BANK HOLDS "OPEN HOUSE"

Public Views Enlarged Headquarters of The Birnie Trust Co.

Early yesterday (Thursday) telegrams, telephone calls and flowers began to arrive at the office of The Birnie Trust Company, expressing good wishes and congratulations upon the bank's observance of "Open House" that was to be held in the evening from 6 to 10 o'clock. The newly enlarged banking headquarters that the proudly presented to the steady stream of invited guests during the entire four hours was admired by everyone.

In 1884, the same year that Taneytown was incorporated, the first bank was started under the name of George H. Birnie and Company, a private bank. The firm consisted of George H. Birnie, Dr. George T. Motter and Edward E. Reindollar. The business was conducted in the red brick building which is now a dwelling owned by Mr. and Mrs. B. On March 1, 1900, by an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, George H. Birnie & Co., became incorporated under the name of The Birnie Trust Company. A larger working space for employees and better storage facilities. Private office and conference room for the use of patrons.

BANKERS MET

Responsibilities and Duties of Directors Discussed

Group Two of the Maryland Bankers Association met on Wednesday evening at the Francis Scott Key Hotel for their semi-annual banquet.

The meeting was devoted to a panel discussion of the responsibilities and duties of bank directors. At the close of the discussion the following officers were elected for the coming year: Chairman, W. Bartgis Storm, Citizens National Bank of Frederick; vice-chairman, Frank A. Conaway, First National Bank, of Mt. Airy, secretary-treasurer, Carroll Jenkins, Commercial and Farmers Bank, of Ellicott City; representative to the Maryland Bankers Association, Charles E. Arnold, Cashier of The Birnie Trust Company, Taneytown, Md., retiring chairman of Group Two presided at the meeting.

Forming a panel for discussion and questions which followed were: Harvey Emmert, Baltimore National Bank, chairman; John D. Hospelhorn, Maryland Deputy Bank Commissioner and William B. Alexander, Fidelity Trust Co., of Baltimore. Mentioning the requirements of a bank director such as residence, the required par value banks must maintain and the registration of stock, started the discussion. According to one member of the panel if a director conscientiously serves under the conditions of a private enterprise he has nothing to fear—if he uses his own honest judgment.

Some directors, said the panel, are very negligent in their duties. When elected they should represent the corporation by taking an active part in conducting business of the bank.

Particularly stressed in the discussion was the directors' examination. Being a director is more than being present at a meeting of the board, according to the speakers. A director should know the bank by taking periodic looks at the workings of the institution. A committee of the directors should conduct an investigation of the status of the bank. Bonds and securities, loans, collateral, cashiers checks and deposits, insurance and blanket bond all were mentioned.

Expansions and improvements are very important said the panel. For some time directors have been reluctant to make mechanical improvements it was stated. But it is a matter of good labor relations to make the bank a good place to work. Salaries and new machinery were also discussed with the panel agreeing that banks must pay for the kind of work that it is essential to have. After a question period in which some points were clarified the meeting was adjourned.

Special guests at the meeting included Samuel Cassen, president of the Maryland Bankers Association; Charles A. Piper, vice-president of the Maryland Bankers Association; Mathias F. Reese, secretary MBA; William Elliot, assistant secretary MBA; William H. Kirkwood, Maryland Bank Commissioner; H. P. Burdette, chairman of the agricultural committee MBA; L. Vinton Hershey, Baltimore Branch Federal Reserve Bank; Barnard Armstrong and A. C. Weimert, assistant cashiers, Baltimore branch Federal Reserve Bank; Thomas E. McConnell, Maryland Trust Company.

THIS 'N' THAT

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Everything turned green practically over night since the real April showers and right now is the most beautiful time to take a vacation with the country sides so picturesque.

Don't throw away any "Greeting Cards" hereafter even if they are very old as Mrs. O'Neill places them attractively in scrap books to send to hospitalized children. Even if they are of the variety of birthday, "Stork", Christmas, Anniversary or Graduation just keep on sending them to Mrs. Terrance O'Neill—1400 Homestead Street—Zone 18, Baltimore, Md.

So that marriage of "Skit" and the lovely Paye Emerson is all over now! That was a big surprise to Your Observer as in the interview at Thanksgiving she appeared so very happy and spoke so beautifully of spending the week-ends with her husband at their country home after the rush of week days in the big city of New York.

Thinking of actresses—did you see Betty Davis on the Jimmy Durante show? She appeared more lovely than ever but frankly here is one who was very disappointed expecting to see a real show and the entire thing was smashing and breaking up of just about everything. Perhaps—my sense of humor was not up to par!

Then to see Bert Parks say "Adois" after three years with the same programme on T.V. with Dennis James of "Old Gold"! And that reminds me in answer to the letter from "around the town" if your number is called by Bert Parks on Sunday night—the one to that one is, "WAIT A LITTLE WHILE"—that would bring you that Jack Pot, I am sure.

