ANNAPOLIS LETTER

Sen. Hoff Will Report on Maryland Legislation

Westminster, Md., Jan. 8, 1949
Dear Sir:

Through the courtesy of the publishers of our local newspapers and by means of this weekly letter, I will attempt to keep the citizens of Carroll County informed concerning legislation pertaining to the County and its incorporated towns, and to such statewide legislation as may have particular effect upon our county.

Though I must confess, and at times profess, that I have certain personal political prejudices, and that not infrequently my actions are dictated by a degree of political partisanship, it will be my earnest endeavor to present matters discussed in these letters in a manner as free from such influences as is possible.

Carroll County is now represented in the Legislature by four members of the House of Delegates, and one Senator. The present delegates are C. Ray Barnes, of Winfield, who is now serving his fifth four year term in that office, Joseph C. Hahn, Jr., of Westminster, now serving his second term, and Carroll Smith, of Snyderburg, and Donald Six, of Middleburg, both of whom are serving their first terms. The incumbent county representative in the Senate is this writer, whose address is Westminster.

We anticipate the introduction of a number of bills having varied degrees of importance to Carroll County, and pertaining to our schools, educational program, county-wide zoning salaries, legislative representation, abolition of certain existing offices, extension of home rule powers, etc.

Few, if any, of these measures were the basis of campaign platforms or promises, and not many of them have only one side. In many instances it is most difficult to determine the course of action we should take to best represent the citizens of our County, and promote the interests of the state as a whole. In some instances the interests of the State and County conflict, which increases the difficulties of those who must decide one way or another.

For this reason we wish to encourage all citizens to write to us concerning any legislation in which they may have a particular interest, and to propose new laws, or changes in laws, where the need exists. It is our hope that the activities of the Legislature will receive public interest, attention and, when proper, interested and valuable electorate can be assured of a sound and useful government, whether it be county, state or national.

It is hoped that the press will afford to those with divergent or contrary views the same opportunity to use these columns for the expression of those views as has been generously granted for the publication of this weekly letter.

Until next week, I am, Sincerely,
STANFORD HOFF

KIWANIS NEWS

The Taneytown Kiwanis Club met Wednesday evening at Taney Inn with President, John Skiles, presiding. Kiwanian Raymond Wright led the group singing with Mrs. Wallace Yingling piano accompanist.

Kiwanians George Brown, William J. Flohr and Paul Kuhns of the Westminster Club were present. Mr. Gilbert Stine was the guest of Charles Cluts. Mrs. George L. Harny was also a guest. Capt. Jerry Shaffer was a guest of Sam Breth.

Kiwanians Edward Reid and President Skiles reported their meeting at Mid-winter Conference of Kiwanians in the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach, Va., over the week-end.

Larry Parrish of the attendance committee had charge of the meeting and introduced Mr. Edgar Krout, of Gettysburg. He also introduced his father, Mr. Frank Parrish, who was the speaker of the evening. Mr. Parrish spoke of his work in the interest of Displaced Persons, and the need of men for work on farms in Maryland. Mr. Parrish left La Guardia Field in November and flew to Europe for the purpose of screening D. P. for positions on farms in Carroll County. He expressed his surprise in finding many capable men that were available for many types of work.

A recent law was passed that would permit 205,000 persons to be brought into this country in the next 24 months to allay this farm help shortage. As a result of his efforts a number of persons will arrive shortly in Boston, two coming to Westminster. Over 300 farmers have signed papers that may result in assigning persons to Maryland farms. Mr. Parrish has agreed to take eighteen persons to his farm.

The meeting next week will be in charge of Wallace Reindollar. The meeting of February 9 will be in the nature of a trip to Hershey, Pa., to view the Ice Capades. Most of the members have ordered tickets for themselves, wives and friends for the trip.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

I want to thank all those who remembered me with cards while a patient in the Annie M. Warner Hospital; I also wish to thank the Men's Bible Class of Piney Creek Presbyterian Church for their basket of fruit. It was all deeply appreciated.

