SCRAP PAPER

Collection To Be Made by Boy Scouts

The fourth general collection of paper will be made in Taneytown, on Saturday, May 13th, conducted by the Boy Scouts of the American Legion Troop No. 348. It will save much time if the paper to be gathered, as well as cardboard, magazines, and even rags (if packed separately), were securely bundled and placed in front of your home.

It is planned also to decrease necessary handling through Scouts accompanying the disposal truck and throwing the bundles right into it, to be hauled away to the mill. The cooperation of the Reliable Junk Company in making this method of collection possible and is appreciated. This paper is sold to them and the proceeds held for a cabin, or possibly a campsite, for local Scouts when the war is over, and such a project can be undertaken.

The people of Taneytown have been careful in their saving of paper, and besides contributing to the war effort, they have been generous in disposing of it through the Boy Scouts. The Scouts are grateful for this chance to set up their camping fund. Further collections will be held periodically, at intervals of about six weeks. Please have in mind the coming one, on Saturday a week, May 13th.

These aprons were modeled by the winners. Mrs. Joseph Elliot's apron was the winner for the Taneytown Club.

PLANT CORN TO AVOID JAPANESE BEETLE DAMAGE

County Agent L. C. Burns pointed out today that farmers should keep the Japanese beetle in mind when planting corn. He said both field corn and sweet corn are frequently seriously damaged and suggested that farmers living in heavily infested districts where corn was damaged last year, give consideration to planting dates to avoid injury. Mr. Burns previewed the work done at the University of Maryland on planting dates for preventing injury. He pointed out that six years study by the Departments of Entomology and Agronomy, cooperating, showed that beetle damage may be reduced by late planting. An analysis of work done by E. N. Cory, George S. Langford and R. G. Rothge shows that when it is possible to plant corn so that it silks after the peak beetle infestation has passed, damage will be negligible. On an average, peak infestations are over by the end of the first week in August.

It is impossible to give exact planting dates that in all instances will eliminate beetle injury and in some years the marginal period for planting to avoid both beetle injury and frost injury is narrow. The best that can be done is to use dates that on an average are favorable. The following planting dates are being suggested:

Long season corn, May 25 to June 1st.

Medium season corn, June 1 to 7.

Short season corn, June 7 to 14.

The cooperative experiments of the Departments of Entomology and Agronomy also indicate a relation between beetle feeding and moldy corn. Records from experimental plots show that in years favorable to mold development, the percent of infected corn is greatest in fields that have had the tips of the ears opened by feeding from the beetles. Corn that silks after the peak beetle infestation developed fewer moldy ears than that which silked earlier and was exposed to beetle feeding.

DAMAGE BY FIRE

Oil Stove Fire Extinguished by Fire Company

Fire on Wednesday evening did considerable damage to the second story of the house on the Elvin D. Dern farm, now owned and occupied by Mr. Charles Hahn and family, with others occupying apartments on first floor, about 1 1/4 miles north of Taneytown. The fire caught from an oil stove, from some unknown cause, as the stove was comparatively new and did not explode.

A hole was burned in the wall behind the stove and the flames followed the partition to the ceiling where a hole was burned through the ceiling and garret floor. Extensive damage was done by smoke as well as flames. The hall, kitchen floor and walls were ruined. A cupboard near the stove was burned.

The Taneytown Fire Company was called and responded promptly. Only the efficient action of the firemen saved the house.

APPLICATION FOR SUGAR CANNING

The local War Price and Rationing Board of Carroll County announces that applications for home canning sugar are now available. They may be secured from May 1st to May 31, 1944, at the Board in Westminster, or at the local Post Offices throughout the county.

The application when completely filled out and accompanied by Spare STAMP No. 37 in Ration Book No. 4 may be mailed to the nearest center and stamps will be sent out.

During the month of May a volunteer distribution center will operate under the direction of Mr. George Shower, who will accept applications by mail only up to May 31.

Home canning sugar may be used this year for canning or pickling fruits and vegetables, and for making jams, jellies, preserves and fruit butters. All or any part of the total sugar that an applicant received including sugar received on Stamp No. 40 may be used for any type of food preservation.

Applicants are cautioned to ask for only the amount of sugar needed for canning and advised that reapplication may be made at the board later if the maximum amount has not been granted on the first application.

KIWANIS CLUB NEWS

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club held its regular weekly meeting at Clear Ridge Inn, near Uniontown, on Wednesday evening, at 8:30 o'clock. President Clyde L. Hesson presiding. The period of group singing was in charge of Harry M. Mohney, with Mrs. Wallace Yingling as accompanist. Besides 30 members, there were present the following visitors and guests: Kiwanian Roy Shipley, of Westminster; Captain Bernard A. Weber, of the Medical Corps, United States Army; Ensign John E. Chenoweth of the U. S. N. R., Coxswain Kenneth Shelton of the United States Navy; Messrs Donald Baker, Donald Tracey and William Bricker.

The speaker of the evening was Captain Weber who has just returned from service of eighteen months in the South Pacific. Captain Weber spoke interestingly and instructively of his work as Medical Officer, attached to a regiment of United States Infantry in service, first on the Fiji Islands, and then in combat service on the Island of Bougainville. Although Captain Weber was careful to divulge nothing of his experiences that would be forbidden by military regulations, he nevertheless was able to give some very interesting information concerning the difficulties of fighting in the jungle and of the methods of battle used by the Japanese enemies.

The meeting next week will be in charge of the Program Committee, and will be "Ladies' Night".

CHANGE IN RATIONING

The office of Price Administration on Wednesday made all meats except beef steaks and beef roasts ration free, effective at midnight, that day, and Associated Press dispatch from Washington said:

The removal of ration points, announced by OPA Administrator Chester Bowles at a surprise press conference, covers all cuts of pork, veal, lamb and mutton; all beef except the steaks and roasts; beef hamburger, beef steaks, all kinds of variety meats, sausage, ready-to-eat meats, canned meats and canned fish.

The action was taken, Bowles said, because lend-lease pork buying had been halted for the time being; also because of reduced Army and Navy demand, the crowding of storage space and the hope that the action will bring more meat in market this summer.

Because of the wide variety of meats now becoming available without the spending of ration points, OPA announced that housewives would have to make their red ration points last twice as long—stretching over a four-week period instead of the present two-week period.

BUTTER POINT VALUE REDUCED

The ration point value of creamery butter has been reduced from 16 to 12 red points a pound, the OPA has announced. Margarine has been lowered from six to 2 points per pound. The new values are effective through June 3, 1944. This reduction was made possible by seasonally increased production.

MARYLAND PRIMARY AND LOCAL ELECTION

Tydings Wins Easily. New Mayor for Taneytown

In the primary last Monday Senator Millard E. Tydings easily won re-nomination on the Democratic ticket for U. S. Senator. Tydings beat his strongest competitor, Willis R. Jones, more than 4 to 1, and in fact had a vote of considerably more than 3 to 1 over the total votes for his four opponents.

For the House of Representatives on the Democratic ticket Congressman H. Street Baldwin was easily re-nominated, notwithstanding a vigorous fight put up by Miss Mary E. W. Risteau, Harford County and a mild attempt by Mark J. Zeller, of Baltimore county.

On the Republican ticket Blanchard Randall, Jr., the organization candidate, won the nomination for United States Senator, and will oppose Senator Tydings at the November election. Randall was opposed by Paul Robertson, chairman of the central committee for Baltimore, who carried the city, but lost out in the counties. Rives Matthews of Somerset county was a poor third in this race.

The Republican to oppose Baldwin in the fall election will be Wilfred T. McQuaid, of Baltimore, who defeated Edward E. Steiner in the primary.

So far as the presidency is concerned the primary meant nothing. The name of Wendell L. Willkie was on the Republican ticket only because it was too late to remove the name after Willkie withdrew from the campaign.

The voting was extremely light. Only about 10% of the registered voters bothered to go to the primary. In one precinct in Frederick, only three Democrats and nine Republicans voted.

In the local election Richard Rohrbach was elected Mayor and Pius Hemler and Charlie Wantz were elected to the City Council. Former Mayor, Norville Shoemaker had declined re-nomination and William T. Kiser the other nominee withdrew and a committee to fill vacancies nominated Mr. Richard Rohrbach and Mr. William E. Ritter. The votes were as follows: For Mayor, Richard Rohrbach 89; William E. Ritter 28. For City Council, Pius Hemler 84; Richard Kesselring 41; Charlie Wantz 56; Thornton Shoemaker 49.

CITIZENSHIP RALLIES

Cities Urged to Mark "I Am An American Day"

In an endeavor to promote throughout the State a renewed appreciation of the priceless privileges of American citizenship, Governor Herbert R. O'Connor on Monday called upon the Mayors of various municipalities throughout Maryland to have their communities join officially in the observance of "I Am an American Day" on May 21st.

At the same time, Governor O'Connor issued a proclamation designating May 21 as "I am an American Day" in Maryland and urged that the day be set aside for a public greeting to all the citizens who have obtained majority or have become naturalized during the year.

