The fish was caught with hook and line. He, or his son, Carroll, of Cragertown, Md., who was with him, caught two smaller carp. His big catch he had in a large tub of water and the others in a wash boiler. These he proudly displayed that evening to many who passed by or had come to see the "big fellow." Another group of fishermen composed of P. E. Shaum, "Lefty" Crumpacker, Robert Smith and Jas. Baumgardner, this week went to a point along the North Carolina Coast where one of the party was successful in landing a twenty-six pound channel bass. The large fish created a lot of interest as people viewed the "remains" as it "laid in state" in Mr. Shaum's show case at his store.

SENDING PACKAGES

To Our Service Men and Women

What's the most popular gift sent to Navy men overseas? Photographs of their families and friends. And what's the most unpopular gift? Candy, say those who should know.

A survey made by the Navy Mail Service shows that, of course, Navy men prefer above all else to receive letters, but in the line of gifts the ten chosen in the order of their popularity are:

1, photographs; 2, canned snack foods, such as olives, sardines, nuts, 3, books; 4, writing cases; 5, service watches; 6, pipes; 7, pens; 8, engraved identification tags; 9, waterproof wallets; 10, lighters.

The disappointing articles are listed in this order:

1, candy; 2, cake; 3, cookies; 4, shaving kits; 5, cigarettes.

Here's why: foods usually are inedible upon arrival; fancy kits are bulky when stowed; Navy men are issued enough cigarettes.

Boxes for overseas delivery should be strong—of metal, wood or fiberboard, should be packed and stuffed so contents won't rattle, and should be tied before and after applying heavy wrapping paper. Twine should run twice crosswise, twice lengthwise, knotted at all crossings.

The War Production Board has approved manufacture of boxes 10x6x4 inches which are stronger than containers previously approved.

MOTHERS' AND DAUGHTERS' BANQUET HELD

The Sunday School Class of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, taught by Mrs. Fogle, held their annual Mothers' and Daughters' banquet, Wednesday evening, May 9 in the Social Hall of the First Church of God, in Westminster.

The table was attractively decorated with peonies and corn flowers. Place cards were cleverly designed of profiles of a mother and daughter and were accompanied by a matching program. A pink carnation was placed by the plate of each guest, and mother.

The group united in singing America, after which the invocation was given by Mrs. Charles Bix. A delicious roast chicken dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of God.

After the much-enjoyed meal, group singing was conducted. Mrs. Harry Fogle extended greetings to all Mothers and guests, and expressed thanks for the Mothers to the committee in charge of arrangements and class. Margaret Martin responded in behalf of the daughters. Special readings were given in honor of Mothers by LaRue Shaffer, Elsie Baust and Rene Hymiller. Vocal solo, "Mother" was rendered by Delores Frock.

The highlight of the evening came when baby pictures of the Mothers present were passed around the table and Mothers and guests were asked to guess who each one was. This was a surprise event and brought forth much laughter and gaiety. A potted African violet was given Mrs. Katie Frock, winner of the contest.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Good-night Ladies." Committee in charge of arrangements was headed by Mrs. Margaret Martin, assisted by Pauline Goodwin, Lettie Cartzenadner and Mrs. Harry Fogle. The committee is to be much commended for its splendid work.

A SOLDIER'S LETTER

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for sending me the paper. I appreciate it very much as it does bring me close to home to sit down and read the home town news. Will be looking forward in receiving the paper, although will be moving around quite a bit before I will know what they intend to do with me.

Of course would like to get out of Colorado. No state as good, as good old Maryland. I'm ready to come back now, twenty-nine months is a little time away and I did get to see some of this world.

Well, I am not much of the writing kind, so will bring this letter to a close. Thanks a whole lot for the paper. My address is now as follows:

PFC. RALPH VAUGHN, 3387143
A. S. F. Conv Hosp. Bldg 566

CIVILIANS AT WAR

The Government needs and asks its citizens in the 180th week of the war against Japan to:

1. Buy you overseas servicemen a bond during the 7th War Loan Drive, and tell him you have so on a V-Mail gift certificate, obtainable wherever war bonds are sold.

2. Stay on your war job until victory over Japan. If manpower needs in your industry are changing, your U. S. Employment Service Office can tell you the nearest job where you are needed.

3. Continue to buy only what you need. Reconversion has started, but America's factories cannot produce sufficient civilian goods to end the threat of inflation while Pacific war needs continue.

INTERESTING ASPECTS FOR CAR-OWNER

The official end of the European phase of World War II has some interesting aspects for the car-owners of America, as revealed by official reports at the regular meeting of the Westminster Advisory Board of the Automobile Club of Maryland, held at Hoffman's, Monday evening, May 14th. No immediate effect is anticipated as the result of Nazi quitting. We must not expect immediate relaxation of restrictions and regulations, that we shall soon get ample tires, new cars, or all the gasoline we want, the Club warns. Until V-J Day arrives, we shall have with us the problem of care and conservation of every item of automotive equipment including the rapidly aging car itself.

On the production side, Rubber Director, John L. Collyer, has upped the tire schedule to 5,200,000 for this quarter. But we must remember that for every million new passenger cars we may be able to make before and after V-J Day, we shall need five million new tires for them. Again, conservation may help preserve what we already have on our aged cars, says the AAA. Also, the Club urged that all car owners give special attention to the conservation of their storage batteries until production is caught up, and motorists are warned not to "dope" them with inferior chemicals.

The Westminster Branch reported steady gain, with a total paid-up membership of 882. Paul R. Garrett, President, presided. Others attending were Messrs Charles W. Klee, Thomas W. Melville, Roy D. Knouse, Raymond K. Wright and Percy M. Burke.

FBI LAW ENFORCEMENT CONFERENCE

RENT REGULATIONS

Governing the Purchaser's Obligation

Tenants of a house or apartment which change ownership during their tenancy are entitled to substantial protection against hasty eviction. Mr. Lucien E. D. Gaudreau, State Rent Director for Maryland, stated today. This is true, even though the new owner wishes to occupy the premises himself, Mr. Gaudreau said.

He stressed the fact that the number of evictions arising out of the sale of rented houses is increasing and that it is important for both purchasers and tenants to be familiar with their rights and obligations in such cases.

In general, the tenant of a house which has been sold since (October 20, 1942, or date when rent control went into effect locally, if this is different) may continue to occupy the premises at the established rent unless possession for his own occupancy is required by the new owner. Even then the tenant will usually have three months to find new quarters, Mr. Gaudreau said.

If the purchaser of a rented house wishes to dispossess a tenant and occupy it himself, he must first file a petition with the Area Rent Office for permission to institute eviction proceedings in accordance with local laws and regulations. The Area Rent Office will notify the tenant that petition has been filed.

