can there be local success tomorrow.

Benefits to the Taneytown area from Potomac Edison's $150,000 transmission line now underway were described to the local Chamber of Commerce by M. J. Urner, Transmission Engineer M. J. Urner, Transmission Engineer for the power company. Speaking at a Chamber meeting last Monday evening, Mr. Urner also described the great increase in demands for elec-tricity since World War II, and the wide-spread program of construction that has been necessary throughout the System to meet those demands.

Expressed in terms of horsepower, Potomac Edison customers now require 250,000 hp., a figure 2½ times the prewar requirement of 100,000 hp. Not only has the number of customers increased from 80,000 to 135,000, but the average residential customer now uses about 2½ times as much electricity as he did in pre-war days.

Faced with this unprecedented increase, Potomac Edison had to embark on a tremendous expansion program, including new power plants, transmission lines, substations, distribution lines, etc. In spending $35,000,000 in the last five years, Mr. Urner pointed out, PE has invested more money in its facilities than had been invested in the 50 preceding years. The new facilities were present to provide facilities were necessary to provide more reliable service, as well as to increase power supply, because of the great importance of electricity in every home, factory, and place of business today. iness today.

It was explained how the new 33,000 volt line to Taneytown from Thurmont will provide a source of power separate and apart from the present Union Bridge-Taneytown line. It will be possible to supply power from either direction, thus giving "loop" service to both Emmitsburg and Taneytown. Although this will not prevent all interruptions to service, it should greatly reduce the length of interrup-tions, since only a short time will be required to switch the service from one line to the other.

MARCH IS RED CROSS MONTH

President Truman has designated March as Red Cross month, and urged that we recognize our obligation to an organization that exists only to help Americans anywhere, any time. The President asked every citizen to give as much as he could to make the $85,000,000 drive a success, and pointed out that the Red Cross had spent $14,000,000 alone on mid-west flood relief last spring.

"I have today paid my federal income tax under strong moral protest. "While I fully subscribe to the payment of taxes for essential government purposes, I deeply resent the use of my tax money for the wasteful and extravagant purposes inherent in the present bureaucratic plan and so various government scandals." Such a letter is apt to remind the average member of Congress that the proposed $85 billion budget for the 1953 fiscal year, which begins July 1, is the largest in U.S. peacetime history; that taxpayers are becoming more conscious of federal spendingand finally, that this is a national elec-glaringly disclosed recently in the

His inclination is to give that $85 billion budget the longest look of any budget since the war.

His dilemma arises from the fact that he has to hurry because this is an election year. With national party conventions set for July, Congressional leaders are pushing for adjournment by July 1.

Technically, of course, Congress is supposed to finish work on all appropriations bills by the opening of the fiscal new year. But in the past that has not prevented Congress from continuing consideration of new spending bills past the July 1 date. Last year it was three months late in finishing work on some of those bills.

In fact, by coincidence or otherwise, the last Presidential election year, 1948, was the last year in which Congress would up work on appropriations bills by the official July 1 dead-

In 1948, however, federal spending was not the controversial issue that it is this year. Instead of struggling with an $85 billion budget carrying a large deficit, Congress handled one of $40 billion, with the pleasant prospect of a balanced budget. In 1948 Congress reduced taxes, whereas last year it raised them.

Meanwhile-if anything is needed to compound the worried Congressman's dilemma—there is the fact that unless he is a member of the Appropriations Committee, he has nothing directly to say about spending until the appropriations bills reach the floor for debate.

Furthermore, unless he is a member of that Committee, he has little opportunity for detailed study of the budget, or any part of it, prior to the time debate starts. If he tried to study it on his own, he probably would not get any of his other work done (the document dwarfs the Manhattan telephone book). And the chances are that the particularly worried member of the House of Representatives is not on the Appropriations Committee. Roughly speaking, only one out of every nine members are. The average member's solution is to rely on advice from colleagues who are members of the Appropriations Committee. He requires a lot of advice this year, for there are 11 different appropriations bill's covering the broad and varied functions of the govern-

Those bills are brought to the House floor for debate under a schedule arranged by the Appropriations Committee. The House member who is not on that Committee has nothing to say about the schedule.

He may wish the schedule was slower this year so that he could have a longer look at this record peacetime budget. But he knows that is hardly possible, for this is election year and July looms large on the calendar.

