Those who took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foreman, were: Dorothy and Francis, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foreman, of York, Pa.; and Mrs. Harry Pittinger and children, Billy, Shirley and Junior; Mr. and Mrs. William Foreman and children, Betty, Bobbie, Virginia and Leo, and Pfc David Foreman and friend, Jimmie, of Camp Pickett, Va.

Wirt Patterson Crapster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Walter Crapster, Taneytown, achieved a first honor rank as a result of the recent semester examinations held at the Mercersburg Academy in January. This announcement was made recently in an Assembly of the School by Headmaster, Charles S. Tippetts of the Academy. Crapster was a graduate in January.

Rev. L. B. Hafer had a pleasant surprise on Wednesday evening. At the finishing of the evening meal, instead of the usual dessert, there was set before him a large birthday cake, in perfect form and with decorations. Janet Royer, 10 years old, had baked it; Mrs. Royer had covered it with white icing as smooth as unblown snow, and Betty Lou, high school freshman, had decorated it in excellent pink confectionery lettering "Happy Birthday Mr. Hafer 73." On top were 7 candles in one group in V formation, and 3 in another in a straight row, meaning, we suppose, "Victory on a straight line."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Six was given a surprise Sunday evening, Feb. 13, when their children arrived laden with refreshments to celebrate the 13th birthday of their granddaughter Audrey Six, who was visiting at the home of her grandparents. The program was in charge of the Committee on Wartime Citize ship, Scott Swartz, Chairman. The conmittee presented several phases of wartime citizenship, introducing several members of the club who in brief addresses represented these respective phases, as follows:

William B. Hopkins, District Manager of the C. & P. Telephone Co., spoke on wartime communication, presenting a number of interesting and rather startling figures relating to the service of the Telephone Company in the State of Maryland, calling attention especially to the increase in the past five years in the business of the Company, and explained how the telephone industry is meeting the demands, of the nation, civilian and military, for telephone service.

George E. Dodrer, of the Taneytown Savings Bank spoke on wartime finance as it is related to the work of the banks. He explained the plan soon to be inaugurated, whereby tokens will be used in accounting under the rationing system for meats, fruits, gasoline, etc., and the elaborate set-up required on the part of the banks to take care of this inno-

Samuel E. Breth, District Manager of the Potomac Edison Company, spoke on the problem of Light and Power in time of war. He called attention to the methods, adopted by the War Production Board, by which electric current is distributed; also to the difficulties, occasioned by war time needs, encountered both by the distributing agency and by the consumer in securing extensions of service. He and Raymond Selby presented a demonstration, illustrating the routine through which such extensions may be secured by prospective new consumers in accordance with current regulations of the War Production Board.

SERVICE MEN LETTERS

Many and Varied are their Experiences

I want to thank you again for sending me the Record and I sure will appreciate it if you will not appreciate it is Dear Mr. Stonesifer: will appreciate it if you will continue to send it to me at my new address. I have been transferred from Camp Gruber to Camp Phillips, Kansas, and the first half of a day here has All aboard for the one state.

The Sucker fishermen have been mending their dip nets and fixing their lines for this "real" sport of early Spring fishing. This season opens February 14 and does bring to many fishermen a 'real' thrill.

The Sucker fishermen have been that we really had berought that we really outfit. We were sent here as re-placements in an outfit of fully train-ed men, so it just lets us to guess what is next for us. So I will wait a couple more weeks and then I will write and tell you what kind of a life we are going to have here. Thank

They have opened a Wave school here—they train about five hundred Waves at one time. I do not know where they get them all. They are training them to work in hospitals so the boys can be released for overseas duty. The boys all seem pleased because they all want to have some adventures and certainly working here is not thrillng.

The other day President Roosevelt came out to have a minor operation and everything stopped for him. They had to lock all of the doors and stop two of the elevators just for he and his staff. We also have several Senators out nere. I have one from Nevada on my ward now. I want to thank you again for send-

MARYLAND'S FINANCES EXPLAINED BY GOV.

pared with Other States

ryland percapita figure for 1917 was $6.43 as compared to the Federal figure of $11.04 and the State average of $5.14. However, the Governor declared, Maryland's 1942 receipts figure of $42.22 showed an increase of only 556%, whereas the State average increase was $000%, and the erage increase was 808% and the Federal increase, 785%.

In the matter of expenditures, the Governor pointed out, the comparison more favorable to Maryland. While the State's per capita expenditure of $40.53 in 1942 showed an increase of 422% over the $7.76 for 1917, the Federal increase was almost three times that of Maryland, totaling 1,173% or $247.29 for 1942, against $18.43 for 1917. The 48-State average, likewise, was almost twice as high as Maryland's, going from 95.08 in 1917 to $44.61 in 1942, an increase of 778%.

