THIRD WAR LOAN

Drive for Sale of Bonds Started Thursday

The drive for the sale of War Bonds, the third war loan started yesterday, September 9. It was ushered in by the ringing of bells at the churches—many thousands of them. The total amount asked for is fifteen billion dollars.

This is a non-bank drive, which means that the public must dig up the money. To have the banks buy these bonds would create a situation which would be dangerous.

Carroll County's quota has been set at $850,000, which means that every family and every individual must go to the limit. It would take an average of approximately $120 from every family, and as there are many families who can not buy bonds, those who can must double up or multiply their amounts.

Information as to the types of bonds available can be had from the banks. The quota is about 65 percent more than for the drive in April last.

SERVICE MEN LETTERS

Pfc. Carroll N. Hahn says in his notification of his change in address to his home folks that "he is pretty good and would never forget how good the Red Cross was to the boys where he is. He received mail only once during July."

PFC. CARROLL N. HAHN, Co. A, 169th. Inf. Reg. 31 Station Hospital A. P. O., 502, care P. M., San Francisco, Calif.

To the Record Office,
I am writing you a line to ask you to change the address of The Record as I would hate to miss one copy. I left Fort Meade last Friday morning and arrived in Granite City Saturday night. This is a very nice city. I am at a new camp which just opened with about 600 soldiers, nearly all of us going to the same school. I expect to be here going to school for four months. Thanking you for your kindness.

RATION POINT CHANGES

Rejecting an improvement in civilian meat supplies, the ration cost of most lamb and bacon cuts, sirloin steak, and rib roasts has been reduced from one to two points for September. In addition, several variety meats also have lower point values. Creamery butter increased two points to 12 points per pound. Country butter, however, has been assigned a value of six points per pound. The purchasing power of meats-fats stamps in September will be a little larger than in August because the decrease in meat point values more than cancels the higher ration cost of creamery butter.

START USING RATION BOOK III

The first brown "point stamp" in War Ration Book III will become valid September 12. This stamp A, is good for 16 points through October 2. Brown stamps will become valid on successive Sundays and will always expire on the Saturday nearest the end of a month. They will be used for rationing meats, fats, oils, canned fish, cheese, canned milk, and all other commodities now rationed with red stamps in War Ration Book II. The small stamps bearing pictures of field guns, tanks, ships, and airplanes are not yet in use. Anyone who has not received Book III may obtain one by applying to his local ration board.

BIG DEMAND FOR STRAW

Farmers in the straw producing areas will be urged to make straw available to strawboard manufacturers to enable them to keep up with very heavy requirements for shipping containers for military forces and essential civilian uses. The War Production Board is cooperating with the War Food Administration in a program designed to increase straw collection in midwestern states. Due to heavy rains and flood conditions this spring, much of the available straw crop was destroyed. State and county War Boards are expected to assist strawboard manufacturers in locating available straw.

BARNS AND BARRICKS BURN

A heavy electrical storm swept over the Hampstead section a week ago, when three barns and two barricks were burned. A fourth barn was struck near Mt. Zion. All of these fires started within a period of about ten minutes.

The Hampstead, Manchester and Arcadia Fire Companies responded to calls. An immense amount of hay, grain and some farming implements were destroyed in these fires. No live stock was lost.

FARMERS' WAR BOND QUOTA

Farmers have a War Bond quota of one and one half billion dollars in the 15 billion dollar Third War Loan drive which begins September 9 and continues through the month. During the campaign canvassers expect to call upon at least 3,600,000 of the nation's 6 million farm houses. Farmers' income figures point to big bond subscriptions. It is estimated that their cash income from marketings will be 19 billion dollars this year.

ITALY SURRENDERS UNCONDITIONALLY

Armistice Signed Wednesday. Germany Says Treachery

One of the big breaks of the war occurred on Wednesday of this week, when Italy surrendered unconditionally to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied force. The armistice was signed at 6:30 P. M., which was just a half hour after noon here.

Gen. Eisenhower made a public statement immediately by radio. The text of the announcement was as follows:

This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied force. The Italian Government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally. As Allied commander in chief, I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the Governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Thus, I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

The Italian Government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation. The armistice was signed by my representative and the representatives of Marshal Badoglio, and it becomes effective this instant. Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations.

Premier Badoglio also announced the surrender to the Italian people. He personally read his proclamation of surrender, and his appearance at the microphone in Rome indicated he was not molested by the Germans. He said:

The Italian Government, recognizing the impossibility of continuing the unequal struggle against the overwhelming power of the enemy, with the object of avoiding further and more grievous harm to the nation, requested an armistice from General Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Anglo-American Allied forces. This request has been granted.

The Italian forces will, therefore, cease all acts of hostility against the Anglo-American forces wherever they may be met. They will, however, oppose attacks from any other quarter.

Germany, of course, howled "treachery." The official German news agency DNB, made it plain that the Nazis had not been taken into the confidence of King Vittorio Emanuel and Marshal Badoglio when the Italian Government decided to get out of the war. The fall of Italy is a big step in the conquest of Europe, and brings much nearer the ultimate doom of Hitler.

MARRIAGE LICENCES

REMEMBER INCOME TAX

Only five days remain, that is to September 15, to make your declaration of estimated income tax for 1943. If your whole income consists of wages from which your employer is withholding 20%, you need not file unless your income estimate is more than $2700 if single or more than $3500 if married.

But if you have other income, even as much as $100, you must file, and all persons whose income is not subject to withholding tax must file if income is over $500 for a single person or $1200 for a married couple.

Farmers need not file until December 15, but to pass a farmer 80% of your income must come from the farm, from dairying and associated occupations.

NEGRO IS HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Confessed to Officers That He Committed Crime

News reached us after last week's issue of the fatal wounding of Chas. L. Meister, 55, Baltimore butcher, at his farm near Marriottsville, Carroll County, early Tuesday morning, Aug. 31st.

The shooting occurred shortly after 1:00 A. M., as Meister, who maintained a home in Baltimore but also stayed several nights a week alone in the farm house, and aroused to hear someone standing on the roof of a shed outside his bedroom window shout: "Hands up!" As Meister arose the assailant fired. Investigators found powder marks on a curtain at the window.

Though mortally wounded, Meister was able to walk downstairs and telephone for Dr. H. A. Barnes, of Sykesville. The local physician found the man lying on the floor, with a large portion of his stomach blown away by the blast and his intestines protruding. He was still conscious, but unable to identify his assailant.

Dr. Barnes rendered first aid, summoned State Police and had the wounded man removed to University Hospital, Meister died Tuesday night.

William Charles Holsey aged 33, colored, was arrested the next day and lodged in the Carroll County jail, pending an investigation. On Friday evening he asked Sheriff Charles W. Conaway to send for his grandmother who lives at Snowden's Creek, near Marriottsville, and a woman friend at Baltimore, both of whom were taken to the jail to consult with the prisoner. After conferring with them he told the Sheriff he wanted to make a statement, and the confession as announced by the State's Attorney was made in the presence of Mr. Sponseller, Sheriff Conaway, Sgt. J. K. Cushman of the Maryland State Police, and Chief Deputy Sheriff J. Lee Cramer.

In his confession he revealed he had gone to Snowden's Creek Monday on the 6 P. M. bus from Baltimore and went to a woodland where he had hidden a double-barrel shotgun. He waited until after dark or about 9:30 o'clock when he proceeded to the Meister farm home, where he saw Meister in the sitting room on the first floor.

Then he said he hid in a nearby cornfield until Meister had gone to his bedroom on the second floor, declaring his intentions were to hold him up, take his money and tie him until he could make his getaway. For this purpose he secured a rope plough line from the stable which he carried with him to the room with the shotgun. He made his way over the roof of a summer kitchen and from the outside of the screened window told his victim to "stick 'em up." Meister he continued, sat up on the side of his bed, and at the same time, he, Holsey, kicked in the screen, but as he did so he lost his balance and the gun was discharged. He entered the room, pick up Meister's trousers from a chair and went downstairs and outdoors to the barn about 150 feet away, where, according to his story, he took a wallet and bunch of keys from the trousers, which he threw away, got into Meister's truck which was parked at the barn and left by a road which led by the tenant house occupied by Thurman Robinson, taking a back road, and eventually reaching Baltimore.

DOG KEPT WATCH

The barking of a faithful dog that kept watch of his dead master from Sunday until Wednesday of last week led to the finding of the body of Harry C. January, of Kensington, Md.

Investigators concluded that the man, 71 years old, had taken the dog for training along the Potomac, near Noland's Ferry, and had suffered a heart attack which caused him to slip from the top of the bank to the water edge. The head and feet were under water and the Frederick County Medical Examiner said death was due to drowning.

HOG CHOLERA SERUM OUTPUT HIGH

The serum used in combating hog cholera is now being made in record-breaking quantities, according to the Department of Agriculture. Output of the protective serum between July 1, 1942 and June 30, 1943, was 25 percent above last year's high output. The current supply represents large-scale protection against hog cholera, the most formidable swine disease, for the vast number of hogs now being raised in the U. S.

Civilian butter supply has been cut 20% and ration points have been increased from 8 to 10. Margarine production has been increased about 27% over last year, and still just takes 4 points per pound. Vitaminized margarine—margarine with Vitamin A added—is delicious as a spread for bread, excellent as a seasoning and can be used in cookery exactly in the same proportion as you do butter.

WELFARE BOARD Meets and Discusses Free Hospitalization

The Carroll County Welfare Board met on Wednesday, September 1, in the local office. Members present were: Dr. Chas. R. Foutz, J. Pearce Bowles, Mt. Airy, Jonathan Dorsey, Berrett, and John S. Barnes, Winfield.

The first matter to receive consideration was the question of certifying eligible patients for free hospital care. The following facts were presented. The State of Maryland spends approximately one-half million dollars per year to provide general hospital care for persons unable to pay for it. Several difficulties in the past have been (1) The amount of the appropriation to the hospitals did not bear a true relation to the amount of free care given. (2) There was no uniform method of determining persons who were entitled to free care. (3) The hospitals were giving a considerable amount of free service for which they were not being compensated by the State.

It has been agreed, after discussion by the State Board of Welfare and the State Medical and Hospital Advisory Committee that the State, through its regularly constituted agencies should determine who is entitled to free care at State expense.

As of October 1, 1943 the County Welfare Board of the State have been asked to assume this new responsibility. Mrs. Esther K. Brown, Executive Secretary of the local board reports that the local office has arranged for the following procedure. Requests from a patient or a member of his family will be made direct to the local office. It is expected that the one office interview will make it possible to arrive at a decision. The local department will determine by an income scale whether the person is or is not able to pay. If not able, it will issue a certificate which the patient or his family will take to the Hospital.