The Present Future

OW can one plan wisely for the future? Many seem to live in dreams of future prosperity or in dread of approaching ill. Anxiously they make plans to assure good fortune or avert distaster. And no one can measure the needless suffering entailed in the propensity to outline a pattern of existence from material and selfish motives.

Yet the future is enfolded in the present. All that is real and good exists now, always has existed, and always will, because God, good, constitutes all reality and is ever present.

Now is the only time there is. Hence, to be assured and poised, inspired with our rightful purpose, we must be actively concerned thought and action with today. When we desert it for a still non-existent tomorrow, we desert our opportunity to build each today so that it may be a foundation rock upon which the future of successive todays may be established. . .

As we live in obedience to the divine will, our future unfolds harmoniously. The hope of every tomorrow is implicit in today's joyous fulfillment. The Master said (Matthew 6:34), "Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things

The selfish, prayerless, competing, and conflicting plans of mortals express mere human will; they construct houses built upon the sand, such as Jesus mentions in his Sermon on the Mount. But every desire brought into obedience to the will of God contributes to the erection of the house founded upon the eternally solid rock of Truth. God's plan the plan of divine Principle, of Life, Truth, and Love - is infinitely good. It is all-harmonious, all-inclusive, and it is perpetuated in the ever-

God's plan for His children is sure and good. Nothing can change it. To perceive one's rightful place in this plan is to discover the secret of spiritual assurance, dominion, and permanence; to be at peace with oneself and one's fellow men; to find oneself in possession of all real wealth or substance. In this spiritual certitude one's future is secure, for the loving Father-Mother God has made it so from its foundation in the infinitude and eternality of good. We read in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, (p. 262), "We must reverse our feeble flutterings - our efforts to find life and truth in matter - and rise above the testimony of the material senses, above the mortal to the immortal idea of God." Turning from the fruitless search for good in material possessions and conditions, and abandoning selfish mortal planning and contriving, we behold the everavailable good of Spirit. This spiritual seeing of the way of Life, Truth, and Love brings one into conscious identity with Mind, where one inherits the house planned without mortal plans and built without mortal hands, "eternal in the heavens" (II Corinthians 5:1); eternal in the spiritual consciousness of Love's sufficiency.—The Christian Science Moni-

FEESERSBURG

There has been much discussion lately about whether or not to require the semi-annual publication of the names of persons receiving "public assistance" or those "on relief".

Lord Asquith once said "The test of every civilization is the point below which the weakest and the most unfor-tunate are allowed to fall." If names on "relief rolls" are made public all the gains that have been made in the understanding and treatment of relief problems since the dark days of witch hunts and whipping posts will be lost, when the names of the helpless and dependent and the details of their wretchedness were read out in the weekly town meetings. Any reduction in the dignity of a human being affects the dignity of every other human being. Public relief is not only given to those who cannot help themselves, but to the aged, the blind, widows and deserted wives with young children. What good could possibly come from publishing the names of old people, who are so unlucky as to have to ask for charity? It would be adding a foul blow to advertise the names of the blind to the public. They have been dealt a cruel blow by nature why add another unnecessary one? Too often the public is fed misleading statements by irresponsible men in public office. One should have the facts before reaching any conclusion that will eventually destroy the pride and dignity of any individual. I am familiar with the pride, the suffering John, Mrs. George Bower and Miss and the heartbreak of some of the Hazel Haines and Mr. George Renshaw of Sykesville. Mrs. Nevin Copersmith, Mrs. David Wantz, Mrs. Cept public assistance. Would you want me to put her name in this column, to humiliate her children and destroy her pride? If I did do you think it would solve anything Or would it just satisfy the morbid, who seem to thrive on someone else's hard luck? With the American taxpayer spending so freely for relief all over the world, surely we can put a little change in the pockets of our own people with out exposing their poverty and dependence to a curious and, far too often, a cruel public. other farm investment. Sheep also make a good sideline on large farms. Lent began Wednesday with special I. services in Catholic and Protestant of churches. The word "Lent" itself means "spring" and comes from the old English word "lencten". The German word is "Lenz" and probably comes from the same root as "long and refers to "lengthening days". I the Christian church, Lent means the period of fasting preparatory to the festival of Easter. The length of this fast and the rigour with which it has been observed have varied greatly at different times and in different countries. In the time of Irenalus the fast before Easter was very short, but very severe. Some ate nothing for forty hours between the afternoon of Good Friday and the morning of Easter.. Today Lent is observed according to the rules of one's church. Fasting in the Catholic church falls on certain days, in the Protestant churches also, but less strictly. Lent is a good time to practice self-denial not only with food and drink but also in thought and deed. Our section of Maryland has been most fortunate since during the last ten days it has barely missed two severe snow storms. Spring is becoming restless to make its appearance. The trees are showing signs of throwing off their winter slumber, snow-drops are out and the grass is slyly putting on a green tinge. So far the birds are being very discreet. The robins are nowhere in sight, but the crows are hanging around not yet ready to take off for their spring habitat. Just the other day we learned that the crow is a migratory bird. The entire community sympathized with Abner Devilbiss over the loss of his garage by fire. Mr. Devilbiss seems to personify all the good traits of a business man and neighbor. He has the one quality all of us admire in others—high personal integrity. LETTER RECEIVED RE: U. M. T.