SOLDIER'S LETTER

Former Taneytownner Describes Life in Japan

Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 29, 1948
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Hesson:

I was very happy and pleased to hear from you all in Taneytown. Your card arrived the day before Christmas. As for the article in the Carroll Record, I am also very happy that my friends in Taneytown. If you see him some time in the future and think about it, you might give him my thanks for printing my letter. As for the enclosed picture in your envelope I must say that I certainly do know three of the persons seated at the table. They were my brother and his wife and Judy's brother. Thanks for sending it along.

You both might be interested in a few things about my life here at GHQ that I failed to write in my letter to Charlie Stonesifer. My working schedule down at the office is as follows: On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, I go to work at 8:00 A. M. and get off at 5:00 P. M., with one hour off for lunch. On Wednesday and Saturday, I go to work at 8:00 A. M. and get off at 12:00 noon. In other words I have off Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and all day Sunday. In addition, I have every evening free and once a month I am entitled to a three-day pass plus my annual furlough which amounts to one month. So you see, my job in the army is more or less like a civilian job. Also, starting the first of the new year, I and the rest of the servicemen are subject to income tax.

This, along with several other minor things, such as riding to work on busses that are exactly like the new modern busses that all the larger cities have in the states; living and working in Tokyo which is more or less considered the most modern city in Japan; and other things all add up to the making of my life here in Japan really seem like civilian doings. Of course there are things that constantly remind you that you are in Japan and not back in the states, such as driving on the left hand side of the road instead of the right; Japanese people are around you with their customs and ways of oriental life; signs and advertising in Japanese which naturally I can't understand. However, I am slowly learning to speak a little Japanese. One thing, though, you all can be very thankful that you are Americans and live in a country that is as far advanced as it is, with all its modern conveniences and luxuries, freedoms and what not that goes in making up the United States of America. Although I have only been here several months, I have already acquired quite an advanced education as far as learning and actually seeing how the rest of the world lives. I personally believe that if every true American could see and actually witness many of the hardships and old time ways of doing things in other countries out of the U. S., maybe they would stop and think twice before growling and complaining of life's travel. But then, this letter was not intended to be a sermon, just thought that the two of you would be interested in knowing some of the little things that one observes while traveling around this vast world of ours.

Well, I guess I had better bring this letter to a close before I start boring you all. Thanks again for your Christmas remembrance, and if you wish and have any extra time, I would be most happy to hear from you again. Give my regards to every one at Church, Mr. Hesson and also to your fellow employees at the bank. Mrs. Hesson, you might say hello to Rev. Brady for me and tell him that I send my regards to him for continued good health. How is Bill Kiser doing these days? I am not getting the Carroll Record so therefore I am afraid that I am not up to date on happenings in and around Taneytown. I hope the both of you had a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and may God Bless you in the years to come.

Oceans of Love,
PAUL A. SUTCLIFFE.
Here is my official mail address: Pvt. Paul A. Sutcliffe, RA13291879 AG-PO, Co. A, Staff Bn, Hq & Sv. Gp GHQ, FEC, APO 500 c/o Postmaster San Francisco, California.
You notice that I now have Pvt. in front of my name instead of Pvt. Yes I got my first promotion in the Army. I am now a Private. I am no longer a Recruit.

ADDITIONAL MAIL SERVICE FOR TANEYTOWN

C. of C. Plans to Receive the H. P. O. Truck on Initial Trip

On Monday, January 17, city officials and Chamber of Commerce officers will meet the postoffice on wheels on Frederick St., and a state police escort will convey it to the Taneytown Postoffice, where, on its initial stop on its regularly scheduled trip between Washington, D. C., and Lancaster, Pa., it will inaugurate a new type of regularly scheduled postal service known officially as Highway Postoffice Service. Taneytown will be regularly served on each of the two daily trips of this highway postoffice. The residents of Taneytown and vicinity are invited to make an inspection of this highway postoffice on the occasion of its first stop at Taneytown on Monday Jan. 17th at 9:41 a. m. The stop-over will be of only ten minutes duration. If this time is not convenient for you, it will be possible to make an inspection of the postoffice and the equipment contained therein on the return trip at 6:44 p. m.

