OPPOSES LEGISLATION

A Committee Headed by Rev. Roop Makes Protest

Honorable Chairman and esteemed members of the Maryland State Legislature and ladies and gentlemen:

It is indeed a pleasure to meet again, with such a fine group of men and women, whose interests are the same as the people they represented. Now that the war is over, we all shall have to be alert, to protect our mutual interests, from the many attacks that will be made during the 1949 Session of Legislature. Forty-four State Legislatures, with ours, convene in legislative sessions during 1949. I feel that I am well qualified to represent the Highway Property Owners Association, here and elsewhere. At the annual meeting held some years ago in the Stevens Hotel in Chicago I was made a director, and upon immediate organization, I was chosen Vice-President of the Association, which has 27,000 members, especially am I for my home State of Maryland, and so continued since that time. Am further president of the Maryland Property Owners Association. I am living on property that has been in my family for over 160 years. In fact, the house in which I now live, was built by my grandfather 124 years ago. My property is bounded on two sides by a State highway, and the last new State Road cuts thru my property. Further, I was President of the Westminster Deposit and Trust Company for ten years, and am now on the Board of Directors of the same bank; so, I am not only qualified to express the views of the Rural Property Owners, but also believe that I can well express the attitude of a bank in an agricultural community.

AROUND THE TOWN

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Just before Christmas one late afternoon, Your Observer walked along "Tyson" street in downtown Baltimore. Such a transformation! Years ago, all this property had been rented by the colored people which they paid weekly as to their small rental. Since World War II, one house after the other on the entire block was sold for a mere song to the white folks. Instead of it appearing as an alley, as in years gone by, each house is painted in a different color and done up inside and out with every modern convenience. It is a narrow street and is now called "Artist's Row". It is very near Richmond Market and within walking distance of "The Armory". As one enters the street, you become interested immediately which gives you an impression of a street in Paris. Indeed, Tyson street now has a personality all its own. There are little old fashioned carriage lights at the entrance which have been electrified. Of course, there are artists and real artists and a number selling antiques for which they get fabulous sums. This furniture is either done over by themselves or they send it away to have done. There are some charming pieces in mahogany. Yes, folks, down on Tyson street with the nice look in those tiny houses fascinated Your Observer to such an extent that I hope to make a return visit in the very near future.

From Tyson street, I walked to the "Armory" where the "Shriner Circus" was in full bloom and which was enjoyed by many. The funds go to the crippled children. It was a nice evening spent, all but that horrible act called "The Human Cannon Ball" and Your Observer feels that such an act really cheapens life. What a horrible way to make a living. Thrilling the public. I was not at all thrilled but thoroughly disgusted. The Human Cannon Ball is a beautiful girl who walks out on the platform and dons a headress of a skull cap and slowly and carefully crawls into a huge cannon and within five seconds, one hears the command and "Boom", out comes this girl with terrific force, one hundred feet in the air and lands in a net opposite of two hundred feet distance. The net is held up by two very strong men. The impact is so severe upon landing that this girl is breathless but safe, turning several somersaults until she gains her footing and then stands erect to face the enthusiastic audience, removing her headress quickly—then bowing to much applause. She is the daughter of an Italian-American couple who have a very large family and reside in Tampa, Florida. The name of Zachinis is known all over and they took Europe by storm to such an extent that they were decorated by the Norwegian and Italian Government! Your Observer is glad that they have never been decorated by "My Country 'Tis of Thee!"

SPONSOR SUPPER DURING NATIONAL BROTHERHOOD WEEK
The Churchmen's Brotherhood met on Thursday evening for their regular monthly meeting at Grace Reformed Church, Taneytown. The theme for the evening's program was "National Brotherhood Week." Final plans were made for the preparation of preparing and serving the turkey supper on Saturday evening from 4 to 8 P. M., in the Firemen's Building. All the men and young boys are urged to turn out on Saturday and give their assistance in serving the supper. This is one time during the year when the ladies can sit back and see the men in the kitchen. It's a novelty, and a great deal of fun for all.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

Each year the first Friday in Lent is set aside as the World Day of Prayer. This service is sponsored by the United Council of Church Women and as the name indicates is observed by church people all over the world. Now, as never before, we need to be united through prayer in a common cause, that of making the world Christian.

The service for Taneytown district will be held this year in the Reformed Church on Friday evening, March 4, at 7:30 p. m. It is the wish of the committee that every one in the community that can possibly do so will be present at this service.

FEBRUARY

February has the fewest days of the months of the year, yet it has more important events than any other month.

On February 2nd we have 'Ground Hogs' day' when it is supposed that the ground hog after a winter of hibernation comes forth at noon, and if he sees his shadow skurries back to his den and remains for six weeks during which time we are supposed to have bad weather. Well he saw his shadow this year so we can follow the calendar and see if his predictions are true.

Then comes February 12th the birthday of Abraham Lincoln—the greatest commoner this country has ever produced. Lincoln, born in poverty rose to the highest honor this country can give. He was truly a great man—one of the world's really great.

Then February 22nd gives us the birthday of George Washington, to whom we owe our liberty, freedom and greatness.

He was a great soldier and a great statesman, the world has not produced a greater, of his equal.

So we allege that February is our greatest month in production of great men, and some not so great, I was born February 17th.

