WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING

Our national debt is so great now that to pay it would take all we all possess.

A century of thrift will be required to pay off what we now owe, which is said to be considerably more than a thousand dollars for each man, woman and child now living. A hundred years ago, we are told, the country was free from debt. It took a civil war to start the ball rolling, and the trouble is our own fault, we demand so much, want the state to do so much, and foot the bill. After we have spent ourselves into the poor house maybe we will learn to be more careful. W. J. H.

THE COUNTRY PRESS SAYS

WELCH, OKLAHOMA, WATCHMAN: "Many observers felt the government's attack upon bigness might have been stirred up by Economics Planners who want to scuttle our free enterprise system. The system encourages bigness but only if bigness can be more efficient than smallness and can win the approval of the consuming public without which, of course no company can grow. If industries were to be broken up simply on the grounds of bigness, our advance as a nation would be seriously slowed down and our national security critically weakened."

LEWISTOWN, PENN., SENTINEL: "Those who like the form of government that we inherited from those who founded the United States of America might keep their eyes on the pressure groups."

SYRACUSE, NEW YORK, HERALD-JOURNAL: "In times of peace and war alike, the Iron Horse has played an indispensable part in American life... It's still the backbone of our transport system."

GREAT FALLS, MONTANA, JOURNAL: "About 74 per cent of all automobiles in the United States in 1948 were owned by families or income, according to figures of the dividuals with less than $5,000 yearly Federal reserve board."

CYPRESS, CALIFORNIA, ENTERPRISE: "Under the farm support programs Uncle has to keep on buying products that are already running out of his ears... It costs the government billions to buy the stuff that nobody wants—at the prices being charged. Uncle buys it to keep the prices up so he and everybody else has to pay more. How crazy can we get?"

MANSFIELD, OHIO, NEWS-JOURNAL: "An American Gas Assn. survey reports that gas utilities expect to add 1,150,000 home-heating customers to their rolls for the 1950-51 heating season, which would bring the total of residential consumers to 9,400,000."

"A year ago at this time the total was 7,200,000 and ten years ago it was 3,800,000—figures which are presented to John L. Lewis for thoughtful consideration, and also to the men whose livelihood depends on mining coal."

Background for Blonds
Modern type furniture in blond wood finds an attractive setting in a room with walls painted pearl gray, draperies of dull gold, and upholstery fabrics of deep green and coral.

Pileated Woodpecker
The pileated woodpecker, near extinction 25 years ago, has staged an almost dramatic comeback. It feeds on big carpenter ants and prevents their spread to other trees.

Garden Tools
After using garden tools, prevent rust by wiping each one with a cloth dipped in kerosene.

Scrutiny of Ancient Wills Shows Beds Prized Bequests

To bequeath a bed as a special favor would seem an odd provision in a will these days. Not so in days past, however, when a bed was a prized possession and considered a choice gift.

Some of the wills bequeathing beds make very interesting reading, and also point out the luxury of the beds. The widow of Edward the Black Prince in 1385 left "to my dear son, the King (Richard the Second), my new bed of red velvet, embroidered with ostrich feathers of silver and heads of leopards of gold, with boughs and leaves issuing out of their mouths."

In 1380, Edmund, Earl of March, willed "Our large bed of black satin, embroidered with white lions and gold roses, with escutcheons of the arms of Mortimer and Ulster."

Early settlers in America also placed great value on their beds, as is shown in the will of Richard Lee of Virginia, dated 1663, which read: "Item. My will and earnest desire is that my household stuff at Stratford be divided into three parts, two of which I give to my son John, and bind him to give to every one of his brothers a bed."

Mary Washington left to her son, General George Washington, her "best Virginia bedstead with the embroidered cloth curtains and a quilted blue and white coverlid."

The description of the beds in these wills would indicate that the beauty of the bedframe and draperies was of first importance, rather than the comfort of the bed. Each bed was made to order, the large, ornate bedframe and lavish, expensive draperies requiring careful workmanship. The finished bed, a costly investment, frequently represented a large share of the owner's fortune, and indicated his social and financial status, too.

