GREAT HOUR OF SHARING

Sponsored During this Mid-Lenten Season

The fourth annual appeal for Christians to show their brotherliness and Christ-like love for their brethren in destitution and distress is again being sponsored during this mid-Lenten season by the 23 member churches of the National Council of Churches as One Great Hour of Sharing. This is an appeal for funds to help the multitudes made homeless by thirteen years of war.

The United Appeal for Relief and Reconstruction in Christian Service has adopted the words of the Master as he said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." The need to fight back the forces of death and destruction is so great that it cannot be expressed in any sum within the power of the American Christian community to give.

The Christian's brethren—millions of hungry, shivering, lonely homeless people throughout the world, thousands of displaced persons eligible for resettlement, 12,000,000 refugees in Europe and 850,000 in Bible lands, orphaned children and the aged in war-ridden countries, the war-stricken people of Korea, the famine sufferers of India and spiritually hungry of Japan—desire our spiritual help as well as our physical relief. Ours is the privilege to manifest the difference between life and death for a great many helpless victims of man's ravaging inhumanity to man.

To indicate the importance of this Church World Service program several words of a recent round-the-world trip observer given in note form are quoted. "Nearly four million refugees in South Korea, many of them being in crude shacks built of cardboard and thin wood from shell cases. Fire occasionally destroys a hundred or more 'homes' in one night. Winds also carry shacks away while people sleep." "Wonderful to see American clothing, even the poorest sort, covering the bodies of these poor Koreans."

Friday from 10:30 to 11 p. m. on the Columbia Broadcasting System and on Saturday from 5:45 to 6 p. m. on the National Broadcasting System Network Radio Programs will be broadcast to make the people who are the followers of Christ more conscious of the vital need.

The only possible reaction to such immediate need is the miracle of outreach, on-going, active Christian LOVE.

PUBLIC MASS MEETING HELD MONDAY EVENING

$400,000.00 Bond Issue and Sanitary Sewer Discussed

A fair size group of representative citizens of Taneytown attended the public mass meeting held in the High School auditorium Monday evening in the interest of the Bond Issue and the proposed sanitary sewer.

Harry Mohney, president of the City Council opened the meeting and presided during the entire proceedings. The assembled sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and Rev. Glenn L. Stahl of Trinity Lutheran church offered the prayer.

Mr. Roy H. Ritter, engineer for Whitman Reardon and Associates of Baltimore explained the plans that his company and the City Council agreed upon for the proposed Sanitary Sewer and the $400,000 Bond Issue for Taneytown. Mr. Ritter was supported by a representative from the State Department of Health.

Many questions were asked by persons in the audience and each question was answered by a City Council representative. Many objections to the proposal were voiced, some objecting to the enormous cost and the advisability of the deep sewer instead of the shallow type.

Immediately following the meeting the City Council met to discuss the proper procedure as to the deep or shallow sewer and after due consideration arrived at the decision that if the majority of votes on March 31 are in favor of the Bond Issue, bids will be asked and following the analysis of the bids received, should the Bond Issue take care of the deep sewer or should more money be needed to build the deep sewer, another election will be held for the qualified voters to determine their desire in the matter as to a deep or shallow sewer. Should this vote be necessary an election will be held about May 5th.

Paris in the Spring! That does sound enchanting but Spring in Baltimore is fascinating and besides interesting for after all it is truly a big home town in the best state in these United States!

Browsing down on Charles Street on the very first brightest and warm sunny days last week did appeal to your Observer. Meeting friends along the way—friends of yesterday and several of today!

That same Wooden Indian at the entrance of Hopper-McGaw's made me wonder—how long would he be standing there and then to be told by a big executive that that famous store is to liquidate soon! That was one of the first things in Baltimore which I noticed when first I visited that town when was 17!

Gazing in the shop windows—those hats appear positively glamorous this Spring season—huge ones—larger than last year. One of Lilac colored Milan straw trimmed beautifully with Lilacs laying gracefully on the brim and just peeping over in front. They

YOU AND YOUR CONGRESS

A strange atmosphere will surround Congressional debate on price controls when it begins within the next several weeks.

For one thing, members of Congress will recall that during last year's debate on the subject, most of them could not determine how their constituents felt about the matter.

The public was mostly apathetic, judging from the small amount of mail received on Capitol Hill. That made it difficult for those members of Congress who were trying to decide what the people wanted done.

The apathy then was ascribed mainly to the fact that most prices had begun to level off in the spring.

This year there is expected to be even less public interest than last, because many prices have declined since then. Members of Congress are not likely to get as much direction from the public as last year, which was little enough. Yet the subject must be considered even though the public again appears to be only mildly interested.

The Defense Production Act, which authorizes the economic and production controls, is scheduled to expire June 30. At the moment, no serious thought is given to ending production controls then. But there is considerable question about the need for continuing price and wage controls, which must go hand-in-hand under the Act.

Expecting little help from the general public in answering that question, many members are preparing for the debate without enthusiasm.

Members of Congress are especially anxious to do what the majority of voters wish in an election year. What does the public want done about price controls? The question poses a strange dilemma for many in Congress.

Another odd aspect of the situation is that while the Administration calls for a renewed Act, "strengthened in a number of respects," the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) is trying to justify its existence.

Some prices have fallen so far below their official OPS ceilings that the agency has had to lower the ceilings to keep from looking foolish.

