Senate Bill No. 1161 which would socialize medicine, was discussed at length from the floor. This Bill if passed would not only socialize medicine, it would make political hirelings of the medical profession, regiment our hospitals and clinics, deprive the individual of his right to choose a Doctor, (one would be assigned to you whether you liked him or not) add nearly three and three-quarter bil-lions of dollars to our already un-bearable tax bill, one-third of which would be wasted in administering the act create another gigantic Bureau, (any Doctor worthy of the name will tell us that we are already suffering from a severe case of "Bureaucratitis"

Rev. Chas. S. Owen gave us a talk on "The Community Spirit" the text of which follows:

The invitation to speak tonight reminded me of a letter someone re-cently wrote the Draft Board. It said:

"Dear Sir: I have your invitation to report for reclassification. I beg to decline for I am perfectly satis-fied with my old classification of 4F".

When I was asked by your presi-dent to speak I declined the invita-tion saying that I was perfectly sat-isfied with my old classification as a humble member of the audience and had no desire to be re-classified and made speaker of the evening.

I gave many reasons for declining this surprising invitation with which you have honored me

Since 1940 the members and attendants of the Christian Science Churches of Baltimore, have been engaged in making garments to be shipped abroad and distributed among the needy in the devastated areas

Units of Christian Science workers, similar to that represented by the Joint War Relief Committee, of Baltimore, have been organized in more than 1500 branch churches and societies in this country, the gar-ments and other articles which these units have made and shipped abroad since 1940, represents a value nearly two and three quarter million dollars

Relief is not limited to members of the Christian Science faith who are in want, as no distinctions in distribution are made on account of race, color, or creed. It suffices only to know that a person is in immediate need of help. Contributions of cash and of garments by Christian Scientists already bulk large, the destruction of life and property which the war has wrought is so appalling, that very much more aid is not only needed now, but will continue to be needed when postwar rehabilitation and restoration set in.

A soldier on leave and his intended bride waited in the anti-room of a church one Sunday morning and asked the minister to marry them at once. The preacher examined their creden-tials and said, "I will be pleased to marry you after the morning service, meantime be seated with the waiting audience"

Just before the Doxology the minister came to the chancel rail and an-neunced "I have a delightful surprise ----now will those who wish to get married please come forward." Aftera few moments of stunned silence, the much embarrassed young soldier and his bride-to-be nesitatingly started up the aisle followed hopefully by 6 blushing maidens from the congregation.

SPEAKING OF DELINQUENCY

The Eastern Shore Times recently carried this editorial:

There was a tremendous flurry a while back over juvenile delinquency. It swept across the country. Study committees were named and there were long discourses from the pulpit and in the press. Public reaction reached a high point because of several lurid incidents, involving juveniles in crime of waywardness. The common thought was that excessive delinquency was induced by war conditions. The industrial centers parents often were away from home, busy at war jobs. Money was plentiful and the youngsters had a free rein.

The spasm of attention is subsiding. But it should not die. Juvenile delinquency is a year around presence, in time of peace or war. It may be more pronounced at the moment, because of war conditions, but there never will come a time when every effort should not be expended to keep "teen agers from getting into trouble.

The answer lies not in governmental regulation, nor in study committees. It will be found in the homes, in the attitude of parents, and in the right thing; it wants clear recreation may be turned amusements of any kind are permitted to operate in Toronto on Sunday. "I addressed a congregation of 1,400 persons," he said, "and I am sure that the same program here at home would attract less than half that number, with so many diversions available."

-77-RELIGION IN CANADA

Sunday, in Canada, is set aside as a day of worship. Young and old flock to Sunday School and services and all churches are crowded. With the movies closed for the day, with no other entertainment allowed, with strict regulations governing the sale of liquor at all times, the residents go to church.

Our friend came home, devoutly wishing that a similar situation existed in the U.S.

This item recalls some experiences of thirty-five years ago when we had part in the organization of the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States, and attended a meeting of a similar organization in Canada, which was held in Toronto. We found that country far in advance of ourselves in the enforcement of Sunday observance. Evidently Canada has found its laws wholesome, and has not allowed them to be flouted.

OFF VESUVIUS

What awakened Mount Vesuvius from its slumber to bring terror again to the people of Italy? Did man or nature set off the valcano? A noted geologist tells how war bombs may have activated the recent flow of and religion shall be given every chance to flourish and prosper." Reasons for his belief are many, chief among them the fact that no amusements of any kind are permitnewsdealer.

Better Biscuits

A little kneading usually produces better biscuits than too much or none at all. In biscuit-mixing home economists used the standard recipe: 3 cups sifted flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 4 tablespoons fat; 1 cup of milk. The ingredients were stirred together in the bowl until just moistened, then turned out on the board. The first batch of dough was not kneaded at all but quickly rolled out, cut and baked. The biscuits came out flat, crusty, only fairly light. The second batch was given long, strenuous kneading. The biscuits were tough, flat and close-grained. In the third test the dough received only 18 strokes of kneading. The result was light, flaky, tender, tall biscuits.