"These figures," Governor O'Conor declared, "furnished by the Tax Administrators News, would seem to afford clear indication that, despite runeway trends in expenditures outrunaway trends in expenditures outside the State, especially during the last few years, a similar disregard for the need of economy has not been reflected within Maryland. I believe the figures quoted should afford sat-isfaction to every Maryland taxpay-ar"

LUMBERING REGULATIONS

To provide for adequate growing stocks of young timber in woodland areas throughout Maryland, the Commission of State Forests and Parks has established a regulation which specifies the number of sound, thrifty trees of commercial species to be left standing after lumbering operations, State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor announces. This action on the part of the commission is taken in accordance with the terms of the Forest Conservancy Districts Act, which went into effect the first of the

As drawn, the regulation provides that there shall be left one hundred trees from 4.0 to 8.9 in diameter at 41/2 feet above ground, or twenty trees from 9.0 to . 11.9 inches, or eight trees of diameters 12 inches and up. In addition, all sound, thrifty young trees less than 4 inches in diameter must be left standing, with due care taken to prevent their injury during logging.

The above statement does not say how much area the remaining trees are to cover; and what is to be done, Mr. Kaylor, if an owner wants to clear a tract for farming purpose? After all, who owns the tract of wood-L. B. H.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Governor O'Conor a few days ago, in a press release, discussed the matter of juvenile delinquency and what the State is doing with regard to it. He said, among other things,

When the Federal Government confined its activities to the fuction of governing, rather than entering into business competition with private citizens, its property used for governmental purposes was granted tax

Today, however, with the government going into commercial activity, a serious problem faces the states. Tax exempt government business prevents the development of highlytaxed private enterprise. It enjoys the privilege of using all public facilities such as roads, schools, police service, fire protection, etc, without bearing any of their cost.

When government goes into business in competition with its own citizens, the products it manufactures and the property it utilizes for producing the same, should bear the same tax burden as does other busi-

GOING THROUGH THE MOTIONS

The current fight over subsidies in Congress is just shadow boxing. The Bankhead Bill, which eliminates the principal "cost of living" subsidies required in the present scheme of anti-inflationary controls, will probably be passed; the President will veto it; Congress will fail to override the veto; a compromise will be found.

Few questions have become so clouded in politics and prejudice as this matter of subsidies. The most basic way to put it is that many feel the "American Way" is to let enterprise alone. If farmers, or anybody else, can make legitimate profits, let them. An opposite course of substituting government payments at controlled levels is, many feel, un-American Normally, there is something to be said in favor of this. But in the present instance where the whole The State is moving ahead with economy is torn awry by war, and the selves by stabilizing as much as they can, it is folly to apply peacetime viewpoints in wartime, without review, to any specific portion of the over-all plan.

"Yuh mean there's a WAR on!"

Not long ago, the papers carried a story of two hermit brothers who wandered into town and found to their great surprise that America

Probably the prices they had to pay for food and supplies gave them the first sharp, shocking realization that something was happening.

At least, in the unlikely event that their cave is wired for electricity, you can be sure that they never noticed the war in their electric bills!

Even though almost everything else costs more in war, the price of household electricity has stayed at the low pre-war level. Moreover, every war industry has had ample electric power, and all essential civilian needs have been satisfied.

We're proud of the big war job our industry has done - by careful planning, hard work, and good business management. We're proud to have a part in that job-and hope that you'll never know there's a war on-by looking at your electric bill!

How much does it cost to bomb Berlin?

SUPPOSE, in the dusk of an English evening, 1,000 huge bombers soar over the Channel and head for Berlin.

By the time those planes return to England, their motors will have consumed 2,400,000 gallons of gasoline! .

The cost . . . of the gasoline ALONE . . . will be more than $380,000.

To pay for the gasoline used on ONE such raid, 96,000 Americans would have to invest at least 10 percent of their next pay check in War Bonds!

You get a big kick out of reading about soften up the Axis. But . . .

What are YOU doing to help pay the cost of those raids? (In addition to the gasoline they use, it costs Uncle Sam TWO HUN-DRED MILLION DOLLARS to build 1,000 4-motored bombers . . . plus the cost of training the 10,000 men who make up their crews!)

Modern war is expensive business . . . its cost runs into fantastic figures. 30,000,000 American wage earners are now putting an average of 10 percent of each pay check into War Bonds every pay day . . . but still it isn't enough!

Our air raids on the Axis are increasing in those 1,000-plane raids. You know that frequency and intensity. When land operasuch raids, if repeated often enough, will tions really get going, the cost will be staggering.

More and more Americans must join the Pay-Roll Savings Plan . . . more than those already in the Pay-Roll Savings Plan must begin to jack up their War Bond purchases ... must start to invest more than 10 percent!