OUT FOR BUSINESS

According to a survey, many retail stores are increasing their promotional efforts this year. That simply means that still more effort will be devoted to seeking the good will and patronage of the buying public.

In all but a few fields, the buyers' market is back and shortages are a thing of the past. The "easy money" spending spree has lost most of its momentum, and people want full value for what they spend. This has led to more aggressive competition among stores of all sizes and types, and to an even greater realization on the part of merchants that their future depends on how well consumers are served.

A situation such as this can exist only in a free market, where no one has a monopoly on the business, where anyone can go into retail trade if he chooses, and where every consumer is free to take his trade where he will. The results are seen on every hand—in voluntary reductions in profits by retailers, in better physical equipment in stores, in higher standards of service and courtesy, in the wide range of stocks that await the shopper's selection.

Here too is one of the best arguments against such devices as rationing, allocations and price control. These restrictions are inherently injurious to competition. Everyone must sell at the same price, and everyone must carry about the same goods. A static economy results. And the consumer is one of the big losers.—Industrial News Review.

OPPOSES LEGISLATION

briefly the provisions contained in House Bill No. 26, introduced January 6, in the Maryland State Legislature, during the 1949 Session. This bill is practically the same, as Senate Bill No. 39, which incidentally was defeated solely thru the efforts of the aroused farmer Property Owners, in the State of Maryland. In all of my experience, I have never seen such a large group of persons attending a hearing, as were present at the hearing of this Bill during 1945. There were so many farmers from various parts of the State that the Main Assembly Chamber in Annapolis had to be used to seat these persons, even then, a number had to stand.

The Bill is too lengthy to discuss in detail, but I wish to bring out several features which not only fail to recognize the constitutional property rights of the farmers; and would, therefore, deprive them of the use of their property for agricultural purposes, but would also deprive the farmers of the right to use their property for business purposes.

I. Before discussing the importance of having free use of our land for agricultural purposes, I should like to discuss the vital importance of using our land for business purposes. In the period just ahead, thousands of returned service men will wish to set up roadside business interests, such as Gasoline Stations, Restaurants, Food and Vegetable Stands, and even small manufacturing enterprises such as Garages, Machine Shops, etc. Those who do not own property will have to leave or buy this property from Farmer Property Owners. It is also a known fact that many farmers, because of the unproductiveness of their land must supplement their income through the establishment of some sort of a commercial enterprise on their own property. Many farmers have paid their taxes for the year, either partly or in whole through the renting of their property for outdoor advertising structures.

1. Maryland House Bill No. 26, would prevent the erection on private land within 200-feet of Maryland Highways of any structure without first obtaining a permit from a State Commission, known as The State Roads Commission. The application of permit would involve the preparing of a burdensome application blank accompanied by maps, plat specifications and application fee.

2. The set-back requirements for Roadside stands would place such stands where their products could not be seen by highway travelers.

3. Property owners would be deprived of the right to erect any kind of a stand or store or any other commercial establishment on their property for the sale of anything except farm products grown on the premises. In order to make such farm stands pay, for the time of the member of a farm family, who tends the stand, they usually have to offer such articles as candy, cookies, soft drinks, ice cream, tropical fruits, gasoline, oil and other articles in demand by highway travelers, none of which would meet the restrictions imposed by this Bill.

4. The Bill would prohibit a mechanically inclined farmer from setting up a roadside Garage or Blacksmith Shop on his property.

5. Any signs advertising a Home Occupation Enterprise would have to conform to the signs, specifically specified by the Commission, and under the terms of the Bill, it is doubtful whether the law would allow any signs, advertising roadside stands.

6. Property owners would be deprived of the right to receive rentals of any newly erected outdoor advertising structures. On a considerable amount of unproductive land along Maryland Highways, such rentals are the only income received from the property, and the only thing that makes it worthwhile to pay taxes on the land.

The above restrictions would deprive the Maryland Farmer, the right to realize any income on his property other than that received through the sale of agricultural products. And gentlemen, I wish to impress you with the fact, that such sources of outside income represent the difference between success and bankruptcy in a number of cases of farmers whose land is not highly productive.

II. In addition to depriving the farmer property owner, of the right to realize any commercial income from his property, this Bill would deprive him of all of his fundamental constitutional property rights, guaranteed under the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and would further restrict the use of his land for agricultural purposes.

1st. The Roadside Commission would have the authority to landscape, beautify, or otherwise improve a 200-ft strip abutting the State Highways; and this means that they would have the right without the consent of the property owner to plant trees, shrubs, etc., and otherwise beautify land now used for the production of agricultural crops, or for farm buildings. This, of course, would ruin the land so far as producing income, for the owner is concerned. It would mean that a farmer whose land abutted the Highway only to a depth of 400-ft would automatically be deprived of the use of 50% of his entire acreage, or, as some persons own land abutting highways only to the depth of 200-ft and such restrictions would place the owner's entire property under the control of the State Bureau.

2nd. All of the above mentioned restrictions are definitely contrary, not only to the Constitution of the State of Maryland, but to the Constitution of the United States of America because there was no provision made for the payment of one cent of compensation to the owner of property, or for the confiscation of all or his land within 200 feet of the highways affected.

