H. PEYTON GORSUCH

Dies in Westminster at the Age of 80 Years

Harry Peyton Gorsuch, one of Westminster's oldest and best known citizens died at his home on Main Street, on Sunday evening following a year's illness. He was born Nov. 15, 1863, at Denning, Md., the son of the late Robert D. and Sarah Gardner Gorsuch.

Although he had very few surviving relatives, two nieces, Mrs. Robert Burke and Miss Annanora Gorsuch, Washington, D. C., and a cousin, Miss Della Baile, who resides at the Gorsuch residence in Westminster, he more than made up for this absence of relatives with the host of sincere friends that he made in his sojourn on earth that attest to the simple greatness of this man. He was educated in the public schools of Carroll county and at Blue Ridge College, New Windsor.

Among his life's activities, he began as a clerk in the Ordorff & Sharrer Store in Westminster, afterwards as a traveling salesman for a Baltimore wholesale house. His next business association was with the Catoctin Mountain Iron Company. Later he became a partner in the firm of Sharrer & Gorsuch, Westminster. While associated with the Catoctin Mountain Iron Company, at Catoctin Furnace, he was appointed postmaster for a period of six years. He was also postmaster of Westminster for four years, having been appointed by President Taft in 1910. In 1919 he was elected and served for a regular and special session of the Maryland Legislature as a member of the House of Delegates from Carroll county.

In 1931 he was elected president of the Westminster Cemetery Company. He was also a member of the Board of the Maryland School for the Deaf at Frederick. He was a member of the Methodist Church in Westminster.

He gave the city of Westminster the Memorial gateway to the municipal playground in honor of all Carroll citizens who had lost their lives in the various wars. He presented the national and state flags now in the court room in the county courthouse, and he also presented the flag which flies from the tall staff at the City Hall.

When in 1943 the Chamber of Commerce of Westminster inaugurated a plan of giving recognition to an outstanding citizen of Westminster, Mr. Gorsuch was deservedly acclaimed worthy of this honor.

One of his chief interests in later life followed the selection by the Westminster Times Company of Mr. Gorsuch to serve as editor of The Times. He filled this office so thoroughly and satisfactorily that his work became widely known and appreciated by the many readers of this youngest but one of Carroll County's best weekly newspapers.

The body remained at the F. A. Sharrer & Son Funeral Home until Wednesday when it was removed to the Methodist Church where it lay in state until 2 p. m. Services were conducted at that time with his pastor, Rev. Dr. Lowell S. Ensor in charge, assisted by Dr. Fred G. Holloway, President of Western Maryland College, Rev. Nevil E. Smith, of Hanover, and Dr. Paul Warner, Door-to-Virtue Lodge No. 46 A. F. & A. M. of which the deceased was a member conducted the Masonic burial rites at the graveside. Burial took place in the Westminster cemetery.

MD. PURCHASE OF $6,000,000 BONDS

Will Boost Total Procured in War Loans to $18,000,000

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor announced Monday that the State of Maryland will purchase $6,000,000 of Fifth War Loan Bonds.

The Governor explained that the purchases will be made from the following funds: $800,000, 2 1/2% Treasury Bonds due March 15, 1970-65 for the Teachers Retirement System, $200,000, Of the same issue for the State Employees Retirement System, $1,990,000, U. S. 3% Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness due June 1st, 1945 for the Post-War Construction Fund, $3,100,000. Of the same issue of Certificates of Indebtedness for the General Surplus Fund.

Following conferences with State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles and State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, his fellow members of the Board of Public Works, Governor O'Connor declared that the State was justified in making the large subscription by reason of the strong financial position of the State.

Of the new subscription $5,000,000 will be from General Treasury Funds, the amount being realized from the sale of presently-held securities, shortly to mature.

This subscription of $6,000,000 in the Fifth War Loan Drive will bring the total subscriptions by the State for its various Funds, including the above as well as the State Accident Fund and University of Maryland, in the fifth War Loan Drives, to over $18,000,000.

In commenting on the matter Gov. O'Connor said:

"It is most gratifying that this sizeable purchase of War Bonds can be made by the State Government. In this critical period in the Nation's history, our State is adhering to its traditions by supporting to the utmost every requirement of the National Government."

"Maryland has responded nobly in every crisis in the past. The present is no exception as indicated by the State's record in the previous War Loan Drives. The fact that the unexcelled financial strength of the State Treasury makes possible the purchase at this time is another cause for gratification."

THOSE CARROLL COUNTY BOYS THEY'RE COUNTING ON YOU!

Remember when Hitler stole Austria? Remember when the "paper hanger" demanded Sudetenland? And when he snuffed out Poland, Norway, France and the low countries? Remember Pearl Harbor? And how we stepped up production of planes, tanks and jeeps? And vowed we'd "get" that cocky Nazi and set Hirohito's rising sun? We're quite familiar with the invasion just now beginning to roll.

BUT—we must not soon forget the sacrifices our boys are making. Prove you are thinking about them with a War Bond purchase in the name of "The Carroll County War Memorial Fund." A living tribute to those making the supreme sacrifice and left behind. And remember—Our boys are counting on you in this Fifth War Bond Drive. Buy one for yourself. And one for the Memorial—for them.

Penn, Chairman of Carroll County Agricultural Adjustment Association, that Dairy Feed Payments for the months of May and June will be made together by one application on the basis of 45 cents per CWT. for milk and 6c per pound for butterfat. LETTERS FROM OUR SUBSCRIBERS HELP US

It Is One Way of Knowing What Our Readers Want

We have received many cheerful letters in the past from our subscribers. Most of them were accompanied with renewal money for The Record. We are receiving a fine number of new subscribers for which we are grateful. They help to make our job easier. Incidentally we do get a few letters of criticism that tend to guide us in what our subscribers want and expect of a newspaper. We are taking the liberty of publishing a few of the above-mentioned letters, in part, omitting the senders' names.

"Dear Sir: In regards to the paper I am taking, I am taking it for an old man that lives with us; he used to live in Taneytown, that was his home and he likes to get the paper to see what is going on around his home town. F. C."

"Please find $1.00 enclosed for renewal of The Record. I could not do without it. It brings me news of my birthplace. L. S."

"Enclose you will find $1.00 for renewal of The Record. I like to read about Taneytown; also like your paper. L. E."

"Kindly find $1.00 for renewal for my little granddaughter. She enjoys it so much and calls it her own paper. We all like it so much. Our whole family would not like to be without it as you know we have been subscribers for many years." Mrs. H. K."

"Dear Editor: Enclosed find $1.00 for renewal of your fine paper and thanks a lot for sending it to my boy—it means so much to him. U. D."

"It is always a pleasant satisfaction to renew my subscription to The Record and to read Carroll County news. Success to you. A. B."

"Enclosed find one dollar for renewal of The Carroll Record. We are always anxiously waiting for it as we enjoy knowing the news from our old home town, Taneytown. Regards to all. My husband enjoys reading Mr. Reid's articles. Mrs. W. C."