This initial run under actual working conditions is a matter of considerable local significance, and, realizing this, the postoffice department has arranged to stamp each envelope carried by the highway postoffice with a special cachet. These first trip cachets can be obtained by sending stamped, addressed envelopes to the postmaster at any point between Washington, D. C., the starting point of the highway postoffice and Lancaster, Pa., the termination of the trip, with your request that they be officially imprinted with the "first trip" cachet. In addition to the first trip cachets to be applied by the highway postoffice service, our Taneytown postoffice will have its own cachet which it will stamp on all mail originating at this office, providing, of course, this is requested.

AROUND THE TOWN

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Folks, you recall when you read in my columns a number of times about the dangerous road in front of our door? Even as late as my last week's column! On Friday morning, Jan. 7 as I looked out of the window saw several men looking the road over whom I think were surveyors. I stood there and thanked God as I knew it was going to be a reality of making the road wider of which I have begged the State to do for such a long time.

Now this is to the State Roads and the Police. The telephone farmer man was here fixing the bell on my phone and he parked his new truck entirely off the highway on the dirt road in front of our gate. I heard a noise and as I looked out of the window saw two men coming in the gate asking for the owner of the truck. We went out and it was the cleaners from Union Bridge stating a car speeding and pushing them over to the side caused the Union Bridge truck to brush the fender of the new truck!

On the afternoon of Jan. 7 I saw a man come to the gate and I knocked on the living room windows where I was seated at my desk to inquire what he wanted. Folks, he came to tell me that he had just struck "Lady Evadne" in the head and killed her instantly. His truck was a Penna. one and at least he was decent in coming to me and telling me instead of "hit and run". The night before, I had said to my minister as we sat in the living room with Lady sitting down between us listening to every word of our conversation, "She is too wonderful to be a dog. She acts so human at all times. She is so smart and somehow I feel we won't have her long". The following morning, my minister buried our precious pet beneath the tree of "baby breath" at the foot of our yard. Never have I seen any man break down as he did. It is the first time I ever saw him cry, which he did bitterly. Somehow, I feel that God has punished us for the great love we had for "just a dog".

The letters that arrived here convinced me that "all the world loves a lover" and all are interested in a romance, so here it is. It all started last week when I wrote in my column about my son bringing home a bride from Germany and I did not know how she was going to like her "step-mother-in-law". That is what started those letters arriving, no doubt. Thanks for all the nice words which surely are appreciated.

Instead of I having the wedding dinner at the farm, we decided to have the New Year dinner as a wedding one at the Parsonage for the "welcome home" to the young couple who had arrived the night before from New York where my son, Cpl. John D. Love was awaiting his discharge. I had baked a large wedding cake as it was too late an hour to hand it over to any of our nice bakeries "around the town". As I was leaving on the morning bus for the big city, I carried the cake in a large preserving kettle. As I alighted, many were most curious in the bus as all eyes were upon that kettle until finally I had to say, "Now, you people are thinking this is a turkey. Well, it happens to be a wedding cake". That made them just as curious as my readers and I had to tell them part of the story about the little German bride.

After greeting John, whom I had not seen for three years, he brought forward his bride with the entire family interested of course. She was born in Weisbaden, Germany, twenty one years ago and arrived in America of all nights, Christmas night. We looked at each other and as I took her hand, I found myself as in Indian fashion, holding her arm next to my heart. She is a tiny girl of five feet (John is six feet). She is on the blond side, of course, with lovely blue eyes that have a twinkle in them. Very neat dresser and a nice little figure. She seemed modest and humble and very refined. I sat next to her at the dinner. Her name is Margaret Grete Schmidt but somehow I wanted to call her Gretel. That was the beginning of our friendship as she seemed pleased. Margaret or Margy as she is called was too American and after all she is still a German. To all Germans, Hitler was their God as the poorest family had everything as long as he lived for he was looking out for his own country and that still exists in the hearts of all Germans. My minister handed Gretel the knife to cut the wedding cake which I was glad turned out beautifully.

After dinner, I beckoned for Gretel to follow me upstairs where we could be alone and sort of find each other. She is smart and seemed to catch on immediately. This dear little girl who was a stranger amongst us arrived to live in our wonderful country from torn Germany. I closed the door—we were alone—my new daughter and I. I smiled and then said, "I hope you will be happy, Gretel and like us as much as we like you. I want you to feel at home here with us as though you were one of us and above all I want to ask you if you will accept me for your Mother!" (She had lost her parents during the war). Tears came to her eyes and I held her close to my heart.

