Containing Thanks For the Kits and The Record

Dear Editor:

I wish to thank you very much in my deep appreciation for the Record while I was serving overseas with the Marines.

During the last week in September was transferred back to the States and at present I am stationed at Quantico, Virginia.

Should you still care to send the Record it will be greatly appreciated, I can certainly say it is a fine paper and one that a fellow looks forward

Dear Editor:

I want to thank you for sending me The Carroll Record. Even though I have been here but a short time, I am always anxious to receive news from home.

I would like the women of Taneytown to know how thoroughly have appreciated the kit which was given to me. I have found it extremely useful.

The quarantine period is over now and I have about three more weeks until my first furlough. I like Bainbridge very much, but I am looking forward to being in Tanevtown soon. Sincerely, THEODORE F. FAIR A/s Co 4461 V. S. N. T. S. Bks. 414 L, 16th Batt. Bainbridge, Md.

I wish to thank the Carroll Record very much for the papers I have re-ceived in the past and will appreciate it if they send it to my new address. I also thank my relatives and friends for making my recent visit home a very pleasant one. I will never forget it. Yours truly,

S 2/c HOWARD M. WELTY, Ships Co Bks 606 U. S. N. T. S Bainbridge, Md.

Dear Mr. Stonesifer:

I want to thank you for the paper, which I have been receiving every week. It sure is good to read the news from back home. I especially want to thank all the people who were responsible for sending me that very handy kit. It sure has proved to be a very useful kit. I am in the Rainbow Division, which was just reactivated in July. The Division has very high standards and it sure is tough to keep up to them. This life is all right but the good old civilian life sure is a lot better. Yours truly

DOES WAR EVER PAY?

Our esteemed contemporary, the Union News, of Towson, carried an editorial last Friday, "Wars That Paid." It cited the Versailles treaty and showed that Great Britain by it obtained 996,614 square miles of territory in the settlement of World War I.

The purpose back of the editorial was to point out that in the settlement of the present war it should not be allowed to become a landgrabbing contest for any nation. With that we are in hearty agreement, and we commend it without hesitation, but with the thought that Great Britain was rewarded for her imperialism we do not agree.

We have taken the position that there have been wars in the history of the world that were fully justified, but if that be true, it is true only of those wars of self defense in which men could look up to God for his blessing, with the confidence that they were on the side of right. It has never been true of the wars, including most of them, where the causes were so complicated and the sin so widely distributed that the blame could never be placed on the one side alone.

What if Great Britain did acquire territory equal to one-third of the United States. When we think of the millions of lives lost, the incalculable amount of property destroyed, the ideals lost, and then remember that the cost of the present world chaos must all be included in the bill, it was nothing but measureless destruction.

In the present war, after the course of history for a hundred years and especially for the past fifty years, it may have been utterly impossible for a leading nation to keep out of it, but the idea that any 'pay' can come to any nation as a result of it is the product of a disordered mind. Down through the ages a Divine Providence has so overruled the wrath of man at times that glorious results have come about, not because of man's iniquity, but in spite of it. That may be true of the present strife, but the cost is such as to give the world cause to sit in sackcloth and ashes for generation after generation. We agree with the closing words of the editorial referred to, "wars don't pay."

-22-NATIONAL DISGRACE

The outstanding facts in the disgraceful coal situation are (1) that government agencies and government officials who had the sole power of deciding wage and hour problems in the coal mines, utterly failed to control four strikes; (2) that the coal miners callously disregarded union pledges of no strikes during the war emergency; (3) that the principal sufferers from governmental regulatory inefficiency and union membership disregard of nostrike agreements, are our armed forces and the people at home.

What a spectacle our nation presents to our enemies as well as our allies, when the government has to threaten to use the Army to perpetuate coal production. No excuse can be offered for the stoppage of work in the coal mines, which will renew the respect of the public for the men responsible for this type or sabotage in wartime.

In the words of Paul Mallon, 'The condition must be accepted as an eye-opening example of the deficiencies of managed economy, the inefficiency of bureaucracy, and the tionary union movement against a sympathetic government during a desperate war to protect the bargaining freedom of labor and the individual."-Industrial News Review.

REDISCOVERY

For several years the country store appeared to have outlived the time when it filled a real place in the community. Many of the stores closed their doors and the remaining ones found the going increasingly more difficult. It was so much easier to jump in the family flivver and be whisked over modern, hard surfaced roads to the cities, where the stores offered unlimited varieties, and almose endless quantities. Many began to adopt a rather patronizing attitude towards the country storekeeper, and hold in some degree of disdain the small line of goods to which necessity limited him. If they patronized him it was with some evidence of condescension. The country dweller learned to go to town. Of course that was not true of everyone who lived in the country. Neither was it entirely true of every country store. The country store still kept its appeal to a great many, but in general it seemed on the way out in much the same manner as the horse and buggy passed on with the advent of the flivver and the surfaced road.