Breath-Measuring Device May Lengthen Fruit Life

An oxygen analyzer has been developed to measure the "breath" of citrus, avocados, and other subtropical fruit, and it may help to save much of such fruit lost in storage.

Located in the subtropical horticulture laboratory on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California, it is the first such machine of its kind to be constructed. The device is based upon a similar machine developed for the medical corps during World War II.

Fruit breathes just like human beings do, in the sense that it takes in oxygen and gives off carbon dioxide, points out Dr. Jacob Biale, who is in charge of the laboratory. The oxygen content of the air in which fruit is stored very often determines how long the fruit will last in storage.

The oxygen analyzer measures the oxygen content of incoming and outgoing air in specially devised storage jars of fruit with no interference by other common gases. It is capable of keeping such a record of 24 jars simultaneously.

This record enables Dr. Biale and his assistants to keep track of the respiratory processes of fruit under a wide range of temperature and in combination of gases piped into the fruit. The device is also used to measure respiration in atmosphere high in carbon dioxide and low in oxygen, as well as the effects of ethylene, a gas used to hasten the ripening of fruit.

Hunter's 10 Commandments

The National Safety council reports three causes which lead to almost two-thirds of the accidents usually reported during a hunting season, namely: humans in the line of fire, mistaking humans for game, and hunting with the safety catch off. Here are the 10 commandments of hunting which, if observed, may save a life—and that life may be your own: 1. Treat every gun with respect due a loaded gun. 2. Carry only empty guns into your auto, camp, and home. 3. Always be sure that the barrel, and action are clear of obstruction. 4. Always be able to control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble. 5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. 6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot. 7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first. 8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun. 9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface, or the surface of water. 10. Do not mix gun powder with alcohol.

Atom Radiation Defense

The likelihood of early development of an effective medical defense against radiation sickness, one of the worst effects of an atom bomb explosion, was forecast in a research report by five University of Rochester scientists. Their experiments with whole body x-radiation of hundreds of animals exposed to lethal doses of x-radiation have resulted in what is believed to be the most promising lead yet uncovered for treatment of penetrating radiation like that produced by an atom bomb. One human patient with proven lymphoma (malignant tumor) of the liver of an advanced type was treated successfully. The results also may have great potential value in treating cancer and other diseases, and safeguarding atomic research personnel in the handling of fissionable materials.

Private Planes Fail to Match Use Prediction

CHICAGO. — A postwar world where everyone flew his own airplane and traffic cops of the sky kept the Sunday "flivver-fliers" in line has failed to materialize.

In fact, sales of private airplanes in 1949 ran approximately to only 6,000, whereas it had been freely predicted that more than a half-million civil aircraft would be in operation within 10 years after the war. Compared with 1946, when manufacturers sold 35,000 light planes for personal flying, the 1949 total was down some 600 percent.

Causes for the slump in sales of airplanes are legion says Leslie A. Bryan, director of University of Illinois' institute of aviation. He attributes chief costs to the still high prices on aircraft. Poor marketing may be another, he adds, plus high operating costs, limited utility, lack of safety, high depreciation, high insurance costs, inadequate service facilities and disturbing noises.

However, he pointed out that all these factors were similarly troublesome in the early years of the automobile.

Causes Lessening

Bryan said he found that most of these causes are lessening, just as they did with the progress of the horseless carriage. It is only a question of how soon, he says, there will be a transportation medium combining the best in the plane and the best in the automobile, although better than either is today.

Nevertheless, during the last year declines appeared in the number of airports, private pilot certificates issued, flight schools in operation, and personal aircraft manufactured. He sums up these elements of the private flying picture this way:

Airports—"It is probable 7,500 properly located airports would give a passably adequate landing area coverage for the United States," he says, adding that at the start of this year there were 6,414, with Texas in the lead with 624.

In addition, the airport operators council estimates $77 million dollars is available in state and municipally sponsored funds to match money granted under the Federal Airport Act for airport construction.