For the past three years the local welfare department has been making similar investigations to determine eligibility for free or partially free care at the State's Mental Hospitals, and has been forwarding their recommendations to the Carroll County Commissioners. In general, the investigation for the new type of hospital care will follow a similar procedure, except that information will be obtained at the time of the office interview, with no plan for a home visit.

The past month's count of assistance cases under care showed that three applications for Old Age Assistance were approved, and assistance to three aged persons had been discontinued; one application for dependent children, because of death of the father, was approved while the same kind of assistance to five families was discontinued; four general assistance grants were approved and seven grants were discontinued. One new home was licensed to board children, one Foster Day Care Home was approved, and ten investigations for other counties or states were made. The requests to transfer property of several persons receiving Old Age assistance were brought to the Board's attention, final decisions to be made after conference with the Board's legal advisor.

Ration Reminders

Gasoline—In 17 states of Eastern shortage area A-6 coupons are now good. In states outside the Eastern shortage area A-7 coupons are good through September 21. All gasoline coupons in the possession of car owners must be endorsed with the owner's license and state of registration.

Fuel Oil—Period 5 coupons in old rations remain good through September 30. Period 1 coupons in new rations are good through December. Occupants of oil-heated homes are urged to return their applications for next year's fuel oil to their ration boards promptly and when issued new rations to place orders with their dealers for summer fill-ups.

OVERSEAS CHRISTMAS MAIL

More than 10 million individual Christmas parcels for overseas soldiers are expected in the mailing period, September 15 to October 15. The Army Postal Service will need the full cooperation of the mailing public if packages are to reach soldiers in time. The public is asked to be sure to put the correct overseas mailing addresses on the packages and to wrap them securely, but in such a manner as to permit inspection prior to their dispatch. Every overseas package must be opened, inspected, and re-wrapped at the Port of Embarkation. The Army Postal Service and the U. S. Post Office Department strongly urged that packages be mailed September 15 or immediately thereafter.

INCOME TAX TROUBLES

The demand for a pay-as-you-go plan for collection of income taxes was overwhelming at the time the 1943 act was passed. We were not enthusiastic about it, and our fears have been fully justified. For those who have no income but wages, it has probably simplified matters, but for the multitude of others they find themselves under the necessity of making four returns per year instead of one, and in three of these the return is partly guess work. And if the wage earner happens to have an income of over $100 from other sources, or if the wages or salary runs above $2700 for a single man or $3500 for a married man, he, too, finds himself in the class reporting quarterly.

Under the old system the taxpayer dealt with finished business in making the return. He could make his return without guessing, and be comparatively sure that the business was finished for a year. The only trouble was that many wage earners spent all their money, and were in trouble when pay-day came.

It certainly reflects badly upon the intelligence and strength of will of such people that they could not lay aside a portion of their wages as easily as to have the employer take it from them. And it must add materially to the cost of collection and record keeping to have all these additional returns.

But whether it was wise or otherwise, we have what the crowd was asking for, and we must make the best of it. So get your estimate in before September 15, and prepare to correct it before December 15. Then make a real return before March 15, 1944. After that you can begin the whole process over again, so that you do not get out of practice.

L. B. H.

OUR MONEY CREATORS

The Constitution of these United States clearly and specifically states that "Congress shall have power to coin money and regulate the value thereof, etc." and that is a fact. Congress now has, as it always has had, power over hard money—the few millions issued as pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars and silver dollars, but Congress has relinquished to the Federal Reserve Bank the right and power to make totting money—a thing that should never have been permitted in the first place, and that should now be abandoned, but who is big enough to do the job.

Congress in the early days of the depression gave to President Roosevelt the right and power to issue three billion dollars of paper money (notes). Why has he not done it? Are the money creators (lenders) responsible? President Lincoln during the Civil War issued green-backs to the amount of three hundred and forty six million dollars to carry on the Civil War, and that money is still in circulation and as good as gold, and because it is in circulation and has been all these years it is estimated that a saving of approximately eleven billion dollars in interest alone has been effected thereby.

Why, pray tell, should the United States permit others (private interests) to issue its own money for its own gain? Why should the Federal Reserve Bank (Federal in name only, because it is privately owned and controlled by the sole issuer of our circulating money medium, which is backed only by the Government Bonds, held by the Federal Reserve Bank, issued (bought) by the money the Federal Reserve Bank itself creates and issues. The fact of the matter is that you and I and the other fellow are working, toiling, sweating merely to enrich the money lenders, and we will continue to do so until some one rebels and restores the money making power to the Congress where it rightly belongs. Who is big enough and bold enough to undertake the job?

W. J. H.

CONGRESS

Within a few weeks the corridors of the big Capitol building in Washington will hum with activity and gavel will fall once again in the chambers of the Senate and House of Representatives. Congress, which is now in brief recess after months of continuous session, will return to the job of making the nation's laws.

Looking back on the session just interrupted, Americans cannot but feel pride in their legislative branch and a real sense of thanksgiving that such a body exists to stand as a bulwark against ever-increasing encroachments upon their right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Sniped at, the object of whispering campaigns and often ridicule from the power hungry executive branch, Congress has stood fast and thrown back every attack upon the fundamentals of American government.

Its reasserted independence threw off the odium of being a "rubber stamp" and it again assumed its constitutional duty of making laws under which the executive departments and bureaus are expected to function.

It stands today as the only branch of our Government wholly responsive to the people and the people's will and upon it rest the prayers and hopes of a troubled nation that America will remain the America we and our forefathers have always known—the America of free speech and the right to worship God in one's own fashion; the America of individual initiative and private enterprise.

To adhere to the charted course will not be easy. Congress will continue to be damned and slandered and defamed as it has been in recent months. That it will remain loyal to its trust and with our help succeed, we are very certain. The people will stand solidly behind their elected Congressional representatives and when they speak it will be the voice of the people.

So until September 14, when the gavel falls ending the recess period, may Congress rest well; may it return to Washington refreshed by a strength drawn from the people back home.—R. N. C.

THE CONVERSION OF ADVERTISING

Bills will be introduced in Congress when it convenes, authorizing the United States Treasury to advertise the sale of war bonds in periodicals and the leading local daily and weekly newspapers throughout the country. This question has been discussed before some of the press associations throughout the country, and apparently newspaper men are agreeable to such suggestions, providing there is no actual taint of "subsidy."

In the olden days advertising had only one objective; to sell goods. In the past few years advertisers have given more attention to promotion and institutional copy.

Radio went even further, and finally got clear out on the line with "commercials." The newspapers were antagonistic, so antagonistic that publishers refused to carry radio programs. The radio spilled over with "conversion."

National advertisers devote only a part of their space to the product they have to sell. The rest of their copy is apt to tell about the progress made in the conversion of automobile plants to the manufacture of bombers and other great machines all intended for Victory. Some enthusiastic advertisers have gone so far as to charter pages of space in metropolitan newspapers to reproduce articles and comments of famous writers who have hit some home front problems. The subject may be food rationing, too little gas, or arguments pro and con regarding wages and hours. Even the big union labor organizations in Washington use advertising space in which they tell Congress and the Administration to hurry up and repeal the Connally-Smith Act or risk defeat in the next election. That is political conversion of paid space in bad form.

One practical way in which the weekly newspapers have edged in on the conversion of advertising is found in ads of the local business men who support war bond drives for some public service.

The "conversion" of advertising is a new progressive step even though some busy-bodies jump up in the front rows and talk about subsidizing the American press.

Don't overlook the fact that each newspaper in its proper sphere is contributing more to the support of the National Government and the war effort than any other class of business in existence.—National Industrial News Service.

TRAVELOGUE FOR '43

Despite the ban on pleasure driving, the absence of peacetime cruise boats, and the uncertainties of train transportation, 1943 will undoubtedly go down as one of the greatest travel years in history.

It began promptly in January, when a Prime Minister and a President met in Casablanca. The President hopped leisurely home, you may remember, stopping at way stations in Liberia and South America. The Prime Minister, with equal leisure, stayed to sketch a while, then took a side trip to Turkey.

In April, the President thought it time to be off again, and skipped "south of the border, down Mexico way."

The Prime Minister picked May as a fine month for a sea trip and dropped in on the President in Washington.

King George VI, not to be outdone by his Prime Minister, went on a little cruise of his own in June, to North Africa and Malta.

Mrs. Roosevelt, gadder-about second to none, disappeared from sight the other day to pop up in New Zealand. (Not that anyone would have batted an eyelash if she had taken a rocket to the moon.)

To the August conferences at Quebec came Prime Minister Churchill, bringing Mrs. Churchill and daughter, Mary, along this time.

And, by the way, whatever became of that man with the mustach who used to get around so much a while ago?—Christian Science Monitor.

SELF-EDUCATION

Deep regret is felt that many men in the armed services will feel after their return from the war that their time for getting an education has passed, and that they will go on in life without the culture they expected to get in the higher institutions of learning. It is to be hoped that many of them will yet decide to go on with college courses. Yet if they do not, no country on earth has better chances for self-education. Countless people have taken advantage of it.

Probably the majority of men who have been successful in business never had any very extended education in schools and colleges. They learned from life as they went along, and every day was a kind of school for them.

Education is not something which you can order for yourself as you order a suit of clothes. It is something which a person has to get by his own effort. If he is willing to make that effort, he can get it at any time in his life. The country is wonderfully provided with libraries, and good books can be had everywhere. The youth living in some remote region and lonely place far from any library or book-store, can get the world's best books for very little money, and ponder them more deeply than many youngsters who are supplied with everything by their parents.

The main thing in education is not the specific thing you learn, but the practice you get in learning it. The home student who has learned how to really study has something which many college students have lacked.

Newspapers are one of the chief forces for self-education. The people who read them carefully become familiar with the world, and their knowledge and information commands respect everywhere. The men of the armed forces are getting a wonderful form of education from their daily experience, and they know many things not taught in books.—The Caroline Sun.

7,000 LIVES SAVED

For those who like to find silver linings, considerable satisfaction can be found in the restrictions on pleasure driving from the fact that the number of deaths from automobile accidents declined by 37 per cent during the first half of 1943.

Records of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show that in the first six months of 1943 the mortality rate from automobile accidents was 11.6 per 100,000 as against a rate of 18.4 for the first six months of 1942. This means approximately 12,000 people were killed by automobiles in the first six months of 1943 as against approximately 19,000 during the same period in 1942. Thus the restriction on driving and the 35-mile an-hour wartime speed limit can be credited with saving over 1,000 lives per month.