Landlords in Maryland must file a special report with the OPA Rent Office by May 31, 1945, when there has been a change in ownership between the date Rent Control went into effect on May 5, 1945, according to an announcement issued today by Lucien E. D. Gaudreau, OPA, State Rent Director. This report is required under a recent amendment to the Rent Regulations.

"If there has been a change in the ownership of a housing unit since the effective date of Rent Control and before May 5, 1945, the present owner is required to report such change on form D-61 on or before May 31, 1945. When a change occurs on or after May 5, 1945, the new landlord must file a notice within 10 days after the change," Mr. Gaudreau explained.

New owners must file a separate form for each housing unit. However, to simplify the procedure for landlords of apartment buildings or large projects under one management, the OPA will accept a single report with a list attached of addresses, tenants and rents charged. For hotels and rooming houses, only a schedule of addresses is necessary.

In filling out the form, the name of the present tenant and the amount of rent collected must be given, as well as the change of date of ownership. Landlords must also list any change in services or changes to the living quarters made since the housing unit was registered.

LIMIT ON RELIEF

Governor O'Connor signed the hotly contested House Bill 779 on May 4th. It is now the law of Maryland that able-bodied persons cannot be given relief payments unless they have been residents of Maryland for two years. In emergencies, thirty days' relief may be paid, but no more. There is no change in the law relative to relief for the aged, blind, crippled or sick.

Just how much this new law will save Maryland, cannot be accurately figured at this time. But Harry S. Middendorf, leader of the organized taxpayers' fight to put the curb on relief, said, "The saving will amount to many millions when the war ends. Those millions will be badly needed then to make real permanent jobs at respectable wages. But, aside from the financial aspects, this law represents, as far as I know, the first attempt of taxpayers who pay for relief to assert themselves in determining who shall and who shall not be allowed to live on the public. There is a growing feeling among citizens that in the matter of relief and welfare, advantage is being taken of their natural charitable instincts. The almost universal demand for this law is the result of that opinion."

TRUMAN AND ECONOMY

Widespread applause has greeted the swift action of President Truman in recommending to Congress that appropriations be trimmed in conformity with reduced requirements. The President urges Congress to cut more than $4,265,000,000 from current appropriations and contract authorizations for Maritime Commission shipbuilding. Obviously this is a wise step. The present shipbuilding program was planned a few years ago, when German U-boats were wrecking havoc on Allied shipping. With Germany out of the war, shipping from the Atlantic can be shifted to the Pacific.

The President also recommended a slash of more than $80,000,000 in the budget estimates of eight agencies for the fiscal year beginning July 1. And he abolished the Office of Civilian Defense and withdrew its produced $360,000 for the coming year, urging at the same time that volunteer protection workers continue on the job.

While these actions and recommendations were ascribed to favorable war developments, it must be conceded that President Truman acted rapidly in favor of retrenchment, considering the fact that he has been in office only a few weeks. He will recommend further reductions in expenditures as needs diminish. He is also studying the possibility of reductions in taxes.

In pointing out that Federal supervision of civilian defense is no longer necessary, President Truman paid high tribute to OGD workers. It paid high tribute to OGD workers. It should be noted that the OGD not only served well as a protection organization during the dark days of the war when many feared air raids and attempts at sabotage on a large scale were expected, but the training of the volunteers enrolled in it constitutes a lasting good. The country today has millions of persons trained in first-aid work, fire prevention and other protection activities. Their knowledge will prove valuable in accident cases and disasters of various kinds which occur in peacetime as well as in war. Many of these volunteers gave long hours of study and drill to their particular choices of protection work and they are to be commended for their efforts.—The Frederick Post

FACES TO THE PACIFIC

There is little that we can say at this late day concerning the surrender of Germany and the end of the war in Europe which has not already been said many times over, and in many different ways. All of us are humbly grateful that the holocaust in that section of the world has come to an end at last, for the time being anyway. Let us hope that it will be for a long, long time. The thought of two world shaking wars in the lifetime of one generation is an awesome thing to those of us who have lived through such, and we prayerfully hope that our children will not have to live through such an experience.

In our jubilation over victory in Europe it is well for us all to remember that the war is not at an end, however. For us, at least, it is likely to continue in the Pacific for a long time to come, and when we realize that the taking of one small, godforsaken island like Iwo Jima can cost the lives of many thousands of our finest young men, it stirs us to sober reflection, for there are many more small islands and larger ones also, in that area which must be wrested from the treacherous Japanese. Let us hope however, that the struggle in that area may be terminated within a short time, for the sooner it ends the fewer of our own heroic men will be sacrificed, and it is doubtful whether or not a dozen of those islands is worth the life of one of our splendid fighters. We must drive the Japanese from dominion over free peoples, though, and see that their desire for conquest and domination is curbed, and the only way to do it is to defeat them most decisively.—County Record Towson.

THE PEACE OF OUR ADVANCEMENT

It is my feeling that we are approaching a time when a number of plans will be offered for the avowed purpose of providing us with greater opportunities to pursue a full and decent life. There will be no quarrel with the intent of these plans, but there will be danger if we forget that in this nation and in this state (Nebraska), the right of the individual holds the basic priority. Should we forget that priority, our desire to improve the general welfare might cause us, with the blindness of Isaac, to confer upon the artificial state a birthright that belongs to the human individual.

In our zeal to progress, we will be wise to remember that the pace of our advance cannot be set to match the abilities of those in the vanguard of our society. The pace, instead, must be set so that those individuals who lag at the other end of our social column will have a reasonable chance to catch up, under their own power, if such is their desire. The best teacher, when I was a boy in school, was not the one who worked for me all the problems which were assigned; the best teacher was the one who caused me to work so that I myself solved the problems correctly. Government has the same responsibility.—Dwight Griswold, Governor of Nebraska.

FEDERAL ENCROACHMENT

It has long been inevitable that as the complexity of our national economy increased, the functions of the Federal government would reach further and further into the realm of what was traditionally considered the functions of the States. Within its proper limits this trend serves the needs of all the people. But when it overreaches its proper limits and seek to transcend and usurp State sovereignty, that is when the people of the State must resist. This is why the people of Montana generally are now fighting to protect their commonwealth against bureaucratic infiltration. Montana has been and is willing to live and work in equitable partnership with Washington, but not under domination by Washington.—Sam C. Ford, Governor of Montana.

WHAT ABOUT PROSPERITY?

Can we have prosperity when peace comes? Are we planning for the impossible? What will be the outcome? Will peoples and nations revert to selfish ambitions when the guns finally cease?

A warning note was sounded from the State Department recently in these lines: "Political isolationism has been discredited, but we must be careful now that we are not dragged down by its twin, economic isolationism."

If we remember that the recovery and the welfare of our neighbors is a necessary factor in rebuilding our own prosperity, then we may get our sights on one if the targets of the Atlantic Charter. We may see freedom from want gradually spreading over widening social and national groups. To achieve that is both the duty and the interest of all of us, but none of us can achieve it alone.