Remember . . . War Bonds are the finest investment in the world today. You get back $4 for every $3 you invest. And . . . the more War Bonds you buy now, the quicker the Axis will be licked . . . and the less the war will cost in the long run.

Think it over. And every time you're tempted to put a nickel in something you don't absolutely need-put it in War Bonds

At the reception which many of our folks attended at their home in the evening, every-thing was nicely arranged, with flowers from friends at home, and a bouquet of yellow snapdragons from their brother, M. Last week was another butchering week with some of our neighbors; good cold weather for the meat and fresh sausage and pork is very satis-fying at this season, and one has more energy for the work too. Much of the meat is now placed in lockers in the public refrigerators. This is intended to be "Negro History Week" which was started 19 years ago, to learn more of the work and worth of one-tenth of our populations. Some years ago the sionary Societies had a study book entitled, "Twelve Negro Americans" which was very interesting and in-structive showing how "oaks from little acorns grow," when a black man or woman with mind and ambition can accomplish great things in farming, teaching invention, science and music. Indeed all branches of learning and skill are open, and tried by them—with remarkable success; and their record as soldiers of the

LETTER FROM DETROIT

The daily papers are making the most of the snow storm of the middle of this week, and are telling us of the inconvenience and damage it has caused. Although this storm is not to be compared with those we often experienced when we lived in Taneytown, on Sunday, and took supper with the it was deep enough to slow up traffic J. H. Stuffle family. She is remark—of all kinds thus hampering production was deep enough to slow up traffic ably improved from three unlucky of war goods owing to the inability of falls within the past few months, the workers to get to their work on time, even if they drove their own cars. Street cars were slowed up, and hand and arm again—after a broken in some cases derailed, while the bus wrist in falling down a stairway at lines were still more inconvenienced. up under the hood of the automobile and then after the motor was started, it would melt, dampening the ignition wires, and there the car would be stranded in the middle of the street. Of course, the driver and his passengeers could do little or nothing about it, and if the driver belonged to the Automobile Club, a call for help would be sent into its offices, which report that over 3,000 calls were received, and aid sent out

The Detroit Street Car Commission had over three thousand men at work clearing off the tracks and opening the streets over which its busses run, but it was only by acceding to the demands for a ten-cent an hour raise that any number of shovelers could be secured, although the rate was already eighty-two and a half cents an hour. We suppose that they were following the example of their brethren in the war factories, who never let an opportunity pass for making a demand for more money. Or else they reas-oned that they could not shovel snow next summer, and had better make all they could when this opportunity offered. We notice that all of the country—at least the northern half was affected by this storm, and may be what we have written is no news to your readers, but we must have something to fill up our space, and figure this will be about as interesting 19 | as anything else we could write. We also notice that in some places in our state, they were treated to greatly much worse weather, and even here, we are promised much colder weather, although, now, as I write this, the sun is shining brightly and the snow seems to be melting on the roofs of the garages in our alley. Well, we will nave to take it as it comes, and maybe will have to take back our praise of the winter for its behavior so far—that is up to the time of this present storm.

again what is known as the Numbers all classes, especially the negroes, Did you get a nice Valentine in the mail this morning? Always some one remembers with flowers and love—yes and boxes of candy for were the headquarters, under a regsweetness and more valuable gifts; all because of a good many who once trod the earth, and left his foot steps on the sands of time.

After a number of the operators had served jail sentences and had been fined, it seemed that it had been pretty effectually put out of business, but now we see that it didn't see his shadow; this is real and has again made a pretty big recovery, and as money is so plentiful just velt.

now, has become popular with those who do not know what to do with their money

The Fourth War Loan Drive has not be reached by the time set for its close, (Feb. 15.) The fault seems to lie with the purchasers of the smaller denomination of bonds, but the face, (and no one knows just where he stands on that) people in that class of purchasers are just a little cautious as to how much they can afford for bonds, but we are sure of one thing, and that is that every one is doing all they can, as nearly every family in Detroit has one or more boys in the service, and they want this war over, so that they can come home. Maybe some are disgusted with the waste that is going on in the conduct of affairs in Washington, and are following the example of Congress, in the matter making any great effort to reach this quota, allotted to them, figuring that a little economy in managing the domestic side of the government should come first.

The daily papers have had much to say about the prospects for Major League baseball this coming season, owing to so many stars of the game being taken by Uncle Sam for Army and Navy use. Our own team—the Tigers—have been hit about as hard as any, but the General manager of the club says it is going to stick it out, which is good news to the thousands of patrons of the game, to whom this sport is about the only recreation they can enjoy. If, as the report is, that a large number of so-called "twilight" games are played, the attendance may be as good as last year Misses Thelma Young and Mary Stahley, both of near town, entered in the February classes in schools of nursing in Baltimore. even if the brand of ball played is not comments on the merits of our fav-orite clubs, and I know you will excuse this reference to our favorite sport. Any how it helps fill out the sheet, and that helps me toc.