Half-Million Pilots

Pilots—There are now about 500,000 licensed airmen in the United States, or about five pilots for every registered airplane. Of this number, 10,000 are certificated air-line transport pilots, 210,000 commercial and 280,000 private. Then, there are over 100,000 student pilots.

Flight instruction now averages around $8.50 an hour, compared to $25 an hour and more before the war. It takes between 30 and 40 hours of instruction to obtain a private pilot license, including at least 10 hours of dual instruction.

"In many respects the present-day 35-hour pilot is equivalent or superior to the 200-hour pilot of 20 years ago, because of better standards of controlled instruction," Bryan declares. "Air training is now an established part of education in many schools, being taught both as a vocational and as a cultural subject."

Billie Burke Keeps Vitality By Standing on Her Head

NEW YORK.—Billie Burke, perennial comedienne of stage and screen, has a bubbling vitality that is the envy of myriad people half her age. How does she do it, they ask.

She does it by standing on her head.

That's no flip crack, it's a fact. In a recent interview, she declared she spends at least 10 minutes standing on her head, turning somersaults and stretching.

She revealed one or two secrets that make it possible for one who was on the stage 50 years ago to look as young and pretty and be as vivacious as she is. She said that standing on her head is part of it.

"It gets the blood to the brain," she explained, "and that's good for any thinking that has to be done. I suppose it's also good for my feet and the rest of me."

Recalling that the great Caruso had once asked her to marry him she said she had answered "no" because of the tenor's two big sons.

"I told him I just couldn't figure out what I could do with those two huge creatures and that seemed to end our romance."

Cincinnati Police Present New Halloween Procedure

CINCINNATI.—The local police department came up with something for Halloween which ought to end a lot of policemen's troubles if adopted generally in the future. Instead of their chasing the pranksters that night, they had the pranksters chasing them.

Why? The answer was so simple everyone wondered why he hadn't thought of it. The police simply gave away 10,000 bags of pretzels to the kids, the distribution being via police cruisers.

THE LEGEND OF THE WEeping EUCALYPTUS

Carlsbad California, while a small city, is well known. This feature contains the legend of the world famous weeping Eucalyptus tree at Carlsbad Hotel by the Sea.

Carlsbad Hotel has provided rest, recreation, and a friendly atmosphere to strangers for three-fourths of a century. The claim is made that the world's finest beach is at "Carlsbad Hotel by the Sea." Whether it is entitled to that honor or not, it can at least be said that the beach is one of the finest.

The old hotel in the course of time was replaced by the present Carlsbad Hotel. The Spanish exterior hides the modern steel and concrete construction. Mother Nature has generously lavished her wealth upon Carlsbad and her environs. Some writer has said of Carlsbad, "A million mental miles away, but only 90 miles south of Los Angeles on Coast Highway 101." Other things of interest in and near this city are: S. D. Army and Navy Military Academy; California Carlsbad Mineral Springs Hotel; Royal Palms Inn; Twin Inns, and motels.

"For hundreds of years weary travellers paused beneath the sweeping branches of this tree to marvel at its beauty and dignity and to stand in its ever present shade."

There are many varieties of the Eucalyptus trees. They are natives of Australia. In the early days of California they were brought there by the Spaniards. So far as is known only one tree has grown in the spreading manner peculiar to the one in the patio of the Carlsbad Hotel. On Friday afternoon, August 18, 1950, the writer of this article stood under this weeping Eucalyptus tree.

Don Carlos Fernando Osuna, one of the best known of the early Spanish settlers, had a beautiful daughter, Senorita Rosita Roja, "Red Rose." Her sweetheart was captain of a Spanish ship and Rosita would sit under a tall tree awaiting her lover's return, when they would be wed. After many months she received a message that his ship was wrecked and all on board had perished. The shock was so great that Rosita died of a broken heart.

Upon her death the tree's stalwart limbs began to bow, its branches drooped and the leaves would fall like tears, as if weeping for the fair Rosita, and it has grown that way ever since. Years have passed but thousands of visitors still travel many miles to marvel at the continued growth of this unique specimen of the stately Eucalyptus.