As President Truman said in his first speech in office: "We have learned to fight with other nations in common defense of our freedom. We must now learn to live with other nations for our mutual good. With divine guidance and help we will find the new passage to a far better world, a kindly and friendly world, with just and lasting peace."

No task is too great nor too impossible if the facts are clearly faced from the start. Only when we substitute fears or hopes for facts does it become impossible. It is the unknown that frightens us. Hopes may be dupes but fears also may be liars.

If it were possible for men from all over the world to carve a nation out of the wilderness, to establish the greatest producing force the world has ever known, to build upon a firm foundation a practical democracy where all men are free and equal in the eyes of the law—why is it not possible for me of different nationalities, faith and speech, to build a world of peace and prosperity?

That is the aim of the San Francisco Conference. That was the theme of Dumbarton Oaks.

Just as the individual states had to give some of their rights of isolationism to form a united whole, so will the nations have to concede—to concede, mind you, not appease, to work together.

We can have prosperity but we will have to want it and work for it—as wholeheartedly and with the selfless devotion to its cause that we have demonstrated in time of war.—Ruth Taylor.

AMERICAN SLANG TAKES NEW TWIST

How will we talk tomorrow? Slang is reshaping faster than ever and a noted student of new and fascinating words and expressions that are finding their way into our language. ### Bed Sling

When a patient is sitting up, he must be provided with something that will prevent him from slipping down in bed. A bed sling may be merely a pillow tucked under the knees and held in position by a sheet tied behind the head of the bed. One may also use a firm pillow, folded blanket or box near the foot of the bed for the patient to press his feet against.

Bonds Over America

EVANGELINE

American boys fight, suffer and die today to perpetuate freedom. And other Americans on the home front buy and hold War Bonds to safeguard freedom. If Henry W. Longfellow had not enjoyed liberty he could not have written "Evangeline," the story of Emmaline Labeche, St. Martinville, La., pioneer girl who waited on the banks of the Peche for years, hoping to greet her lost lover. The Longfellow-Evangeline Memorial Park, oldest of Louisiana's state parks, is a monument to liberty and freedom.

THERE'S A BRIGHT FUTURE FOR FARM TELEPHONE SERVICE, TOO!

We would like to see many more farms with telephones.

Bell Telephone Laboratory research—although nearly wholly diverted to war projects—has found new ways to extend and improve farm telephone service: Stronger wire that takes fewer poles, how to send telephone messages over electric power lines, radiotelephones to reach remote spots.

We are busy right now planning how to use these ideas. There's a bright future for the farm telephone when manpower and materials are again available

CORRESPONDENCE

Latest Items of Local News Furnished
By Our Regular Staff of Writers

We desire correspondence to reach our office on Thursday, if at all possible. It will be necessary therefore, for most letters to be mailed on Wednesday, or by first mail, west in W. M. R. R., Thursday morning. Letters mailed on Thursday evening may not reach us in time.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author; not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

FEESERSBURG

Bright and cool and dewey—a typical May morning. The atmosphere has been warming up, fires are turned off, doors are open; birds are building—and singing at their task; tulips, poppies and mock orange are blooming—perfuming the air, oh! but this is a beautiful world.

Tuesday, May 8th, was the great Day of Victory over Europe—a day of rejoicing everywhere, but with it a deep strain of sorrow for the rows of white crosses that mark the graves of many fallen in service; and the fight with Japan still on; but there was deep thanksgiving, fine martial music, earnest speeches from leading persons. We heard our own President Truman, the ovation to the King and Queen of England—and his address. The U. S. had four years of war with Germany; England had six years, and China has had 8 years of warfare and she was a peaceable Nation—and did not want to fight.

Mrs. Roger Roop (nee Olive Main) is home again from a Baltimore Hospital, convalescing nicely from an appendectomy.

Mrs. Mary William Starnes, spent Thursday afternoon at Grow Dale. She had hoped to return to California this season—but traffic and travel regulations are too uncertain, one can hardly go with ease or safety.

Rev. P. H. Williams and wife, of Greenbelt, Md., were callers in our town on Friday, after a trip to Gettysburg. He is employed as a guard at one of the National yards, and is looking well but longs to be back in the ministry.

Rev. J. E. Lowe, pastor of the Uniontown Lutheran Parish from 1921 to 1923—passed away last Wednesday, May 9th, from his home in Westminster. He had been in declining health since he resigned the above charge. He was a faithful pastor, always neat and ministerial in appearance always on time for services, and had a fine memory. His loyal wife survives and has recently returned from the Hospital, in Baltimore, where she had a long treatment—resulting from a fall. Rev. Lowe was reared near Leister's Church of which he was a member, and where his body was laid to rest on Saturday afternoon—Rev. W. R. Brennenman, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Franklin Koons and sister, Mrs. Rosa K. Bohn, were callers in town on Friday. Mr. Koons is an ex-carrier on Mail Route 2 from Union Bridge which he served 23 years. Mrs. Bohn will soon complete her 9th year as chef in the cafeteria of Elmer Wolf school.

We received a nice remembrance from our friend, Miss Emma Ecker in Virginia for the India Lace Industry; the first Mother's Day she has missed at Mt. Union in 13 years. Miss Ecker has taught school in Craigsville, Va., the past winter not missing one day. Her school will close on June 13 and she is looking forward to a summer at the Dehlmann Inn, her apartment in New Windsor.

Miss Viola Dayhoff, her mother and daughter, Caroline took Miss Sue Birely to the county seat on Saturday afternoon for shopping, and to the florist—who was crowded with orders for Mother's Day, but had fine blooms at fine prices. Of course they took in some interesting places on their return.

Sunday visitors at the Birely home included Mrs. Amanda Williams, Bair and Mrs. Myrtle Koons, Sentz, of Taneytown; Mrs. Esther Sentz Angell and her visiting friend, Mrs. Grace Margraff Miller, of Keymar for afternoon; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner, of Blue Ridge Summit in early evening.

Preparation for Children's Day Service at Mt. Union are progressing under the leadership of Miss Viola Dayhoff, and rehearsals for the same will soon be in order.

Mrs. Wilbur Miller, Sr., accompanied her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Files—back to Lancaster, after they spent the week-end at their parents home. Mr. Miller is off on another fishing trip.

There was Sunday School at Mt. Union on Sunday morning with that wonderful lesson on "The Tragedy of the Northern Kingdom"—which was much too much for one short hour. There was special prayers of thanksgiving for the cessation of war with Germany, sentence prayer in which many took part. Songs were sung for Mother's Day and prayer given; and a generous offering made for the support of child mothers in India lace work, was sorry could not be present to have a part in it all.