"Please enclosed find a check for $2.00 in renewal of The Carroll Record for two years. You are doing a fine job by printing the service men's letters. They are very interesting. I am hoping more of the boys write you. I never miss reading them. B. K."

"I am enclosing one dollar for one year's subscription. Don't know if I will live out the year or not as I was 88 years old on my last birthday. I have been taking the paper nearly ever since it has been printed. R. V."

I am enclosing one dollar for my renewal to The Carroll Record which I still call my letter from home. As time goes on I note many changes. We have 19 in our family now (and all ladies home. Ed.) and many have been suffering from colds. I myself am entertaining a spell of laryngitis. A little unpleasant but nothing serious. Best wishes to The Record family and all my friends in Taneytown. R. L."

"Enclosed please find $1.00 for renewal of the paper for 1 year which is a welcome, friendly visit. Mrs. C. H."

"Dear Mr. Stonesifer, Editor: Doesn't seem natural to address this note to the new editor, as I knew Mr. Englar so many years. In fact ever since I was a little girl. Now I am an old lady. Well I enjoy the paper so much; also Mr. John J. Reid's letters—I also remember him so well. I myself have been away from Taneytown since 1898. Only been back twice since. Naturally I am interested there yet as my sisters and brother are living there. Mr. O. J. Stonesifer editor of the Union Bridge Pilot and wife are friends of ours. Best regards to the editor and staff. Mrs. G. M."

"Enclosed find one dollar for renewal of The Record. I cannot be without it. I have always had it to read for a long time. Mrs. C. R."

"I have recently moved my furniture from Keysville to York, Pa., and I have also taken a new apartment here. I have a very lovely place here and I am very well satisfied although I do miss all my Taneytown friends. The Record helps me feel as if I am still there, at least in spirit as it does keep me posted on everyone's coming and going. Thanks for sending The Record to me. Please note the change of address. C. H."

SUBJECT ON SMOKY PIPES

There is so much trouble sometimes about melted soot in stove pipes and running down the pipe. Has anyone ever found out what caused it? Is the pipe too far in the chimney or not far enough?

A RECIPE FOR LIFE

On John J. Reid's last visit to our office he presented the following words by Bryant to us that we recommend to every one as a guide in life.

"So live that whenever the moment arrives to join the innumerable caravan that journeys toward that home from which no traveler e'er returns, thou go not like the quarry slave, whipped to his dungeon cell at night, but rather as one, who wraps his cloak around him and lies down to pleasant dreams."—Thanatopsis, by William Cullen Bryant.

DETROIT LETTER

Conditions Existing in That City

No matter what a person thinks about Detroit as a place of residence, he must admit that it is a pretty good place to be when he is young and able to work, especially at this time, as he will ascertain if he visits the Army Air Show, which is now being held on what is usually the parking space of the Detroit Airport, where the different war plants have on exhibition almost everything necessary to carry on the war to a successful end. This show is located in two rows about three-quarters of a mile in length, and while it is termed an air show, there is on exhibition all sorts of implements of war, such as guns of various kinds, tanks, etc., and also an exhibition of captured war material, so that a visitor to the show may see what our troops have to go up against, as well as what they have and are being furnished to fight with, by the men who are left at home.

The exhibits are housed in immense tents, and there is scarcely a large concern that is working on war material, instead of building automobiles, as they were a few years ago, that is not represented, and nothing has been left undone by these concerns, in order to make the public interested.

About ten days ago a fierce wind and rain storm struck this section, and certainly played havoc with the show blowing down tents and damaging the exhibits. Hardly any part of it was left untouched by the storm, some so badly that the exhibits were not replaced, when the exhibitors began to put the show back into shape again, which was finally done, with the result that it is now, at the time of this writing, bigger and better than before. For four or five days of almost superhuman effort, that spot was about the busiest place in Detroit, and their work was amply repaid, as on last Sunday, when the gates were reopened, more than 500,000 sight-seers passed through them, and the attendance has averaged over 50,000 every night this week. No admission fee was charged. The hours were from 2:00 to 10 P. M.

One of the most interesting sights is the exhibit of over 6,000,000 worth of bombs and planes of various kinds used in the war, parts of most of which are made in this city. The only one that is wholly made here is that made by the Ford Motor Company, at the Willow Run Plant, the Liberator plane—about which we have been reading a great deal lately, and it was there, as well as parts of almost every other war plane or bomber made in the United States, for all the former auto companies make certain parts, as wings, propellers, etc., as well as those powerful Pratt & Whitney engines that are the motive power of the planes that bombed part of the Japanese Empire the past week.

The Army, which helped put on the show, has not been selfish, as they set apart a day especially for the Navy. Taking it all in all, the entire exhibition is one worth coming many miles to see, and the attendance has been such as to amply repay its sponsors for their efforts, and we regret very much that the condition of our health is such that we are prevented from taking it in, as the saying is. But fortunately, we have a good friend who acted as our proxy, and to whom we are indebted for most of the information we have passed on to you. This friend hails from that hotbed of politicians, Indiana, and is one of the leaders in the Master Barbers Association, of this city, and from what he tells me of some of his experiences in that body, I am sure that the political lessons he learned down in his former state, have not been forgotten in situations he has run up against in the workings of that body. During my illness, he has done me many favors, and it is with pleasure that I have the opportunity of acknowledging them.

It is a few days until Summer starts officially, but we think it has begun to show us already what it can do, for we certainly have had some warm weather, and this, coupled with the humidity that usually occurs in places that are surrounded by so much water as is our city, makes it very uncomfortable for any person who suffers from a disease such as your correspondent is afflicted with. But it is sure good growing weather, and the cherry crop is beginning to color up the trees, which means that the canning season for this state is on, and we are assured that the fruit crop will be a good one.

We are trying to write this and listen to the broadcast of the ball game between our Tigers and the St. Louis Browns, and cannot help thinking of the games at which we officiated as umpire back so many years ago. It seems as if a fellow does not change much, in some things, and even if we are rapidly approaching the ripe old age of 80, the same interest is with us when it comes to that good old American game.

DEALING WITH AXIS

There will be many ideas as to the proper action of the United Nations in the establishment of peace after the fighting ends. These may not always be practicable, but we ought to take into consideration all views, so as to determine whether they are good, bad, or indifferent.

A few weeks ago a United States District Judge, J. F. T. O'Connor, of Los Angeles, California, offered a suggestion as to how we ought to deal with Axis nation after the war. "Turn to the law books," he says, "and make the punishment fit the crime on the basis of American justices."

Elaborating his proposal he says:

1. Make no treaty at the end of hostilities. Germany and Japan he declares, wouldn't keep a treaty. "Germany wriggled out of the Versailles treaty of 1919, and against Japan stands the 'distinctive indictment' of Pearl Harbor teachery."