Now, however, the country store is once again enjoying a relative dedifficulties presented by a revolu-gree of popularity. As in the days of yesterday it is becoming the meeting place where many of the community meet to discuss the affairs of the locality or the nation.

As the affairs of the country store are becoming more favorable, so are those of the stores in the small towns and suburban areas. Now that telephone materials have gone to war, we must get along with the facilities we have until a happier day. By using these facilities to the best advantage, you can help keep service good for everyone, including yourself. Try following these simple rules:-

- L. Be sure you have the right number before placing a call. Consult your directory.
- 2. Answer all calls as promptly as possible.
- 3. If you're on a party line, apply the Golden Rule to your use of the line.
- 4. Don't ask "Information" for numbers that are listed in the directory.
- 5. Hang up carefully after each call. Don't let a book, or other object, hold the receiver off the hook.
- Take good care of the telephone instrument and cord in your home and office. They're made of scarce and critical materials.

Caterer Serves 6,500,000 Meals Every Month to Federal Employees.

WASHINGTON, D. C .- Seven hundred twenty million paper cupfuls of coffee is a lot of coffee in any language, but that's only one item dispensed by the Welfare and Recreational Association of Public Buildings and Grounds, the world's largest food caterer!

The association, ruled by the attorney general as "a governmentcontrolled agency," contracts to prepare and serve meals to federal employees in 59 cafeterias located in government buildings, ranging from the huge Pentagon building down to the Senate office building.

Serving 6,500,000 meals a month in metropolitan Washington, the Welfare and Recreational association is one of the most efficiently organized agencies in the capital. Largest Users of Paper Cups.

The association is the largest single user of paper cups and plates in the world. Last year it used 930,900,000 paper cups, and 101,000,-000 paper plates in its mass feeding project. Some idea of the staggering quantities of food handled this past year by the association may be obtained from these figures: 4,000,000 pounds of all kinds of meat, 600,000 pounds of cheese, 2,066,820 pounds of butter, 960,000 pounds of shortening, 63,600, 000 paper cupfuls of milk, 126,492 loaves of bread, 8,000,000 pounds of canned fruits and vegetables, 3,000,-000 pounds of frozen fruits and vegetables, 240,000 pounds of dried fruits, 4,320,000 pounds of sugar, 240,000 gallons of fresh cream, 240,000 pounds of fresh fish.

The Welfare and Recreational association, though incorporated in 1926, is the result of an earlier attempt during the First World war. The contractor at that time, however, failed to meet specifications.

The present organization is headed by Capt. F. W. Hoover, and the elected trustees are all men in responsible government positions.

Bainbridge K. Foster, chief of the purchase and supply division, is the dynamo around whom the entire feeding system revolves.

Inspected Daily.

Captain Hoover inaugurated the current "health and sanitation program," according to Foster, placing each cafeteria under the management of a college-trained dietitian.

"Army, navy and marine authorities are exacting in their inspections daily," he said, "because the feeding problem in overcrowded Washington is most important to health and morale. Like ourselves, these inspectors are out to prevent epidemics, and virtually insist on food being served in paper.

"For this reason," said Foster, "we conducted a detailed research program, and discovered that paper cups, containers and dishes are more sanitary, end labor problems, eliminate breakage, are far more convenient, and save space and materi-

MANLIUS, N. Y .- The Hodges family has solved the problems of transportation and family peace with seven ponies. Seven ponies for seven children.

Alvah Hodges, the father, drives a 25-mile round trip daily to his war job in an old rubber-tired buggy, drawn by two of the ponies. Hodges says the "spanking pair" costs him about $2 a week instead of the $2.50 for gasoline and oil. However, this old-new mode of locomotion does not save time, and sometimes when it rains, Hodges returns to his car for transportation.

Avoid Bad Soilage

One way to escape the necessity of using rigorous methods for col-ored cottons or white cotton clothes for that matter is to wash them before they are badly soiled. Don't wait until the dress "shows dirt all over." Wash it as soon as the neckline, which is usually soonest soiled, is dirty. On long-sleeved dresses, it is often the cuff area which soils first. In very hot weather, it is underarm perspiration which is the most frequent cause for washing an otherwise clean garment, but into the wash it should go so that the imbedded perspiration may not have a chance to weaken the fibers or dull the colors.