Here's to the Ladies! What ever you do, start those bending down exercises nightly before retiring—starting with twelve for two weeks and then increase the number weekly for that

MAY DAY

May Day is different to different people. In my childhood it was a day set apart from classes in school and a day of picnicking in Mr. Kephart's woods where flowers were gathered, and at noon after lunch (we called it dinner in those days) a large dish of ice cream and a big slice of homemade cake was given to each pupil. Those were happy days and long remembered. The last of June—closing time—seemed a long way off. I liked school, and enjoyed the association with my fellows and for twenty years thereafter I was enrolled in school, seminary or college, but it didn't seem to do me a great deal of good. Much time was spent in Seminary—Boys school—in the study of Latin and Greek—four years of each. But those days are gone forever, so why worry about them. Friendships were formed that stretched around the world. We had Spanish students, and students from Japan and China, and also one real Indian with whom I once roomed, and a finer fellow never lived.

BE SURE TO VOTE

The American Government is sovereign and independent. The right to vote is a sacred privilege enjoyed by all yet exercised by less than 50% of our citizens. This ought not so to be. We do not believe in coercion, but it seems to me it would not be wrong to compel all citizens physically able to go to the polls to vote. Not that they will sell their vote for money, but that they do sell it for some petty or trifling thing that seems to them more important. Two sets of citizens are to be despised. Those who try to vote more than once, and those who fail to vote at all. Be sure to vote.

You must start now for best profit opportunity. The months of high egg prices start in September. If you don't start now, you won't have pullets ready to cash in when prices start to hit their peak. Come in and talk it over right now. Next fall you'll be glad you did.

MUSIC FOR THE LISTENING

Choirs of many colleges and universities tour the country each season bringing musical treats to the people. The reaction of the public to such a program is evidence of their understanding and appreciation of music.

One must be trained to enjoy the best in music, literature, painting, and other arts. A lack of aesthetic taste is frequently apparent in art galleries, where often there is manifest an impatience toward another or others who linger to drink in draughts of matchless beauty from paintings of master artists. The dullness and stupidity of people in the midst of the beautiful—either natural or artificial—is an index to the shallows of their aesthetic natures, and an indication of a tremendous loss from one source of enjoyment.

Because of music in the souls of youth, because of their optimism toward life, because of their smiles and cheers, and genial nature, a community will do itself well and be enriched by inviting one such choir to put on a program of music and entertainment, and thus imbibe some of the spirit, and ardor, and enthusiasm of this youthful group. One keeps young when working with youth.

There is nothing more pathetic than to witness people becoming grim and growing sour toward everything and everybody because they have lost or are losing the spirit of youth out of their souls. With the shades of their lives drawn against the sunshine, and against all that which tends to mellow the advancing years, they shutter the windows of the soul, rob the heart of its song, steal the smile from the face, and murder words of kindness and goodwill with faultfinding, complaint, and despair.

Your nearest social security office will issue you a social security card or a duplicate card to replace one that has been lost. If there is no social security office in your town, ask at the post office for an application blank.

A person who was 65 or over on September 1, 1950, needs only 1½ years of employment to be eligible for social security benefits. He is immediately eligible if he has already had that much work under the law.

More people wear out hold-back straps than they do traces.

FEESERSBURG

The six days of almost continuous rain has left most of us groggy mentally and slightly soggy physically. It was a rare cellar that didn't contain water, and an extra good roof that turned the gallons and gallons of water that poured down night and day. The land finally gave up and refused to drink any more and the streams and rivers finally filled to their banks and spilled over into highways and farmland. Even the animals grew tired of the wet and the cows refused to leave the barn even for the rich green grass in the pastures. Mike, the dog stayed in his house with only the tip of his nose showing and even a mother duck waded with her head along the meadow branch put her head beneath her wing and hoped the sun would soon emerge. The most fortunate shown by anything during the week of rain was displayed by two blackbirds. The female sat on her eggs constantly, though sometimes the wind had her nest at a 70 degree angle. Through it all her mate fed her constantly with worms of which there was no scarcity. On Tuesday the sun finally broke through and everyone breathed a sigh of relief and thankfulness.

"The night has a thousand eyes but the day just one. Yet the light of the whole world dies with the setting sun."—quotation.

Our neighbor and friend, Mrs. Ross Wilhide, died at 3 o'clock, Monday morning at the Frederick Memorial hospital where she had been a patient for the past two weeks. She had been ill at home for almost a year. The community has lost an outstanding citizen and the family has lost an understanding mother and wife. We extend to the Wilhide family our sincere sympathy in this time of sorrow.

The shortest night of the year occurred Saturday when one hour was borrowed from our sleeping time to tack on to the day so we have more time to work. Americans are always thinking up schemes to fool themselves with. Daylight saving is a plan to save daylight so we can play more. Do we do it? No, we work more. We invent time saving gadgets to save time and work and what happens? We work more. If the time we saved with our gadgets and schemes was really used for relaxation and for social life they would be worth having, but when they are used to create more work, it seems to many of us we create a vicious circle from which there is no escape.