Free Appetites

As rabbits have free appetites their food tastes range pretty widely over the cereals and greens. They may be fed whole or ground oats, wheat, grain sorghum, rye and bar-Corn should be fed only in ley. meal form, but this with other grains fed as meal should be slightly dampened to prevent waste. A good legume hay should be before the rabbits at all times, especially green, leafy alfalfa when obtainable. Sweet clover, lespedeza, cowpea and peanut hay are good, too, and green lawn clippings and fresh garden vegetables also may be fed. All feed should be free of mold, and surpluses removed from the hutch to prevent spoiling.

Repair Stanchions

Stanchions should be kept in good repair to prevent animals breaking loose during the night and horning other animals that are helpless to defend themselves. Many owners of grade cattle dehorn the milking herd in order to avoid horn injury to the udder. The dewclaws should be kept

'La Cubanita,' Now 70, Aided the Revolutionists

Rita Suarez del Villar is over 70 now, but 50 years ago, when Cubans were engaged in a bitter struggle to wrest their freedom from Spain; Rita Suarez del Villar-"La Cubanita"was a name to conjure with.

The 1890s found Cubans scattered throughout the island in a fight to the finish against General Weyler and his well-trained, well-equipped Spanish soldiers. Half-starved and discouraged by the unequal struggle, the Cuban patriots operated as isolated units, lacking food and medicines for the sick and wounded and often lacking ammunition with which to carry on the one-sided fight.

The well-born Rita, daughter of one of the oldest and most illustrious families of Cienfuegos, was determined to get into that fight for her country's independence, and she did. Gathering her best and most trusted friends, she launched the first of many organizations known as the Club Secreto de Senoritas to make their appearance during the War of Independence.

On the surface, the Club Secreto de Senoritas was an innocent and harmless sorority, at which genteel young ladies might gather to nibble at pastries and exchange succulent items of gossip. But led by the re-sourceful Rita, the organization's attractive members ran food, bandages, medicines, bullets and other supplies to little bands of Cubans hidden in forest and swamp.

Cannery Process

The canning of fish is a line operation, the process starting at the fish receiving gate where the fresh fish are graded and sorted. From there the fish go through several stages of being cleaned, inspected, cut, and are finally filled in cans. The cans are then run through a vacuum sealer, after which they are placed in trays and taken to a steam retort. These retorts are steam pressure vessels in which the salmon are cooked at a temperature of probably 300 degrees F. for a period of approximately two hours.

Watch for Lice

Although hen lice are more prevalent in warm weather, they may still bother the layers later. An occasional inspection of the flock to see whether or not lice are present is worthwhile. And if any of the birds appear dumpy, listless, and scratch considerably, by all means Building, on look at such birds to see if they have lice. Lice sap the strength and vitality of birds and prevent layers from doing their best.

Prune Large Trees

Where the fruit grower has a large number of trees to prune and the work will take considerable time, the large apple trees are the most suitable for early pruning, say fruit specialists of the Pennsylvania State college. The order of pruning is apple, pear, sour cherry, sweet cherry, and peach. Grape pruning should be delayed until after the first few cold spells.

ANSWER IT WITH WAR BONDS!

WHILE your boy is away fighting, he's not only growing up into a man who will be glad to take his place beside you on the farm when he gets back. He's getting used to first class equipment-learning how to handle guns and machinery and jeeps. He isn't going to be pleased with run-down farm buildings and worn-out equipment. He's going to know what's what-and it's going to be up to you to see that the farm comes up to scratch.

Right now, War Bonds are helping to provide our boys with that fine fighting equipment, and thereby hastening the day of Victory. But afterward, you get $4 back for every $3 you put in, if the Bonds are held to maturity. And you can use it for all the things you'll be needing. Put it into new buildings and fences, new stock and maybe a home with modern comforts-and that super-duper tractor!

On farms and ranches all over the country, far-sighted owners and tenants are keeping careful track of places where money will have to be spent when the war is over. Against these future expenses they are salting away their dollars in War Bonds. It's the safest, easiest kind of postwar planning. The safest, because Uncle Sam stands behind them. The easiest, because you can get large or small denomination Bonds to suit your needs, at your bank, post office or Production Credit Association. Between trips to town you can order through your rural mail carrier, or write direct for them yourself.

PAINTING NEW WOOD

O NE of my correspondents says that in the repairing of her porch last year an end wall with windows was added. She goes on to say that "because of dampness, the carpenter advised painting the new wood with a first coat of oil and turpentine. The entire porch was then given two coats of good paint, but a few months later, the paint on the new wood checked and peeled. The new wood was then repainted, but this summer the same trouble occurred. Apparently, the paint did not penetrate the wood. The first rule in painting is to have the wood thoroughly dry. That first coat of oil and turpentine may have well, the Baseball season opened last Tuesday, (18th) with a large crowd present. We do not know the The first rule in painting is to have ly dry, the first coat of paint would have penetrated the wood, and in hardening in the pores would have made a good bond. For this, the