FEESERSBURG

Western Maryland College opened its 84th year Monday when 200 freshmen reported to the campus in Westminster for a four day orientation program. Classes will start Friday for more than 700 students who will register Thursday. Among the students registering from the Union Bridge area are: Miss Betty Lou Brandenburg, Miss Imogene Weybright, Miss Darse Quesinberry, David Buffington, Roger Eyer and Fred Keefer.

The Children's Aid Society of Carroll County has announced that the annual financial campaign will be October 9 through the 21st. The fund campaign goal for this year is $6,000. The Children's Aid Society has been in operation for 21 years and has accomplished many notable objectives throughout this period. This society is not a relief agency but it cares for the children who are the unfortunate victims of social and domestic maladjustments. These children, under the society's care, come largely from broken and undesirable homes. The society recognizes that the citizens of Carroll County are responsible for these neglected children and endeavor to give them the proper guidance and attention they so badly need. Mrs. Landon C. Burns is president; Miss Bonnie M. Custer is director; F. Kale Mathias is campaign director for 1950; Mrs. Truman Myers is chairman of the Union Bridge district and Mrs. Marshall Bell is chairman of the Middleburg district.

Miss Kathleen Winters, daughter of Mrs. Roy Winters and the late Mr. Winters, of Union Bridge, was married to Charles Devilliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Devilliss, of Uniontown in the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 9th. The Rev. Donald Warrenfeltz, performed the ceremony.

This week many parents received a letter from their children's teacher asking them to come in and discuss their children's problems. This is a step in the right direction for a closer co-operation is needed between parents and teachers. Too many parents wait until something is wrong before meeting their child's teacher. The school teacher is a very important person in a child's life and never, never should a parent criticize a teacher when the child is present, for next to his immediate family the teacher has more influence and more interest in the child than anyone else. To destroy the trust and faith of a child in his school teacher by being too critical will do the child more harm than being too tolerant of a maladjusted teacher. For there are a few persons in the teaching profession who have no sympathy for children, but happily they are only a few. From a child's point of view what characteristics make for a good teacher? My own ten year old says there are four things: Have no favorites; be strict but fair; never humiliate or embarrass a child; don't give home work.

The Hoke-Roelke family reunion was held at Pipe Creek Park on Sunday with members of the family attending from Washington, Fall's Church, Va., Frederick and Carroll County. The Musical Melodiers furnished music and William Hussey showed movies of the family reunion held the previous year. There were approximately 100 present.

An extra blanket added to the comfort of sleeping over the weekend. Night-time temperatures dropped to the mid 40's the lowest they have gotten this month. An occasional assist from furnaces or stoves made it cozier indoors.

We hear so much about better motor cars being built that it is too bad we cannot have some better drivers to go with them.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fink, were: Mr. and Mrs. William Leitz, of Baltimore and Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Fink, of Damascus.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Myers and children, spent part of their vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bohn last week.

We live in dramatic times, a privilege that many of us would gladly dispense with, if we could know the peace and serenity of yesteryears. However, these times are not without their compensations. Of the very few things that seem unchanged, the kindness and good will of one's neighbors stand out against the harshness of reality. Hardly a day goes by but by some gesture or deed one is reminded that life would be unbearable if there weren't people "just over the field" or down the road" who understands the true meaning of "love thy neighbor as thyself."

During the last war one can remember the many shortages which included housing, tires, gasoline, soap, nylons, cigarettes and many others. Now a much more vital commodity has been added to the list—handpower. Electric power too may be mighty scarce in some areas.

Judy Willard has been absent from school for several days due to a bad cold. She has been greatly missed by her classmates.

Bruce Cover, of New York City was a guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walden, of Middleburg.

Mrs. Frank Martin was given a surprise birthday party Tuesday evening at her home by friends and relatives. Those who helped make the evening a memorable one were: Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lease and son, Mr. and Mrs. Ben King, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Keyton,

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowman and son, David; Mrs. Ruth Martin and daughter, Esther; Miss Irene Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Fogle and daughter, Dianne; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buffington, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Martin, Miss Charlotte Buffington, Mrs. Maude Martin and Frank Martin. Mrs. Martin received many beautiful gifts and cards which were tokens of the esteem and appreciation her many friends have for her kindness and her good neighbor policy which she practices in her daily living.