Our History: May 14, 1804, Lewis and Clark started on an exploration trip of the Northwest—a brave but trying venture which reads like romance. They were gone between two and three years, encamping in the wilderness, and had much to report on their return. The linking of east and west by rail was a wonderful feat of American commercial enterprise. The Union Pacific built westward, and the Central Pacific built eastward and on May 10, 1869 at Promontory Point, Utah, a golden spike was driven into the last tie—and that completed the single line that spanned the Continent.

May 18 is designated Peace Day or the World's Good-will Day—where does Japan come in?

Mother's Day Services were well attended in all the churches with fine programs and I wish that I could give the programs in full.

Cpl. Charles T. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Myers is home on a 30-day furlough. He was wounded in France in June 1944. He is in the Thayer General Hospital, Nashville, Tenn.

Robert McSherry, spent a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McSherry, North Queen St. He served five years overseas with the Infantry, having been in Hawaii when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, and serving under General MacArthur on many of the islands of the Pacific. He is now stationed at Norfolk, Va.

This past weather that we had was hard on the gardens and truck patches, and so much has to be replanted. We hope that it is over and the crops will be good.

On Friday he and his wife and mother, Mrs. Norman Myers drove Irvin, to Washington, D. C., where he left by plane at 7 P. M., for San Francisco, Calif. the Army Air Corps telling of his safe arrival in the Philippines, a trip of ten thousand miles, he was on the water for over a month and by that time was getting very monotonous. Edward says there are plenty of dead Japs laying around, which would make one feel a little more comfortable and safe, than if they were live ones walking around.

The thing that sounded good to our ears was the ringing of the church bell last Sunday morning, calling members and friends to Sunday School. The bell had been silent for over three years, ordered so by army regulations for safety in case of air attacks. We hope that war will never again silence the call to worship in God's house.

Homespun Philosophy

By Ezra

Charlie is a citizen living on the outskirts of Taneytown. I will not identify him any further for fear of being sued for libel. Last fall he killed a fat hog. It was the custom of the neighborhood to exchange presents of sausages, puddings, liver and so on with those who had previously remembered you. During the course of the few weeks preceding his butchering he had received quite a few gifts. He knew if he returned every gift he had received he would not have much of his hog left.

Finally, quite at his wits ends, he confided in one of his neighbors. He said, "Joe I am going to kill my hog, and if I give some meat to everyone from whom I have received there won't be much left for me. What do you advise me to do?"

Joe thought for a moment, then said, "Charlie, I'll tell you what I'd do. I'd kill the hog and leave it hanging outside over night. The next morning I'd go out bright and early and bring it into the house and cut it up before anyone would see me. Then I'd go around to the neighbors and tell them the hog was stolen during the night. Then you will be excused from giving any presents."

Charlie thought that was a good idea. He went home and killed his hog. When night came he left it hanging outside and went to bed. That night Joe came and took the hog, and carried it away to his home. The next morning Charlie got up bright and early to take in his hog, but when he came down—no hog. He rushed to the garage, got into his car and sped down the road. The first one he met was Joe.

All excited, he yelled to Joe, "They have stolen my hog! They have stolen my hog!"

"That's right," shouted Joe back at him. "Now stick to your story and everybody will believe you."

"Charlie began to swear a blue streak and protested most solemnly that it was no joke. His hog was absolutely gone! But the more he swore and the stronger he was in his expression of grief and vexation, the more his neighbor exclaimed, "That's right, stick to your story. Stand fast, and they will all excuse your present."

I am told that Joe left Charlie smoldering in a white fog all day and finally brought his hog back that evening. It was a good lesson for Charlie. His stinginess had caused him a lot of trouble.

We are all more or less stingy. We like to keep the best for ourselves. One day a proud Papa in Taneytown gave his offspring a dime and a quarter. The dime was for the boy's own use and the quarter was for Sunday School. After the service the father asked if he had put the quarter in the collection plate. "No father," said the boy. "Because the preacher said, 'the Lord loveth the cheerful giver' and I could put the dime in more cheerfully, so I put that in."

To the People of this Community

You have a D-Day this week. You won't die, lose limbs, sight or mental faculties in battle. Your assignment is to buy extra War Bonds.

There have been many D-Days in this war. D-Day on the Normandy beaches, D-Day on Tarawa, D-Day on Guadalcanal, D-Day on Iwo Jima, D-Day on Okinawa.

What is it like for your sons, brothers, husbands, friends facing a D-Day in the battle zones? It's prayer and nervousness, nightmarish tension and thoughts of home.

What's it like for you facing another home front D-Day? You are the only person who can answer this question. No matter what the final story is in this community, you will not have met your responsibility unless you have bought more bonds than ever before in a war loan.

The opening of the mighty 7th War Loan is an opportunity to rededicate yourself to the task of nailing down the victory.

Share Gas Revenue
Gasoline taxes and motor vehicle registration fees, collected by all 48 states, are shared with their municipalities by 30 states, though in half a dozen instances the revenues are shared only with certain cities "performing county functions." Value of this sharing to municipalities in the 30 states is indicated by the fact that they received $71,900,000 of so-called state "highway user" revenues in 1942 as compared with the total $230,000,000 paid municipalities in all 48 states in 1942 as their share of all state-collected municipally-shared revenues from all sources, according to the American Municipal Association.

Body Fuel
Sugar is a food used solely to supply body fuel. Containing no protein, minerals and vitamins, it should be used sparingly to prevent a shortage of these substances in the diet. Molasses is a valuable food because of its richness in calcium and iron. Sugar cane syrup is similar in food value to molasses although not as concentrated. Sorghum syrup is a rich source of calcium and iron. Honey is a concentrated sweet with only traces of mineral value which are of little importance.

Quicker Vision
Forward vision apparently is quicker than side vision, according to the Better Vision Institute. If two lights, one straight ahead and the other to the side, are flashed on simultaneously, they appear to have been flashed on in succession, with the light directly ahead leading the other. Experiments on the reaction time of visual sensations indicate a similar result. A person with his hand on a telegraph key was asked to press it as quickly as possible when a light was flashed. The time involved was measured by a precision instrument known as a chronoscope. Tests on a number of persons showed that the average reaction time for a light flashed directly ahead was 17 one-hundredths of a second. Average reaction time in the perception of light at the side was 32 one-hundredths of a second.

Wash Day
Soaking, soaping and scrubbing may hinder rather than help on wash day. While the dirt in white cottons and linens is loosened by a two-hour soak in soft, lukewarm, soapy water, longer than overnight soaking may do more harm than good, allowing the soil in the water to be drawn back into the fibers of the cloth. If you are using an electric washing machine, allow seven to ten minutes of machine agitation for badly soiled cottons, five to seven minutes if they are slightly soiled. Three to five minutes are sufficient for rayons and silks. Clean suds are in order if clothes are not clean in ten minutes, though in hand washing a slightly longer time may be necessary. But long, hard rubbing will not get clothes clean if the water needs changing.