About three months ago it seemed that some of our major National worries would finally be resolved, but this week new ones were confronting the nation and this time they seem more overpowering than the old problems. The main question is: How much power does the President really have as written in the constitution. The constitution like the Bible can be interpreted in a thousand ways; it all depends on the individual doing the interpreting. Judge Pine today (Tuesday) declared President Truman did not have the constitutionality of seizing the steel mills and so now the people will have to wait for the next move. This probably means a strike with all its complications. Korea is another headache which seems to go on forever. But since nothing lasts forever, not even a stalemate, one can expect one side or the other to make concessions and soon. It's a good thing the baseball season is with us. At least we can think of home runs, umpires and the Dodgers once in awhile instead of National problems every day in the week.

Going through a New York newspaper this week, I came across an interesting advertisement. If life is getting you down and you want to get away from it all you may be interested too. "Two hundred and twenty-three abandoned farms suitable for summer or permanent homes for sale in the valleys and mountains of cool beautiful western Massachusetts. Not all these farms are actually abandoned. Some of them are occupied; the land is no longer used for farming, but would be excellent for "gentlemen" farming, for gardens and summer and winter recreations. All with houses, many with trout brooks that can be made into swimming pools. These places are near village stores; fifteen minutes to an hour from shopping and cultural centers; two to three hours from Boston; three to four hours from New York City. Serene, quiet retreats that look on the purple mountains, the lush country side and the silver-green Connecticut River. Come and inspect these farms while you vacation at one of our many attractive hotels this summer." This advertisement reads very alluring, but our own Carroll County is so beautiful right now that one cannot imagine anyone trading it for any spot in America.

The best way for a housewife to get a few minutes entirely to herself at the end of the day is to start doing the dishes.

7th ANNUAL BABY DERBY MAY 3rd.

There was a time when it was considered fortunate to be born "with a silver spoon in your mouth", but any baby born this Saturday, May 3rd, between 12:01 a. m. and 12 p. m., will indeed be lucky because its proud parents will be the recipients of an award that will certainly be worthwhile and appropriate.

The famous Baby Derby conducted by the Acme Super Markets and American Stores grows each year in appeal and popularity and is a fitting climax to National Baby Week. This will be the 7th annual Baby Derby and all babies in this area on Saturday, May 3rd, will be eligible to receive a generous gift package of baby foods.

To obtain this gift package the father, aunts, uncles, relatives, friends, doctor or nurse need merely fill in the special coupon which will be found in the Acme Markets or American Stores advertisement in this newspaper and mail it to the address shown in the coupon not later than May 17th. Then, after the lists have been compiled and checked, the big prize box of baby food of every description will be delivered to the mother at her home.

Did not the editor and owner of the largest newspaper in the Northwest have something when he said to one who called to argue a matter? Unless you have given study and thought to the matter you have no right to an opinion—you have no opinion—for opinion is based upon information.

THE FAMILY

OTTO—In Memory of our dear mother and grandmother, AMANDA C., who died 3 years ago May 2.

Dear Mom,

Before our eyes you faded, Growing weaker every day, Patiently bearing your suffering, Until God took you away.

To see you slowly leave us, Helpless we stood by, And drank the cup of bitter grief, The day we saw you die.

You heard a voice we couldn't bear, Which said, "You cannot stay." You saw a hand we couldn't see, Which beckoned you away.

We do not forget you, nor do we intend We think of you often and will to the end.

Gone and forgotten by some you may be, But dear to our memory you ever will be.

By her loving daughter, CLARA, husband and granddaughter, MARGARET ABRA.

Pecking Order Sets Standing Among Animals

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Tortoises are snobs. In New York's Bronx Zoo, a herd of giant Galapagos tortoises sleeps, eats and travels in cliques according to some mysterious social ranking.

Barnyard hens strut or sulk in relation to their standing in a caste system, with each chicken kept firmly in place by the next higher in order. Certain fishes have social ladders extending to the last lowly member of a school, bullied by all the other members.

Among many different branches of the animal world, scientists have observed highly developed social systems. The phenomenon is often called the "pecking order." It determines which birds in a given flock, for example, can peck which others and get away with it.

Henpecked is Right

At Kansas State College a few years ago, a group of eight hens was brought together. Within five days the pecking ability of each had been recognized by the rest, and a hierarchy was established. The leader could scratch, roam or roost wherever she chose, pecking at other members of the flock with impunity. Hen number two could shoulder aside all but the leader; and so on down the line to the last hen.

Social hierarchy may have been handed down among the now nearly extinct Galapagos tortoises, the scientists at New York Zoological Park believe, from long centuries of one-way traffic on the turtles' rocky home islands in the Pacific, 600 miles west of Ecuador.

Tremendous numbers of the land turtles, migrating with the seasons, once wore deep trails between highlands and seashore in the Galapagos. Only wide enough for one tortoise at a time, the gullies forced the shellbacked travelers to move in single file, all at the leader's pace. Traffic control may eventually have imposed a sort of social order on the tortoise herds.