Navy Makes Atlantic Ocean Safe for Troops

NEW YORK .- The proud disclosure that not a single American soldier has been lost in this war while being sent across the Atlantic in navy-escorted troop transport convoy was made here by Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the eastern sea frontier.

Admiral Andrews made the announcement in an address at a dinner in New York in which he declared that America's navy now is 'the mightiest in the worlddwarfed only by the size of the task confronting it."

The admiral's revelation regarding the navy's achievement in the safe escort of hundreds of thousands of soldiers overseas in troop transports came when he declared that the U. S., after successfully "holding" the enemy in the early stages of the war, "now has begun to push" the Axis back.

"To make the push," he stated. 'our fighting men have been transported safely and without the loss of a single man in a troop transport convoy when escorted across the Atlantic by our navy."

Women's Shoe Mileage

May Be Increased 40% WASHINGTON .- The mileage on women's shoes may be increased from 15 to 40 per cent, and ting the blow dealt by shoe rationing, if experiments of coating shoes with wax and oil prove successful for large-scale operations, the War Production board reported. The interdepartmental committee on leather is experimenting, WPB said, with the application of oil and wax to the so-called "cement-constructed shoes" - those cemented rather than sewed on.

Use of oil and wax treated soles in cement-constructed shoes, it was explained, has been impracticable up to now due to the insecure bond in cementing the soles to the shoe. This is due to the loss of ness which results in the

of a wax or oil-treated material. A possible solution to this obstacle is anticipated as the result of experiments utilizing a method of fitting and cementing the leather outsoles before they are treated with oil or hot wax solutions,

Radar's Use Noted For Safety at Sea

Is Expected to Speed Postwar Salvage Task.

LONDON .- Radiolocation, or radar, the scientific development that is being used as an instrument of war, can and should be used after the war to protect the lives of mariners, reduce shipwrecks and collisions at sea in fog or storm and generally increase the safety of navigation, the British government's select committee on national expenditure reported.

The committee in its published report said continual developments were taking place in the field of locating invisible objects by electronic or radio activity. These developments, if generally applied for navigational purposes, it said, would decrease accidents at sea.

It recommended a study of possible international agreements that might be necessary to put the lifesaving radar into universal use.

So far as Britain was concerned, the committee said, much of the admiralty's radiolocation equipment would be of great value for improving postwar sea traffic.

Radiolocation would transform marine salvage into a declining industry, it remarked, but it recommended that the admiralty maintain all salvage vessels and equipment it had acquired during the war. In this connection the committee sounded a warning that there would be no rich salvage harvests for speculators after this war as there were after World

The committee revealed that the admiralty had entered the war in 1939 with virtually no salvage ships or equipment, but that the situation had been improved to such an extent that thus far ships and cargoes worth nearly 70 million pounds had been rescued. A large number of warships have been salvaged and put back into service.

Canned Sea Mussels Canned sea mussels, a product placed on the market for the first time this year by the seafood packers of Maine and Massachusetts, have been so well received by the public that the industry is planning a much larger pack next season, according to the Office of the Co-ordinator of Fisheries. Well over a million pounds of this food—40,000 cases to be exact—were packed during the 1942-43 season. Though mussels have always been highly regarded in Europe it is only recently that this country has shown any interest in this highly nutritious food.

MARYLAND WAS TO TOP QUOTA

Jackson Urges Record Breaking Over-Subscriptions

With Maryland one of the first States in the Union to make its Fourth War Loan quota, Howard W. Jackson, State Chairman of the War Finance Committee is urging individuals to keep on buying. On February 12 the State totals amounted to $225,-000,000 of which $69,000,000 were in individual purchases. Mr. Jackson said, "We still have a chance to beat other States in oversubscriptions if we keep after it until February 29. All E, F and G Bonds and C notes bought between now and the last of the month will count on our State totals. February 15 was the last purchase date for %% certificates and 2¼% and 2½% bonds. All other states are boosting their sales so let's stay in the race and win it!"

Official Federal Reserve Bank figures through February 11 showed sixteen counties over the top. They include Howard, Harford, Baltimore, Carroll, Garrett, Allegany, St. Mary's, Caroline, Washington, Queen Anne's, Wicomico, Anne Arundel, Worcester, Montgomery, Kent and Charles. Unofficial reports show that practically all twenty-three counties have made the goal. Baltimore City has come through as of February 11 with $186,361,754 against a quota of $166,000,000.

