OUR SERVICE MEN Many and Varied are their Experiences

The Carroll Record,

Dear Sirs: There is not much to write about, but just the same old story of chang-ing from one base to another. I have packed, unpacked, packed and un-packed that it is getting to be a habit. About every three months is moving time for me, and the only thing good about it is the change of scenery. At this base, we start to fly the Navy way on the plane called the N2S. The N2S is very easy to fly

N2S. N2S. The N2S is very easy to fly and will stand very rough treatment. Along with the flying, we get more navigation, code and blinker. They really beat the navigation into our heads as they tell us the Navy lost more planes by bad navigation than from enemy gun fire It is time I close and go to class. I wish to thank you very much for the Carroll Record and I would ap-preciate it very much if you will send Somewhere in Italy.

I wanted to write you a line since I hit this place called Italy. Everything seems back in the old horse and buggy days. You only see a few cars. Mostly a horse pulling a cart. The homes are made of stone, with the products I have seen are wines, figs, and almond nuts. People ought to stay healthy. Plenty of goats here

We have plenty to eat. Our food is very good, so I can't say anything about the cooks. You guessed it,tents are what we sleep in we are just as happy here in them as if we had barracks. The soldiers' moral is very good, we know this is the real thing pot a training acheal hack in the U not a training school back in the U S. A. I, like others wanted to do our duty to win this war by going over. We got the chance. We'll not leave you Dickensheets, Mrs. Lloyd Flickinger and sons, Junior and Marvin. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Keilholtz have received word of the safe arrival of their son Merwyn, somewhere in Morth Africa. For the past eight months he had been in training at Keesler, Miss., and Sioux Falls, South Dakota. We got the chance. We'll not leave you down now by any means. We are proud to serve here for the land and our homes we love. You people are to be thankful for your swell work on the production lines. We can fight over here but it takes you on the home front to keep things rolling. My work in the same Medical Dept.

ENGINEERS FIRE FIGHTERS

Dogged Engineers soldiers spring into immediate action to combat fires of every nature at a U. S. General Depot in England. Millions of dollars worth of equipment have been saved from flames of gasoline, paint, wood and combustible materials stor-ed and used there.

In cooperation with the British Na-tional Fire Service, they provide fire protection to all installations within a 5 mile radius. The equipment of each unit is moved into the other stations as a precautionary measure on the moment one becomes engaged. Unlike the colorful fire engine of a municipality or of armed fire depart-ment chief conveyance there is a Ford 325 fire truck painted in the usual Justina Crosby, discussed and dem-onstrated "Cleaning Sewing Ma-chines." EASTER 1944

It is in the spirit of humility and purpose that we will go out this Easter morning to celebrate the great festival of the Church-the day that commemorates not the sorrows of earthly life, not the Way of the Cross, but the Resurrection-the Victory of the Spirit over the flesh.

Day by day we climb to our Golgothas. We cannot shift our burdens shirk the steep hills and the heavy weight that seems as unbearable as it appears interminable.

We celebrate this Easter in a spirit of solemnity. To many of us the permanent jobs for all. coming months will bring the end of all that made life seem worth living. Far too many of us will be forced, by the irreligious and inhuman gluttony of the dictators for loot and for power over the lives of men, to tread the narrow ways of sorrow. No one of us will be unaffected by this war.

No weight is too heavy, however, no way too long when we know that at people will have when the war stops the end there will be an Easter morning. It was this translation of the investments than they ever had belessons of religion into the terms of fore. "What shall it profit a and lose his own soul?"

NO TAX RABBITS LEFT IN HAT

After reading scholarly talks on our tax problems, and after listening to arguments for and against different methods of taxation, one fact stands out clearly-everybody and his dog must now pay sacrificial taxes, and government extravagance must be cut as drastically as taxes are increased.

If we fail to do this, we admit that we prefer to pass on to the boys at the front not only the risk and limb, but the obligation of an unnecessarily high public debt. We make no sacrifice in buying interest-bearing bonds which create debt and in perpetuating every boondoggling political project, while our fighting men sacrifice their lives and opportunities and families to preserve us safe from hardship at home.