The official Consumers' Price Index, cost-of-living yardstick, has been stationary for the last two months. Meanwhile, wholesale prices have turned downward and promise to reflect themselves in even lower retail prices.

Consequently, at least partial removal of price controls now is being advocated by some members of Congress who formerly favored tight controls. Among them is Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of the Senate Banking Committee, which is considering renewal of the Act.

Bending before that sentiment, the OPS says it is developing programs under which some prices would be decontrolled if and when the OPS considered such action to be warranted.

This year, as before, Administration supporters will argue that only the "pressure groups," which they do not define, want price controls removed. Listening to that argument, some members of Congress find it difficult to square it with some recent testimony, such as that of a Rhode Island grocer and meat cutter.

The OPS, he said, will not allow him any more margin on "choice" than on "straight line" canned fruits and vegetables—even though, as a small independent grocer, he always received such margin. Moreover, he added, OPS computes his allowable gross on meat sales on the assumption that all meat sales sell at the ceiling prices, whereas some cuts have been selling below ceilings. It seems that housewives do not go by OPS reckoning.

As a result, this man said, his gross profit last year was 12.43 per cent while his expenses were 14.11 per cent, leaving him a loss of 1.63 per cent. His dollar volume was only $400 different from that of 1950 when there was no price control.

"I guess I'm that small businessman everybody bleeds for," he told the Senate Banking Committee, "but believe me, all that is happening so far as I'm concerned is that I'm getting even smaller and I don't like it."

Kidney X-Ray Pictures Improved by New Chemical

Use of a new chemical in taking X-ray pictures of the kidneys produces fewer undesirable reactions in patients, according to two University of Michigan doctors.

The new substance, which gives a white silhouette to the kidneys under X-ray, is called Urokon.

The substance was studied for a period of 18 months in a total of 1,481 patients at the University of Michigan hospital by Dr. Reed M. Nesbit, professor of surgery, and Dr. Jack Lapides, instructor in surgery and a United States public health service postdoctorate research fellow.

In a 30 per cent solution, Urokon was found to produce relatively fewer cases of nausea, vomiting, foreign taste, arm pain and allergic reactions than the compounds most widely used at the present time, the doctors reported.

The Urokon solution was administered to patients by intravenous injections to enable the doctors to detect abnormalities such as kidney tumors, enlarged kidneys, injuries to kidneys and the presence of kidney stones.

In the study conducted at the University of Michigan hospital, four X-ray exposures were taken on each patient, the doctors explained. These included one pre-injection film, one film five minutes after administration of the radio-opaque substance, another film 15 minutes after injection, and a fourth film with the patient in an upright position immediately following the 15 minute exposure.

Rain by the Yard

Looking at long-time averages, Hawaii probably can claim about the wettest spot on the globe's dry land. On the seaward slope of its Mt. Waialeale, 42 feet of rainfall is recorded in an average year. But for vast spreading Hawaiian acres, where sugar cane and pineapple grow, irrigation is essential to the crops. The vapor-laden monsoon off the Bay of Bengal drowns forests of the mountains of Burma and Assam in rain that totals 30 feet a year at some points. Most of it falls in two summer months. In contrast, desert reaches on the several continents vie for "driest" honors with points where annual rainfall ranges from virtual zero to one inch.

Mrs. Mazie Sullivan is spending several weeks with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Jones, Baltimore. Things to think about. "Money cannot go to Heaven, but it can do something heavenly here on the earth." "To give your car a lasting finish, try beating a train to a crossing." "The driver is safer when the roads are dry the roads are safer when the driver is dry." "Don't take life so seriously; you won't get out of it alive no matter how much you stew."

Can you imagine churches in this country—your church—being closed and destroyed? Can you picture churches—yes, you and your family—being brutally assailed at home and on the street, not only by non-religious groups, but by military units? Right now it would appear that such a barbaric situation would never be tolerated here. Yet, sad to relate, there is a subtle and deliberate effort on the part of a seemingly far-removed mass of subversives in and out of government circles to inoculate America—this land of religious freedom—with venom and intolerance. Unless this trend toward communism from within is stopped, it can happen here. Tolerance has been the lifeblood of this country. Let us resist any attack upon it... now and for all time. (From Milwaukee News Sentinel.)

FEESERSBURG

Potatoes are scarcer than her's teeth. In fact, they are chief food item in the nation's black markets. In some city markets customers are forced to buy certain amounts of other vegetables to get potatoes. This situation is the reverse of recent years. Since 1941 the gov't had supported the price of potatoes. When price supports were withdrawn last year growers cut their acreage. The present shortage and higher prices are the result. To make the situation worse, Canada also is experiencing a potato shortage and buying millions of bushels of Maine, New York and Long Island potatoes. Until new potatoes come into production, which will be in May or early June, the potato supply will be short. Housewives will have to supplement their menu with hominy, rice and macaroni.

The culinary artists of the Elmer Wolfe P. T. A. cooked up a fine menu Tuesday evening when they served the Dairyman's Herd Improvement Association their annual banquet. The menu consisted of tomato cocktail, roast turkey, mashed potatoes, sauer kraut, succotash, fruit, cake and coffee, celery, pickles, real, which incidentally pleased everyone, Mr. Seabinger of College Park addressed the membership on the subject of butter-fat testing. Mr. Herbert Snyder served as toast master. The banquet and meeting was held at the Elmer Wolfe school.

