D. OF A. WILL MEET

Mrs. B. Walter Crapster will be hostess at her home on Main Street, Taneytown, for the meeting of the William Winchester Chapter, Daugh-ters of the American Revolution, to be held on Friday afternoon, March 9, at 2:30. Mrs. M. S. H. Unger, regent, will read her annual report on the work of the chapter, which has been sent into the state society.

Among the matters to receive attention is the report of members who have written the members of the Carroll County delegation in the General Assembly of Maryland, endorsing the position taken by Gov. O'Conor in his program for the state educational system of Maryland, and requesting the representatives to vote for the bill now before the Legislature. This bill aims to establish a uniform twelve year course throughout the State; to reduce the size of classes in elementary schools from 40 to 35 pupils; to adopt an increase of salary schedules for teachers; to provide education courses for returning veterans and to retrain war workers for civilian jobs; and additional provision for physical education and health programs; where We have received two interesting need in evident, to have vocational photographs from the Headquarters courses in agriculture, home economics of the Sixth Army Group. P. E. REPORTS ON RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

Post-War Plans are Outlined by the Company

Contrary to a rather general impression, the Potomac Edison System's program for extending electric service to rural areas has not been a total war casualty. While the rate of progress in this field has been drasprogress in this field has been drasprogress. In this field has been drasprogress in the service of the club. It received the charter, August, 1922. There were 33 charter members. tically curtailed as compared to pre-liberal offered by any organization in the United States, stimulated a great deal of interest and won immediate acceptance. As a result, there oc-curred a very rapid expansion of ru-ral line building in this area.

However war clouds were already gathering and the demands of war industries were making themselves felt. By late summer of 1941 the pinch of material restrictions began to cut severely into this rural program. Following Pearl Harbor the War Production Board clamped down and this type of work was virtually suspended in order to save labor and critical ma-

But it was not long until it became obvious that electricity could increase farm production and help to relieve the growing man-power shortage. Recognizing this fact, the War Production Board proceeded to set up standards by which a farm might qualify to receive electric service. To administer this program each county established a County Agricultural Conservation Committee to pass on applications for electric service. These committees are rather similar to ration boards, being composed of reputable, qualified citizens who serve without pay.

Under this plan a limited rural line construction program begun. While never achieving large proportions, it has increased steadily as more farmall members were asked to partake ers have come to realize that they could qualify for service and restrictions have been somewhat eased. The record shows that in 1942 the Poto. record shows that in 1942 the Potomac Edison System was authorized to build rural lines to serve 273 qualified customers.In 1943 this figure increased to 404 customers added. And in 1944 came a further increase when 700 new customers received electric rural residents who cannot now qualify with the understanding that service will be provided just as soon as us: Robert Rosenwald, Jimmie Sanmanpower and material restrictions ders, Carl Wetzel, Robert Gillelan.

A bright electrical future seems assured for rural residents in this area on the basis of Potomac Edison's postwar plans. According to official word the electric company contemplates spending approximately one and a half million dollars to build in the neighborhood of 1250 miles of rural lines once war time restrictions are lifted or as soon thereafter as manpower and materials are available.

TIGHTENED HOME CANNING SUGAR PROGRAM

A tightened home canning sugar program for the 1945 season—a program designed to insure a fair disribution of the available sugar to those who actually need it for canning—has been announced by Admin-strator Chester Bowles, OPA. Highlights of the new program are as follows: The housewife will apply at her local War Price and Rational Board and indicate the amount of canning she intends to do this year. Local boards will issue five-pound home canning sugar coupons. No ration stamps in War Ration Book Four will be good for canning fruits and fruit juices, the allowance will be on the basis of one pound for each four quarts to be canned. The total allowance must not exceed 20 pounds per person, or 160 pounds to a single family, even though the family may con-

Be glad it didn't happen here!

BE GLAD no Gestapo agent burst open the door to your home, demanding your money, your clothing, your furniture—yes, even your children . . . to be sent into slavery for the Reich.

Be glad no Nazi Storm Trooper burned your crops to keep them out of the hands of his pursuers, killed your livestock to feed German war lords, burned down your home to show you his might.

