OUR FOOD SUPPLY

A few pessimists believe that population is outgrowing our ability to produce adequate food to supply the needs of mankind. To this thesis I do not agree. We have a rich soil, salubrious climate, and an energy adequate to our needs. If intensely cultivated our soil is adequate to supply the needs of a people four times as great as it now. The future rests with us whether we have feast or famine.

We could improve our lot by a display of greater diligence and energy. Now we have a scarcity of meat due largely to our neglect of enclosing our herds of cattle and flocks of sheep and herds of hogs.

This is the time when farmers can if they will greatly increase their wealth. The wood lots could be made places of great wealth if hogs were raised there and the corn raised in the fields fed to these hogs instead of being sold to others who profit by its use. The fodder and straw and hay fed to cattle in the barnyard could greatly increase the wealth of each farmer, and the manure made, add greatly to the richness of the soil.

I was raised on the farm and know whereof I speak.

ONE LITTLE GIRL

It is a curious, sad, magnificent world we live in. A little girl falls down a well in California—and the news sweeps across oceans, waking untold millions of eager, anxious sympathy, taking headlines away from the Atlantic Pact, the United Nations, hope for Germany, crisis in China.

Men work doggedly for 52 hours—battered, almost exhausted, in increasing physical danger—to free her from the narrow pipe in which she is lodged. There is no talk of work hours, rates of compensation, bargaining agencies, safety conditions. They just dig on relentlessly, while from thousands of miles away come other offers of help, suggestions, prayers.

Valuable equipment is rushed to the spot; expensive operations are undertaken to aid the rescuers. But no one asks how much it is costing. A news commentator estimates they may have spent $50,000, but no one speaks of this grudgingly as "the taxpayers' money." What are dollars, indeed, in comparison with Mr. and Mrs. Fiscus's little girl Kathy?

And who is to estimate this heroic rescue attempt in terms of "success" or "failure"? Here is no success, certainly, for the cynical modern thesis that man is an economic animal. Here is no failure of compassion and courage, of unselfish concern for the hurt and helpless.

Kathy's tiny wail has been heard around the world. It speaks for the small victims of war, of famine, of man's inhumanity to man, in Greece, in India, in Berlin and Shanghai, in Harlem and Cairo. And dull though men's imaginations may be, San Marino shows us once again that they have it in them to respond—magnificently. — Christian Science Monitor.

Let's Think

by
G. H. ENFIELD

"MY"—"MY"—"MY"

A very small word by significant in meaning. Many people apparently don't consider its size for frequently they overlook it. It is obvious that the smaller anything is the more difficulty it has to defend itself. The smaller an individual is the harder it is for him to exercise discipline and to command obedience. Large physical stature within itself commands respect, awe, fear.

"My", however, may be jostled around by any size individual, and it takes on different meaning according to the stature of the person tossing it about. The calibre of the barrel out of which it is shot determines its force. Man's character, like a butter-print upon butter fat, places his stamp upon the tiny word "my". Is this not apparent of the householder in the Biblical parable who spoke of "my fruits - - my barns - - my grain - - my goods - - my soul!" Surely there were other people living during the day of the rich householder! And there must have been a God, otherwise, how could he have said, "my soul". The trouble with this wealthy chap was that he had lived with himself so long, that he failed to recognize the existence of anybody else, much less to feel any obligation to them. This is a desperate state to get into but it is the natural result of one who lives solely for the acquisition of material possessions. The true goal of human life is not the making, the saving, and the spending of money.

The philosophy for living of the householder of the parable was, "eat, drink, be merry." The modern householder's philosophy in the main is like unto his predecessor's, except, our contemporary may recognize there is an end to this way of life, and adds, "for tomorrow we die."

Yes, in the twentieth century "MY" is still at work. So it's "my farms - - my stocks - - my bonds - - my bank accounts - - my factories - - my houses - - my limousines - - my life."

Yet, remember, none of these things are yours. You are only a steward of these things. You have a social responsibility. The beggar stills lays at the gate. The widows and orphans still cry in the night. The prisoner languishes in his cell because someone may have failed to recognize a self-evident truth "that all men are created equal". The tranquil atmosphere of joyful living is often disturbed by the woe of outburst "no man cared for my soul." Juvenile delinquency reminds us that we are our brother's keeper.

A vision of one's responsibility transforms "my - - my - - my" into "ours - - ours - - ours."

Continental Divide Offers Lonely Haven for Watchman

SILVERTON, COLO.—If you want to get away from it all, you might try a job along the backbone of the continental divide. Of course, things aren't what they used to be.

Oldtime watchmen who sat out the winter at snowbound mines and construction camps didn't see another human in four to six months. Frank Sandra, who can remember those days, manages to get into town about every two weeks now. All he has to do is snowshoe two miles to the nearest highway, then hitch a ride with a passing motorist 13 miles to Silverton.