Mrs. Louisa Haugh of Detour who recently had a bad fall, has completely recovered. Mrs. Haugh is enjoying her 94th year of fruitful living.

Russell Wetzal, a patient at Fort Howard, suffering with pneumonia is responding to treatment and recovering satisfactorily.

When Father Flanagan started Boystown it was on the principle that there was no such thing as a "bad boy." Confucius, that wise member of the Chinese race wrote "All men are born good." The longer one lives and the more one studies his friends and neighbors, the more convinced one becomes in the belief that there is an ember of goodness in every person. Sometimes it is hidden underneath a coating of selfishness, meanness, envy and hate, but nevertheless it is there, waiting for someone with an understanding heart to fan the hidden ember into a glow of goodness. Who really knows what lies buried in another's heart, or what inner turmoil exists in another's mind? The presence of earning a living, illness, the worry of insecurity, loneliness, all these cause people to act sometimes far different from what they really are underneath the surface.

Damage to county and state roads by frost boils is comparatively light in this area. Some county roads are pitted, but nothing like last winter. Frost boils are created by periods of freezing and thawing. The roads that have taken a beating this winter are in the county mud roads, which are in about as bad a condition as I have seen them in the last 15 years. Anyone that has had to travel a Carroll county mud road knows what it is like, and for anyone that has never been marooned on one it is an experience they can well do without.

Mrs. Ross Wilhide is well again after a long bout with virus pneumonia.

Mrs. Edmond Venzie, Jr., of Philadelphia is spending this week with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Saylor.

The sale of personal property of the late Minnie Baker which took place Saturday at her late home proved interesting due to the prices paid for the china and glassware by the buyers. A green glass pitcher of unusual color and design brought 24 dollars, while a small blue and gold china teapot standing about three inches high brought 22 dollars. Iron stone china and English bone china also brought above average prices. The collection of quilts were lovely and the prices ranged from 7 to 25 dollars. The sale was unusual because every piece of china and glassware was a collector's item.

Miss Nancy Roelke was among the students presented in a piano recital Thursday evening at Peabody in Baltimore.

It looks like a lot of voters are for "Ike" including republicans, democrats and independents. Maybe the average American is smarter than the professional politicians think he is. People are getting tired of the pollsters and the professionals telling them how they are expected to vote. This time the voters are going to do the telling.

According to one well known life insurance company 25 per cent of the people of the United States are overweight by 15 pounds. Come to think about it that's a lot of weight and it takes an awful lot of food to put that much weight on. The worst thought is that it's all wasted for being overweight does nobody any good. If you are interested there are now about 30 million T. V. sets in operation. In 1950 there were 5 million. The goal for 1952 is one in every home with an extra one in the garage. Visitors at Merry Knoll over the week end were Mrs. David Buffington of Catonsville and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fink and children of Walkersville.

There are some funny laws on the books but one of the silliest I have come across is the one in Michigan forbidding any bee to enter that state in a sealed package. Maryland bees take warning—stay in your own clover patch or in your own apple tree and not head for Michigan or you will be put to hard labor for life trying to extract honey out of a pine tree.

Recently a woman in Baltimore was granted a divorce from her husband on the grounds of misrepresentation. It seems he led her to believe he was a plumber making three dollars an hour, when actually he was only a banker. And if the reader thinks this story is far fetched, about two weeks ago a vice president of a bank in Hanover resigned his job to go into the tile business. It just goes to show values do change and some of them radically.

The Irish enjoyed their day on Monday with parades and good fun. Some of us have to wonder just why the Irish are so good humored and bubbling over with friendliness and good will. When ever there is an Irishman within a radius of ten miles, everyone knows it by his laughter, his wit and optimism. Sometimes it seems our Creator gave the Irish that something special that no other set of men possess. It is charm and a secret knowledge that everything in life will eventually turn out all right. God bless the Irish and may their number multiply.

THIS 'N THAT

appeared real, so real that I took another look over my shoulder. The gay colored suits were most fetching. Walking over Saratoga Street to Park Avenue to my favorite, "Rice Inn," dining on that famous Shrimp Chou Mein and as for the tea—oh yes the Chinese can brew tea most steps to Saratoga Street and stepped into the Gift Shop (opened just one month)—Mary Morgan is the executive who was formerly of Hutzler's. The gifts were exquisite and just so very different—that's all! Distinctive plus if you ask me! Two-o-nine Saratoga Street—west.

Then on to my very favorite Department Store—"HOSCHILD'S" of course—that store which has never left a customer down and I think you know after all these years just what I mean. That store built its reputation and on the original, "THE CUSTOMER IS ALWAYS RIGHT!"

Spring and Hoshild's must have intrigued Your Observer up to their Beauty Salon which is full of Southern Hospitality and charm. The most gracious Hostess and Manager came forward to meet me and she turned me over to a most capable operator. One look at the operator convinced me that I could place by "Crowning Glory" in her hands! She gave me a slight "Poodle Cut" and then curled my hair in its own natural wave (a trifle tighter) and the appearance after all was said and done was most impressive. Many of the ladies with whom I come in contact daily were most enthusiastic about my new hair-do asking me many questions and especially who was the operator and where! One lady said, "It has made you appear ten years younger!" Now, that is real news and that as we all desire. Eh, Ladies? The affect and results have pleased Your Observer to such an extent that I will go back to that famous store next week. In addition to the Beauty Salon, there are the Beauty Culture Rooms which are the talk of Maryland and what they really can do for you is something out of this world. As I interviewed one patron she stated the thing that impressed her was that the operators look their time and did not rush the services. That means that the treatments regardless of the type are more thorough as you know.