"Our Nation has been enriched, the Governor declared in his Proclamation, "both spiritually and materially by the naturalization of many thousands of foreign-born men and women, and by the coming of age of great numbers of our youth who have achieved the full stature of citizenship and have strengthened our country by their service at home and on the battlefield."

The Proclamation further asks that "all State and local officials, patriotic, educational and civic groups plan and carry out special programs designed to assist our citizens, both native-born and naturalized, to understand more fully the great privileges, opportunities and responsibilities of citizenship in our Nation."

In his appeal to the municipal authorities throughout the State, Governor O'Connor made available the assistance of the officers and men of the State Guard and suggested the cooperation of the official representatives of the "I Am an American Day" Committee, for consultation and advice, to the end that as many demonstrations as possible be staged throughout the State to mark the day.

Gontrum Judge of the Third Judicial Circuit and former State Insurance Commissioner, was sworn in the day Governor O'Connor took office. FOLLOWING EDITORIAL

Two years have passed since the death of our beloved editor, Mr. P. B. Englar, who died April 28, 1942. When we were selected by the Board of Directors of The Carroll Record Company to carry on the work of editing the Record we realized the large and difficult task that would be ours. We knew that we could never attain the peak reached by our late Mr. Englar in writing editorials. His writing and handling subjects for his editorial columns was more than a gift—it was an ability that few men in Carroll County possessed.

Our friend, Mr. H. Peyton Gorsuch of the Westminster Times was a member of the same school of writers to which the late Mr. Englar belonged. But Mr. Gorsuch continues and in last week's issue of The Times says:

"When The Times Printing Company was organized in 1914 we reluctantly agreed to act as pinch-hitter for the Editorial until an Editor was found. It was a work for which we had neither training nor ability, but each week wrote a column or two. Mr. P. B. Englar, editor of the Carroll Record wrote an editorial in which he said he believed that only a few read the editorials in a country newspaper. If only a few read the splendid editorials Mr. Englar had written for so many years and continued to write until his death a few years ago, it seemed probable that no one read our mediocre ones. We decided to switch our editorial page to the front page but the name 'Editorial' was a misnomer. They were more like fire-side chats with our subscribers. In a few years felt they were not of enough interest to be worth the effort and would have discontinued them. However a number of our readers asked us not to do so and so each week since, have continued to fill the space on the front page of The Times with the so-called editorial. In the last two years on account of impaired health and eye-sight have found it impossible to do much writing and have used favorite poems and clippings we thought might be of some interest to our readers. While they are much better than anything we could write, they lack the personal contact and the personal chat features."

ENLIGHTENING

The test brought on between the head of Montgomery Ward and the President, by the taking over of the mail order house by U. S. soldiers may not present an edifying spectacle, but it will throw much light on the extent to which the present administration will go to carry out its own wishes, and what it can do with a hand-picked political supreme court.

General R. E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., stated the situation when he said that "if the war time powers of a President can be invoked to virtually confiscate the property and business of Montgomery Ward, then the President can seize the business of any merchant or any other enterprise anywhere and any time."

What a horrible situation that is to contemplate. There is not the slightest difference between that and the Gestapo methods of Hitler. And the case is the more glaring because it has nothing whatever to do with the war. What if the whole business of Montgomery Ward were stopped by a dispute between the managers and labor? Would there be any shortage of stores in any community to supply the people with merchandise? But under the plans of the labor unions and the Administration there is to be no such thing as private enterprise—no such thing as a man running his own business, or settling disputes with his employee's without direction from government.

The Supreme Court has stretched the meaning of interstate commerce far beyond the bounds of truth and reality, and now the term "war time necessity" is being treated the same way. Such interpretation of law does not settle disputes, but creates and multiplies them.

Boasting of the defense of democracy and freedom, the attempt is being made to destroy the last vestige of liberty, and to create a czar-ridden government based on the will and whim of one who would be overlord instead of executive.

DID YOU VOTE???

Our forefathers fought and bled and many died on the field of battle to establish the principal that all men are created free and equal and are endowed by their Creator with right to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. The founding fathers, wisely after victory, prepared and promulgated a Constitution which created a Government divided into three sections—Legislative, Executive and Judicial—each interlocking but independent of the other. In this division of power it was intended, and rightly so, that the Legislative Branch—composed of representatives of all the people from all sections of the country, each chosen by the franchise of his own people should make ALL laws that are to govern the people. That same constitution wisely provided for a Supreme Court, and inferior courts, consisting of members appointed for life to interpret the laws enacted by the Congress and to ascertain and decree whether they complied with the constitutional provisions and restrictions for such laws. That constitution likewise provided for the election by the people of a Chief Executive whose duties were and are to execute the laws passed by the Congress and not disapproved by the Supreme Court.

The Chief Executive under the Constitution has no power or authority to make laws—that is the function of Congress—or to decree whether or not they are binding—that is the function of the Supreme Court.

It is a peculiar penchant of nature—human and animal—to desire to retain all it has of its own, and to grab all it can of another. Place a cow in a field of abundant succulent grass growing all around her, and that old cow will poke her head thru the first opening in the fence she finds to nibble the poorer grass and weeds without the pasture. Human nature is like that. It wants to keep all it has and grab all it can reach.

The three branches of government have never gotten along as harmoniously as they should or could have done, and the divergence and disharmony seems to grow more and more as the years roll on. Often the rights of the people are threatened by these encroachments.

Last week the Government saw fit to seize the plant of Montgomery Ward of Chicago, and to forcefully eject its president Mr. Sewell Avery from his office and duties. Maybe that seizure was alright to satisfy a Labor demand, but Labor will find such demand executed in their favor will later become a boomerang to strike them with deadly force when least they expect it.

The idea expressed by Thomas Jefferson a century and a half ago that the people is best governed who are least governed holds as true today as it did when that great statesman spoke the word. The right to collective bargaining should be maintained, and certainly no president nor his representative should by force of arms interfere unless a riot uncontrollable otherwise is in existence. Our armed forces are created for our protection, Mr. President, and not to persecute and annoy men engaged in their daily tasks. The scene is shifting and we are drifting, whither, whither, where? W. J. H.

SERVICEMEN, TAKE HEED

Servicemen and their families will do well to heed the warnings being issued against placing confidence where it decidedly is not due—in the "confidence" men who ply their ugly trade in peacetime largely among widows and the inexperienced, and in wartime among discharged veterans with mustering-out pay and bonuses, and individuals with War Bond savings. A recent report by the Farm Economics Bureau of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company lists a number of the schemes, mostly as old as the swindle game itself, which are being repackaged to attract the uninitiated.

Lucrative jobs are advertised, and when the required cash bond is deposited, the advertiser disappears. Fake employment agencies collect registration fees. Partnerships are sold in shady or non-existent businesses, as well as shares in worthless inventions, overpriced farmlands, and non-existent "territorial rights." The old biographical hoax is played on families of war heroes, with signed "authorizations" turning out to be purchase contracts, or money advanced for photographs, etc., in volumes that often never are printed.

Names and addresses of veterans and War Bond purchasers are being compiled by the "confidence" men for their so-called "sucker lists," and their schemes seem plausible. But if veterans and their families will take the precaution of the free information service of the Better Business Bureaus in their localities, or consult an attorney or banker, before signing any form or investing any money, they will protect themselves and help defeat the racket.—Christian Science Monitor.

FOR ANY MAN

In his address to the graduating class of General Motors Institute, Lieutenant General William S. Knudsen gave some sage advice. It is advice from a Danish immigrant boy who found in America the opportunity to build a successful life. His statements are something for any man to think about.

"Always remember to be yourself. Think independently and weigh whatever suggestions are made for your particular work.

"Experience is knowing a lot of things you shouldn't do.

"A one-man band never gets far up the ladder. Learn to toot one trumpet and toot it awfully good.

"If you have courage, you have twice the chance to win that you otherwise have.

"Learn to take a little bit from the other fellow and see what he's got. This is called tolerance.

"Don't ask any man to do something that you wouldn't do if you were in his place.

"If you think before you act, you can act very much more efficiently and get very much more work done.

"This country is free and it is always going to be free. This country is yours and it is always going to be yours. It is going to be an example to the rest of the world."—The Silver Lining.

HOW ABOUT THIS FOURTH TERM

Washington, D. C., May—When George Washington refused to continue as President of the United States after serving two terms, he established a precedent that was followed until four years ago, when the Democrats nominated and the people elected Mr. Roosevelt for a third time.

Evidently, public opinion has changed, and the proof that it has changed is shown in the State primaries, where the Democrats are choosing Roosevelt delegates who will nominate him for a fourth term. Unless there is a change in the situation, Mr. Roosevelt will receive practically the unanimous endorsement of his party. The facts are that nobody can stop Mr. Roosevelt.

History has been made, and is being fortified, which breaks down George Washington's precedent regarding two terms.

As matters stand, President Roosevelt and Governor Dewey are practically certain to be the nominees of the two great political parties. The peculiar thing about Dewey's candidacy is that he isn't a candidate, which—after all—turns out to be the best way to run for office.

