MASS X-RAY SURVEY

Search for Unknown Cases of Tuberculosis

On August 3, 1948, Carroll County will begin a search for unknown cases of tuberculosis by means of a mass X-Ray Survey.

This important project is being sponsored by the Carroll County Health Department, in cooperation with the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association and local sponsoring groups, who are lending their valuable support in order to make the survey a success.

All persons 14 years and older, and no one is too old—are urged to take advantage of this free service.

The efficient and modern mobile X-ray unit is owned by the State Department of Health, and operated by technicians who are paid by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

To get the picture takes but a moment of your time, is painless, involves no undressing and results are confidential.

Everyone will be notified of results in two or three weeks by mail.

These pictures aid in finding the early and unsuspected case, usually without symptoms. Also, other conditions if present in the chest are noted and made known to the individual.

Let's really get rid of the "Great White Plague". These check-ups can greatly help in the gradual eradication of a costly, deadly, and unnecessary disease which takes such a tragic toll of life from 15 to 35 years of age.

Everybody is welcome—come and bring a friend.

Watch for exact time announcements as to when the machine will be in your community. Be smart! Be Sure! Be X-Rayed!

W. C. STONE, M. D., Deputy State Health Officer.

Her remarks were further illustrated by quotation from letters of her aunt, Miss Eva Logue now serving her second term in this country as a missionary nurse. The program was also enriched by a display of Indian trophies that are characteristic of these people.

The concluding feature of the evening was a ten minute film entitled, "India" as described by Lowell Thomas.

HIGHLIGHT OF THE N.E.A. CONVENTION

N.E. Shoemaker Host to Delegates at Penna. Reception

One of the highlights of the convention was the nominating of Miss Mabel Studebaker, Erie, Pa., for President of the National Education Association in 1948-'49. Since Mr. Eugene Shoemaker is President of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, he played a prominent part in the successful campaign and final election of Miss Studebaker. On Tuesday evening July 6, a reception was held in her honor in the ballroom at the Hotel Statler, Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Shoemaker was the official host to three thousand convention delegates. At this time, the Hawaiian delegation sang and danced in their native costumes.

It was of interest to me to see a native born Taneytown man conduct a colorful part of the Presidential election. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norville Shoemaker.

It is of importance to know that the Maryland delegation sponsored by Dr. Earle T. Hawkins for one of the Vice-Presidents of the N. E. A. and his victory was announced last Friday evening. He is currently President of State Teachers' College, Towson, and the chairman of the citizenship committee, N. E. A.

Of all the items on the Agenda, Federal aid to Education received utmost attention. Former President Glenn E. Snow, Utah, presented a strong argument for it. "Our country learned the hard way that education and national defense go hand in hand," he said, "when 600,000 men were rejected for service in World War II, because of illiteracy." By unanimous action, the Delegates urged President Truman to summon a special session of Congress to approve the Taft Bill for $300,000,000 in Federal aid to Education.

Federal assistance was only one important problem that was discussed. A long range plan was adopted by the conference. These proposals were:

(1) Discontinuance of the emergency teacher category and removal from the school of the 100,000 sub-standard teachers as soon as possible.

(2) A ten year, ten billion dollar building program, to replace obsolete schools, and construct new ones to meet population increases.

(3) Higher professional standards for county superintendents and school administrators. Twenty-two states still elect their county superintendents by popular vote.

(4) Increased state support for education. A proposal was made that the states should raise their financial contributions to the communities and equalize conditions within their borders.

(5) Consolidation of one room rural school districts into larger units. At present there are 90,000 one-room schools in this country, many of which could be consolidated.

Knowing that it might take a generation to put the above proposals into effect, conference leaders hoped that efforts to implement the recommendations should begin at once.

ELEANOR KEPHART, Delegate Md. State Teachers' Association.

THE REINDOLLAR REUNION

The Reindollar reunion was held on Sunday, July 11, at Big Pipe Creek Park, near Taneytown, with 58 present. After a basket lunch a business meeting was held with the president, Wallace Reindollar presiding.