THE ICE HARVEST

In my youth we used at this season of the year to go to the creek which was dammed up, and cut the ice as soon as it became 10 to 12 inches thick and haul it to the ice house for storage for use during the hot summer months. It was my job at 10 years of age to make and fetch the ice water to the field for the harvest hands. Those were the days before the self binder appeared when one man drove the team and three, usually four bound up the sheaves while we boys gathered them in bunches of 12 to be later shocked by the men. It was rather tough going barefooted in the briar fields. One time I said I'd put on my shoes, when I was abruptly advised I would do nothing of the kind, as shoes were for Sunday wear and not to be used, and snuffed out in the wheat field.

Another job that fell to my lot was to ride Kit, the old mule to town, three miles away, with a gallon jug roped about my shoulders to get whiskey, which was then considered a necessity for the men during harvest time. Most of the men would "down" three fingers in a "tumbler" without batting an eye. We had one hand on the place who was named Doc Snyder. Once one of the men left half tumbler of liquor stand and the flies buzzing round soon became intoxicated and fell in and were drowned. When Doc came along and saw this he pulled up his black whiskers over his mouth and strained out the flies, and drank the whole concoction at one gulp. Doc was a great character, and at his passing was greatly missed. He was very illiterate as far as books, reading and writing were concerned but a wiser man I have never met.

Peace to his memory. I believe this sage counsel and wise advice have had more lasting influence on my life than that of any other man I have ever met.

FOR THE LONG HAUL

A new Universal Military Training bill has been introduced into the new Congress by Senator Millard Tydings. It is a watered-down version, raising concrete questions of its adequacy. But there is a much larger consideration which should take priority over the merits of a particular bill.

The United States wisely adopted Selective Service last summer. The need was for immediate underwriting of military manpower, as much, perhaps, for its international effect as for the actual filling of the ranks.

In the half year following it has become increasingly evident that the United States must act on the presumption that it faces a period of armed peace, the extent of which no one can safely predict, but which informed observers talk about in terms of 10 to 20 years. It must act on the assumption, also, that American military preparedness is one of several ingredients indispensable to keeping this armed peace from becoming a shooting war. And the design of that preparedness must be such that the national economy can support it over a long haul and still stay healthy.

What design will best meet those specifications? An indefinite continuation of Selective Service? Or enactment of some adequate form of universal training to gradually take over? A strengthening and realigning of the reserve components such as the "Gray Board" recommends seem necessary either way.

One thing grows increasingly plain. A day-to-day hopefulness that the air might suddenly begin to clear is a thing of the past. Maintaining an unprecedentedly large peacetime military establishment now looms up as a long-range problem. Christian Science Monitor.

FOR LABOR'S SAKE

The Most Reverend Russell J. McVinney, the Catholic Bishop of Providence, recently spoke to one of the CIO unions. He condemned strike violence and "slowdown" tactics. Then he said: "It is a grave sin against justice for a workman to accept a day's wages when he knows he is not giving an honest day's work. Bricklayers used to lay 1,500 bricks a day, but now they're down to 400."

"Drone and racketeers who operate under the aegis of your unions are bringing shame to you. I think it is time they be punished within the union or read out of membership. They are discrediting organized labor, and you may all regret it. I charge you to set about purging the undesirable and correcting the abuses."

Millions of Americans who support the cause of organized labor will agree with this churchman. If labor does not voluntarily clean house it will simply bring down upon its head far harsher legislation than any so far experienced. The "slowdown" in worker output has become a scandal in the building trades in many areas, and in other fields of work as well. And organized violence, with its destruction of automobiles, factories and its vicious physical attacks on non-strikers, can be described by the word criminal.