Unless those enjoying war profits and war wages pay heavy taxes now to hold down the national debt and prevent the devaluation of the dollar. and unless government expenses are cut to the bone, there will be no chance of lowering the tax rate after the war so that industry and the to another's shoulders. There will be after the war a big demand for many things which cannot now be produced. That demand will create a great market for goods. To keep the demand going permanently, and sell enough goods to provide work for all who want it, the element of salesmanship will come in. It will be necessary to show the people that they want and need the things the producers are making. Many men and women will need training in the art of selling goods. There needs to be a keener sense of man if he shall gain the whole world, justice in the world, which will listen to the genuine complaints and grievances of foreign nations, and economic groups in our own country. If the voice of sympathy and understanding could be powerful enough to redress these grievances, the danger of conflict would be reduced.

Human nature cannot be changed over night, and many evils will still plague the world after this war. The nations that want peace should be able to restrain the military activities of the war-making nations before they get started on any new conflict. This will call for thorough cooperation and maintenance of strong military power .- The Caroline Sun.

SAVAGERY

The story of the present war can not be correctly told while it is going on, for there is so much of concealment, so much of propaganda, and so much deliberate lying among all the forces engaged that it is impossible to sift out the truth

But one thing is clear, and it is not a cause for pride or even saitisfaction. The civilization of the world has not been moving forward, but backward. The dreams of half a century ago that war would be no more were rudely shattered in 1914, and then after 1918 the nations set themselves, it was supposed, to seeing that such an example of folly should not happen again. Calmly they openly declared their renunciation of war. But what happened? At that very moment they were devoting science and invention to the perfection of the implements of savagery.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

ONE fine day, when the war is over, there will be a full line of new equipment available again, with all kinds of postwar improvements. And when that day comes, you're going to need a lot of it, because with the longer hours and the harder work the war has brought, your present equipment, even with the care you give it, is wearing out pretty fast.

When the day comes, whether you have the money to get what you need, depends on what you do-now. If you are saving your dollars in War Bonds, as thousands on farms and ranches all over the country are doing, the new equipment can all be yours. New paint and repairs for fences and buildings. New machinery. An electric water system, perhaps, and a superduper tractor. New modern conveniences for the house. Wouldn't the family enjoy those!

Then, when our boys in service come back to their homes, they'll find things in good running order and what about that boy of yours? Wouldn't he be pretty thrilled to help you run that kind of a place? Right now, of course, those same War Bonds are helping to provide the fighting equipment the boys are using. But after the war they'll help you put the farm back on a prosperous peacetime basis. They're the safest, easiest way to save. Uncle Sam stands behind them. You can buy them at bank, postoffice, or Production Credit Association, in large or small denominations to suit yourself. War Bonds are doing double dutybacking the boys now-and their future, too! Keep right on buying them.

70U NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get ½ more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3. Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he bas to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TO WIN THIS WAR. DETROIT LETTER

There is always something turning up in Detroit that makes the head lines of the papers for days at a time, and this past week the occurrence that has done this was the disappear. ance and subsequent finding of her mutilated body, of a 14-year-old girl. The crime was committed in the north western part of the city, where a large number of trailer camps are sit-uated. The place where the crime was committed is a city dump, and the body was found half unclothed, by a man searching for scrap articles, on Monday, and the Police have been working on the case ever since, without much success. The girl had been stabbed in the right side and struck over the head. Match Stick, String Aids

Damaged Plane to Safety

LONDON .- How an RAF Lancaster navigator, Sergt. J. E. Alves from St. Kitts, Dutch West Indies, plotted the homeward course for his badly damaged bomber with the aid of a matchstick and a piece of string can now be told. The Lancaster had just completed bombing the target at Kassell when an enemy night-fighter whipped in to attack. A cannon-shell wounded the rear-gunner but by successful maneuvering the pilot managed to escape from the fighter.

The ship was in a bad way, being practically defenseless and hav-ing lost a lot of fuel from the damaged main tank. The pilot knew that there was only one thing to doto get home as fast as possible. Sergeant Alves then discovered that all his maps had been destroyed by a cannon shell from the enemy fighter, and that his dividers were missing, so he improvised new ones with a matchstick and a piece of string.

With these improvised instruments and a small-scale map of Europe, he kept the pilot on the course during the long flight back to England.