Safety officials are studying this record with keen interest. They realize that after the war there will be more cars and more speed than ever before—but they hope to find some lessons in wartime restrictions which will aid in saving lives when motoring returns to normal.

They know the solution cannot rest on limiting the use of automobiles. But unless safety measures are worked out now which will apply to normal times, it is feared that, in the post-war era, the automobile will be more destructive to human life than war itself.—Roderick Papers.

Instructions For Applying For Canning Sugar

Residents of Carroll County who wish to apply for canning sugar for this season are urged to read the instructions below and to follow them explicitly. Your local Rationing Board is attempting to make this plan as simple as possible, with the least amount of trouble, but the full cooperation of everyone is expected in order that the plan will function smoothly.

At the bottom of this news item will be found a questionnaire. After completely filling out this, mail it to the address below that is nearest to your home.

George Shower, Taneytown, Md.
Miss Emma E. Trump, Manchester, Md.
Mrs. Helen Hood, Mt. Airy, Md.
Mrs. Doris Crumbacker, Union Bridge, Md.
Mrs. De Vries Hering, Sykesville, Md.
War Price and Rationing Board 237.1
Westminster, Maryland.

Be sure you inclose with this questionnaire all War Ration Books No. 1 of the members of your family unit. No questionnaire will be received unless the books accompany it and the No. 15 and 16 stamps have been used. One person of a family unit may make application for canning sugar for the entire family, but any person not related by blood, marriage, or adoption must file separate questionnaire. When you receive your Sugar Purchase Certificate (Form R-306) be sure you use it before 60 days as they are no longer valid after that time. The maximum allowance for each person by this questionnaire will be fifteen pounds. Ten pounds will already have been received by stamps 15 and 16. Five pounds of the total amount (25 lbs) may be used for preserving and twenty pounds for canning.

QUESTIONNAIRE

Gentlemen:

I would like to make application for canning sugar.

1. Total quarts canned or to be canned from March 1, 1943 to February 29, 1944 inclusive.....

2. I have canned, or will can.....quarts of preserves, jellies, or pickles this season.

3. I canned.....quarts of fruit last year.

All sugar obtained by this questionnaire will be used for home canning or preserving at the prescribed rate of one pound for every four quarts.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

SQUEAKING FLOORS

Question: How can a floor squeak be stopped?

Answer: When the underside of a floor is exposed, as it may be from a cellar, the movement of loose boards can be seen when a squeaking place is walked on. The looseness can be taken out and the squeak stopped by driving the thin end of a shingle between the board and the supporting beam. When the underside of a floor is not open, the squeak can be taken out by nailing through the floor to tighten the boards against the beams. This begins by locating the positions of the beams. The direction of beams, and their separations, usually can be seen in cellar and attic; beams elsewhere in the house are likely to follow. Two-inch or two-and-a-half-inch finishing nails, which have small heads, should be used. Drive these in pairs at opposite angles, sinking the heads below the surface with a nail set. Holes above the heads can be filled with plastic wood. Sometimes a squeak can be taken out by working talcum powder into the cracks between boards.

PAINT STAINS

Question: How can I remove paint stains from windows, linoleum, hardwood floors and fixtures such as lights, brackets, rods, etc., made of brass and other metals?

Answer: The paint spots on glass or metal can be removed by careful scraping with an old safety razor blade. Those on linoleum and hardwood floors might be removed by careful, gentle rubbing with fine steel wool and a little turpentine; patience is necessary for this work.

Rusted Casements

Question: Our steel casement windows are rusted on the inside from condensation. What type of paint should be used to correct this condition?

Answer: If any paint is left on the metal, it can be softened with paint remover (be careful of fire) and then scraped and wiped off. Rust can be softened with liquid rust remover, to be had at an automobile supply store, and then scraped off with steel wool. Before repainting, clean the metal thoroughly with benzine (also inflammable). Apply a coat of red lead paint and allow to dry for about a week. You then can finish with oil paint or enamel. Storm windows would not only stop the condensation but would keep your house warmer and save fuel.

Plate-Glass Mirrors

Question: I have three heavy plate-glass mirrors which I would like to fasten in my kitchen. How can holes be made in the corners, and what type of screws should be used in fastening the mirrors to the walls?

Answer: You should have the holes drilled by a dealer in plate glass, who has the equipment for this kind of work. Too much risk is involved for an amateur to attempt the job. You can get the name of a firm dealing in hardware and fasteners for hanging mirrors by inquiring of the Architects Samples Exhibit, 101 Park Avenue, New York city. The mirrors should have good quality silvering to withstand the moisture of a kitchen.

Suede-Bound Books

Question: I recently purchased an edition of books bound in suede leather. It had been stored in a house that was unoccupied for a long while, and the books are badly mildewed. Is there anything to apply to the bindings to take off the mold?

Answer: Remove the mildew with a brush made especially for suede leather; do not use too much pressure. What mold remains may be removed by wiping with a cloth damp with alcohol. There are several types of leather dressings made especially for leather book-bindings. Your public library may be able to give you the name of this dressing.

Cement Walk

Question: I would like to make a cement walk about one foot wide and 35 feet long. How much cement, sand and gravel will I need? I want to make it about three inches deep.

Answer: Concrete walks should be at least four inches deep. For complete information on laying concrete walks, as well as proportions and amount of material necessary, ask the Portland Cement Association, 33 West Grand avenue, Chicago, Ill., to send you a copy of their free booklet on the subject.

Get Thrills in Undersea Jobs

Excitement of Chase Leads Men to Volunteer for Submarine Duty.

ABOARD A U. S. SUBMARINE.—

What is a submariner? They're all volunteers in jobs generally considered the most dangerous in the navy. Yet most of them wouldn't trade for the peace and contentment of a farm in Iowa.

Lieut. Comdr. Philip H. Ross, skipper of this submarine, suggests three reasons:

"Fifty per cent extra pay is a big inducement. (All submariners get it.)

"Promotion usually is faster. "There aren't so many restrictions."

He omits probably one of the most important—excitement of the chase and the thrill of hearing your torpedoes explode against the hull of enemy ships. Only the skipper, looking through his periscope, sees most torpedo hits, but everyone hears the explosions and feels the concussion rock the submarine a little.

Ensign E. W. Lake of New Britain, Conn., has been in submarines 15 of his 22 years in the navy.

"It just happened (that he got into subs) but I wouldn't trade with anyone," he said. "There's nothing like 'em."

Spurns Shore Job.

He said that after six war patrols—the first begun at 6 p. m. December 8, 1941, from Manila bay—he was offered a shore job. He declined, with thanks but speed.

A shore job might have meant reunion with his wife and daughter, Jeannette, but even that was not enough to induce him up from the depths.

Ensign H. A. Montgomery, 24, Newark, Ohio, came to submarines from—of all places—airplanes. Until a year ago he was civilian chief of a B-24 bomber ground crew at Chanute Field in Illinois. Then he decided to go undersea.

Ensign Ray E. Stewart, 24, from St. Petersburg, Fla., graduated from Florida U., then managed a dairy at Norwich, N. Y., before coming into submarines seven months ago.

Other officers on the ship include Lieut. Henry C. Lauerman, 26, of 8133 Maryland avenue, Chicago, gunnery and torpedo officer and first lieutenant; his assistant, Lieut. John M. Barrett, 23, Los Angeles and formerly of Oak Park, Ill., and Lieut. Jack J. Hinchey, 24, Omaha, engineer and diving officer.

An Exciting Life.

All came into submarines because they thought they'd like the life and excitement. No one mentioned the 50 per cent extra pay their skipper gave as a probable lure.

Of all the ship's personnel, Lieut. Comdr. O. M. ("Mack") Butler, 29, Washington, D. C., the executive officer and navigator, said he didn't exactly volunteer.

"I was on a destroyer one day and my orders came through to go to a submarine school, so I went and here I am. They had said they needed submarine men and I said I was willing, so they picked me."

But he's glad he made the change and so is Captain Ross, who has recommended him for a medal and expects him to be commanding a submarine of his own one of these days.

Butler, who has a wife and daughter, Elizabeth, eight months old, in San Diego, found the Aleutians "a pretty nasty place to operate but not too bad. We didn't run into much except a lot of whales. They scare you to death—they look like a periscope at night."

Navy Students Cram to Learn Language of Japs

BOULDER, COLO.—It takes 1,250 class hours and 250 hours of examinations plus 3,000 hours of study—all in one year—to learn the Japanese language as is taught by the U. S. navy.

Navy language students, studying at the University of Colorado at Boulder, are cramming a three-year course of Japanese in just one year. The course is estimated to be equivalent to 18 years of a standard college language course.

Pacific Air Squadron No Place for Superstitions

CHICO, CALIF.—Members of the Black Cat air squadron doing duty in the southern Pacific attribute all their luck to the name which they chose for the squadron, according to Chief Aviation Pilot Kirk Dunwoody, home on vacation. He reports the squadron has made 160 bombing missions without having a man hurt, although several planes have been lost. The squadron has to its credit three Japanese ships and several submarines.

This Little Shaver

Becomes Big Saver

PONCA CITY, OKLA.—The Roy E. Williamses presented a baby bank to son Daniel, five.

Daniel Ray took the lesson to heart. Mrs. Williams' audit of her grocery money showed she was $2 short. Then she happened to think about that lesson in thrift. Daniel Ray's baby bank yielded two $1 bills.

Predict Truck of Future Will Be No Different

Post war motorists may well be driving in super-streamlined, engine-in-the-rear, teardrop design vehicles, but there is one thing that will look familiar to them on the road—tomorrow's truck. In appearance, at least, the truck of the future will differ but little from today's designs, according to engineers.

Trucks are designed to carry a given load within a definite space, and a cube is still the best bet when it comes to getting the most merchandise within the smallest area. This fact alone will keep truck bodies within the confines of conventional design, no matter how far ahead automobile lines may stray.

However, although the truck body will not change much in appearance, engineers foresee a great change in the materials that form the body. Magnesium, aluminum, high grade secondary aluminum and a host of other lightweight materials are going to cut truck weight and allow for that much more weight in payload.

Major changes are expected to take place in the engine. Signs point toward a lighter engine with greater horsepower in proportion to weight as compared to present engines. High octane gasoline, used now exclusively for aircraft, will play a major role in the engine development.

This Is Our Battle

Courtesy of Country Gentleman.

The Third War Loan is your loan.