A very fine letter from Theodore Reindollar, San Rafael, Calif., gave the history of their family. He told of his father and mother, the late Charles F. Reindollar and wife, Winette, the writer's brother Charles and himself. Theodore B. Reindollar, father of Charles F. Reindollar, left Taneytown when a young man and never returned. For this reason little has been known of this branch of the family by the Reindollars in the east. Wallace Reindollar gave an interesting account of his recent trip to the Pacific Coast. He attended the International Kiwanis Convention in Los Angeles, Calif., from June 6-10.

Mrs. M. H. Reindollar was the oldest person present. She was born Sept. 28, 1850. The youngest member was Elaine Kay Reindollar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reindollar, Fairfield, Pa., born Nov. 26, 1947.

The present officers were re-elected. They are: President, Wallace Reindollar; Vice-President, Robert Reindollar; Secretary, Mrs. Margaret Franquist; Treasurer, Frank Reindollar; Historian, Mrs. Margaret E. Nulton. The next family gathering will be the 2nd. Sunday in July, 1949, at the same place.

AROUND THE TOWN

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Wonders never cease! Now there are envelopes made with your favorite flavor as you close them with your tongue and lips!

If you have not seen the movie called, "Sitting Pretty" by no means miss it for it is something that will be enjoyed by old and young and something that is so different.

So many of the ladies "around the town" must be visiting "The Beauty Box" as every head boasts of a real hair do.

Many have asked your Observer the reason of not mentioning the three perfect fathers "around the town" as I promised in the "Father's Day" column. Well, frankly, folks there were too many fine fathers and space would not allow it!

The present subject is about that nice Police Officer whom everyone is discussing. Reminds Your Observer of a Lieut. of the Army or the Naval Academy! Whoever was responsible in securing so fine a type of a gentleman for our town deserves much credit.

On Monday—the day we celebrated the Fourth, Your Observer went fishing with four other individuals to the stream where our late beloved President Roosevelt used to retreat "Shangri-La"! Thought surely we would bring home some real "Trout" but not even a Sardine! However, it was a delightful spot to relax and keep cool from that scorching day. We spread out on a huge flat stone which was shaded by the many bent over branches of the trees. The water was cold—bitter cold in fact that we could not remain in the water very long at a time. That was one grand day for Your Observer—the only noise that could be heard was the rushing of the water running down stream over the many stones in some places appearing as miniature Falls. Of course, they were the sounds of the throaty birds of various descriptions. Those hours were the most restful for many a day.

Last week, Your Observer was called to City Hospitals in Baltimore to see a patient—a lady whom I had never met. (Just eighty-one years of age). As I neared the bed of this aged little lady who had fallen several weeks before and broken her hip she raised one arm up to me clasping my hands and said, "Oh, I knew you would come! You don't have to tell me who you are!" That hand clasp—so strong, firm and sincere meant much to me and especially when she spoke those words—"Oh, I knew you would come!" How happy that made Your Observer to feel and know that some one could rely upon me and that from a stranger! To see the light that shone in those eyes—it was sunshine to me. I found myself looking around at all the other patients in that ward and not one seemed to compare with that fine face with the snow white hair. A bachelor girl all those years and a most patient one not once mentioning that horrible break or the accident. Not any pain or discomfort as she lay there. In a previous column, I mentioned how much one can learn by visiting a hospital and especially a ward and how we feel after the trip, just like a million dollars. Try it, folks, sometime, even if you do not have anyone to visit, just taking happy thoughts with you to a stranger. It pays great dividends. It is always gold that is given to Your Observer.

Many years ago I heard an old German lady remark that after a while the summers would be winters and the winters turn into summers. Sure has made me think in the past few years that perhaps there was something to it, after all.