Nation's School Children Ready To Assume Part in Seventh Drive

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation's 30,000,000 school children are again all set to assume as much responsibility as is given them in helping to meet the $7,000,000,000 quota set for sales of War Bonds to individuals in the Seventh War Loan.

The demonstrated sales effectiveness of school children was an important factor in the determination of the dates set for this new Drive—May 14th through June 30th. Insistence on the part of many War Finance Chairmen throughout the country paid tribute to the vital support that pupils, teachers and school administrators have given previous Bond Drives.

A recent survey reveals that more than 20 million people heard about the Sixth War Loan from school children. Over eleven million were directly asked to buy bonds by these boys and girls, a little less than a third of whom were solicited in no other way.

The participation of school children ranges from rallies at their schools to the taking over of actual house-to-house canvassing. In Pennsylvania, a small New Jersey town, during the last Drive, E Bond sales were lagging badly. In desperation, the War Finance Committee turned to the students of the town's two high schools and one grammar school. "If the adults won't do it, it's up to you," the County Chairman told them. Accepting the challenge, within a week boys and girls had sold $25,000 worth of bonds, and before the close of the Drive, Pennsylvania's 6,485 citizens had topped their E Bond quota by $17,000. "Let's chuck that worriment about youth taking responsibility into the ash can," said the local weekly newspaper.

In Michigan, public schools sold $23,750,560 worth of bonds in the Sixth War Loan, with Detroit schools contributing almost a third of this figure. One school in the heart of Detroit averaged sales of $233.60 per pupil; another, in a wealthier district, tallied up $349 for each of its 800 students.

Through special promotions staged by the schools of the small town of Laconia, New Hampshire, whose pupils manned booths, recorded the Drive's progress in downtown department store windows and canvassed all the town's fourteen districts, E Bond sales amounted to $341,334 against a quota of $272,300.

In the state of Washington, the 80,000 school children in King County sold 27,763 E Bonds in one day—$1,182,281 worth.

And in Kings County, New York, elementary and secondary school children tallied up $4,137,435 through the sale of 41,253 E Bonds during the Sixth War Loan.

On Pearl Harbor Day in a remote Virginia county, school pupils canvassed the neighborhood and sold $18,000 worth of Bonds; their total sales for the last Drive amounted to $48,000—eight per cent of which was estimated to be "new" sales.

Preparing fellow townspeople for solicitation by the pupils of Fairmount School, Hackensack, N. J., the principal wrote: "You may feel that we are placing an unusual responsibility on our children, but they are unusual children, living in unusual times. They are sincere in their belief that the future of America depends upon our continued support of every man in the line of battle." His pupils sold bonds worth more than $1,000,000 in the Sixth War Loan.

TO EASE THEIR HURT

A dramatic story from the VICTORY PLAYERS Script of the American Theatre Wing playlet by ESTHER M. HAWLEY. Conversion to prose by L. Louis Sheldon.

Chapter One

"THE BREAKING POINT"

MATTIE was becoming restless. "Sometimes you wouldn't know it," she said bitterly. Then added, "You know, Sarah, I really believe she enjoys this war. Enjoys all the excitement of collecting more paper or selling more War Bonds than anybody else. All she's doing is helping the war go on and on. All the killing and the horror."

"You mustn't talk like this, Mrs. Evans. You mustn't even think it. Nobody wants war. It's horrible to have such a waste of young men. But our boys are just being soldiers while they have to. We're not making war-minded fanatics out of them. They're still just kids that know there's a job to be done, that's all."

"It's easy enough to use a lot of big words but that doesn't change things, Sarah. Maybe Jim isn't a war-minded fanatic but just the same, whatever you call it, he's in the hospital."

"But that's not what matters most. They can fix his body, but if his soul were warped," argued Sarah. "Can't you see?"

"You sound just like Jane. How can you say it doesn't matter? Just thinking about it keeps me awake, crying, night and night."

The door opened and Jane stepped in the room.

"Hello, Sarah. I'm glad you're here," she greeted her friend, tossing her hat and coat over a chair.

Mattie glanced at her and said, "Oh, so you're back."

Jane disregarded the threat. She kissed Mattie and asked, "How's the head?"

"Mother Evans' been having foul headaches. Nothing seems to help them," the girl reminded Sarah.

"It's too bad. It's worrying about Jim," said Sarah.

Chapter Two

THE MYSTERIOUS LETTER

"I HEAR you've been holding up the neighborhood again?" queried Sarah.

"Sure, I'm the Number One Menace. Grown men run when I come in sight."

"How are you doing?"

"O. K., Sarah. I'm not through yet. I've another date at ten. You'll never believe it but I sold a hundred dollar bond to each of those two batty sisters in 231. It took me six bond drives to do it, but by golly, I nailed them."

"I don't believe it," exclaimed Sarah. "They haven't found out yet that the first World War is over."

"Isn't it wonderful! Will you be an angel and make us some tea? I'd make it but I'm out on my feet," she asked her mother-in-law.

"Why would you like some, Sarah?" asked Mattie.

Jane signalled yes to Sarah over Mattie's head.

"I'd love it," smiled Sarah inwardly. "You're sure you feel all right, Mattie."

"I don't know why, I didn't think of it before. I'm sorry, apologized Mattie, leaving for the kitchen.

She followed Mattie to the door and closed it. A frown came over her face.

"What's the trouble," asked Sarah, scolding trouble.

"I've been frantic all day. I don't know what to do," she replied. "I had a special from Jim this afternoon. He sent it to the office. It sounds awfully strange. Sort of sacred. We've been trying to see him, but the hospital wouldn't let us. But now, wait, I'll read it to you. He says, 'I'm an awful mess to look at, darling. I frighten myself, though they haven't let me see what I actually look like. But somehow I have a feeling that you won't mind so much.'"

"Of course, I won't," said Jane turning to Sarah. "It's the man inside that matters. Then he says, 'But, Jane, darling, I can't see Mother. Not yet. Can you understand that? I love her very much, but I can't see her yet. She'd be so horrified and so shocked. It's bad enough to know it without seeing it in her face. She's old and she doesn't realize. It's different with you. Somehow, with you, no matter what happens, I always feel safe. Will you tell her, darling, and try to explain?'"

"How can I tell her, Sarah? She'll never understand. It will kill her. She's used to being taken care of, to being sheltered."

"Oh, Lord," exclaimed Sarah, throwing her arms in the air.

"I've got to go see him, Sarah."

"Sure you do, child. But you can't tell her Jim doesn't want her to come."

Jane stepped around the table. "I, I'm going crazy trying to think," she almost sobbed.

Sarah got an idea. "Wait a minute. I know. Can't you put it on the hospital? Make it seem as though they were the ones sending for you?" she asked hopefully.

"Do you think that would work?" eagerly asked Jane.

"I don't know, but it's the only thing I can think of. Just say they think Jim isn't strong enough—"

She cut her words as Mattie's steps came towards the door.