LETTER FROM DETROIT

As Spring advances, the farmers who make it a practice to come to our city each fall, and obtain employment in the factories, are thinking of going "home" and taking up their summer work, in the way of putting out their crops. But they are running up against the government order that freezes them on their jobs, and are having some trouble in getting away. Why this should be so, we do not know, for it is certain that they can do as much good raising food as they could do running a drill press or oth-er simple machine. This is specially so when the rumor is going the rounds that the demand for labor here is not as great as it was a year ago. A fat pay check looks good to a farmer who, before he began working in a factory, had to wait several months before he received any return for his labor, but the thought of his farm and the freedom from having any one in authority over him, makes him dissatisfied, he begins to think more and more of getting back to the kind of work he was accustomed to before the lure of high wages and the thought of the easy money impelled him to venture into this new field of labor

We had a man rooming with us who was one of this class. He studied a long time before he made up his mind as to what he would do. Sud-denly he made a decision, and prepared to leave at once, but on turning in his time was told that he had to in his time was told that he had to give notice, and after doing this, was granted a ten-day leave. That time has expired, and he has not as yet returned, and it looks as if he did not intend to do so. What the penal-ty for this action is we do not know. The next week has for the

The past week has, for the most part, given us some fine weather, and has stirred up the War Gardeners a great deal. Last week, we told you about the Model Garden the city authorities are preparing to plant on the lawn of the city hall. The Com-missioner of Public Works says that it will be work and expense for noth-ing as the soil is so thin that nothing will grow on it, as has been proved by the failure of his department to grow flowers or trees on it. But the Mayor says that they are going ahead anyhow, and prove him wrong. Just now the big problem is to keep the pigeons from destroying what may succeed in pushing its head through the soil. Detroit has always been noted for the care it has taken of these birds, until they have multi-plied 'so raidly that the flock num-bers into the thousands. Before the present down-town Public Library replaced the former out-of-date build-ing which like all wublic huilding of ing, which like all public buildings of the period to which it belonged had towers and pinnacles scattered all over it, the pigeons had plenty of places for their nests and it became almost difficult to walk in any of the small parks without treading on them. Now the papers say that they have taken positions where they can see when the seeds are planted, and have invited all their friends to come to the feast. To defeat this plan, the brave gardeners have ordered chicken wire enough to go around the garden and all overhead. We are waiting to see which will win—the pigeons or his Honor sealed in the dampness, which even-tually worked out and loosened the than one-eighth the next day, but we paint. Had the wood been thorough- suppose the poor showing of the Tigers had a lot to do with it. So far four games have been played, and as yet Detroit has to win a game. The draft boards have played havoc with praye been grabbed by them, and no one expects them to stand in the finals as high as they did last year, when they finished fifth. Another of the casualties of war has struck our City. This time it is the disappearance of wrapping paper. The Retail Merchants Association has The Retail Merchants Association has decided that on May 1st, all stores in its membership will do away with wrapping any merchandise that can be carried, and that, they say, means anything from a "bathrobe to a rock-ing horse." So if we see a woman structing about the streat lugging a struggling along the street lugging a quilt, rocking chair, coffee pot, or some golf sticks, it does not mean that she has been put out of her home but that she has just been shopping. Even now, shoppers for groceries are asked to bring their paper bags, shopping bags or baskets. We notice that the big shot of the Union Laborites has pronounced the Republican party as disloyal, especially to the millions of boys in uniform. Now, as we happen to be a member of that party, we would like to have him point out anything that this party has done that he thinks puts it in that class, as much as the constant strikes, and many other practices that his crowd of malcontents has done. And when he made that iknd of remark, we wonder if he remembered that his own wife is now out on bail. having been arrested for violation of the traffic laws, while driving a car which was given to her husband for Union business. We feel that the party of which we are a member has always had a record in the line of loyalty of which it may be proud, as he might learn if he reads a little of the history of our country. Just because the Republican party does not uphold the dirty practices of his organization does not prove it disloyal by a long shot. Nor does its opposition to the favoritism and coddling of the Labor Unions by "our

Axis Captives Aid in Forests

Help Meet Critical Needs of Nation in Lumber and Pulpwood.

WASHINGTON.-More than 10,000 Axis soldiers who fought with Marshal Erwin Rommel in North Africa now are swinging axes in American forests to help meet the nation's critical needs in lumber and pulpwood. Their numbers may be increased severalfold as the result of eggs, meat and other food products. The War Food administration has warned of a possible breakdown in movement of food to consumers because of a shortage of containers.

The story of how these German and Italian prisoners were obtained and trained for work in the forests goes back to last summer, when the War Production board appealed to the forest service to step up a rapidly declining lumber production. The decline was laid to heavy loss of manpower to the military services and to better paying war industries.

Feared Forest Hazards. The forest service sent Don M. Rochester, its chief training officer, to the war department to learn whether prisoners could help. The war department shook its head. It said such use of prisoners would be an apparent violation of the Geneva convention, which prohibits use of prisoners in hazardous occupations.