The years go back to that little old German woman who lived in a room over a store alone. She somehow always interested me because she was one of those fat, motherly, good natured women. She would sell those delicious Reading pretzels, the kind with large grains of salt for two cents at the closed iron gate of the public school where Your Observer attended for the first four years of my life. She always added an interesting story of some foreign place. She was known to everyone of those children as "Grandmom". She made a picture sitting on a little wooden stool (three legged one) with the large uncoveted basket beside her which she uncovered and covered again after each sale. Pictures are instilled in the minds of little children and that is just one that I will always remember.

Well, folks, I will be seeing you again next week. Have a grand week end for, sometimes, your old car is better than a new one. So long.

They might not need me, but they might.

I'll let my head be just in sight; A smile as small as mine might be. Precisely their necessity.

SAFETY—THE NO. 1 CROP

None of the projects of the 4-H Clubs of the United States is lacking in merit but one of their newer ones appears especially praiseworthy. They are endeavoring to make the farm a safer place to work and live.

"Make Safety our No. 1 Crop."

"That's the slogan thousands of 4-H Club members are living by this year. It brought eight college scholarships to outstanding boys and girls last year from General Motors, sponsor of the 4-H farm safety campaign. An equal number of awards will be made again next December. The company is offering incentive prizes to farm youths for extra efforts in protecting life and property. The major awards, besides the scholarships, are all-expense trips for each State winner to the national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. At that Congress the college scholarships will be awarded.

Farm accidents take a much greater toll than is generally realized, with 18,500 deaths and 1,700,000 injuries the total for one recent year.

Efforts to reduce farm hazards, through safeguards on equipment and buildings and fire prevention methods, seem to be about as sensible as anything the 4-H organization could promote. That the campaign will have noteworthy results goes without saying. Few American organizations have accomplishment records superior to the 4-H Clubs.—J. E. Jones.

STRIKE BOSSES SLOWING DOWN

The power of the President over strikes was passed over to the law courts by the Taft-Hartley Act. President Roosevelt always found excuses for boards, conciliators and committees, etc.—anything to help John L. Lewis and other Bosses win their strikes. Mr. Truman blundered in attacking Congress and vetoing laws designed to bring about peace between American workers and employers. The Democrats helped Republicans override those arbitrary vetoes.

The rulings made by Judge Goldsborough clarified strike issues. The same Judge outlawed a railroad strike for the reason that it would paralyze the economy and "disintegrate society itself."

It is perfectly plain that wage earners are finding helpful protection under the new labor legislation—hence, the growing feeling among all classes of people against useless strikes.

President Truman has declared time and again that the Congress will be his principal target in the coming National election. Mr. Truman may mean well—but he takes a very strange way to blame his own mistakes a very strange way to blame his own mistakes on Congress.

A "no-contract, no-work" coal strike in the field industry's "captive bituminous mines" broke loose this month when 40 thousand miners ended their annual ten-day vacation. The National Labor Relations Board has been asked to make the coal miners obey the Taft-Hartley law.—National Industries News Service.

Down the Line with Johnny Bell

It's an old American custom

You might call it "teamwork" or just plain "being a good neighbor." It's lending a hand to get the hay in before it's damaged. It's sharing a telephone party line "even Steven" with the other families on your line.

A good party-line neighbor allows an interval between calls so that others may use the line... hangs up gently when the line is in use... replaces the receiver carefully after each call. Teamwork on party lines means better telephone service for everybody.

Party lines are life lines!

If you must make an emergency call and others are talking on the line, let them know the situation. They will gladly hang up, just as you would under similar circumstances.

When someone's ill... when fire breaks out... whenever seconds really count, co-operation on the party line is especially important.

Bushy-tailed rascal

Squirrels can do a lot of damage by gnawing through the lead sheathing around telephone cables.