Fourteen different techniques of aggressiveness have been catalogued among the great armored crawlers. A pair will snap sluggishly at one another across the back of a third, their eyes blinking fiercely, their necks stretched to the utmost, but their heads still a foot apart. "Over-climbing" and the "bulldozer" techniques are other methods for establishing who has higher standing in tortoise society.

Cardinals, redpolls, waterfowl and many other birds follow pecking orders. Dr. Arthur A. Allen of Cornell University reports in his book "Stalking Birds with Color Camera," published recently by the National Geographic Society.

Cardinals will fight their own window reflections in guarding their prerogatives. A ruffed grouse rumbles like a miniature freight train; prairie chickens stamp and boom; mallards dogfight in the air—every bird has some method of establishing superiority.

A goldfish put alone in a bowl will become so lonely and frustrated as to actually wind up a "mental case." But the vicious piranhas of South America are so scared of one another that they will try frantically to escape through the glass walls of a tank when two or more are put together.

Pain In The Neck Can Be Very Serious Affliction

CHICAGO—A pain in the neck—literally speaking—can be a very serious thing.

In children, acute neck pain is usually due to an infectious process in the nose or throat, the central nervous system or the lymph nodes.

In adults, they said, neck pain is often due to dental or other oral infections, postural and structural changes in the neck, muscular affections and injuries. In the elderly, such pain may be due to cervical arthritis, blood vessel disease or malignant tumors.

Among the diseases which cause such pain are a sore throat, diphtheria, infections of lymph nodes and glands resulting from German measles and mumps, meningitis, meningism and poliomyelitis.

Boils, carbuncles and cysts anywhere on the neck are common causes of neck pains, the doctors stated, as are a thyroid condition, goiter, certain skin inflammations of the neck, inflammations of the mouth and osteomyelitis.

Acute neck pain often may be associated with, or as the presenting symptom of, a virus infection of the respiratory tract, according to the doctors. Tumors, arthritis, tuberculosis of the larynx, syphilis and bursitis are also causes.

Woman Draws Fine Because She Turned Off Radio

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. — A Mount Vernon woman was recently fined in court for turning off the family radio. She did it with a pistol.

Mrs. Susie Norman told Justice of the Peace W. O. Page that her husband was playing the radio too loudly. When he refused her request to turn it down, she took the pistol and fired, cutting the radio cord.

Her husband called city police, who arrested Mrs. Norman and charged her with disorderly conduct.

small waist as all dresses are being shown with full gathered skirts and for the small waist. It really can be done! As hats are being discarded for the summer, run right to your favorite Beauty Salon for that luxurious permanent. They say that the "Poodle Cut" has gone hay wire—not that I have noticed for there are dozens who like it and it is most becoming to many and it is so comfortable, too!

The White House now may be visited daily and a guide to show you through—just on part of the first floor! That is better than nothing and it would be a nice trip after all these years! Remember when your Observer predicted that President Truman would live there before the election? It may be, too that he will not move from the looks of things! Eh?

A letter arrived asking me my favorite name for a boy and my reply is just plain—"John"! It always seemed such a good old-fashioned and wholesome name but then—of course I have a son—"My son John"—to whom I used to say, "You're so sweet John!" And his answer was always the same—"You're sweet, too Mother!" Perhaps—that's the reason I like the name! Could be! What think you?

"THOSE SINGING, DANCING YOUNGS" OF NEW WINDSOR

A Carroll county family whose penchant for community service and talent for dispensing gaiety have made them well-known locally and throughout Maryland receive unique recognition in the May issue of Country Gentleman.

The eleven members of the John Young family, who for many years have operated a dairy farm just outside New Windsor, have been selected by the editors of the national farm magazine to illustrate the pleasure and satisfaction of present-day "Country Living."

Under the title "Those Singing, Dancing Youngs," the magazine tells how the Youngs have used their talents for singing and dancing to entertain their neighbors and friends and to foster pleasant community relations not only in Carroll County but throughout the state. The story also reviews the Young family's part in founding and maintaining the Senior Council Square Dancing Troupe, a talented group of square dancing instructors who have been responsible for importing to much of Maryland a new kind of recreation in the form of authentic square dances from Kentucky and Tennessee.

The Young's story is featured in the magazine's new "Country Living" section, which is dedicated to the premise that the well-managed farm is "a place where a lot of good living can be done—and is."

That the Youngs find satisfaction in country living is indicated by the magazine by the "imposing total" of community activities in which they are said to engage in addition to their singing and dancing ventures. That the Youngs find pleasure in their community service and in rural life the magazine illustrates graphically in eight photographs of the local family accompanying their story.

Long Island Ducks
A strange virus disease has struck a hard blow at the supply of those famed Long Island ducklings. At the beginning of the outbreak, ducklings died by the thousands, and practically every one of Long Island's 75 duck growers suffered losses. On most farms, birds died within an hour after showing the first signs of illness.

Cornell university veterinarians came to the rescue with a specially prepared serum.