Turks Look Westward

In 1923 Turkey looked westward for its fashions, its comforts, its conveniences. The familiar fez was outlawed, gave way to cap, derby, fedora, and straw so that the Turk would look and feel more like an American or European. Women showed their faces, took up professional and business careers, appeared in classrooms and laboratories. Polygamy was banned. Wom-en were assured equal rights.

Wealth of Sea Untouched

The great reservoir of chemicals and metals in sea water has remained practically untouched by man until recent years. The one exception is salt to season food, which has been evaporated from sea water since remote times. For little more than a century, iodine has been taken from the oceans indirectly by burning seaweed which had absorbed the chemical.

Meteors Vary in Content

Meteorites are the only objects we have which come from somewhere out in space. We know that they are different from the rocks of the surface of our earth. # Radar

When trained on enemy planes, still far beyond reach of anti-air-craft, Radar reports the three elements of their position necessary for exact plotting: (1) distance, (2) angle of elevation, (3) angle of azimuth. In other words, the observer can tell how far away the planes are, how high they are, and from what direction they are coming. Then, when the planes are within firing range, this information is used to predict the precise point at which shells should burst.

Turkey's Climate Varies

Turkey has a variety of climates. On its Black sea shores, winters are blizzardy, summers hot and moist. Temperatures at Istanbul range from a January average of 41 degrees Fahrenheit to an August mean of 74 degrees. In the west and the south, Mediterranean conditions rule. In the east, along the highland frontier, cold winters with light snowfall and torrid summers pre-

Flies Small Menace

Careful studies have shown that flies cause only a small percentage of the decline in milk flow usually observed in midsummer. The hot sun that discourages the cow from going out to graze and the shortage of grass and lowered palatability are factors that may account for most of the decline.

Color Cools

Revitalize Room

Color contrasts relieve the bare feeling of an underfurnished room. If pictures or furniture are lacking for one side of the room, try installing a six-foot color panel on that wall. Select a color which will accentuate the color dominant in a piece of furniture in the other side of the room. Also, architectural features can be accented by color panels. If the dining room is not a separate room from the living, it can be made to appear as such, by the clever installation of panels to seemingly divide the room.

Heat Limit for Cows

Research work under controlled conditions has shown that when the thermometer registers 85 degrees Fahrenheit the high-producing cow is very near the limit of her ability to keep cool without special effort. Whenever the cow fails to eliminate heat through the body as rapidly as she should, body temperature goes up and a "fever" results. Small wonder, then, that under such conditions appetite falls off and milk flow declines.

But no one can say that those veterans had failed in doing the job they had been called on to do—that of saving the Union, and thus pavents ing the way for its expansion, until today it is proclaimed, and we ourselves know that this conclusion is correct, that this is the greatest country on the face of the globe as we read of the battles being won, by our boys—the Grandsons and great-grandsons of those who wore the P. things, we cannot help comparing the lot of these boys with that of those fellows who seem to think that the present war was brought on merely to give them the high wages, they are now receiving, and with which they are never satisfied. At the same time, we cannot help but Taneytown Charge of the United Brethren in Christ Church, A. W. Garvin, Minister. Taneytown—S. S., 9:30 A. M.: Worship, 10:30 A. M.: Sr. C. E., 6:30 P. M. Company, because one Department wanted more money, It is stated that the real reason of these labor disturbances is that the big Union racketeers want the Government to take over the plant, and give them a share in its management, some-thing that no doubt would be done, for the New Deal could not turn down any proposition that its pets would ask. Fortunately the matter was settled in a few hours, thus preventing the loss of any considerable loss of time. However, part of their demands were granted, and a rise of > supply, so that the children who are furnished lunch at the different schools, is still unsettled. It is now said that the dairy farmers are shipping vast quantities of milk to New York Baltimore and other eastern Bel Air, Cardiff, Hampstead, West-York, Baltimore and other eastern cities, where they can obtain higher returns for it than they can obtain out here. In the factories a movement, has been started to have the men give up the milk that they con-sume daily at the lunch wagons, so that the school children may be able to get what is needed for their health. We give proper credit to the negro workers in the Willow Run Ford plant, for starting this movement, and surely think it is a fine gesture on their part. In the meantime, the state and city officials are working hard on the problem, and we feel sure that a solution will be reached.