Feb. 27, 1952

Dear Editor: We live in a country that stands for for some things we believe in. In a century and a half it has grown from 13 small colonies to the might-lest nation on earth. In the course day at her home here. iest nation on earth. In the course of that growth it has demonstrated the truth of something nobody much believed before—that free men can govern themselves wisely and well. That faith in freedom has attracted to our country's shores the bravest spirits of the old world; the men and women who most hated tyranny and oppression.

One thing that characterized those old tyrannies and kept them in power was militarism—a powerful clique of professional militarists at teh top, and compulsory military service for everybody else. One thing that characterized the New World was freedom from militarism—a small peace-time army, control of the military by civilians, AND NO UNIVERSAL COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAIN-

NOW, with the idea of freedom eing challenged once more in much of the world, we are being asked to give up the basic freedom for country, and accept the old, terrible notion that every youth must spend part of his life in uniform, in peace as in way, subject once more to the tyranny of militar-

Before we agree, we must be sure we know the facts. Before we agree, we must be sure we understand what a terrible blow this will be to our freedom, and our Country's. Before we agree, we must be sure we know the record of compulsory militarization of whole populations elsewhere, and how it does not guarantee victory in war, but does promise the defeat of freedom in peace.

Then we must raise our voice and use our influence to keep this had old sickness of nations from getting a foothold in our country Our own Joseph W. Martin, Jr., in the Journal of The National Education association, said this: "The practicality of the past has backfired. France thought she was being eminently practical when she built the Maginot Line and developed a conscript army which was called the best in the world. History has irrefutably proved otherwise. The fact that Germany has been the most militaristic of nations with her youth trained from boyhood in the science of war failed to save that country from defeat twice within a quarter of a century." publican Leader in The House.

Alcoholic Beverages Tax

The tax of $1.25 per gallon on distilled spirits, 20 cents per gallon on wine and 3 cents per gallon on beer has remained practically unchanged for many years. ($6,000,000 in 1946 and $6,500,000 today). There are a number of reasons why taxes on liquor, wine and beer have not been increased in proportion to other sources of revenue. One is because the sources of revenue. One is because the Federal Government has steadily raised the taxes on these products. Another is that Baltimore City and some of the counties have imposed special taxes on alcoholic beverages. But the principal reason that the tax on alcoholic beverages has not been increased is because, in the past, our brewers and distillers have been most generous in their distributions to the dominant political parties in the State.

Maryland's tax of 3 cents per gallon of beer is one of the lowest in the United States. And Maryland's brewers are most influential politically.

That may be one reason why we all were so eager to read about him. There are not many matters in the day' news which are not startling. It is pleasant not to be startled.

What made me wonder a little about all this vast flood of words chronicling an event which could have been told in fewer, was the copy of newspaper sent me by a friend. In that newspaper I found all the essential story of the King George and Queen Elizabeth events told, (I think adequately), in four and one-half

Maybe it would be helpful to all of our tempers and sanity to break away for a few moments from such inconclusive matters as the case of Korea which is so balled up in words and solemn technicalities that it has ceased to have much meaning to the average person. At least you can make sense of the news from Taneytown. It adds up. But Korea! SHORT STORY Avalanche By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THE landslide occurred on March 8. It was the evening before that Lorelei and Stan quarreled. The real cause of the quarrel was Inez Thayer, Deke Whitman's stepdaughter.

Deke was the 2 - Minute mine superintend ent, and Inez had Fiction come to spend a couple of weeks with him. Inez was disappointed in the place. She had always thought of Arizona as a land of desert. Warm. Romantic. Nobody had told her that there were mountains in Arizona and that up in those mountains the temperature in March got well down below the freezing point.