REFORMED LAYMEN MEET

Approximately 100 laymen of the Evangelical and Reformed church of Carroll County met on Thursday, April 24, at St. Mary's Church in Silver Run. The event was the Spring Laymen Conference and was presided over by President Preston Yingling.

The program was opened with the singing of Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow by the entire group. Rev. J. Keller Brantley offered the invocation.

After a delicious ham dinner served by the women of the church the group was led in song by Rev. Morgan Andreas. The St. Mary's Men's Chorus directed by Mrs. Ray E. P. Abbott sang four selections.

Roll-call of the charges present was conducted by Rev. Ray E. P. Abbott.

Rev. J. Edmund Lippy president of Potomac Synod introduced the speaker of the evening who was Rev. Kenneth Kohler, executive secretary of the Churchmen's Brotherhood. Rev. Kohler spoke on his varied experiences which he enjoyed while visiting in the various churches of the denomination in our country. He tried to encourage the men to have a good representation at the National Brotherhood Convention, which is to be held at Hood College, August 6 to 9. He challenged the men to take a more active part in the affairs of the church, in addition to Sunday worship.

Rev. Kohler introduced Mr. Harry O. Smith, General Chairman of the Brotherhood Convention who made a few remarks regarding the same.

Rev. M. S. Reifsnider, president of the Carroll County Ministerium made announcements of coming events. July 6th the annual reunion at Big Pipe Creek Park. The Fall Laymen dinner at Manchester on Oct. 16th. The Reformation Service in Emmitsburg on Oct. 26th.

The meeting was closed by singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

Geography Expert Discounts Protection of Arctic Field

A Yale University geography expert warns that even the vastness of the Arctic offers little if any protection for the U. S. in this era of the atom bomb.

"The Arctic," Stephen B. Jones asserts, "is too wide to make old-fashioned bombing really practical, but when you pack an atom bomb, transpolar bombing is only too clear a danger."

The chances of intercepting enemy bombers are slim, Mr. Jones says, because the size of the polar region permits attackers to approach from many directions. A large number of radar stations would be required to cover the Arctic front, and radar stations and fighter bases must be protected by ground forces.

Mr. Jones declares that a land invasion of North America through the Far North "certainly isn't likely," unless more effective techniques of dealing with the cold and other physical obstacles are developed.

The Far North is likely to be an air theatre, and ground operations will have as their main purpose to disrupt—or defend—the surface facilities upon which air power depends.

While the air age has brought about significant peaceful changes, Mr. Jones said that the airplane "is vastly more significant as a military weapon than as a feature of civil life. . . It has certainly affected the geography of civil life, but it has only modified details rather than changed the whole pattern."

The Yale geographer said that the airborne bomb has affected the future much more vitally than has the airmail letter. He emphasized this point stating his certainty that anyone living in London during World War II would give up the privilege of air travel for all time for the assurance he would never again be bombed.

New Process May Increase Sugar Return from Beets

More sugar from beets can be produced by the same chemical process used to soften water, Dr. J. E. Maudru, general chemist of the Holly Sugar corporation, Colorado Springs, Colo., reported. He called on the beet sugar industry to overcome certain obstacles that prevent it from making wide use of this process, called ion exchange, a chemical reaction in which two compounds trade charged metallic atoms.

Dr. Mandru said that ion exchange would remove almost all sugar beet juice impurities where present methods dispose of only 35 per cent.

"The main advantage of ion exchange in beet sugar plants is the increased extraction of sugar due to the elimination of impurities and by the same token decreased production of molasses," Dr. Mandru said. Since the price of sugar as sacked white sugar is greater than that in the form of molasses, this is the main economic justification for the process.

Less important advantages are less scaling of heat transfer surfaces in evaporators, heaters, and pans due to a very much decreased mineral content in the juice.

The main disadvantage of ion exchange is the large capital outlay for the unit. Since nearly all exposed surfaces must be acid proofed, and since the resins used are of quite high price, the capital investment is so high that often it is difficult for the savings realized by ion exchange to pay the interest on such an investment.

The hardest person to convince, and what amounts to a waste of time, patience, and energy, is one who sits in darkness and is unwilling to see the light.

SIT DOWN, GEORGE

The boy had shown such ignorance the teacher was disheartened. She finally asked sarcastically:

"Do you know whether George Washington was a soldier or a sailor?"

"He was a soldier," answered the urchin promptly.

"How do you know that?" she persisted.

"Cause I saw a picture of him crossing the Delaware, and any sailor would know enough not to stand up in the boat."

"Well, what do you want your coat for?" questioned the wife.

"Surely you don't have to go yourself. Why don't you send Junior over with it?"

The husband turned upon her more in sorrow than in anger.

"My dear," he said, "your last remark sums up the whole reason why women cannot lead armies, control nations or take anything but a subordinate part in the affairs of the world."

Profane Living

Lesson for May 4, 1952

NO ONE has ever claimed that profane language is good language, not even the people who use it. But there is something worse than profane language: a profane life.