Sisters Are Reunited

By Chance Conversation SEATTLE .- Wo women, working side by side ers' helpers at the Association apyard, learned through a chance conversation that they were sisters.

They are Mrs. June Schults who came here from Marshalltown, Iowa, and Mrs. Sandra San Juan, Des Moines, Iowa.

"We just started talking about how we couldn't get our birth certificates," Mrs. Schults explained. "Sandra asked me if I thought I was born in Missouri, and I said, 'no, Iowa.'

"Suddenly Sandra looked at me funny, and asked me, 'was your name Fiddler?'

"I told her that was correct. She asked about no younger sisters, Alice and Frances Marion I told her what I knew, how Alice and I had at Tahlequah. been placed in an orphans' home when we were very small.

Triplets Get Fun Out of Nurse Job

Maryland Sisters Take Care Of War Wounded.

BENEDICT, MD .- The army air forces nurses' corps was the answer to a problem for the Chapellear triplets of this place.

They look alike and think alike; and they decided always to dress alike and to do the same things.

Sometimes it was difficult in civilian life, but G. I. uniforms and hospital routine made it all easy for the 21-year-old sisters. They volunteered as nurses, passed entrance examinations with almost identical marks and were assigned together as second lieutenants at the army air forces regional station hospital occupying the former Miami Biltmore hotel at Coral Gables.

"And are we glad we did," says Ellen Rose Chapellear, who outranks her sisters because she is 10 minutes older than Elizabeth Flavia and 20 minutes older than Mary Virginia

"It's fun being a nurse-particularly when you're triplets," she claims.

Life always has been fun for the triplets. In high school at Hughesville, Md., they liked to change seats and pretend they were each other. That was easy since they stood onetwo-three in class throughout high school.

Now they substitute on tours of special duty. 'All three take turns on the telephone switchboard and on other hospital jobs.

They have no trouble among them-selves—even about boy friends.

"We haven't begun to think about that yet," says Ellen Rose. "We want to keep on being nurses."

The sisters are on general assignment at the hospital which receives overseas casualties and serves air force personnel in this area. There is even a maternity ward for wives of service men, and Ellen Rose is on duty there. They are not particularly interested in an overseas assignment.

"We like it here," they say.

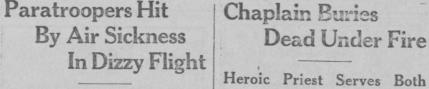

Lack of Pants No Bar to

Yanks Attending Church WASHINGTON .- Such superficialities as the absence of pants didn't keep American soldiers on chilly Attu island from going to religious services, army chaplains said in a report released by the war department.

"I was holding a service in a hos-pital mess tent," said Chaplain Francis W. Read of Glendale, Calif. "A lieutenant came to me after the service and said: 'Chaplain, please excuse me for coming to church without my pants.'

"All he had on was a pair of long underdrawers and a field jacket. He explained he had had his pants cut off so the doctor could get at his wounds, and that it was a choice of coming to church without his pants or not coming.'

Read reported that the American soldier, beneath his periodic curs-ing and rough exterior, was deeply

"How about the jump itself, when you finally arrived?" asked Major Lawrence T. Smith of Chicago.

Major Smith, who was a military intelligence officer on the American general staff, was hit in the head by a fragment when German planes bombed American forces establishing a beachhead in the Sicilian invasion. He is a former engineer with the Chicago park board.

Lieutenant Pappas grinned.

"Whoosh! . . . That wind sure slapped us around when we stepped off the plane," he said. "The enemy must have been waiting for us. It was dark, but they shot so many tracer bullets at us it looked like the Fourth of July.

"Hitting the ground knocked me out. When I came to, I started crawling on my stomach to find other members of our detachment. I must have crawled hours, when I met six of our men. One had a leg broken. We dragged him along, and then more men joined us. By this time it was daylight.

"Ahead of us was a big barracks building. We started shooting at it and they blasted back at us. I was flat on my stomach when a burst of machine gun fire hit right in front of my face. Lead sprayed off rocks into my right eye. I plastered a bandage on it and aimed with my left eye.