The securities on sale fit your purse. Check the one which is applicable to you and buy it to the point of personal temporary sacrifice. Always keep in mind your sacrifice is only temporary because you do not give your money away when you "buy" War Bonds; you lend your money at interest. Your money is not even frozen. In the event of an emergency—and the record shows that Americans are not redeeming their Bonds except in the event of true emergencies—your Bonds are redeemable.

The United States Government has never in its history repudiated a Government Bond. As further evidence of the strength of this country to guarantee repayment of your money, United States potential wealth amounts to $89,000 per capita. Even with the heavy current war expenses, our national debt is only $1100 per capita.

Only a country like ours could make such a deal with its citizens: repay you with interest for a loan of your money to protect you and your family against enemies which would murder, rob, or enslave you.

The number one "buy" for you is the familiar Series E War Bond. Twenty-seven million American workers are buying Series E Bonds at the rate of $420,000,000 a month. Your Third War Loan duty is to buy at least one extra $100 Series E Bond above your regular buying. Buy more if you can.

Keep these facts in mind about the Series E Bonds:

They come in $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 denominations. They sell for 75 per cent of their maturity value. They pay you $4 for every $3 invested if held until maturity, which is 10 years from issuing date. You may redeem them at any time 60 days after issue without notice at stated redemption values. Every Bond carries this redemption table.

Happy Children Await First Day of School

These jubilant, smiling youngsters finally have reached the day they've been waiting for since last spring—the first day of school. Their sparkling eyes are evidence of their complete happiness at being able to resume their quest of knowledge. Too bad that there are vacation periods to ruin such bliss. It is obvious that the students are gleeful over the fact that they no longer will have to spend their time at the swimming hole or fishing pond.

A Substitute for Hell

Somewhere in New Guinea these wounded soldiers await evacuation. Flat on their backs, in the steaming heat of the jungle, where mosquitoes plague the air and ants and mosquitoes torment weary bodies, they dream of home . . . of clean white sheets and the touch of cool, comforting hands. You can help provide modern hospitals and the medicines they need for their recuperation by putting every dollar you can into War Bonds during the Third War Loan.

Latest Items of Local News Furnished By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by Post Mail, west on W. M. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time. All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESERSBURG

Welcome September—with bright sunshine, lovely days and nights—with a new moon; Fall flowers blooming, corn in the shock, leaves changing color and falling because of the drought. The time of gathering of late vegetables and pickling and the Equinox that may bring us plenty of rain. Oh! wasn't the gentle shower of last week delightful—and green blades of grass have appeared where the ground looked brown and bare.

Sgt. Wilbur M. Er, Jr., arrived home on Friday on a 15-day furlough, after 3 months maneuvers in Tennessee, and is visiting his friends; looking well but has lost some weight. Upon his return to service he will be located in the middle west.

A card from Mr. Wendell Nussbaum (Duff) tells that he had a three day pass, and hitch hiked 200 miles to see the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river—a beautiful view which he was enjoying, and slept in a pleasant room 7000 ft. high in the Arizona mountains.

Dolores—only child of Carroll and Dorothy Utermahlen Rowe, of Bark Hill, visited her great aunt, Mrs. Clara Wolfe, a few days at the close of the week and other friends and played the same games her mother enjoyed when she was a small girl.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. will get together at the Parish House this Wednesday evening, and will have a joint picnic lunch on the lawn—and ice cream treat for the school—if allowed to get it there; and some playing games for the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Cromwell their son Richard, Mrs. Arthur Smith and daughter, Misses Marguerite and Mary, and 10 year old Tommy Thomas, all of Baltimore spent the late afternoon of Sunday with the Birely's and entertained with film views of their home and families of Palestine, Hawaii, animals of the Zoo, etc., and before departing for an evening service they all sang some favorite Gospel hymns, as Mrs. Smith and daughters are good musicians with well trained voices.

Mrs. Norman Smith, on the Frank Snyder farm is recovering from an attack of Intestinal Grippe, with which she was indisposed a few days last week and left her quite weak in strength; but she is at work again—not feeling too good.

Mrs. C. E. Six returned from the Frederick Hospital where she underwent an operation a couple weeks ago—last Thursday, and is doing very nicely—though still required to rest quietly. All were glad to have her home again.

On Tuesday of last week, Mrs. Clara Wolfe accompanied Miss Sue Birely with Dr. Messler to Kelly's Radium Hospital for examination and treatment; and they fared well.

Roger Sents joined the band of Defense workers in Uniontown on Monday; where they have more than 30 employees, and put work through rapidly.

Last Thursday the Berkley Bowman's took their son Fred to Bridgewater, Va., and placed him in school for the coming year. They will grow up.

Next week the County Schools begin, and the long vacation will be ended. We ask the boys and girls whether they are glad to get back to school, and this year almost every one has answered in the affirmative—may be they've had to work more than usual; but when the bus goes by with its load of young people, and the school bells ring again. Life takes on a new interest.

The 25 acre farm near Mt. Union Church belonging to J. Edward Dayhoff has been sold to Claude Green and wife, of Silver Run, who will take possession next spring—unless vacated sooner by the present tenant, R. W. Sents and family. The home was built by Augustus Lambert nearly 60 years ago, where he resided till his death in 1917.

We have a new visitor which we only see at times, but it carries with us—a cute little ground hog under the chicken house, and in the barn entry where it is seeing how deep a hole it can dig; and not doing us any good that we know of. Some persons kill and roast them—and call it good meat.

Green grapes are in demand to assist other fruit in making jelly; but they are scarce and inferior. There is small prospect of filling the empty jars for the Deaconess Home—our annual work for many years past. We did better with a limited quantity of sugar, than we can without fruit and vegetables—but we'll try.

Another Labor Day—and people put it in practice around us, for it seemed every one was as busy as could be. The only parader we saw was men and women marching out to the fields to work; and ended by stepping out to the barn to milk 30 cows more or less—but every one seemed happy, though very warm. One woman asked "Do you think it wrong to wash our clothes on Labor Day?" And we replied "certainly not," it's not a sacred anniversary, only a legal holiday.

For your next Sunday night supper try serving "mayonnaise toasties." Just spread your bread generously with real mayonnaise, sprinkle with grated cheese and toast under the broiler. They're delicious and nutritious, too, for real mayonnaise provides almost the same food energy spoonful for spoonful as vitaminized margarine or butter.

DETROIT LETTER

Last week we mentioned the fact that a number of Detroit's most select society—in fact, our cities' 400 class—were in a jam with the OPA, by being caught in dealing in the Black Market, as regards food products. The owner of the grocery store where all these transactions took place, has not as yet been brought up for trial, as her case is one that will have to be tried before the Federal Court, but the purchasers of these Black Market goods have had their hearing before a Commissioner for the OPA, and as he was from Cleveland, and probably did not know any of those accused, there is no doubt but that his findings were the right ones. The heaviest penalty handed out was that given to a very prominent woman, a resident of the exclusive colony in Grosse Pointe, and she had the ration books of her entire family taken from her, and none to be issued to them until after December 31, 1944, as her inventory of rationed goods on hand showed that she had enough food on hand to last until that time.

The penalties of the others who were caught in the investigator's net, ranged from confiscation of their ration books for two more, for six months, one of whom a women lawyer, was found guilty of falsifying the date of the purchase of ten pounds of coffee, so as to appear as if she had bought the coffee before rationing was put into effect, and the other was the man whose cook had paid $2.00 a pound for beef. In this case the books of his children were not affected. The rest of the accused persons were found not guilty of willful violations, and were penalized by the loss of their ration points for the amount of the goods obtained unlawfully, plus penalties ranging from 22 to 50 red points. One case is undetermined, as yet, while one was dismissed, the fault lying with the grocer who delivered the goods and waited two days for the points. The woman who purchased the coffee gave as one of her excuses the fact "It's the tragedy of the war to me to have to do without coffee" and "I just live on coffee." As this most important thing in her life is now taken off the rationed list, we think she ought to be very happy, even if she cannot get any more rationed goods for the coming six months.

We have taken up a good bit of space in writing about this item, but we wanted to show you that it is not only the middle and lower classes that take advantage of any thing that may help them out of some difficulty, but which is contrary to law, and we are sure that these cases might be multiplied by the hundreds, as we have said before, this rationing has made more liars out of people than anything that has ever happened in this country—even Prohibition.

And now we turn to something a great deal more pleasant than telling about the bringing out the worst qualities of men and women. We refer to the leading article on the Editorial page of the Record August 27, entitled "Our Band." This little article should be read by every citizen of the town, and particularly by the members of the Band. You are fortunate in having such an energetic, enthusiastic and efficient musician at the head of and in charge of these young folks, and you should give him and them all the encouragement that is in your power. Writing as an old band member of 33 years standing before coming to Detroit, I can certainly tell you what such encouragement as was displayed in that article, means to both instructor and pupils, and I can also say that in all the long years of service to the town and community, we never but twice that I can remember was the recipient of such compliments and encouragement as was handed to the young folks, by the writer of that article, and I am going to tell you who the men were who were so kind as to wish us well in our small effort to keep the old town on the map. They were my very good friends, Father Lennon and Mr. Geo. H. Birnie. When any appeal for funds were made to the people of the town, it was always my lot to do the soliciting, and these two men certainly gave me a great deal of encouragement in taking care of this, to me, distasteful task. Of course, we always gave our service free to any affair the churches were interested in, except political. Both these gentlemen, together with a whole lot of my old friends, have passed on, but the memory of their kindness will remain with me as long as I live.

I hope that you will forgive me for referring to the struggles of the old Taneytown Band, but you know many things remain in the memory of an old man, and particularly one who was interested as much in that organization as I was. A short time ago an old friend of mine, who is very much interested in the success of the Junior Band, suggested that I write a history of the old band, which continued in existence until a few years ago, but as I had written a brief sketch of the organization a few years ago, I thought it best not to write any more at that time. In the future I may send you an article telling you of some of our experience, but for the present, think I have written enough.

JOHN J. REID.

It's nobody's fault if shoes on the market now aren't so good! Substitution of inferior materials may cause them to lose color or after they get wet and to have a strange odor. But it's our fault if we don't take care of the ones we have left over from the past year or so that are good. A going-over by the erbler, the ol' sholina with a wax-liquid or paste polish, shoe trees to help them keep their shape—that's how you do it!

Good news! Maybe we'll be getting nylon soon. Nylon removed the Army eye-bought nylon for parachute making and some may be released for civilian use soon.

Fifty fighting planes can use up 300,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition in one minute. This is as much as 10,000 men in Napoleon's army would have used in a day's battle.