Mr. Lowell Birely is a patient at the University Hospital, in Baltimore where he is responding satisfactorily to treatment. He is expected to return to his home in Union Bridge in the near future.

Miss Charlotte Buffington spent the week-end with the Frank Martins.

Dr. Thomas Legg entertained the political candidates of the Democratic party of Carroll County and leaders at an old-fashioned political get-together Friday evening at Clear Ridge Inn. The impression one gets from meeting this group of men and women is that the Carroll county voters are fortunate in having such men and women willing to run for public office. One cannot help but feel that they will serve the majority of the people to the best of their physical, mental and moral ability.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Broadwater have closed the Birely home at Feesersburg for the summer and have returned to their home in Union Bridge.

Promise yourself today, to think only of the best, to work only for the best and to expect only the best. And remember your temper, ungoverned, governs you. Washington Irving said that a good temper, like a sunny day, makes everything bright, and that good nature like oil on the troubled sea of thought keeps the mind smooth in the roughest kind of weather.

On Sunday afternoon I had a caller by the name of James Selby Harney, of Arlington, Va., who was seeking some information on how Harney got its name. He is a great nephew and name sake of General Harney who is buried in Arlington, Va. cemetery near where he resides. He wanted to know if this was the Harney that was named after his great uncle of course I told him I had heard many times Gen. Harney had named it when he had passed through but what he wanted to know was what he was doing here. He, wife and two daughters were just passing through on Sunday, now does any one have any records of Gen. Harney or where and when Harney really got its name. I have lived in Harney for 67 years at the same house and worked in my brother, Mark R. Snider's store 20 years and heard discussed by the men who gather there daily.

Mr. J. Wm. Reck a correspondent of the Carroll Record wrote several installments in the Record of how Harney got its name. Some 40 or 50 years ago was wandering if any one might have these copies. I have no records of it. I have been told by some of my city friends that Harney was not on the map. Well I have always said there are worse places than Harney and can remember some very fine young men as well as women

FILM ON HEART DISEASE TO SHOW AT EARLE THEATRE

Be Your Age is a motion picture which everyone over 30 should see, according to Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health. This is a public service film which will be shown at the Earle Theater on Sept. 25-26, Monday, Tuesday. "Many of the 7,748 residents of Maryland who died of heart disease last year," Dr. Riley stated, "would still be alive if they had given their hearts the consideration that nature requires. In 1949, heart disease caused more than one-third of the total resident deaths in Maryland and more than twice as many deaths as any other major disease."

"Be Your Age," continued Dr. Riley, "is recommended by the Maryland State Department of Health. It is a film which encourages caution, but also changes fear to confidence and hope. It will broaden everyone's understanding of the human heart and how to protect it."

The film is co-sponsored by the American Heart Association and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. It had its premiere in Radio City Music Hall, New York, and has been shown in a number of States. Many other public theatres in Maryland are booking the picture as a public service. The film will be shown at 7 and 9 o'clock on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 25 and 26th according to Mr. Kenneth Clem, Manager of the Earle Theater.

THIS 'N' THAT

Chiang from that nice General MacArthur! If you have seen the photograph in "Life" you will know exactly what I mean!
It is fascinating to walk through the old Court House in Westminster with its charming interior and then to note all the experienced young men engaged in the offices! Henry Ford always said, "Give me a man over 40!" There is something of Colonial Days about that building. What an atmosphere for a scene in a movie with its wonderful architecture. One can picture the Colonial Belles in their manner of dress on the entrance steps!

The Executive of "The State Roads" with his men are surely keeping the Highways in excellent condition. Since all this has taken place not one accident has occurred in front of "Loves' Retreat" where formerly there would be accidents weekly without having been reported—the drivers setting it between themselves.