Repair Damaged Roofs

Maintenance authorities recommend that roofs of homes, garages, barns and other buildings be checked for loose of missing shingles at least twice a year. Loose or damaged shingles can be replaced easily and prompt attention will help avoid a major break in the roof. If the entire roof is in a run-down condition. it is best to reroof rather than try to patch up the damage. Among the materials available for reroofing are asbestos cement shingles. Being noncombustible, they protect the building from the danger of roof-communicated fires.

Asbestos Protects Gunne.s

Asbestos, the mineral which provides the silky fireproof fibers used to weave the suits, hoods and gloves of turret gunners on battleships, is one of the most durable of all minerals. Its unique fibrous characteristic, plus the fact that it will not rot. rust or deteriorate, has given it a wide variety of uses. Among the many products in which asbestos is used are brake linings, asbestos cement shingles and sidings, pipe and boiler coverings and cloth.

Juror's Sore Jaw Used in Appeal in Burglary Case

CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA .- A sore jaw figured in a plea for a new trial here.

Viola Gallagher, appealing conviction for theft, submitted the affidavit of one of the jurors, Thomas Moore. Moore swore he had a painful jaw from a tooth extraction, but that he consistently had voted for acquittal up to the last ballot. Then, with his jaw causing him more and more anguish, he said he was told that if a verdict was not reached, the judge was going home. He attested:

"I knew I couldn't stand it if I was locked up over the week-end. so I voted with the others.'

"After two hours they surrendered. Then, to our surprise, we found out that another detachment of American parachutists had been attacking the barracks at the same time from the other side."

Lieut. Samuel O. Rice Jr. of Chicago, a concussion patient, asked if the enemy surrendered quietly. "Well," Lieutenant Pappas replied, "there were a few incidents. A German soldier ran out of the barracks and dived beneath a truck. One of the Americans threw a grenade beneath the truck and then jumped up on the running board, waiting for it to explode. The German dived out again, but our man caught him and killed him. Then he investigated to find out why the grenade hadn't exploded. "A dud?" suggested Major Smith.

"No," said Lieutenant Pappas. "In his excitement the American forgot to release the grenade pin.'

CHICO, CALIF .- Stricken blind suddenly while he was at the controls of a one-man training plane, Aviation Cadet R. D. Seale, 23, of Taft. Calif., landed the craft successfully yesterday under calm guidance from a radio control tower.

Lieut. Col. C. W. Thaxton, in the army field control tower, heard Seale radio that he had gone blind. Thaxton talked to him calmly, instilling confidence in Seale. Every move of the plane was directed by Thaxton to Seale over the radio, even to a sharp bank necessary to bring the plane to the ground safely. Physicians at the army hospital said Seale's blindness was of a temporary nature.

MILWAUKEE. - A holdup man was shot and killed and three others captured today because their intended victim objected to losing his draft card.

Police said the dead man was Anthony Scaffidi, 29 years old, a former convict, shot and killed by a patrolman attracted by cries and the sound of a scuffle.

The intended victim, Eugne Reichman, 27, a bartender, said he "got mad and started swinging" when the four refused to return his wallet. containing $170 and the draft card.

A Whole Freedom

When Patrick Henry said, "Give me liberty or give me death," he was not too analytical, if we have the story straight. And we probably have, because his speech was too short for extensive revision. Gov. Henry did not take-off on freedom from this, and freedom from He said he wanted liberty, that. which suggests something alive and all in one piece, rather than a cut-up carcass from a butcher shop.

Whenever we catalog things, we define them; and when we define things, we limit their application. Experimental dissection is nice work in some fields but it's hard on the victim. Our liberty we don't want butchered. I believe the worst thing that ever could happen to Patrick Henry's beloved liberty would be having it drawn and quartered into four freedoms, especially when only two of them have any value whatever.

Two Are Decoys Consider guaranteed "freedom from want" just for an example. It's a typical paper moon; worth-less and out of reach. Nothing can ever liberate a people from want but their own work and wits. I learned when very young to believe the statement of Jesus: "Ye have the poor with you always," and mature experience has often since impressed this truth upon me.

Guaranteed "freedom from fear" is even more like a will-o'-the-wisp than freedom from want. Fear itself is a human characteristic of which some people undoubtedly have too much and others too little, but liberty from it involves changing human nature. Fear will never be caught in a trap or locked in a prison. The more you think about such a liberty the less it means.