"If you were going away for the summer, you wouldn't rent your house to somebody who, you knew, might walk out and leave the door open for somebody else to come in and spoil the furniture. A treaty is nothing more than a contract."

"These nations are criminals. Put them on probation for a number of years, just as you would a criminal in one of our courts, until they have established to the satisfaction of the world that they are worthy of membership in a civilized society."

2. Establish courts of justice in each invaded country to punish every Axis murderer or wrecker, big or little, according to the laws of that country.

"If a man kills somebody on a Los Angeles street and runs away to Mexico, what happens? Why, we bring him back here where the crime was committed and try him for murder."

"Lidice! Bring back those Germans to Lidice, where they lined up and shot those men and women who were guilty of nothing more than enjoying the sunshine that God gave them!"

3. Keep the Axis armies in invaded countries to rebuild, under the supervision of an Allied military commission, every road, harbor and building they have destroyed. Require larger and better roads, harbors and buildings if need be.

"Suppose an old couple in our country has the misfortune to hit a pedestrian with their car. They may say 'It will take our whole life's savings to pay the damages,' but the judge, however sympathetic, must require them to pay."

"So when our enemies say, 'This will put us in slavery and take the bread out of our mouths,' remember that old couple. Let's either repeal our laws—or enforce them over there."

DID YOU VOTE???

Our forefathers fought and bled and died on the field of battle to establish the principal that all men are created free and equal and are endowed by their Creator with right to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. The founding fathers, wisely after victory, prepared and promulgated a Constitution which created a Government divided into three sections—Legislative, Executive and Judicial—each interlocking but independent of the other. In this division of power it was intended, and rightly so, that the Legislative Branch—composed of representatives of all the people from all sections of the country, each chosen by the franchise of his own people should make ALL laws that are to govern the people. That same constitution wisely provided for a Supreme Court, and inferior courts, consisting of members appointed for life to interpret the laws enacted by the congress and to ascertain and decree whether they complied with the constitutional provisions and restrictions for such laws. That constitution likewise provided for the election by the people of a Chief Executive whose duties were and are to execute the laws passed by the Congress and not disapproved by the supreme court. The Chief Executive under the Constitution has no power or authority to make laws—that is the function of congress—or to decree whether or not they are binding—that is the function of the Supreme Court.

It is a peculiar penchant of nature—human and animal—to desire to retain all it has of its own, and to grab all it can of another. Place a cow in a field of abundant succulent grass growing all around her, and that old cow will poke her head thru the first opening in the fence she finds to nibble the poorer grass and weeds without the pasture. Human nature is like that. It wants to keep all it has and grab all it can reach.

The three branches of government have never gotten along as harmoniously as it should or could have done and the divergence and disharmony seems to grow more and more as the years roll on. Often the rights of the people are threatened by these encroachments.

Last week the Government saw fit to seize the plant of Montgomery Ward, of Chicago, and to forcefully eject its president Mr. Sewell Avery from his office and duties. Maybe that seizure was alright to satisfy a Labor demand, but Labor will find such demand executed in their favor will later become a boomerang to strike them with deadly force when least they expect it.

The idea expressed by Thomas Jefferson a century and a half ago that the people is best governed who are least governed holds as truly today as it did when that great statesman spoke the word.

The right to collective bargaining should be maintained, and certainly no president or his representative should by force of arms interfere unless a riot uncontrollable otherwise is in existence.

Our armed forces are created for our protection, Mr. President, and not to persecute and annoy men engaged in their daily tasks. The scene is shifting and we are drifting, wither, whither, where?

W. J. H.

LAUGHING SOLDIERS

American soldiers are said to have laughed and sung as they landed on the beaches on the great day of invasion. It was a moment of nervous tension, which demanded some outlet, but it was an expression of the magnificent courage of the Americans and their willingness to face danger.

No doubt they were eager to have this great adventure begun and over with, and it was a relief when the order came to go. It is a tough proposition to have to live for months in the expectation of some severe test of courage ahead, and they would probably have the test come soon than endure longer waiting.

They were cheered on by the hum of the great fleet of planes overhead, blasting their enemies out of many positions, and by the terrific gunfire from our naval vessels, reducing many supposedly impregnable fortifications to dust. There was plenty of danger for all that. The men met it with the superb courage which has characterized our men in all our wars.—The Frederick Post.

THE HANDY LADY

The absence of millions of men who are in the armed services has made it necessary for many women to do work around their home places formerly performed by the men and boys. So they are seen mowing the lawns, they are noted working in the gardens a good deal more than they used to. No doubt many of them tend their own heating apparatus, and many shovel coal as vigorously as the men used to.

In normal times, there used to be men who did odd jobs for many householders. Boys liked to get such jobs to be performed outside of school hours. The scarcity of labor has taken the greater part of the men and boys who used to perform these tasks, and given them regular or part-time work in factories or elsewhere. So many women are doing these things for themselves.

They used to tell about the handy man about the house, who was supposed to be always ready with his nails and screws to perform the little jobs of tinkering that occur in the homes. With so many men absent, we now have the handy woman about the house. Some of them may pound their thumbs at first, or have difficulty in driving a nail straight, but the quick mind and alert fingers of the lady will learn.

Women have gained in strength as the result of athletic exercise, systems of physical culture, and the custom of wearing more sensible clothes with freedom from long dresses. They are better able to do these forms of work than women of a previous generation were.

Labor saving devices make house-keeping easier, and the women folks probably have more time for such jobs, except that so many of them give so generously of their hours to war work and community service. The women folks are gaining new power.—The Caroline Sun.

WHAT IS NEEDED IN A PRESIDENT

What the country needs in a man it elects this year to the presidency is set down by the Pittsburgh Press. It needs a man who—

1—Can organize the government at Washington so that it will work efficiently, harmoniously, smoothly, with economy of money and motion. If there is chaos at the heart of the government, the best intentions and the greatest ability which a president may have along other lines cannot be effective.

2—Can bring about national unity by reconciling farmers, labor and business; by enlarging the reasonable middle ground of regulated freedom so as to push out of the picture the conservative reactionaries who would lead us to fascism (state socialism) and the radical reactionaries who would lead us to communism (state socialism).

3—Will respect the prerogatives of the legislative and judicial branches of the government, will be guided by Congress as well as lead it.

4—Can meet the heads of foreign states in friendly staunchness, so as to establish the rights of the United States and gain respect for our firmness and fairness.

5—Will be a spiritual leader who can kindle in the American people the enthusiasm or our way of life which it deserves.

As the editor of The Cumberland News points out, "This is a large order, indeed, and it may be too much to hope to get all these things in one man."

The same qualities are necessary in seeking a vice-president as it may happen that the vice-president may become president.—The Republican, Oakland.