Rochester replied that lumbering need not be so hazardous, that proper training and observance of safety practices had reduced forestry casualties. He cited the low injury record of civilian conservation corps units on forest projects. Finally he won agreement to ex-perimental use of a few prisoners. The experiment started last fall near Huntsville, Texas, where a paper company offered to employ pris-oners on a pulpwood project. Roch-ester rounded up 25 volunteers among German noncommissioned officers from a near-by prison camp. Seven of the 25 had worked on farms in Germany and were familiar with use of the ax. Other woodsmen's tools were strange to them.

All were given a 10-hour instruction course. Then, using these 25 men as instructors, Rochester took out 50 German privates each day for training, which was carried on through German soldiers who could speak English. The training plan included a sort of "schnitzelbank" chart to teach the names and uses of the various tools and also safety practices.

Must Pay Equal Wages.

After several hundred prisoners had been trained, Rochester took several logging contractors and timberland owners into the woods to watch. Few of them had thought prisoners would be good enough workers to assure a financial return from their use. Employers of prisoners must pay wages equal to that paid free Amer- Ezra Hartman, Arlington, Va.; Hobican workers. The prisoners, however, get only 80 cents a day. In the case in point, the remedy lies in the removal of all paint to the bare wood, and to its replacement at a time when the wood is thoroughly dry. It goes without say-ing that the first coat should be correctly thinned.

Cementing Linoleum

Question: What is the right way and what are the correct materials to use to cement linoleum to a wood floor? I wish to do the job myself. Is it best to cement the linoleum directly to the floor, or to place a layer of other material between it and the floor?

Answer: See that the wood floor is smooth and all cracks and open spaces between the boards filled with a crack filler. For best results a layer of linoleum felt is cemented down over the wood floor, after which the linoleum should be cemented to the felt. Your local linoleum dealer can supply all the necessary materials.

Penicillin Hits

Fever Menace

Experiments at May Clinic Show Good Results in Relapsing Type.

NEW YORK.—The Mayo clinic reports evidence that penicillin is good for relapsing fever. This fever is one of the serious war diseases, and a menace in some parts of the world, but has appeared in the United States only in mild form. It is caused by spirochetes, which were described as snake-like by the first scientist to see them under the microscope in 1868. He was the German, Otto H. F. Obermeier.

At the Mayo clinic fatal inoculations of these fever organisms were given to mice recently. Of the mice untreated, 75 per cent died. Of those treated with penicillin only one died, and that one did not die with symptoms of relapsing fever, but the cause of its death was not learned.

Better Remedy Sought.

The Mayo report says that as a result of these mice experiments it is hoped that penicillin will be a more effective treatment than the medicines heretofore used. The main remedy has been arsenic, which attacks these fever spirochetes much as it does those of syphilis.

The bad forms of relapsing fever are transmitted by lice and have been sometimes 80 per cent fatal. In the United States the fever is transmitted by ticks and its presence has been reported in 13 western states. The ticks are carried by rats, mice, chipmunks, squirrels, opossums, rabbits, porcupines, monkeys, foxes, hedgehogs and dogs. The fever in its first attack usually lasts from three to five days, and re-lapses occur at irregular intervals of two to nine days apart. The Mayo experiments were reported by F. R. Heilman, M. D., and W. E. Herrell, M. D. Constance Carter and Nellie Greenburg assisted in the work.

Cures Infection.

The clinic also reports that penicillin cured cases of infection of the frontal, or forehead bone, after sulfa treatments had failed. This type of infection is often an aftermath of sinus troubles and is usually dangerous.

The report was made by H. L. Williams, M. D., and D. R. Nichols, M. D.

Rabbit, squirrel and mountain fever are local names and, except the mountain variety, are unlikely to be applied to relapsing fever. The latter's other names are recurrent fever, spirillum fever, famine fever and seven-day fever.

Rabbit fever usually means tularemia. Squirrels are not commonly associated with fever. Ground squirrels in the West sometimes carry bubonic plague, which is not primarily a fever.

The Sabre-tooth Tiger

Not so long ago I saw a striking example of it in a Chicago Mu-seum of Natural History. It was a realistic scene set in a jungle of 200,000 years ago. It was a savage outside his jungle home.—Heavy set body, short stout neck, bushy head, ragged hair, fierce eyes, drawn javel-in. You would label it with the title SAVAGERY

1. But when you looked a little ahead the title changed. For a few feet ahead crouched a sabre-tooth tiger ready to spring upon its victim. Then you labeled it bravery. 2. But when you look behind him the title changes again. For behind, a few feet away, stood a trembling woman with a baby in her arms. Then you labeled it HEROISM. 3. But what could one man do against a sabre-tooth tiger? But on each side of the scene, you see, two other savages with drawn jave lins. Then you change the label and call it cooperation. For the life call it cooperation. For the life and welfare of each depends on the other. That was the beginning of common interest and unity of purpose. It was man's first lesson in will persist with reference to the average new-comer to a community. Not long ago I talked with one who moved to Taneytown many years ago. Till this day he still felt that he did not belong, that he was an outsider. He refused to share in many of the good things of the community. He would even send his charitable con-tributions back to his former home town rather than give them here. The sense of belonging, being a part of the community, is tremend-ously important. Without it a per-son does not have the community creates within him a ously important. Without it a per-son does not have the community spirit. There is nothing that gives a person a sense of belonging like the personal ownership of something in the community. Owning his home will do this. The more people you can have own-ing their homes the better community you will have. It gives a great boost to the community spirit. A LIBERATOR BOMBER BASE, ENGLAND. — The big Liberator bomber got cantankerous when it reached 17,000 feet. She flipped her tail into the air and went into a spin like a giddy training plane. Aboard her were Lieut. Homer Boles and his nine man crew and three tons of bombs, all on their way to bomb the French invasion coast. "The controls shook out of my hand like some giant fighting me for them," Boles said. "I'd never heard of anybody spinning a Liberator, particularly with a full bomb load, so I decided to tell the crew to bail out.