It could have happened here, you know! Why not put our thankfulness into concrete form? Why not buy the War Bonds we ought to be buying? We haven't bought enough, yet, you know . . . not nearly enough. And there are men across the sea fighting our fight who are asking what we are doing at home. Have we an answer for them?

You will need your War Bonds as urgently after the war as Uncle Sam needs your money today. You will need new machinery and equipment, new fences, new buildings. So BUY NOW! Don't spend a dollar unless you first ask yourself: "Does my country need it more?"

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!

2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.

3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.

4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.

5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

DECLARATION OF ESTIMATED

1945 TAX Flarmers (persons receiving least two-thirds of their income from farming) are permitted to delay filing 1945 declarations until January 15, 1946. At that time they may, if they desire, file their annual returns instead of their declarations. Declarations are required from farmers who expect to earn $500° or more this year. If they postpone the filing of declarations until January 15, 1946, they may pay the full amount of esthey may pay the full amount of es-timated tax at that time. Special forms and instructions have been mailed out to all persons who filed declarations last year. Additional copies may be obtained from the office of any collector of internal reverse of the person who have not as yet nue. Farmers who have not as yet filed their 1944 income tax returns must do so by March 15th.

"SAFETY FIRST" FOR FARM INVESTMENTS

When the farmer invests his hardearned money he should be careful to earned money he should be careful to invest it where he is certain that his principal will be safe, is the advice of M. L. Predmore, Chief of the Agricultural Section of Treasury's War Finance Division. He recalls how many farmers, lured by high interest, invested to their sorrow in speculative streks and honds during the last war stocks and bonds during the last war period. "For this reason," he de-clares, "War Bonds are a first choice for the investment of farm savings. They have all the resources of America back of them. In addition, the Series E War Bond pays the highest interest rate of any Government se-curity now available."

Make Closets

You can make closets in a large bedroom where there are none by hanging blinds across two corners, allowing space for hanger rods. A scalloped cornice all around the room conceals the supports to which blinds are fastened. Tapes and cornice pick up color accents.

Homespun Philosophy

When I was a small lad just starting out in High School I read "Emerson's Essays." I got a great deal of son's Essays." I got a great deal of delight out of reading it, but it put notions into my head. I figured this way. Why can't I write some essays that will be good enough to put into a book. And so fresh out of the "lit-tle red school house" I set to work. I produced about a dozen essays before I called a halt. I wrote them all in a tablet that I have kept to this day. Every once in a while I pick up the tablet and read those essays over again. They make good reading.
I will reproduce one of those essays here, if for for no other purpose than to realize a boyhood ambition of seeing them in print. "Jealousy, or the act of being jelled."

Jealousy is a peculair thing, it is all mine! It is all mine because it belongs only to me. I can't even give it away. It sticks closer than a leech and is as hard to get rid of.

I pick out some guy that is usually a little better than I, sometimes he is lots better, then I begin feeling jeal-ous. I just jell and jell because he hit a home run in yesterday's baseball game, perhaps he made the first team in basket ball, or perhaps, he knew-his lessons and I didn't. Boy! I just jealousy the life out of him.

The funny thing about this whole business is that when I jealousy a guy like this he keeps right on being friendly. When I pass him on the street he calls out my name with a cheery hello. I merely nod and hurried on. One time a guy that I jealoused got me out of a nasty mess with the principal one day. It seemed as though I had written a note to a pretty little blonde that was sitting two isles to the right. But that incident can wait until a later essay. Right now I want to tell you about what happened to me and the guy I was jealous on.

I found out that he didn't even know that I was jealous. And then one day I says to myself, "What the heck is the use? This guy don't even know I am jealous at him. So, I am beginning right now to forget the whole thing. I am the only one that is getting it in the neck."

Tom and I are good friends nowwe are real buddies. This whole mess Uniontown Lutheran Charge, Rev. Charles Birx, pastor. Emmanuel (Baust)—Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.; Worship Service, 10:30 A. M. Finis!