There are quite a few other things about which we might say something among which is the drafting of fathers ahead of the youngsters, which still goes merrily on. In speaking of this a few days ago, a friend of mine who holds a responsible position in a war plant, informed me that the place in question was full of young fellows who are practically as the state of the stat full of young fellows who are practically useless and hardly knew enough to push a buttom to start a machine, who have been "fortunate" enough, so far as not to be called. He also said the greater part of these fellows are Polacks, descendants of people who have more than a little right to be in the front of this fight. This is about all that we care to say on this subject, as we venture to say that Detroit is not the only place that these conditions prevail, and that the above mentioned nationality is not the only who is guilty of trying to dodge the

"You understand how it is," the little man said anxiously. "I am only able to charge such high prices for my apartments because I run a respectable house. Nothing like this has ever happened before. I want you to leave no stone unturned, Captain Stokes, in apprehending the man who stole young

Mr. Trumbell's jewelry. "It occurred last night between nine o'clock and one or two in the morning. Young Trumbell went out to a dance. He didn't notice the theft until this morning. He reported it to me immediately and I came

"Has the insurance company been notified?"

"I presume so. That's Trumbell's business, not mine."
"I see. How many students have you rooming in your house?"

"Eleven. All occupy small suites. There are two suites on each floor, except the top which is somewhat of a penthouse. Trumbell hired it. He's the son of C. K. Trumbell, the steel

The little man's jaw set firmly. "I repeat, my boys are above re-

"Okay, okay. Let's get out there and have a look around.' The building was one of many of similar architecture located in a quiet, residential section of the city not far from the university. Before entering, Haynes led the detective around back and showed him the fire escape. The type was familiar. Its last section was hung suspended some 20 feet above the ground, automatically lowering under the weight of a person descending.

"It would be a simple matter," Haynes pointed out, "for anyone with a short ladder to reach the lower step.

"Apple pie to a second story nan," Stokes agreed. "Let's have man,' a look inside."

Haynes seemed worried. "You won't disturb any of my boys-" 'All of 'em," Stokes interrupted. "And unless you stop beefing and get co-operative I'll/do it in a manner you won't like.

"Open the door of the rear apartment with your pass key," Stokes directed. "Don't knock. And never mind the front apartments.'

As the door opened a youth, sitting in a chair with his feet on the bed, looked up from a book he was reading. Beside him on a table a radio played softly. The youth looked startled, switched off the radio and got to his feet. "Say—"
"Take it easy, son," Stokes said briskly. "There's been a robbery.

I'm from police headquarters."
"A robbery? Here? In this

"That's right. Relax." Stokes crossed quickly to the window, opened it and looked out. Withdrawing his head, he stood a moment in deep thought. Something was wrong and he couldn't place his finger on

"Haynes, let me have your pass keys. You two stay here. I'm going upstairs myself."

Haynes opened his mouth to protest. Stokes jerked the keys out of his hands and went out, slamming the door. Twenty minutes later he

"Well," Haynes snapped, "are you satisfied? I suppose you've succeeded in creating a disturbance all over the house."

"Shut up!" snapped Stokes. "Haynes, go out and press the button that calls the elevator. I walked down from the top floor. Go on! Do as I say!"

When Haynes returned to the apartment after carrying out the order he stopped short, gaping. The youth was laying on the floor, blood streaming from a wound in his head, and Stokes was clamping handcuffs to his wrists.

"He got nasty and I had to clip the detective explained mathim," ter-of-factly. "That theory of yours about someone gaining entrance by means of the fire escape and a lad der was cockeyed. The ground beneath the fire escape showed no evidence of a ladder or anything else being used. That meant it was an inside job. When we entered this apartment the kid here snapped off the radio a little too quickly. It wasn't natural. Upstairs, I found all the other apartments deserted, so I switched on a radio, then worked the elevator. The electric motor created plenty of static. A man who checked his timing could tell how many floors the elevator was descending by listening to the static on his radio. And that would be a dead give-away that Trumbell was out, because he's the only one who lives on the sixth? Get it?"

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13; Luke 19:1-10, 45, 46.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not steal.—Exodus 20:15.

Honesty seems to be so obviously right that one might expect it always and everywhere-if bitter experience had not indicated the opposite to be true.

As a matter of fact, dishonesty has become so common that a per-son who is strictly honest is a bit of a novelty. Some even think he is peculiar.

Under such circumstances the Christian needs to be vigilant lest he also accommodate his own ideas of honesty and begin to justify little evasions rather than being absolutely upright.

The teaching of Scripture on this matter is very plain.

I. Honesty and Fair Dealing (Exod. 20:15; Lev. 19:11, 13).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved. If no one had property rights there could be no stealing. Some of our modern isms deny such rights, but their reasoning is clearly not biblical or Chris-

"Thou shalt not steal" forbids every kind of theft, and the passages from Leviticus indicate that this includes more than robbery or ordinary stealing. It relates to every kind of false dealing with another, such as oppression or the withholding of just wages. That, too, is stealing in God's sight.