She probably wouldn't have remained a week if it hadn't been for Stan Seymour. Stan was a young engineer. Inez took one look at him and decided to

A woman in love sees many things that others let pass by unnoticed. Lorelei, who was the daughter of Jim Tristram, the mine foreman, had been in love with Stan since the day he arrived six months before, and he with her. Their love was unspoken, but it lay between them like a tangible thing. Lorelei was glad now that neither had put into words the thing that both had felt, for now there need be no explaining or embarrassments. Some day, she knew, the hurt that grew inside of her as she watched Stan yield to the polished charm of Inez Thayer would fade and vanish. So on the evening of March 7 Lorelei and Stan quarreled. And each knew that Inez was the cause of the quarrel, though both pretended it was over the matter of holding the annual spring dance in Redstone this year instead of at the mine.

IT was warm that night of March 7. Unnaturally warm. The heavy snows atop the mountain range against the base of which the mine buildings nestled began to melt, and on the morning of March 8 they began to move, slipping down the mountain, loosening tons of earth and ice and rock.

Lorelei was coming up from the rural delivery postoffice box with the mail. She heard the ominous roar and stopped. A moment before she had seen Stan and Inez enter the tiny engineer's field office, and without thinking she started running toward it, shouting at the top of her lungs.

Men appeared from other buildings and took up the cry, and before long a great crowd was racing down the valley road out of the path of the onrushing avalanche.

But Stan and Inez didn't appear in the doorway of the engineer's office and Lorelei kept on running, screaming. Above the office was a sharp outcropping of rock. When the avalanche hit this it divided, and stones and earth were catapulted into space over the building.

Lorelei had pushed open the door when this happened. She glimpsed Inez in Stan's arms. Then a falling timber crashed toward them and she screamed. Stan pushed Inez away from him, and almost got clear himself, but it grazed his shoulder and knocked him flat.

For a moment Lorelei stood transfixed. Then she leaped forward and began prying at the timber. "Help me!" she cried. And she turned desperate eyes toward Inez.

At the door, Inez turned. Her face was white. "Don't be a fool!" she shrieked. "Save yourself!" Then the roar and crash became louder, drowning out her words. The first avalanche had started a second.

Inez flung open the door and rushed outside. Stan pulled Lorelei down beside him and yelled into her ear; "Go on! You've still got a chance. You can't save me!" But she only stared at him in horror. Then she began picking up timbers and propping them in a sort of lean-to against the one undamaged wall, sheltering them.

Rescue crews came in and were amazed to find the two alive. They pried Stan loose and carried him away on a stretcher. One of his legs

Baja California Seeking Admission As Mexican State

WASHINGTON, D.C.-The northern part of Mexico's Baja (Lower) California has enjoyed a decade of phenomenal population growth and is now seeking promotion to state-

Mexico at present has 28 states and three territories. The latter are Baja California, South District; and Quintana Roo, on the Yucatan peninsula. Northern Baja California, whose capital is Mexicali in the rich Imperial Valley, would become the 11th state in area and the 27th in the population if admitted.

Under the Mexican constitution, elevation of a territory to state-hood must be approved by the Con-gress. A bill to admit the northern part of the narrow, arid and mountainous peninsula that extends south from U.S. California has been sent to the national legislature by President Miguel Aleman.

The northern territory of the pen-insula has an area a little larger than West Virginia. Its population in 1950 was 225,000, nearly triple that shown by the 1940 census, far outstripping gains made by any other area of Mexico.

The closest comparable increase was that of the Distrito Federal around Mexico City, the seat of gov-ernment similar to the U.S. Dis-trict of Columbia. Here the decade's population growth was about 67 per

The proposed new state extends southward from the U.S. border to the 28th parallel, which cuts Baja California's 810-mile length approximately in half. It contains the border cities of Tijuana and Mexicali, as well as the resort center of Ensenada on the Pacific coast.

Much of the agriculture of Baja California is limited to irrigated regions in the North District, not only in the Imperial Valley, but also in the area of San Quintin Bay on the Pacific Coast, some 190 miles by road from the border.

Selling the pelts, she learned, is tougher than acquiring them. After some difficulties, she managed to dispose of her first catch for $11-a buck a pelt.

Heart Ceases to Beat 25 Minutes-Man Recovers

CHICAGO — The complete recovery of a man whose heart stopped beating for 25 minutes during an operation was reported in the December journal of the American Medical Association.