"Our rate of descent meter was as far over as it could go, and that's 6,000 feet a minute. Our air speed indicator showed we were diving at 350 miles an hour.

"I started pulling controls and kicking the rudder, just like I did with a light training plane in flying school, and sure enough the plane came out of the spin."

The plane leveled out at about 11,000 feet and Boles took a roll call, found everybody at his post and set full speed ahead to regain the formation and complete the mission. Name of the Liberator? Heaven Can Wait.

Said she: "Three months ago". "Well," said the Dr. "The danger has long since passed. Why come to me this late about the kiss?" "Oh," she said, "It is because it's such a wonderful thing to talk about"

That's like the community spirit. It is a wonderful thing to talk about But the question is What can we do about it? What are some of the things we can do to promote the community spirit? You recall, a few weeks ago, that Mr. Dunbar, speaking here, suggest-

That evening the same ten officers stood before Colonel Shore. A pile of sketches lay before him. Captain Jorg had an air of easy confidence. Second Lieutenant John Sherman looked anything but happy.

"Gentlemen," said the colonel, "I have examined all of these. Considering the speed with which you worked, they are quite good. Captain Jorg's especially. But," the colonel pulled a large sheet of thin paper from the bottom of the pile, 'this one turned in by Lieutenant Sherman is by far the most complete."

"Lieutenant Sherman explained that through his carelessness he was left without a conveyance," said the colonel. "But in the emergency he used his head. Once a farmer, it occurred to him that the local center of the Agricultural Department would have air maps, which of course are in detail. He went to the county seat by bus and made a trac-ing. ### TRILLIONS NEXT!

In predicting that the national debt limit will be raised, one com-mentator says that next year the national debt will reach 250 billions of dollars or a "Quarter of a TRIL-LION."

It wasn't too many years ago that money was measured by millions. Once the debt reached the billions Once the debt reached the billions the nation gave up trying to con-ceive the enormity of a billion dol-lars. Now that the first mention of "Trillion" has been made—well, that's something for Superman to toy with. By the way, what comes after a Trillion?—Redwood Falls, Minn., Gazette.

On Volcano for Power Mexico's famed Ixtaccihuatl-the fabled "Sleeping Woman" of the Aztecs-is about to awaken, and with her awakening will come new life to the great central valley of the republic. More than a thousand scientists, engineers and laborers are working near the peak of the huge 17,333-foot volcano on a $6,000,-000 project to harness its eternal snows for hydroelectric energy and irrigation in the states of Mexico, Morelos, Puebla, Hidalgo and Vera-

The plan for tapping Ixtaccihuatl as a source of energy for a large part of Mexico was conceived by en-gineers Fernando Vizcayno and Pable Bistrain, who soon obtained gov-ernment support for the project. Aided by geologists Ezequiel Ordonez and Trinidad Paredes and glaciologist Alfredo Banos, they determined that atmospheric condensation and melting of the mountain's 14-milelong snow cap offered a possible hydroelectric potential of 150,000 horsepower through utilization of a constant flow of 20 cubic meters of water a second.

At present, most of this flow is dissipated by seepage through permeable rock and soil or by natural surface and subterranean channels which carry it far from its source to form a network of small streams in the Chalma, Cabeza de Negro and San Antonio regions. Engineers supervising the five-year "Sleeping Woman" project believe that it can solve Mexico's power problem by doubling the available hydroelectric power.

Their plan calls for construction of a network of small canals along the mountain peak to collect water from melting snow and atmospheric condensation and drop it in a series of man-made waterfalls, from 3,000 to 5,000 feet in height, to operate power generating turbines. After passing through the turbines, the water will be carried by ditches to irrigation projects in the central part or the country.

Ship Millions of Chicks

To So. America by Plane Half a million baby chicks were shipped by air express from the United States to the other Americas in 1943 at the rate of 10,000 cheep-ing little passengers a week. This new export business, which broke all records, now rates in the milliondollar class.

So great is the demand for baby chicks that shipments are being made on the basis of "space available" rather than on orders. Standing reservations are made for regular shippers. One Puerto Rico poultry farm has 600 chicks going on every Clipper departing from Miami, according to the Pan American airways.

Practically every Caribbean country has adopted North American chickens as standard poultry stock. At Maracaibo a single firm advertises "50 fresh-laid American eggs every day." As the stocks flourish locally, intrastate shipments add to the traffic.

Baby chick exports have been augmented by wartime development of the poultry industry in Brazil and other American republics to meet increased food needs.

