Christmas is just around the corn-er! It is hardly believable. And that reminds me that Mrs. Eleanor Roose-velt does her Christmas shopping (and you know that she must purchase many many gifts) all year round and places them in a closet. Then she keeps a book with every road to national bankruptcy, warning gift marked down that has been sent the year before and she goes over it all in August and then plans for the take exceptional measures. One never knows how much talent they may be gifted with until they start doing things. Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron of Baltimore has paintings in the galleries of a Paris art dealer on the Quai Voltaire of fifteen land-scapes in Scotland, Switzerland and France and they represent the new found hobby of this man who is loved in this country and abroad. He has in this country and abroad. He has been in the Ministry for 35 years and now knows the joy of painting. Sil-vagni declares that the noble person-ality of Morris S. Lazaron infuses the clear, pure vision of his land-scapes—his poetic vision is served by a palette rich with delicate and sensi-tive tonalities that bring to his paint-ing the mark of true spontaneity! Rabbi Lazaron who is now 63 resides in New York and had served the He-brew congregation from 1915 to 1946 is now retired but has continued active as speaker, writer, particularly in the fields of Jewish-Christian re-lations and university religious life. And that is as it should be!

appears! The "Friendship Poem" by W. J. H. in the Carroll Record tells much. What a fine Soul he must have! Saw that awful "GOLDEN TER-ROR" the other night. And I ask you what is there that is golden about in the carrol Record from Canhim? The man, Baillargeon from Can-ada, surely did take the bumps and is liked by the wrestling public. Bibber McCoy was just about as brutal as the Terror in the double team

TURKEYS AN ASSET

Fifty years ago we found turkeys to be a real asset on the farm. They roamed at will and after hay harvest roamed the field and fattened themselves on the grass hoppers that swarmed there. When Thanksgiving and Christmas time came their slaughter and marketing added greatly to the financial well-being of the home, while a weekly feast day was had each Sunday when a well roasted turkey graced the table with mashed potatoes and sauerkraut as an added delicacy. Yes turkeys are W. J. H. a real asset.

The Elmer Wolfe school will be presented in the near future with a 1.V. set. This will please the children and will also be one way of keeping them under control, especially when the parents want to attend a P.T.A. meeting. Uusually at such meetings the younger children be-come bored and restless. Putting them in a room with a T.V. set is one way of solving that problem.

Another item of interest concerning our school is the prospect of a scnool paper in the future. This is something the Eimer Wolfe school has always lacked, but one that most schools ao have. It is a means of instilling interest in the field of journalism in some students and bringing hidden creative ability to the surface. "The Pen is mightier than the sword" is happily true and beautifully written prose and poetry outlines anything else created by man. Bringing the gift to write out in our children is one of the most rewarding thing that any school can accomplish and a school paper does just that.

Miss Pauline Fuss, who has been ill at the home of Paul and Edna Fuss is making rapid recovery.

There is a new house going up on the Walter Eckard farm. If Mt. Union keeps on expanding, it may become a town yet. Sometimes T. V. justifies its existence. One instance of this was the recording of the visit of Princess Elizabeth and her husband Prince Phillip to the U. S. last week. Regardless of how one may feel about royalty there was something very appealing and warmly human in the meeting of Princess Elizabeth and our own President Harry S. Truman. And it was very fitting that this meeting was seen by millions of Americans. For it demonstrated to them so vividly that no matter where one is born—in a small American town or in a Royal castle surrounded by pomp and ceremony—just the art of being human has more appeal than protocal and silly tradition. It was a friendly, human Princess Eli-zabeth who greeted our friendly President and the glow set in every American heart as they watched this touching\meeting over T.V. must re-flect some time later with our dealings with the British people. England has every right to be proud of her future Queen and Americans can be proud of their heritage that can produce a President from among the people.

Not only did the humans mind the BOOK REVIEW AT PINEY CREEK CHURCH Twenty-five women of the Taneytown, Emmitsburg and Piney Creek Presbyterian churches met in the Piney Creek social hall on Thursday, Nov. 8, to review the book "Looking South" by Constance M. Hallock. Luncheon was served at noon. So much interest is attached to those get-together days-and much that we otherwise would not know is learned about our Latin American peoples.