To prevent real damage from this and other types of "puncture," many cables are kept filled with gas. When the gas escapes, lowered pressure sets off an alarm in the telephone central office. Sensitive measuring devices tell just where the break has occurred. A repairman can then be sent out to clear the fault, in most cases before service is interrupted. FEESERSBURG

One of the questions often asked by children is: What causes thunder? Theories seeking to explain the cause of thunder have been revised many times since the days of the Greek Philosophers who believed that thunder was caused by clouds bumping into one another. The United States Weather Bureau is of the opinion that thunder results directly from the explosive-like expansion of the air along the lightning path, incident to the intense heating, ionization and probably the desintegration or rupture of at least part of the air particles or molecules. According to this theory, when a streak of lightning rushes through the atmosphere it decomposes particles of the gases. The intensity of the sound produced by lightning depends chiefly on the magnitude of the flash and the proximity of the observer. The long duration of the thunder is due largely to the fact that different parts of a streak of lightning are at different distances from the person who hears it. Sound travels at the rate of about a mile in five seconds and thunder may be heard at a distance of ten miles or even twenty or thirty miles under favorable conditions. The majestic roll that often makes thunder so impressive is caused by echoes that are reflected from the surfaces of clouds or back and forth between the clouds and earth. Lightning is an electrical phenomenon about which there is still much to be learned.

If we were all given by magic the power to read each others' thoughts, I suppose the first effect would be to dissolve all friendships. The second effect, however, might be excellent for the world without friends would be intolerable, and we should learn to like each other without needing a veil of illusion to conceal from ourselves that we did not think our friends absolutely perfect.—B. Russell.

On the arrival of the Prince Consort in England, Queen Victoria gave him a bouquet of flowers. The Prince, noted for his charming little courtesies, took a penknife from his pocket, cut a hole in the lapel of his coat and inserted a flower in it. This was the first lapel button hole, and tailors were quick to adopt the idea for all suits.

Yesterday morning I received a letter from Mrs. Carrie Hyde who formerly lived in Middleburg but makes her home in Salisbury now. She writes that the Eastern Shore farmers have had a bad year due to the heavy rainfall. The strawberry crop was a total loss but the bush lima beans look very good. Cucumbers are selling for $8.35 a bushel so one can see what the price of pickles will be this winter. Better make your own if you can.

It is reliably reported that Simon Smith who bought the Clarence Buffington farm last year has sold it to a family from Baltimore, who will take possession in the Spring. Farms used to stay in one family for generations but now they change owners every year. Its hard to keep track of ones neighbors these days. The feeling of restlessness has even reached the farmers.

Our neighbor has taken out his potatoes and they are plentiful and of good size. A FORMER CARROLL COUNTIAN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Martha Jane Fleagle, wife of the late Benj. Fleagle died in Baltimore, on Tuesday, July 6, in her 99th year. She was the daughter of James Harner, of Longville, near Taneytown, and spent her early days in that neighborhood. After her marriage in 1871 the family lived in Taneytown and at Mayberry until 1908 when they moved to Baltimore.

She was a consistent member of the Church of God. She retained her remarkable memory until her last year and could relate incidents and recall friends very clearly that were a half-century past. She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom survive. They are: Mrs. Carrie Bay, B. E. Fleagle and Miss Janet Fleagle, of Baltimore; Mrs. Annie C. Keefer, of Mayberry; J. E. Fleagle, of Reisterstown; Mrs. Carlton Jones, of Menges Mill, Pa.; and Mrs. Rena B. Kennedy, of Washington, D. C. Also surviving are 23 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Burial services occurred on Thursday, July 8th. Rev. Wm. Hoffman of the Stone Chapel Methodist Church in charge of the service at the funeral home in the city, paid a beautiful tribute to his friend of so many years and as he stated—to his foster mother, Rev. Hoch, of Uniontown, at Mayberry in the church where the deceased had loved to worship, gave appropriate sentiments and readings from the Word.

The pallbearers were the following grandsons, Willard Bay, Curtis Baker, Robt. Fleagle, Dr. Wilhelm Frisell, Melvin Keefer and Willard Fleagle. Interment was in the cemetery near the Bethel.

MARYLAND MUSINGS

Fields tests show that combines frequently waste from one to seven bushels of grain per acre if not properly adjusted. The Extension Service has a free circular in combine harvesting which suggests methods of correcting the most frequent troubles.

For the most effective use of electricity, install a good wiring system, choose electrical equipment in order of its importance, and purchase only good equipment.