"The kettle's on," she said. "It won't be—oh, did you get another letter?"

Jane put the letter away. "Yes; from the hospital. They're going to let me see Jim next week."

Mattie was excited. "Next week!" she shouted, a new joy in her attitude. Then she realized the truth. Weakly, she said, "You? Only you?"

"Yes, dear. Try to understand. Jim isn't strong enough yet to see more than one visitor at a time."

Mattie broke into tears. "But I should be the one to go. I'm his mother!" The sobs rocked her slim shoulders.

"I know how you feel, Mrs. Evans," gulped Sarah, "but maybe the hospital thinks it would be better for Jim."

"How could it be better for Jim?" indignantly shouted Mattie between sobs. "It just meant that it would be very hard on you, seeing Jim and, and everything," she stuttered. "You might upset him. I mean, break down and show him what you were feeling."

"Of course, I'd show what I was feeling. I'm not an inhuman machine that goes on as if everything was wonderful in the world. I care what happens to my boy."

"Here's Your Infantry" Show To Tour Maryland For Seventh War Loan Drive

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau and General Joseph W. Stilwell, head of the Army Ground Forces, discuss the nationwide tour of "Here's Your Infantry" show in connection with the Seventh War Loan Drive.

An all overseas-veterans company of doughboys back from the Philippines, Germany, France and Italy, will go on tour in Maryland with a "Here's Your Infantry" show staged in connection with the Seventh War Loan Drive which opened May 14.

Twenty-eight demonstration teams, trained for this exhibition at Fort Benning, Ga., will give the United States its first close-up of their combat Infantryman and of the tools he uses in battle. The company to come here will include a number of Maryland men.

There will be three phases of the Infantry exhibition, the preparation for battle, the assault on a Japanese pillbox, and the exhibit of infantry weapons and equipment.

In a living tableau, an infantry rifle squad will be assembled and equipped for battle and the squad will be reinforced by the basic weapons on which the rifleman can call.

A jungle assault team, reinforced with machine guns, bazooka, flame throwers and other infantry weapons, will seize and destroy a Japanese pillbox with flame throwers, live blank firing, hand grenades and demolitions.

Machine guns, rifles, sniper rifles, tommy guns, mortars, the rocket launcher, flame thrower and other weapons, clothing and equipment, rations and first-aid kits will be available for inspection. Expert infantrymen will be on hand to make explanations and answer questions.

The Infantry exhibit opened in Baltimore on May 14, as the main event marking the opening of the Seventh War Loan Drive. It will appear in other cities in Maryland as follows:

Towson, May 19; Elkton, May 22; Chestertown, May 24; Salisbury, May 26; Cambridge, May 30; Denton, May 31; Easton, June 2; Upper Marlboro, June 6; Annapolis, June 7; Rockville, June 9; Frederick, June 12; Hagerstown, June 14; Cumberland, June 16; Westminster, June 19; Aberdeen, June 21; Catonsville, June 23.

The sixth annual "I Am an American Day," set by presidential proclamation for Sunday, May 20, will honor especially the 102,149 members of the armed forces naturalized since Pearl Harbor.

In more than 1,000 ceremonies throughout the country the great legion of other new citizens likewise will be welcomed and congratulated. Two million native-born men and women reached 21 in the last 12 months and 366,000 aliens were naturalized.

Representatives of the immigration and naturalization service of the department of justice have traveled in every war theater to confer citizenship upon 11,493 soldiers, sailors and marines stationed overseas who were born in 90 different countries.

Many of the new citizens, those who have reached 21 during the year, are away from home, but will be notified that they are still a part of their community and nation by appropriate greetings being mailed to them.

Farmers Buy War Bonds for Future Expansion

ON FARMS throughout the Nation this scene is being repeated daily in anticipation of the Mighty Seventh War Loan as farmers buy War Bonds with an eye to future electrical developments planned in the post-war period.

Victory Volunteer Edward Schroer, right, of Cole County, Missouri, sells a War Bond to Vernon Wade, center, while County Extension Agent Clyde Brown casts an appraising eye on Wade's fine span of Missouri mules.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"More things grow in a garden than the gardener sows."

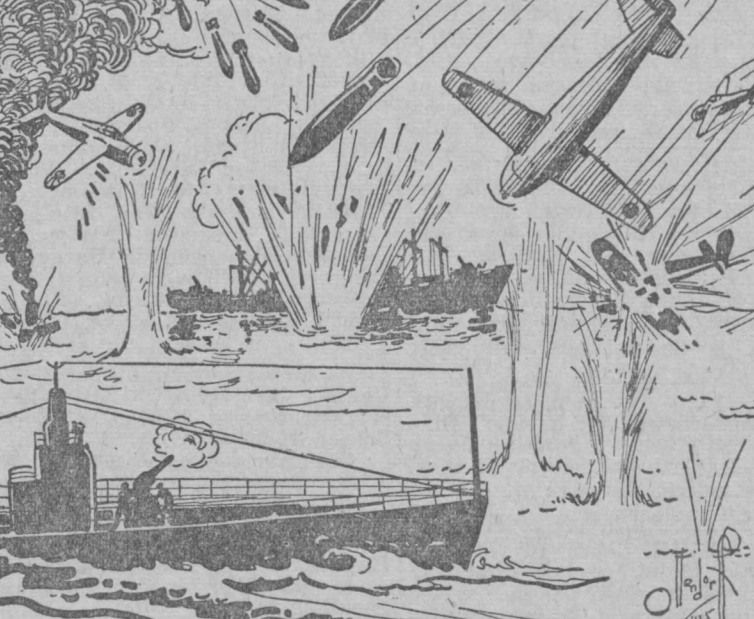

AS WE TEND OUR VICTORY GARDENS THIS YEAR WE WILL FIND GREAT THINGS GROWING THERE BESIDE THE VEGETABLES. WE WILL BE GROWING OUR INDIVIDUAL CONTRIBUTION TO THE NATION'S FOOD SUPPLY—THE SATISFACTION OF WATCHING OUR OWN PLANTS MATURE AND FRUIT—AND WHEN HARVEST TIME COMES, HONEST PRIDE IN A JOB WELL-DONE BY OUR OWN HANDS.

MANY GOOD THINGS GROW IN A WELL-TENDED LIFE—WHEN KINDNESS, INTELLIGENCE, INDUSTRY AND THRIFT ARE SOWN... FROM KINDNESS SPRINGS GOOD—WILL AMONG OURSELVES AND OUR NEIGHBORS; FROM INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY GROW OUR BEST ASSURANCE OF TOTAL VICTORY AND LASTING PEACE; FROM OUR SAVINGS IN WAR BONDS, LIFE INSURANCE AND SAVINGS ACCOUNTS COME THE FRUITS OF SECURITY FOR OURSELVES AND THE NATION.