The club women of Maryland have every right to be proud of their record in the "Buy a Bomber Campaign." Mrs. Mervin G. Pierpont, Chairman of the Campaign for the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs reports a total of $10,027,201 raised since September 1943. This money, put into bonds, will buy 9 heavy bombers, 15 fighter planes and 28 medium heavy bombers—a fleet of 52 to add to America's air armada. Clubs purchasing the 9 heavy bombers include according to districts, First, Eastern Shore, Baltimore, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and the Forest Park Woman's Club. Planes of other types were purchased as follows: General Federation of Women's Clubs, heavy bomber - $300,000; Hampstead Woman's Club, fighter plane-$75,000; Greensboro Community, medium heavy bomber, $175,000; St. Michael's fighter plane—$75,000. Federalsburg, fighter plane, $75,000; St. Michael's, fighter plane, $75,000; Hytheham, fighter plane, $75,000; Elkton, medium heavy bomber, $175,000. St. Michael's Junior Club, fighter plane, $75,000; Roland Park Woman's Club, fighter plane, $75,000; Ten Hills, fighter plane, $75,000; Forest Park Juniors, fighter plane, $75,000; Annapolis, fighter plane, $75,000; Annapolis Juniors, fighter plane, $75,000; Linthicum Heights, fighter plane, $75,000; North Beach, medium heavy bomber, $175,-000; Chevy Chase, fighter plane, $75,-000; Progress Woman's Club, medium heavy bomber, $175,000; University Woman's Club, medium heavy bomber, $175,000; Kansas City Delegate Woman's Club, fighter plane, $75,000. Live Mrs. Pierpont declared that the women of Maryland were just getting started and their sales are steadily growing. The details of the campaign are channeled through the Women's Division of the Maryland War Finance Committee, Mrs. Sydney M. Cone, Chairman. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst is president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Messerschmitt plane which has been touring the counties since the opening day of the Campaign ended its journey in Charles county on February 14 and in Prince George's County on February 15.

Picture for Paper

By BARBARA BENEDICT Associated Newspapers. WNU Features.

"THAT Adelaide Evans," said Irene Grant, "has her picture in the paper at least once a week. It does seem as though she'd be afraid of leading folks to think she was deliberately seeking publicity!"

Irene's voice sounded wholly noncommittal, even vague and absent, but Allan, her husband, glancing over the top of the Sunday paper's sporting section, detected a gleam in her eye.

'Jealous?" he asked, ducking out of sight.

"Why, Allan, what a thing to say! Even in fun. Me? Jealous! Why, that's absurd! Who cares about hav-ing their old picture in the paper?" "Every woman on earth," said Allan, still hiding behind the news-

Irene bounded to her feet, thoroughly aroused. "Allan Grant, what a positively stupid thing to say! Every woman! My goodness, I don't care a snap of your fingers about having my picture in the pa-

"Well, I've seen it there. All decked out in your best bib and tucker, too."

"That," said Irene, trying to act indifferent, "is only because I happened to be president of our club and they asked for a photograph." Allan yawned. "Well, why begrudge Adelaide a little publicity if she wants it?" he said, thinking to dismiss the subject. "Because," Irene replied heatedly, "she doesn't deserve it. She deliberately calls up the newspapers and says she's been doing this and that and the other thing, so they'll publish her picture. They must have a dozen on file."

Allan looked at his wife in amazement. "Say, I thought Adelaide was one of your best friends?"

"She is." "She is," Irene repeated. "We've been friends for years and years. But that doesn't alter my opinion of her. I'm at least honest about it."
"And tactful," said Allan sarcastically. He shook his head sadly.

He had never been able to understand women, despite his fifteen years of married life. He checked the remark that had come to his lips, because just then the telephone rang and Irene bounded across the room to answer it.

"Hello!" said Irene, and paused.
"Oh, hello, Adelaide, darling! How are you? Allan and I were just talking about your picture in today's paper. My dear, I think it's a perfect likeness, and it doesn't flatter you a bit. However, do you keep so young looking? . . . What? My picture? Oh, my dear, no. No, really, I couldn't bear the thoughts of it. I haven't had a photo taken for years, and the last one is really so drab looking . . . Yours? Why, my dear, it was charming. It's a pity they can't publish it more often. It gives a touch of prestige to the club, you know . Irene returned to her chair and sat down. The society page lay on the table at her elbow; Adelaide Evans' picture stared back at her. She studied it for a long time, reading over the caption and brief story accompanying it. Irene stopped reading and bit her lip. She glanced up at Allan. But Allan's face was invisible behind the paper. She wanted to say something, but she didn't know exactly how to put it in words. Allan had accused her of wanting her own picture published. What an absurd idea! As if she cared! As if such a thing would affect her one way or another! Five minutes later Allan finished the article he had been reading, and looked around the edge of his paper. The room he discovered, was empty. He stood up, grinning to him-self, remembering Irene's indignation and remembering, too, her telephone conversation with Adelaide Evans.