Of course either one of the gentlemen may refuse the nomination; but that never has happened.

The only question that remains unsolved is whether the country will elect Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey. Your Washington correspondent will have to offer an alibi. The alibi is that he doesn't know, and he refuses to record a "guess" in cold type.—J. E. Jones.

MAIL FOR THOSE IN SERVICE

Over and over again, the plea has been repeated for those at home to write to the men and women in service. It is an appeal which must be driven home with great force.

There is more than ample evidence to show that the men and women in service, and particularly those abroad desperately need the contact with their families, their friends and associates. Cut off completely from the life they knew so well, they flock around every time the mail arrives. It is, perhaps, the most important occasion of the day, or week.

It is so little to ask that those at home devote a fraction of their time to writing those they love and know. There are many who already regret the time wasted on unimportant matters, and who realize that they could have written only a note, to cheer up some lonely friend, far away.

It is far more than an act of kindness—it is a duty.—Frederick Post.

Women Till Fields, Harvest Crops

'Army' of 200,000 Steps Into Breach

One-fifth of the volunteers who went into the fields last summer as emergency farm laborers were women, reports Miss Florence Hall, chief, Women's Land Army division of the U. S. Crop corps. These approximately 200,000 women performed all kinds of farm chores, from planting, weeding, thinning, and harvesting every kind of vegetable and fruit, feeding and taking care of cows, chickens, pigs and other livestock, to driving tractors and farm trucks. Together with other members of the U. S. Crop corps, the migrant workers, and such special laborers as were imported from neighboring countries, and prisoners of war, they shared responsibility for the War Food administration's proud statement, "No 1943 crop losses of any consequence due to lack of labor."

For several years, women have been replacing men drawn from the farm to industry and to the armed services. Studies conducted in 1942 showed twice as many farm women doing farm chores as in 1941. This trend continued this year, and to the valiant, hard-working farm wives and daughters were added some thousands of town women. Teachers and college students on their long vacations, nurses, librarians, stenographers, clerks on short vacations, business women on week-ends, wives of servicemen, and other homemakers for parts of days, all have been among the army of seasonal workers helping with peak loads.

Numbers of women working in each state reflected the degree of need and, therefore, varied widely. In New England, several hundred college girls were recruited to work on the market-garden and dairy farms of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maine. Many of these girls were housed in groups; others lived on the farm where they worked. Women helped in one of the critical labor shortages of the season occasioned by the record-breaking potato crop in Aroostook county, Maine. One of the workers with a high record of performance was a 71-year-old Kentucky woman.

In the South, large numbers of placements of women workers were reported. Although some of these were women who customarily chop and pick cotton and shake peanuts, many were new to the fields.

Corn detasseling highlighted the work of the women in central states, but there was plenty of fruit picking, bean harvesting and haying. Business women were outstanding in their service.

Probably the states on the West coast presented the most diversified picture of kinds of crops and operations. Sugar beets, citrus fruits, raisin grapes, tomatoes, walnuts, apples, prunes, almonds, figs, cotton, hops, olives, potatoes; hoeing, thinning, cultivating, harvesting, picking, grading, packing, box-stacking, drying; business women, homemakers, industrial and clerical workers, college girls—the crop, the process, the worker, all totaled up to the kind of food production which is needed to win the war.

Industry has called upon women, and they have proved themselves; now agriculture is finding their value. All signs point to an even greater 1944 need and, therefore, a greater use of women farm workers in 1944.

Helps Save Peaches

This member of the Women's Land Army, a Cuban girl who is a student in Philadelphia, picked peaches on a New Jersey farm last summer.

Domestic Bristles

The hog which produces extra long bristles is a rough strain from China which is kept to a ripe old age. These long bristles are well suited to the production of many types of brushes. From 60 to 65 per cent of all brushes manufactured in the United States are made of bristles from 2½ to 3½ inches in length and are readily available from domestic hogs. Such bristles are needed in war industries.

Forest "Smoke-Jumper" in Togs

U. S. FOREST SERVICE PHOTO.

Close-up of forest "smoke-jumper." Helmet, mask, and heavy canvas outside suit are for protection against trees and brush in landing. Regular parachute is in pack on back, and emergency parachute, in front. After the "jumper" bails out, the plane circles and drops fire-fighting tools, rations, and rescue equipment by cargo parachute. Ten "smoke-jumpers" were on duty last summer in Siskiyou National Forest in Pacific Northwest—which the Japs apparently tried to set afire in 1942.

ANSWER IT WITH WAR BONDS!

WHILE your boy is away fighting, he's not only growing up into a man who will be glad to take his place beside you on the farm when he gets back. He's getting used to first class equipment—learning how to handle guns and machinery and jeeps. He isn't going to be pleased with run-down farm buildings and worn-out equipment. He's going to know what's what—and it's going to be up to you to see that the farm comes up to scratch.

Right now, War Bonds are helping to provide our boys with that fine fighting equipment, and thereby hastening the day of Victory. But afterward, you get $4 back for every $3 you put in, if the Bonds are held to maturity. And you can use it for all the things you'll be needing. Put it into new buildings and fences, new stock and maybe a home with modern comforts—and that super-duper tractor!

On farms and ranches all over the country, far-sighted owners and tenants are keeping careful track of places where money will have to be spent when the war is over. Against these future expenses they are salting away their dollars in War Bonds. It's the safest, easiest kind of postwar planning. The safest, because Uncle Sam stands behind them. The easiest, because you can get large or small denomination Bonds to suit your needs, at your bank, post office or Production Credit Association. Between trips to town you can order through your rural mail carrier, or write direct for them yourself.

But, however you buy, keep right on buying them!

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get $\frac{1}{4}$ more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back \$4 for every \$3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes along, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED TO WIN THIS WAR.

FACTS ABOUT WAR BONDS (Series E)

You can buy War Bonds from your bank, postmaster, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association. Don't wait. Do it by mail if you can't get to town!

For America's future, for your future, for your children's future—keep on buying WAR BONDS

FEESBERSBURG

May Day—bright and beautiful, and while we have no May-pole to dance around, we know it is a great day for city folks to enjoy the Parks, and out-door picnics; and every one seems so glad to get out in the open again. May is prove a happy season.

After a tearful April, welcome smiling May—with the tenderness of Spring-time spread all around us, giving promise of a fruitful season. Time for house-cleaning, garden-making—which has been delayed, lawn-mowing, early vegetables—such as rhubarb, onions, lettuce, greens, etc., new out-fits of clothing, the finish of schools for another season, Mother's Day, and many special programs. April gave us 12 clear days, 15 of clouds and rain—with cool air through.

Visitors at the C. S. Wolfe home recently were Mrs. Glenna Smith Boyer her sister, Mrs. Hattie Smith Saylor and ten-year-old son, Carmi, all of Frederick—with their brother, Richard Smith, of Woodsboro. Mr. Saylor is in service at Bainbridge, Md., since Good Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gilbert, of Bethel Heights, visited his sister, Mrs. Clara Wolfe last Monday. Their son, Levene, Fireman 2nd Class, has been moved from Bainbridge, Md. to Gulfport, Miss.

Lieut. Donald Utermahlen and his wife have moved from Santa Rosa, Cal. to Van Nuys, Calif., 6 miles from Hollywood. Once a 6-mile traveling thru' the Western States wrote—"I never want to leave this place as much as I did Denver, Col., for we have to leave too soon."

Last Wednesday Dr. and Mrs. Walter Buckley Clemson, his mother, Mrs. Lulu Buckley Clemson, and his sister, Mrs. Minnie Buckley Thomas, all of Baltimore, called on the Birely sisters at Grove Dale—pleasant friends.

C. Franklin Koons, his sister, Mrs. Rosa K. Bohn and neighbor, Mrs. Ruth Ritter were calling on friends in our town on Friday. The latter has had a shut-in time this winter with a heavy cold—then Grippe which is hard to shake off.

Mrs. Samuel Bohn and small daughter, Marlene, and given son, Levene Bohn, of Union Bridge, were supper guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Wolfe and in the evening the Wolfe's called on friends in Clear Ridge, where Wm. Corbin was home for 24 hours from Camp Campbell, Ky., to return to Camp Meade on Sunday night.

Raymond K. Angell is faring well at St. Petersburg, Fla., with the thermometer at 85 degrees at noon, and 78 degrees at 8:30 P. M. He is out doors much of the time, and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Elcie Miller, who returned to Philadelphia Thursday. His son, John Angell has been moved from Miami Beach to Tyndall Field, near Panama City, where he will have gunners school training, to be a gunner in an airplane; (that sounds awful to us). Mr. Angell thinks all rheumatics should dwell down there—but wouldn't the place be rather crowded.

From our former neighbor, Mrs. Claude Moore living near Frederick, we learn that her brother, Robert Carpenter received an honorable dismissal from military service because afflicted with asthma.