That's a good essay. Of course you can't be a school teacher and appreciate it. A school teacher will rip it all apart. She will look for the grammatical errors. But, you just can't do that with a good essay. You must look for the idea. If the idea is there and if it is written so that you can understand that idea, then it

Citizenship

A farmer of my acquaintance has a knife he wouldn't sell for a ransom, although he is not wealthy. The knife is of a kind that could be manufactured in quantity to retail for less than two dollars. The farmer's son took it from a Jap in a hand-to-hand fight. Wounds the boy received however left him maimed for life. The father prizes

the trophy for its cost, not its worth. One of the strangest quirks of human nature is the hook-up between cost and value. People so often appreciate things according to what they cost instead of according to what they are worth. A man who falls heir to a fortune without effort is much more liable to squander than his neighbor who may have acquired a similar amount the hard way; his wealth cost him too little.

A Thing of Value It's like American citizenship, a thing of great value that costs too little. The fee exacted from an immigrant when he "takes out his papers" is not a drop in the sea compared to what he gets. Moreover, the vast majority of Americans acquired citizenship rights with their first conscious breath. We grew up with citizenship. We have always had it and consequently don't appre-

keenly coveted by noble Huguenots | must be paid for extra. who fled France as refugees. Almost everybody in Christendom is familiar with New Testament accounts of how Saul of Tarsus' life was spared more than once because he, although an Israelite, was born a privileged citizen of Rome. An Expensive Item

Roman citizenship in Bible times could be bought, and it cost a great price. It had a great value, too, but it wasn't worth nearly as much as our American citizenship, that costs so little. I think everybody in the United States ought to be educated for citizenship. Not many are, either natives or naturalized citizens. Not everybody needs a college degree but everybody needs to appreciate his freedom.

Americans were conscious of their citizenship for a long time back of a century ago. Government held the spotlight of youth's attention. In the last hundred years, however, invention has intrigued the interest of more and more American boys. Unfortunately a keen interest in something spells relative indifference to something else, and engineering has hid government in almost total

Little boys were eagerly flattening their noses against window panes to see that new invention, a bicycle, pass by.

These five generations of high, scientific achievement are not to be despised. In them, our wage levels and national income have made America the envy of a mercenary world. But the foundation for all this was laid between George Washington's day and John Tyler's. The science of self government must regain its rightful place in the field of learning if we Americans are to hold up our living standards. Our youth must better appreciate the rights and privileges of citizenship, its cost and its value.

By ELEANOR WALSH McClure Newspaper Syndicate Released by WNU

SHE still looked tired, her face a little drawn as she walked through the big outer newspaper office which sounded like a machine gun nest with its barrage of furious typewriters. But when she was ensconced in the little cubbyhole that she called her own, self-assurance replaced fatigue. She was on the job again. Linda Jordan was someone she had left outside, and the name now was Emily Kent. Emily Kent, whose column of advice to the heartsick was read, surreptitiously or openly, by half the city, and whose words of wisdom, she trusted, were followed to the letter. People could and some did laugh at her writings, but many bought the paper for her counsel

They liked the comfortable, plump, gray - haired and smiling woman whose picture appeared daily above the column, just under 'Emily Kent Says." It wasn't really of her-not of Linda Jordan, that is. Actually, the sage adviser to the heavy laden was in her middle twenties. She was, the editor had felt, too much the glamour girl to inspire public confidence when it came to affairs of the heart. And so he had dug up this old photo of a long dead aunt as better suited to represent the spirit of the feature.

On this, as on all mornings, she

ters on her desk, on paper ranging from good to dreadful and in handwritings to match. For, contrary to frequent belief, she did not have to manufacture the epistles she answered so wisely. Doctor them up, yes. Usually they were very dull. But as for inventing them-well, hardly ever.

Efficiently she slit open the envelopes and stacked the letters for reading. Those she might use went into the wire basket and those that were hopeless she tossed away. Occasionally she smiled. More often she compressed her lips. "Housework simply too much — married three years—husband complains I no longer look nice, but how can I? do my own work except laundry and heavy cleaning - no children, but know that when there are, things will be even worse."

Every so often she wrote a composite answer, based on a number of them, and then proceeded to give the collective authors a scorching piece of her mind. For she had no patience with women who "let themselves go" and risked losing their husbands.

She found a description of a mother-in-law situation which was being badly handled. The writer naively supposed that only she had ever faced that situation. Linda would tell her differently, she thought. The letter would need very little editing, too. It presented a common case. She wrinkled her brow a momentno, she hadn't discussed mothers-inlaw for quite some time. The stu-pid things people could do about problems that were simple!