Perhaps we ought to be more specific and apply the truth to our own day. Stealing includes such things as loafing on one's job, "borrowing" money from the cash drawer, taking goods from the stock with which one is working, stealing another man's sermon and preaching it as one's own, "lifting" material out of another man's book without credit, contracting debts which one can never pay, using false weights and measures, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, or using a slug instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

One might add gambling (which is taking another man's property by skill or by chance), making an unduly large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the sorrows and failures of others, etc. be honest means to be fair—and that has broad implications.

II. Honesty and Restoration (Luke 19:1-10).

The reality and thoroughness of Zacchaeus' conversion was indicated by his willingness to restore all the money he had unjustly (but legally, note that!) taken from his fellow citizens—and that in fourfold

Insofar as it is possible to do so, the honest person will make right any known injustice. To be right with God must mean that we are to be right with men. The testimony of many Christians could be presented to show that they have only entered upon real peace and usefulness as they have made consistent effort to right every wrong, to pay every debt.

Often such actions open opportunities for Christian testimony and point others to the redemption in Christ, which makes a man live right as well as talk right.

III. Honesty and Religion (Luke

One might think it unnecessary to urge honesty upon religious folk. They ought to be honest. But here we see in sharp contrast to the quick honesty and restitution of Zacchaeus, the stubborn disobedience and dishonesty of the priests in the temple. Jesus had already cleansed the temple of the traffic in moneychanging and the sale of animals for sacrifice practiced there (see John 2:13-17). On that occasion He rebuked them because they made His Father's house "a house of merchandise."

Had they known the change of heart of a converted Zacchaeus they would have heeded His admonition. But they did not believe in Christ and went on with their ungodly desecration of the temple area until it became "a den of thieves" (v. 46).

What happened so long ago needs application to our present day. So apt is the quotation from the "Lesson Commentary" which we have used before that we repeat it now.

Speaking of "the goings on in our own churches" the writer says, "Is a church honest when it assumes obligations that it cannot meet, and is then forced to use all sorts of questionable means to raise money for the benefit of the church? Is a church honest when it turns a building consecrated to the worship of God into a restaurant or a theater, Is a church honest that turns its pulpit into a lecture platform for the discussion of current events or the review of popular books or plays?"

Abundant in Sea Water

One of the easiest substances to dissolve; sodium chloride or common table salt, is seven times as abundant in sea water as its near-est rival, magnesium chloride, another easy-to-dissolve salt. All in all, in 1,000 parts of sea-water about 35 parts are dissolved solids usually called salts. The sum total of the salts in the seas is so great that if they were dried out and spread on the present land surface, it is estimated they-would cover it more than 150 feet deep.

Make Soybeans Palatable

The extremely nutritive soybean, whose strong flavor has kept it from becoming a food favorite, is now being cooked in such a manner as to give it an extremely palatable taste while preserving its high food value. Soybean flour made by this process can be used by itself; i.e., does not have to be mixed with other flours, as was formerly done. Soybean "nut meats" so processed are delicious as a meat extender in meat loaf, etc.

Irish Potato Misnamed

Doubly misnamed like the guinea pig, which is neither pig nor from Guinea, the Irish potato is neither potato nor from Ireland. Thriving in cool climates at the northern limit of agriculture, it was first discovered growing almost on the equator in Peru. Its Spanish discoverers called it "papas." "Batatas" was their name for what is now known as the sweet potato, which is thus the original bearer of the potato name.

Protein Building Material

Protein is essential building material for muscles, glands, nerves, bones, skin, hair, nails, and all of the rest of the body tissues. Adults need protein to replace tissue as it is worn out, the amount needed depending upon weight and physical condition rather than upon activity. Individuals recovering from a long illness need additional protein to build up their bodies and restore strength.

Busy River

Rated as one of Germany's busiest rivers, the Wupper flows to its junction with the Rhine at Opladen -turned many water wheels, ground flour, powered local factories. Several reservoirs make provision for drinking water, supply hydro-electric installations for the great industrial centers. The Wupper is not navigable, has no port.

Need Protein

Young, growing animals require a high percentage of protein in their rations in order to make rapid increases in weight. Nursing mothers, milking cows and laying hens need relatively large quantities because of the amount of protein needed for the production of milk or

Magnesium Sources

Underground brine and sea water have been the only domestic sources of magnesium until recently. Their magnesium content seems small but the supply of raw material is unlimited. Underground brine contains from 3 to 6 per cent of magnesium: sea water averages less than 0.13 per cent.