Child Health Day May 1, 1944

• America is proud of its winning battle against children's diseases, but an ever-darkening spot on the nation's record is the number of children killed and injured each year by acci-dents that might be prevented. Na-tional Safety Council statistics show that the child accident toll has inthat the child accident toll has in-creased almost 25 per cent since Pearl Harbor. Here are some of the most common types of mistakes which, ac-cording to the Council, cause accidents to children.

Burns kill more small children than any other type of accident. Parents should keep handles of pots and pans turned inward toward the center of the stove, away from ex-death to children under one year is mechanical suffocation, chiefly by bedclothes. Only such sleeping bags or patented crib blankets as are recommended by a physician should be used. Warm methods and ordi be used. Warm pajamas and ordi-nary covers are often preferred.

American girls in our schools and the Pilgrims, and within a year Morcolleges will be perpetuating the cus-tom of "bringing in the May." As they dance around the Maypole it is not difficult to believe that a strange had started to colonize Massachughost will be haunting the scene of setts and these stern people were not their festivities.

It will be the ghost of an earlyday "liberal" who tried-unsuccessfully—to have a gay time in Puritan New England. His name was Thomas Morton and in 1625 he established a trading post near Wessagusset (later the site of Quincy, Mass.) which he named "Merry Mount'

The new trading post began to prosper almost immediately. Morton became a prime favorite with the Indians because he traded them two things which they wanted mostfirearms and firewater. By edict of the king, supplying the savages with either was strictly forbidden. But that didn't bother the master of Merry Mount.

Enjoying this prosperity, Morton decided in the spring of 1627 to have a great celebration. So he invited have learned about concentrated rations, dehydrated vegetables, and maybe they dream of steaks—but his Indian friends to a May Day festival. What happened on that ocmaybe they diftered at they fight on. They buy War Bonds, do you? Buy more and hold 'em! U.S. Treasury Department casion at this Colonial "hot spot" is described by Governor Bradford of Plymouth who tells us that:

"They allso set up a Maypole, drinking and dancing about it many days togeather, inviting the Indean women, for their consorts, dancing and frisking togither (like so many fairies, or furies rather) and worse practices. As if they had anew re-vived and celebrated the feasts of the Roman Goddes Flora, or the beasly practieses of the madd Bacchinaltans.'

Of course, the tale of such goings-on at Merry Mount outraged the good citizens of neighboring settlements and when Morton declined to mend his ways, Governor Bradford sent the doughty Capt. Miles Standish (whom Morton disrespectfully called "Captaine Shrimp") to arrest him. After various misadventures, including a personal encoun-ter between Morton and Standish and Morton's near escape by the device of getting his guards drunk, the master of Merry Mount was taken to Plymouth where he was given a preliminary hearing and sent to England for trial.

Comes May Day and thousands of | Sir Ferdinand Gorges, who hated to be trifled with. John Endicott, founder of Salem, visited Merry

Mount, cut down the Maypole and took away all of Morton's winter supply of corn but failed to catch him.

However, the Puritan authorities kept after John Endicott him until they did lay hands on him.

He was given a swift trial, sentenced to sit in the stocks, to have all his belongings confiscated and then banished to England. Later Gorges was made governor-general of New England and Morton planned to come back as his lieutetnant. But Gorges' downfall ended that dream.

However Morton did return to New England in 1643 only to find a meeting house standing on the place where his men and the Indian maid-ens had "danced and frisked" together. Again Morton was arrested but the magistrates couldn't fine him because he had already been de-prived of all his property. They couldn't sentence him to be whipped because he was too old and halfcrazy, besides. So they sentenced him to prison and there all winter, long he lay in chains without fire or bedding. In the spring of 1644 they released him for he was no longer a danger to the morals of the colony.

When he died two years later, with him died the Elizabethan tradition in New England. But 300 years after he erected his Maypole at Merry, Mount his name was heard again. In 1927 a native American opera called "Merry Mount," with such stars as Lawrence Tibbett and Gladys Swarthout in the cast, was presented in the Metropolitan Opera house in New York and newspapers of the day described its reception

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF MARYLAND:

During his long tenure in the United States Senate, Senator Tydings appears to have lost a proper understanding of the wishes and desires of the people of Maryland and to have developed some very strange views on the fundamental principles of our democracy and the conduct of high office. On June 17, 1940, he said:

"Mr. President. Democracy today is not a necessity. It is a luxury and it remains to be seen whether or not we have enough money to afford a luxury like democracy because democracy is rapidly becoming non-existent in the world." (Cong. Rec. P. 8373.)

Note that there was fine courtesy in sending the message to the church at Antioch by messengers who were men of distinction and great spiritual courage. II. Sound Practice Observed— Walking by Faith (Gal. 2:1, 2, 9, 10, 20, 21)

The life of grace is not just something to be written or talked about, or to glory in, although it is all of these. It is to show forth in the daily walk of the Christian.

Paul in Galatians 2 tells of his experience in Jerusalem, of his meeting and discussion with the brethren. It was all of vital importance to him and to the cause of Christ, but it is not the record of an academic argument, or the vaunting of a personal victory which he presents.