Regardless of continent, race or climate, it is true that with the improvement of food both in variety, quality and quantity, the health and well-being of the entire population are improved.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

Points On Party-Lines

More people are now on party lines than ever before. This is due to war conditions, which have put a stop to the building of telephone plant. So, to furnish service to as many people as possible, we have had to stretch existing facilities to their utmost. One result is that more and more lines are now serving two families instead of one.

Party-line service is satisfactory service if these few reasonable rules are observed:

1. Avoid long conversations.
2. Do not make several calls in succession; give the other fellow a chance.
3. Do not interrupt the other party when he is making a call.
4. Hang up carefully after each call in order to keep the line open.

Friendly consideration and teamwork result in better service for all concerned.

WE'RE HITTING our stride in this war. Planes, tanks, guns, supplies... and men... are flowing in a tremendous stream. But more are needed. The crucial hour is at hand.

That is why Uncle Sam, in the 5th War Loan, is asking us to BUY MORE BONDS THAN EVER BEFORE. We must keep up the pace. We must match the efforts of our men in uniform. They are going at full speed. We can not lag behind. It's time to roll up our sleeves—in fact, to pull off our shirts.

The farmers of America have done a great job of Bond buying up to now. But yesterday's Bonds are today's exploding bombs and shells. Spent bullets can never be used again!

The Fifth War Loan is the greatest Drive for Dollars in all history. Our individual quotas are bigger than ever—of grim necessity! So be prepared to buy more than ever before when the Victory Volunteer calls at your house.

Remember, the Victory Volunteer is working for Uncle Sam...not himself. He is helping meet an urgent demand for money to finance this war. Don't make him come again. Don't tell him you can't afford more Bonds. Be prepared... before he comes...to BUY MORE THAN BEFORE!

And Here are 5 EXTRA Reasons for Buying MORE Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds will assure the funds to replace worn-out farm equipment, machinery, and buildings.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

CORRESPONDENCE

Latest Items of Local News Furnished By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by post mail, west on W. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; but for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESERSBURG

A bright Monday morning, but clouding over and thunder muttering in the distance. We love rain and need it, but for hay-making and picking cherries not so desirable. Here an hour later 'tis too dark to write, thunder is heavy overhead and lightning vivid and rain pours down—grand for corn fields and gardens.

Staff. Wilbur Miller, Jr., brought his wife home for Sunday, when they had another family gathering at his parent's home; then left her with her home folks while he returned to Camp Dix, N. J., in the evening expecting soon to be sent abroad.

Last Thursday Earl Wilhide left his parents home for induction into the Navy at Bainbridge, Md. His wife remains with a friend in Baltimore at present.

Joseph Delphay visited his mother one day last week while on furlough with his family in Union Bridge. How we long for this dreadful fray—when they can all come home to stay.

Mrs. Donald Utermahlen (nee Reba Green), of Linwood, was with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wolfe last Wednesday evening and Thursday—when her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy U. Rowe, and daughter, Dolores, of Bark Hill took dinner with her. Donald in the Aviation Corps is across seas, destination unknown at present.

Visitors in our town on Monday evening, were Beulah Kelly with Miss Vivian Grindler and Miss Charlotte Austin with Miss Frances Crumbacker, and then the street dance in Union Bridge. Both ladies were from Taneytown.

Before the close of S. S. at Mt. Union on Sunday morning a letter from Roger and Olive Roop expressing kindness thanks for a sunshine box, sent to their youngest daughter Patricia, who has been ill, and on Saturday was in the Hospital for the removal of her tonsils. May she be greatly benefited.

The Children's Service at Mt. Union on Sunday morning took the place of regular worship. The house was not crowded, but looked fine with many beautiful flowers—mostly white lilies, red roses and larkspur so well arranged, and the bright expectant faces of the little folks, who did their part in songs, speeches, and exercises. Rev. Bowersox gave a brief but interesting talk to the children. An offering of $35.00 was received for the Orphan's Home at Loysville, Pa.

The Church Bulletin carries a message to girls who are thinking about life-work, suggesting Deaconess work, as this is Deaconess month in the Lutheran Church. The sketch of a world at war, and another 'neath a cross of total christianity gives all a choice of one or the other, and a talk on the Allied invasion of Europe; which will we choose—the world with devastating wars, or totally Christian? The pastor says—"Let us give thanks that of our 50 men in service from Uniontown Parish not one has been lost." At a joint Council meeting of the Uniontown Charge last Wednesday evening they decided to increase the salary of the pastor by $300—and all were pleased.

Sunday was Father's Day and we trust it was generally observed, for fathers have been too long neglected. Some of the papers last week carried the picture of General MacArthur, and his fine tribute to fathers. We'd like to have heard some one sing, "That Silver Haired Daddy O' Mine," and some of the other sweet songs in his honor. Father is great—do not wait until he is gone to realize it.

A weenie roast was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bostian on Sunday in honor of the birthday of two of their grand-children; June, aged 13, daughter of Joseph and Reda Bostian on June 17th, and Kenneth aged 9 years, son of Robert and Catherine Bostian, on June 19th, also for the fathers—it being Father's Day. Miss June and Master Kenneth each had a white birthday cake decorated in pink and green—with candles, and each received many gifts. The fathers received nice gifts also, and every one had a good time. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bostian, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bostian and children, June and Rodney; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bostian and children, Kenneth and Beverly; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bostian and son, Melvin, Jr.; Mrs. Charles Bostian, Miss Mary Bostian, Mrs. George Delphay, Mary and George Claibough.

Mrs. C. Wolfe, spent Friday in Baltimore, with her sister, Miss Ruth Utermahlen—who will soon be planning her summer vacation; and the past few days have been hot enough to put that notion in every one's head. The best way to counteract such heat is to keep as quiet in mind and body as possible; sit quiet and think of skating on the ice pond.

Miss Arlene Grindler was home for the week-end, and appeared in vestments with the choir at Mt. Union on Sunday morning. She is progressing with her work in the Art of Beauty Culture.

The Ground Hogs are still enjoying the vegetables in our garden, and altho' the hunters made another invasion—it was unsuccessful. Next come the trappers—and dear knows what will be caught! Bullets and traps sound dangerous.

FLAG DAY

On June Fourteenth, forty-four We celebrate Flag Day once more. How much it means to us today With battlefields far flung array!

In every home thruout the land Some one or more compose the band Of our brave boys who risk their all That Institutions shall not fall

That have thruout our history Proclaimed us as a people free. Shall we bow down to selfish greed Shall NAZI haughtiness succeed, Shall race of monkeys without tail That in Pacific now prevail Defy us and our rights assail? No, not while sanity prevail.

We answer them with strength and might

Because we know that we are right. God meant that mankind should be free And not stand erect, sovereign, grand

We stand erect, sovereign, grand, We fight on sea, in sky, on land, We'll not return from foreign shore Till right prevail forevermore.

W. J. H. June 14, '44.

In suffering, he breathed not a murmur. For the comfort stood by his side. And whispered, "Fear not, I am with thee, With me shalt thou ever abide."