COUNTY WAR MEMORIAL

The Memorial plan, as adopted at a county-wide committee meeting calls for a brick structure 124x44 feet, colonial in style and featured by a beautiful Memorial Hall in the center with a belfry tower and a colonial wing on either side to be used for a medical center and a public library. The architect is E. O. Adams, Baltimore. The wings can be extended.

Goal $50,000

This plan, approved and submitted by the advisory committee, recommended that the goal be set at $50,000. The campaign began on September 9 and will close on October 9.

The Carroll County War Memorial will be located in the county seat, Westminster. No permanent site has been selected nor has the actual size of the building been determined. These factors, in addition to the facilities for the medical center and library, will depend on the money contributed. Experts will be consulted as to the library and the health center, and the latter plans will be submitted to the Carroll County Medical Association for approval.

War Bonds will be purchased with the cash that is contributed and all Bonds will be held until such time as materials are available for the building of the Memorial. This will assure the safe keeping of the fund and will serve the dual purpose of financing the War effort now, and assuring the building of the Memorial at the termination of the war.

Urged to Contribute Bonds

It is desired that Bonds contributed should be series "F," which can be purchased in denominations of $25., $50., $100., $500. and $1000. They should be made payable to Carroll County War Memorial Fund, an Unincorporated Association. Cash contributions of any amount will be accepted. Contributions are deductible before payment of income taxes, up to 15 per cent of the total amount of one's income.

A certificate suitable for framing bearing a picture of the Carroll County War Memorial will be issued to every one in the county contributing a War Bond.

The plan is to make the Memorial Hall a more decorative than functional one. Beautiful, dignified and almost sacred in its appointments, the plans call for one of the most beautiful Memorial Halls in the State. The hall will continue with an amphitheatre garden in the rear.

The American Legion, through its commander, has added its hearty support to the movement and some members are taking an active part in the campaign.

Campaign Opens

With the ringing of the church bells on Thursday morning at 10:00 o'clock for the Third War Loan Drive—this also was the "Go" sign for the solicitors over the county to begin their campaign in collecting funds for the Carroll County Memorial.

With over 2000 men and women serving in the present war, a bond for each one in the service would make the Memorial a reality. The slogan for the campaign is "They Serve—You Give."

Scott S. Bair, chairman of the Westminster District, was called upon to tell of some of the activities for his district. An executive committee was appointed two weeks ago and last week captains were selected and they in turn chose their workers. The town has been completely divided so that no one section will be missed.

Benefit Concert Sunday

Perhaps one of the outstanding features of the county campaign will be the recital in Alumni Hall, Western Maryland College, on Sunday afternoon, September 12, when Pvt. Elwood Hawkins and Earl Lippy, of opera, stage, concert and motion picture fame, will give a recital as their contribution to the War Memorial. This may be an only opportunity to hear a joint recital by these Carroll county boys who are serving with the "This is the Army" detachment at Camp Upton, Long Island, New York.

Since the boys are available for this Sunday only, arrangements had to be made hurriedly with General Hugh Drum. All tickets will be sold at the door, beginning at 1 o'clock. Army Cadets from Western Maryland College will act as ushers. Pvt. Lippy will send the program to the committee on arrangements which will be announced.

General Committees

Those serving on the general committee are:

Officers: Claude T. Kimmey, Chairman; Mrs. Randall G. Spoerlein, Vice Chairman; Ralph G. Hoffman, Vice-Chairman; Mrs. Gladys M. Wimert, Secretary; J. Ralph Bonsack, Treasurer.

The meeting was opened by singing "America," followed by Scripture, prayer, minutes and roll-call was answered by naming a favorite fall flower. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Carroll Garber who was hostess and after the business session the meeting closed by singing "In the Garden." The next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Nora Frock, Oct. 5, 1943. The hostess served refreshments.

The Women's Missionary Societies of Taneytown and Piney Creek Presbyterian Churches met at the home of Mrs. Thurlow Null, Thursday, Sept. 9. The subject, "The place of Youth as Builders of Christian Living around the World." At the close of the meeting all were told that as Sept. 9th was Mrs. Null's birthday and Sept. 10, the anniversaries of Mrs. Geo. Hess and Miss Catherine Hess we would have a birthday party. Before the birthday cakes—albeit with glooming candles—were rolled in on the tea cart, Mrs. Null was informed the visitors had a little surprise for her at this moment—handkerchiefs were showered upon her. After happy birthdays was sung everyone enjoyed delicious cake, ice cream and iced tea. Before dispersing a plan for a six session study of Philippines with Mr. Owen as leader, was decided upon. The first meeting to be in the Taneytown Church, Oct. 6th. These meetings will be held alternately at Piney Creek and Taneytown. Come join us.

A SOLDIER'S LOVE

The following poem was "found" by the soldiers at Camp Berkeley, Texas, and was sent to us for publication.

Its 6:30 P. M. and my day's work is done,
I really should go out and have some fun,
But just at this moment, I feel kind of blue,
So I thought I'd sit down and write to you.

I am feeling fine and in good health too,
I was glad to receive that sweet letter from you,
Your letters are so swell and I treasure each one,
I look forward for them when my days work is done,

We're working hard on field problems each day,
We're doing maneuvers in a mild sort of way,
Tho this work is hard and not meant for me,
I'm doing my share to keep this country Free.

I'm proud of you, dear, for doing your share,
I'm proud of your love with which you play fair,
And when this war is over, after we both did our part,
Nothing will stop me from coming straight to your heart.

My story I've tried to put into prose,
I hope I've succeeded for now I must close,
By saying "God Bless You" and keep you near,
Just as sweet and lovely, forever, and near.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 12th.

The Golden Text will be from I Cor. 10:26—"The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof."
Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon will be the following from the Bible—Psalms 92:5—"O Lord, how great are thy works; and thy thoughts are very deep."

The Lesson-Sermon also will include passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, among which is the following, page 260—"The conceptions of mortal, erring thought must give way to the ideal of all that is perfect and eternal."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE BROADCAST

On Sunday, September 12, at 2:15 P. M., Station WBAL, Baltimore, will broadcast a Christian Science program. This program has the approval of The Christian Science Board of Directors. Capt. John de Wit will conduct the program.

THE WORK OF DR. QUIRK

Significant contribution to the war effort by a federal bureaucrat is described in the following ditty, the product of an unknown writer:

Reference: B and B 3c-24614 File: Inv. Form A62B-M, Q.

As Head of the Division of Provision for Revision

Was a man of prompt decision—Morton Quirk.
Ph. D. in Calisthenics, P. D. Q. in Pathogenics
He had just the proper background for the work.

From the pastoral aroma of Aloma, Oklahoma
With a pittance of a salary in hand
His acceptance had been whetted,
Even aided and abetted
By emolument that netted some five grand.

So, with energy ecstatic this fanatic left his attic
And hastened on to Washington, D. C.

Where with verve and vim and vigor, he went hunting for the Nigger
In the woodpile of the W. P. B.

After months of patient process Morton's spicular proboscis
Had unearthed a reprehensible hiatus
In reply by Blair and Blair to his thirteenth questionnaire
In connection with their inventory status.

They had written—"Your directive when effective was defective
In its ultimate objective—and what's more
Neolithic hieroglyphic is, to us, much more specific
Than the driver you keep dumping at our door."

This sacrilege discovered, Morton fainted—but recovered
Sufficiently to write, "We are convinced
That sabotage is camouflaged behind perverted persiflage—
Expect me on the 22nd, inst."

But first he sent a checker, then he sent a checker's checker
Still nothing was disclosed as being wrong.
So a checker's checker's checker came to check the checker's checker
And the process was laborious and long

Then followed a procession of the follow-up profession
Through the records of the firm of Blair and Blair
From breakfast until supper some new super-follow-upper Tore his hair because of Morton's questionnaire.

The file is closed, completed, though our Hero, undefeated
Carries on in some Department as before
But Victory is in sight of—not because of—but in spite of Doctor Morton's mighty efforts in the war.

Americans' Blood Saved Many Lives

British General in North Africa Praises Gifts.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA.—Blood donated by American civilians saved thousands of lives during the Tunisian campaign, British Maj. Gen. Ernest Cowell, director of the medical services of the Allied armies in North Africa, said.

General Cowell said that he could not give a precise figure, as that was a military secret, but he added that "the number of lives saved by blood plasma was surprisingly great. Blood given so willingly in the United States was not wasted."

He also praised the courage of American nurses who landed under fire at Oran in the Allied occupation of North Africa last November.

"These nurses were magnificent in the way they came in during the Oran assault and immediately went to work nursing the wounded," General Cowell said.

He said that no force in the world today nor in history was any healthier than the Allied troops in North Africa.

"We have just made typhus and typhoid almost nil," he said. "Regarding malaria, I must say we have just passed through a good season and are facing a bad season, but I hope that atebine tablets (synthetic quinine) will be effective."

Asked regarding venereal diseases among the troops, General Cowell said that the problem was not too bad and that "we are constantly working upon it by encouraging more athletics, coffee bars, canteens and proper social recreation in addition to giving constant lectures regarding its evils.

Order Cuts Speed

The federal order for 35-mile-an-hour driving limit brought average speed throughout the country down to about 37 miles an hour.

USSR 5,000 Miles Wide

The Soviet Union stretches 5,000 miles from central Europe to the Pacific ocean and has 170 million inhabitants.

Pennsylvanians Serve

Approximately one man in every ten in the armed forces is a Pennsylvanian.

Girl Inventors Speed War Job

Ideas Presented by Women Save Material and Increase Output.

WASHINGTON.—Women have not only shown themselves to be as ingenious as men on the assembly line in war plants, but several have proved veritable Girl Edisons, performing feats of inventive magic that speed up production and cut down waste of man hours and materials, says Universal Service.

That's what the war has done. The girls are not only demonstrating their mechanical abilities in hundreds of factories, but they are winning prizes for inventing short cuts and time savers.

Typical of the successful inventors of production short-cuts is Barbara Ann Clark, better known perhaps to readers as winner of the nationwide Miss Victory contest conducted by the Hearst newspapers.

Perfect Time Record.
In addition to having a perfect non-absentee record at the General Motors plant in Flint, Mich., where she is employed making gun-parts, Miss Clark has made several suggestions that speeded up production in her department.

West Lynn, Mass., boasts a "Girl Edison" in the person of Mrs. Edith Hogan, employed by the General Electric company.

Mrs. Hogan has many prize-winning suggestions to her credit, but recently she topped all her own efforts—and those of all the men in the plant, too—by winning $1,250 for an idea that broke a serious bottleneck holding up production of vital electric implements.