From May through September, the skyline camp employing Sandra is a beehive of activity, trying to do a year's work before the snows come again. The rest of the year, Sandra has it all to himself with a choice of accommodations in 12 cabins.

He had a partner of sorts for a while one winter—a porcupine. But the partner developed a bad habit of chewing up the floor. Sandra had to shoot him.

Malay Archipelago

Malay Archipelago, which is the Netherlands East Indies, straddles the equator, forming a barrier between the Pacific and Indian oceans and a link between Asia and Australia. Its total land area is over two and a half times that of Texas—735,268 square miles. Its principal islands are Java, Sumatra and Borneo.

Marionette Shows

Properly staged, a marionette show creates an amazing illusion of size in the minds of the audience. Instead of seeming their actual height, the marionettes appear to be of almost human size, an effect which is greatly increased because the scenery is also made to correspond.

Railroad Slang

The brakeman entered the restaurant and sat down at the counter for breakfast.

"What'll you have?" the girl asked.

"Bring me two headlights, a string of flats, and one in the dark," he ordered.

While the girl was new on the job, she wasn't to be kidded with railroad slang. She returned with a glass of water and a whistle.

"What's this, what's this?" the railroader sputtered. "That's not what I ordered."

"I know it isn't," the girl answered coolly. "but I thought maybe you'd like to take on water and test your steam before you eat breakfast."

Health Inspector Orders Lawyer to Clean Up Flat

SAN FRANCISCO.—Lloyd McComber, a lawyer, says he's a connoisseur. Three health department inspectors agreed he had a collection, anyway.

The inspectors, investigating his flat on a complaint of McComber's landlady, reported they found:

Six rooms jammed from floor to ceiling with fine glass and china, garbage, automobile tires, five-gallon cans, broken crates, old-fashioned radio horns, and vast nests of shredded newspapers.

The kitchen littered with unwashed dishes, moldy cooked food, matches, bottles, rags and newspapers.

Four dogs and six kittens bounding about.

Somewhere in the flat, said McComber, was his "miscellaneous library—3,000-4,000 volumes."

"But my real collection of law books—well, that amounts to something. But it's in storage—to keep it out of the way."

John Kelterer, chief inspector of the board of health, said he would give McComber five days to clean up the place.

Uncle Sam Says

Farming is a combination of a business and a home. And you farmers realize that a well-managed business must maintain a financial reserve as security against future needs and emergencies. This reserve is built up during the good years, like this one, when many crops are the biggest in history. It must be in the safest possible form and always available. Nothing meets these requirements so well as U. S. Savings Bonds. You know that Savings Bonds provide more security than cash because they will be replaced if lost or stolen and they also bear interest, paying $4 for every $3 invested, in ten years.

U. S. Treasury Department

Sylvester Says:

"Here's one reason for overcrowded homes. But don't be kidded. The building industry is taking up the slack between war time population increases and housing needs."

Last year, the greatest in home building world history, the building industry constructed enough homes to house the combined populations of Detroit, Baltimore, Boston, Indianapolis and Atlanta.

If you like to think in terms of wide open spaces, then consider this: you could house the total populations of these 7 mountain states: Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Nevada in the homes built by private industry during 1948.

The Melody Lingers

Our experience with rent control has underscored this fact: the longer we permit political controls to linger upon the scene, the harder it is to get rid of them. This is a good lesson for us to learn. For two years in succession now, our Congress has decided to keep the controls, while adding some "de-control" features that never seem to get rid of the controls. So, we still have rent control.

These efforts to control the nation's housing by tampering with rental units is actually making it difficult for the country to come back to a more normal housing situation following the dislocations of wartime economy. Rent control creates very few fair and square deals between renter and landlord. Indeed, it brings more injustices than it corrects.

But the worst thing about rent control right now is that it keeps housing scarce. Millions of rental units would become available at once, if it were not for rent control. Veterans and others in need of housing are suffering under the direct burden of rent control.

Let Industry Do It.

It has been said that the nation has more housing per person today than it had in 1940. Yet, we're worse off. We need more housing, yes. But as long as we have rent control, we may not expect more rental housing. The hazards of control and its well-known injustices are too easily remembered by those who could offer rent housing. They will not undertake this kind of enterprise, when the count is already against them. Moreover, the private builders of the nation do not want to be compelled to compete with public housing, which is subsidized by tax money.

The truth is this: if government would get out of the scramble, private building would soon meet the demand for rental units. Competition would then go to work in keeping rents at reasonable levels.

Depend On Incentives.

Yet, there are those who work hard trying to keep the government in the housing business. These agitators want rent control because rent control keeps the building industry in a dither and creates these artificial shortages. These tinkers want rent control because they believe it will help bring socialized housing.

When private money is deliberately scared away from investing in rental housing, then the next step is to holler for the government to put up housing. Actually, rent control and public housing are two pieces out of the jig-saw picture-puzzle of socialist and collectivist controls that the agitators are trying to foist upon the nation.