Now, here's to any automobile business and the shoe will fit one in Carroll County! An elderly man called to have his car repaired and the company told him it was beyond repairing, selling him on the idea of purchasing a "Good used One!" Your Observer knows that all used cars are sold with the guarantee of 30 days and a new car 60 to 90 days. (Depends upon the concern) the gentleman had trouble with the car almost immediately which he purchased—this good used one—and he returned it to be repaired for running condition. Upon completion, he was amazed to be handed a bill for $200.00 yet the car was supposed to be in tiptop shape which was the understanding when purchased! That queers Your Observer of ever purchasing the next car from that concern! What advertising! Two of the most honorable men I have ever met in the automobile business is that fine Christian mechanic over at Middleburg and that Ford man in Littlestown!

Folks, honesty pays in every walk in life no matter what the nature of the business. In Baltimore—Hochschild Kohn Co., is just about the finest. Here's my personal story and experience. Previous to my marriage, I was offered during the holidays a very nice position selling Jewelry with a very big jewelry concern. I was having a crystal placed on my watch and the watch maker and I were talking while he replaced the broken crystal. Suddenly, a very tall and stately appearing gentleman walked out of the mahogany private office and stood near the window, too where I was awaiting the completion of my errand. I soon learned through a few words which passed between the watchmaker and this man that the latter the President. Turning to me he said, "I just heard you speak and you were so convincing that I would like to offer you a position here as a saleslady and offer suggestions to the customer. I have seven salesmen but we need a lady just like you!"

You can readily understand, folks how very much surprised I was. As this executive continued making the business transaction most interesting I interrupted with, "I am sorry but I have never sold jewelry in my life!" I went on to explain further that my line was interior decorating but I promised to let him know if I would accept the position just for the holidays.

Interior decorating is always quiet from November until March and instead of going South for my vacation I accepted the position for December, January and February. I was the only saleslady in that lovely store as there were seven elderly salesmen who had been with the concern for many years. Soon, I had regular customers simply because I told them the truth about any piece of jewelry and would offer them original suggestions and ideas depending upon the individual for whom they were making the purchases. The customers realized they could depend on me and what is more important in life than being substantial. I never did under $2,000 a day business for that concern! It pays and pays and pays to be honest. Folks! Why can't all business houses do that?

So long, folks! Will be seeing you next week. D.V. Have a grand weekend. Be good and be careful and always remember to take an interest in life and life will be interested in you! I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

The Golden Rule Class of the E. U. B. S. S. will hold a bake sale at the public sale of Emory Hahn, on Saturday, September 30th.

Do You Want To Cut
Your Federal Taxes?

Overlapping Bureaus

The Executive Department of the Federal Government has grown from small beginnings into a mighty colossus composed of 1,812 separate bureaus and agencies employing 2-090,554 civilian workers with an annual payroll of more than $6,000,000-000.00.

This growth was haphazard. What happened was that when a job needed to be done, an agency was hurriedly set up by executive order, or created by Congress. We are now paying for all these mistakes.

On July 7, 1947, Congress authorized, by unanimous vote, the launching of the greatest effort yet made to plan an efficient, economical government reorganization. With the approval of President Truman, a bi-partisan, twelve-man commission, headed by former President Hoover, was established. This Commission found many discouraging examples of the confusion in our government machinery, and has made concrete suggestion to correct these ills.

As matters stand, when you attempt to deal with your government, you will find 34 agencies engaged in obtaining land, 10 in Federal construction work, 9 in credit and finance and 50 in gathering statistics. A rancher desiring to pasture his livestock on public lands must obtain separate permits, each containing different terms and conditions, from both the Department of Interior and the Department of Agriculture.

The Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau cost the taxpayers untold millions of dollars through duplication of effort on water resources development. As an instance of this wasteful duplication, the Hungry Horse Project in Montana was estimated to cost $6,300,000. The actual cost was $93,500,000.

In New Orleans, there are 5 Federal hospitals operated separately by different branches of the government.
Their joint capacity is 1,620 beds.
When surveyed, they had a total of 913 patients.