Saves 400 Hours Weekly.
A great deal of time was consumed in the careful marking by hand of the calibrations on the instrument dials.

Mrs. Hogan put her pretty head to work and evolved a method of doing the work mechanically. She saved 400 man hours a week thereby and gained for herself the highest cash prize ever awarded by the company for a suggestion. So important was her invention deemed that Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen, the war department's chief speeder-upper, visited the plant to see how it worked.

In Newark, N. J., 19-year-old Anne M. Sofa worked out a way of speeding up by 16 times a step in the manufacture of lenses for war instruments.

The girl was employed in preparing the lenses for polishing by placing warm pitch on each one with a stick. She found that try as she would she could not finish more than 25 up to noon each day. Anxious to step up production, she gave much thought to the problem.

One day the answer came to her. Noticing a button mould in the plant, she filled the cavities with the molten pitch, then placed a lens on each indentation. Refinements of the process enabled her to ready 400 lenses for polishing each morning instead of 25.

Time-Saving Ideas.
Ever since Gertrude Hill Fila, now an employee of the Lockheed-Vega aircraft plant at Burbank, Calif., was 15 years old, she has been making model airplanes for her own amusement. She holds a pilot's license, too.

Mrs. Fila has contributed several time-saving ideas to the company. Recently she collaborated with her husband, L. J. Fila, also employed in the plant, to reduce the number of types of rivets used on airplanes from something over 3,000 to 375. Any housekeeper can appreciate how Mrs. Fila felt when she thought about those 3,000 different kinds of rivets for one airplane!

The Thomas A. Edison Industries in West Orange, N. J., is proud of a Girl Edison in its own plant. She is Miss Stella Cullen, who won the gold and silver Thomas A. Edison Medal for six original and useful suggestions to boost production figures.

Check-Up Reveals Kind Of Music Soldiers Like

NEW YORK.—Here's a consensus of records which prominent artists, including Lawrence Tibbett, John Charles Thomas, Gladys Swarthout, Jeanette MacDonald, were asked for while making nation-wide tours of army and navy bases.

The selections (albums); (1) Enesco's Roumanian Rhapsody No. 1, by the Philadelphia Orchestra; (2) Stephen Foster music, sung by Richard Crooks; (3) Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, by Sanroma and Boston "Pops" Orchestra; (4) Strauss Waltzes, by Boston "Pops" Orchestra; (5) Dance album by Artie Shaw's orchestra.

Single selections: (1) The Lord's Prayer, by Gladys Swarthout and by John Charles Thomas; (2) Intermezzo, played by Toscha Seidel; (3) Gounod's Ave Maria, by Jeanette MacDonald, Schubert's Ave Marie by Marian Anderson; (4) Donkey Serenade and Giannina Mia, by Allan Jones; (5) Andante Cantabile and Humoresque, by Fritz Kreisler.

The capital of the ancient Toltec Indian empire which disappeared four centuries before the arrival of Cortez has been located in northern Mexico.

Army Fliers in Pacific Are Wary of Crocodiles

WASHINGTON.—Army fliers who may see service in the southwestern Pacific war theater have received a few timely tips on how to outwit an interloper of the jungle bath—the crocodile.

"A vulnerable part of a crocodile is his eyes," declares Air Surgeon Brig. Gen. David N. W. Grant in Air Force, the official journal of the army flight forces.

"If attacked by a crocodile while bathing, by pressing one or both thumbs deeply into the crocodile's eyes he may possibly be made to relinquish his hold. A crocodile may be killed by stabbing through the eyes with a sharp instrument."

When on dry land, experts say, the crocodile will not attack man. But in the water he is dangerous, and the general suggests that bathing in tropical streams be carried on in "a partially submerged stout box anchored several feet from shore."

Gardening Rigorous

Production of either tomatoes or onions requires the expenditure of about 450 man-hours of labor per acre.

Consor Thought He Had Caught Something Big

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. — William J. Hillary's son asked casually in a letter home from Cuba, "How's dad's hotel?" "Dad has some AWOL soldiers staying with him now," Mother Hillary replied, just as casually.

Consors tipped off the provost marshal, who asked Police Chief Frank O'Malley to investigate. O'Malley reported Hillary's "hotel" was the city jail, Hillary the turnkey and his "guests" were from an army training school that uses the jail as guardhouse.

A Dream? 'Sarg' Gives Him Breakfast in Bed

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The dream of every American soldier came true recently for Private Thomas S. Wood.

He told his mother: "That nice first sergeant I wrote you about this morning served me my breakfast in bed."
The sergeant drew a waiter detail in the camp hospital where Wood was confined.

Bomber Saved By Lieutenant's Gold Bar

WITH THE 11TH AIR FORCE IN ALASKA.—A 29-year-old navigator, formerly of Mooseheart, Ill., First Lieut. James A. Ryan, told how a quick-witted engineer used a second lieutenant's gold bar as an electrical fuse to save a four-engined bomber with a 10-man crew.

Returning from a reconnaissance mission to Attu, the plane—Old 1091—ran into trouble. Gasoline tanks in the bomb bay would not drain into the main tanks because the electrical pump refused to function. Fuses kept blowing out because of a short circuit. Ryan said:

"Finally the last fuse flashed out and there we were with 800 gallons of gasoline and not one drop for our motors. We had just enough to take us within five miles of an island.

"Then Technical Sgt. John H. Miller saw the gold shoulder bar on our bombardier's shoulder, unpinning it and rushed to the fuse box. He used the bar for a fuse, and glory be, the pump began working."

Largely Alien

In the half century from 1860 to 1910 the foreign born population in the United States was almost one-sixth of the total white population of the country.

To the People of this Community:

DRIVE DEPENDS ON YOU!
Would you take a free ride on a wounded soldier's back? That's exactly what you would be doing if you did not do your duty in the Third War Loan.

Your idle weight would be felt by him on the battlefield. Every civilian counts in this kind of war. Every civilian must make his energy and his dollars work for victory.

Keep in mind that while our national goal in this drive is 15 billions of dollars, this money is being borrowed from you and you and you. You are, as an individual, the deciding factor as to whether we reach this goal. An extra $100 War Bond becomes an extra rifle, extra bullets and extra fighting power of every type.

Battlefront of Sacrifice Is Urged Upon U. S. Women to Aid 3rd War Loan Drive

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The women of America are going all-out to make a success of the Third War Loan Drive—to "Back the Attack" to the limit. For weeks they have been organizing to do their share toward raising the Treasury's unprecedented goal of 15 billion dollars in War Bond sales to non-banking investors.

In order to lay the groundwork for this intensive organization far enough in advance of the drive, Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director of the War Finance Division, in charge of women's activities, made a swing around the country during July. Regional conferences were held in Atlanta, Dallas, San Francisco, Denver, Cleveland and Boston.

"Women have been called to the battlefronts of sacrifice at a time when their brains, energies and money are most needed," says Miss Elliott. "Buy Bonds—by sacrifice, is the order of the day. If every woman in America would pledge herself to do without everything she possibly can, and carry out that pledge faithfully, she would make a genuine contribution to victory."

All groups of women are active in the drive. Many cities and counties are conducting Door-knocker canvasses and carrying out other promotional campaigns to see that every individual in these United States is reached to buy an extra $100 Bond in September. "It takes bench-to-bench, desk-to-desk, house-to-house, person-to-person contact to put over the job," Miss Elliott believes.

United in this tremendous effort are women belonging to foreign origin groups of every nationality, Negro women, college girls, farm women, war workers, club women—professional, religious, industrial, cultural, educational, patriotic and social groups—in fact, women of every age, from every walk of life.

Dial Phone

By JAMES FREEMAN
 Associated Newspapers-WNU Features.

WE WERE having an outdoor steak roast up at Abner Bascom's camp on Lake Winnepesaukee. It was a crisp, cool October night, with a full moon. The fire felt good and the steak tasted good and everyone was having a fine time.

About seven o'clock the telephone began to ring. It kept ringing at regular intervals.

"Sounds as though you have a dial system here," Dana Atwater said.

"We have," Abner replied. Everyone looked surprised, because you wouldn't think of a place way up here in the country having a dial system. "It's just for The Weirs though," he added. "You can only dial folks in The Weirs, and there are comparatively few." The Weirs, nearest settlement to Abner's camp, is part of the city of Laconia.

Dryson, Abner's house man, came out and said: "It was the Elton camp, Mr. Bascom. Mr. Elton himself was on the phone. He asked for help. He seemed quite desperate."

Abner scowled. "Elton asking for help? Did he say what was wrong?"

"No, sir. He was sort of gasping. He said: 'Send help, quick. Elton camp.' Then his voice trailed off and I couldn't rouse him again."

"Seems funny he wouldn't call the police if he needed help that badly," Abner remarked, still hesitating.

During the drive over Abner told me a little about Elton. It seems he was a queer old duck, a retired lawyer who owned a camp on a point of land on Dockham Shore. He spent most of his time alone, fishing. He wasn't especially well liked.

We drove through The Weirs and turned up the Alton Bay Road, entered the Dockham Shore road near the riding stables. Abner slowed his pace, for the way here was rough and narrow.

No one answered Abner's hello, and when he knocked there was no reply, either. "We'd better just go in," he said. He tried the door and it opened. We went in and almost instantly we saw the man lying on the floor. He was bound firmly and apparently had fainted.

Abner swore under his breath. "Elton!" He knelt at the prone man's side. "Get a knife, some towels! Get some water and towel! Looks like the old boy's done in."

Presently we had Elton released and were administering to him. He opened his eyes and looked up at us. Suddenly he sat erect.

"Have they gone? Have they gone? Then he seemed to recognize Abner and relaxed. "Bascom. Thank God you came."

"What happened?" Abner asked. "Take it easy. We've sent for a doctor."

Elton started up again. "Doctor! Send for the police. I've been robbed. The family silver. Worth a fortune. You know that, Bascom. You've seen it."

Abner nodded. "That's right. I have. It's worth a lot of money. How does it happen you have it up here with you? Why didn't you call the police yourself?"

It developed that Elton had sold his home in Newton and had brought most of his things of value up to the lake. Later, when he rented an apartment in Boston for the winter, he'd bring them back. He was eating his dinner when two masked men entered, he said. They asked him where the silver was. He refused to tell them and they hit him over the head. When he came to he was bound. He could see that the bottom part of the sideboard in the dining room had been opened and the box containing the silver was gone.

"I crawled over to the phone, knocked off the receiver, picked up a pencil in my teeth and dialed your number. It was the only number I knew. I couldn't dial the police, because Laconia isn't on this system."