On the river a pale boatman hastened, He heard the soft dip of the oar, Then from earth and sorrow he bore him Across to that beautiful shore.

Diamond Rise
South Africa's diamond rise began in 1867 with the discovery of deposits along the Orange river. For many years mines in that region produced about 90 per cent of the world's supply. African competition developed in the Belgian Congo, the Gold Coast, Angola, Sierra Leone, South-West Africa, and Tanganyika.

Relish Tray
Sunday night suppers taste exceptionally palatable when a relish tray is one of the menu attractions. Ripe olives, sliced onions in vinegar, spiced beets and pickled cauliflower flowerets provide a tempting selection. No expenditure of ration points either.

Valuable Foods
High on the list for food values are tomatoes, cabbage, chard, kale and beet greens. All these are now easy to grow. Other good vegetables for nutrition are limas, snap beans, carrots, green lettuce, spinach and turnips.

A short time after leaving the Submarine, it was lost with all bonds.

A Revolt in Dixie

With all indications pointing to a harmonious Republican National convention in Chicago this month the Democrats are deeply concerned over storm clouds that carry a threat to peace and harmony when Jeffersonian Democrats and the Roosevelt-New Deal-Communist-Left Wing forces assemble for the party's national conclave in the Windy City in July.

From the traditionally Democratic Solid South have come signs that Dixie is in revolt against the New Deal and the nomination of President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

In Texas the Democratic state convention refused to endorse Roosevelt and named a slate of delegates to the party's national convention, also presidential electors, who are opposed to a fourth term.

In South Carolina the Democrats in state convention adopted a resolution carrying a threat of a party bolt by postponing selection of presidential electors until after the Chicago convention has nominated the party's candidates.

Further evidences of the spread of the revolt in Dixie were predicted when Democratic state conventions are held in Mississippi and Virginia. The South Carolina Democrats adopted a platform which condemned the concentration of powers in the executive branch of government at the expense of the legislative and judicial branches; deplored the tendency of some of the leaders of the national Democratic party to unduly favor regi-

mentation, collectivism, bureaucratic control, and other measures and means characteristic of totalitarian rule; called for a reassertion of States' Rights, and asserted that our system of government is greater than any personality and urged a constitutional amendment limiting the tenure of the presidency to two terms of four years each.

Purge Needed

The Democratic party must be purged of the New Deal to save it from defeat in November, according to John U. Barr, of New Orleans, national chairman of the Draft-Byrd-for-President Committee. Following conferences with Democratic leaders in several Southern states Mr. Barr declared:

"There is no question but that the South will not be satisfied with a fourth term. Southern Democrats definitely want a return to the Democratic party of pre-New Deal days. Hundreds of thousands of Democrats of the North will desert the Democratic party and tip the scales in favor of the Republican party unless we unify our ranks by purging the New Deal. Few people realize that a switchover of 1,000,000 votes in the North dooms our party to certain defeat. That is how precarious our position is."

A Kansas editor who is evidently no New Dealer is credited with the smartest post-war plan suggested to date. He would give the alphabet back to the children!

Telegraph Centennial Brings New Devices

Miss Leila Livingston Morse, granddaughter of Samuel F. B. Morse, left, explains to Miss Mildred Crider, telegraph employee, the workings of the original instrument. It was used in re-enacting the sending of the first telegram, "What Hath God Wrought!" from the Capitol in Washington to Baltimore.

New York (Special)—An aircraft designer in New York has just finished an elaborate set of blueprints for a huge new trans-oceanic plane. The blueprints must be at the manufacturing plant in California tomorrow. How can it be done? By telegraph, of course.

That is one of the things the communications industry will be prepared to do not many years from now, when the war is over and the latest marvels stemming from an invention just a century old will be used to tie the nation together in building a new era of peacetime prosperity.

It was in 1844 that the artist-inventor, Samuel F. B. Morse, sat down at his telegraph key in the Capitol at Washington and sent the first telegram—"What Hath God Wrought!" The message was received in Baltimore forty miles away.

The nation is observing this year the centennial of Morse's invention by special Congressional exercises, including a re-enactment of the scene in which the first telegram was sent; by unveiling a plaque in honor of the scientist; by naming a Liberty ship for him and by issuing a telegraph centennial postage stamp. Civic, educational, scientific and other organizations are holding special gatherings.

On the threshold of its second century, the telegraph industry is ready to offer many new devices and services to American business as well as to the individual. Only the war and the need for turning over much of this new equipment to war-time tasks have kept these devices from more general use.

The Telefax is one of the latest and most remarkable additions to the telegraph family. An electric eye rapidly scans a hand-written message, a picture, a blueprint or a maze of figures and the Telefax transmits it over the wire. "Messages" of this kind arrive at their destinations as facsimiles of the originals. The service operates simply as well as quickly and with 100 per cent accuracy.

Progressive installation of the repeater switching system is part of the Western Union Telegraph Company's long-range modernization program. One development which is helping us with our war business is carrier current. This was discovered a number of years ago and engineers have been constantly improving it. With carrier current it is possible to send many messages at one time over a single pair of wires. Today a hundred telegrams may flash over telegraph wires simultaneously with never a mix-up.

Curiously enough, the telegraph has passed through a complete cycle since Morse's day. The inventor's first instruments were of a semi-automatic type, but gave way to the hand-operated key until more recent times. Today automatic equipment has virtually replaced the old-time telegrapher. Every year the Morse telegraph key is used less and less.

Most messages in telegraph offices are written on machines known as teleprinters which have keyboards like typewriters. The printed telegrams you receive are from a teleprinter.

Thousands of business firms, war plants and military centers throughout the country have their own teleprinters. With them, the offices can communicate with telegraph offices or with branch offices, suppliers and clients in distant cities.

AMERICAN HEROES

George Sylvester Cronk, Second Assistant Engineer, Merchant Marine, was the sole surviving officer of a shattered ship. In the only lifeboat that could be launched he succeeded in rescuing 19 survivors in the stormy seas. Cronk brought his boat safely to land after 31 days. 'Cannibalism' in Flock Should Be Prevented

Adding Salt to Feed Reduces Pecking

"Cannibalism" in one form or another is fairly common among young chicks, growing pullets, and laying birds, according to "Brooding and Rearing Chickens" by W. E. Nelson and V. S. Asmundson of the U. of California. This practice should be promptly discouraged, the authors say.

In young chicks, toe picking is the commonest form of cannibalism encountered, but picking of other parts may also follow if the toe picking is not checked. In slightly older birds feather picking is common. A limited amount of apparently harmless feather picking sometimes occurs, but it may develop to the point where the birds are completely naked and may lead to cannibalism.

Some outbreaks of cannibalism are perhaps to be regarded as purely accidental. Chicks pick at each other's toes and, if blood is drawn, the picking may develop into a vice unless it is promptly checked. Such accidental cases are not likely to cause serious difficulties if the birds receive regular attention.