The fight of highly-placed labor leaders against communism in labor's ranks has earned the applause of the country. It is equally important that elements which want big pay for a bare minimum of output, or which seek their ends through violence, be ostracized. Labor must clean its house for its own sake. WORMS HOLD BIRDS BACK

If your flock's production isn't "up to snuff," worms may be the trouble. To remove the large roundworms and cecal worms efficiently, use Dr. Salsbury's WORMIX in the mash. Give for 1 or 2 days—worming's done, easily and economically. Poultry eats WORMIX readily. It's easy to mix, too. Ask for WORMIX, today.

EPPLEY SISTERS WILL APPEAR AT TOM'S CREEK CHURCH

The Eppley Sisters Gospel Quintette, of Manchester, Pa., will appear at Tom's Creek Church, Sunday, Jan. 23, 2:30 P. M. The five sisters render a deeply spiritual program featuring vocal quintettes, soprano and alto solos, artistic piano playing and numbers on the following instruments: Vibraphone, Violin, Electric Hawaiian Guitar, Accordions and Cathedral Chimes.
If you wish to hear a musical program, that is unique and different and has been rated as the best program of its kind in the country, come and hear these five sisters. They have appeared in churches of 35 different denominations the past five years. Their recent tours have included leading churches and radio stations in the United States and Canada. Thousands have heard this group; churches have been crowded to capacity and many turned away. Some of the girls are graduates of Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill.; others, of the Dunmore School of Music, Harrisburg, Pa.; and at present all are special vocal students at Messiah Bible College, Grantham, Pa.
The public is cordially invited to attend and is urged to come early!

"TOP FEED" PURINA LAYENA CHECKERS

FOR EXTRA EGGS

Yes, give your laying flock the extra feed needed for extra production. Regardless of what mash you're using—"Top-feed" Purina Layena Checkers.

Since most hens do not eat enough mash "top feeding" Layena Checkers gets more quality mash into the hens and helps make 'em lay more eggs. Easy and economical, too!

SEE HOW "TOP FEEDING" GIVES YOU DOUBLE OR TRIPLE PROFIT OPPORTUNITIES FROM 100 HENS

ORDINARY PRODUCTION	EXTRA PRODUCTION
19 lbs. of feed for body and 4 lbs. for eggs per day will support an "ordinary" production of 40 eggs per 100 hens. These 40 eggs will just about pay feed, labor and other costs.	3 additional lbs. of Layena Checkers per day are enough to make 20 additional eggs. In other words, for a cost of about 15c many growers make about 80c worth of eggs — or 65c extra per 100 hens a day.

Let's Think

by
G. H. ENFIELD

WHY WORRY?

Various types of institutions, among them churches worry and condemn themselves because young people are acquiring the instruction which church leaders think they should receive. Study the trend of this generation and you may find the reason for this condition.

Many young people—I do not believe that I would be exasperating if I said the majority—are mentally lazy. Observe how few carry books home to study at night. And the more retarded ones in the class room are those who don't take a text book home all year. That may be that they don't want their folks at home, or students on the bus, or people on the street to get the impression they are dull.

How are you going to get young people (and this goes for adults also) to study the church school literature? Frankly, I don't know. In high school when there is a diploma at stake, even this is not a sufficient incentive for study, especially with the boys. These same fellows seem to think that boisterousness will answer for intellectual attainments, that a smattering of information is all that the field has to offer, and that the ability to name football and movie stars are the essentials for a successful and noble career.

You may have attempted to reason with one of these boys and girls? Did you get anywhere? Were there any unbroken resolutions? These young people lack experience, though they would not have their parents or others think so. No person is ever so brilliant as when in high school.

You ask, do not these young people want to pass their work and graduate? Yes, they want to receive their diplomas. But do you know, that aside from the bestowal of this parchment of recognition, there are some who do not care whether they know enough to locate the postoffice in a hamlet.

What is wrong with our young people? Is having a good time the primary aim of their life? Is the difficulty with our school system? Should every student who come to the end of a four year high school course be granted a diploma? Is the time not approaching when some will receive certificates only?

FEESERSBURG

Most of this week's column will be devoted to the Pennsylvania Farm Show for my husband and I took Tuesday and Wednesday off and really saw everything that was to be seen.