He rises to the high point of Christian experience, the realization of the fact that a believer has died to self. He is crucified with Christand yet he lives.

Yes, he lives in a newness of life which is not his own, but Christ living in him. There is the secret of real Christian living—a complete ac-ceptance of all that Christ is, in and for the believer.

· This truth is at once deeply spiritual and completely practical. Again we say, it is not something about which one theorizes. It is an actuality-something which Chris-tians can and do live out in daily experience. It is "the life which I now live" of which Paul speaks, and that is by "the faith of the Son of God," who loved us and gave Himself for us.

To fail to receive and appropriate this grace by seeking to be made righteous through the deeds of the law is to deny the need of the death of Christ, in fact, to make it a vain thing.

Some may feel that all this is too deeply theological for them, but it really is not, for God does not expect us to explain it, but only to accept it. This is His work, and it is indeed wonderful in our sight (Ps. 139:6), but not too wonderful to receive by faith, to rest and rejoice in, and to declare to others.

Thrives in Tropics

Known to Europeans since the voyages of Columbus, manioc, source of tapioca, has rivaled potatoes, corn and cocoa in its migrations. It has become a staple in the diet of the populations of tropical Africa, Asia and Oceania. The plant requires a tropical or semitropical climate and thrives best in humid coastal areas.

Botanists believe Brazil was the original home of the plant but Spaniards, on their arrival in the New world, found it growing all the way from Southern Mexico and Cuba to southern Peru and Uruguay.

In recent years, Brazil has been rated the world's second largest producer, after the Netherlands East Indies.

Tantalum Resistant

The rare metal tantalum is becoming ever more important as new uses are found. Seven major industries need tantalum for their products. Most important article requiring the metal is the big power tube essential to radar and other electronic devices.

Tantalum's resistance to corrosion makes it necessary in many chemical processes. As a cutting edge on high speed tools, the metal is important in industry. Other uses in surgery in form of pins, screws and plates, in optical glass, and as a catalyst in the manufacturing of butadiene, the base of synthetic rubber.

Attempted Assassination

During the 1912 campaign while en route to an auditorium in Milwaukee to make a speech as the Progressive party "Bull Moose" candidate, he was shot at close range by John F. Schrank, a crank. Roosevelt, then vice president, completed an unexpired term when President McKinley was assassinated in 1901 and was elected to the presidency in 1904. In 1912 he was campaigning for a second elective term. Although injured in the chest he delivered his speech. It was said that the manuscript of this speech, tucked in his coat pocket, checked the bullet's course and saved him from serious injury if not death.

It's easy to keep medicine, insecticides, cleansers and all such preparations out of children's reach-if parents just think about it. Many children die from poisoning because they can reach a dangerous bottle or package.

Electric fans are exceptionally dangerous to leave within reach of a child. Other seasonal hazards are the "unloaded" gun, the fireplace without a screen, unsupervised swimming and open windows, several feet above the ground.

More than 3,000 children under 14 were killed by motor vehicles last Thousands more were inyear. jured. Careful driving on the part of adults and close observance to safe pedestrian practices by children will eliminate most of those accidents. Grown-ups should set good example in walking habits.

Senator Tydings seems to forget that the war for American independence was fought to establish democracy in America. Today our sons and daughters are offering their lives to preserve that democracy.

Senator Tydings has been widely criticized for pressing claims against our government for special privileges for clients of his law firm.

Senator Tydings spoke and voted against necessary changes in our Neutrality Laws and against Draft Extension shortly before Pearl Harbor. These measures were recommended by the President and his well-informed advisors in the State, War and Navy Departments as among the means necessary for protecting our Nation and it is most regrettable that Senator Tydings refused to cooperate and aligned himself with the isolationists.

The long and disappointing record of Senator Tydings does not merit approval by the people of Maryland who are entitled to good government, and who are making so many sacrifices for democracy -for victory -- and for a lasting peace. We must not forget the Hitler weapon of divide and conquer. Without national unity and cooperation, the losses and dangers to our Armed Forces will be increased.

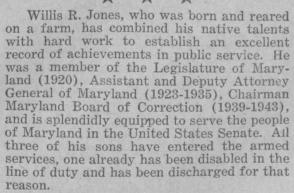

Respectfully,

Fortunes of War: A very sad little WAVE dropped into the open house for officers at the Hotel Delmonico and a sympathetic hostess inquired as to the cause of her depression. The WAVE informed her that her sole reason for joining the navy was the belief that she would be sent overseas and thus would be nearer her husband who, four days after their marriage, had received his sailing orders and whom she hadn't seen for a year and a half. Then had come that ruling that WAVEs must remain in this country. She had just been granted her first leave, the WAVE continued, and in a couple of hours would depart for Cleveland to visit her mother. The hostess, seeking to cheer her up, suggested that she dance with one of the officers present. The WAVE was willing so a personable young captain was called over and introduced. The captain asked the WAVE to repeat her name, which, of course, she did.