If you want this waste and inefficiency stopped, write your Congressman. Write the Citizens Committee for Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government, 1421 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia 2,
Pennsylvania, for further information.
Get your neighbors to work with you in this crusade.

Land o' Lakes

Minnesota, "Land of Ten Thousand Lakes," really has more than 11,000. The total includes no less than 99 named Long Lake, and 91 named Mud Lake.

Wise Gardeners

A MAN said to his neighbor, "Tell me how you keep your lawn uniformly fine year after year."
The neighbor replied, "For many years I have made a practice of planting clover and other good seed in each spot from which a weed has been eradicated."

Similarly, to cultivate beauties of character we must willingly uproot weeds of selfishness and materialism and plant seeds of honesty, courage, brotherly kindness, affection, and other qualities of spiritual value.
Said Paul (Galatians 5:22, 23), "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness,
faith, meekness, temperance."

... The man of God's creating has no undesirable traits of character, no bad habits. He is pure, upright, and free.

To the senses man appears to be a mortal and to have a mind capable of evil. But the seeming reality of the carnal mind yields to our faithful endeavor to demonstrate the oneness and allness of God, divine Mind. We must surrender self-will, self-righteousness, self-love, self-justification, and self-pity; we must reject resentment, hatred, and fear and cast them aside as unworthy and unlike the true selfhood of man made in God's likeness. Then will the ugliness of mortality yield to the beauty of holiness.

Pointing out the need of persistent effort in the right direction Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, says (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 343):
"The weeds of mortal mind are not always destroyed by the first uprooting; they reappear, like devastating witch-grass, to choke the coming clover. O stupid gardeners!
watch their reappearing, and tear them away from their native soil, until no seedling be left to propagate
—and rot."

... Diseased beliefs must be uprooted and replaced with perfect concepts, with the knowledge that divine Love reigns and there is no power to interfere with His government. Fear of weather, of old age, of contagion, of heredity or of accident will give place to harmony in the spiritually healthy state of consciousness where faith, joy, and gratitude reign.

If we are alert and diligent in uprooting weeds of idle and evil thinking, and equally alert in planting the good seed of spiritualized thought, we shall see them grow and unfold in lives of spiritual beauty, radiant with health and holiness.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Great Thunder!

fected methods for making stronger containers, low atmospheric pressure during thunderstorms frequently caused champagne bottles

Worship of the Moon

Among ancient peoples of southern Arabia, the moon god was the supreme deity rather than the sun god so popular in other places. In these hot desert lands, where the sun's rays sear and burn by day, night offers the pleasant time for travel and toil. Hence worship of the moon grew up with the nomad's use of it to light their way and to figure time and dates by its phases.

Electric Batteries

Electric batteries, for ringing doorbells are frequently placed in very insecure locations, so that a slight pull upon the loose terminal wire may precipitate the battery upon the head of the unwary. If ordinary cells are used they should be placed in a box. It is more satisfactory to operate a bell from a bell-ringing transformer, if electric service is available.

Wright's First Plane

Man today can fly faster than any bird because a man named Orville Wright and his brother, Wilbur, had the vision necessary to invent the first successful airplane. The Wrights' first plane rose and stayed in the air 12 seconds and was landed safely.

When to House Pullets

As long as pullets remain in good health, the pastures are green, and the weather is favorable, pullets can stay on the range. But when cold, rainy weather arrives, it is better to put the pullets in the laying house.

Reduce Farm Costs

Cutting costs of production is one way to make up for lower farm prices. Another way is better marketing of farm products. Greater efficiency in the use of land, labor, and machinery is suggested.

Light, but Strong

Although titanium is so difficult to refine that it does not promise to compete in price with aluminum, copper, and steel, its unusual strength, lightness, and defiance of corrosion are invitations to enterprising scientists and engineers.

Gastroenteritis

Transmissible gastroenteritis — which causes scouring, vomiting, and heavy death losses—has become one of the nation's most costly baby pig diseases, according to the American Veterinary Medical association.

Immune to Colds

Attempts to pass colds around the animal world have failed completely. Only three—man, the chimpanzee and the orangutan—have shown any tendency to catch cold.

Salvation Army Schools
The International Salvation Army operates 1,078 day schools in various parts of the world.

Staff of Life

About 40 million loaves of bread are consumed in the United States every day, according to the American Bakers association. That's more loaves than there are families.

Lord of Roanoke

The first title of English nobility issued in America was to the Indian Manteo, who was named Lord of Roanoke on Roanoke Island, N. C., 1587.

Cottage Cheese
Remember to serve cottage cheese and other soft cheeses soon after you buy them, as they spoil rapidly.

Pasture for Pigs

Good pasture reduces the cost of feeding pigs. One acre of alfalfa furnishes enough pasture for 18 to 20 pigs throughout the summer.

House Plants

Leaves of house plants should be kept free from dust. Wipe them gently with a soft, slightly dampened cloth.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

World Evangelist

Lesson for September 24, 1950

IT IS not only the ignorant and the prejudiced who claim that Protestant Christianity did not start till the 17th Century. Even Protestants can make this mistake. The real founder of Protestantism is Saint Paul. What the Reformers of the 17th Century did was to re-discover Paul. The doctrines of Protestantism are not some peculiar invention of Luther, nor a vagary nor a quirk, still less a heresy; they are simply Christianity according to Saint Paul. If for no other reason, Paul is one of the most important figures in Christian history, perhaps in all history.

Dr. Foreman

The World is My Parish

THERE is another reason why Paul is important. It is not too much to say that if it had not been for him, there never would have been any Christianity, as a world-religion. It would have died as a Jewish sect.

What the history of the world would have been in that case, God only knows. But although our so-called Christian era is still not exactly Christian, it is vastly different from what it would have been if Christianity had been no more (say) than Essenism, a word you would have to look up in the encyclopedia, an antique and forgotten sect.

To many un-named Christians, but to Paul more than any other person, we owe the fact that ours is a religion with a world-outlook.

First Great Missionary

PAUL was not a typical Christian any more than George Washington was a typical American. To this day, missionaries can hardly be called typical Christians. They are far too few, and their quality is far too high, to stand for the "average" Christian—who in fact does not even understand missionaries, as a rule. Nevertheless, the missionary now as in Paul's time is the burning-point of Christianity, the front-line patrol, the cutting edge. . . . What made Paul a missionary makes missionaries today. One thing was his vital experience of Christ. Jesus, for Paul, was not somebody he had read about in a book, he was not a statue on an altar or a picture in a museum, he was not a definition in a catechism. Jesus was Someone he had met on the Damascus Road.

Second, Paul loved people, all kinds of people. (After his conversion, not before!) He could see in the most pitiful little moron of a slave-girl, the meanest jailer, a sister or brother for whom Christ died, as he put it. Nowadays you sometimes hear church people saying about others outside the church, "They're not our kind. They wouldn't make good Presbyterians (or Baptists or whatever the speaker's church may be)." It never occurred to Paul that anybody would not make a good Christian, if only Jesus Christ got hold of him.

Furthermore, Paul had a world-horizon. There are hole-and-corner Christians and there are world-Christians. Paul was a world-Christian. He "thought big." To this day, the wide-horizon, big-thinking Christians are either out there on the mission field, somewhere, or they are supporting missions with all their might.

Bibles Across the Sea

THERE is one thing which you, reader of these lines, can do right now, if you have some of this world-vision. This week, today, you can help in a great missionary enterprise which is not confined to any denomination.

Over in Japan, General MacArthur says, Christianity and the Bible are the dykes holding up the flood of Communism. Dr. Shiro Murata, a Japanese Christian, also says: "The eyes of Japan are fixed on two books. One is Das Kapital by Karl Marx. The other is the Holy Bible. Japan is at the crossroads."

A campaign is being conducted this year to send to Japan five million Bibles and Testaments. The Japanese can read; they have the largest non-Christian population in the world reading one language. Through your local church, or even by yourself, you can contribute to this great undertaking to bring the Bible to people sorely needing it.