Walking up Howard Street stopped a few minutes to say "Hello" and "Adios" to one of the executives of the Steiff Piano Co. Think of it after being in the piano business for one hundred and ten years—they are closing Shop!

I browsed around in the furniture store of Minch Eisenbrey (that old company) which in it's day was a most exclusive affair. They are really having 20% reduction on all their merchandise and that legitimate, too! Such real values! There was something positively brand new and right from "The Guild" in California and that in a very handsome Spice Cabinet in Maple with a radio installed! The price was $79.00. Just the cutest—ever and the most original of any type of radio manufactured by any company. You would love that one!

There is another "Alohe" shop, Ladies just opened across from the Gas & Electric Company where those marvelous values of hose are sold for that little one dollar bill—an exclusive hose shop.

Did you see and hear, Folks that wonderful "Welcome Back" of Arthur Godfrey on T. V. last Monday night on the Talent Scout programme? No other celebrity can compare with him. He is truly in a class all by himself. Now, here's something for all the neighbors to think about and as it should be.

A cellar was being constantly filled with water each time there were heavy rains by coming down the huge slope of the property owned by the neighbor next door. Finally, the neighbor who owned the house where the rain caused so much damage realized just the cause and went to the nice neighbor and described it and when that nice neighbor came over to "the little house," he immediately said, "I'll have that remedied this week and I am sorry that it has caused you so much worry. Had I known before it would have been attended to right away!" That from a farmer who is from that State of Indiana—you know—where Herb Shriver on T.V. says all the neighbors are so nice way out in Indiana!

So long, Folks. Have a nice week end. Be good and be careful and always remember "TO LOVE THY NEIGHBOR" Will be seeing you, D.V.

Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER

WILL YOU ANSWER?

The American people have always responded generously to appeals for human needs. An appeal which seldom strikes deaf ears is that of the Red Cross. Those who know about the Red Cross, know something of the great work it is doing, and the various types of services it is rendering. The following is a brief list of important services rendered last year to the expanded armed forces and to the families of men in uniform. The Red Cross offered counsel on personal and family problems, gave money in emergencies, presented toilet articles to the men in combat and to the wounded, rendered personal help in time of trouble. The Red Cross also was always ready with life-saving first aid for accident victims, with help for disaster stricken families, and blood for wounded servicemen, and for civilian hospitals. Last year, the American people through their Red Cross helped millions of fellow Americans with money and personal services, said the national Red Cross president. There was a monthly average last year of 316,000 cases and requests for various kinds of services and help.

In the 18 months since the start of the Korean War, Americans, through their Red Cross, have donated 1,225,000 pints of blood for the armed forces. In the same period, an additional 1,861,000 pints were collected and made available by the Red Cross, without charge, to civilian hospitals throughout the land. The blood program alone, last year, cost the Red Cross $13,985,113. Each person who contributed either money or blood, or both, feel proud of the part he had in the tremendous program of the Red Cross.

That no one may be overlooked, the campaign of the Red Cross for funds and memberships continues through March 31. The appeal is also for blood donors.

The slogan, "Answer the Call," is significant.

WILL YOU ANSWER?

The call of Nature is strong in the breast of those who lived their youth in the country. "Swinging in the grapevine swing, Swinging where the wild birds sing; I dream and sigh for the days gone by Swinging in the grapevine swing. But swiftly the tides of music run, And swiftly speed the hours. Life's pleasures end when scarce begun, 'E'en as the summer flowers."

The spiritual sense of life and its grand pursuits is of itself a bliss, health-giving and joy inspiring.—Mary Baker Eddy.

You find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people. Why not make earnest effort to confer that pleasure on others?—Mrs. Lydia M. Child.

SHORT STORY

Personal System

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

JEFF CHAPPELL was dumb. He was a big, burly lad. You couldn't help liking him. But he was dumb. I was assistant coach that fall at Redfield and I had all I could do to keep Jeff in the first string varsity. Head Coach Charlie Judd was impatient about it.

"There's no place on this team for a guy who can't remember signals," Charlie said. "We can't afford to take the chance. If you and I are going to keep our jobs we've got to chalk up a few scores—after last year's record."

"He's the best halfback I've ever seen work," I argued. "You'll make a mistake dropping him. He's our big hope for this year."

Charlie consented to let Jeff play in the first three games. After the third he came stomping into my room, his face black. "Well," he snorted, "What you got to say now? Your friend lost today's game. He lost it because he got his signals twisted in the last quarter."

"But how about the first two games?" I asked. "It was that same boy that turned defeat into victory for us. Two to one isn't bad, Charlie. It's better than any of those other lugs are doing."

"Nuts!" said Charlie. But when Charlie thought it over he agreed. He was still pretty sore. Any kid who couldn't absorb a set of simple signals ought to have something done about him. I tried to do it. I got Jeff up to my room nights. We went over and over the signals.