"Smart thinking," Abner said. He looked up at me. "Dial the operator and ask her to get the police here, will you?"

"Sure," I said, and started for the phone. Ainsworth was near the phone table.

"Just a minute," Ainsworth said. He held a pencil in his hand. "This is the only pencil I could find. It was on the floor. It must be the pencil you used to dial with, Mr. Elton. Is it?"

Elton looked at the pencil. "Yes," he said, "That's it."

Ainsworth pursed his lips. "Then I wouldn't bother to dial the police. There's something wrong here." He paused. We looked at him queerly.

"I've tested the spring on your dial phone, Mr. Elton. It's pretty strong. I tested this pencil by pushing my thumbnail into it. It's pretty soft. A man who held such a pencil in his teeth and exerted enough pressure to work a dial phone would necessarily leave the imprints of his teeth on the pencil. There aren't any imprints on this pencil."

We got back to Abner's a half hour later. "Are you going to do anything about it?" I asked.

"No. Why should I? When an old man like that goes so broke he has to steal from himself to collect the insurance it's pretty tough. I suggested to him that he sell his silver for what he can get. Maybe that's the answer to his problem."

Japs Lived in Attu Caves Like Moles

Advancing American Troops Find Miles of Tunnels.

MURDER POINT, ATTU ISLAND. —Whatever else the Japanese have been doing on Attu for the last year, they must have spent most of their time digging in the mushy tundra.

American soldiers advancing on Japanese positions all over Attu have found literally miles of tunnels and caves. Every sniper's nest is a pint-sized underground house, sometimes with four or five tunnel-connected firing positions. Machine gun emplacements are elaborate caves with side passages for storage of ammunition or food and other niches for the crews to sleep in.

A typical Japanese command post is an underground hut some 20 feet long and half that wide, beautifully screened with blocks of tundra, protected from shell fragments by tundra battlements. The only part of it extending above ground is the smoke pipe for the central heating stove. Most such huts are built into the sides of hills so that some drainage is provided.

Most elaborate of all are the anti-aircraft positions, which include three or four rooms, all underground except the single roofless circle which holds the gun itself. Crews lived, slept, worked and played in the caves they had built.

One of the strangest of all the installations was on a sandbar directly behind a gun position in the east arm of the bay. Starting with a gravel mound about 20 feet in diameter, the Japanese had built it up to a cone. If intended for concealment, it was a flat failure. It stood out as far as it could be seen. A stovepipe came out the top.

Investigate Tropical Woods Many little-known tropical woods are being investigated in the other Americas. There is roble from Ecuador, a possible substitute for teak, needed for decks of aircraft carriers and other vessels. Lignum vitae in bearings of boats and other machinery. Lignum vitae is one of the heaviest woods in the world. It sinks in water and serves for policemen's nightsticks.

Use for Gravy Vegetable water can be used in making gravy. The minerals and vitamins add flavor to gravies in this way. This cooking water can be used equally well in sauces for vegetables. A very satisfactory and colorful sauce is made from a medium white sauce (two tablespoons flour per cup of liquid), substituting vegetable water for half of the milk and adding pimento which has been pressed through a fine sieve. Rich milk or cream can be used if so desired, and the amount of pimento depends entirely on personal preference. However, be sure to add, enough to give an attractive color. This sauce is particularly good with cauliflower.

Famous Violin Makers The Guarneri or Guarnerius family of Cremona, Italy, was famous for its fine violin makers and Joseph, who lived from 1687 until 1745, was the most renowned of all. He was called "Giuseppe del Gesu" from the inscription I. H. S. (meaning Jesus) which appears on his violins. Joseph, whose master was Gaspar di Salo, produced instruments of bold outline and massive construction, concentrating on tone rather than perfection of visible form. His experiments to obtain perfect tone resulted in a wide variety of violins. To discriminate between an authentic Guarnerius and imitations, of which there are many, a connoisseur should be consulted.

To the People of this Community: PLAIN WARNING TO YOU! Here is a plain warning for you . . .

"This war will last until 1949 or longer if the home front fails to back up our men in battle!"

Buy War Bonds! Buying War Bonds to the point of temporary personal sacrifice is the most direct way you can comply with Secretary Knox's appeal.

"Temporary sacrifice" is the correct phrase because you are only lending your money when you buy War Bonds. This government which never has defaulted on an obligation will pay you back $4 for every $3 invested if you hold the bonds for 10 years.

The least you can do is to back the attack with War Bonds today. Buy extra Bonds above your normal Bond buying.

New Army Chocolate Bar Resists Heat Up to 120

JERSEY CITY.—The army's Jersey City quartermaster depot and chocolate manufacturers have developed a chocolate bar that will remain a solid up to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, it was announced recently by the quartermaster depot. The average chocolate would melt at 85 degrees and was a nuisance to troops in hot climates.

The new chocolate is substantially the same as the old in taste and weighs two ounces. It is made up of chocolate, sugar, skim milk powder, cocoa fat, oat flour, artificial flavoring and vitamin B.

Onion Brings Tears, but This Time From a Fall

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Dora Steinwurz, 69 years old, was determined to have onions for dinner despite their scarcity on the market. As she went from pushcart to pushcart on the lower East Side looking for them, a large Bermuda rolled across the sidewalk. She stepped on it, slipped and was taken weeping to a hospital with a broken wrist.

Protect Roofing Nails
 Condensation of moisture on the inside of roofs in dairy barns and poultry houses is a prime cause of decay and the rusting of roofing nails. It is much cheaper and easier to correct this condition than to replace the roof. A correct ventilation system will maintain dairy barns and poultry houses in a sufficiently dry condition to prevent roof or ceiling condensation. Such systems can be built of farm sawed or used lumber and need not be expensive.

Drain Porch Steps
 Broken railings are unsightly and broken steps are actually dangerous, so both should be put into repair. Better first aid now for a broken step than first aid later for a broken leg. In making new steps, use slats equal to a quarter of an inch apart. Because these allow adequate drainage, they do not hold rot-inducing moisture. The slats should be painted on all four sides to protect the wood.

Eggs for Family
 Twelve hens should produce enough eggs to supply a family of six with an egg a day.

Home Front Volunteers Start Today To Put Over Third War Loan Campaign For World's Greatest Financing Drive

With the Slogan "Back the Attack—With War Bonds," Every American Citizen Is Asked to Buy at Least One Additional $100 Bond in September

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 9.—America's Third Army marched forth today to capture the most important immediate objective on the home front.

As 2,000,000 volunteers swung into line to put over the Third War Loan campaign, they were met with helping hands from millions of workers in the home front production battle, and cheers of encouragement from men on the fighting fronts—to whom the success of the Third War Loan is literally a matter of life and death.

To "Back the attack—with War Bonds"—every American who can do so will be asked to buy at least an extra $100 War Bond. The quota for those who are able to invest more from income or accumulated funds will be much higher.

Speaking of the great drive to raise $15 billion—a major portion to come from individuals—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said:

"The United Nations are on the march. The first rumblings of the big offensive are being heard in all the Axis nations. Thousands of our men have stormed Sicily. Tons upon tons of bombs are dropping on Germany. We are attacking Jap-held territory as never before. This is a great day for us. But it means that the time has come for us to really tighten our belts here on the home front. We have come to a most crucial period in the war, and the success that we will have on the fighting fronts, will depend to a considerable extent upon the degree to which we here at home are willing to work and sacrifice for ultimate victory.

"It's going to be a costly victory. We have said that before, but we must repeat it again and again. The real war has only now begun. Billions of dollars more must be spent to keep the material of war going to our men at the front. Your Government must call upon you, the American people, for that money. "Remember! It is up to all of us here at home to 'Back the Attack'—and to do it more enthusiastically, more thoroughly and with greater sacrifice than any attack has ever been backed by any home front in all history. Everything is at stake. Everyone must help to the very limit of his ability."

The drive, continuing throughout September, will offer to investors in addition to Series E, F and G United States Savings Bonds the following securities: Treasury Savings Notes, Series C; 2½ percent Treasury Bonds of 1964-69; 2 percent Treasury Bonds of 1951-53; ½ percent Certificates of Indebtedness.

ISRAEL MARCHES TOWARD CANAAN

LESSON TEXT—Numbers 10:11, 12, 29-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come thou with us, and we will do thee good.—Numbers 10:29.

There is a time to wait before God, to be instructed and prepared for holy living. There is also a time for action. When God says, "Move forward," His people are to arise and be on their way.

Israel, who had now been more than a year on the way from Egypt to Canaan, had been resting for a time at Mt. Sinai, there receiving instruction and being organized into a nation. They had set up a place of worship in their midst, and now they were ready to go on. That is God's will for His people. They are to

I. Move Toward the Goal (vv. 11, 12).

God had a schedule. He wanted them to move forward on a certain day (v. 11). Since the Jewish religious year, referred to here, began with the spring equinox, this was about the middle of May. The dry season was ahead—a good time to travel.

Those who think the purposes of God for men are nebulous and uncertain, and that He has no real plan for us, are obviously mistaken. His plan is good and acceptable and perfect; let us find and follow it.

We do not have a pillar of cloud and fire to move before us. We do not need it, for we, unlike the Israelites, have God's Word for our guide, and His Holy Spirit as the One who will tell every responsive soul when and where to go.

The important thing is to obey, promptly and willingly, and we shall have the blessing of God.

II. Bring Others With You (vv. 29-32).

Those who go up to the promised land should not go alone, they should bring others with them.

Moses, who had been in touch with the family of his father-in-law (known both as Jethro and Raguel or Reuel), now sees the value of having with him his brother-in-law, who was so acquainted with the great and terrible wilderness through which they were to pass that he could be invaluable as a guide and helper.

In giving him the invitation, however, Moses stressed the opposite thought—that it would be good for Hobab if he came with them. That was doubtless true, but it was not the right approach.

Men do not respond to the opportunity for advantage in spiritual things as readily as to the challenge to usefulness. The motive of acquisition is strong, but the best folk are not as interested in what they can get as what they can give.

The church may stress too much its value as a place of refuge and not enough the unparalleled opportunity it affords for sacrificial service.

When Moses changed his plea and revealed his need of Hobab, the response was immediate. He had thus won a friend and a helper.

III. Follow God's Guidance (vv. 33-36).

God gave special guidance on this occasion. The ark which commonly was found in the midst of the people, now moved out before them.

It was the symbol of God's presence. As they went out into the wilderness (which Deut. 1:19 calls "great and terrible") it was as though God Himself went before them.