3rd. You gentlemen may wonder why I stated that being a President of a Bank would have any bearing on my being opposed to this Bill. As the result of my experience in banking affairs, I am definitely convinced that all banks, particularly those in agricultural areas are vitally interested in the effect of this Bill, or any similar Bill on property values. For example, if John Smith owned a farm in the rural area near Westminster and such farm contained considerable land abutting the State Highway, he would be entitled to a mortgage in a certain amount based on the assessed value of his property. As you gentlemen know the amount of such mortgages is determined by the assessed value of the property, and several other factors. If, however, 200 feet of all of his land abutting the State Highway were under the control of a State Commission, which would have the right to deprive him of the use of his land for either agricultural or commercial purposes, then the value of the mortgage by such incumbrance would be greatly reduced. I could not honestly protect the interests of my depositors if I felt otherwise. It naturally follows, that if a bank would adopt such an attitude that the sale value not having an unnumbered fee simple deed of the property, would be considerably reduced. This is just another illustration of the unfairness of such a law which would reduce the actual value of a farm abutting a State Highway, and which would not provide for any compensation for such reduction in value.

In closing I might point out both as a farmer and a banker in an agricultural community that the property owners and even the residents of agricultural areas bitterly resent the fact that all of the zoning bills, and other restrictive legislation regarding roadside property is sponsored by a small select group of wealthy esthetes located in urban centers whose property rights are in no way affected by such legislation. This was graphically portrayed by those present at the hearing of Senate Bill No. 39.

The entire Assembly was filled with farmers who had dropped their tools, and left their work to protect their interests. In one portion of the room, however, was seated a very small group of well dressed Baltimore Society Leaders accompanied by several attorneys, who were representing their clients' interests, for the sole purpose of acquiring a substantial fee for their services.

To summarize, Senate Bill No. 39 was defeated because the Committee refused to report the Bill out of committee. In the meantime a milder bill, Senate Bill No. 577 was passed by the Senate but was not reported out of the House Committee, because of the organized opposition of the farmers in the State of Maryland. I should like to point out to those present, however, that a Bill was passed by the 1945 Legislature continuing the life of the original Roadside Commission which was authorized to investigate roadside conditions, and submit a proposed regulatory Bill to the Legislature. As a result of our efforts at Annapolis, this new Bill authorizing another Commission included a member of the Farm Bureau, a member of the State Grange and some additional representation from the County Commissioners throughout the State or Maryland. Even in view of this fact we still must be alert because this new Commission suggested to the 1947 Legislature, another regulatory bill perhaps not so severe, but still of a restrictive nature.

As a property owner I can see no valid reason on why any legislation should be passed, regulating the use of my property which property has been in my family for 160 years or more, and as far as I know our family has gotten along very well regulating the use of its own property without the advice or control of a State Commission. I stand willing, and am ready, as a property owner to fight for my constitutional rights during the 1949 Legislature or future zoning Legislatures.

Gentlemen, I thank you for the opportunity to allow me to present to you, the Property Owners problems, and I cannot emphasize too strongly the necessity of our working and fighting together to preserve our fundamental rights and mutual interests.

And just as a parting thought gentlemen, I would like to quote from one of our great American Poets by Sam Walter Foss, "Let Me Live in a House by the Side of the Road and be a Friend to Man" and to that I would like to add let me live in a house by the side of the road without additional rules, regulations, restrictions, permits, and all the other regulatory measures that do not ring true in a free America.

Let's Think

by
G. H. ENFIELD

IN THE BEGINNING GOD

Such a beginning is the most significant. And who can measure the significance of such a beginning! To begin a life, a home, or a career with God is a prophecy of its success.

The phrase—"In the beginning God"—belongs to the first verse, of the first chapter, of the first book of the Bible, Genesis. We would naturally expect to find a statement like this in the Book of Genesis, for Genesis is a book of beginnings. It attempts to explain the origin of many things.

There are a host of people who do not begin life with God. And many of these same people wait until near the end of life to accept HIM, if they accept Him at all. However there are those who prefer to go down into the shadows with Christ by their side.

How few would find their way to Reno had God established the homes which are being broken, and the lives which are being disrupted! The innocent, defenseless children must suffer the loss of a father, or of a mother, because the doors of the home were closed against God. Oh, what treasures! who Jesus said are greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven, are sacrificed for a few years of worldly pleasure. Today, people are disposing of their interest in Heaven for a good time, for thrills.

How different the world would be were nations ruled by men and women who truly knew the Lord. The nations of the world are endeavoring to solve world problems in their own way, and by leaving out Christ. They are crying Peace, Peace, when there is no peace and never will be permanent peace until the Prince of Peace becomes enthroned in human hearts and rules human lives. In the beginning God! No beginning can be substantial, steadfast, permanent, apart from God. We must not only allow God to build for us, but we must also build God into the structure.

These structures fall apart which God does not build. His Name may be pronounced, but His Spirit does not abide there.

"In the beginning God," characterized the early days of America. It should be even more true now that the Lord has fought on our side these many years for the preservation and perpetuation of the democratic way of life.

When we look about us we observe a difference in those whose beginnings began with God. When it is possible to have the Omnipotent, Omnipresent, and Omniscient Being as a Friend, Companion, and Counselor, why should any one be satisfied with less! Much of one's success depends upon his ability to give correct and judicious appraisals. This is true in any sphere of action. How needless for the door of opportunity to swing open in one's face if he is unaware of the values which lie beyond! Where there is no vision the people perish. Who has not seen this truth demonstrated time after time! A man said to the writer a few years ago, if I had had the vision when I was asked to buy stock in a certain new enterprise, I would be a millionaire today.