Other outbreaks of cannibalism are caused by overcrowding, hunger, usually a result of irregular care, chilling, overheating, or general discomfort, and inactivity. Regular care of the birds and keen observation will do much to prevent outbreaks of cannibalism.

Picked birds should be promptly removed and the offenders also removed if possible. Young chicks that have been picked should have pine tar or other adhesive anti-pick ointments applied to the affected parts. It is usually advisable to isolate them for a few days. The cause should be looked for and, if found, corrected.

To check the vice, common salt may be added to the mash. The salt content of the ration should be increased to 2 or 3 per cent for a few days only. Mash usually contains about 1 per cent of salt; hence, 1 or 2 per cent should be added. If this is not effective, the salt may be increased to 4 per cent. When grain and mash are fed, the amount of salt added should be correspondingly increased. For instance, if the birds are eating equal parts of mash and grain and the mash contains 1 pound of salt in each 100, then an additional 3 pounds of salt should be added to each 100 pounds of mash. The high salt mash should not be fed for more than a few days.

Protective Devices.
Outbreaks of cannibalism among older birds can usually be checked or prevented by the use of various mechanical devices which are now on the market. Unfortunately, however, none of these are known to be infallible, because losses may occur in spite of their use.

Tippling the beak is also recommended to control severe outbreaks. The edge of the upper beak is cut in about one-eighth inch, one-third to three-sixteenths inch from the tip, according to the size of the beak and the length of the tip. Then by prying and pulling with the flat side of the knife, the point of the beak is removed by tearing and not by cutting. Thus the tip of the beak is removed to the quick so that it is tender for a while and is left in such shape that the bird cannot firmly grasp either feathers or flesh. About three weeks is required for the beak to grow out again and by that time the habit is usually broken. Experience at the Western Washington experiment station indicates that there is more feather picking when pelleted mash is fed, and that there is less picking when rations high in fiber are fed than when rations are low in fiber.

Agricultural Notes

The natural color of milk is due to the refraction of light from the suspended material and to the carotene and vitamin G contained in it.

Restrictions limiting use of binder twine to mechanical harvesting have been removed by the WPB. This means farmers will now be permitted to use binder twine for growing, harvesting or shipment of agricultural products.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Roger B. Whitman-WNU Features.

CRUMBLING FOUNDATION

Question: Our house has been neglected for some time and the foundation seems to be crumbling. Rubbing against the cellar wall makes the cement break off like sand, and water seeps in after heavy rains. What can be done to stop this condition?

Answer: If the concrete is very sandy and porous there is little that can be done, especially if it is sandy for its entire thickness. However, it may help to coat the outside of the foundation walls down to the footings with liquid tar or asphalt, and paint the inside of the walls with a cement base paint obtained from a dealer in mason materials.

CARE OF NEW LADDER

Question: I have a brand-new ladder that I keep in the garage. What shall I paint it with to keep it in good condition?

Answer: Give the ladder a liberal coat of raw linseed oil, wiping off the excess. Repeat in a few days and continue for as long as the wood absorbs the oil. Repeat every three months.

Removing Enamel

Question: How can I remove enamel (three layers deep) from a breakfast-nook set? I have not had much success with a prepared paint remover.

Answer: Three pounds of trisodium phosphate dissolved in a gallon of hot water makes an excellent paint remover. Put this on liberally, using a dishpan for convenience; and when the enamel has softened, remove it by wiping with steel wool or scrape it off with a putty knife. Rinse off all traces of the solution with clear water and allow the wood to dry thoroughly. Smooth, if necessary, by rubbing with fine sandpaper, and wipe off the dust. Trisodium phosphate is sold at grocery stores under various trade names. It is a coarse, whitish powder that makes no lather.

Cleaning Floors With Wax

Question: You sometimes have said that hardwood floors and even linoleum should be cleaned with liquid wax. Just what do you mean? How can a liquid wax have cleaning properties?

Answer: There are three forms of floor waxes on the market: paste wax, which is of the consistency of butter; liquid wax, which is paste wax thinned with naphtha or other solvent; and water wax, or water-emulsion wax. The last is what generally is known as a self-polishing or non-rubbing wax. Floors polished with paste wax can be cleaned with a liquid wax because the solvent in such wax will loosen the dirt that has worked into the old paste wax on the floor.

Painting New Cabinet

Question: How should I paint a new, unpainted kitchen cabinet? When should the nail holes be filled? Should I use putty for this?

Answer: Clean the wood and see that it is smooth, then apply a first coat of enamel undercoat or flat paint thinned with a pint of raw linseed oil to the gallon of paint. After the first coat is dry, fill all nail holes with putty. Put on a second coat of undercoat or flat paint, and, when dry, smooth the surface by rubbing lightly with 000 sandpaper. Wipe off the dust and finish with good quality quick-drying enamel.

Fuzz on the Floor

Question: What can I use, besides warm water, to loosen newspaper and fuzz from a cheap pad off my floor boards?

Answer: Rub the fuzzy area with turpentine and fine steel wool, without using too much pressure. Polish with paste wax.

Rain Slicker

Question: How can I treat my rain slicker that became sticky during the hot weather?

Answer: Many sporting goods shops and department stores that handle this type of raincoat sell a preparation that is intended to revive the finish.

Chimney Construction

Question: Where can I obtain information on the proper construction of a small chimney? Does the government issue a bulletin on the subject? I am a competent bricklayer, and wish to do the work myself.

Answer: Yes; send five cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, and ask for Farmers' Bulletin 1649; "Construction of Chimneys and Fireplaces." You will also find detailed information on the subject in my book, which has the same title as this column.

Homespun Philosophy

By Ezra

ARE YOU A GOER OR A GADDER?

When Saint Paul dreamed of a man standing on a foreign shore beckoning him to come to Macedonia to preach the gospel of the Christian religion to the Gentile world, he had an incentive to go somewhere. It didn't take him long to select an objective for his travels, and he knew what he was going to do when he got there. A goer, therefore, is one who knows where he is going and what he is up to when he gets there.

It is a good thing that one knows where he is going when he steps on the throttle of an automobile or gives the gas to an airplane motor. If he first of all steps on the gas and then tries to make up his mind it usually ends in catastrophe.

The same is true of almost any other project one undertakes. I have seen lots of people start out with great enthusiasm. They cry "Hosannah" or shout a loud "Amen" at the inception of things. They will even go so far as to permit themselves to be elected president of the organization. But just let the ardor of the original moment die away, and the going start to get tough, and the praise dwindled to a whisper, and little credit is given where it is due, then our shouting brother fades out of the picture. He can't stand obscurity. He's got to be in the limelight. The trouble is, that, such a man never knew where he was going nor what he was going for. He made himself the object of praise rather than emphasize the things he was working for.