En route to the kitchen Allan passed by the bedroom door, glanced inside and saw Irene sitting at her desk there. Something about her attitude arrested his attention. He paused and stepped inside. Irene, oblivious to the fact she was being watched, was bent over her desk, studying some papers. Allan came up from behind and glanced over her shoulder. The papers, he discovered, were newspaper clippings. Published photographs of Irene herself, carefully clipped and carefully preserved. There were nine in all. She had laid them out beside each other on the desk, and was comparing each with the photograph of Adelaide Evans, which had appeared that day.

Watching, he saw a slow smile, a smile of satisfaction appear on her lips, and he knew that one of the nine clippings had compared favorably with that of Adelaide Evans. Irene had separated it from the rest and was holding it up for a minute inspection. After a moment she folded it up and tucked it in the pocket of her dress.

Allan retreated as noiselessly as he had entered. He didn't understand but he didn't intend to try. The thing was beyond him. And even when the next morning Irene gave him a letter to mail, and he saw that it was addressed to the society editor of the local newspaper, he made no comment.

Women, he thought, were strange, mysterious people.

Rarest Day of Calendar Has Legal History

That rarest day in the calendar comes around again this year—the twenty-ninth of February. As everybody knows, it was put in every fourth year to pick up that quarter day left over on the end of every year. This way of catching up was introduced by Julius Caesar, who brought an Egyptian astronomer to Rome to reform the calendar.

The extra day was added to February because this was the shortest month, then as now. The Romans wanted it as short as possible, because it was a time of fasting and 'purification' in Pagan times.

In English speaking countries, the year with February 29 is called "leap year," because in that year the calendar jumps over the regular progression of days. That is if a date, say June 12, is on a Monday one year, it falls on Tuesday the following year, unless leap year comes along. Then June 12 is on Wednesday. "Leap" does not refer to weapay's proposative of proposative o to women's prerogative of proposing, or "leaping" at a man, as many people think.

Leap Year Proposals.

It is this curious tradition, however, that interests nearly everyone so much more than any astronomical consideration. Strange to say, both the common and statute law of several nations recognize this right. The first record seems to be a Scotch statute of 1288 setting forth that:

"During ye reign of her most blessit maijestie Margaret, ilk maiden ladie of both high and low estatit, shall hae libertie to speak ye mon she likes. If he refuses (to accept her) for wife, he shall be mulct (fined) in the sum of ane hundred pounds or less, as his estatit may be, except and always if he can make it appeare that he is betrothe to another woman, then he shall be law was rigorously enforced by the canny Scots. "Ane hundred pounds" was a lot of money, and the possibilities of racketeering no doubt occurred to some women. Perhaps the odd bit of legislation was quietly repealed. Nevertheless, somewhat similar laws cropped up on the books of Genoa and Florence, during their days as free city states, and an English book, published in 1606, states that:

"Albeit it has now become a part of the common lawe in regarde to social relations of life that as often as every bissixtile (leap) year doth return, the ladys have the sole privilege during the time it continueth of making love to the men, which they do either by wordes or lookes, as it seemeth proper, and moreover, no man shall be entitled to the benefit of clergy who dothe in any wise treate her proposal with slight or

With all this legal and traditional backing, nevertheless, women do not seem to have responded to their opportunities very often, at least according to the records.

Today's Valentines Reflect

Lighthearted Sentiments Valentine's day again will see greetings going to our men in uniform. Many will strike a lighthearted, affectionate note reflecting the realistic informality of modern lovers whose sentimental expressions are of the gay and humorous school.

For example, one Valentine in this particular category reads: Maybe you're only a PRIVATE to Uncle Sam-

But you're of more than GEN-ERAL interest to me!

But for those who take the affairs of the heart more sedately there are Valentines in the true romantic tradition which this year skillfully blend the stars and stripes with hearts and flowers and are frankly dedicated, "TO MY SWEETHEART IN THE SERVICE."

Homespun Philosophy By Ezra

WE KILL THE OLD RED ROOSTER

"We will kill the old red rooster! We will kill the old red rooster! We will kill the old red rooster!" That's me singing if you can't make out. You see, Ma and me agreed that we would at long last put the axe to that old roosters head. Now never wish nobody any bad luck but think it serves that old rooster just right. He has been too darn sure of himself.

For three long years he has been strutting up and down that chicken pen, master of all he surveys. And for three long years. I have been for three long years I have been carrying him feed and water. All he needs to do is peck it up. Gel darn easy, I say.

As I figure it out, this is an old red roosters day. About four o'clock he wakes up and gets a notion to crow. And sure enough, he's off. For the next hour or so he makes the welkin ring. Nobody within a mile or so can sleep—not a wink. Then he flies down from his roost, flaps his wings and crows some more. These last crows are to let you know that he wants his breakfast. So you carry his feed to him and give him some water. For the next couple of hours he eats what you brought Then you bring him some more. And he eats some more. And so on until at sun down he goes back to the roost. Boy, that's living, eh!