Cow Needs Maximum Intake Ideally the cow is stimulated to her best production by a feed intake that reaches the maximum of her capacity. If the quality of feed offered is below par she is likely to eat less of it and consequently produce less.

Rubber Reached High

The price of natural rubber reached an all-time high of $3.12 a pound in 1910. In 1932 it dropped to 2.625 cents. Ordinarily it was around 15 cents, and before the present war it was pegged at 22.5 cents.

Spray Up and Under

Effective spraying requires covering both the under and upper surface of the foliage, since many insects, particularly the bean beetle, live and feed mostly on the under

Thanksgiving November 25, 1943

When troops at Camp Lee.

Va., wanted a supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving they decided to get the biggest and best birds possible. So they visited the nearby Whippernock turkey farm and engaged in a martial version of the old-fashioned turkey hunt.

It's a far cry from the Massachusetts Pilgrim of early days to this modern man of war, but the idea is the same. Each got his bird.

After the successful hunt, this private first class plucks one of the turkeys as a third officer of the WACs delivers a few pointers.

Another private with marked culinary abilities seasons a pan of the Thanksgiving dinner's piece de re-

This hungry sergeant obliges with a "V" for Victory made of turkey drumsticks. He advised the photographer to make it "snappy." His appetite wouldn't allow him to hold the pose very long.

Here's another symbolical pose provided by a sergeant who made it plain that American soldiers are doing much more than just wishing for victory.

Mother and Sister Pay

Debt by Donating Blood

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.—Because 10 transfusions of blood plasma saved the life of her son, a sailor critically burned at Pearl Harbor, Mrs. Emma J. Hubbard of San Diego, appeared with her daughter at the Red Cross center. "We will never know who those ten persons were who gave their blood for that plas ma," said Mrs. Hubbard, "but this is one way to pay the debt.'

Sick Hens Won't Lay, So Watch for Diseases

Fowl Pox, Colds Most Frequent Ailments

Diseases among your hens may be causing lowered egg production and unnecessary deaths. One of the most common is fowl pox, says Successful Farming magazine. This ailment spreads slowly but surely. Be on the lookout for the appearance of small, straw-colored or brown, wart-like scabs which may appear on the comb or wattles, or around the eyes and at the corners of the mouth.

It is not too late to vaccinate the flock if the disease is diagnosed by someone well experienced in the control of fowl pox if it has not gone too far.

U. S. TURKEY FLOCK MAKES COMEBACK 1900 $$$$$$$$ 1920 8888 1940 කිකිකිකිකි 1943 පිහිසිස්ස්ස් Each symbol represents one million turkeys.

There are now four chickens for every person in the United States while back in 1900 there were only three. Since there are now about 135,000,000 people in the country, there are some 540,000,000 chickens on farms.

Turkeys, too, have been increasing, after a long decline between 1900 and 1920. There are now around 6,600,000 of the big birds on the nation's farms, just about as many as there were at the turn of the century.

Inspect your flock at monthly intervals for those profit robbers, lice. The simplest method of freeing the birds from such parasites is to paint a reliable nicotine preparation on the roosts about a half hour before roosting time. Then be certain all the birds are on the roosts, because if a few lice escape the entire flock will become reinfested.

The greatest losses from infectious colds are loss of body weight and egg production. If the disease occurs, you may first notice that a few birds remain on the roosts most of the day or particularly in the afternoon when grain is hand-fed. The infected individuals should be removed from the flock if possible. Check the litter and if it is too wet remove it and add a deep, dry litter.

If it is only damp add about an inch of dry litter to the top of it and stir it every few days. Do everything possible to keep the birds eating at top pitch. The use of a moist mash at noon, or the feeding of mash pellets will help.

In the absence of an outbreak of a serious infectious disease, it is unnecessary to change litter every two weeks or two months. Instead, with a good start of highly absorbent litter three inches deep, add about an inch of new litter at frequent intervals until the litter is at least six inches deep by December 1.

Either keep the litter stirred or feed grain in the litter so that the birds stir it sufficiently. This builtup litter is one guarantee against unnecessarily cold floors which cause lowered egg production.

Cull the birds frequently and regularly. This practice conserves critical feedstuffs, provides more floor space per bird, tends to lower mortality, and raises percentage of egg production. Take out the birds which aren't contributing their share to your pocketbook and the war effort.

The best method to conserve fowl paralysis is to remove any lame birds and those with gray eyes (providing the pupils are irregular in

If disease occurs, act promptly and get an accurate diagnosis. Be certain that casualties are promptly disposed of by burning them, or burying deep enough so that dogs cannot dig them up.