And what is a gadder? Well, in society he is a play boy; in theatrical parlance he is an actor; in other respects he is an idler and a trifler; a drone and a droll; a dawdle and a doo-little; a mope and a pokus; a sleeping partner and an afternoon farmer. In other words he is lazy. He is too tired to make up his mind. He doesn't know what he wants. Then too, if he does happen to make up his mind, he is too tired to do anything about it. He hibernates and expects others to do the work for him.

It isn't difficult to pick out the "goers" and the "gadders". Get into your car and drive down the highway. You can readily see on which farms the "goers" live. Go to your Church on Sunday and take in the Sunday School. You can see at a glance which ones are the "goer" Christians. Go anywhere you like, the "gadders" will stick out like a sore thumb, and they will yell just as badly if you bump into them.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE POWER IN SIMPLE LIVING

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 1:8-16, 19, 20.
GOLDEN TEXT—But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's dainties, nor with the wine which he drank.—Daniel 1:8.

"Dare to be a Daniel,
Dare to stand alone
Dare to have a purpose firm,
Dare to make it known."

Remember how we used to sing it in our Sunday Schools? Possibly some of us still do. The thought of the song assuredly needs to be emphasized anew.

The "times are out of joint." Millions of men and women are meeting new problems and temptations. The standards of life they learned in home and church or Sunday school are not too easy to maintain.

Many are hearing that old excuse for laxity. "Man, you're in the army now," or "Don't forget you're not at home with Mother; you're in the navy." Civilians have similar tempting excuses for careless living, drinking, etc.

Our lesson is a timely one. It presents Daniel as having—

I. A Courageous Purpose (vv. 8).

Daniel and his three Hebrew companions were among those carried captive to Babylon. As promising young men, they were selected to receive an education in the wisdom of the land, at the king's expense and in preparation for his service.

The king provided for them the delicacies of his household, thinking thus to keep them strong and in good health. Daniel recognized that many of these things were unclean according to the laws of his people. He also knew that to eat such food and to drink the intoxicants provided for them would be to injure his health and cut down his ability to learn.

It was no easy thing to ask to be excused from what the king had commanded, not to do what everybody else was doing; but Daniel had a courageous purpose "in his heart."

But Daniel had the wisdom to be tactful about his convictions. He went to the king's steward with—

II. A Considered Plan (vv. 9-13).

He had something thoughtfully worked out, a fair proposal which would not endanger the life or standing of the prince who was over them. He proposed a test, and agreed, if it failed, to be subject to further orders. He knew it would not fail.

How often those who have it in their heart to stand true to God against evils, such as beverage alcohol, have no plan in mind, and are only loud and tactless in their condemnation. They make no contribution to the cause. Let us be intelligent and properly prepared.

Daniel's plan put a planned diet and water over against rich foods and wine. It was a case of simple living against "high" living, and the result was a foregone conclusion. Those high in positions of authority in the field of diet tell us again and again that we need simple, well-balanced meals. And science is definite and clear in its condemnation of alcoholic beverages.

Daniel's test period resulted in—

III. A Convincing Proof (vv. 14-16).

Ten days proved the point. Daniel and his friends were fairer and fatter than the others. They were vindicated in their courageous stand for what they believed to be right. Simple living demonstrated its value.

Think what a fine testimony the experience of Daniel must have been in that great group of young princes who were at the king's table. So we also may give good witness for our Lord by our loyalty to right standards. Often it is true that those who outwardly scoff at them are secretly moved to respect those who consistently stand for what they believe.

We need to cultivate in our young people the high courage which will enable them to stand against the constant temptation to partake of alcoholic beverages and to face with intelligent courage the clever propaganda of the liquor sellers.

Note that Daniel and his friends did not lose by their decision—they gained. They reached—

IV. A Commendable Position (vv. 19, 20).

At the end of the training period the king gave these young men examinations. Note that in technical knowledge, "I.Q." and in personal characteristics, Daniel and his comrades were superior to all the rest. That is in accord with the findings of modern science in the matter of the use of liquor.

Is it not almost unbelievable then that the advertising of the liquor interests, suggesting that liquor is a desirable thing from a personal, social, and business viewpoint, is permitted? The facts are all on the other side.

Strange too is the tolerant attitude of our nation and especially of many in the church toward that which is known to be destructive and detrimental. It is an appalling commentary on the extent to which our standards have been lowered or forgotten.

Baby Pigs Need Sugar

In Blood to Live

Newly born pigs require a definite amount of sugar in the blood to maintain life, experiments by the department of animal pathology and hygiene of the University of Illinois have disclosed.

Starvation of newborn pigs causes a rapidly fatal hypoglycemia, or low content of sugar in the blood. Pigs afflicted with "baby pig disease" also develop severe hypoglycemia. If healthy newborn pigs are taken from the sow immediately after birth and given no milk or other food, except water, severe hypoglycemia and death usually occur in 48 to 72 hours. When pigs are about one week old before being taken from the sow, a much longer time passes before there is a dangerous decrease in the content of sugar in the blood.

Sows whose litters develop baby pig disease often look and act healthy at farrowing time, and the pigs ordinarily show no symptoms until they are about 24 to 36 hours old. Nearly all of the affected pigs die in 24 to 36 hours after symptoms are observed. Producers should watch each litter carefully during the first week after farrowing for signs of rough hair, lack of desire to nurse, listlessness and lowered vitality, the department warns.

Improvement often follows the feeding or injecting of sugar solution. Best results can be expected when the sugar solution is injected into the abdominal cavity. Veterinarians inject glucose in small doses three or four times daily.

New Paint Protects

Quarters of Fishermen

Prior to the present war, British fishing boats generally had leaky decks through which icy salt water could pour upon the crew, whose only living quarters are described as "having been little better than swimming baths, with practically no protection against extremes of heat or cold, says S. P. Kernahan, B. Sc. in Canadian Paint and Varnish Magazine. The problem became so serious that it was presented to paint technicians, with a request that they try and find a speedy solution.

The protective coating required had to conform to a complicated specification, says Mr. Kernahan. It had to provide a water-tight covering for wooden decks, and at the same time, give insulation against heat and cold. It had to be strong enough to withstand extremely heavy wear; it had to be non-inflammable, and yet sufficiently pliable to "give" to the violent pitching and rolling for which trawlers are notorious. It is stated that a bituminous composition was eventually produced which filled the bill so well that it is now used on new construction as well as on the older fishing vessels.

Clean Bandanas

On many industry jobs girls are required, for safety's sake, to keep their hair tied in a bandana or wrap-around scarf. They are permitted to choose these themselves, and naturally girls select colors and modes of wrapping that are most becoming. But regardless of their taste in colors they are urged for this purpose to use washable fabrics and to see that the head scarves are kept clean.

Hair-protectors become soiled quickly, and in that condition they may cause itchiness and other scalp discomfort. A spic-and-span bandana can keep up a girl's morale even when she knows her work uniform is none too becoming.