Beginning Jan. 2 with an enrollment of 55 at Mt. Union S. S. reached 86 during the quarter when 6 persons only missed once, and 21 were present every Sunday. The Men's Bible Class contributed $25.68, the Young Women's Class $13.90.

The January march of dimes to fight Infantile Paralysis this year amounted to $75,000. "The Mighty Oaks from tiny Acorns grow," so trust the little dimes—our smallest coin—are doing a great work.

One of the classes at the Elmer A. Wolfe School gave their teacher, Miss Virginia Lee Downing, from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, a pleasant surprise on Friday when they celebrated her birthday with a shower of handkerchiefs, choice refreshments and a fancy cake adorned with 21 candles which all went out as the door fanned shut, so saved her breath from blowing; but a good time was had by all.

Now we have lilacs coming into bloom, the pink and white flowering almond is a glow—but fades so quickly, the dainty dandelion blossoms show yellow prominence; and 'tis late for trailing arbutus—which was once abundant but now a rare find. Tulips are in season—of many shades of color, and hyacinths have been sweet and pure this spring. Last of all will come Decoration Day, when we hope for a lot of May flowers.

While the mocking-bird, who is on hand about 5 o'clock each evening, is getting off of some of his best imitations one of our neighbor boys has just brought in a wee baby rabbit, that was found alone on the porch one evening—the cutest baby of all, and we really have some interesting members of a Zoo not saying anything of an older Bunny that hops up our drive each day, and the little ground-hog is still here—after hibernating all winter.

PLAY SAFE. Don't make harsh laxatives a habit. Try new Post Raisin Bran to add gentle bulk to daily meals—help you keep regular. It's new—it's delicious!

LETTER FROM DETROIT

We have often said in our letters, that we read everything in the Record, even the Advertisements. And for the past few months, we certainly have something to look forward to that we did not have until those letters from the boys in the service and that new regular, "Ezra," have begun to appear. And as the other week, we read in his letter that Lieutenant Sell, lamented the fact that he could never write as lengthy a letter as your present correspondent, we want to remind him that it is not always the length of an article that counts, but the nature of its contents. It sometimes seems that we can never get started to write, as the same things are happening all the time, which I am sure is not the case with him. So do not try, Lieutenant, to ever get your letters as long as mine, but just keep them coming with as much interesting news as the censors will allow you. And we are sure that all of your friends join in this request.

And as for the articles headed "Homespun Philosophy." Well, while we would certainly like to know who the author of these letters, is, we realize that we may never have our curiosity satisfied, by newspaper rules we want to tell the author just how much we enjoy his comments on present and by-gone happenings and places. Some of them take us back to years so long in the past that we do not like to think of them, but which are mighty interesting reading to us. So we hope to have the pleasure of reading these articles each week, even after I may not be able to be numbered among the Record's correspondents, on account of old age infirmities.

While our country is at war with Germany and her allies in Europe and those Japanese rats in the Asiatic and South Pacific areas, Detroit is talking about declaring war on one of its worst enemies. We refer to the millions of rats with which the city is overrun. It is estimated that there are four rats to every inhabitant in the city, and we do not think that the estimate is much too high. In former years, the Department of Health had a squad of men at work a greater part of the year, trying to keep down the rat population, by the use of monoxide gas, which was sent into their dens by means of a hose attached to the exhaust pipe of motor cars, but lately we have not noticed any of these men on the job. Of course it is because of the man shortage that this is so. If garbage cans were kept covered (and it is required by law that one of such garbage receptacles be in use at every residence) a big help would be provided in controlling these pests.

Politics are beginning to warm up, as the time for the primaries approaches. It is conceded that the present Governor Kelly, will be nominated by the Republicans, and finally, after a long search for a candidate, hoping that a suitable one would throw his hat in the ring, it appears that the Democrats are preparing to draft the Chairman of their State Central Committee, all other suitable prospects having declined to make the race. Our Primaries like those of other states, have been moved forward a couple of months, and this is what is causing the political activity at this time.

As we have often said before, the weather is always a thing that can be spoken or written about, especially as the Government has removed the ban from such information. Well, after receiving a letter from Taneytown, in which mention was made of the excessive rains you folks have had in there, we can certainly congratulate ourselves on the pleasant weather our observer has handed us during the month of April. True, we have had some rain, but none that has thrown the farmers and war gardeners back very much. Along the way on a short trip last Sunday afternoon, we noticed many signs of this. Of course in the line of the seasons we are always a little behind your section, and this may prove an advantage to those engaged in furnishing the food that is required to feed our citizens.

As the activities of war in the foreign countries increase, we are realizing what we may expect in the line of casualties when the much discussed invasion of Germany and the countries controlled by it, takes place. This was brought much closer to us last week, when a gentleman who has been rooming with us for the past six years, was informed by the War Department that his son, a young man about 20 years of age, was missing in action over Germany, it is supposed, which supposition we presume is true, owing to the fact that he was a member of a bomber crew which was based in England, and we have been reading much about the activities of the air service, the past few weeks.

Every week, it seems to be getting harder for me to get up a letter to the Record. Not that there is nothing happening out here, but I have been getting an idea in my head that your readers are getting tired of reading about strikes, the black market, the doings and dissatisfactions of the OPA, and the numerous disagreeable things that are happening. Maybe as the summer advances, and if my health improves, I can write something about former years' happenings that will be more interesting than the efforts of the past few weeks.

Fighting Dogs Help Whip Japs

Canine Warriors Fight Their Way Into the Hearts of U. S. Soldiers.

CHICAGO.—When the first marine amphibian corps invaded Jap-held Bougainville, it was accompanied by 29 fighting dogs that repeatedly distinguished themselves with intelligence and courage and played an important role in the American victory.

This was the gist of a joint report released by the U. S. marine corps and Dogs for Defense, the canine selective service system, which has offices here.

This first platoon of dogs in active combat duty proved two things, the report said: That the dogs themselves are as dependable in battle as are their human companions and that the troops quickly came to place full confidence in the animals' intelligence.

Give Some Instances.

"The men soon realize," explained Gerald Murphy, director of Dogs for Defense, "that the K-9 warriors not only think for themselves but that they are actually superior to the human soldier in many respects. The time when people used to argue about whether or not dogs are really capable of 'thinking' has long since passed."

According to one paragraph of the official report:

"On 'D' day, Andy, a Doberman pinscher, led 'M' company all the way to the roadblock. He alerted scattered sniper opposition and undoubtedly was the means of preventing loss of life."

On the night of the seventh day, the report continued, another Doberman, named Rex, alerted Japs in the vicinity and at daybreak of the eighth day, the Japs staged an attack that failed as a surprise because of Rex's warning.

There were numerous stories of dogs leading the marines through jungles and warning them of impending traps, together with accounts of dogs like Jack, a German shepherd, who was wounded in the back but carried a message from his company to the command post. The telephone lines had been shot out, and the job of bringing up help depended solely on the dog.

Good in Fighting.

No mention was made in the official report of dogs being used for hand-to-hand attack against Jap soldiers, although it is well known among recognized dog trainers that both the German shepherd and the Doberman pinscher frequently are trained for attack work in civilian police duty. A man with a bayonet, these trainers have said, would "have his hands" full defending himself from a heavy, well-trained attack dog.

Murphy said that Dogs for Defense needs more recruits to supplement the work already being done by K-9 corps members. He is seeking a special group of male Doberman pinschers, weighing at least 70 pounds each, standing higher than 27 inches at the withers, and between one and four years of age.

Method of Increasing Plasma Is Discovered

CHICAGO.—Persons who donate blood, from which plasma is obtained, can do so much more frequently if they get back their red cells, physicians reported here.

The discovery may make it possible to increase the frequency of blood donations to the point where the entire plasma requirements of the armed forces can be obtained from a vastly smaller number of persons than at present.

The new technique, described in the Journal of the American Medical association, has proven so successful in tests on six volunteer donors that the investigators recommended the practice of re-infusion of red cells into the donors where there is malnutrition in the donating population or where a large proportion of the donors are women, who develop anemia easily.

Bulls and Horses Get

Good News; Women's Bad

WASHINGTON.—Government agencies have made three major rulings in recent days on the subject of wearing apparel. They were:

1. Bulls may lay in a new supply of copper nose rings.

2. Women, however, must do without synthetic rubber girdles for quite a while yet.

3. Horses, on the other hand, may outfit themselves with new leather collars.

No discrimination against women was intended, the agencies insist, there being enough copper for bulls' nose rings and enough leather for horse collars, but not as much synthetic rubber as had been estimated.

Napoleon Stays Away, So 140-Year Job Lapses

RYE, ENGLAND.—The job of watching for Napoleon to cross the Dover strait to invade England has lapsed.

The late Chummy Barton was paid $20 a year to stand on the cliffs and watch the sea for signs that Napoleon was coming. The job had been handed down from man to man for about 140 years. When Chummy died, municipal authorities decided that his job was now dispensable.