GEORGE A. VICKERS, master of the SS Nathaniel Greene, has a Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal for heroic maneuvering of that ship during eleven months when it delivered munitions overseas. Surviving 10 torpedo plane and bomber attacks, two submarine and four torpedo onslaughts, it was finally crippled on a trip to Algerian ports, but the master successfully beached it. Laden with cargo that War Bonds helped to buy for our fighting men, it was struck by two torpedoes, yet Vickers got it ashore. U. S. Treasury Department

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for May 20

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE DEFEAT OF THE SOUTHERN KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT.—Jeremiah 18:1-10, 15a, 17a.
GOLDEN TEXT.—Come, and let us return unto the Lord.—Hosea 6:1.

History repeats itself. Men never seem to learn from the experiences of others, whether they be personal or national. Judah, the southern part of the divided kingdom, saw the downward path of Israel and its ultimate captivity. The same process went on in Judah, although hindered now and then by good kings who brought about a partial return to God.

Ultimately the day came when Jerusalem was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar's troops and the people carried off to their long years of captivity in Babylon.

Jeremiah ministered as God's prophet during Judah's declining years, bringing them God's word of judgment for their sins and urging them to submit. His voice was unheeded and for his faithfulness he received only their hatred and persecution. God gave him the strength and grace to be true in a very difficult mission.

Our lesson for today tells how God in a graphic object lesson taught the prophet and the people that they were in the hands of a sympathetic but at the same time a sovereign God.

I. The Potter and His Work (vv. 1-4).

The maker of pottery took the lump of clay, placed it on his wheel, and with his hand formed it into the kind of vessel he wanted. If it became misshapen or showed a defect, he could moisten and remold the clay into another vessel as it suited him. The clay was in his hand to meet his purpose and his will.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan fittingly suggests that there are three things to be borne in mind here: a principle, a purpose, and a person. And as we apply the truth to ourselves as God's children, we spell the Person of the Potter with a capital "P," for He is none other than God Himself.

The principle is that God is absolutely sovereign, that He does as He wills for His own glory. Until we recognize that principle, "life will be a failure. If, however, I have discovered this principle alone, then my soul will be filled with terror. I must also see the purpose."

The purpose is the working out of His will for each of us. He knows us, and He has a plan for our lives, and is able to make that plan come to pass if we permit Him to do so.

But, as Dr. Morgan says, "if I know principle and purpose only, I shall yet tremble and wonder, and be filled with a haunting foreboding." But as "I press through the principle and beyond the purpose and discover the Person of the Potter, then the purpose will flame with light, and the principle that appears so hard and severe will become the sweetest and tenderest thing in my life."

God spoke to Jeremiah through the scene in the potter's house, and He also wants to talk to our hearts.

II. God and Judah (vv. 5-10, 15a, 17a).

The lesson is plain. God had for His people a high and glorious purpose. He wanted to bless them and use them for His glory. But they were a sinful and rebellious people, stiff-necked and stubborn in their unbelief, and the vessel of honor which God was trying to form was marred in His hand.

God did not act in anger or in disregard of their rights. He was forced to bring judgment upon them because of their own sin. That sin is stated in verse 15—they had forgotten God.

One trembles as he applies that test of God's requirement for blessing upon a nation to our own land. There is a haunting fear that while there are some who truly worship God, and a larger number who profess to worship Him, a great host of the people of America have forgotten God.

Does our nation remember Him and seek His counsel and blessing in its national affairs? Do we inquire after the ways of righteousness? Are we eager for spiritual revival and increasing grace even within the church?

Judah was to be scattered "as with an east wind"—and who does not know that it came to pass. Where are they today?

But even in the midst of judgment the Lord speaks of mercy. The Lord who will "pluck up, break down and destroy" (v. 7) the people who forget Him, is eager and ready "to build and to plant" the nation when it turns to Him.

The sure promise of God's future blessing upon a repentant Israel and Judah is written large in the messages of all the prophets.

The same God, eternally sovereign in His purpose, is our heavenly Father. The man or woman whose vessel of life has been marred by sin and failure need only yield anew to the Potter's blessed hand.

Brazilian Cooperatives

Showing Rapid Growth

Brazil's cooperatives, organized by private initiative and actively aided and encouraged by the government, have become such an important factor in the country's economy that many competent observers believe that they will influence Brazilian trade after the war.

The growth of cooperatives has been so rapid in recent years in Brazil that accurate computations of their number and membership have been difficult. The most authoritative estimates, however, place their present number at approximately 1,800, and their membership at about 300,000, with the states of Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul taking the leadership in cooperative activity.

In fact, the history of the Cooperative Central Agricola of Sao Paulo might well be called synonymous with the history of the state's rural economy. Organized in March, 1943, the CCA now has 34 cooperatives and 28,000 members, representing some 120,000 rural workers. Aided by credits from the Bank of Brazil and from the Carteira Rural of the Sao Paulo State bank, it has organized a sales division to improve sales facilities and stabilize prices, an orientation section for members, and cooperative social services which include hospitals, pharmacies and experimental schools. At present, it is taking steps to acquire machinery and supplies to meet the demands of its steadily growing membership.

Bread Stuffings Good

Way to Stretch Meat

Bread stuffings is a de luxe method of stretching the family meat dish, homemakers say. Less expensive cuts of meat can be made a special treat by serving a stuffing with them. Servings of meat may be smaller in size when supplemented with a well-seasoned tasty dressing.

Some of the meats which take to stuffing are veal or beef birds, shoulder or breast of lamb, spareribs, flank steaks, roasts of all kinds and a variety of other meat dishes. Even hamburger can be dressed up by spreading a layer of meat in a greased pan, covering with a layer of stuffing, topping it off with another layer of meat, and then baking in a hot oven.

There are only two main types of stuffing, wet and dry. In dry stuffing the only moisture is fat, while the wet type has milk, water or broth added. With the wet type, caution is taken not to add too much liquid because the stuffing will absorb juices during cooking. For the base of the stuffing use enriched white or whole wheat bread, corn bread or other whole grain bread. A wide variety of stuffings is made possible by adding such ingredients as mushrooms, oysters, sausage meat, crisp bacon, diced salt pork, raisins, nuts, apples, etc.

Matrimonial Commission

For several years Adelaide, capital city of South Australia, has had a government-appointed matrimonial conciliation commission, whose job it is to patch up domestic disputes and try to diagnose causes for divorce. In his recent annual report to the government, the commissioner made the following findings:

Most matrimonial strife is caused by mothers-in-law—especially those who live in the same homes as young couples; most puzzling riddle is to discover why men became infatuated with women "less worthy" than their wives; some people more than 60 years of age—who should know better—had appeared before him, and people associated with churches rarely came to court.

The commissioner reserved his strongest condemnation for the "office wife" who stole a husband's affection. Many office wives were the causes for cases with which he had had to deal.