Tuesday, 130,000 persons toured the huge Farm Show building. State police in charge of parking said every space was occupied in the parking area by noon. The crowd, as usual, changed constantly with outgoing traffic just as heavy as incoming traffic. Judging of horses and cattle was the main feature of Tuesday's program and at times every seat in the large arena was filled and more spectators were forced to stand on the upper concourse. The arena never before had been filled for cattle judging. People attending the Farm Show are predominantly farmers and farm families from Pennsylvania, although I think one-fifth of the people present on Tuesday were from Maryland. Agricultural leaders from a score or more different states from Canada and a number of foreign countries came to see the machinery and new methods used in farming. Thousands of city and small town residents are attracted to this unique agricultural spectacle.

The show is housed in a main building approximately 11 acres under one roof costing 1 1/2 million dollars to build and a large arena costing 1 1/4 million. In all there are about 14 acres of floor space for exhibits. Competitive farm exhibits total close to 10,000 individual entries, ranging from trays of edible nuts to heavy draft horses. All except poultry are limited to Pennsylvania products. Premiums offered for these exhibits amount to around $51,000 in 24 departments. No amusements of any type are allowed in the buildings for this is strictly a farm show. Admission is free to all and parking is also free. Cafeterias capable of serving 15,000 meals per day are in operation; also the lunch bars capable of serving 2,000 people at one time. In spite of this, many people cannot be served so its always wise to either take a sandwich along or eat outside.

The Farm Show. Members of 4-H Clubs, and Future Farmers of America compete with exhibits of beef and dairy cattle, sheep and lambs, swine, poultry, eggs, honey, vegetables, tobacco, small grains and etc. The Farm Show is designed to demonstrate the importance and great diversification of Pa. agriculture, which ranks 13th among all states in the value of farm products. Not only is the show a valuable asset to Pa. but also to Maryland for it demonstrates the value of farming and helps to improve the quality of farming.

Mt. Union Church was filled Sunday with members of both St. Luke's (Winters) Church and Mt. Union at Holy Communion services conducted by the pastor, Rev. Andrew Theisz. The sense of being perfectly well dressed gives a feeling of inward tranquility which even religion is powerless to bestow.

Frank Rentzel and Roy Boone attended the Farm Show in Harrisburg on Wednesday.

The Elmer Wolfe School P. T. A. held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening in the school auditorium. An interesting program was presented by the program committee. The Principal, Dean Manifold spoke on the need of seeing that each child was present at school. He deplored the fact that attendance at Elmer Wolfe is the lowest in the county. Right now there is a good bit of sickness which keeps children at home, but in spite of this, attendance is still too low.

Don't forget to give your share to the March of Dimes campaign.

If you are a strict follower of seasonal traditions, you will take your Christmas tree down on the 6th of January. Nobody seems to know why Christmas trees are supposed to be dismantled and tossed out of the house on the eve of Epiphany, Jan. 6th, twelve days after Christmas. Yet our legends of Epiphany Eve come unaltered from ancient ages. The Festival of Epiphany brings in the carnival days just before Lent. In pagan times this was a preview season of spring offerings sacrificed to the gods to get good crops.

A convention is like a good meal. You should leave it just before you have had enough.

Annual Father and Son Banquet of the Brotherhood of St. Paul Lutheran Church which was held Jan. 7 in the Parish House seemed to have been a huge success. Mrs. James Fraser had the misfortune to fall on Saturday evening and fracture her hip. Dr. Robertson took her to the Frederick Memorial Hospital, Frederick, Md.

UNIONTOWN

The young women's S. S. class of St. Paul's Lutheran Church were entertained at their annual Christmas party by their teacher, Mrs. Harry Fogle, at her home in Uniontown on Dec. 31. Christmas carols were sung with Mrs. Fogle giving a brief history of each carol prior to the singing of it. Two new members, Mrs. Andrew Theisz and Mrs. Floyd Devilbiss, were welcomed into the class. Then came the hi-lite of the evening—the revealing of Secret Sisters and exchange of gifts. Games were then played, after which the hostess invited everyone into the candle-lit dining room where she served mince-meat topped with ice cream, mints, nuts and tea. Names of Secret Sisters were drawn for 1949, each name accompanied by an apple or candy cane, attractively arranged by Mrs. Fogle.