We are told in the New Testament that Esau was a profane man, but in all that the Bible tells of him we never hear him uttering a single bad word. The Third Commandment is: Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. (In some numberings it is the second commandment, but it's not the number that is most important, it is what is in it that counts.)

Most people think that all that means is that we should not take lightly the name of God. Indeed we should not; it is surely a sin to treat the Almighty God with less respect than you would treat your own parents. But irreverent language is only a symptom; the disease is the irreverent life.

God's Name Should Mean Something

LOOK at that Commandment a little more closely. What does "in vain" mean?

In the Old Testament the same word is often used to mean useless, uselessly, or to no purpose. (See, for example, Psalm 60:11; 89:47; 108:12; Jeremiah 4:30; 46:11.)

What the Third Commandment means, then, most of all, is this: Do not take the name of God and make a lie out of it. Do not take the name of God to no purpose.

If This Is Your Father's World—LET'S ASSUME you are a Christian. If so, you have already taken God's name, when you were being baptized into "the Name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost." You have taken upon yourself the great Triune Name of the living God, you are one of his name-bearers, you have acknowledged your place in his family.

Now then, look on the world around you, the stars above you, the atoms below and in you, all that lives and moves and is . . . Do you sing, "This is my Father's world?"

MY Father's world—do you mean that? You ought to mean it. If you do, you will always treat that world with respect; you will not, for instance, waste its resources. If you own land you will treat that land as if it were your Father's—which it is. If you own animals you will remember that the same Lord who made you made them, and you will not be cruel.

You Have a Birthright

ESAU is called a profane man, and in the same sentence it is said that he despised his birthright. Profane living means not living up to the plans God has for you, it means living below your true self.

The man who lets the image of God in him get all smeared over with sin and self-indulgence, the man who prefers the society of God's enemies to that of his friends, the man who in spite of his baptism lives as if he had never been baptized, the man who never reminds any one of God even though in some card-index he is listed as a "church member," the man who though he is God's name-bearer is a God-forgetter, living as if the devil were his father and not God—this is the profane man.

If such a man uses profanity of speech, and he probably will, his language is only the bubbles on the top of a very sour life. You the Christian have a birthright as a child of God; do you live up to it?

Whose Plans?

IF you are a name-bearer of God, then if you live up to that name the least you can do is to take God into your plans, or rather to fit yourself into his plans.

If, for instance, you are going to be married you will not leave God out. You will want to be married in a Christian way, and take the Christian vows. The word "God" used hurriedly in a merely legal ceremony is taken lightly and vainly enough.

But even more profane is the married life which began in a church at an altar, with the most solemn vows; but ends in loveless neglect or in cruel bitterness. Don't leave God out!

(Copyright 1951 by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ of the United States of America. Released by WNU Features.)

To Be Patient

THE words, "Be patient," are often taken to mean that one should submit passively to a discordant situation and wait to see what will happen; that one must be resigned and submissive under adverse conditions.

But to be patient more justly means something besides mere submission and quiet waiting. It signifies to stand firm in what one knows to be right, loving, and certain; to be quietly alert and expectant of good.

Jesus expressed such patience with his often dull and wavering disciples. He lovingly, persistently, and expectantly taught them the way of spiritual living through example and precept. . . .

Those who are acquainted with farming know that after the farmer has prepared the soil and sown his seed, he does not sit idly by to see it sprout and come to fruitage. He must carefully cultivate the soil and protect the growing plants from insect pests and other enemies.

The Apostle James makes this interesting comparison (James 5:7, 8): "Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain. Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

Patience is an active quality which builds freely, constructively, and joyously on the foundation of Truth, even though error seems to insist that we are in bondage to material sense. When Paul and Silas were cast into prison and their feet were made fast in the stocks, they did not yield resignedly to the temptation of hopelessness. They prayed and sang hymns of joy. And they went free!

The writer once saw this statement in an article: "A waiting period put to good use, may be the primary schooling for some splendid demonstration." Such watchful waiting and working spells progress. Let us not try to see the end of the road before we come around the mountain. But let us enjoy the present good while we are on this side of the hill. And if we go step by step, confident that God directs our path, we shall enjoy the journey and reach the goal with joy.

In putting together a jig-saw puzzle, we start out with a jumbled mass of pieces. For a time it may look as if the solution were impossible. But as we persist, watching the model in the picture that lies before us, gradually each piece takes its orderly place, until the last piece is fitted in to complete the perfect design. So we must proceed in working out the puzzle of human existence, watching the spiritual models and persisting until the spiritual whole is revealed and established in consciousness.

Most of us have had the experience of "running up against a stone wall," encountering a problem which seems impossible to solve. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 199), "The devotion of thought to an honest achievement makes the achievement possible." Note the words "devotion of thought." That is where the patience comes in. When we devote our thought to anything, we work patiently, consistently, and unwaveringly toward the goal. And when our goal is the spiritual understanding which will solve the problem and heal the situation, we give up mortal testimony and accept only spiritual facts.