See In Our Dreams

We actually "see" what we dream, but paradoxically we don't use our eyes for "seeing" in our dreams. The stuff dreams are made of consists of mental memories. When awake vision is in the brain and not in the eye, which acts as a sort of receiving set for light rays, transforming them into nervous impulses which the brain uses to make its mental pictures. In dreaming the eye is asleep and the brain forms its pictures from its vast storehouse of memory, without the immediate aid of the eye. People who are color blind will have color deficient dreams; if near-sighted, recognition of friends at a distance probably will be as difficult in dreams as in real life.

First Union Jack

Upon the union of the two crowns of England and Scotland under James I in 1603 it was proclaimed by that ruler that "henceforth all our subjects of this Isle and Kingdom of Greater Britain and the members thereof, shall bear in their main-top the red cross commonly called St. George's cross, and the white cross commonly called St. Andrew's cross, joined together according to a form made by our heralds, and sent by us to our admiral to be published to our said subjects; . . . This was the first Union Jack, as it is generally termed, and remained in use for many years.

Morgenthau Cites Types of Issues Issued to Public

A grateful Nation has girded itself for the Mighty Seventh War Loan for 14 billions of dollars, half of which has been assigned as the individual sales quota. According to reports from state chairmen reaching Ted R. Gamble, national director of the War Finance Division of the Treasury in Washington, the Nation is ready for the huge task.

Mr. Gamble was enthusiastic about results. He said "We're prepared to do the best job in the 7th War Loan." Mr. Gamble said that "not only is there more money available than ever before, but individual income will be higher in the period of the 7th War Loan than in any previous War Loan period."

MORGENTHAU

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau said seven billions of dollars has been assigned as the quota for individual investors and that the major emphasis throughout the drive will be placed on the quota for individuals. The individual quota is the highest established in any of the previous drives, the secretary said. The E Bond quota alone is 4 billion. The 7th War Loan seeks nearly as much in the one drive as was asked in the first two drives of last year which were held up to this time. The two drives of this year, therefore, will seek nearly as much as was sought in the three drives of 1944.

The Secretary stated that there is every evidence that Federal expenditures are going to remain at a high level for some time to come, and that the Seventh War Loan program was designed to obtain maximum funds necessary to prosecute the War from non-bank investors.

The securities, which will be sold under the direction of the State War Finance Committees, are as follows: Series E, F and G Savings Bonds, Series C Savings Notes, 2½% Bonds, 2¼% Bonds, 1½% Bonds, ¾% Certificates of Indebtedness. The 1½% Bonds will not be offered in the Drive to corporations.

The Drive for individuals will extend from May 14 to June 30. However, an intensification of activities in the sale of Series E bonds began April 9, when millions of persons on payroll savings plans throughout the country were asked to enlarge their participation as a part of the Seventh War Loan. All Series E, F and G Savings Bonds and Series C Savings Notes processed through the Federal Reserve Banks between April 9 and July 7 will be credited to the Drive.

During the final phase of the Drive which will cover the period from June 13 through June 30, subscriptions will be received from all other non-bank investors for the 2¼% and 2½% marketable bonds and the certificates of indebtedness.

Dog Tags Save U. S. Flier After Crash in Russia

Taken for Nazi, He Shouts
'Americanskee,' and Gets Best Red Army Has.

WITH THE 15TH AIR FORCE, ITALY. — Dog tags, a parachute and remembering to say "Americanskee"—these things brought Sgt. Joseph G. Hallett Jr., of Weston, Mass., a ball turret gunner on a Liberator, back to his base a free man, says the United Press.

After a bombing of a German oil refinery at Oswiecim, Poland, two of the four engines in Hallett's Liberator stopped. The plane was too far north for the crew to think of heading back for Italy, and the only alternative was Russia.

It was a race to hold the heavy bomber in the air until Russian territory could be reached.

Hallett jumped first, drifted into a wooded area and landed gently on the ground as tree limbs caught his chute and took up the shock of the fall.

Shown Dog Tags.

A patrol moved rapidly toward him—a patrol with tommy guns, light machine guns, rifles, bayonets and hand grenades. As they surrounded him Hallett realized they were Russian.

Hallett, who kept repeating "Americano," was stripped to his dog tags, examined for wounds and handled as a German prisoner. Suddenly he recalled his instructions, shouted "Americanskee!" and showed the soldiers his dog tags.

"They threw their arms around me, kissed me many times and took me to a shack behind the lines, where they quartered me with a major," Hallett said. "They also managed to find our bombardier, who had been slightly wounded. We had swell valet service and ate the same food as the Russian major."

Lauds Russ Soldiers.

Hallett said the Russians expected him to speak Japanese, since America is at war with Japan.

"We all speak German, because the Germans are our enemies, and we try to learn as much about them as possible," one Russian told him.

Hallett said he was impressed by the Russian soldiers and described them as alert, well-mannered, efficient and comparable to American G.I.s.

"I asked the Red soldiers when they expected the war to end," he said. "They replied that no major European war ends in spring or summer and that the battle against Germany would probably continue until early fall, unless the Reich proves thinner everywhere than is generally suspected."

Crew of Ambulance Has Day of False Alarms

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. — Some days everything seems to go wrong, and Police Ambulance Driver David Gaulton and his attendant Everett Garrett, had such a day recently.

Returning from a false alarm, they were hailed by a child and directed to a house. A woman leaned out the window and asked for two loaves of bread and a dozen doughnuts.

Explaining that the ambulance wasn't a bread truck, the pair hurried back to the station, where they were sent out for a woman on a fire escape with a broken leg. The "woman," they found, was a dog that had been bitten in a fight.

Australian Army Now at Peak, Says War Minister

BRISBANE, AUSTRALIA. — Australia's army is more powerful than at any previous stage, although it has been at war five and a half years, Francis M. Forde, war minister, said in a broadcast recently. "The army at present is employing, or ready to employ, more formations than ever were available in the last war or at any earlier stage in this war," he said. "The whole of the Australian forces have been assigned to General MacArthur and are being, and will be, employed wherever he directs."

Steals Police Car to Listen to Radio Calls

NEW YORK. — Michael Minchelli, 22, of Brooklyn, was arrested at the wheel of a police radio car an hour and a half after it was reported stolen.

Charged with grand larceny, Minchelli told police he really hadn't stolen the car but just "liked to listen to police radio calls."

"Did you hear the call for the car you took?" police asked.

"Yes. It came over clear as a bell, too," Minchelli said.

Yank Soldier Surrenders To Breezy Nazi Colonel

BOISE, IDAHO. — Lieut. Col. Nathaniel R. Hoskot, repatriated from a German prison camp, related that he surrendered to a German soldier who lived 14 years in Brooklyn and spoke perfect English. He and two companions fired at the Nazis for a long time and then "I yelled that we'd had enough," Colonel Hoskot said. In English came the reply, "Well, Bud, come on out if you've had enough."