But, he reminds me a lot of some people. Couldn't mention them by name, but I've known 'em. All they do is sleep and eat. They like to call themselves "blue bloods." They say their great, great-grandparents came over in the Mayflower. Well, I'd rather be a red blooded he-man. Don't matter to me if my great great, grandparents came over on cattle boat. I'm here and that's what makes me proud. My fore-bears had sense enough to get but of a place where they didn't belong, and come over here to the "land of the free and the home of the brave." And now that I am here, I am going to do all that I can to take advantage The records do not show that this of the opportunities this great land offers me. I am not satisfied with being a "play boy." I am going to do more than sleep and eat and play

I am going to produce.
I tried to teach that old red rooster of mine this same lesson, but I got nowhere. I began feeding him "Lay or Bust" laying mash. He didn't lay or did he bust. So now its the

I almost forgot to tell you—the preacher is coming to help eat him. So he'll have a good end after all. He'll enter the ministry!

GOLDEN TEXT—The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.—Mark 10:45.

Ambition to be great is not wrong -provided one has a proper conception of greatness, and seeks it in a right way. Every one of us should be our very best, not for selfish reasons, but for God's glory.

The disciples were earnest and eager to have a place of honor with the Lord in glory, but even in that holy purpose they became selfish and argumentative. Jesus gives several marks of a truly great man.

Greatness Means Being-

I. Not First, but Last (9:33-35). The way of the world is to seek the place of "No. 1 man"-to be looked up to, honored, and served by all. True greatness takes the last place, the place of a servant; and lo, God regards that as the first place.

It is not a question of timid diffidence, or self-effacement, but a willingness to take the humble place in order to serve all.

II. Not Proud, but Humble (9:36,

"Great" people of this world have no time for children. Let them be cared for by servants, teachers, anyone at all, but not by their "distinguished" parents.

But Jesus said that the one who set aside human pride and received a child with humility of heart and mind-and in His name-received the Lord who gave them life-spiritual as well as physical-and is interested in them; in fact, He is with them and hence when we receive them in His name, He is there!

III. Not Exclusive, but Co-operative (9:38, 39)

John, quick to apprehend spiritual truth, saw in the teaching of Christ concerning the little child the condemnation of something he had

The man who casts out demons, or who gives the disciple of Jesus a cup of water, in His name-that is. with true faith in Christ, and in His power, and for His glory-must be a believer. He may not belong to our group or circle, he may not speak our language, he may not use our methods, but if he is serving Christ we should not forbid him or speak evil of him. You and I may not like one another's appearance, or voice, or methods, but let us love and co-operate with one another for Christ's sake!

IV. Not Important, but Approachable (10:13-16)

Some who think they are great, pride themselves on being hard to reach-protected from the rabble and their problems by secretaries and servants.

The disciples had built up such an idea of the importance of Christ in their own minds. He had never given them any ground for it either by word or deed.

So the man who is truly great follows in the Master's footsteps. He is approachable, kind, has time for simple folk and little children. If that isn't true of a man he is not great-no matter what he may think of himself or what others may say about him.

V. Not a Supervisor, but a Servant (10:42-44)

Christianity is not organized after the manner of secular government (v. 42). Much of the mischief that has come to pass in the church is the result of "running the church" as an organization, when it should be allowed to develop as a living organism.

The way up is down. That is always true in the spiritual realm. The Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, yea, to give His very life (v. 45). Shall not those who bear His name walk the same path of humble self-denial?

Anyone who observes with even a little care knows that the church of Jesus Christ is hindered most seriously by the presence of pride and selfish ambition. Some people will not work unless they can rule.

Are there then no Christians who humbly serve the Lord? Yes, praise His name, there are many, and wherever they are found they are the salt of the earth.

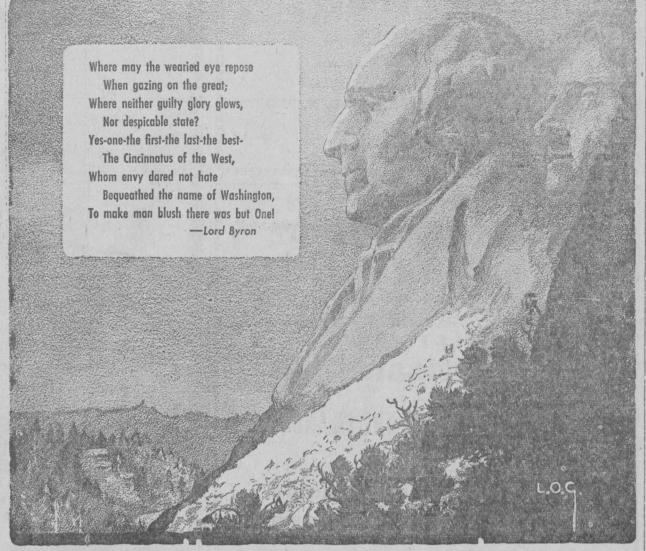

VI. Not Unselfish, but Sacrificial

(10:45). The world is full of people who want to be served. Their little personalities swell with pride and pleasure if someone else cringes and bows, and serves.