Once a government agency has power to tell you how much rent you must pay, whether you can live in a private house or a government project, then we are getting to the place where we can join up with Russia and all the other Communist experimenters.

The Socialists and Communists know that it sounds good to plead for "adequate" housing. They claim to be fighting for the people, against all sorts of bogeymen. But the people are not told that rent control, together with public housing, will go a long way toward destroying the welfare and the future of our free economy in America. We must in the future depend upon incentives and fair competition. Then there will be no housing problem in America.

Uncle Sam Says

You American citizens who have been looking for an opportunity to take some aggressive action which expresses faith in your country are being given that chance. It is participation in the U. S. Savings Bonds "Spring Opportunity Drive" which opens May 16. Through drive you can help in the preservation of a prosperous economy in your state and show the world that American men and women, still have that which has led the country to "accomplish the impossible". Volunteer drivers are needed to help in this drive and this is your opportunity to prove that you have the courage to protect the freedoms that are yours. Your community, your country, your state, and your country need your help. Volunteer today.

Rules of Temperance

Lesson for April 24, 1949

THERE IS REALLY something funny about it. Consider a First Church congregation singing: "Jesus, I my cross have taken, All to leave and follow thee; Destitute, despised, forsaken, Thou from hence my All shalt be." Oh, come, come, ladies and gentlemen! Your cross? Where is it? "All to leave"—? You are going right back to your homes for an extra-good Sunday dinner. "Destitute"—? (Some congregations, believe it or not, actually sing "naked, poor," instead of "destitute.") Not a one of you ever has been on relief; you probably have more money in the bank than most of the people who didn't come to church.

Dr. Foreman

Some People Cannot be Christians

IT MAY BE FUNNY to compare what the congregation is singing about themselves with what they really are. But it is sad, too, because that hymn illustrates how foggy-minded some Christians are about their own "cross."

They can sing blithely about it, and even complain (in song) about their own condition as something for the Salvation Army to look into, when they don't mean a word of it.

The fact is, Jesus did demand just the thing the hymn describes. He said, in so many words, "Whosoever doth not bear his cross and come after me cannot be my disciple."

What Did Jesus Mean?

THERE ARE TWO ways of misunderstanding Jesus here. One wrong line is taken by those who think Jesus did not mean a word he said. The other wrong line is taken by a very few people, a very few indeed, who take Jesus absolutely literally. They believe that no one can be a true, 100 per cent Christian, unless and until he gives up all his property, all his family, and lives alone and wild, a hermit in the wilderness. The facts show that both these interpretations are false. The world has never been really made better, either by selfish, comfort-loving, worldly Christians, or by the wild and woolly hermits who are clean "out of this world."

"Love Thyself Last"

THE WISEST, the most devoted Christians, have known better what Jesus meant. Jesus' own parable of the "rich fool" gives us the hint. He tells of a man who had everything he wanted . . . but when he came to die, discovered he had nothing. In that little story Jesus shows us a man who put himself before all other persons; who put himself before God; and who put things before character. He lived for his body, he lived for his comforts, he lived for himself.

The neighbors, maybe, called him smart because he was rich; but God called him a fool, and what God calls a man, that he is.

Taking the cross means living as Jesus lived, not as that fool lived.

Christians and Liquor Don't Mix

CONSIDER JUST ONE illustration of what Jesus means. Should a Christian drink alcoholic liquors? If you are not a Christian, you can try to answer this from non-Christian reasons; but that is not the question. Shall a Christian drink? Just think about this in the light of what Jesus said. The disciple of Christ will deny himself; does the drinker deny himself? The disciple of Christ will put Christ first; always; but what does the drinker put first? Jesus called a man a fool who lived for his bodily pleasure, lived for himself; what would he call the man who thinks he can "take it or leave it" but who is actually tied to his bottles?

It is true, a selfish man may perhaps (for selfish reasons, such as saving money) deny himself liquor, tobacco, or even tea and coffee, and still be no Christian.

But a man who really denies himself, who loves himself last, will find that other self-denials follow as a matter of course. A man who lets his appetite dictate to him, especially his appetite for alcohol, is a man who is letting real self starve.

Pay this bill for me, will you?

Suppose a stranger asked you to pay his electric light bill every month . . .

Farfetched idea? Not so — because you do help pay a lot of other people's electric bills every month!

Every time you buy cigarettes, matches, gasoline, a lipstick or a watch, or hundreds of other things, part of what you pay is a federal tax. And that same federal tax money helps pay those strangers' electric bills.

Here's why: the federal government is in the electric business in some parts of the country. It sells electric service to some people and to certain industries — below the real cost.

Who makes up the difference? You do — the government uses some of your taxes for that purpose.

We are against government-in-the-electric-business in America. Because it threatens all self-supporting electric companies. And because it is Socialization of one business, a long first step toward Socialization of all business.

Most Americans don't want that. . . . Do you?