Is not this always true? The "Captain of Our Salvation," Jesus Christ, is not One who tarries in safety at the rear and sends up orders for us to attack life's problems. He goes before us!

The pillar of cloud hovered over the people as though to give them shelter from the beating sun of the desert. God is mindful of the road His people must travel, and in His loving-kindness provides for their protection and care.

In our day there are many who are tempted to question whether God knows of their trials and afflictions. He does, and He will not permit them to be tried beyond their ability to bear it.

When the ark went forward, their leader, Moses, addressed God in the stirring words of verse 35. The people whose God is the Lord may count on Him to scatter their enemies.

All of human life is either a journey or a battle, and often it is both. We must arise and make valiant war against the forces of evil if we are to move forward for God. But we must recall that our foes, as Christians, are also God's foes.

The battle is not ours, but God's, and we do well to call on Him to rise up and smite the enemy.

Note that after the forward march came a time of rest. God always gives His people an opportunity for needed rest.

Radio Dries Glue

Radio is now stitching together with its beams strong wood wing spars for training and liaison planes. Nine thicknesses of the wood are piled up, one on the other, with a layer of glue between the layers. The wood is then put into heavy presses which draw it up tight. Electrical connections are fastened to the wood which are then penetrated with slightly distorted radio signals. The radio signals clash, setting up friction which causes heat within the wood, drying it evenly, firmly and permanently.

Skin Muskrat

Prejudice against eating the muskrat probably started from carelessness in skinning the animals. The musk glands often strip off with the pelt, but the person who is doing the work should make sure he does not cut into the musk glands. Any glands on the surface of the dressed meat should be trimmed off before cooking. To reduce any gamy flavor and to draw off blood, the meat should be soaked overnight in cold salt water.

Make Best Brushes

The importance of hog bristles for brushes is the result of one of their properties. The end of each bristle is split into several wisps. These split ends "hold" globules of paint and make it possible to spread paint evenly. This structure also is obviously of value for brushes put to other uses. No other bristles having this property are readily available in large quantities.

Protect Washing Machine

Make sure the washing machine stands level, steady, and at a comfortable height for the person doing the washing. If it has been standing in the cold, move it to a warm room or fill the tub with warm water for a time. Cracks may be caused by sudden temperature changes, particularly if the washer has a porcelain enamel tub.

Army Uses Old Clothes

In line with its policy requiring maximum use of all clothing and equipment, the war department announced recently that all unserviceable articles, which cannot be renovated to reissue for ordinary wear, are being repaired and utilized for all types of training and duties in which the matter of appearance is secondary.

Grow Faster

It has been reported that the speed of growth of potatoes has been increased 100 per cent when the seedlings have been treated with ethylene. The growth time to maturity was shortened, the potatoes were more numerous and larger and contained higher percentages of Vitamin C.

Fliers Hit 102 Below

Pilots of American warplanes flying at an altitude of 40,000 feet frequently encounter temperatures as low as 102 degrees below zero—air so thin that without oxygen a man will lose consciousness in one minute and die in five.

Sanitation Campaign

Venezuelan engineers who were trained at the University of Texas are lending their talents to governmental sanitation campaigns throughout the country. The program is being aided by United States experts.

Could Make Three Warships

Parts and materials moved each month by the fleet of floor trucks in the plant of the builders of aircraft engines, aggregate in weight three of the nation's largest battleships.

Weaker Sex No Longer

At the plant of the Boeing Aircraft company, one of the unusual jobs taken over by women is that of warehousing, heretofore regarded as strictly a job for muscle men.

Make War Goods

At least 90 per cent of the bicycle industry's facilities are devoted to war production, making airplane parts, bombs and bomb parts, small arms and other articles of war.

Gives Wide View

Seven states are visible from the top of Lookout mountain, in Tennessee: Alabama, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Tennessee.

Tattooers Taxed

Petersburg, Va., has levied a new tax of $100 on tattooers, anticipating an influx of such artists into the community because of the reopening of Camp Lee nearby.

Muskrat a Vegetarian

The muskrat is a vegetarian, eating mainly plants that grow in fresh water. One of the cleanest of wild animals, it thoroughly washes all of its own food.

Makes Good Suggestion

A woman member of a methods group at a large war plant offered suggestions for manufacturing operations that more than cut operator-time in half.

Wash Tap Holes

At least once during the season, and often if sugaring time is prolonged, the tap holes should be reamed and each spout washed and scalded.

Shuts Out Light

Keep bulbs and shades dust-free. A film of dirt on a bulb absorbs 15 to 20 per cent of the light.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Follow Rules to Make Canning Easy (See Directions Below)

Fruit Canning

It's time now to begin putting up fruits for next winter and fall to help stretch those ration points and to make sure your family is going to get the two fruits a day required by the nutritional yardstick.

Be wise and watch the fruit trees or berry vines or markets—wherever you get your fruit—to see that you get it for your canning at just the ripe stage. Fruits should be firm-fleshed, ripe but not over-ripe and in prime condition.

Remember canning does not improve any product; it merely preserves it for later use, so it follows that you get out of the can only what you put into it.

Methods for processing fruit for canning in order of their desirability are hot-water bath, pressure cooker, steam cooker, open-kettle. Although many homemakers prefer the open kettle for the fruits, the degree of spoilage is so high and the vitamin loss so great that it is less desired than processing in the jars.

Hot Water Bath.

For a hot water or boiling water bath as it is sometimes called, utilize a large deep vessel. Fit it with a rack of some kind that will hold the jars ½ inch from the bottom of the canner. Be sure the vessel is deep enough so that when the jar is immersed in the boiling water, the water comes to within 1 to 2 inches over the top of the jar.

Place jars on the rack, allowing free circulation of air between the jars. The water should be kept boiling during the entire processing period. If it boils down, particularly during some of the lengthy processing times, add sufficient boiling water to keep it at the proper height.

Oven Canning.

Many homemakers like to use the oven for canning fruits and tomatoes. This can be successful if the oven you are using is thermostatically controlled and will keep the required temperature of 250 degrees.

The jars should be set on a rack, at least 2 inches apart—starting with a cold oven.

The jars should not be allowed to touch the sides of the oven. If a second batch of jars is going in after the first batch, the oven does not have to be cooled.

After the jars are placed on the rack, turn on the switch or light the oven. Start counting processing time as soon as the oven is

Lynn Says:

Canning Pointers: Most fruits are canned by the cold pack method, but apples, pears, pineapple and quinces are pre-cooked in their syrups to give them that lovely, transparent look. Most homemakers are using the light syrup—three cups water to one cup sugar—for canning.

If you can't afford any sugar, use fruit juices in place of the sugar, and then sweeten the fruit when ready to use. Or, if you can't make up all the jellies and jams because of lack of sugar, put up the juice and make it into jelly during the winter when you do have sugar.

Honey syrup may be used in canning fruits, but expect to have a slightly different flavor to the fruit and somewhat darker appearance.

Use a large kettle in cooking honey syrups but expect to have a tendency to boil over and foam while being cooked.

turned on. Temperature should never exceed 250 degrees. Higher temperatures cause liquid to boil out of jars and evaporate.

Cooling and Testing Jars.

If you have used a self-sealing lid on the jars canned, do not invert them after taking from the canner. Instead, set them upright on several thicknesses of newspaper or clean towels, away from drafts and let them cool. After the jar has thoroughly cooled, remove the screw band and re-use it again and again. To test for seal, tap the lid of the jar with a spoon, and if you get a clear, high ringing note you can be certain that the jar is well sealed.

Fruits for canning are most often cold-packed, rather than hot-packed as are non-acid vegetables. Select fruit only in prime condition, ripe rather than over-ripe. Wash it thoroughly, then prepare as for table and pack in jars. Fill with hot syrup to within ½ inch of the top. Process according to the time table:

Fruit Canning Timetable.

*Pre-cook fruit in light syrup (3 cups water and 1 cup sugar boiled together 5 minutes), for 3 to 5 minutes before packing in jar.

Precook fruit 5 to 10 minutes in syrup before packing in jar.

Fruit Juices.

Many homemakers who will be unable to put up all the jellies they would like this summer may put up fruit juices and make them into jelly later. Canning fruit juices either for jelly or other uses is a fairly simple matter, and processing is usually done in a hot water bath, at a simmering temperature, 180 degrees F.

Flavor of the fruit juices depends upon the fruit selected. The juice of fully ripened fruit should be used. Partially ripened fruit lacks flavor whereas over-ripe or bruised or decayed fruit will make sterilization more difficult.

Extracting Juice.

The cold process method must not be used if the fruit is extracted for jelly making. It is far better to heat the fruit or berries. Do not add much water, particularly for soft fruits and berries. Simmer at very low heat—do not boil—until the juices start running.

Strain the fruit juices through a cotton flannel bag, and fill sterile jars to within ½ inch of the top. Adjust cap, and process in hot water bath for 30 minutes.

Working as quickly as possible will save the flavor of the juices and make it more desirable for jelly-making.

If you have a canning problem, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago, Ill. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Alarm Clock Loses First Round

Even the brassy voice of the alarm clock doesn't carry enough authority to arouse this youngster, all too comfortable in her nice, warm bed. But her younger sister is determined that neither of them will be late for the first day of school. Teacher wouldn't like it. Scenes like this will be common from now on with the resumption of school work throughout the area.

TOMORROW

I said to my Soul, I will do this tomorrow,
I buried my purpose in trouble and sorrow,
In the way of all flesh, I in patience did go,
In the seeds of regret all my sorrow did sow.

Then up from remorse to the more blissful state
All my ills were laid low, all my sorrow could wait;
I had found in myself, in my utmost resolve
The things that were needed my problems to solve.

Then away with dull care, let today's life be gay;
When I live in this fashion I live the right way;
Today may be crowded with trial and care,
But what if it is, I will not despair.

Jimmy's over there now, fighting our enemies to keep the Stars and Stripes flying. "Before he left, he told me they are going to need more equipment, more ammunition and more food for INVASION of enemy lands."

"The more bonds the folks at home buy—the more they'll be helping us fighters to win." That's what Jimmy said.

The 3rd War Loan of 15 billion dollars must produce the money to pay for these essentials to victory.

Buy at least one EXTRA $100 Bond besides your regular bond purchases—many will have to invest thousands!

Don't think that what you do isn't important. It will take all every individual in America can raise to put this 3rd War Loan over the top. So buy more bonds out of your pay—out of extra income—out of "rainy-day" funds!

The quicker you do that the more you'll help Jimmy and our other boys smash through to Victory.

What do you say? It's the safest, soundest investment you'll ever make! Let's go!