The patient, 63, was undergoing chest surgery when his color became very dark and his heart stopped beating, according to Dr. Max G. Carter, of the Boston City Hospital, Boston. Life was maintained by massaging the heart, injecting heart stimulants and applying artificial respiration.

Adequate flow of blood to the brain and heart was maintained, according to the report, by manual closing of the aorta beyond the point of exit of the left subclavian artery while the massaging was performed. The closing of his part of the main artery leaving the heart stopped the flow of blood to the lower portion of the body and forced it to the upper section and brain. In heart stoppage cases, the flow of blood to the brain is of utmost importance in order to prevent damage to the brain should the patient recover otherwise.

"The maintenance of massage at an adequate rate of around 50 to 60 contractions per minute was so fatiguing that the surgeon and the first assistant alternated for periods of five minutes each," the report

The patient recovered completely and was discharged 11 days after the operation, Dr. Carter stated. Subsequent examinations have shown him to be as mentally sound and alert as at the time of the

U.S. Must Build Civil Defense

AIR FORCE CHIEF SAYS ENEMY BOMBERS CAN ATTACK AMERICA

(This is the first of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This Is Civil Defense" prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for ten cents.)

By MILLARD CALDWELL Federal Civil Defense Administrator

General Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, has made a startling statement—one which most Americans find hard to believe. He had said that at best we could knock down only 30 out of every 100 enemy planes attacking the United States. That means that at least 7 out of 10 would get through. Talent for Goodness

Lesson for March 2, 1952

MANY people can paint, or swim, who have no special talent for painting or swimming. So, many people are good who do not seem to have a special talent for g o o d-ness. This talent is not so common as we all wish it were. Goodness, real goodness, has m a n y limitations.

Two of the commonest are goodygoody-ness and good-for-nothing-ness. Goody-goody people rub normal people the wrong way. Good-for-nothing-ness is not so irritating, but it is far from satisfying. Don't we all know persons of whom it is said, "He is good, but —"? Now of a really good person you never say "He is good, but—."

You say, "I only wish there were more like him."

He Chose to Help

appearance, for we know that among superstitious people he was taken for Jupiter or Zeus, the most powerful of the Greek gods. But he was no gifted speaker, and if he wrote anything we do not hear of it.

His one great gift, his God-given talent, was goodness. He is described as a "good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith." He is first heard of as a property-owner who sold his land and turned over the proceeds for the benefit of his the proceeds for the benefit of his fellow Christians. He was one of those who "called not anything their own" but contributed all they had.

AMERICAN STORES

New Bakery and Warehouse in Philadelphia.

About one hundred and fifty news About one hundred and fitty news and advertising executives of newspapers, magazines and trade publications toured the new bakery and warehouse of American Stores Company at 54th Street and Upland Way, Philadelphia, on Thursday, (February 21). Trained tour guides conducted them in small groups through the tremendous plant. Samuel A. Gould, assistant to the Samuel A. Gould, assistant to the president of the company told the guests at the press preview that in the third quarter of 1951, American families spent 19 per cent of their spendable, personal income for food, in contrast with 24 per cent in 1930. During the period from 1925 to 1929, it took one hour of factory labor in this country to buy 6.1 pounds of bread, whereas in December, 1951, one hour of factory labor bought 10.4 pounds of bread. In the last 21 years since 1930, the farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar has risen from a 1930 figure of 40 per cent to 50 per cent in 1951. Referring to the new bakery and warehouses, he said:

"We have built here a tool that will enable us more effectively to perform the function of service that our business imposes upon us. Our concept of that function is that we provide a more profitable market for the farmer and producer while at the same time offering food products and household goods at reasonable prices to the consumer. As we serve these two great groups, we recognize our responsibility to keep our costs at a minimum, therefore we fashion such tools as this one that you have examined today."

Don Rose, newspaper columnist and author, a guest speaker at the lunch-eon which followed the tour read an original poem in honor of yeast. He later made the point that bread-mak-ing would be impossible without yeast, and that America owes its great growth and strength to "the yeast of adventure and enterprise, the yeast of competition and endeavor.

FRIENDS OF OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

We have heard much discussion for and against House Bill No. 610, namely Teachers Salary Bill, which was passed by the 1951 Legislature and vetoed by our Governor. This bill, along with sixty other vetoed bills, was the first order of business at the present session of the Legislature to sustain or over-ride the Governor's veto. The Senate sustained the veto which killed the bill.

The bill not only increased taxes, but placed the increase on one special group which is class legislation.

Dr. Pullen, our State Supt., and members of his staff spent much time in the State House in the interest of the passage of this bill that could have been spent more wisely in his office planning better education for our children. This has brought about a move for the appointment of a committee to make an appraisal of our educational system.

We feel that Dr. Pullen and his staff has been very unfair to the public, especially to the members of the P.-T. A., in misleading them by not placing all the facts before them. They do not tell us that there are more students in the State Teachers Colleges in our State qualifying for the teaching profession than ever was known in the history of our State. They do not tell us that the average teachers salary was $3500.00 in the 1949-50 school year and is $3,841.00 at the present time. They do not tell us that in the past year the increase in teachers was by a greater percentage than the students. They do tell us that teachers are leaving our State for higher salaries, but do not tell us how many are coming into our State. As reported by the State Teachers Association, we have 65 teachers in Carroll County from Pennsylvania. They do not tell us how our State ranks in average salaries with the other forty-seven states in our United States. In the 1949-50 school year we ranked 5th which left 43 stats paying a lower salary. We think that we still attain that high record.

Dr. Pullen states that he never asked any members to vote for or against a bill. However, it was not unusual to see him whispering in many of the members cars. He also had several members of his staff making contacts as well. When their efforts seemed to be a lasing one the C. L. seemed to be a losing one, the C. I. O.-P. A. C. labor leaders, along with the A. F. of L. and the Railroad Brotherhoods went into action and we understand promised future support. This, of course, did not gain any votes, to the contrary, we believe lost them one

Our present State level for teachers salaries is $2200.00 Half of this sum is paid by the State and half by the county. Bill 610 provided an increase of $300.00, all to be paid by the State At this rate our State would State. At this rate our State would soon take full control of our schools and we would have no control of the fine schools which we have in large part paid for.

The bad effect in raising our State level is that more of our tax dollars will be used in other parts of our State. We were elected to represent our county, therefore we believe all salary increases above the present State level should be made by the

We wish to commend Professor Jenness and his staff the manner in which the $1,500, 000 bond issue money was used in constructing new school buildings. We feel the tax payers received more for their tax dollar than any other county in our State.

JEFF CHANDLER CAST AS PRIZE FIGHTER

Universal-International's powerful prize-fight story, "Iron Man", starring Jeff Chandler, Evelyn Keyes and Stephen McNally and now showing at the Earle Theatre, brings to the screen the dramatic story of a rug-red scal miner who is forced into the ged coal miner who is forced into the ring against his will. Popular Jeff Chandler plays the role of the prize fighter who gets into the boxing game through the manipulations of his ambitious wife, played by Evelyn Keyes, and his promoter-brother, portrayed by Stephen Mc-Nally.

Screen newcomers Rock Hudson and Joyce Holden head the strong supporting cast of "Iron Man,"

For "Every Girl Should Be Married" Grant shed his uniform for civvies and switched his field of specialization to obstetrics. In this film, his forte was delivering the cutest babies known to man or woman. Again, he didn't lose a single patient.

Branching out further in the field of medicine, the versatile Grant became a great brain surgeon in "Crisis" and performed one of his most difficult operations to date, that of removing a tumor from Jose Ferrer's cranium. Now, in "People Will Talk", Grant plays a crusading doctor and teacher in a medical college who treats his pa tients with hearty doses of practical psychology as well as the usual amount of pills and serums. He imbues in his students the philosophy that a doctor should treat a person's mind as well as his body, a belief that almost causes his undoing.

As the forward looking Dr. Prae torius, he practices what he preaches especially when it comes to Jeanne Crain, who is first his student, later his patient, and lastly, his wife. Show ing Monday and Tuesday.

Nine Brothers All Western Maryland Engineers

The Rhodes brothers, of Hagerstown, and Funkstown, Md., and Hanover, Pa., all locomotive engineers on the Western Maryland Railway Company, received centennial pins in a ceremony at Port Covington, the line's big marine terminal and yards, in Baltimore, from Eugene S. Williams, president of the road. All 5100 employees are receiving similar pins, to be worn throughout this year, as the Western Maryland pays tribute to its employees for the big part they play in making the road one of outstanding success in American railroading. In the cab is Paul, top row of ladder is Sterling, second row, Robert, third row, Burnell, and on the ground beside the giant road Diesel are, left to right, Richard, Don, Preston, Clinton and Dale.