A vision of God gives insight. And insight is one of the needs of this blind world.

"In the beginning God!"

MARYLAND HOUSE AND GARDEN PILGRIMAGE

situated near Finksburg, will be included. This tract of land was granted to Michael Huff by the Third Lord Baltimore in 1765. The house is built of fieldstone with walls 2½-ft. thick. A square stair-well with hanging stairway to the third floor make the interior unusual, while identical fan windows over the front door and over the front hall window on the second floor present a unique exterior.

"Braceburn" the attractive brick house of Mr. and Mrs. Landon C. Burns, just outside of Westminster will be shown as an example of what can be done to modernize a well built brick house. Going past this house on the Washington road, the travellers will take a right-hand fork to "Friendship Valley Farm," now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ary J. Lamme Jr. It was built in 1795 by Col. Joshua Gist, brother of General Mordecai Gist, who fought under Washington in the Revolutionary War. The chapter of The Daughters of the American Revolution which bears the general's name placed a bronze marker on the house commemorating Col. Gist. The home of Judge F. Neal Parke is furnished with antique furniture in keeping with its atmosphere and its garden is one of the most beautiful in this community.

Luncheon will be served at the Historical House, 206 E. Main St. This house of Flemish bond bricks, stands on land once owned by William Winchester, founder of Westminster. It was built in 1807 by Col. Jacob Sherman and in 1845 passed to John Fisher, a prominent banker. It was bought by the Historical Society of Carroll County, Inc., from the estate of Miss Mary Shellman, first telephone operator in Westminster whom Alexander Graham Bell once visited.

Of interest in Westminster are two public buildings; the Court House, a colonial brick building, with attractive corridors and court room. The exterior of this Court House was used in the making of motion picture "Maryland" by 20th Century Fox Corporation; and the City Hall called "Emerald Hill" built about 1842 by Col. John K. Longwell. Tradition says that two of the mantels were carved by the sculptor, William H. Rinehart. A charming garden, planted by Mr. George K. Mather features spring flowers and shrubbery.

From Westminster, the tour leads up the Littlestown Pike to Union Mills. There the cluster of Shriver homes bear witness to the impact of this family in the life of Carroll county. Open on the tour will be "the Mills," owned by Mrs. Thomas Kemp, who was Miss Shriver, and St. Mary's Chapel, where the late Cardinal Gibbons frequently held services while a guest of the Shriver family since Andrew Shriver bought it in 1797.

Across country along a road with scenery unsurpassed in Maryland, the next stop is "Crook-about" so named in a tract surveyed in 1792. The present substantial native stone house built in 1795 is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar G. Barnes. This is part of an earlier tract surveyed in 1736 for Dr. Charles Carroll. Almost across the road, Roger E. Barnes, a brother of Edgar Barnes, is restoring "Spring Hollow." It has been estimated that the clapboard covered log part of this house was built as early as the 1740 to 50's. The brick addition was made in 1837.

Back to the main highway to Taneytown, the arrows will point to "Antrim," which takes its name from County Antrim, Ireland. The main part of the house was built in 1844 by Major Ege, son-in-law of Major McKaleb, original owner. Its glorious manor house, guest cottage and cottage for the caretaker are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clabaugh Lamberton, who spend their summers there. Mr. Lamberton, the fifth generation to occupy it, is following in the footsteps of his grandfather, the late Judge Harry M. Clabaugh, who was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, for he is an attorney at law in Washington.

Francis Scott Key is probably the best known of all of Carroll county's sons and "Terra Rubra," the Key estate patented in 1750 by Philip Key, his great-grandfather and situated beyond Taneytown, was his birthplace in 1779 and his country seat all his life. The "Terra Rubra" mansion damaged in a storm shortly after Francis Scott Key's death in 1843, was torn down and the present farmhouse reconstructed from the salvaged materials. George Washington was an occasional visitor and a frequent visitor was Roger Brooke Taney, later Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, who married Key's sister, Anne. The church and school at Keyville stand on land given by Francis Scott Key. Key, gathered around him the colored children of the neighborhood and taught the first colored Sunday School in the United States regularly each Sabbath while at "Terra Rubra."

In this same section of "red lands" stands "Hollow Rock Farm," built about 1750 by ancestors of the present owner, who has come back to his native land after attaining a national and international reputation in the field of letters. Victor Weybright, who attended school at Keyville and became interested in history when he heard older inhabitants tell of stirring historical events in the neighborhood, and his wife, Hildegard Fillmore Weybright, are the present owners. They commute to New York part of the time each week.

Not far away, "Bowling Brook Farm" commands the attention of any traveller. This is part of a tract of land that was called "Bedford" when it was patented in 1763. The house, built by a Revolutionary soldier, Colonel Tom Hook, has been remodeled several times, most recently in 1927 by the present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeter Walden. The whole estate is kept in perfect repair and the house contains many beautiful and interesting trophies, attesting to love of sports by the Walden family. Its gracious hospitality has included many figures famous in the turf world. Its large octagonal training stable of fifty stalls surrounds a one-sixth mile exercising track, the building stabling the well known thoroughbred, War Hero, son of Man of War. The extensive grounds are planted with many named horticultural specimens, named horticultural specimens.