With the ease of a woman who knows precisely what she is doing and is untroubled by any suspicion that she may be wrong, she jotted on the back of this envelope some notes she would use in her reply.

The morning had nearly slipped by. Her watch told her that in half an hour it would be time for lunch. She glowed a little. Robert would be waiting at that Italian place, and he would already have ordered because he always knew in advance exactly what she wanted. No misunderstanding to mar that relationship-no complications, no petty little knots of the sort she spent her life unraveling. Would she marry him? Probably, she thought, though they hadn't really discussed it.

Then the phone rang. Perhaps it was Robert to say that—"Oh, Mr. Farwell. Yes. Yes, I can make it this afternoon, not too early. At four in your office? What?" Her voice became suddenly shrill. "Certainly not. Under no circumstances. I'll be glad to talk over a divorce with Jim any time, the sooner the better, but I will not sit in the same room with his mother. No, I don't care to explain. I have my reasons. If you could know half the things that woman-well, call me back when you've made some other arrangement. Goodby."

The lines of irritation didn't leave her face until she reached the ele-

Government Rebate

Excess is a bad thing; everybody is against it. Every time the word is mentioned it brings up recollections of paying excess baggage on a trunk, or recalls some friend whose doctor has warned him against excess fat or excess sugar. "Excess" always makes you think of something that's fine in moderation but very bad, dangerous, sinful maybe, if there is any extra.

It would have been a good thing for the United States and everybody in it, if the man who first said "excess profit," had used a term that meant exactly something. Excess baggage is everything over 150 pounds, of course, and doctors know precisely what excess fat or excess sugar is when they find it, but what is excess profit? Who knows what it is? Quite often it is the unfair use of an ugly word.

Taxed at 85 Per Cent There is such a thing as excess profit, without a doubt; easier to recognize than define. What the government calls excess profit however, may not always be too much. think everybody has a right to know just what it is that corporations earn and then have to pay 85 cents out of every dollar back to the government in a special tax.

Consider this: The war choked out a few firms completely, but a majority kept go-ing and soon found their sales swollen by war conditions. Costs in-creased too but, even so, most of them are making much bigger profits annually before taxes than they did in a good average year of business before the war. The 1940 tax law calls profits "excess" if they are greater in any one year than the average annual profits of 1936

Gift From Government Along with increased costs, born of war, many big corporations enjoy economies also incidental to war. Costs can usually come down with greatly increased volume, and many manufacturers are selling everything they make to the government as fast as they can make it. Some are relieved entirely of sales expense and kindred expenses like merchandising, warehousing, deterioration, etc.

Business establishments with government contracts do not offer much protest against a stiff tax on war profits. Business men are able to see sense in it. They have generally given liberal discounts to big-volume buyers whose orders keep plants Busy and unit costs down. Government is always a close buyer; price cuts to government departments are certainly nothing new.

Excess Prices Next Technically, the excess profits taxes that corporations pay now are not price concessions because the firms actually get the money and pay it back later. It is almost precisely a rebate to the government for its big purchases. The only difference is that our excess profits tax is a law. to cancel themselves the day war ends, but the tax law has to be repealed by Congress or stay in force. If our 85% excess profits tax law is not amended to end with the war, American manufacturers will have to keep on rebeting the government after the government quits buying. Selling and warehousing costs will savings to divide with anybody. If manufacturers pay government 85% of any part of post-war profits, they must hike prices. That will be an "excess," really, and the whole burden of it will fall on us average consumers. We can only protect ourselves by having proper tax legislation created now, to go into effect as soon as the war ends.

TENNESSEE'S CAPITOL

America's devotion to freedom, which the purchase of War Bonds directly helps to maintain, nowhere has a more exemplary shrine than the State Capitol at Nashville. The $1,500,000 building memorializes years of struggles of sturdy folk. Tennessee's first Legislature met at Kingston and adjourned to Knoxville. Later it met at Nashville and Murfreesboro. Nashville became the permanent capital and the cornerstone of the present building was laid in 1845. It took 14 years to complete. The same love of freedom that inspired those early legislators in selecting a seat of governlators in selecting a seat of government motivates the state's 186,000 men now in the U.S. armed forces.