The next Saturday we played Herrick, and beat them easily. Or Jeff Chappell beat them. You couldn't stop the boy. The victory gave us a lift, but behind it there was always that haunting fear that next Saturday or the next or the next, the kid would go haywire and start running in the wrong direction, or something.

Charlie and I held our breaths all fall. Figuratively, of course.

NOVEMBER came around and time for the all-important Hubbard fracas. Hubbard was our traditional enemy. Beating them was all that was necessary to make the season complete.

Two days before the game Charlie came up to my room. "If we win Saturday," he said, "we won't have to worry about being in solid." He looked thoughtful. I knew what he was thinking.

"If you don't let the kid play we won't have a chance," I said. "There's a bare hope of winning without him." Charlie scratched his chin. "If I put him in there's always a chance—"

"The kid's got the signals down pat," I said quickly. "He's proved it. You know as well as I that without Jeff Chappell we're licked."

Charlie wasn't sure. You could see he was scared stiff. He wanted assurance, and I gave it to him. My confidence in the kid settled the thing in Charlie's mind. He agreed to play Chappell. Despite our record and the fact that we had Jeff Chappell the odds were on Hubbard. Hubbard had a clean record. Their victories had been won by big margins.

The first quarter and the second ended with no score. In the third, the Hubbard fullback snaked through our line and sprinted 30 yards for a touchdown. They failed to kick the point.

In the fourth the Hubbard left half came around right end on a trick play. Our whole backfield was fooled. All except Jeff Chappell. Uncannily Jeff, a lone figure, was there to stop him. That gave us the ball. We made three yards in three downs, and then, instead of booting, Cole, our quarter, gave Jeff Chappell the ball and Jeff made as pretty a run as you'd ever seen anywhere. Cole kicked the extra point. A minute later the whistle blew.

After it was over I got Jeff up into my room. "Listen," I said "how about it? That trick play of Hubbard's was a corker. How come it didn't fool you, too?"

He grinned sheepishly. After while I got the story. Jeff never did get the signals straight, but he discovered a system all his own. He'd watch the toes of the opposing players. If the play was going left, the majority of toes would point that way. Instinctively. And the same applied to our boys. It never failed. Jeff said he'd heard something like that on the radio. I never told Charlie.

California's New Goal: The All-American Olive

There is no flagging in California's zest for superlatives. In the future the Golden Gate's olive industry will settle for nothing less than "ideal."

This search for perfection is not surprising in the light of the state's 85-year-old olive growing record. Less than 50 years ago its growers developed the popular canned ripe olive, an innovation of considerable importance to a 4,000-year-old industry.

Today, University of California agriculturists are not content that the olive has been used through recorded time as staple food, tempting delicacy and medicine, and that its oil has served for soap, lamp fuel, salad dressing, and cooking fat. These scientists now seek to combine the best qualities of all olive varieties in one American-produced variety.

About the middle of the 19th century, when California was filled with many not too successful gold miners, olive growing experienced its first boom period. Wishful thinkers—relying on a saying of Pliny—accepted the fable that olive trees thrive best in adversity. Trees were planted on the most arid hillsides and given no care at all. The resultant crop failures gave the infant industry a serious setback.

When it was learned that olive culture required work but was worth it, about 80 types of olives were imported from Mediterranean countries to mix with the Mission variety, first brought to California by the early Franciscan missionaries. Most of the imported varieties were good for olive oil, the chief use of the American olive at the turn of the century.

Then, Californians discovered that olives could be ripened on the tree, the bitterness neutralized and the fruit canned. As a result, most of the many foreign varieties were allowed to die out, leaving the Mission, Manzanillo, Sevillano, Ascolano and Barouni, the state's chief varieties today.

Foam Rubber May Be Used In Upholstery Industry

Foam rubber, now available on the market, will probably in time revolutionize home and commercial upholstery, since it is extremely easy to handle and has proved satisfactory in use.

It is especially good for separate cushions, pads for dining and breakfast room chairs, and built-in benches. The cost of the rubber is the limiting factor at the present time. Foam rubber does away with springs and the consequent time and labor involved in packing and padding to shape. It has been used successfully in the commercial field for the entire chair. It can be cut to shape with ordinary household shears and comes in different widths and thicknesses. The upholstery material is applied directly over the foam rubber. The whole is lightweight and durable.

Moss, tow, and hair are the materials commonly used now for padding upholstery. The hair is the most resilient but it is costly. The moss, known as southern moss or Spanish moss, is found along our coast from Texas to Florida, in eastern Virginia and southward to Brazil. It may be gray or black in color and varies in quality. That which is cured longer is darker in color and makes a cleaner and better upholstery fiber.

It has been found that foam rubber can be pieced by placing one and one-half inch adhesive tape lightly over the edge, holding closely together. Foam rubber can be built up into thicker cushions by using rubber cement around the edges or in strips.

Farmers Urged to Guard Against Livestock Poisons

Farm items that most people never think of as dangerous to animals are responsible for many cases of accidental livestock poisoning every year.

A veterinary medical bulletin lists poisonous plants, chemicals for seed treatment, polluted drinking water, fertilizers, insecticides, rat poisons, lead paint, cleaning and polishing agents, and certain medicine chest remedies as sources of stock poisoning.

With the exception of toxic plants, most of these items are not suspected when there are unexplained deaths in herds and flocks, the bulletin points out. Instead, owners are likely to blame commercial feeds or hostile neighbors when animals appear to have been poisoned.