A group of interesting buildings in an out of the way corner of the county, not far from the Frederick line, are those at McKinstry's Mills. They include the Mill, built in 1844 by the McKinstry's, which has been in constant use. The Mill was later bought by William Zumbun whose wife was Mary Rinehart, niece of the sculptor, William Henry Rinehart. She was born at Marble Knoll, the farm nearby on which is located the quarry of marble so closely related to the sculptor.

The Zumbun House is owned by Thomas Rinehart Zumbun and his sisters, Miss Mildred Zumbun and Miss Dorothy Zumbun. It is a fine red brick house, built in 1819 by Samuel McKinstry and owned by this family for whom the Mills were named until bought by the Zumbuns. The birthplace of Rinehart is nearby and his great-pieces and nephews have many intimate Rinehart mementoes.

Returning through the quaint town of New Windsor, with its lovely homes and shaded streets, the tourists will be privileged to stop at "Brookside Garden," owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller Richardson. The owners designed and built an outdoor living room in 1945 and their Memorial Garden is pleasing with a variety of bulbs. The place demonstrates what can be done with up-to-date equipment to make living attractive.

The route follows close to the church built in 1764 by Rev. Robert Strawbridge, of Ireland, at Sam's Creek, New Windsor District. According to old records, this was the 1st Methodist Church in America.

This is the first time that homes of Carroll County have been included in the Maryland garden tour but it is the twelfth Maryland House and Garden Pilgrimage. Working with the Garden Clubs is the Historical Society of Carroll County, Inc., and the proceeds will go for the work of the society and to the maintenance of the Hammond-Harwood House in Annapolis, open to the public as a museum. The county chairmen are Mrs. James M. Shriver, "Chinquapin Hill, Union Mills," and Mrs. Edgar G. Barnes, "Crook-about", Uniontown. Mrs. Blanchard Randall, "The Caves," Owings Mills, is State chairman.

The quality of the cooking was excellent but the men confess the women tended to that part of it, while they did the supervising. The men of Middleburg are still the champion cooks.

The Union Bridge Girls 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Ann Crumpacker, Saturday afternoon. A short business period was held after which Miss Dorothy Haines showed the Club how the skillful use of colors can increase the charm of even the duller room. Following the demonstration, refreshments were served and the Club adjourned to meet in March at the home of Nancy Roelke at Mt. Union. Two new members were added to the Club. They were Doris Buffington and Lois Bowman. Other members present were Ann Crumpacker, Patricia Roop, Virginia Kubit, Dorothy Pitt, Rose Marie Grabill, Eleanor Baker, Sylvia Roelke, Elaine Knox, Dolores Hitchcock and Nancy Roelke. Miss Evelyn Fuss is Club leader and Miss Dorothy Haines is the demonstrator.

Mrs. Raymond Buffington has been seriously ill with septic sore throat but is able to be up and around the house now.

Sometime during the night our household was disturbed by a squaking and crackling from the chicken house. The two men of the house, armed with enough artillery to launch a surprise attack on any unsuspecting thief, ventured forth, while I was quaking in my bedroom slippers and holding my breath in suspense. Finally I heard a shot, then another and just when I was getting up enough nerve to go down stairs the men returned and said it was a ten pound opossum. It had gained an entrance into the chicken house and selected a nice fat hen, killed it and was feasting away by the time the men had collected themselves enough to shoot it. We had been blaming the skunks for killing our hens but finally the real culprit was found.

Everyone has heard about Mary and her little lamb, how it followed her to school one day which wasn't according to Hoyle. In our community we hear a different version of this nursery rhyme. The name isn't Mary but Edna and the lamb isn't a lamb but a goat. The goat followed its mistress to the school bus but it was against the rule for it to ride so when the bus pulled away the goat decided to walk to school. It got part of the way but upon second thought decided it didn't want to learn anything any way so being a wise goat settled for some tender grass along the roadside. When its appetite was satisfied the goat decided to do some sight-seeing. So sight see it did until its mistress returned from school, when by clever detective work the goat was located and returned home. If one and one are two, There are two and one to carry?

Ever so often the subject of comic books are brought up in this column. Like other mothers with young children, this problem continues to be a controversy between my nine year old daughter and myself. Feeling sometimes the parents get a lopsided slant on things, I read all kind of constructive opinion on comics and talked with teachers and experts to get their opinion, and I found that one-half believe comic books are harmful while the other half say they are not. Finally I decided to take the middle road. Taking one afternoon off I visited several stores where comic books were sold and I went through them. Some of them are interesting, educational while others should not be allowed to be sold. Anyway, I was able to make out a list of the ones our third grader could read and a black list of the ones which she could not read. If she borrows comics from other children (and this happens to be the fact) I look at them and if they are the ones on my black list she has to return them unread. The point is this: Comic books do have a place in a child's life just as movies do, but it is up to the parents to say which comics are good for the child and which ones are bad. With a little tact one can usually persuade the small fry to read the comic books one wants them to read.

At twenty I longed for a mansion With drawing room classic in splendor With terrace and park where shy deer at dark Would nibble the foliage tender.

At forty my dream is a dwelling So simple and cozy and small, Just kitchen and bedroom with just enough head room To eat and to sleep and that's all! —Francis Hatch.