SHORT STORY

Wonderful Woman

By RUTH K. KENT

ANN STANTON watched her husband's newspaper for signs of annoyance after she told him. Yes, he was lowering it slowly . . . his handsome face frowning. "What did you do that for?"

Ann buttered her toast. "Why not?
I always took Elsie Olson to lunch
when she was your secretary."

Harry gulped his coffee. "But Elsie was . . . well . . ."

Ann leaned back in her chair.
Yes, Elsie was 38 and wore cotton stockings. Tess Barclay, the new secretary, was 20 and Harry could tuck her in his pocket. Ann remembered when Elsie Olson resigned and the boss hired Tess for Harry. "Sunny little girl taking El-sie's place," he'd announced. "No bigger than a minute."

"Pretty?" she asked. He'd shrugged.
"Didn't notice," and that was when Ann took warning.

Harry was 30, and after seven years of marriage maybe he was getting a little tired . . . maybe of her. Ann had seen the little new girl one day when she stopped in the office to see Harry.

It was a few days later when she announced at breakfast, "I'm taking Miss Barclay to lunch today."

ANN walked into the Mayfair ahead of time. She sat studying the wall paper. Yes . . . things were working out right. That young lady would have to answer some questions. Nice subtle questions, of course.

Tess came right on time. Ann held out her hand. "Sit down, Tess," she smiled. "Everyone calls you that, don't they?"

Tess sat primly. "Yes, Mrs. Stanton."

"It was good of you to come," Ann said, "I'm sure you had something more interesting to do."

Tess picked up a fork and turned it over and over. "I . . . was supposed to do something else," she said. "But . . . I'm glad you asked me. I've . . . been wondering how I could talk to you."

Ann's senses prickled up. "You did? Was there something special you wanted to say?"

Tess twisted her napkin. "I . . . don't know how to begin. Mrs. Stanton, I . . . I want to talk about Mr.
Stanton. But . . . maybe you won't understand."

Ann braced herself. "I'll try to understand."

The big blue eyes looked into Ann's . . . begged, "Is . . . does Mr.
Stanton have good health?"

WELL! So now Ann knew. And this innocent-looking youngster had figured all the angles. Even to Harry's health. No doubt Harry seemed pretty old to her and she wanted to be sure he wouldn't turn senile the minute she caught him.

Ann's voice was cold. "He's perfectly healthy."

"I . . . I thought maybe he was sick.
That would excuse him. I mean . . . Mr.
Stanton's a nice man but . . . " Tess looked almost frightened. "He's so impatient. I simply can't work for him any more. I make . . . mistakes, and he . . . really Mrs.
Stanton he makes me work at noon to fix them. Oh dear, I hope you aren't hurt."

"Hurt?" All the buds on the wall paper seemed to burst into bloom for Ann. She could almost smell their fragrance. Impulsively she put her hand over the small one drumming nervously on the table. "Of course I'm not hurt, my dear. You mustn't be either. Harry's been accustomed to Miss Olson . . . she was there years and years and was sort of a machine. Don't quit, Tess," Ann found herself begging, "You can take it. And you'll have a good position. I'll walk back to the office with you when we finish."

Harry was puzzling over some in-voices when Ann and Tess came into the office, arm in arm. "Here's your secretary to do that," Ann smiled.

She slipped out and smiled at the girls in the outer office, but was almost ashamed to face them. Ann knew they would say, "That Mrs.
Stanton is such a wonderful woman.
Not the least bit jealous of Mr. Stanton's secretaries."

GOOD PRINTING PAYS

SCRIPTURE: Ruth.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 23:1-9.

Naomi, Woman Of Faith

Lesson for July 18, 1948

IF WE are to understand Ruth, the heroine of the book bearing her name, we must know Naomi, her mother-in-law—woman of faith in God and surpassing patience and sacrifice in service to her day and generation.

Dr. Newton

It is the Book of Ruth which we have for Sunday's lessons, with Psalms 23:1-9 as the devotional reading. The golden text, "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God," Ruth 1:16.