In some cases, even an autopsy by a veterinarian does not reveal the exact cause of death, and a further search must be made. Feed troughs and floors should be examined, a search made for pails containing lead paint, and the entire farm grounds inspected for possible sources of poison.

The erroneous belief that hogs can eat "anything" and digest it explains many pig losses on farms throughout the nation, the bulletin states. If it were not for the fact that pigs easily vomit toxic agents, more of them would die of poisoning.

Farmers are urged to put a mental tag of "Poison" on all products not known to be safe and to be careful when using such products around livestock. This will help to prevent needless losses.

Only Sharpest Soldiers Make Honor Guard

WASHINGTON—The sharpest soldiers in SHAPE are found in the ranks of the 557th Infantry Rifle Platoon.

A separate unit officially designated as the European Command Honor Guard, the 557th Infantry Rifle Platoon is a top flight outfit famous for its pride and "esprit de corps."

Original members of the honor guard were hand picked from the best troops in Europe at the time of its activation four years ago. Replacements have been selected on the basis of continuing high standards.

Requirements

Candidates for membership in the unit are weighed for size, mentality and character. They must be at least 5 feet, 9½ inches tall, have an Army General Classification Test score of 90 or above and be of "good" character.

In addition, they have to be able to set an example of neatness and military bearing both on and off duty. Honor guardsmen must be American soldiers at their best.

The 557th is distinctive in its uniform as well. Members supplement the standard olive-drab jacket and trousers with a white scarf and lanyard, cut down ox-blood cavalry boots with white lacing, brass-studded pistol belts and yellow cotton or dark brown leather gloves.

The unit has three types of headgear. One is a chrome-plated helmet, another is a green helmet-liner which carries the European Command patch and the words, "557th Honor Guard," and the third is the general issue olive-drab service cap.

Originally designated as the 370th Infantry Honor Guard, the 557th was formed from component elements of the 370th and 371st Armored Infantry Battalions.

Intensive Training

After 12 weeks of intensive training, the unit was transferred from its activation base at Grafenwohr, Germany, to Munich and its name was changed to the 777th Infantry Platoon Honor Guard. After a subsequent move, April 15, 1948, to Frankfurt, the unit became the official Honor Guard of European Command Headquarters.

In its official capacity, the 557th Infantry Platoon (Separate) Honor Guard—the unit's name after December, 1948—has appeared before all the high-ranking officers and dignitaries who have visited the headquarters.

To keep in readiness for their "VIP" appearances, guard members receive 44 hours of training weekly. This includes seven hours spent on inspections, two hours for ceremonies, 15 hours of drilling and 20 hours divided among other military subjects.

The average age of the honor guards is 24 years and about a third of them are World War II veterans. Regardless of his experience, however, it takes the average "recruit" three months to learn to perform all of the guard's drills without flaw.

Despite its relatively short life, the 557th Infantry Rifle Platoon has become a tradition in the European Command and the newly-formed Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe.

Delaware Towns Expand as U.S. Steel Constructs New Mill

MORRISVILLE, Pa. — Growing pains are bothering the small communities on the Delaware river between Yardley and Bristol a short distance from the $400,000,000 steel mill being constructed by United States Steel company.

The most pressing needs are increased traffic facilities, enlarged local government services, expanded school operations, hospital accommodations, new business centers and more public transportation.

Two major development corporations, currently engaged in constructing self-contained towns for some 60,000 persons, are expected to keep pace with housing requirements, barring a sudden influx of workers to the steel plant and allied industries in the area.

One company will soon complete the first 1,100 home unit of Fairless Hills. The town is rising on 1,250 acres of rolling farm land at Oxford Valley, four miles west of the new steel plant. Ultimately it is to have from 3,500 to 4,000 prefabricated houses, plus more than a score of custom built dwellings.

Another company is busy with the initial construction phase of "a complete city of 16,000 homes" on a 3,000 acre tract.

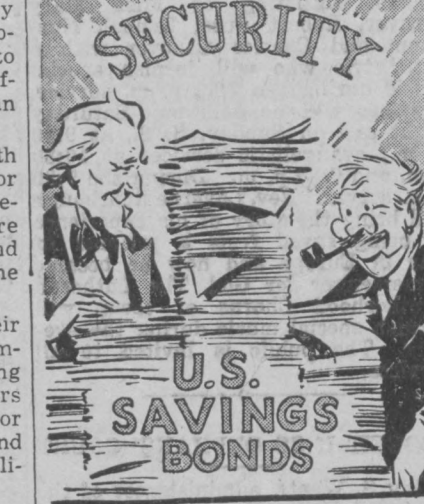

Erection of the Fairless works, which began last March, has gone well. At present, some 6,800 construction workers are engaged in the project in the river front flat lands south of Morrisville.

When completed next year, the plant will employ 6,000 persons and turn out 1,800,000 ingot tons of steel a year.

The new community of Fairless Hills, when completed next year, will have at its hub a civic center, schools, modern shopping area, fire station, dispensary, parks, playground and swimming pool. In the same area, sites are being set aside for churches and the erection of a high school.

The other modern Bucks county community will be known as Levittown.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Acts 16: 6-40.
 DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 31:10-31.