AROUND THE TOWN

injury but none so far have been killed. I understand that the daughter does not like her job but does as he father tells her to do! The amount that was collected from the Circus was $20,000 which was donated by the Shriners.

While in Hanover, one day the Manager of a store came to me and holding out the front page of a paper said, "Look at this". There was Hitler's picture! I immediately looked at the date and the heading which was at the very beginning of the war. That paper was found amongst some Junk! Nuff said!

A few weeks ago, the men of the Middleburg Church gave another of their famous suppers! Ummm good! The only fault I find is that they serve too many kinds of food piled high with all their endeavors. Those men were just as calm as any woman in her own kitchen and each one attending strictly to the chore assigned to them.

Never knew that Mechanic of Lincoln was so good looking!

The little Minister greeted me upon my arrival at the door. The little lady of the Keymar Garage sure knows how to say nice things to give one a lifter upper. That little Minister never seems to get any older in fact he appears younger!

Then I walked a lady of whom I am fond near "Around The Town" who appeared stunning in a English dark gray suit with a black stripe and a matching hat. Her nice husband had on a dark red shirt which made him appear ten years younger. He should always laugh as he did at that table as previously he always was most serious. Their little dark eyed son was along, too. Supper of churches sort of mean a real get together which otherwise is not possible for many country people and I observed so many were glad to see one another after such a lapse of time. Being friendly—that's it!

Then the Firemen's supper was excellent "Around The Town". Such nice little waitresses. Am wondering who that sweet one was with the dark hair with bangs.

Now this is to all business men! When a customer comes in your store and asks for any certain article. Do not say, "No, we don't carry that!" Better say, "I'll order that immediately!" That will make the customer come back and prevent the customer from going away from "Around The Town".

"Frankie" was home on his first furlough and his gradually gaining back his health and strength. Best wishes! And the entire town means just that!

Have a nice week end, Folks and if it is bad weather do not venture out with that car. So long. Will be seeing you next week and remember always that you can't help trouble from coming but don't give it a chair to sit on!

Your OBSERVER.

ANNAPOLIS LETTER

There appear to be two schools of thought on the subject of city and county zoning in Carroll County, one group contending that there are already "too darn many rules and regulations", the other complaining because zoning was not instituted in Carroll County many years ago.

While most of us have found that a bureaucratic form of government, whether local or otherwise, or excessive legislation that imposes undue burdens or restrictions upon us as individuals can become obnoxious, there are but few who have not, at one time or another, expressed the conviction that there "ought to be a law" to protect property owners from the hazards of uncontrolled development and uses of land in the growing communities of the county.

It is not the intention of this article to advocate zoning throughout the entire county. This discussion is confined to the question of whether or not there should be a law to plan and regulate the growth of our more thickly populated areas in Carroll County, principally in the areas surrounding our incorporated towns.

In or around our towns we find areas where residential developments have been started and then obstructed or stopped because of the appearance within or near the development of an unsightly dump or junk yard, or an unfortunately placed commercial or industrial structure. This results not only in the depreciation of the values of the surrounding residences but also impairs the value and development of the surrounding land. So long as land uses are unrestricted both home-owners and land owners are unprotected in this respect.

The basic principle of zoning involves the establishment of certain land areas for particular purposes or uses. In this manner the future development of communities can be planned and regulated and infringement of commerce or industry upon residential areas can be prevented.

There are three general classifications of land uses, namely, residential, commercial and industrial, with possible subclassifications under each of these headings. Areas are zoned and defined only after there has been thorough investigation into such matters as water supply, power and disposal facilities, road and rail accommodations, community requirements for each class of land use, etc.

Existing uses of land are not effected by the establishment of zoning authority but only the future use or development of land within the zoned areas is subject to control.

The only move toward the establishment of zoning within Carroll County was made when the City of Westminster obtained authority in 1947 to establish zoning within the city limits. No steps have yet been taken to zone the city under this authority. Because of the limited area within the city boundaries zoning under this authority would produce only a partial remedy. For effective zoning throughout the Westminster area it would be necessary for the county to have authority to coordinate a plan of zoning with the plan of the city. A similar limitation would exist should any other municipality adopt some form of zoning for local control.

James B. Earp, with his students at Western Maryland College, who have made a detailed study of the problems within Westminster, have created some interest in the subject by the lectures and demonstrations that they have presented to local organizations. And, within the last few weeks, the Directors of the Carroll County Farm Bureau went on record as favoring the establishment of some form of zoning authority in order to correct the injurious results obtained under our present method of uncontrolled and unplanned community development.

It is doubtful if any legislation can be prepared before the end of the present session of the General Assembly. This subject is discussed this week in the hope that it might encourage further interest in the matter and that some plan might be developed for at least limited control over the future growth of the communities in the county where such control is becoming increasingly desirable.

Until next week, I am,
Sincerely,
STANFORD HOFF.

STREET LIGHTS FOR MAYBERRY

On Monday evening, Feb. 21, a large group of people of the community met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Helge Olsen for the purpose of forming an association and electing officers, also to have further discussion regarding the lighting for the community. Election of officers was then held. Those elected were president, Mr. Wm. Lawyer; vice-president, Mr. Helge Olsen; secretary, Mrs. Lloyd Carl; assistant secretary, Mr. Aaron Putman; Treasurer, Mrs. Helge Olsen; directors, Mr. Preston Myers and Mr. Aaron Putman.

The name of the association was then voted upon. The name selected was The Mayberry Improvement Association. A discussion was then held regarding the lights.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at a later date. Refreshments, which were served by Mrs. Olsen, were enjoyed by all.

AT A PURINA FEED CONFERENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baumgardner, of Taneytown, have just returned from Atlantic City, N. J., where they attended a conference of several hundred Purina feed dealers. Feed dealers from Maryland, N. Jersey and Pennsylvania were present at the conference where they were told of the newest developments and trends in the feed industry and new ideas in scientific farm management.

R. G. Leavitt, of St. Louis, Missouri, Ralston Purina for farmers as he reviewed the prospects for 1949. He pointed out that feed prices should be lower during the year while the demand and prices for meat, milk and eggs are expected to remain good. Citing opportunities for feed dealers to serve farmers, he said that a record number of chicks will be hatched and started this year and an increase in the number of pigs farrowed on the nation's farms is expected. To help feed this increased poultry and livestock population and add to the world food supply is the job the feed dealers have ahead of them for 1949.

This feed dealer conference was the first to be held since 1941. Since that time the commercial feed industry is reported to have increased its output from 13 million tons to 30 million tons a year, proof that farmers in this area and throughout the country are giving more attention to a scientific program of feeding, management and sanitation to produce more meat, milk and egg.

Regular inspections of furnaces, closets, attic and basement will reduce fire hazards in the home.

Damp gloves should be air-dried before you put them away to prevent mildew and spotting.

THEN AND NOW

Take out your pencil, write down the facts, Not in the way you think they be, but only acts; Start where you are, from the place where you stand, Look all about, all over the land, Turn back your memory, down thru the years, Marshall the events as each one appears.

Start with the Pilgrims, whose struggle and strife Led them forth boldly, to risk each one his life; Think of the things for which each one stood, Selfish at times perhaps, mostly for good— Good for the people all the way thru, Each for the other, this each one knew, Was the one way to progress and survive, If they would conquer the savage and live.

Down thru the years—seven full score Lived they and dwelt they in peace evermore; Built up for themselves a system of ways, Each to be equal and none superpose; Banded together in church and in state, Scholars and Statesmen were free to debate,

Each with full say and none to deny What each should do as the years rolled by.

Thus won they Freedom and Liberty too, Thus built they government such as we know, Where men are yet free to live each his life Without coercion, oppression or strife; When each one looked for a problem solution, That it should be by our Great Constitution.

Mashington, Jefferson, Hamilton—all, Webster and Haynie, Clay, Calhoun we call; Lincoln and Roosevelt—the Great Theodore—

Oh, we might name them by many a score, Nor could we find among the whole lot A single one who OUT our freedom would blot; All stood for liberty, freedom and ease,

Each one to live his own life as he please; No consternation or regimentation, Ever with these did threaten the Nation.

Farmers could sow and reap at their ease, Merchants could buy and sell as they please, Great manufacturies, chimnies belching forth smoke, Assured prosperity if any but look At the long line of men, dinner pails swinging, Back to their homes at night pay checks were bringing.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS A special conference of home economics teachers and supervisors was held in the Westminster High School on Friday and Saturday, February 18 and 19. This conference was sponsored jointly by the State Department of Education and the Carroll County Board of Education for the benefit of teachers and supervisors engaged in instructional work in clothing construction. The conference was under the immediate direction of Miss Elizabeth Amery, State Supervisor of Home Economics and Mrs. Josephine West, County Supervisor of Home Economics, and was carried on for two days in the home economics department of the local high school by Mrs. Edna Bryte Bishop, Pittsburgh, Pa., a specialist in clothing construction methods and who has adapted the trade method of clothing construction to home sewing.

Mrs. Bishop has been called upon to carry on workshops and conferences of this nature in several parts of the state and all teachers and supervisors seized the opportunity to be present at these meetings. Teachers were present from ten neighboring counties of the state and totaled thirty five teachers and three supervisors, including those from Carroll County. Representatives from the home economics departments of Western Maryland and Hood College were also present along with a number of students from these institutions. The extension Department of the county was also represented as well as several guests from the local community and Pennsylvania. Those attending the conference were entertained at various homes in Westminster. Lunch was served by the cafeteria department of the local high school. Much favorable comment resulted from this workshop and great benefit will come to the teachers engaged in this work.

There will be a meeting of the Carroll County High School principals on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 22, in the offices of the Board of Education. Special administrative matters will be considered at this conference as well as a continued professional approach to the problem of The Improvement of Reading and Modifications in the Marking System which have been under consideration at these conferences during this school year.

Mr. John F. Wooden, Jr., and Miss Ruth DeVore, local supervisors from the Carroll County school system attended the sessions of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum development which was held in New York City on Feb. 13, 14, 15, 16. Educators throughout the east were present at these conferences where discussions were carried on along the professional lines related to the curriculum in the high and elementary schools.

Down the Line with Johnny Bell

He holds a "bug" that's looking for trouble
This man is a member of the telephone central office maintenance force. The "gadget" he has in his hand is an electronic device which he calls a "bug."

When it's raining, this "bug" is used inside the central office where telephone wires terminate. It can test as many as 6,000 wires an hour. If moisture is causing a leakage of current in any drop wire (the wire that connects your house with the telephone pole), the "bug" locates it. A repairman can then be sent out to fix the "trouble" before you notice it.