An apostle writes (James 1:2-4): "My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Sweet Corn and Dairy Farming

There are many beauties to sweet corn grow ing.

Now is the time when farmers should take sober counsel with themselves and decide upon the most profitable use of their lands throughout 1952. In making such plans, two main points should be born in mind; one, how to make sure of the greatest yield, quality and net profit from the given character of the soil; and, two, the condition in which the crop will leave the land for the most favorable re-seeding.

Growing a crop involves a great deal more than merely asking Mother Earth to make us a quick buck in view of a favorable market condition. She must be treated like a long-time pal—or else! That means that what we do to the land today has a lot of connection with what it will do for us tomorrow, and next year and the year following. Market conditions change and with them we may wish to change our use of the soil. So it is well to bear in mind the cardinal principle of keeping our acres healthy for any eventuality.

To do this the rules are simple: Follow proper soil conservation and rotation practices. Whatever the temptation to make a quick profit, make up your mind that you will maintain correct crop rotation year in and year out. A good continuing rotation including legumes and cultivated crops has yet to be improved upon.

Benefits of Sweet Corn Crop

Now that the sweet corn contracting season is at hand, it is well to look into the crop and study the possibilities of its yielding a profit and doing something more for our 'and & c's.

same time. Particularly in connection with dairy farming, are there any peculiar benefits to the employment of "run out" pasture land for sweet corn?

Decidedly so. Such an authority as Dr. R. G. Rothgeb of the Department of Agronomy, University of Maryland, tells us that former pasture land already contains in rich measure the elements best suited for sweet corn growing. It is high in nitrogen content and organic matter and needs only a moderate addition of fertilizer to be all set for a profitable sweet corn crop.

Furthermore, a lot of expensive mechanical equipment is not needed to cultivate and harvest sweet corn as in the case of field corn. Dairy farms generally lack this equipment and, if field corn is to be grown, either machinery has to be purchased or prohibitive labor costs added to the operation. Sweet corn production is a simpler process, requiring neither of these "extras." So the chance of a predictable profit is greater.

With present supplies of canned corn on the short side, it looks like a good year in which to establish a sweet corn planting or increase your planned acreage. Although the total 1951 United States production of processed sweet corn was a fourth greater than the short crop of 1950, the supply was still not sufficient to meet the demand at prevailing rates of consumption. Per acre yields in the Tri-State area (Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey) have been increasing in recent years which causes farmers of the area to look forward to a good opportunity in Chrysler V-8 Saratoga Sedan, gasoline economy winner in Class "F". Entered and driven in the 1952 Mobil Oil Gas Economy Run by Chrysler Dealer Mel Alsbury, Hollywood. It was one of three Chrysler FirePower V-8's to win in their respective classes.

180 HP CHRYSLER V-8 FIRST IN 3 CLASSES IN ECONOMY RUN!

Here is truly dramatic proof that Chrysler's great new FirePower 180 HP V-8 engine design sets an entirely new standard of efficiency among American passenger car engines!

In this annual economy test, rigidly supervised, and limited strictly to stock car entrants, cars competing are divided, by price and size, into 11 standard classes. The route, from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, covered 1,415 miles of every possible kind of driving. Average speed for all cars was just under 41 miles per hour.

And in 3 of the 11 classes, the Chrysler V-8 engine was best for gasoline mileage.

In Class "F", this magnificent new engine won first place for a Saratoga 6-passenger sedan (125 1/4-inch wheelbase, 4010 pounds). In Class "H", it won first honors for a Saratoga model 8-passenger sedan (139 1/4-inch wheelbase, 4510 pounds). And in the top price and size, Class "I", it was again first, in a Chrysler

Crown Imperial Sedan (145 1/4-inch wheelbase, 5360 pounds).

To travel these substantial cars at this speed under these conditions gives additional proof, we believe, that here in the FirePower V-8 engine is the finest and most efficient engine ever put into an American passenger car!

WE INVITE YOU TO DRIVE THIS ENGINE, YOURSELF...

The same engine which has just scored these remarkable accomplishments is no farther from you than your own Chrysler Dealer. He will welcome the chance to let you take the wheel and feel for yourself what Chrysler has done . . . not only in engine performance, but in power steering, power brakes, new shock absorbers, passenger comfort . . . to deserve the title: "Finest Car America Has Yet Produced!"

CHRYSLER the finest car America has yet produced

BOOM TOWN

Mine Granted Loan; Village Plans for Boom

ONTONAGON, Mich. — The 2,500 people of Ontonagon are bewildered and a little breathless. They are expecting a boom that will pour millions into the community.

The reason is the announcement by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of a 57 million dollar loan for a copper mine near the community, a sum equal to six times the official assessed value of all Ontonagon county.

The loan is to the White Pine Copper Co. which will produce an estimated 75 million pounds of copper a year. The company will build:

An entire new town for 5,000 people, with stores, a hospital, theater and everything else a community of that size needs.

A multi-million-dollar steam power plant in Ontonagon that will employ about 100 men when finished.