Refrigerator Care '

Whether your refrigerator is old or new it needs care to give its best. Keep the coils free from dirt. An accumulation of dirt and dust interferes with the motor's cooling efficiency and will cause it to run more. Clean the coils with a long handled brush (be sure to turn off the motor if it is an electric refrigerator).

Avoid frequent door openings. Remove several articles at a time and when they are to be replaced in the refrigerator, assemble them on a convenient table so that they may all go into the refrigerator as quickly as possible. Do not overcrowd the refrigerator with food as the necessary circulation will be stopped. Hot foods should be cool before they are stored. Do not store items that do not need special refrigeration but leave more room for such things as milk that do.

Bird Music

When birds twitter away, they are not singing just any old song. They are actually composing music. This is the conclusion of Dr. Wallace Craig of the New York state museum following a study of the wood peewee. Dr. Craig discovered that this bird had three songs in its repertoire, and sang them at differ-

The early morning song was different from that sung at mid-day, and entirely unlike the one warbled at twilight. The scientist found that the evening song consisted of three different phrases repeated hundreds of times in varying order. Aided by 22 other observers, he made out a chart showing the order of the phrases. This showed, he said, that there was a definite musical composition to the songs.

Good Blanket Durability of the nap is an important quality that every good blanket should possess. To determine this quality when purchasing blankets, the housewife should examine them to see if the weave is firm enough and the fiber long enough to be securely locked in the weave structure. A double weave has two sets of filling and permits more napping without the danger of "over-napping." A blanket that has been overnapped provides warmth at a sacrifice of strength. It is desirable to choose a blanket 10 inches longer and 18 inches wider than the mattress. Wartime restrictions now limit blanket lengths to 84 inches, but this is usually adequate. Rayon bindings ordinarily hold color better in cleaning than do sateen.

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT-Matthew 18:21-35. GOLDEN TEXT—Matthew 18:21-35.

GOLDEN TEXT—If ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.—Matthew 6:14, 15.

Forgiveness is the very essence of Christianity. In Christianity only do we find an adequate and proper dealing with sin, leading to forgiveness. In Christ alone do we find that forgiveness, cleansing and regenera-

Since God has so willingly and wonderfully provided for our forgiveness, it would seem that we would need no urging to make us forgiving in spirit toward one an-

Yet it is indeed "a melancholy fact that there are few Christian duties so little practiced as that of forgiveness. It is sad to see how much bitterness, unmercifulness, spite, harshness and unkindness there is among men" (J. C. Ryle). I. The Extent of Forgiveness (vv.

"How long do I have to stand it?" is the question of the human heart, especially if untouched by the spirit of Christ. The injustices of life, the offenses of our fellow men against us, all seem to pile up until the burden is about to crush us. What is the answer to man's question?

The Jews had an answer. He said three times is enough. Forgive once, yes. Again, yes. But the third time, no. Peter was bighearted enough to more than double that allowance of mercy. He was willing to forgive not just two or three times, but seven times.

The spirit of Christ swept all of that aside. He said that one should forgive 70 times seven. In other words, Christian forgiveness is to be untiring, unlimited, to know no weariness and have no boundaries. If one really forgives, it is because he has a forgiving spirit, and that spirit is not exhausted by use, but rather grows by exercise.

A word of caution is in order at this point. Let no one suppose that our Lord's instruction means that offenses against the law of the land or against the good order of society are to be overlooked and condoned.

It relates rather to the cultivation of a personal spirit of forgiveness, the laying aside of revenge, of malice, of retaliation which do not become the Christian.

II. The Motive of Forgiveness (vv.

Two motives are given. The first is that since we ourselves are daily and hourly in need of forgiveness at the merciful hand of God, we should erciful toward those who sin against us. Compared with our offenses against the law of God, we know that the misdeeds of our neighbors against us are usually mere trifles. Remember what God has done for you, when you are tempted to be hard and ungracious with your brother

The second motive is the remembrance that a day of judgment is to come. There is always a time of reckoning ahead, even as was the case with these servants. Remember not only what God has done for you and is doing for you, but what you must yet expect Him to do in that day of judgment. It will make you merciful and gracious in your judgment of others.

Forgiveness has a fine quality which commends itself to others. Note the sorrow of the fellow servants (v. 31). There is, then, a social value in true forgiveness.