We have been hearing from time to time of freak eggs. The latest was brought in by Merle S. Baumgardner. It had a plain V on the end, though the left stroke was not as deeply marked as the right. But this egg had other marks, and among them an X. We hope that in the future when the hens predict "victory," there will be no unknown quantity about it.

GRANDMOTHER'S BOND WITH THE FUTURE - WAR BONDS

EMBLEM OF THE GRANDMOTHERS LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, D. C.: "Grandmother's Bond with the Future—War Bonds" is the slogan of the Treasury's new campaign urging grandparents to buy Bonds and stamps for their grandchildren. The official emblem is the old-fashioned sampler reproduced above.

The Grandmothers League was founded by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army Chief-of-Staff, who bought Bonds from Secretary Morgenthau for her three grandchildren. Mrs. Marshall suggests that grandparents insure their grandchildren's future by buying Bonds or starting stamp albums for them.

War Bonds Mean Freedom From Want

NATIONAL SECURITY AWARD GIVEN TELEPHONE COMPANY

Colonel Henry A. Reninger, Acting Regional Director of the Office of Civilian Defense, Third Civilian Defense Region, is shown here presenting the National Security Award to August B. Haneke, Vice-President and General Manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, for protection and security of telephone facilities.

The National Security Award was presented to The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City by Colonel Henry A. Reninger, Acting Regional Director of the Office of Civilian Defense, Third Civilian Defense Region, at a luncheon at the Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

The award was conferred upon the Telephone Company for its excellence in observing the security and protection regulations of the United States Army and other Government Agencies, for its close cooperation with the armed forces, industry, and Government in every phase of the war effort, and the exceptional precautions it has taken in safeguarding the telephone facilities within the State of Maryland. Lt. General William N. Haskell, National Director of Civilian Defense, in announcing the award said, "The cooperation of the Telephone Company in Civilian Defense and war programs has been so complete and thorough that it is an outstanding example of the patriotic conversion of an industry to wartime needs."

Colonel Reninger in presenting the award which was received by August B. Haneke, Vice-President and General Manager for the Company and 6,000 telephone employees in Maryland, said, "Your Company was cited for the general excellence in the observance of security and protection regulations of the United States Army, as represented by the Third Service Command. Operations of your system were approved by the Federal Communications Commission. Approval for all operations also came from the Maryland Council of Defense where principal installations of your Company are located. The Regional Headquarters nominated your Company to the Board of Review which gave final approval authorizing the award."

"Your employees, by volunteer enrollment and training as members of the United States Citizens Defense Corps, have evidenced their patriotic zeal in the creation of an efficient organization for the total protection of your Company's properties. The award indicates a fine spirit of cooperation of management and employees beyond the call of duty."

Mr. Haneke in accepting the award said, "I want to pay special tribute to the intelligence, alertness, industry and loyalty to duty of our employees through whose unstinted efforts this award has been made possible. They have had before them the continuance without interruption of telephone service so that the ends of our military and industrial life, during this period of great emergency, might function at high speed."

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor in congratulating the telephone employees said "That the effective work performed by your organization has been recognized and appreciated fully by your government is proven by the National Security Award which is being presented to you today. When the final story is written such an organization as yours will be credited with a great share of the results obtained."

"The Maryland Company, its men and women working as a well coordinated team, has had upon its shoulders the responsibilities of safeguarding the telephone speech-ways of this State. The job that has been done is real evidence of their loyal devotion to duty," said Lloyd B. Wilson, President of the Telephone Company.

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore in praising the employees and the Company for achieving the Award said, "The presentation emphasizes the fact that this war is not only won on the battle front but also on the home front. For it is in this last phase that the good work of your Company and its employees is displayed."

FARMERS are playing a vital role in the Victory drama. Most farmers are doing their utmost to insure that our armed forces and our civilian workers are getting ample supplies of the right kinds of food for continued maximum efficiency. All of this is being accomplished under unusual circumstances such as labor shortages, scarcity of essential feeds, fertilizers, gasoline, spray materials, and limited machinery repairs and replacements.

On the other hand, we must admit that our extra effort is being more adequately rewarded than previously and that along with such sacrifices and hardships as are encountered, there is some gain; and justly so. The farmer deserves every bit of credit and money he gets for his part. In that knowledge, however, lies real danger. Are we apt to become complacent and feel we are doing our part? CAN we do more?

SELFISHNESS OR SELFLESSNESS: War is selfish business. No war ever began from purely philanthropic motives. To the aggressor, the gain always outweighs the sacrifice. To the defenders, the violation of human rights and liberties forms the common meeting ground of joint agreement and effort. However, victories are not won by selfishness. They depend on selflessness—a willingness and desire to sacrifice individual good for the good of all. That is why both sides always must try valiantly to establish in the minds and hearts of their peoples the justice of their cause. That is the will that wins.

OPPORTUNITY? If each of us were faced with the necessity of answering honestly the question—Am I doing everything within my power to speed the day of victory—the answer in most cases would be "No." Some of us can't forget or forego things which in a time of crisis matter little.

The two things most essential to waging successful warfare are food and money. The farmer recognizes his responsibility in food production. Does he fully recognize his opportunity to help provide the munitions of war?

OBLIGATION? Government Bonds offer the farmer an opportunity to have a part in providing our fighting men with ample and effective training and equipment. They also are an opportune way of laying aside reserves to meet needed repair and replacement costs after the war. Are they an obligation? Oh yes! The obligation of the government to pay back the loan with interest is no greater than our obligation to LEND the government our support. Remember? WE are the government. "WE THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES."

PRIVILEGE? The greatest joys in life come from the privileges we enjoy, and which we are now fighting to defend. It is not only an opportunity and an obligation, but also a privilege to have as great a part as possible in insuring to ourselves, our children, and to generations yet unborn those freedoms which distinguish the bond and the free.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have. . . as well as you possibly can. This column by the housewife's friend tells you how.

CRACKED BOILERS

IT IS not uncommon for a home owner to be startled by the cracking of a boiler during the idle season. With the boiler out of commission, there seems no reason or excuse for such a calamity. Yet there is a very good reason for it, although the origin may date back to the time when the boiler was installed. A boiler is made up of sections, which during installation are held together by what are called tie-rods; that is, rods passing through to draw the sections tightly together by the setting up of nuts at the ends. The tightening of these tie-rods is necessary during installation, but when once the sections are brought together, the tie-rod is no longer needed. The nuts at the ends can then be loosened, or, as a matter of fact, the rods can be withdrawn entirely. If the nuts are left tight, rust will form under them, and in time may produce so much pressure that the sections will give way under it. Unfortunately, there is no way in which the home owner can check up on this condition. He can only hope that the boiler was installed by someone who understood the situation and guarded against it by the loosening of the tie-bolt nuts.

Shellac for Floors

Question: Shellac is recommended for hardwood floors, with scatter rugs. But from my experience with shellac, I conclude that good spar varnish would be better. What do you think?

Answer: When correctly applied, shellac is an excellent finish, and will withstand heavy wear. However, it should be applied only to bare wood. If there is any old finish left on your floors, it should all be taken off with a heavy floor machine. The shellac used should not be more than six months old, and of top quality; the dealer can assure you on both these points. Shellac should not be used as it comes, but be thinned with two to three parts of good denatured alcohol to every two parts of shellac. Under these conditions you can get excellent service.

Scorched Rug

Question: In taking a kerosene stain from an old Persian rug it was covered with brown paper and ironed. But the iron was too hot and the rug was scorched. What will remove the mark?

Answer: The scorch mark is actual damage to the tips of the fibers of the rug. One way to take out the mark is to rub gently with medium to coarse emery cloth.

Wood Shingles

Question: In laying wood shingles I am told that there should be spaces between the roof boards. Is this so?

Answer: No; it is not. Spaces are supposed to be for ventilation, but that seems to be unnecessary. If it were, roof insulation would not be possible. For instructions on laying wood shingles write the Red Cedar Shingle Bureau, Chicago.

Paint Thinner

Question: I have used clear gasoline in place of turpentine for thinning house paint. It seems to work, but evaporates quickly. Could I use leaded gasoline for the purpose?

Answer: Gasoline is not recommended, for it evaporates completely. Turpentine, on the other hand, goes into combination with the paint, and the results are longer lasting.

Outdoor Grill

Question: We want to build an outdoor fireplace for cooking. Where can we get plans?

Answer: There have been a number of articles on grill design in the magazines Popular Science and Popular Mechanics. You can look them up at a public library.

Coating Wallpaper

Question: Is there some kind of clear shellac I could use to protect my kitchen wallpaper, especially above the stove?

Answer: You can use good quality white shellac; or a water clear varnish to be had from a dealer in wallpaper.

Painting Fiber Rug

If the rug is used indoors you can use dye to be had at a drug store. For outdoor use, get house paint thinned with one-quarter as much turpentine. Rub it into the fiber instead of merely coating the surface.

Brown Stained Maple

Question: What will remove the brown stain from my maple kitchen set? I wish to have it white.