There is nothing commendable about being served. The great and good thing is to serve. The Son of man-Himself the Lord of glory, the One who might have called legions of angels to do His will—came "not to be ministered unto but to minister." That service meant going about doing good even when He was exhausted and worn. But it meant far more than that, for it took Him to the cross where He gave "his life a ransom" for us. Are we ready to learn of Him?

NESQUEHONING, PA. - Sergt. Edward Koomar sat reading by the door of an army hut in Greenland. His companions, intent on a card game, shouted:

"Shut the door." Koomar looked at the door. It Then he looked up. The roof was gone-torn away by a 165-mile-anhour gale.

That, says Koomar, is life in Greenland. He's glad to be home on furlough after 18 months of it.

Here Are Measurements

Of Average Inductee PHILADELPHIA, PA.—According to Philadelphia quartermaster depot, largest organization of its kind in the world, the average American doughboy is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 144 pounds, has a chest measurement of 33% inches, a 31inch waistline, wears a 91/2D shoe, and a size 7 hat. However, after a few months of army chow, all measurements except the waist and hat expand.

Ash Wednesday Services

With Ash Wednesday, February 23, churches throughout the world begin observance of the season of Lent. Here an army camp chaplain conducts services in his chapel. This year religious leaders of all denominations point to a resurgence of religion. Part of this is attributed HARRY TROUT, Auct. to the impact of war, with servicemen and civilians alike seeking the solace of religion in time of stress. Church leaders express the belief that the tendency will continue to grow, in peace as well as war.

Liberator Drops Bomb

Down Japs' Smokestack

WITH THE FIFTH U. S. AIR FORCE IN NEW GUINEA.—The reconnaissance unit had to see the pictures before the Liberator crew could be credited with a direct hit on an 8,000-ton Jap freighter.

The unit's photographic officer reported shortly and gleefully to Bombardier Lieut. Don Scurlock, Butler.

The Liberator's second 1,000pounder had dropped "down the smokestack."

For good measure, Observer-Bombardier Lieut. Elwood Hisey, Harrisonburg, Va., manned the front guns and brought down one enemy plane during the attack.

NEW YORK .- As its latest invention for the amusement of servicemen who have lost their sight, the American Foundation for the Blind has devised a checker game with magnetized pieces, Dr. Robert B. Irwin, sightless executive director of the foundation, has disclosed. It is planned to make the game available later to all blind persons.

One of the features of the board is that it can be used almost anywhere without the game being upset by an accidental jolt.

The board is fashioned so that playing squares are metal and countersunk, while inactive ones are of wood. Only the playing squares attract the checkers. One player uses round checkers and the other square

He's Had Basic Training Five Times; Now He's 55

CAMP DAVIS, N. C .- Pvt. Alfred E. Halpin of this army anti-aircraft post believes he is one of the oldest privates in the army—he's 55—and he is sure he is one of the best trained.

Five times since he donned khaki for World War II, Halpin has been put through basic training, that grueling period of hardening up that every soldier approaches with dread and completes with relief. Most soldiers undergo it only once, but Hal-pin's career has seen him switched from one outfit to another, and nearly every time he changed just in time to get in on basic.

Halpin saw active service in World War I. He is now a member of the public relations staff.

Dog Days Are Gone, So Fleas Now Ride Trolleys

CLEVELAND .- According to an unidentified complainant, dog days are over for fleas, as they now ride on trolleys. The young woman said that while riding to work on Cleveland's street cars, she a her friends had been bitten on the backs of their legs by fleas. She said she had decided the fleas hide in the straw seats in street cars and then come out and bite when the ladies sit down.

War-Time

Now that telephone materials have gone to war, we must get along with the facilities we have until a happier day. By using these facilities to the best advantage, you can help keep service good for everyone, including yourself. Try following these simple rules:-

- 1. Be sure you have the right number before placing a call. Consult your directory.
- Answer all calls as promptly as possible.
- 3. If you're on a party line, apply the Golden Rule to your use of the line.
- Don't ask "Information" for numbers that are listed in the directory.
- Hang up carefully after each call. Don't let a book, or other object, hold the receiver off the hook.
- 6. Take good care of the telephone instrument and cord in your home and office. They're made of scarce and critical materials.