Those present were: Mrs. Fogle, Mrs. Howard West, Miss Pauline Goodwin, Miss Dorothy Crumbaker, Mrs. Claude Curfman, Mrs. Andrew Theisz, Mrs. Edward Myers, Mrs. Vernon Schaeffer, Miss Caroline Devilbiss, Mrs. Kenneth Baust, Mrs. Charles Ecker, Mrs. Monroe Cutsail, Mrs. Wilbur Bollinger, Mrs. LaRue Schaeffer, Mrs. George Martin, Mrs. William Cardenbauer and Mrs. Floyd Devilbiss.

heart and never have I heard any one sob as that dear German girl. "Oh, would you love me as you do John?" Gretel replied hugging me tighter. "He told me all about you a long time ago and I always shared your letters with him!"

Now Folks, you can rest assured that I feel better knowing my new daughter and I think that answers all those nice letters.

Gretel has just about the cutest accent that I have ever heard and she speaks English beautifully.

We located a tiny apartment for them but it was like finding a needle in a hay stack and as for the prices—well it is beyond describing.

The large turkey which I bought "around the town" was simply super Duper!

Saw that nice boy around the town who is over in Washington these days but was on a real vacation over the holidays with his parents.

In a previous column, I had stated that he was "A Chip of the Old Block" but since then have met his lovely mother a few times and now I findness in the makeup of this young can readily understand the added chap!

Frankie left for Camp Meade on the very last day of December on an early train. Sorry I did not see him to say "Adios."

Our Taxi Company has added another nice car to the business, this time a Kaiser and it is simply grand! The nice part about cold weather is that when it is bitter cold it only lasts for a few days.

That nice bachelor lady out York Street who is a fine artist of "Still Life" does beautiful work! She painted a rose on a white plate for me and it appears as though it is real and just pressed down on the plate. I bought the plate at the sale of those Bower Brothers and placed red harmonizing color ribbon around the plate and it now hangs on the dining room wall. It will pay you to call upon her and gaze upon "Still Life!"

Well, folks have a nice week-end. Will be seeing you next week. Be good and be careful!

SHORT STORY

Night Trip
By RUTH K. KENT

MAMMA tried to rest her head against the stiff plush seat back. My land, how did a body get any sleep on these trains? Mamma glanced at the girl sharing her seat. She was stylish looking. Papa had found this seat when he put mamma on the train. "She's young. She'll take care of you," he'd whispered.

Mamma needed someone to look after her... this was her first train trip in years, and she wouldn't be going now if Hank hadn't wired that Irene had to go to the hospital. And who would take care of her grandchildren...?

She waited for the girl to turn her way. Maybe she was bashful. She hadn't said a word and they'd been riding an hour. Mamma leaned back with a sigh. She was tucked out, and her throat felt funny. Goodness, was she going to have a fainting spell? A drink of water... where was it? She caught the girl's eye. "Do you know where the drinking water is?" mamma asked.

"At the end of the car. Bring me one, too, will you?" Mamma pulled the gold watch from her belt. Eight o'clock. The time when she and papa always had a snack. Mamma brushed at her eyes. Silly to miss the old coot so.

Mamma took the shoe box from her knitting bag. She could feel the girl watching. "Want a sandwich?" mamma smiled, "these are chicken and these home-made liver sausage." The girl reached for the chicken sandwiches, both of them. Mamma was tired. She twisted sideways and tried the back of the seat again. She tried putting up her arm and leaning her head on it, but the arthritis in her fingers started aching. The girl looked so comfortable and mamma sat back and watched her. Pretty little thing.

MAMMA remembered when Hank was a baby. Big oversized youngster, never would let her cuddle him. She'd always longed for a girl. But the second baby, the one that didn't live was a boy too. And so were the grandchildren.

People were milling about the car and every time the door opened a draft swept over mamma. She looked longingly at the girl, nestled in comfort. As if feeling mamma's eyes on her, the girl turned and stretched. "Comfortable?" mamma asked. The girl yawned. "No. It's too hard." Mamma looked longingly at the window sill. "You have to share. Now if we could sort of rest on each other..." The sudden mouth curved into a smile. "All right," the girl said.

She looked like a girl to take care of Mamma, Papa thought.