Keeping the scarves clean has still another value. It lengthens their life and the same is true of caps, bandanas, and any other head coverings. Even a bandana, though it may not represent a lot of precious cloth, nevertheless is a small part of our stock of textiles, and should be made to last as long as possible.

Chill Carcasses

Warm, freshly slaughtered meat carcasses may spoil within 12 to 18 hours if not properly handled. They should be chilled to temperatures around 34 to 36 degrees F., as soon after dressing as possible. In warm weather, the fresh carcasses must be hurried to a chillroom. Delay in chilling pork fat is believed to cause changes that speed up the development of rancidity after the pork is frozen. Warm carcasses should be hung so that they do not touch. Hog carcasses will chill more rapidly if the heads are removed, the carcasses split, and the heavy blanket of leaf fat pulled out. The need for prompt and thorough chilling of warm carcasses cannot be over-emphasized.

Hard to Clean

It is not true, we are told, that one soiled garment can be cleaned as easily as another and that, therefore, we might as well "get our money's worth" out of every trip a garment makes to the cleaner's. Excessive soil is often difficult and sometimes impossible to remove completely. Much of it becomes ground in and the many different types of spots require different types of treatments. It is one thing to remove a small food stain or paint spot from a garment and quite another—if it can be done at all—to remove large spotted areas of such diverse origin as paint, engine grease, perspiration, mud, rust and kitchen stains.

Many Employers

Three men out of four in the United States work for somebody else; can not say truthfully that they manage their own economic affairs. Most Americans do, however, have a lot to say about the conditions of their employment. Workers who are very competent, whose skill or knowledge is hard to duplicate, often fare better than their employers; live as well with less work and worry.

Craftsmen and workers at all kinds of formalized jobs likewise have, by right of collective bargaining, a lot to say about where they work, how long and for how much. In my opinion, the birth of the Trade Union in 1881 at Terre Haute, Ind., was a development in human progress equal in significance to the signing of the famous Magna Charta at Runnymede, 666 years before.

Bargaining Rights

A workman's right to sell his services where he gets the most for them, is part of America's Free Enterprise system, just the same as a customer's right to buy where he gets the best bargains. Wages have hit higher levels in this country than anywhere, (ever) partly because we have many employers. When a workman deserves more pay, he can get it, from his own employer or from some other.

Men with capital, much or little, always will be lured into ventures of their own for financial gain so long as private enterprises offer opportunity for gain. When Free Enterprise works without restraint, the number of employers is large. And with many employers in competition, nobody can have a monopoly on jobs. Workmen naturally look for better positions when there are many places to work.

One Big Employer

After this war, the gravest danger for 75 per cent of us, we who work for somebody else, is a shortage of jobs. Prosperity comes to any family, any city or any nation when a large number of its people are gainfully employed. When this war is over, jobs must be provided for all who are willing and able to work. If private industry does not furnish the jobs, then the government must do it.

If private business does not offer plenty of jobs for discharged service men and former war-workers, they will have a right to ask the government to step in and take over industry. Government has the power to make jobs and hire men to work at them; nobody disputes that. The bad feature is that government is just one employer. Every time government takes over a plant, there's one less employer.

For a while some hardy private operators might hold out, trying to compete with the governmental monopoly, but they couldn't last. Soon working men would have only one employer to serve; no place to seek a better job, no hope except to stay in the groove and keep friendly with whoever holds the whip. It is an ugly European picture—dictators, lickspittles and secret police.

America Threatened

But America can get it without even trying. There are easy blunders by which government might force Private Enterprise to fail; could positively block business from providing work after the war. Simply holding today's war-time tax laws in force will make peace-time profits so nearly impossible that no firm would dare start a new venture to create new jobs.

Already the shackles of dictatorship have been fitted to our ankles and the war's end will lock them on, if only we sit still a little longer. Two main things need doing now: Government should (1) tell industry if post-war taxes will permit peace-time operation, and (2), say whether government owned factories will be trusted to private hands or built into a socialistic system.

To the People of this Community

There are many urgent reasons for buying War Bonds. First, the invasion needs money. Bonds pay for planes and guns and munitions with which to beat the Axis. Our fighting men must have the best possible equipment and it is up to us to let our money provide this.

A second reason is this: There is a shortage of goods now. Later on there will be plenty for civilian desires. Money put into War Bonds now will be available then. Business opportunities will be open then, too, and the "nest egg" saved now may hatch out commercially then. Money put into War Bonds now will be deprived of its current potentiality as a part of the causes of inflation. You will be doing your part toward stabilizing the money situation by buying Bonds instead of dwindling stocks. That is a third reason.

But the best reason from a selfish viewpoint is this: Right now there is no better investment than War Bonds. There is no safer repository for your money. By buying Bonds you become a stockholder in the strongest "going" concern in the world today, the United States of America.

in the 5TH WAR LOAN!

THE stepping stones to victory are red with blood of American heroes. Tarawa... Salerno... Cassino. Their patriotism is written in blood.

Your patriotism is written on every Bond you buy in this vital 5th War Loan. Your name on a War Bond means you're behind our invasion troops.

Help hasten the day of Victory by investing in extra War Bonds

now. Invest in more than you've ever purchased before. Invest $100, $200, $300, $400. Those who can, must invest thousands of dollars.

For this is the biggest job we've ever had to do. We can't fail our fighting men as they plunge into the biggest and bloodiest struggle of all.

DRIVE IT HOME!

"That's the way I like to see them," said Gen. MacArthur when he saw the rows of dead Japs in the Admiralty Islands. In this war—the costliest, cruelest war of all time—our boys must fight with savage fury. Kill or be killed! And on how well each plays his part depends the lives of many of his buddies.

Here on the home front, too, just cheering the attack on isn't enough.

That's why there's a Fifth War Bond drive on now, a drive in which you're needed to support the men on the fighting fronts who are facing the most treacherous forces Americans have ever met in combat. We on the home front can't let them down—and we won't. So resolve now to at least double your Bond buying in the 5th War Loan drive. This is the time to do better than your best.

ODT WARNS TRUCK AND BUS OPERATORS OF IMPENDING TIRE SHORTAGE

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, Director of the Office of Defense Transportation, has issued a warning to the nation's truck and bus operators that there will be a shortage of heavy and medium-heavy truck and bus tires for replacement purposes during July, August and September.

In the face of this shortage, the ODT points out, it is imperative that truck and bus operators practice the most rigorous conservation measures. Excessive speed and overloading must be eliminated; tire maintenance practices must be kept at the highest possible level; and recaps must be substituted for new tire replacements in every case where possible.

Spread NIC-SAL on the roost poles. Kill the lice.

Why let poultry lice play havoc with valuable laying flocks?

Delousing is easy—economical with Dr. Salsbury's NIC-SAL. Fumes filter up through the bird's feathers at night; lice are soon gone.