Answer: Remove the varnish with turpentine remover, being sure to take off all traces afterward with turpentine. Bleach the brown stain with a liberal coating of a hot saturated solution of oxalic acid. Leave it on overnight, then rinse with clear water. When dry, smooth by rubbing with very fine sandpaper, wipe off dust with benzine (careful of fire!) and finish as desired.

Run Wolf Run

By WILLIAM MURDOCH

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

"YOU know Lige—my boy friend Lige Waters?" asked Mabel Wheeler incredulously. Her round blue eyes were large and unblinking as she placed an order of stew on the counter before Private Mack Jellaby, in town on leave from camp nearby.

"Aw, sure I know Lige," Jellaby replied with bland untruthfulness. Tell 'em anything, that was his motto. "You say he was stationed on the coast for a while? Sure, I was there with him." Jellaby twisted his lean, dark face into a thoughtful frown. "Let's see, your name is—um—" he looked at the waitress.

"Mabel Wheeler," she said.

"Sure, Mabel," Jellaby replied. "Why, I've heard him speak of you dozens of times. In fact," he said, lowering his voice and leaning across the counter toward the plump, comely girl whose eager smile was made vivid by her red lips and white teeth, "he gave me a message for you when he heard I'd be stationed near his old home town."

"He did? Lige gave you a message for me?" Mabel exclaimed delightedly. "Tell me!"

Private Mack Jellaby glanced around the lunchroom, then returned his cautious scrutiny to Mabel's expectant smile. "Not here," he said. "It's—well, it's personal. Can I meet you somewhere tonight? Alone? I know Lige wouldn't want anyone to overhear what I have to tell you."

Mabel hesitated. Her pap had told her to be careful of these soldiers. So had Lige. And if Pap or anyone else saw her with this young fellow, smart-aleck that he was—

Then he froze in his tracks. Jumpin' Jeeps!

"No, I couldn't do that," she said. "If my pap ever learned—"

"Ah!" said Jellaby in haughty deprecation. "He doesn't need to know." He closed one eye then, and sighed. "Lige sure gave me an earful to tell you. He wouldn't trust it to paper, else he'd have written."

That did it. Mabel's blue eyes swam. "All right, soldier," she said quickly. "I'll—meet you in the village park at the edge of town at nine o'clock tonight. I'll be waiting on the bench at the end of the middle path."

Jellaby concealed his triumphant smile behind a paper napkin. "I'll be there," he promised.

Finally the clock in the tower of the little village hall said 8:45. Jellaby started toward the designated place. He was breathless in anticipation.

The park loomed as a vague blur in the dim light cast by a lonely street lamp. Jellaby's feet made no noise as he turned from the sidewalk and entered the soft shadows. The path wound through groves of trees and clumps of shrubbery, and as Jellaby neared the rendezvous his pulse beat fast at the thought of Mabel awaiting him. He rounded a bend and saw her, a dim figure in white.

Then he froze in his tracks. Jumpin' Jeeps! Directly behind Mabel he saw another figure, tall and rangy, a slouch hat pulled down low on its forehead. A rifle was cradled in the long arms. For several seconds Private Mack Jellaby was rooted to the spot. Armed himself, he would have enjoyed combat. Liar, trifier—he admitted to himself. But he was no coward. But he was no fool, either. His glib tongue couldn't get him out of this jam. And all he had to fortify his speech were his two fists, while that other guy—it must be Mabel's old man—flad a rifle.

He had been tricked! The girl had purposely led him on. She had told her father about him, and this was a trap. They thought they'd make an example of him to discourage other soldiers. But there was still time to run. Jellaby turned and crashed through thickets and shrubs, expecting any minute a bullet in his back.

He didn't stop racing until he reached the sentry. Then he stood and panted his relief. For the first time in his life he was glad to see one of those guys.

Mabel Wheeler was peeved, too—because the soldier had failed to keep his appointment. She really did want to hear what Lige had told him. So badly did she want to hear it, in fact, that she had waited half the night, and her only company was that statue of the Civil War Confederate volunteer which stood behind the bench.

Homespun Philosophy

IN THE DOG HOUSE!

Wow! I mean bow-wow! Am I in the dog house? And I cross my heart, honest injun, hope to die, I am innocent. It all happened in such a fluky manner, I'm still speechless. I'm going to tell you how it all happened then you can judge for yourself.

I went to a lodge meeting. The fellows thinking they needed a little diversion decided to put on a few side degrees. So the evening was spent in hilarious fun and laughter. During its course one of the fellows painted his lips with red lip stick and kissed me right on the middle of my dome where there is no hair. I immediately forgot the incident. When I came home, way past midnight, my wife looked me over from head to foot. (That is one of her faults.) She, of course, couldn't miss the lip stick. Well, after the rumpus died down and I came to, I found myself in the dog house.

Oh, the injustice of it all. I am in no way to blame but I must bear the punishment. This thing has really set me to thinking. It all came about through a misunderstanding. That misunderstanding has led to a great deal of sorrow.

And yet the world owes a great deal to sorrow. Most of the Psalms in our Bible were born in the wilderness. Most of the Epistles were written in a prison. The greatest poets wrote in their verse what they learned by suffering cold and starvation in an unheated attic. Paul Bunyan lived the allegory he later indited in bonds, and Bedford Jail should be thanked for the "Pilgrim's Progress". The greatest thoughts of the greatest thinkers were first tried in the crucible of fire. Take comfort ye occupants of the dog house! When the Director of our Fate is about to make use of us he puts us in the fire.

We never are called upon to carry more than we can bear. We are always able to endure the present hour. As our day, so shall our strength be. We are led to the breaking point only through self pity.

We are put into the dog house to teach us a lesson. Sometimes we do not learn the first time. The punishment is repeated until we have mastered it.

I hope my time in the dog house is soon up. I want to be reinstated in the affections of my wife. And I swear, next time I'll not forget; I'll wipe the lip stick off.

WRITE this down. Ask grocer for Post Raisin Bran—a magic combination of crisp-toasted wheat and bran flakes plus California seedless raisins.

LONDON.—Exasperated Britons who purchased flashlights to find every bulb a dud, got an explanation recently.

The bulbs were part of a pre-war consignment of lights made in Japan which the Japs used to dump in Britain at the rate of 40,000,000 a year.

About 90 per cent of the bulbs were said to be bad.

Service Station Operators Protest

The Wichita, Kansas, Independent Service Station Operators' Relief Association adopted the following resolution at a meeting held Feb. 29, 1944:

Whereas, in war time it is necessary that good citizens submit cheerfully and patriotically to regulatory laws such as the Price Control Act which is operated by the Office of Price Administration; and, Whereas, it is unconstitutional, unnecessary and unreasonable that such acts be enforced by Star Chamber methods and that citizens of the United States be deprived of their constitutional rights, including their day in court; and,

Whereas, it is unconstitutional, unpatriotic and unfair for said act to be enforced by an OPA commissioner who acts as judge, jury, prosecutor and bailiff all rolled into one without any right to appeal to the Courts of the State or Nation; and,

Whereas, such "kangaroo" courts suspend citizens from business as a penalty for alleged violations of regulations and this suspension without recourse to duly constituted courts denies the citizen his right to his livelihood in violation of the fifth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, providing that no citizen shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law—such trials before a hearing commissioner not being due process of law; and,

Whereas it is the duty of all good citizens to maintain freedom on the home front while our boys are fighting and dying for it on the battlefronts.

Now, therefore, be it hereby resolved by the Wichita Independent Service Station Operators' Relief Association:

1. That Congress be petitioned to amend the Price Control Act so that all alleged violations of said law or regulations promulgated thereunder will be prosecuted and tried in the duly constituted courts of our State or Nation.

2. That we enlist the support of all other interested citizens in bringing this matter to the attention of Congress and in attempting to obtain prompt, proper and effective Congressional action; and,

3. That we keep faith with our boys who are offering their lives on foreign seas and shores to prevent despotism from being imposed upon us from without by pledging our consecrated efforts, our fortunes, and our sacred honor, to prevent tyranny from being imposed upon us from within while they are away.

It was Andrew Jackson, one of the patron saints of the Democratic party, who said that "as our government secures to us the rights of person and of property, it will be worth defending." He had not heard of the "redistribution of the social surplus" by popular vote.

There is talk about Congress not working in harmony with the president, but it might be quite as true to put it the other way around.

PAUL CROSSES INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT: Acts 16:13-15; Philippians 3:7-14.
GOLDEN TEXT: I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.—Philippians 3:14.

Pressing "toward the mark" (Phil. 3:14) well describes the zeal and intense devotion with which Paul lived his life for Christ. He was wholehearted in giving himself to the preaching of the gospel. Our lesson tells of his carrying of the gospel into Europe by the guidance and blessing of the Holy Spirit.

It seems appropriate to consider the two Scripture portions in reverse order, looking first at Paul's declaration in Philippians of his passion to know Christ, and then in Acts of his purpose to make Him known. The man with vision is eager to serve. "A task without a vision makes a man a drudge; a vision without a task makes him a visionary; a task and a vision makes him a missionary."

