman N. B. Boyle sounded the keynote for the greatest war financing drive in history. Recognizing the fact that good war news might possibly generate a feeling of overconfidence and optimism that the war is nearer victory than it actually is, Chairman Boyle said:

"We have destroyed the Axis in Africa and have swept it out of Sicily. After many months of preparing and fighting, things are going our way in the Mediterranean and in the Pacific.

"But only the weak third partner of the Axis is groggy.

"The tide of battle has turned in our favor because we have succeeded in mobilizing for war. In total war our fighting men do not win on the battlefront unless back home their fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters for months past have worked as a team building up the supplies and the weapons with which battles are won.

"Now is the time to slug on the home sector, in the factories and mines and mills as well as on the battle fields. If we relax our attack, if we relax in production and permit a single soldier to be short of food or ammunition, we open the way for the Germans and the Japs to start a swing from the floor.

"Wars, battles, ball - games and horse-races have been lost repeatedly by contestants who got out in front and then grew overconfident.

"There is grave danger in assuming that the war is over, or that the way ahead will be fast or easy.

"The Germans and the Japs, every one, are fighting to the death.

"The enemy has the advantage of defense, short lines of supply and a decade of preparation for war.

"We have to transport millions of men, and for them the food, the bullets, the tanks, the guns, over thou-sands of miles of sub-infested water, to more than 50 battle fronts. In spite of our successes the war will be won by ships, planes, tanks and guns which are yet to come off the produc-