Thinking of T. V. Surely you, too, have met those "CRAPE HANGERS" those individuals who just hate T. V. and won't own one until all the improvements are adjusted on the sets and so forth! Yet those people will go to the neighbors and enjoy every minute of each programme and keep on harping about the same thing! I tried to convince one woman of all she was missing right now. So enjoy it all, Folks while you can. Your Observer has still the same little set that she bought in Carroll County and it still is operating beautifully. There are many small sets that are in excellent shape which can be purchased at a most reasonable figure by having been traded in for a larger screen. Why not invest in one of those small sets? You get the same programmes and the entire family will be thrilled with it all. Life is so short—enjoy every minute of it. As to the farmers—no farmer should ever be without

Now, here's to our American women! Can you really darn a sock? Your Observer can and here is the reason. A few years ago, I happened to hear a German man say to another individual, "Well, one thing the American woman cannot do and that is darn socks properly!" He was right as far as I was concerned for I actually hated to darn socks up to that time but I thought, "Well, this is one American woman that will learn to darn properly as I do not want anyone to say that about any American Woman" I learned from that time on and I can really hold that darned sock up with any German wife's darning! I am really proud of the socks, Ladies as they appear when darned—machine done. And one can do it if they only try and it just goes to show what a little statement can really mean!

Remember in a column some time back, Your Observer told you to go to the Grocer and ask for one of those bags of flour which is made right there in Carroll County? It is the best I have ever used and I have tried a number of brands. Anyone can make a good pie crust if they have the proper flour! Try it once and convince yourself!

Going out to the flower beds of last year, saw those Jonquils breaking through the hard cold ground! With this cold atmosphere it hardly seems possible yet there they were, Folks!

Remember, Buttons? (My precious Boston Terrier) She will be a year old on March 17 and believe it or not she on March 17 and believe it or not she has the "Flu" just as so many adults right here in Harford County have.

Well, Folks, so long, until next week. Will be seeing you then D.V.

Religion Rates High In War-Torn Korea, Chaplain Reports

ST. LOUIS-United Nation troops fighting in the "mud, filth, dirt and ice" of Korea now can hold "anything and everything sent against them" according to Chaplain (Major) John W. Grapatin, Missouri Synod Lutheran Chaplain now home from the Korean front.

Shoeless Youngster Claims First Deer of Season

PITTSBURGH—A 14-year old, who didn't even bother to put on his shoes, laid claim to killing the first deer when the Pennsylvania season opened recently.

Thomas Wilson, of nearby Coraopolis, looked out his bedroom window on the first morning of the 11-day season and spotted an eight-point buck. He jumped into his trousers, picked up his rifle and ran barefoot into the yard to bring the deer down with one well-aimed shot.

Thomas was a few minutes late for school, but he didn't get a reprimand. In fact, he explained to the class how it felt to be a successful hunter.

Wildlife Professor Says Teeth Tell Age of Deer

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Hunters interested in knowing the age of the deer they bagged during the season can learn it by a study of the animal's teeth.

Dr. P. F. English, professor of wildlife management at the Pennsylvania State College, points out that contrary to popular belief, the number of points has nothing to do with the age of a buck.

Dr. English adds that telling age by the teeth is a complicated matter, probably too complicated for most nimrods. It must be done by judging the degree to which the

Dr. English points out that while the skunk is a relatively small animal, he's afraid of practically no other animal. Great horned owls, traps, and automobiles are probably his only harmful enemies, Dr. English says, reminding that the skunk is in a unique position to command the respect of all who cross his

Cars and Wind

A wind velocity of around 100 miles per hour or more, blowing from the side, might tip over a car and it would make little difference whether it were stationary or moving. However, if moving rapidly, there is the danger of sudden gusts of wind, coming so quickly that the driver cannot compensate for them by steering. Thus there is more likelihood of losing control. Facing into the wind, the car would be much more stable. Because of the reduced area on which the wind can then press, the impossibly high velocity of 700 miles per hour would be required to turn it over.

Uncle Sam Says

Depreciation of machinery and equipment is a big annual expense on to-day's farms, even though replacements are not bought every year. It is only sound management for a farmer to put part of what his machinery earns each year into a safe investment, readily convertible into cash when the machine is worn out. An ideal way to accumulate this replacement fund is to buy U. S. Defense Bonds. They are safe-earn a good rate of interest-and are easily redeemed when needed.