I. Paul's Passion to Know Christ (Phil. 3:7-14).

There were many things in Paul's life of which he was proud, until he met Christ, and then everything else lost its importance and interest.

All things in life are relative in value and our attachment to them is determined by our heart attitude.

Now being spiritually minded and having found in Christ real satisfaction for his soul, the Christian counts as refuse the things in which the world takes such pride and satisfaction.

To "know Him" calls for a depth of experience, sacrifice and of joy which is not easy to describe in words. It begins with a divine righteousness imparted by faith. Self-righteousness will not suffice. This is not a matter of law, but of grace.

It is a resurrection faith and therefore powerful. It is a faith which accepts suffering for Christ as a part of fellowship with Him—not only bearable but glorious because it is in the power of His resurrection.

That fellowship is one day to be complete and eternal, for there is to be for Paul the assured experience of a personal resurrection out from among the dead (v. 11). The faith of a Christian looks beyond the grave.

All this has to do with the present, as well as the blessed future. The man who has this kind of spiritual experience shares the purpose of Paul expressed in verses 12-14. Here there is no resting back in self-satisfied comfort, no pride in one's past victories, no sense of having "arrived."

Paul saw not only the necessity but the blessedness of going from victory to victory. Too many Christians of today are entirely satisfied with what they have attained (and it is usually all too little).

There is a prize to be gained, the prize of our "high calling in Christ Jesus." Let us, like Paul, be filled with holy dissatisfaction with ourselves until we reach that blessed goal.

The man who had such a vision was ready for God's call to carry the gospel into Europe.

II. Paul's Purpose to Make Christ Known (Acts 16:13-15).

The story of the conversion of Lydia has many elements of special interest. It presents the turning point in the progress of the gospel, which by the grace and leading of God brought it northward to Europe rather than southward into Africa. Many of us have heard because of the way Paul was led, and one wonders if Europe and America might not otherwise have been the "dark continents" rather than Africa. We are what we are by the grace of God.

Then we note that the first convert was a woman. She was not the last woman to give an attentive ear and a believing heart to the gospel message. The church through all its history has been blessed by the readiness of women to bear and heed the gospel.

We like to note that she set a pattern of hospitality and service which her sisters in the church have maintained (see v. 15). She "constrained" the visiting preachers to enjoy the comforts of her fine home, and thus put forward the work of Christ (see III John 5-8).

It is encouraging to note how perfectly the leading of the Holy Spirit worked out in the experience of Paul and his brethren. The Lord sent His prepared messenger to the place where there was a prepared heart waiting to receive the Word with gladness.

We may confidently go on the errands of our God, knowing that when He leads, He goes before and prepares the way. That does not mean that there will be no trials and difficulties. Paul had plenty of them (see II Cor. 11:23-33). But it does mean that we may go with the assurance of blessed results, in His name, and with the grace to bear whatever comes along the way—for His glory.

Jobs and Taxes

America is going to need many, good, steady jobs soon after the war. Plenty will be available, too, if business holds up. With this hope in mind, the U. S. Department of Commerce issued a book last year called "Markets After the War," to help the Committee on Economic Development measure the public's post-war needs. Some of the statements in the book took on new color recently from recommendations in the now-famous Baruch Report.

One of the things proposed by Bernard M. Baruch and John M. Hancock is that Congress get busy right away and make a tax law to take effect on "X-Day," the day Hitlerism folds up. This law is to guarantee lower taxes on business to relieve its uncertainty. These are well-chosen words admitting a harsh fact: If jobs are going to be abundant tax laws must be changed.

Taxes Kill Jobs

More than two-thirds of this country's factory output today consists of war goods. Many manufacturers are making absolutely nothing else. To meet war's demands, factories have expanded rapidly since Pearl Harbor. What they did in pre-war years is less than half of what they are doing now. Under the law, most of their volume classifies as "excess," taxed at 85 cents on the dollar.

After the war, if the government's levy is still 85 per cent of all profits above pre-war profits, manufacturers will have every reason to quit pushing for increased production. Here is the main reason: 85 per cent from 100 per cent leaves 15 per cent, and who will work twice as hard and take twice as much risk if the law lets him keep only $1.50 of every $10 honestly earned by the extra work?

No Small Thing

A few cases of discouragement wouldn't matter but all of industry is involved. Of course business can slide down to its pre-war volume, approximately where the tax on "excess profits" begins, but don't forget that America had eight million people unemployed in the pre-war years. If employment is to remain high, annual volume of business after the war must exceed 1940's volume and this calls for a new tax law.

Look back at the Commerce Department's book for a moment. It forecasts a post-war demand for automobiles 100 per cent bigger than the 1940 demand. Such a market, if supplied, will make jobs all right and help prosperity, but will it be supplied? The automobile output in 1940 was about four million. Can the automobile industry double it? The answer is "Yes" under fair conditions, but if the present tax law remains unchanged for half a year, it won't be done.

A Ceiling on Work

The lowest tax a car manufacturer has to pay is 40 per cent. That's on 1940's volume or less, so every $10 of profit on that much business leaves him $6. This works okay on the first four million cars but the tax rate will be 85 per cent on the second four million, i.e., on profits above pre-war profits. On that part of the job every $10 earned is worth $1.50. Even that niggardly gain is subject to income tax later.

With such a prospect of ruin in sight, any business man would know enough to buy tax-free government bonds instead, that pay 2 per cent. The bad feature is that buying government bonds does not create any jobs or build any cars. If the excess profits tax does not end with the war as Baruch suggests, depression is right around the corner. We will be fortunate if it is not a revolution.

WAR BONDS in Action

A Spider bridge crossing in Australia is a necessary part of jungle training.

Our men are facing strange new situations to keep the battle lines from our shores. We help them when we buy War Bonds, and we let them down when we don't. Buy them and hold 'em!

War Bonds and the Farmer

by J. L. Tennant
Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics
Rhode Island State College

SOUND farm management suggests that funds should be reserved now to provide for depreciation, for insurance against risks, and for expected future outlays. The purchase of War Bonds is one of the best ways to conserve such savings.

Every experienced farmer knows he must keep buildings in repair, and that machinery wears out or becomes obsolete. In our present crisis, many of the outlays needed to maintain the farm plant must be deferred. The lumber, minerals and chemicals now produced and our skilled and unskilled labor must be used to produce foods and fibre, build ships, make airplanes, and provide the other goods and services essential to the prosecution of the war.

As our farm machinery gets older, as buildings go without painting, and with minimum attention to other repairs, the needs grow. When the war is over, our industries again will make civilian goods. Saving money and building a reserve through the purchase of War Bonds now, will enable a farmer to buy the equipment and the other goods and services which then will be available.

Savings Are Beneficial

The savings from current income should include funds to replace household equipment and furnishings, to buy new equipment, and to install a water system, a central heating plant, electricity, or some other service which will add to the convenience and comfort of family living.

A back-log in War Bonds will help to carry the farm business through a year in which expenses exceed the returns. Farming is subject to many hazards. A few of the risks are price changes, unfavorable weather, the outbreak of disease, the attack of a destructive insect, and the sudden illness of the operator. Growers of cash crops know that prices vary from year to year. Savings set aside during years when prices are relatively high, will help to carry the business through a year when returns are small. A potato grower who put part of his receipts from the 1942 and 1943 crops into War Bonds will find such a reserve is extremely helpful in a year of low prices. A few hundred dollars in War Bonds are very useful when the farm family faces an emergency as a result of a serious illness or accident.

In planning for the future of the family or the business, each farm operator will find reserves for a specific purpose are desirable. With one it will be a provision for the education of children; with another funds for retirement may be important. With a young man especially, such reserves will furnish the first payment for the purchase of a farm. A farmer who owns the land he operates will find such a fund useful if and when an opportunity to purchase additional land develops.

Saving Time Varies

The time of the year when money to buy War Bonds is available varies with the type of farming. On dairy farms income usually is received monthly or semimonthly. The expenses of the poultry farmer are heavy during the months that chickens are being raised. Producers of cash crops have large outlays during the planting and growing season.

But depreciation is continuous. Therefore, irrespective of the type of farming, definite provision should be made to reserve in War Bonds part of the receipts from sales of crops, livestock, or livestock products.

United States War Bonds may be bought in various amounts and are redeemable. For every $3.00 invested, $4.00 will be returned at the end of 10 years. They are safe. The interest rate compares favorably with that from savings deposits. Investing in War Bonds helps to finance the war. Following the war, such savings will provide the farm operator with the cash to buy improvements for his farm and home; to educate his children; and to do the other things which he or his family wish to undertake, at a time when loans may be difficult to obtain.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have . . . as well as you possibly can. This column by the homeowner's friend tells you how.

STONE FOUNDATIONS

IN PUTTING up a building of any sort, it is never wise to have wood in direct contact with the earth. Sooner or later trouble will be sure to come from the rotting of the wood through dampness or from attack by termites or other insects. Some kinds of wood such as cypress and redwood are resistant to trouble from rotting, but in time, even these are not entirely immune. In anything but a shack, the parts in contact with the earth should be of masonry, with well made poured concrete the first choice. When alterations to an old building or regrading around it may bring the wooden parts into contact with soil, it is best to replace the woodwork with concrete. Sometimes it is possible to protect the wooden parts with a concrete wall, but for safety, this should be waterproofed with a coating of tar.