Two Are Real

"Religious liberty" is different. It has value. It is the foundation supporting the pillars of all human freedom. In fact, the essence of religion is liberty and freedom. If we lose that, we lose everything. A soul's right to worship God is just what led a large share of our forbears to this country. They paid for religious liberty with a bigger outlay of blood, sweat and tears per family than any subsequent American victory ever cost.

"Freedom of speech" is something else we can't do without too long. Even a thinking and powerful race can be enslaved without it, as Germany was. Of course, when a peaceful nation is fighting for its life is no time to squabble over who will face the microphone, but freedom of speech is still a cardinal liberty. Wherever men get smacked down for speaking up, the people are in bondage.

New Freedoms?

America's cherished liberty is already bought and paid for. We can keep it as long as we understand and appreciate it. Along with respeech our Constitution guarantees us many things. One product of freedom you rarely hear mentioned these days is the Property Right. That's the liberty to earn something and own something; to have things and manage them. No matter who belittles this, it is a rare and precious privilege

AS THE bus drew near camp Chris began to worry; wonder and worry. What would actors with whom he had worked think if they knew that he, Stumpy Chris, was the words of his agent:

"Are you sure that you want to do this, Chris? You're just hitting the big time now and off you go on a wild-goose chase. Making the army camps is all right for some stunts but you're different. You'll be taking a big cut in salary. Stick with me and I'll get you thirty weeks of the best time. What are you going to do when the USO closes this performance?"

"Don't worry, Gus," Chris answered, "I'll mail you the 10 per cent as usual; it won't be quite the money that you've been getting from me for the last couple of years, though.'

"I don't want any commission on a deal like this," Gus replied heatedly. "If you are set on joining this camp show unit, I donate my share to patriotism."

Thus Chris had joined "Gals, Guys, Gags and Fun," latest production of USO Camp Shows, Inc. Sure, he knew that guys like him were getting their heads shot off overseas and he was still hoofing. So what? He hadn't asked for his draft deferment.

These were the things troubling Stumpy Chris as the bus pulled up to the entrance. Corporal Piney of the Special Services office was waiting at the post gate to meet and direct the troupe to the hospital. So it was to be a hospital this time? What a pleasant thought!

"Special Services sent me down here to see that none of you ham and eggers shows up lost, strayed or stolen," the corporal said.

"You talk as if you've been in show business yourself, Corporal," Chris addressed the newcomer. "Ever play a split week in Des Moines?"

"Yeah, I used to do a pretty fair magic turn," Corporal Piney replied. "You're Stumpy Chris, aren't you? We shared the bill in Des Moines a couple of years ago; remember? Some jump for me, huh; magician to soldier."

"Right, Corporal," Chris said, "sure I'm Stumpy Chris. How does your uniform fit by now?" "Pretty good. This army life doesn't do a fellow any harm. Guess that they won't get you for a while yet?

"No," Chris answered disgustedly. "You know these draft boards; they stick a guy who wants in the army in 4-F and put someone who'd give an eyetooth to stay out of it in 1-A. Mine's 4-F."

"Oh, well, you're doing your part," the corporal said in an understanding tone. "We need USO shows here; can't get enough of them for Say, it looks like we're the boys.

THE COUNTRY CHURCH

No matter what the problem may be the Country Church sets men's hearts afire. When her bell chimes out the hour of worship people heed the call. They come, not to a service of pomp and ceremony, but to one of stately beauty and simplicity. Here men's souls are shaped and molded for an

The states invested $1,500,000,000 of surplus funds in government bonds during 1943 and decreased their gross indebtedness by nearly $1,000,000,000. Altogether, a reduction of 17.5 per cent in the over-all gross debts of the states has been made since 1940.

Soap Waste

It is estimated that the average American, young and old, wastes the equivalent of two cakes of soap during a single year by careless acts, such as leaving it in water unnecessarily, putting it into a wet soap dish, and by throwing away slivers.

almost to the hospital."

Glancing from a window of the bus, Chris noticed that a large building with a red cross painted the length of the roof had come into view. "Is that the recreation hall?" he asked.

Corporal Piney nodded. "They got a stage to work on?"