Plant Cover Crops Vegetable growers will find the fall a favorable time to sow cover crops, either after an early market crop has been removed or just before the last cultivation of a late market crop, H. R. Cox, extension agronomist at Rutgers university,

LAYING HENS

Housing should be such as to keep birds contented and in production as follows: 1. Building free of drafts and cross currents.

2. 4 square feet floor space for each bird. 3. 4 inches feed hopper space for each bird. 4. One 5-gallon water fount for each 50 birds.

6. 65 feet roost space for 100 birds. 7. Lights in fall and winter months. Keep birds free of disease and parasites

8. Roost wired off to keep birds out of droppings.

5. 15 nests per 100 birds.

as follows:

9. Keep litter dry and clean. 10. Inspect and treat for lice and mites. Feed liberally for high production and good body weight as follows:

11. Keep a good laying mash in clean hoppers at all times. 12. Follow feeding directions, and see that total feed used per 100 birds is not less than 20 lbs. for 40% production, 23 lbs. for 50%, 26 lbs. for 60%, 30 lbs. for

13. Produce infertile market eggs; gather twice daily; hold in cool place; market

Let your imagination see a dust-choked American boy munching a blessed piece of bread before the next tank attack. Let it see Russians and Chinese burning their precious crops to cripple the invaders, to keep the Axis from storming our shores. Let it feel the sorrow of a mother watching her child slowly starve to death. Then, if you are one of America's vast army of food producers, determine that no effort of yours will be spared to produce More Food for Victory!

We are in the toughest war in history . . . a war that we can win only if we are victorious at home before we win abroad. The most critical home front battle is the Food Production battle. We must keep our men well fed to keep them fighting.

Only one extra pig per litter, raised and marketed, would provide the en-tire meat ration for an 8-million man army for an entire year. It is entirely possible to raise these extra pigs through better management, more careful sanitation and wiser feeding.

Cull Slacker Hens With Yellow Legs

Purina Merchant Gives Handy Guide for Saving Feed

Uncle Sam wants no "yellow" in his soldiers or in his hens. Yellow in the beak, legs and vent of a yearling hen indicates she's shirking her duty of laying "Victory Eggs."

So says the Purina Merchant of this city who is assisting local poultrymen to spot their culls in order to save the 64 pounds of feed consumed by nonlayers yearly simply to stay alive.

"These three signs of a cull hen are easy to detect." he states. From August to October, a poor layer will have a yellow beak, yellow legs and yellow vent. Nine out of ten good layers will have white legs, beak and vent."

Market the Culls

It is estimated that 1,360,000 tons of feed were lost in the U.S. last year on non-laying hens. By culling only half of these unproductive hens, the Purina Merchant states, 680,000 tons of additional feed could be saved. In our locality this saving would go a long way toward eliminating the present feed

"Cull your flock today and get the yellow-legged ones to market," he advises. "Save the 64 pounds of feed each one is wasting yearly and feed the good hens all you can get them to eat. Do this for your own good, and for Extra Eggs for Victory."

Cools Room

One clever bride who was forced to live in a small room in a hot climate made these delightful selections: To make the room appear spacious and cool and also to blend with her inexpensive bleached furniture, she chose clear bluekote walls and ceiling, thick white rug, cranberry sofa, and cranberry and white striped draperies.

Army Providing Dentures

The army's 12,000 dental officers are turning out full or partial dentures for soldiers at the rate of 60,-000 per month and the number is still on the increase. In addition, more than 2,000,000 soldiers are treated each month for everything from a common toothache to serious mouth infections. More than 1,600,-000 fillings are completed each milking machines and utensils, as it removes the milk more easily than cold water and does not harden the milk on the utensil as would hot water.

Lukewarm Water Best Use lukewarm water for rinsing

Corn Production Decreased The Ohio state experimental station confirmed the fact-that for each day's delay in corn planting after the tenth of May, one bushel less per acre was harvested.

DAMPNESS IN WALLS

Question: We live in an old house with thick, but rather porous walls. During the summer rainy spells the walls are very wet inside. paint is discolored and brown in some places, due to mildew. How can this be removed? Is there any kind of moistureproof paint that we can use?

Answer: Your first problem is to get at the cause of the condition. If moisture penetrates through the outside walls (I presume they are brick or stone), they should be coated with a colorless liquid waterproofing or with a damp-proof cement paint-the kind that comes in powder form to be mixed with water. If the condition occurs only during the summer, the trouble may come from condensation caused by the plaster having been applied directly on the stone or brick walls. If such is the case, the inside walls should be furred out and finished with a gypsum or insulating board. Inside paint of any kind will not help. Before repainting, remove the mildew by rubbing with sandpaper—then wash with yellow laundry soap, rinse well and allow to dry.