IN SEARCH OF BREAD

FAMINE in Judah, where Elimelech and his wife, Naomi, and their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, dwelt, drove them to Moab, in search of bread. Elimelech died, and the sons married young women of Moab, Ruth and Orpah. And then the sons died. Naomi, feeling that she must not longer remain in Moab, announced her intention to return to her native land, and bade Ruth and Orpah farewell. In one brief decade Naomi had lost husband and sons, and now she longed for home.

"INTREAT ME NOT TO LEAVE THEE"

ORPAAH accepted Naomi's suggestion, and turned away to her own people; but not so with Ruth. She loved Naomi. She could not give her up. Naomi had done something for Ruth in those years of sorrow and loss.

"Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou diest, I will die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."

With these sublime words, Ruth lashed herself to Naomi, and together they started on the long trek to Bethlehem.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

HERE we witness conquering faith—conquering faith in the hearts of Naomi and Ruth. And they come to Bethlehem. It was the harvest season, and Naomi directed Ruth to glean in the field of Boaz, a wealthy and generous-hearted citizen of Bethlehem. Faith in action! And the world loves the story of Ruth becoming the wife of Boaz, and thus the mother of Obed, the grandfather of David the king in the ancestral line of Jesus Christ, the King of kings.

And Naomi, through her conquering faith, held in her arms the little baby, Obed, and dreamed of God's unfolding purposes to bless the world.

In this unsurpassed romance we witness faith in adversity, faith in association, faith in conduct, faith in claim, faith in confidence, and faith in a glorious climax.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

LIFE is always ennobled when faith conquers. It is easy to imagine how history might have missed this beautiful love story, had not Naomi been a woman of conquering faith. She might have given up and over to her great sorrow and pined away in grief and defeat.

But Naomi followed the gleam. And her trust in God shed its gentle glow into the lonely heart of the Moabite widow, Ruth. Ruth came unto Naomi. She could not do otherwise. "Truth is stranger than fiction."

And all history was enriched. It is ever so when faith conquers. Thus the poet states the case:

"God moves in mysterious ways,
His wonders to perform,
He plants his footsteps on the sea,
And rides upon the storm."

Faith

I cannot conceive that God could make such a species as the human merely to live and die on this earth. If I did not believe in a future state, I should believe in no God.

—John Adams.

Where there is no faith, there can be no endeavor.

Believe In Life

To believe in immortality is one thing, but it is first needful to believe in life.—Stevenson.

What is the highest secret of victory and peace? To will what God wills, and strike a league with destiny.—W. R. Alger.

"PERFE STRINGS" by REINDOLLAR'S

NOW! An Electric Fence that will hold Hogs!

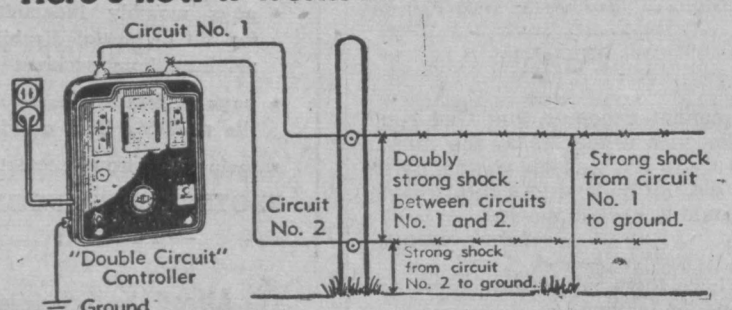

For that "tough" job of fencing hogs you need the new Prime "Double-Circuit" controller; Model 2C1. It permits the use of two-wire fences — with each wire connected to a completely independent circuit.

A short on one wire DOES NOT AFFECT the other wire! This means you can get the bottom wire low enough for small pigs without fear of weeds, etc., shorting out the whole fence.

Can be used for two-wire hog fence and one-wire cattle fence in same installation by connecting cattle fence to top wire of hog fence.

Here's how it works:
