ROD AND GUN CLUB MEMBERS
MEET

About twenty-five members of the Taneytown Rod and Gun Club were in attendance at the regular meeting of the club last Friday evening. The club met in the Municipal building with the President Howell Royer presiding.

This club is very active as witnessed in the fine ground East of Tan-eytown improved by a large impounded body of water forming a large lake that is the property of the club. The lake was stocked with fish several years ago and the finny tribe will be ready for the fishermen—members and their guests about July 1st of this year. A hard road from Taneytown leads to the grounds. Several shooting traps are now in operation for sportsmen. A number of trees will be planted this spring.

Among the business items considered at this meeting was a large club house. The enthusiasm was high and the members felt that with liberal financial assistance this project could be realized. It was voted to purchase some of the building materials for the club house and additional plans will be made for the erection of the building in the near future.

Venison sandwiches and coffee were served following the meeting.

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church Celebrates Its 200th Anniversary

With the passing of nineteen hundred and fifty Trinity Lutheran church, Taneytown, completed two hundred years of christian service. "The first accurate record is known as "Book A" of the records of the church." This was started by the Rev. John Guenther Wingandt, pastor, n 1792. It is interesting to note that down through these years, and including the present, there have been in the church descendants of two of the first councilmen. They were: Michael Null and Matthew Shriner. Records of 1805 give us familiar last names, Michael Null, Jacob Buffington and David Kephart. Also records of 1828 and 1844 give the names of Samuel Naill, Henry Clutz, David Buffington and Benjamin Shunk. Descendants of these are now faithful members. Other familiar names of the very early church are Tobias Rudisil, Doctor Samuel Swope and Ulrich Reaver. There are no known descendants of these men who are now members; they were until they moved from the community. They like to come back and attend its services.

Another item of interest is that David Kephart and Abraham Null, on the 10th of September, in the year 1811, had part in the laying of the corner stone of the first brick church. The corner stone of our present building is the same stone and the leaden box in it is the same box, that was laid in 1811. It is fitting that the congregation in recognition of the noble heritage that is theirs should celebrate. On the evenings of January 22, 23 and 25th a pageant telling of its early beginnings and work will be given in the church. An article giving a synopsis of the pageant will appear in next week's issue. Some Descendants of the early church fathers will have part in the pageant.

WHAT ABOUT STALIN

Is war inevitable? We think it is but not now. Perhaps in five, ten, or fifteen years. It will come when Stalin thinks he is strong enough to master the world. He reckons, however without considering our potentiality. We have the men, the money and equipment. We will never start a war and will never stop when started until we finish it. The bloodiest war in all history was the Civil War and that was because Americans fought Americans. If Russia has the Atomic bomb (and she has) and the H-bomb (and she probably has) the war when started will be one of extermination. No one can envision the terribleness of such a conflict. Pray God it never comes. W. J. H.

Way to Beat London 'Smog' Discovered by Britishers

British scientists believe they have discovered how to beat 'smog, the dense pall of smoke which has for 100 years fouled the air over every industrial city. As in Pitts-burgh and other U. S. centers, research has been going ahead in Britain to wipe out this health hazard. Now, a simple device to abolish smog has been developed by the fuel research laboratory in London.

The first task of the scientists was to discover what causes smoke to form in furnaces using normal boiler fuel

Experiments at the fuel research laboratory showed that the essential factor was insufficient oxygen, which prevented complete combustion of the fuel.

At the bottom of a normal boiler furnace is a bed of blazing fuel about seven inches thick which relies on an up-draught of air for its oxygen. Scientists discovered that the oxygen in this current of air was exhausted by the first four inches of the fire.

Combustion without oxygen being impossible, all the coal above the four inch level was merely being heated and vaporized. The heat from the fire below had the effect of breaking down the fuel into a variety of substances formng a yellow-brown smoke.

These volatile substances amount to nearly one-third of the coal's weight. In other words, a third of the coal was wasted.

The problem of smoke elimination was therefore found to be that of mixing sufficient air with these gases to ensure that they are completely burned before leaving the stack. Complete combustion is es-If the gases are merely heated they are broken down into small specks of black carbon which cause the formation of black

Search for International Calendar Still Pursued

When it's September 24, 1949, by the western world's Gregorian calendar, what date is it in Tel Aviv, Addis Ababa, and Peiping?

Recent official adoption of the Hebrew calendar by the new state of Israel surprised no one. To all in international trade and diplomacy, however, it points up an old problem. The many year-and-era reckoning systems in use today throughout the world confound, just as the scores of languages and dialects confuse.

So vexatious is the calendar problem internationally that the search for a system readily translatable into all others has gone on for at least a century. The old League of Nations considered some 500 calendar proposals in its day, and the United Nations now carries on the quest for simplification. In India and Pakistan alone, 14 calendar systems are locally important in addition to the widely used Gregorian, Mohammedan, and Hebrew.

Each of the many systems is tied to a distinct era of time, beginning with an event of great importance to those whose lives it paces. All recognize the solar year of approximately 3651/4 days as the calendar's keystone, even though some take many years to balance their calendar with the sun-year's

Immune Against Lightning

Planes surrounded by all-metal "skins" are practically immune against lightning strokes, according to Julius H. Hagenguth, lightning expert. In a paper prepared for presentation before a convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Hagenguth described results of experiments on lightning stroke damage to aircraft conducted throughout several years in colaboration with the national advisory committee for aeronautics. The G-E scientist is engineer in charge of the company's high voltage engineering laboratory at Pittsfield, Mass., world's largest artificial lightning center, where the tests were conducted.

Poultry Leg Tendons

Edibility of poultry "drumsticks," especially in the case of turkeys, can be greatly improved by removing the tendons prior to cooking. There are usually nine tendons on each leg, seven on the rear and two on the front of the leg. They can be removed easily by making a lengthwise incision in the skin, slipping a nail or hook under the tendons one at a time and giving a steady pull. Patented tendon pullers are available on the market for those who have many birds to prepare.

How Paint Is Used

About 60 per cent of the total quantity of paint produced in the United States is used for general painting purposes—the painting of homes, buildings, factories, and the maintenance of equipment. The remaining 40 per cent appears on the market in the form of special ized product finishes. These are the materials for the finishing of industrial production of all kinds. Much of this is highly technical and "tailor made" to suit exacting requirements under varying condi-

Magazine Would Rip 'Jazz' Out Of Word Usage

MILWAUKEE, WIS. - The word "jazz," long an honored word in a wide circle of Americans, a word which became a synonym for an era in American manners and mores, will disappear from the language if a magazine called Downbeat has its way.

A horrid word to certain refined ears, the word "jazz" may be stricken from the language, root and branch and, likewise, root and

The magazine hereinbefore referred to has announced a prize of $1,000 for the best word to replace 'jazz." The second prize will be a full night's free service of the Charlie Barnet band, and third will be the same privilege with the King Cole trio.

palpitating jazzman might imagine some of the delightful suggestions that are snowing down on the editors of Downbeat. What would they say to such examples as "jumpmusic," or "hotarmony" or "ticklear," or "syncotune," or "dizzart," or "bopera?" Perhaps any of these might add something worthwhile to our vocabulary.

It is almost as difficult to find where "jazz" came from as to figure where, if anywhere, it is going. For one thing, "jazz" is Creole for "hurry up." Another suggestion is that "jazz" is an all African term for sing and jump, "Jazzbo" Brown used to give out with a spirited brand of music that had the customers clamoring for "Jazzbo," and "Jazz."

Charlie (Chaz) Washington, Vicksburg drummer, had the same exhilarating effect upon his audi-

"Jaser" is a French word for "chatter" or "gossip."

But however jazz came into the language, some 50 or 60 years ago. it certainly has held on. When Pau! Whiteman was the king of the craft he called his book "Jazz" and the fanciful French fancier of the art. Hugues Panassie, issues learned tomes on "le jazz hot."

No Easy Chore

The scholars of Downbeat will discover that it is no easy chore to toss out a popular locution. They will dutifully award their prizes for jazz replacement and will be mortified to hear the irreverent usage of the word "jazz" from then on indefinitely, just the same.

When the prohibition era ended, for example, laws were passed to ban the use of the word "saloon." It was felt that "tavern" had a more wholesome, ethical sound. But there are the unregenerate souls who still talk about "going over to the corner saloon." Actors and entertainers in the cabaret circuits speak of themselves as "working in the saloons." himself as being in the saloon business and night club chronicles call themselves "saloon editors." Warrants are expected for all of them hourly. There are elements of the brewing industry that find the word "bartender" distasteful. They have suggested that term "retail sales-clean gags.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY. - It was a rough day for the GI's here as one of what they regarded as the biggest snafu's in Pentagon history got underway.

A directive stating that the women's army corps (WAC) shall remain unarmed was allowed to lapse. On that day, 21 determined members of the Frankfurt detachment of WAC's went out on the range for the first time.

They meant business. Garbed in baggy fatigue uniforms, hair caresquashed under steel helmets, they marched gaily to the Vilberg small - arms range, their .30 caliber carbines carried at the

Canary

Bird Turns Stool Pigeon

DETROIT. - A kidnaped canary turned stool pigeon and landed his somewhat dubious owner in police court.

When a woman store detective noticed Mrs. Irene Zaja punching holes in the shopping bag she was carrying, the detective confronted her.

Mrs. Zaja was denying having taken anything from the store's pet department without paying for it, when from the bag came a plaintive "cheep, cheep.

Mrs. Zaja pleaded guilty to a charge of simple larceny and received a suspended sentence for taking one of the store's prize songsters.

"My husband is away from home a lot," she said, "and I'm lonesome. I thought a canary would be a good companion.'

1,000 Women Serve As Test Subjects For Cosmetic Shop

NEW YORK .- More than a thousand women-from teen-agers to septuagenarians, are voluntary guinea pigs for a cosmetic testing laboratory here.

The women live in a strange halfand-half beauty world of their own. If a home permanent is being tested, only half a head gets the permanent. The other half may get a rival permanent, or is left un-touched as a way of making comparisons. The same is true of shampoos.

A depilatory being investigated is applied to one leg. The other remains untouched as a control. a like manner, creams, makeup, deodorants, skin preparations and other cosmetics are compared. All are nationally distributed products, whose names you'd recognize in-

And they get valuable beauty shop treatments at the hands of skilled operators. In a given period a woman gets six to eight shampoos, a permanent wave and the finest materials administered by skilled operators.

The purpose of the laboratory, Coneybear says, is to evaluate a cosmetic long before it is placed on sale. Answers to these questions are sought: Is it safe? Is it efficient? Has it esthetic appeal?

To obtain this information hundreds of women have been offering the use of their scalps, faces, arms and legs since 1922, when the service was begun. Recruiting has been no problem at all, strange as it may Word of mouth alone has provided volunteers in sufficient

'Dejobulated' Employe Makes Wistful Plea for Job Back

LONDON .- A British colonial office in Nigeria has reported receiving the wistful plea from a west African native who suddenly found himself out of a job with the colonial agency

"Dear Sir: On opening this epistle you will behold the work of a dejobbed person and a very bewildered and much childrenized gentleman who was violently dejobbed in a twinkling by your good self.

"For heaven's sake, sir, consider this catastrophe as falling on your own head, and remind yourself on walking home at the moon's end to five savage wives and 16 voracious children with your pocket filled with nonexistent pounds, shillings and pence and a solitary sixpence; pity my horrible state.

"As to the reason given by yourself esquire for my dejobment the incrimination was laziness. No sir. It was impossible that myself who pitched 16 children into this vale of tears can have a lazy atom in his mortal frame, and a sudden departure of 11 pounds has left me on the verge of destitution and despair.

"I hope this vision of horror will enrich your dreams this night and the good angel will melt and pulverize your heart of nether milestone so that you will awaken with such alacrity to rejobulate your servant. So mote it be, Amen." Officials here did not know whether the dejobbed west African was reassociated with his job. This Society Makes Good

On Claims for Members

NEWYORK. - The Brooklyn Benevolent Uplift society doesn't do things by halves. Greatly irked when two of its members were accused of robbery, the society went right to work to prove their innocence in the most complete way they knew how-they nabbed the real culprits.

Two BUS members in good standing were arrested after they were tentatively identified as the pair who held up two cab drivers Saturday and robbed them of $20 each. They protested they were innocent. So did the society.

When that didn't do any good, leaders of the society left the police station to "see what we can do." Two hours later a dozen husky members strode back into the station with two men in tow.

KIWANIS NEWS

The regularly scheduled meeting of the Taneytown Kiwanis Club was held on Dec. 27, 1950, at Taney Inn with Vice-President David Smith presiding. The invocation was given by the Rev. Miles S. Reifsnyder.

Guests at the meeting included James Mitchell, of Baltimore, who was the guest of Arch Carpenter, and Kiwanian Homer Sackett of the Westminster Kiwanis Club and his son Charles Sackett.

Group singing as usual was under the direction of Wallace Reindollar, chairman of the Music Committee, with Mrs. Estella Yingling as accom-

President Lewis Crumpacker made his official report covering the activities of the club for the year 1950. A few of the highlights mentioned included the organization of the Key Club at the Taneytown High School, the annual Crab Feast which was a huge success, and the celebration and observance of National Kids' Day. In the course of his remarks, Kiwanian Crumpacker emphasized the strength and help received by each regular President Lewis Crumpacker made

The dear little lady in Ladiesburg who has been ill so long wrote to Your Observer stating she has real blessings in life even if she does suffer. The blessings were the husband and a daughter and she has also reared 37 children from foster homes.

Thinking of arthritis. As soon as you feel a touch of it in any part of your body visit your doctor immediately. The drug of which I wrote in a recent column must be taken regular-ly and not wait until you have been ill with arthritis for a long time. A ill with arthritis for a long time. A lady phoned stating her husband had tried the drug in the hospital and when he returned home the arthritis did, too. I explained it was years coming and it would be a longer period of time before the husband could be healed. Now, here's one way that may give you relief as it did me. I had it in the left elbow and each night, I wrapped one of those big electric pads around my arm—I bought that Westinghouse pad in 1938. The pain soon vanished after 3 months. Ask your doctor about that one, too.

People are funny! There is a wom-an near Baltimore who actually has three lions for pets. I think I prefer those 37 children all at one time.

Folks, many of you have heard this remark all down through the years—that a house that is divided never stands. That applies, too, to the country of any nation. In these critical times by all means stand by the side of our president and thank God every day that you are an American.

If you don't believe, Mr. Rusiness an that your business will increase by being nice to any customer and at any time, just stand in the store up in Hanover and watch that "Pretzel Man." FEESERSBURG

The annual Pa. State Farm Show will be held this year from Jan. 8 to 12 at Harrisburg. This is the 35th year for the Farm Show and promises to be the biggest and best so far. There will be several thousand exhibitors, a campus made up of 50 acres of buildings and grounds and a program which includes lectures, demonstrations, exhibits and meetings. Heavy farm machinery exhibits will be welcomed back this year. They popular song ever written. It was played and sang 14 hundred times every minute over the radio all over the world in 1950. And have a state of the same of the most disgust of many visitors. Among some of the new attractions will be a wild-life demonstration in transit the display of predatory and benefi-cial birds Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the small arena. A sheep shearing contest will be held in the large Arena Thursday evening and the first sheep dog demonstration in ten years will also be given Thursday evening. No midway type of entertainment is allowed at the Fair. As the committeemen point out, "I'ne Farm Show is for the improvement and stimulation of a greater Pennsylvania Agriculture only.'

The new year is just three days old but all signs indicate that 1951 will be anything but a dull and unevent-ful year. If it does nothing more for each of us, it will make us do some real soul searching and thinking, and nothing is more distasteful to most of us than thinking. We would much rather have some one else do that.

This is the time of year when most folks start wondering what to do with their Christmas cards. They're too pretty to throw out and too bulky to keep. There is a lady in Washington, D. C. who has been turning her friends' cards into scrap books for the children at the local hospitals. If you would like to send her your cards too, the address is 2733 Ordway St. N. W., and her name is Mrs. Dorothy K. Butler. Incidentally, she'll be glad to have greeting cards of any kind just so they are colorful and have a pretty picture.

Chemists Outsmarted Nature

In recent years, varnish manufacturers were faced with the possibility that they were nearing the end of the supply of the natural resins. These hard, glassy substances were obtained from animal or vegetable matter - the excretions from insects and oozings from trees. As a consequence, manufacturers turned their chemists who developed synthetic resins which are the equal and, in many cases, have even more durability than the natural resins. Today synthetic resins, such as phenolics and alkyds, are being used in constantly increasing quantities.

Parasite Control

Balanced rations not only contribute to the vigor and growth of livestock, but also make it easier to beat the parasite problem, farmers are advised in a bulletin from veterinary medical authorities. For one thing, poorly fed animals are ready victims of parasites, the bulletin explains. In addition, drugs used for worming sometimes cause bad stebacks in animals that have been fed improperly, whereas wellnourished herds and flocks are less likely to suffer harmful effects from such treatment.

PEAK CLIMBER

Californian Holds Record

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.-A retired, real estate man is the first person ever to climb the 67 highest peaks in the United States.

He is John D. Graham, an athletic 53, who claimed the record after scaling North Palisade peak in California, and Grizzly peak in Colorado in a one-week expedition. His goal for 15 years, Graham said in an interview, has been to conquer every U.S. mountain higher than 14,000 feet. He listed 67 such pinnacles. The World Almanac lists

He has clambered up all 14,000 footers in Colorado, California and Washington, Graham said, the only states in which the giants are located.

First Ascent in 1935

He tackled his first mountain during a Colorado vacation in 1935. It was small, but the experience was a challenge.

"It gave me an unusual feeling to be able to see such great distances and such inspiring scenery," he said.

Originally from New York city, Graham had a chance to hike to his heart's content when he moved to Colorado. He said that while he lived in Colorado Springs and Denver before World War II he became the eighth person to climb all 52 of the 14,000 foot peaks in that state.

"Mountain climbing finally gets to be a competition and a chal-lenge," he said. "It's the same feeling of accomplishment you notice after a good score in golf. You match your skill, strength and endurance against the mountain. which can really throw out the ob-

North Palisade Toughest His toughest ascent, Graham said, was his last-North Palisade, a 14,254 footer near Big Pine, Calif. He made it in July, before winter snow and ice had fully melted. Approaching with his party from the north, he crossed the Palisade glacier, the most southerly active glacier in North America. They crossed the Bergschrund, a crevasse in the snow field at the head of the glacier, on an ice bridge. Using ropes and ice axes most of the way, it took them 10 hours to reach the summit.

The descent on the south side was slower. It was getting dark. Graham paused on a narrow cliffside ledge to fasten a rope. A second later he heard a roar and an avalanche of rock and snow tore down the mountain directly in front of him. A huge boulder whizzed by his head. The pause had saved his life.

Russians Claim It Was They Who Invented Tank

MOSCOW.—The Russians were at it again—claiming discoveries made by other countries. This time Pravda, official publication of the Soviet government, claimed the Russians invented the military tank a year and a half before the fighting machine appeared in Britain. Not only that, was the claim, but Russians now have created tanks that have no equal anywhere in the world. The articles were published as the Soviet Union celebrated "tank day." As a further observance of the day, all papers published large portraits of Prime Minister Stalin and the text of an order of the day by Alexander M. Vasilevsky, armed forces minister. This order demanded new successes in the development of armored and mechanized armies. The article in Pravda, the Communist party's organ, was written by Semyon Ilyich Bogdanov, marshal of armed forces. It said: "The facts show that the first tank designs appeared in Russia considerably earlier than people started to work on these questions abroad, and the first models of Russian built tanks were constructed a year and a half earlier than similar machines appeared in

He said the date the first tank was made in Russia was May, 1915.

Ballroom Hula Requires No Grass Skirt Routine

CHICAGO, ILL.-In the first place, a ballroom hula doesn't require a grass skirt, yet, to be a big boy on a ballroom floor these days, one has to know how to do the hula. The Chicago national dancing master's association is authority for the statement.

Despite its name, the association is composed of hundreds of dancing instructors from all over the United States and Canada.

All of them are practicing what they call the "ballroom hula" so they can teach it to their customers. They don't say you have to wear a grass skirt to do it, but even in a nice, conservative suit, undulating hips are going to look odd if they are undulated by, say, a businessman who has eaten not wisely, but too well-and whose contours show it.

Howard Turner, of Tulsa, Okla., says jitterbugging must still be contended with, only they are calling it "swing" again.

Ballroom devotees might as well be on the lookout for the "shuffleboard shuffle," the dancing maestros say, but none had the courage to explain just what it is.

Turkey In The Hay

Dorothy Roseborough

CLETA BROWN was furious. For the third time Seth Jones had caught her turkeys in his alfalfa. Now he was acting as if she had driven them in.

Angrily, Seth ran across the field to head the turkeys from the newly flooded alfalfa. "Can't you keep those dang birds off my place?" Cleta slapped her sunbonnet at Cleta was proving up on her desert claim with a crop of milomaize. The scattering grain made wonderful forage. But the field was some distance from her homestead and the turkeys had to be driven there every day.

Before they started fussing about the turkeys Seth looked at her a lot. Maybe she could make him look at her again with that warm eagerness in his eyes.

THE smell of autumn was in the air the morning Cleta rode into town to enter her tom for the show. Coming home she checked her horse to a walk as she passed Seth's

Then she saw the turkeys were in the alfalfa again, and she turned in at Seth's gate. No one answered her shout as she galloped by the house to the field.

Jumping cff her horse, Cleta snatched at her sunbonnet and beat frantically at the fighting gobblers. "Get away, you devils!" Cleta panted. She drove them off and dropped on her knees beside one of the birds which had dropped bleed-She watched the victorious gobbler strutting and drumming his wings as he rounded up the hens; the bronze hens, the new members of his harem. She knew for sure then. Her bird had killed Seth's tom.

Cleta stood up. She saw Seth turning in at the gate, and as he hurried toward the field a hot triumph flooded through her. With Seth's gobbler out of the running her turkey would surely win.

But this would end everything, she told herself. Cleta knew she could not bear to keep on fighting

Worker's Dilemma

Whether to ask for another raise in 1949 is a question now vexing our unions. Shall they go on through this year without asking for another raise? Some unions are saying it will be bad business for the nation's workers to insist on another round of increases. Others, recalling that raises have been obtained three years in a row, insist that labor keep it up and demand another

How's the way to answer this $64 question, so that the American workman may have the $64-and much more? Because it makes sense that any sound gain made by American workers will be a gain for the entire nation, I favor whatever will have the greatest long range benefit for American workers. Consider the Facts

People who have their facts straight know that any substantial rise in wages must be followed by a jump in prices. This is elementary fact-and-figure economics. If we could have another wage hoost a low-down remark!" tary fact-and-figure economics. If "Another thing," broke in Seth, we could have another wage boost "I don't want your tom with my with the rise in prices it would bring -and the nation would keep on buying-that would be one thing. But there are strong indications that won't work again.

Pipelines of supply to consumers are beginning to fill up. The public is refusing to buy as it has for five years. Consumers are getting more price conscious. Many manufacturers are even now finding it hard to market what they produce. Some are already compelled either to decrease hours of operation or lay off workers.

Danger Signal in more unemployment and lower wages in the long run, would labor unions demand the increase? they would not. Yet that is exactly what would happen, if we should crowd the entire economy toward a depression. There are certain serious danger signals.

Here is a sample. On January 29 a Cleveland utility company awarded a contract for two generators to a Swiss firm. They cost $1,140,000 which was nearly $500,000 less than bids of three American firms. The Cleveland company had to accept Cleveland company had to accept the foreign bid, despite protests by place where I live but that it be fill-American companies and by American companies."—Socrates. ican workers.

The Safe Way Now that Europe is beginning to get into the market, it will be seen that America has no monopoly on manufactured goods in the world markets. Competition there is just beginning, and it will get tough aplenty. Wage increases that push up prices, besides making more trouble just now in the home market, would make it hard for America to compete in foreign markets. Foreign production will also continue to invade our home markets. Since living costs are already definitely going down, and since a wage increase would be very bad for the by. If we can keep present wage levels, and let prices come down, that will mean a real raise for everybody. That way, not only union members, but everybody will have their standard of living raised a full

Time Improved

W ILL the new year be an improved year for you? make the most of every opportunity for more expansive thinking and living, for spiritual growth?

Are you coming into the new year with a heart full of gratitude and over a new leaf in your mental noteconfidence? Are you resolved to turn book and put completely out of your thinking and experience all of yesterday's doubts, fears, discord, disease, and pain?

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes in her book "Pulpit and Press' (p. 1), "Time past and time present, both, may pain us, but time improved is eloquent in God's praise."

On that glorious morning after his resurrection, Christ Jesus showed his disciples, in a most humanly practical way, a spiritual concept of time improved. All night the disciples had been fishing, but they had caught nothing. "When the morning was now come," the narrative reads (John 21:4-6), "Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.'

Today, and every day, each individual's proof of time improved, of spiritual growth, of heavenward progress, is the most eloquent and emphatic way he can praise and glorify God. . .

The dawning of this new year, and of each new day throughout the year, is a challenge to throw off the weight of materiality, and to take new courage, to draw fresh inspiration and a practical lesson from Jesus' simple words to his disciples to cast their net on the right side. . . . - The Christian Science Monitor

Jesus' New Year

Lesson for January 7, 1951

SCRIPTURE: Mark 1:1-20.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Isaiah 42:

THERE is no room in this one thin column for a commentary on the whole Sunday school lesson each week. If the reader is interested, as it is hoped he will be, he will first study the Bible passages themselves, with whatever aids his own denomination furnishes him, The Sunday school teacher or Bible student who wishes to do really thorough work will need a Dr. Foreman Bible Dictionary and at least a onevolume commentary on the entire Bible. (Dummelow's [Macmillan Co.] and the Abingdon Commentary [Abingdon Press] are among the best of these.) As a background for the studies of the next three months, the student should read one or more good "Lives" of Christ. Write to your own church bookstore for suggestions.

When Is New Year's Day? EVERY day is a New Year's Day for somebody. The legal holiday that goes by that name seldom comes at a real turning-point in any one's life.

The real occasion is when some momentous change oc-curs, so that after that day life never flows in is old channels. In this sense, a very important New Year's Day for Jesus was the day when he was baptized in the Jordan river.

Before that day he lived as a carpenter in one village: after that day, as a public man, indeed THE public Man of all times. The pattern of his life completely changed.

NEW YEAR'S is a good time to review three things: your decisions, your life's work, and your

Have you put off a decision for a long time? Now is the time to face it. Have you been mak-"unfortunate" decisions, choices you regret? Now is a good time to look into these and see why you have been taking the wrong road too often. Have you any bed-rock principle on which you base all your decisions? — Jesus' New Year was marked by certain decisions made once and for all.

To begin with, there was his baptism. One thing it surely meant: Jesus that day decided deliberately to be counted among those who those who think they don't. Not everybody came down to the Jordan to be baptized. Some came only to criticize. Jesus sided with the sinners, not the critics. It was a life-long decision. He became known as the "Friend of sinners."

There were also the further decisions in the wild country where he went through his temptations. Each temptation faced Jesus with a choice; each time his choice was on God's side.

Life's Work

THERE is a great thrill in setting out on the work one is going to do for the rest of one's natural life. Out of the harbor traffic on to the open sea! Jesus now becomes a preacher, and this was his work for the rest of his life. His carpentry has long since mouldered to dust; his preaching and teaching are im-

But suppose Jesus had been a slipshod, inefficient, careless carpenter? Would he have ever become a great teacher and preacher? It is quite true, the products of his shop have vanished, but there was something taking shape in that shop which did not vanish: his character.

Your choice about your future and final life's work may still be in the future; your best work may not yet have been begun. But the way you do what you have to do, today, will help set the pattern for every choice and every work in your life.

Friendships

NEXT after Jesus' life-work came his choice of friends. No doubt he had known Simon and the others before, and Mark simply records in his abrupt way the climax of a long story, in telling how Jesus "called" them.

We cannot imagine Jesus without his disciples. It is not exaggeration to say that even the Son of God would have been a failure, as a man, had he won no friends. There would have been no Christian religion if Jesus had had no friends.

Around New Year's time it is well to ask oneself the question: Am I as careful in selecting my friends as Jesus was in selecting his?

Friends

Boy Risks Life for Dog LIGONIER, Pa.-A fellow will do a lot for his best friend— even risk his own life. That's what 13-year old Billy Brant did when he heard his dog 'Boots" yelp in pain and saw a copperhead snake poised to strike the little cocker spaniel

Billy jumped on the snake, tramping its twisting body. The snake drew back its head and sank its fangs in Billy's leg.

Billy was hurried to a doctor in Ligonier and then taken to a hospital in critical condition. He was released after a week's

In the excitement Boots was overlooked, but the dog knew a treatment of her own. She chewed some grass, pawed a hole in the earth and rested her wound in the soft earth. Boots recovered but her litter of pups, born a few days later, died.

Billy was hobbling about on crutches a week later. The snake is dead, tracked down and killed by a cousin of the little boy who wouldn't let his best friend down.

Police Assistance Aids Alibi Seeker Right into Arrest

NEW YORK.—The police again have demonstrated their willingness to aid those who come to them in time of trouble, including a truck owner allegedly involved in a theft and who appealed for help in establishing an alibi.

So thoroughly did the police assist Anthony Caulo, 26 Brooklyn, that they broke the alibi, obtained an admission of guilt, rounded up two other men and charged all three with theft of $4,000 worth of merchandise. According to Detective Samuel Katz and James Ward of the Poplar street, Brooklyn, squad, Caulo and Carmine Marrone, 23, of Brooklyn, "broke" into the Vim Radio

Stores, Inc., garage.
With the conivance of Allen
Edwards, 48, who worked in the garage, they made off, the police say, with a truck loaded with television sets.

Edwards was tied loosely to a post. Passers-by heard his shouts for help and freed him. The police were called. The radio sets were transferred to a truck owned by Caulo and the stolen vehicle abandoned. It was recovered quickly.

Caulo's van also was located the next day, still filled with the stolen items, in a parking lot.

Detective kept watch and said nothing. As the days passed Caulo started to worry. He finally went to the Poplar street station and reported his truck had been stolen so he would have an alibi if it was re-

Detectives Katz and Ward were deeply interested in Caulo's description of the "missing" truck and eventually cracked the alibi.

Infantryman Saves Life Of Buddy as 'Chute Fails

NORFOLK, Va.-An airborne infantryman saved the life of a fellow-soldier in parachute jumps during an assault landing exercise at Camp Pendleton, Va.

The full-scale amphibious assault was the final phase of training here for some 880 West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen.

Pfc. Eugene F. Cushing, Modesto, Calif., was credited with saving the life of Pfc. Richard Rusk, Independence, Mo. Private Rusk's chute collided with that of Private Cushing and collapsed in the fall. But Cushing grabbed his companion's sagging chute and the two men rode down together on Cushing * parachute.

She couldn't go to sleep. Throughout the night she sang, danced and chattered. She played with every toy in the house. She built towering castles with her books. And still the sandman stayed away.

Exhausted, her mother took her to a doctor. Janet skipped and hopped the two miles. A sedative put her to sleep.

Later it was discovered Janet had chewed some army pep tab-lets belonging to her brother, Dennis, who had just returned home after service with the air force in the Middle East.

SPOOK SWEEPERS

Ghost Tales Haunt House

WASHINGTON, D. C. - James Cypress, 64-year old custodian of the most famous haunted house m the land, should lay claim to the title of "one of the bravest men in the world." He and Carrie, his wife, who is about the same age, weep out the spooks in what is known as the octagon house, where President James Madison and his wife. Dolly, found a roof after the British burned the White House in James is old now, and tired. He's lived in the house for more than a quarter-century.

"Golly," he said, "I don't hear any creaking doors or strange noises. Of course, that is what they talk about. There is the woman who fell over a black cat and was killed when she tumbled over the circular stairwell."

Saw Black Cats

James once saw a couple of black cats around the place and didn't mind it too much. He also recalled that once when his wife was sick he called a doctor to the loft where they live. The doctor saw some strange shadows.

Must not have been much to it, though, for the next time the Cypress family needed the doctor he came on the double.

For almost half a century now the building has been occupied by the American Institute of Archi-

Except the Cypresses' living quarters, most of the building contains offices now.

It's a red brick building and isn't eight-sided at all, but six-sided. The library of congress, which is supposed to know everything, doesn't know how the house got its name of octagon.

The first person who ever lived there was Col. John Taylor, a wealthy plantation owner and a friend of George Washington. It is one building in the world which could, if it wishes, honestly put out a sign "George Washington Slept Here," but doesn't.

Touch of Tragedy

There was a touch of tragedy from the first. A daughter of the coonel fell in love with a Britisher, fluffed him, and he committed suicide in the house.

After the treaty which ended the War of 1812 was signed, Washington society kicked up a fancy heel in the old building until 1821.

During some uncertain times, there was an underground passage between the octagon house and the White House. That now is plugged

During the Civil War, the build-ing was confiscated by the government and turned into a hospital for wounded Yankee soldiers. At another time, it served as a Catholic school for girls.

Louisville Library Lends Copies of Famed Paintings

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - Reproductions of 60 famous paintings are being loaned to Louisville families by the free public library. Librarycard holders may obtain one of the framed paintings and may keep it for two months. When they return it, they may obtain another if one is available.

The reproductions, including works of Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso and Rousseau, were selected by a committee headed by Dr. Justus Bier of the University of Louisville art department.

R. Graham, librarian, said that as far as he knows the Louisville library will be the first to lend famed paintings. Colleges have lent such pictures in the past, he

"The library wishes to stimulate a desire for better paintings among its patrons," he said.

"Also the library patrons will have an opportunity to become acquainted with better paintings and will be able to try out different ones in their homes before making purchases."

The largest picture in the collection is 40 inches square and the smallest 20 by 15 inches.

Czech Army Clamps Taboo On Pin-ups for Soldiers

PRAGUE. — The Czechoslovak army has outlawed the pin-up girl. No longer will the otherwise dreary barracks of the Soviet soldier be graced with pictures of the "wolf whistle induction" type.

Also, there will be no more talk or tales of fairies in the Czech schoolrooms.

The army decreed that, in place of pictures of shapely cuties wearing not much of anything, the soldiers should put up in their barracks "slogans, pictures of shock workers, and examples of our fighting tradition."

A shock worker is an eager beaver whose production is above average. The army newspaper, Obran Lidu, announcing the decree, said, "The bathing beauty can be a model for American and British soldiers, but not for the Czech soldiers of the peoples' democratic army." The newspaper said that one "model company" had been demoted already because the men posted pictures of scantily clad women in the barracks.

Victim of Maryland's Worst Polio Year

Beverly Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Miller, of Tanewtown, Carroll County, is one of the 700 victims of poliomylitis in Maryland during 1950—the state's worst polio year. Four out of five victims need the help of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which this year is urging all Marylanders to give double—to help with funds to keep this tragedy from your own home. The campaign is from Janwary 15 to January 31.

HOAN'S ARK

Many Getting Search Fever

the "Noah's ark fever" as it is called in eastern Turkey has been rising in the hearts of Bible students. For nearly 25 centuries eager explorers have been scaling the "dome of eternal ice," of Great Ararat mountain in the hope of finding Noah's homemade craft.

Many have talked about seeing the ark, but who has seen it? About 500 years before Jesus, a priest of Mesopotamia, Berosus by name, declared that he had heard of men climbing up the ark and scraping off its pitch coating to be used for medicines and charms. The ark was designed to be 300 cubits long (439½ feet), so it required a good deal of caulking material. It is regrettable that those early hunters could not have brought down a little piece of the wooden hull so its gopherwood could have been identified. No one knows what gopherwood is.

Seek More Data

Right now several Bible students and amateur scientists are seeking more explicit information. These men arrived in Turkey and announced they were heading for the frigid Ararat summits despite the frowns of the Soviet neighbors. The Ararat peaks, known as "Great" and "Little," are far in a eastern corner of Turkey where Iran and Soviet Armenia came together. The Russians fear that the explorers merely want to take a peak over the iron curtain.

"It is quite enough to look at a map to understand the real meaning of the biblical amusements of these Anglo-American imperialists," the Moscow newspaper Pravda asserted recently. "The true purposes of such an expedition are as far from archaeology as Egerton Sykes is from Great Grandfather

Turks Unimpressed

Sykes, a leader of the present exedition, is a white-haired, rough and ready amateur of the sciences. He was a British diplomat courier during the war and was caught in the German invasion of Poland. After the war he looked for the fabled lost continent of Atlantis. He believes that the flood which Noah survived may have been part of "a vast cosmic disaster" that brought death to the lost continent. He is the more convinced because he has found some 600 flood legends in the lores of many nations.

A year ago the search for Noah's ark was spurred by new tales from the Ararat hills. A farmer told his neighbors that he had seen a ship's prow protruding from a canyon of ice and snow. Because of the unusually warm summer of 1948, he explained, there was a greater melting than at any other time in memory, and therefore the strange object was partly revealed. Other peasants climbed the mountain and saw the prow, it was said, but none of them had cameras to record the sight. Then the snows came and buried the ship again. The Ararat summit is snow covered the year around, and is only accessible during a few weeks of August and Sep-

Brooks wasn't fooling—they sure had been "biting." Just a short time before, Brooks had been leaning over the edge of the dock, pulling out grass clinging to the float. With a swirl in the water, a black bass grabbed his forefinger, held on, and was lifted part way out of the water before it let go.

"It was about 12 inches long," Brooks said. "Bass have no teeth, so it didn't hurt." Then, with a grin, "the saying is it ain't a story if dog hites man but it is a story. dog bites man, but it is a story if man bites dog. How about it then a fish bites man?"

Blue Jackets Vaccinated Against A and B Influenza

Sneezing and wheezing will be at a minimum this winter among bluejackets of the administrative command, Great Lakes Naval Training Center, (Illinois) and fewer days will be lost through illness. Recently all hands were vaccinated against types A and B influenza.

Although both types of influenza have the same outward symptoms and receive the same medical treatment, they are caused by different strains of virus detectable only by a delicate laboratory test. inoculations at Great Lakes will be compounded of two vaccines, one developed from each strain of virus. The type B vaccine was shown to be effective in a number of studios made during the winter of 1944-45. The type A vaccine proved useful in a limited Wed. - Thurs., Dec. 10-11 scale study made among navy re-cruits last winter. Neither vaccine causes any soreness or other reaction.

Protection lessens as time passes, probably vanishing after | about six months. Ordinarily, one vaccination at the beginning of winter is sufficient for the entire season, the danger of influenza decreasing sharply after March. The vaccine works by strengthening the body's own resistance to influenza virus so that it may overcome the infection with no more than the symptoms of an ordinary

DID YOU SAY SERVICE?

Well, we will admit that we don't go quite this far with our prompt and friendly service.

We do, however, aim to give you complete banking satisfaction.

Every time you walk into our bank we are certain you will appreciate the prompt and courteous service you receive.