Business Woman

Lesson for March 23, 1952

There were no timetables and no maps on the ship that carried Paul from Troas to Samothrace and Neapolis. But even if there had been maps posted in the passengers' cabin, and even if they had had the words ASIA and EUROPE where they ought to have been, it is doubtful whether Paul or any of his party would have thought that as important as we think it is.

Dr. Foreman

For the Christian religion was now for the first time, so far as we know, leaping from the continent of its birth to the continent where it would have power for more than a thousand years. But Luke, writing Acts, does not even notice this fact. To educated people of that day, the name of the continent of "Europe" meant little or nothing. It was mostly populated by barbarians anyway.

The important world of that day was centered around the Mediterranean. Going into Macedonia from Troas was simply going from one province of the Roman Empire to another. Centuries went by before Christians realized what an epoch-making step this was.

She Was at Prayer-Meeting

If there were no maps, there were no Hotel Red Books, either. There was no way of wiring ahead for accommodations. When Paul arrived in Philippi, a strange city, he did not look up the Travelers' Aid or the Chamber of Commerce; he hunted up the nearest prayer-meeting.

There he met and converted the woman named Lydia, the first European ever to become a Christian. She is in many ways a kind of sample of many and many a Christian after her. For one thing, she was a business woman, a seller of purple, that is, the purple dye which was so expensive and so much in demand in those days.

It is an interesting fact that while Christianity draws from every level of society, top to bottom, the first convert in all Europe was not a rich man, not a beggar, not a professional man, not a slave, but an independent, middle-class business woman.

Successful Salesman

CHRISTIANITY has always appealed to salesmen. They do not pretend to be the greatest people on earth, but they have always helped to make the world go 'round.

One of the most vigorous Christian organizations in America is the Gideons, made up entirely of traveling salesmen. It would be interesting to think what it is about the Christian religion that appeals especially to business people, but we must pass on.

Lydia, we note, must have been successful in her purple-dye business, since she had a home big enough to entertain the entire missionary party. Able, successful people, people who can go out against stiff competition and make good—the Christian church is well supplied with such persons. They have always been the backbone of the church.

Then Lydia was also a successful woman. Some religions, such as Islam, appeal especially to men, and leave women out of the picture except in so far as they can be useful to men.

Christ, on the contrary, ever since the earliest days in Galilee has made an appeal to both men and women. Indeed, one of the greatest triumphs of Christianity has been what it has done for womankind. If woman's lot over the world is better than it was 3,000 years ago, if women would rather live, if they had their choice, in Christian lands than where Christianity has never taken strong foothold, it is because of the kind of religion that Christianity is.

Open Heart, Open Home

FURTHERMORE and most important, Lydia devoted what she had to the service of Christ and his cause. She set her house at the disposal of Paul and his missionary friends, and we can well imagine that Lydia had a large part in later years, in sending those parcels to Paul in prison at Rome. How much the church owes to hospitable women!

A good church is one into which the women who are members carry the same hospitality that is their habit at home, not only opening their homes to ministers, missionaries, Christian workers, but making the church itself a home-away-from-home for the lonely.

Life without a woman's touch would be a dreary thing; and so would a womanless church.

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger-car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences.

Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you. You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

Ocean Ships Go Up-River To Get Iron

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Engineers in Venezuela are ready to bring a mountain through a jungle and across a sea to the United States.

Early in 1952, two of the largest dredges in the Western Hemisphere will begin gnawing their way up the Orinoco River. Ocean-going ore ships as big as the battleship Missouri eventually will follow, churning 170 miles upriver through jungle-walled wilderness to bring out the brick-red treasure of Cerro Bolivar, Venezuela's mountain of iron.

For hungry U.S. blast furnaces, dredging of an Orinoco ship channel will bring closer a tremendous iron ore reserve. One of the world's richest deposits, it lies in a wild, lonely region across the Caribbean that until four years ago was virtually unmapped and uninhabited.

Hills of Iron Ore

Between the Andes and the Atlantic, sweeping nearly the entire breadth of Venezuela, are the flat, featureless Orinoco Llanos (plains), covered with wiry grass and dotted by scrubby trees. On their southeastern flank, the savanna rises in broken mesas and low hills to the "Gran Sabana," great jungle of the Guiana highlands; to the northeast, it merges into the mangrove-choked swamps of the Orinoco delta.

Venezuela's iron district lies on the fringe between savanna and jungle. Just east of the Caroni River, tributary of the Orinoco, is one open mine, El Pao, which has already begun sending iron ore to Baltimore, shipping it down the river in shallow-draft barges.

Cerro Bolivar, west of the Caroni, is a prominent hill about six miles long, rising 1,800 feet above the plain. Until recent years, it was known as La Parida. In April, 1947, geologists discovered that the entire top of the mountain is high-grade iron ore.

With better than half a billion tons of ore already proved, the Orinoco Mining Company plans to slice off Cerro Bolivar's crest in 35 to 50-foot horizontal cuts. This open pit mine will one day be as large as the yawning Hull-Rust-Mahoning pit, champion of America's Mesabi Range. It will send some ten million tons of ore a year to U.S. steel mills before 1960.

El Dorado

Ore will move from the mine to the junction of the Caroni and Orinoco by standard-gauge railroad, traveling about 90 miles to a riverside loading port, named Puerto Ordaz. From there it will follow the ship channel down the Orinoco and its Cano Macareo delta branch to the Gulf of Paria west of Trinidad.