Again the corporal nodded. Entering the building, Chris and his company were informed by a cheerful Red Cross Gray Lady that they would have fifteen minutes until curtain time. Upon further inquiry. Chris found that the building contained no dressing rooms. He wondered just what the army expected of a person anyway. What a life! Fifteen minutes later, to the second, the audience began to file in. Dressed in bathrobes and pajamas they presented a rather bedraggled appearance. These fellows had seen plenty. What would they think of a 4-F civilian dancer?

Chris waited impatiently while the Carter twins finished amid a series of long-drawn-out whistles. It was tough to follow a sister team. Well, at least he could thank his lucky stars that he didn't follow the animal act.

"There's your cue, Chris." Stumpy Chris made his way to the center of the stage. They were stuck with him now. They'd have to like it.

"Say! That guy certainly has a lot on the ball!" a tall soldier, arm in sling, exclaimed to Corporal Piney who was standing at his side. "Can you tie that? Here I am with a broken wing feeling sorry for myself, and a one-legged guy comes out and goes through a terrific dance routine. I should complain, ha!" "A lot on the ball?" the corporal replied enthusiastically. "That's an understatement. He's tops. I ought to know; I worked with him before the army got me."

Later, reflecting upon the evening, Stumpy Chris' heart warmed. Yes, they were just like the youngsters he had known in France. This was another war but they hadn't changed. Maybe he did have only one good leg; he could still show the best of them a thing or two about clog dancing.

CHRIST'S VICTORY OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT: I Corinthians 15:41-58. GOLDEN TEXT: Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.—I Corinthians 15:57.

"If there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen: and if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain" (I Cor. 15:13, 14).

In other words, the truth of the resurrection is an indispensable foundation stone upon which the structure of Christian doctrine rests. Beware of those who would spiritualize or explain it away!

The facts are there-fully proved and dependable; there is no need for doubt or question.

In our lesson we find: I. The Great Change (vv. 41-50). Since it is obvious that our present bodies are not suitable for the spiritual world (v. 50), and that there comes, sooner or later (and almost always, it seems, too soon!), an end to their existence, there must be a radical transforming change. This takes place in the resurrection of the body.

.To make such a blessed-and to the human mind, almost inconceivable-truth clear, Paul uses the effective method of comparison and contrast. Following his skillful use of the illustration of the sowing of grain, which dies that it may live again (I Cor. 15:35-39), he gives us a picture of the resurrection body.

That which we must put away in the silent earth at the end of life's day is a natural body, weak and lack-ing eternal glory (v. 43). It has al-ready shown the evidences of decay and corruption, which we know shall be completely manifested in a short time. Marvelous as it has been as an earthly body, it cannot go with us into eternity (vv. 47, 48), for it is natural and not at home in the spiritual world.

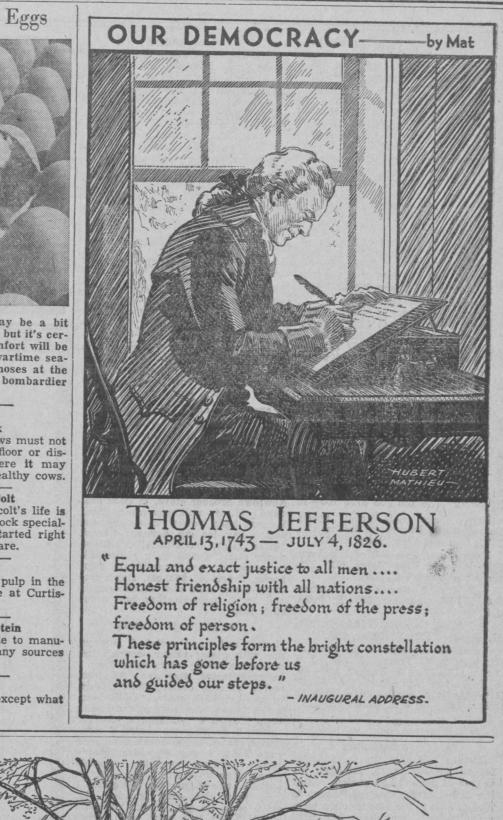

Note, then, the great change that takes place. In the resurrection, the body for the eternal activity of the believer stands out as glorious, incorrupt and incorruptible, powerful, spiritually quickened, and heavenly. What more could be said?

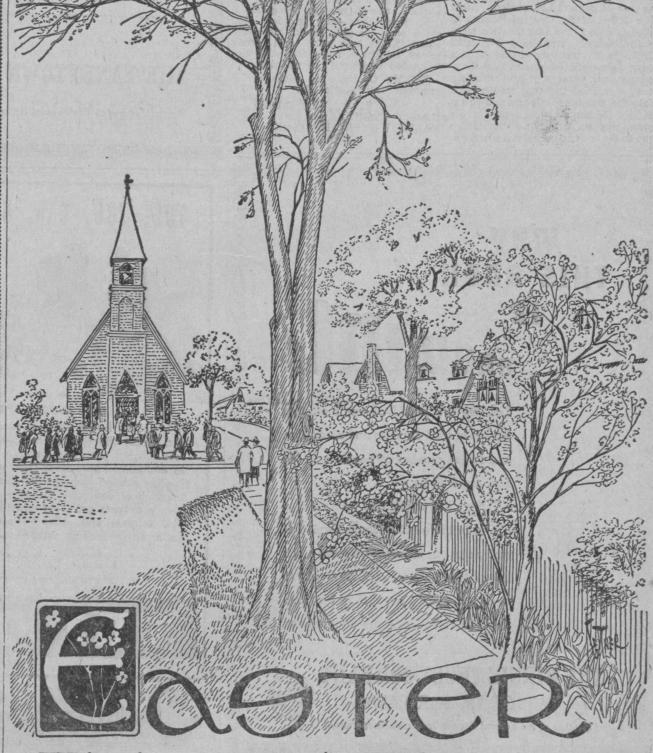

Here we stand amazed and at the same time encouraged by the revelation of what God has in store for us who believe on Christ. Death does not end all-it is only the beginning of real fullness of life and usefulness for the Christian.

And all that is because of— II. The Great Victory (vv. 51-57).

Death is an enemy, indeed man's great enemy. There are those who have tried to deny that fact, to explain it away. They talk about death as "the great adventure," etc., but when one actually comes to face it, the truth is realized. It is an enemy.

But in Christ, death is a conquered enemy. The blessed mes-sage of Easter day is that "death is swallowed up in victory" (v. 54). Death could not hold our Lord (v. 57), and He was the "first fruits of them that sleep" (v. 20). This assures us that because He lives, we too, who believe on Him, shall live. So death has lost its sting, and the grave its victory (v. 56). With Paul we cry out today from the depths of our beings, "Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ" (v. This is a day of joy, of singing, of victorious faith.

But the joy of Easter is not simply something to warm one's heart.

III. The Great Incentive (v. 58). Living for Christ and serving Him in this world is our greatest privilege, but we are all so human that we need encouragement. We need an incentive.

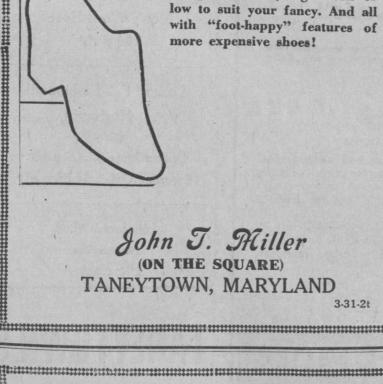

The Bible speaks much of the re-wards of God to those who are faithful, and gives many assurances that we are not engaged in a vain task. At times it seems as though men only reject, and the work of the Lord moves but slowly, if at all.

Let us not be discouraged or disheartened. We follow and serve a victorious Christ, One who has triumphed over death and hell. What we do for Him is never done in vain. Note the helpful thought here. We are to be "unmovable," and yet "abounding." That seems paradoxical, but it is not, for it is only the life steadfast and unmovable at the center which can abound at the circumference.

That center is the resurrected Christ, and when we are established in Him, we are ready to live the abundant life for Him.

Easter is a glad day for a believer, but it is a sad day for the unbeliever. He may attempt to maintain an outward appearance of joy, but he will know in his heart that the message of the day is definitely not for him. And it is, for today he may by faith take as his Saviour the Risen One and enter into fullness of joy in Him. So many people "celebrate" Easter all their lives, year after year, but never truly "keep the feast." May many such friends make this 'Easter day, 1944, the beginning of a new life in Christ!