She hunched up her knees and rested her head against mamma. "My lands," mamma gasped. But the girl was breathing steadily already.

Mamma looked down at her. She never saw a girl with hair so yellow and eyes so dark. The lines around the red mouth were soft now, the lips full. Mamma looked about cautiously, then slipped a timid arm around the girl. She felt cuddly as a baby.

Mamma awakened at daylight. "Oh my goodness, I'm almost there." She patted her hair and smiled at the girl.

HANK scooped mamma from the train. "Gee, ma..." he kissed her, "the baby's here and Irene's okay." Mamma's eyes were watching the tall girl walk away. Then Hank hustled mamma into the car. "Was it a rotten trip, ma?"

Mamma nodded. "The train was crowded and cold. But I sat with the nicest girl. If it wasn't for her I couldn't of stood the trip. She did... so much for me."

She squeezed Hank's arm and it was hard and strong. "Another boy, I suppose," she sighed. Hank shook his head. "Girl this time." And mamma remembered golden hair, a soft cuddly body...

His Growing Years

Lesson for January 16, 1949

DOUBTLESS God can do anything he wants to do. He could have sent Jesus to earth on a moon-beam; he could have had him for the first 30 years of his life on a lonely peak in the Andes, far from any human dwelling; he could have sent him into the world full-grown, without ever having to go through the grind of growing and learning as the rest of us do.

Dr. Foreman

But God did not plan it that way. If the manhood of Jesus was to be real, and not a hothouse facsimile, he had to come up the hard way. Angels do not grow, they just are; but human beings grow. The great difference between Jesus and ordinary mortals is not that they grow and he did not; the difference is that he grew straight.

No 'Good Chance'

THE world around us makes its impression on us; it makes no impression on dolls. They go on smiling their built-in, painted-on smiles, but we have to learn through tears. And so did Jesus. The heavenly Father saw to it that his experiences were not always easy one. He was born in a stable, of parents who were very poor, living the first few years of his life as a displaced person in a foreign country, with a price on his baby head.

He grew up in a village "off the main line," among companions not one of whom ever became famous, working through long years at a simple and not too well-paid trade. During Jesus' first 30 years his neighbors never guessed that the most extraordinary person of history was living in their village.

We sometimes wish that we had an easier time of it, and that God had seen fit to cast our lot in some big city with a rich family, instead of where we are. We feel we could be better people if we "had a chance." Yet every reader of these lines has a far better chance than Jesus. It did not take perfect surroundings to shape a perfect life.

Holy Family

WE CALL Joseph and Mary and the rest the "Holy Family," but they were not known that way in Nazareth. They were just Joseph the carpenter, and his Mary. Then there were the boys and girls; Mark (6:3) tells the boys' names, but no one ever remembered to put down the sisters' names. Even then it was no small family. Jesus, as the oldest of seven, would have many responsibilities. After Joseph's death he would be the chief breadwinner. Seeing that the rent was paid, that there was grain in the house for Mary to grind into meal, finding money for clothes for seven growing children—this could not have been easy for Jesus the young carpenter.

They were not an easy family to live with, those boys and girls. When Jesus later began his work of teaching and healing, we hear that even his brothers did not believe in him. But in spite of the brothers, there was always Mary. Mother-like, she loved her first-born as no other could or did.

There are some who worship her as "Queen of Heaven," but it is enough for us to know that she was queen of the home where Jesus the child grew to be Jesus the man. Not this side of heaven can we know how much we owe, as Christians, to this one woman, whose mind and spirit were woven into the thought and spirit of her Son.

Home Memories

INDEED, Jesus' whole boyhood was woven into his manhood. Among life's most precious memories are those of our growing years. Later on, we can see how Jesus' mind was bright with memories of home. The parables of the patched garment, of the leaven hidden in the meal, of the poor woman hunting with a lamp for her one lost coin, of the hungry neighbor at midnight, of the son who said "I go" but did not go—these and many others may well be echoes of Jesus' boyhood home. Deeper than these are Jesus' habits of prayer, his fondness for calling God "Father," his familiarity with Scripture even in death's agony—here surely are patterns learned in childhood's growing years.