Soundproofing

Question: I live in an old house with a party wall. My neighbors begin their day when I am ready to retire. Is there any way I can have a room insulated against sound?

Answer: Thorough soundproofing is not possible, but fair results may be had by lining the noisy wall with a double layer of insulating material. Fur out the wall with 2 by 4 inch studs, nailing them in place at the floor and ceiling. Nail a one-inch (or thicker) insulating blanket between the studs and then cover the wall with an insulating wall-board.

An old plaything comes in a new model. This all-wood version of an indoor swing, on display at the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, resembles a scooter. It is suspended at three points.

Shingle Stain

Question: What is the formula for mixing shingle stain?

Answer: Mix in the proportion of four parts raw linseed oil, two parts coal-tar creosote and one part japan drier. For colors other than brown, tint with color-in-oil thinned with linseed oil to the above formula.

Lumber for Bookcase

Question: I wish to make some wall bookcases. What wood could I use other than white pine? Would maple be too hard for me to handle?

Answer: White pine is easiest to work with. Maple, birch or oak can be used, but these woods are harder and cutting would not be so easy.

Fuel Oil Stains

Question: How can stains of fuel oil be removed from asbestos shingles on the outside of a house?

Answer: Wash repeatedly with a solution of washing soda in water; three pounds to the gallon.

Painting Screen Door

Question: Which side of a screen door should I paint so that people cannot see through it from the street?

Answer: For best results and appearance, paint both sides.

Painting Over Casein

Question: What should I do to walls which are now finished with casein paint, before applying oil paint?

Answer: A clean surface is all that is necessary.

Tin Roof Leaks

Question: Paint on my tin roof has curled up at the joints and rain leaks in. Should I replace this tin with other types of roofing or can it be repaired?

Answer: Soldering open joints may stop the leakage. Remove the old paint, clean the metal and apply a prime coat of good quality red lead paint; allowing a week or more for drying. Finish with a good quality outside house paint in a light color. If the tin is in good condition I see no reason for replacing it.

Build Giant U. S. Base in Marshalls

Fighting Engineers of Navy
Doing Great Job.

NAMUR, KWAJALEIN ATOLL, MARSHALL ISLANDS.—A powerful American naval aid air base is rising at a brisk pace out of the wreckage of Roi and Namur islands, until a few days ago a pair of Japanese strong points in the Marshalls.

Seabees, fighting engineers of the navy, are using giant bulldozers to rush construction of the bomb and shell-smashed islands. Heaps of dead Japs, airplane wreckage and damaged fuel tanks are being cleared away.

The only hunting left for the marines of the Fourth division who took the islands are a few Japanese hiding in the thick underbrush on the northeast point of Namur, known as coffin corner, where the fighting was hardest. The leathernecks now have time to tidy up their fox holes, while on the beach 15 specially trained dogs are exercised occasionally.

No sea or air opposition has been offered by the Japanese yet. Not a single Japanese plane or surface ship has been sighted in the vicinity. Actual fighting on Roi lasted four hours and on Namur 24—and more than 120 hours have passed since the attack on the Marshalls began.

Seabees coming ashore right behind the marines found one of their greatest rehabilitation jobs waiting for them. After incredible heavy naval aid aerial bombardment there was hardly a spot on the islands where bombs and shells hadn't left devastating marks.

Only one woman was found on the islands. She was a native crouching in a tunnel. Indications are that there were as many as 500 working on the islands before the invaders struck. They fled to outer islets, crossing on reefs, without getting a scratch.

One of the few Japanese prisoners taken apparently was a firm believer in homeland propaganda. He bragged to a marine:

"Well, you took this island, but you'll never take Pearl Harbor."

Sons of Five Generals

Fighting in Marshalls

WASHINGTON.—The American forces invading the Marshalls included the sons of five marine corps generals.

One of them, Capt. James L. Denig, son of Brig. Gen. Robert L. Denig, director of public relations, died in the action.

The others in the battle were: Lieut. Col. Alexander A. Vandegrift Jr., son of Lieut. Gen. Vandegrift, commandant of the marine corps.

Maj. Richard K. Schmidt, son of Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, commander of the fourth division, the marine unit invading the Marshalls.

First Lieut. Joseph C. Fegan Jr., son of Major General Fegan, commanding officer of Camp Joseph H. Pendleton, Calif.

Second Lieut. David A. Brewster, son of Brig. Gen. David L. S. Brewster, now with the first marine amphibious corps in the Pacific.

Canada Will Use 5,000

Germans in Lumber Camps

WINNIPEG, MAN.—More than 5,000 German prisoners of war from the large internment camp near Lethbridge, Alta., have been assigned to work in lumbering camps of northern Alberta, Ontario, and Quebec, it was learned from reliable sources.

More than 1,000 German prisoners are now working in lumbering camps of northern Alberta, half of them near White Court and the others in the Lesser Slave lake area. They comprised the first working parties to be sent out.

About 400 more went to lumbering camps in the Thunder bay regions north of Lake Superior. The next movement will place 500 German captives in the forests, generally northeast of Quebec City. The prisoners are paid 50 cents for an eight-hour day.

Gets Vengeance for Two

Brothers Slain by Japs

BOUGAINVILLE.—Staff Sgt. William Baker, Oakland, Calif., has exacted vengeance from the Japanese for the deaths of his two brothers. Philip Baker was killed by bombs at Pearl Harbor, and Robert went down with the carrier Wasp.

Sergeant Baker was a member of a 13-day patrol through the jungles led by Capt. John McCurdy, Des Moines, Iowa. He was in charge of a platoon which killed a Japanese patrol of eight men. "They had their day; now I've had mine," Baker said.

He has spent 13 years in the army and is now with the Thirty-seventh army division on this island.

Won't Pray for Peace;

Brother's Fixing That.

SEATTLE, WASH.—Lieut. Walby McKay of the marines, home on leave, was puzzled by the almost idolatrous admiration of the schoolmates of his six-year-old brother Larry. The teacher explained that last week first graders were asked to pray for peace. Larry refused. "That's taken care of," he explained. "My brother's in the marines."

OUR RIGHTeous CAUSE

All hands to the helm,
The ship must be manned be,
We stand each one for the realm,
No turning back say we.

The hand that holds the rein, that guides the plow
Holds steady in the furrow that it makes,
We see our destiny and feel it now
Our cause is dear, we pay the price it takes.

Boldly we plod along the rugged way,
One hundred thirty million strong are we;
The night may seem dark now, but coming day
Will see us as we be, both strong and free.

God has not made us to be slaves,
Our freedom is our choicest heritage,
We cover not before world haughty

For freedom we will every battle wage.

Science, art and intellect combine
To give us strength, and hold our daily course,
We will with valor power combine
Nor ever be the victims of remorse.

Tyrants, knaves and fools start need-

Their avarice and greed they cannot curb,
America stands for a righteous cause,
Nor will she peaceful peoples e'er disturb.

NATIONAL WAR FUND

The $125,000,000 objectives of the National War Fund has been reached and passed. The total stood at $125,173,542 in mid-February, and was announced by Prescott S. Bush, national campaign chairman. A number of local campaigns are still not complete, so the grand total will undoubtedly exceed this figure.

Maintaining its outstanding record for generosity and promptness in giving, the National War Fund in Maryland fully subscribed its $2,108,000 goal, under the chairmanship of Stewart J. Cort.

"Too much extension of Federal power is destructive of self-direction. Social salvation will not be attained by turning over activity to a vast impersonal machine in Washington," Arthur A. Ballantine, former Undersecretary of the Treasury.

"Unless we adjust costs so that it will be profitable to produce, and insure to management the rights which incontestably belong to it, we better stop looking for full employment," Professor Leo Wolman, Columbia University.

"The Marines have a way of making you afraid—not of dying, but of not doing your job."—Capt. B. A. Little, of Geneva, Ill., killed on Tarawa, in a letter home.

TAX-EXEMPT INFORMATION

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Joseph D. Nunan, Jr. today advised tax-exempt organizations that the time for filing the information returns required by Section 117 of the Revenue Act of 1943 will be extended beyond May 15 in the case of 1943 returns.

The Revenue Act of 1943 became law on February 25, 1944, and the necessary regulations and forms are not quite ready. Commissioner Nunan, therefore, said a new filing date will not be determined until it is ascertained when printed copies of forms can be made available to the organizations that need them.

"If we want more employment we must have more capital. It takes around $6,000 of invested capital for manufacturing industry to employ every single worker."—Frederick C. Crawford, Cleveland industrialist.

"The place for government in our postwar labor-management relations should be that of a second spare tire—always available if needed, under normal operating conditions."—Robt. J. Watt, Int'l Rep., A. F. of L.