III. The Importance of Forgiveness (v. 35).

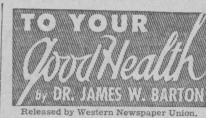

A man dealing with his fellow man is apt to think that it is merely a matter between man and man. We are not dealing with a straight line between ourselves and our brother (that was Peter's error), but with a triangle at whose apex is God

If I expect God to forgive me, I must let my forgiveness flow out to my brother. If I deal with him as though God had nothing to do with the matter, then I must not try to count God's forgiveness into the picture when I stand indebted before Him. God does not play favorites. He is no respecter of persons. He is as interested in the other man as He is in me. The Christian should have the same spirit. Here we need a word of explanation. Let no one suppose that our redemption in Christ is contingent upon what we do toward our breth-ren. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God; not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2:8, 9).

Nor does the truth of our lesson mean that we are somehow going to bargain with God, trading a bit of our forgiveness toward others for His forgiveness of us. God is not interested in such transactions. But it does mean that if you cannot or will not forgive, you may well consider whether you are a Christian at all, for it is Christlike to forgive.

WHY TEETH DECAY

At the beginning of the last war the regulations regarding teeth were so strict that I had a sergeant examine the mouths of the recruits bement. In this war medical officers are finding just as many men with infected or missing teeth as in the last war, but with an adequate dental corps men are taken into the army and the defects corrected.

What causes decay of teeth? Has the cause ever been discovered?

In the Journal of the American Dental Association, Robert G. Kesel, D.D.S., M.S., Chicago, states that 237 investigators report that dental decay begins with the destruction of the enamel by acid. This is not a new idea as a writer in A.D. 1530 stated that decay of teeth was due to decomposed food and acid mois-

There appear to be two factors in tooth decay, the exciting or immediate cause, and the predisposing or underlying cause.

The immediate or exciting factors are organisms on the tooth surface capable of destroying tooth substances, and material (food particles clinging to the teeth) which are converted into substances harmful to the tooth. Without the organisms and tooth particles there likely would be no decay.

Yet, Dr. Kesel points out "that all living individuals have organisms on the tooth surfaces and most of them, at times, have upon their teeth materials that could form ac-Why then do not all teeth de-

Teeth do not decay in some individuals despite the presence of organisms and acid forming material on the teeth, because these individuals do not have the predisposing or underlying conditions that enable the organisms and acid-forming materials to start the process of decay.

Six Pointers on Neurosis Prevention

While the curing of mental ailments has reached the highest point in history, nevertheless it must be remembered that many mental cases, are not cured by our present methods including the shock treat-should there not be some method of preventing the development of mental ailments or preventing those with a tendency toward mental ailments becoming mental patients?

Today we see smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, pernicious anemia, typhoid fever, diabetes prevented or controlled. Why cannot mental ailments be prevented, particularly in the young, just as diphtheria and scarlet fever are prevented?

In an article in Boston Number of the Medical Clinics of North America, Dr. Merrill Moore, in pointing out what psychiatry can do to prevent neurosis-patients whose odd behavior symptoms are not due to any organic cause, no change in brain structure-says:

1. Parents should not overexcite their children.

2. Children should be taught to relax and to concentrate (put their minds intently on a subject) when necessary.

3. Parents should remember that children are not their playthings to be poked and tossed about. 4. Children are assets; raising them is a serious business. 5. Parents should give their children a sense of security in the child's own small world.

6. All along the production line the parent should guide the child and try not to let him go off the track of normal development. For example, it is important for a boy (or girl) to keep abreast of his group and be able to do what his friends can do—in school, play-ground, or elsewhere—even if a little extra coaching is necessary. This prevents an inferiority complex. If a child does not hold his own in his own world, he may slink off on the sidelines and become critical or destructive. He may then more easily become a neurotic or an alcoholic.

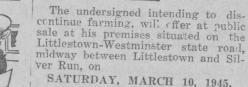

HEALTH BRIEFS

Q.—Can you suggest a treatment for a painful buzzing in the ears? A .- From your description it looks as if the eustachian tubes get blocked. Ask your physician about blowing them open. Special diet might help, but "you're in the army now" and must eat what is served.

Q.-What is nux vomica? A .- Nux vomica is the parent drug of strychnine. It is a stomach tonic. increasing breathing power and stimulating nerves.

Glue Method Latest For Washing Woolens

Believe it or not, the glue method is the latest one for satisfactory washing of woolens at home and comes in handy when dry cleaners are rushed. It is particularly good for garments which are generally soiled — sweaters, trousers, snow suits, dresses. If there are grease stains, these should first be removed with a dry cleaner before washing.

Prepare a wash solution by adding one tablespoon of good strong liquid glue, such as carpenters use, to every quart of warm soft water. Have enough water to cover the garment. Make sure that the glue is completely dissolved in the water.

Step two consists of folding the garment and laying it in the water, being careful to avoid unnecessary creases. Next, allow the garment to stand in this solution for 20 minutes without handling. Do not rub or scrub garment. At the end of the soaking period, a soft brush may be used on crease of collar or edges of cuffs if necessary, providing the material is stroked in the direction of the nap or grain. Make a second solution while the garment is soaking in the first one, using one teaspoon of glue for every three quarts of warm water. Remove the garment from the first solution, press out excess water in a towel and place garment in new solution. Let stand again without handling for 20 minutes. After this comes a rinse in one of two clear warm waters, absorbing excess moisture in towels. Do not wring.

Per Capita Income Doubles Since 1939

Average income per capita more than doubled throughout the United States during the five year period from 1938 to 1943, rising from 5511 to an all-time high of $1,031 last year, or 52 per cent more than during the "boom" year of 1929, the Federation of Ta Administrators re-

The $5114figure represents the so-called business "recession" of 1938, which brought income payments down to the, 1931 level.

Highest income payments on a per capita basis in 1938 were received by persons in the District of Columbia, the payments averaging $1,011. Among the states, they ranged from a low of $194 in Mississippi to highs of $786 in Nevada, $765 in New York, $747 in New Jersey.

In 1943, per capita income payments ranged from $484 in Mississippi to $1,452 in Connecticut. (In California, Neyada, Washington and Delaware, average income was higher in 1943 than in New York, New Jersey and the District of Colum-

Cleanness of husking is a factor of great importance in storing corn of high moisture content because husks and silks seriously retard air movement through the crib.

Brown sugar kept in the refriger-ator will not lump or harden. When mayonnaise jars are almost empty mix sandwich filling in the jar and nothing is wasted.

Preserve Olives

Olives, after they are opened, will seep fresh much longer if they are covered with salad oil and kept in the refrigerator or other cold place.

Free-Machining Steels Sulfur is added as the element to certain steels to increase their machinability, and such steels are known as free-machining steels.

Food Fuel An active farmer needs 3,500 to 4,000 calories a day; his wife needs 2,600 calories. Calories are the "fuel" provided by food. Maintain Pasture Mere establishment of an improved pasture is not enough. The pasture must be maintained in good condition. First Graduate Architect America's first architecture grad-uate was Clifford Ricker, graduated in 1872 at the University of Illinois.

PUBLISH PICTURES OF LOCAL CHILDREN

Pictures of the children of this city and surrounding community are to be printed in this paper as a special tribute to our young citizens. Tomorrow the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the world will be placed upon their shoulders. All are invited and urged to participate in this featured event. Among our children are those destined to fame and fortune, so let's not omit are of them! let's not omit any of them!

Every parent should cooperate to make this a colorful and inspiring exhibit. You can cut out and keep these pictures of every youngster in the community. They will always be treasured keepsakes and cherished memory records that could not be acquired in any other way.

You are all guests of ours, and all photographs will be taken

We have made arrangements with the Woltz Studios, nationally known portrait photographers, to come and take the pictures right here in town. You do not have to order photographs, subscribe to, or be a subscriber to this newspaper, to have your pictures taken and run in this featured event. All that is necessary is that the children be brought by their parents to the photographer on the date and at the location mentioned below. Proofs of all poses will be submitted to the parents, and cuts of approved poses will be prepared, identified, written up, and printed in this paper. and printed in this paper.

The Studio will also take pictures of adults and family groups, and submit proofs without charge, but these pictures will not be published in the paper.

If photographs are wanted for yourself it will be necessary to arrange for them direct with the Studio when proofs are submitted for examination because they cannot be obtained through this paper.

Remember, all children must be accompanied by parents or