Below San Felix on the Orinoco, port for Venezuela's centuries-old gold fields, the ore ships will pass two ancient Spanish forts atop rocky heights. These are Los Castillos, which Sir Walter Raleigh, seeking the legendary El Dorado, captured in 1618. The fracas cost the English adventurer his head.

Hemming in the delta's twisting waterways, from this point to the sea, is one of the most impenetrable jungles on earth. It is inhabited only by Guarauno (Warrau) Indians, who build their rude, palm-thatched huts on piles along the water's edge.

French Announce Nylon Stocking—Sheerest Yet

PARIS—A French manufacturer has announced what he describes as the sheerest nylon stockings in the world. The French lingerie industry has hailed the new stocking as capital victory for France, claiming, "there is nothing like this in America."

The 10 denier stockings, weighing five grams and made of a nylon thread 100 miles long, bears the name "exciting" and will cost about $4.25 a pair.

The stockings are not yet on the commercial market, but manufacturers say they are producing them at the rate of 24 dozen pairs daily. A courtesy pair was presented to all Paris fashion writers.

"Exciting" stockings, according to the makers, are almost invisible, and, despite thinness, are supposed to be strong and long wearing.

Too Fat, Too Clean, Story Of Commie Demolition Agent

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA—A young North Korean girl, who admitted mining several roads behind the Marine lines on the east-central front, was captured by Korean Marines in a hut containing several cases of dynamite.

The patrol was checking a village behind the front to make sure all enemy civilians had been cleared from the area when they encountered the girl.

Standing in a door frame, the girl smiled and readily assented when told that civilians must evacuate the area. But the South Korean captain became suspicious of her well-fed appearance and clean clothing in a land where rags and starvation are the rule.

A search of the hut revealed the dynamite and she confessed being a trained Communist demolition agent.

Great Care, Skill, Needed In Producing Maple Syrup

Maple syrup operations in Maine are generally classified as an agricultural sideline, but profits in good years have often erased the financial frowns from many a syrup producer.

Producing high quality syrup is an exacting art, requiring painstaking care on the part of the operator during the evaporating stage to see that the liquid is drawn off at the "exact" moment to bring maximum returns. In addition, a great deal of time and effort must be employed, for it normally takes between forty and fifty gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup.

Although in the last two years maple syrup production in Maine has been curtailed by unfavorable weather conditions, normally the state's syrup production will reach 62,000 gallons with maple sugar adding another 15,400 pounds to the crop total.

An interesting phase of the Maine maple syrup picture is that approximately half of the state's production of syrup and sugar is processed and sold outside the state by a group of French Canadians operating near the boundary line in Piscataquis, Somerset and Aroostook counties.

For many years, these Canadians living near these boundary points have leased maple trees on wild lands owned by lumber companies and there manufactured syrup and sugar which is then auctioned off to out-of-state maple product concerns for resale.

Experts in maple product operations have declared that maple syrup tends to be stronger in flavor the further north that it is produced with the result that the Maine syrup has a distinctive flavor that satisfies the most demanding taste.

It is expected that Grade A syrup will bring this year between $5.50 and $6.00 a gallon to Maine producers.

People Safer Than Animals In Germ War, Doctor Says

If another war should come, America's herds and flocks might be easy targets for test-tube warfare, but the danger is not as great as alarmists have claimed.

This is the word from a man who directed some of the nation's wartime preparations for defending the livestock industry against possible "germ" warfare.

He is Dr. R. A. Kelsler, former chief of the Army Veterinary Corps and now dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Pennsylvania.

In an address before the New Jersey Veterinary Medical Society at Trenton, N. J., Dr. Kelsler declared that "there is no justification whatever for some of the predictions of vast potentialities and dire results inherent in biological warfare."

"On the other hand," he said, "an attitude of complete complacency and the assumption that nothing of consequence could be accomplished through biological warfare also would be a mistake."

If such warfare were waged, people would have a better chance of surviving it than animals in farm herds and flocks, he pointed out. The spread of an infectious disease in human beings usually is more or less limited to the family unit. Also, people can be alerted quickly to protect themselves against health threats.

Animals, however, ordinarily live in large herds, droves, or flocks, sharing the same grounds, quarters, and feed—with the result that infectious germs can spread rapidly among them and strike down large numbers at once.

"Moreover," Dr. Kelsler added, "getting contaminated or infected feed to animals would offer less difficulty and less risk of detection than would be the case with man."

Gold from Base Metals

Have scientists ever succeeded in making gold from a base metal is a question often asked. The answer is yes, but only in extremely minute quantities and by methods which cost far more than the value of the gold produced. In 1941 two Harvard physicists bombarded mercury with atomic bullets from a cyclotron and turned it into a form of gold which was radioactive and itself decayed to other elements in a few days. Also, scientists have been able to produce a radioactive form of mercury, which then spontaneously changes to gold of the familiar and stable variety.

Beginning of Spectacles

The naturalist Pliny (first century A.D.) and other ancient writers knew about burning-glasses, which consisted of hollow glass balls filled with water. But these scientific pioneers apparently did not draw any conclusions about magnification or refraction from their glass spheres. For more than a thousand years the record of ophthalmic development is almost a blank. But obscure scientists were at work in the field, and a number of writers state clearly that spectacles were in use around the beginning of the 14th century.