Out of sight—but never out of touch

Next to seeing your family and friends in person, there's nothing quite so satisfying as talking with them by Long Distance. If you have any youngsters away from home, why not set aside a special night each week for those pleasant Long Distance chats that keep them close to the family circle?

The cost is small and most calls go through while you hold the line. Some typical low Long Distance rates are quoted on the inside front cover of your telephone directory.
The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

The "net" will be there soon—thanks to party-line thoughtfulness

A little party-line co-operation can mean a lot in an emergency. That's why it pays to put courtesy and consideration into every call you make. When you allow a little time between calls, or give up the line promptly when it's needed for an urgent call, you'll find that others on the line will be ready to do the same for you.

Ideal World

Lesson for February 27, 1949

ANY MAN with a revolutionary new idea has to try to explain it. Jesus was no exception. As a young teacher of religion, he had to answer the question which older teachers were bound to put to him: If your teaching is new, how can it be true? And if it is true, what can be new about it? This was a fair question. The Sermon on the Mount is Jesus' answer to it. The main theme of that sermon is the kingdom of God, an ancient phrase but with new meanings as Jesus used it. We can say "The Ideal World" and mean just the same thing.

The Right People
JESUS EMPHASIZES, above all, the kind of people who belong to God's Ideal World. This would be surprising to some modern planners. Communists think that if you can once get a world in which every one has enough to eat and drink and wear, a world where nobody is poor (or everybody is as poor as everybody else, which is all the same thing), you will have the perfect world. Jesus would know this is nonsense. You do not get the perfect world by improving the soil, or the system of government, or the economic system; you do not get it by passing laws of any kind. This does not mean that such things are unimportant—far from it.

But the fact is that even after you got your perfect social system, with perfect politics and perfect distribution of wealth, even a perfect climate and soil, you would still be nowhere near the Ideal World unless you have improved your people.

Is This You
WHAT WE call the "beatitudes" (Matt. 5:3-12) is Jesus' eight-point program for the citizen of the Ideal World. The right people are happy people, to begin with. (The word translated "Blessed" is a regular Greek word for "happy.") But the main difference between different kinds of people is not that some want to be happy while others do not.

Jesus' ideal people are humble, not proud; they see their sins and are sorry for them; they are "meek"—that is, they are not in a hurry to demand their own rights; they do not merely admire goodness, they are positively hungry for it; they are merciful, not careless or cruel; they are pure in heart and not only in speech and act; they are not mere peace-wishers or peace-lovers (who isn't?) but peace-makers; they are people who are brave enough to do what is right.

Salt
DO YOU really want an ideal world? The best way to begin is to learn how to be a citizen of such a world. Jesus uses two interesting simple words to describe the kind of people he means. You are salt, he said—you are light. Salt and light are old-fashioned things but they have never gone out of date.

So there is no substitute for a really good Christian. Living here and now, like citizens of the ideal world to come, Christians are both salt and light.

Salt because they give a taste to otherwise flat or bitter life. Salt because they keep human society from going rotten.

Light
AND LIGHT! Like salt, light ought not to be too noticeable. A glaring light is bad on the eyes, as too much salt is bad on the tongue. So a Christian is not supposed to rub his goodness in on other people, so to speak. He is as indispensable as salt in bread—and should be as inconspicuous. But light, like salt, if it is any good has to be applied directly. A strong light concealed in a steel tube does no good. Swishing the glass end of the salt-cellar around in the soup gives it no flavor. The salt must get into the soup, the light must touch what we see.

So the Christian, God's ideal citizen-in-training, can do the world no good by running away from the world.

If a Christian is going to leave this world better than he found it, even a little bit farther on toward the Ideal World,—he must come into touch with the world, not to imitate it but to change it.

Honey Bee Important Agent In Pollinating Farm Acres

Emphasizing the importance of honey bees in pollinating agricultural crops, M. H. Haydak, associate professor of entomology at the University of Minnesota, called bees the "wings of agriculture."

Honey bees by far outweigh the value of other insects as pollinators of plants, according to Dr. Haydak. Between 75 and 80 per cent of our agricultural crops are pollinated by honey bees alone.

Dependability of the honey bee in pollinating is apparent from the tremendous amount of work it does. About 10 loads of pollen are used to rear one bee.

Investigations show that to make one load of pollen a bee has to visit 346 red clover florets or 84 pear blossoms. A strong colony during a year rears about 200,000 bees and so requires two million loads of pollen.

Locating the apiary close to the field to be pollinated plays a very important part in making services of bees more effective, as does the number of bees per surface area. The more bees per field, the larger the crop that can be expected.

Crawling Spider Causes Smash-Up of Three Cars

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.—Frank Warren Swacker, University of Virginia student from New York City, blamed a spider for his woes.

Swacker was motoring downtown when he felt a spider crawling up his leg. Swacker crashed into a parked automobile belonging to Fred W. Hanf of Phoebus, then caromed into a second—this one owned by Police Court Justice J. Callan Brooks.

When things came to a halt, Swacker, considerably demoralized, solved one of his problems immediately—the spider breathed his last.

But another problem, involving charges of careless and reckless driving, is due to be aired in Judge Brooks' court.