"Why, I came home in the next bed to your husband!" exclaimed the captain. Naturally, as soon as she could find her breath, the WAVE asked questions. Her husband wasn't wounded seriously, in fact would be discharged from the hospital within a few days, she was told. He was at Halloran General, over on Staten island, and she would be permitted to visit him at 9:30 the next morning. The WAVE cancelled her train reservations, long distanced her mother she wouldn't be home and made arrangements to spend the night with another WAVE at the Hotel Biltmore. Early the next morning, she set out for Halloran. As she got off a bus at the hospital, she heard her name called. And there was her husband who also had just left a bus. He had gone to the city the night before. Not knowing his wife's whereabouts he had registered at the Biltmore and sat for hours in the lobby hoping she might pass by.

Another War Tale: Capt. Clark Denny of the United States marines dropped into Club 1-2-3 for a visit with his friend, Roger Stearns, who runs the club and who plays the piano there. "Thought you might like to know," remarked the captain, "something that happened in the South Pacific shortly before I came home on leave. The Nips were being particularly nasty one night and I jumped into a foxhole occupied by an enlisted man whose home is in Brooklyn. 'Say, captain,' said the soldier after we'd been there about two hours, 'do you know the 1-2-3 club?' I told him I'd been there. There was a pause in our conversation as a bomb landed and said, 'Gee, but that guy Stearns sure can tickle those ivories.' " P. S .- The next three rounds were a toast to a Brooklyn boy whose name was unknown. M.P.'s Are Human: Those military police who trail second lieutenants around the mid-town sector ready to stop any soldier who does not salute properly, do not relish their jobs. But orders are orders and they carry them out. The other evening, a soldier, deeply engrossed in conversation with a very pretty girl and the two plainly deeply in love, strolled by without a salute. The second lieutenant stepped out of the way and waited for his stalwart shadow to bring the offender forward so that his name might be obtained and he be reported to his superior officer for disciplinary action. Nothing happened, so the looie called the M. P. forward. "He didn't see you," explained the M. P. a bit shamefacedly. "Why, lieuten-ant, if I was walkin' along Broadway with a girl as pretty as that, I wouldn't see even a four-star general." ### French Buy Masterpieces To Hedge Against Franc

MADRID.—The new millionaires of France—merchants engaged in the black market-are frantically buying up masterpieces of art at auctions in their eagerness to convert francs into articles of intrinsic value, Paris correspondents of the Spanish press report.

It was explained that Frenchmen who before the war were unable to distinguish a Corot from a colored photograph now are enthusiastic buyers and sellers at the Hotel Durot, where many French art auctions are held.

The "Annual of Public Sales," which gives the prices paid for works of art sold at public auctions, listed one of Corot's lesser pictures sold in 1943 for 1,391,000 francs. (The franc was worth $.023 at the time France was occupied.) The picture was last sold in 1875 for 500 francs. A Degas sketch, which brought 2,000 francs in 1934, sold for 288,650 francs in 1943, and the same artist's portrait, which sold for 16,000 francs in 1908, brought 1,610,000 francs. In a single day's auction during the year a total of 123 pictures were sold for a total of 55,000,000 francs. Art experts were reported making fortunes both as buyers and agents.

Calls Pelt of Muskrat

'Sure Cure' for Asthma ORANGE, TEXAS .- F. J. Pavell of Orange, amateur weather forecaster, announces that he has discovered a "sure cure" for asthmamuskrat pelts.

Local cynics who scoffed when Pavell predicted last fall that a raging gulf hurricane would not hit Orange, observed that if Pavell said muskrats would cure asthma, then muskrats would.

Pavell said that sufferers from asthma would be cured if they tied muskrat pelts, fur down, to their chests. He admitted he didn't know why muskrat pelts so attached relieved suffering, but he said he knew it did because he had cured from 50 to 75 pers

Factories Keduce Time for

Building Two Models.

SAN FRANCISCO .- A 95 per cent cut in the production time of making a typical fighter plane was re-ported here by the West Coast Air-of Seattle and the Consolidated Vul- passenger tires. tee, Douglas, Lockheed, Northrop, North American, Ryan and Vega companies, stated that the first plane to come from the production line, "Model A" of the fighter craft, took 157,000 man-hours to build.

"The tenth plane of that model required 59,000 man-hours," a spokesman said. "By that time the engineers were beginning to discover ways and means to improve the ship, so the 13th plane was a slightly revised model, Model 'B,' which still took 59,000 man-hours to build."

sign and model changes and changes in specifications, took only 26,500 man-hours and the 1,000th, only 7,800 man hours.

"In the case of this typical fighter plane, there was a 72 per cent decrease in man hours required each time production was doubled," the council stated.

As to the bomber in question, the first one off the assembly line required 200,000 man hours to build, according to the council. The tenth took 187,500 man hours, the 20th 137,500 man hours, the 100th 87,500 man hours, the 300th 50,500 man hours, the 1,000th, 22,500 man hours, and the 2,000th, only 13,000 man hours.

The figures were offered, it was explained, to show that although aircraft plants on this coast were expected to build 50 per cent more planes, in terms of weight, than in 1943, it would be possible to do so with "relatively small" increases in manpower needs.