TORN LEATHER

Question: Is there any home method for repairing a painted leather screen which was torn badly?

Answer: The leather will have to be taken off the screen, so that the repair can be made on the reverse side. Cut a piece of soft leather or stout fabric, and cement it to the back of the torn area, using care to attach the torn edges to the patch. For a neat joint, the fuzz along the edges should be clipped off. Use top quality glue.

Log Cabin Chinking

Question: What is a practical chinking to use on our log cabin? We want something that will last all the year.

Answer: Chinking depends as much on method as it does on material, and upon the width of the spaces to be chinked. Drive large head nails into the logs along the chinks around which the chinking can harden and lock itself in. Wide spaces should be packed at the bottom with oakum. An excellent chinking is made of part portland cement, 3 parts coarse sand, and 1 part hydrated lime mixed with water to a stiff paste. Popular Science Publishing company, 353 Fourth avenue, New York, publishes an excellent handbook on the building of cabins and lodges, that would be of use to any prospective builder.

Rumbling Water Tank

Question: Why does the hot-water tank in our kitchen make a rumbling sound? The water is heated by an oil burner and a hot-water coil in the kitchen stove.

Answer: Overheating will cause this condition. It may help to run the oil burner at a slower rate. Another possible reason for the rumbling is that the water back in the stove is not set exactly level. If a coil is used, it should be level or. better vet, so that there is a continual rise from the cold-water inlet to the hot-water outlet. A pipe of larger diameter in the coil may be advisable. If your water supply is hard, the coils may be clogged with

Hand Cleaner Question: What is a recipe for a paste to rub on the hands before starting a dirty job? Answer: Two ounces gum arabic dissolved in one pint of water, onehalf pound of soap chips dissolved in a pint of water; mix, heat in a double boiler, add one ounce of lanolin and stir well. There are several commercial hand cleaners on the market, which are inexpensive. Uncontrolled Refrigerator

Question: What makes my electric refrigerator run for more hours than it is off?

Answer: Ask the manufacturer or his local representative to send a his local service man.

Moth Prevention Question: What is a good way to protect clothing from moths?

Answer: All valuable garments should be dry-cleaned, and furs cleaned and stored with a reliable fur dealer. Clothing to be kept at home should be brushed, sunned, or otherwise cleaned and free of all traces of moths and larvae. Hang clothing in tight, moth-proof bags, preferably with a zipper closing, and with plenty of moth crystals (paradi) and moth balls inside. Or store in tightly closed trunks.

Carroll County farmers whose farms do not drain into the Monocacy River, will vote on Wednesday, Dec. 1, on whether or not they favor the proposed Carroll Soil Conservation District. A polling station will open at the County Agent's office, City Building, in Westminster, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on that date. If this Soil Conservation District is formed it will include all the agriculture lands in Carroll County that are not already in the Monocacy Soil Conservation District.

The Monocacy Soil Conservation District was formed three years ago and includes all agricultural lands in both Carroll and Frederick counties that drain into the Monocacy River. This Soil Conservation district is operated by a five man board of farmers living in this area.

All farm owners and operators living in this proposed district are eligible to vote in this referendum. Co. Agent L. C.Burns has mailed ballots to farmers for their convenience in woting on the referendum. This makes it possible to vote without going to the polling station. The ballots, Mr. Burns explained, must be ft 6-in endless rubber belt; dirt postmarked on or before December 1 to be counted in the referendum.

If a substantial number vote in the referendum and the majority of those voting are in favor of the creation of this district, it will be set up and will be operated by farmers. Their objectives will be to carry out a program of assisting farmers in their erosion problems.

No - fire fighters, 1943 style. Styles in banking have changed too. Banks are no longer simply places to store or borrow money but have grown to be a vital part of the nation's economic structure. Just think, for example, of the part banks have taken in the war effort, financing the war, selling war bonds and handling ration coupons. We are proud of our new role. We seek new ways to serve.

National Wartime Nutrition Guide

For Health...eat some food from each group...every day!

IN ADDITION TO THE BASIC 7 ... EAT ANY OTHER FOODS YOU WANT

This is the National Nutrition Target, designed by Government nutrition experts to help people plan well-balanced meals. The idea is to include something from each of the seven food groups in the menu every day, to hit the bullseye of good health.

Meat that sticks to a soldier's ribs helps him to stick to his job and win.