A smelter, a copper mill and mining installations.

A 20 mile railroad extension to the mine site.

Improved harbor facilities to handle coal for the power plant.

Three Years to Build

During the three years all this is going on the village of Ontonagon expects a boom that will probably mean new homes, restaurants and stores for the community. Many of the community's merchants believe the effects will be felt much longer than the three years of the construction program because of the nearness of Ontonagon to the mine.

Businessmen also agree that the town will face numerous problems during the coming years from the influx of workers.

At the present time there is hardly any vacant houses and unemployment is almost nonexistent. The village has a large paper and pulp mill employing more than 300 persons. There are two smaller mills and another small one is being built.

Three years ago the community suffered an economical reverse when the biggest lumber company, employing up to 800 persons, closed down. Some of the workers moved away, but most stayed and were eventually absorbed by other firms after being without jobs for some time.

Faith in the Town

Ontonagon's seven restaurants, one theater, two hotels and eight taverns will feel the pressure of expansion.

"It's going to turn the town upside down," said John J. Clark who runs the theater. He added that he would show movies all day and all night if there were enough customers.

For over a year people of the community knew the mining company was seeking an RFC loan and most of them held on to their property. They are still holding on until they see what the real estate market is going to do.

Old timers of the community report they have seen mines and lumber mills come and go during the years and it hasn't made much difference. "Something always takes their place," said C. J. Crocker.

If something unforeseen should happen to keep the boom from developing, people of the village would probably shrug it off. It has happened before and the town has kept on an even keel, even in the depression.

As one man said: "I got a lot of faith in this town. When the lumber mill pulled out I thought Ontonagon would fall on its kisser, but it did not."

And it probably won't.

Local Communities to be Asked to Support School

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Local communities, particularly small towns, will in the next few months be hearing a lot about two great projects—the united appeal for world relief and reconstruction, popularly known as "One Great Hour of Sharing," and the International Christian University of Japan, better known as "ICU."

Both of these interdenominational, international and interracial movements are headed by the Rev. Stanley I. Stuber of New York.

The aim of "One Great Hour of Sharing" is to receive on Sunday, March 23, an offering of several millions of dollars in local churches all over the nation. A large part of this offering will come from small churches in towns and villages.

This is also true of the International Christian University of Japan. This new educational institution, which will open in April, 1932, is depending heavily upon the interest, prayers and financial support of hundreds of small churches which are interested in great international projects.

Worst Floods In Centuries Devastated Italy

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Northern Italy's most disastrous floods of the century cost more than 100 lives and an estimated half billion dollars.

The rampaging Po and other rivers of the north Italian plain marooned thousands of residents, necessitating dramatic rescue by hastily assembled boats, and air drops of supplies to isolated communities.

Yet, such inundations are not new to the northern Adriatic coast of Italy. The danger has kept the building of cities to comparatively high ground, away from the rivers. Even Rovigo, affected last year, is not on the Po, but lies between it and the Adige River to the north.

The Po, its 417 miles making it Italy's longest river, as well as the Adige and tributary rivers flowing down from the Alps, have carried silt toward the sea, gradually filling in the basin to form Italy's greatest agricultural and industrial region. The entire area was once under the waters of the Adriatic Sea.

The filling-in process, geologically speaking, has moved at a rapid rate, and has continued noticeably in recorded time. The cities of Ravenna and Adria were once great seaports, but silting and shifting coastal sands have built up land to the east, leaving them stranded in marshy ground.

Adria shares its name with the Adriatic and was a major port for the Etruscans, pre-Roman rulers of Italy. It is now 15 miles inland. Ravenna, an ancient Roman port, is five miles from the Adriatic.

Flood control projects were undertaken by the Etruscans, the Romans, and the Italians. All the rivers of the lower Po valley are diked, and the Po itself is some 20 feet higher than the surrounding countryside, due to constant silting and diking.

Cigars and Daily Wine Boon to Oldest German

EIDENGRÆSAES, Germany — Karl Gloesner, only living German veteran of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, recently celebrated his 107th birthday. He is officially recognized as West Germany's oldest resident.

Gloesner, an artilleryman in the old war, is still spry, and enjoyed a cigar on his birthday. He attributes his long life to the fact that "I always smoke cigars and I never miss my glass of wine daily."

Increased Production Needs Require Personnel Shifting

CHICAGO—Increased industrial production needs and a limited labor force will require the shifting of women and older men into jobs where their capabilities can be put to greater use.

This opinion was expressed by C. J. Velz, M.S.P.H., chairman of the department of public health statistics, school of public health, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

He cited five factors at tending to restrict manpower resources: (1) a leveling off of the population growth curve; (2) a population growth resulting from increased longevity rather than from the addition of young stock; (3) a greater proportion of older people; (4) a smaller proportion of males; (5) arbitrary retirement at a certain age without regard of ability to work.

The United States can expect only an approximate 20 per cent increase in population before it reaches the saturation level of growth, according to Mr. Velz. Declining birth and death rates and immigration restrictions are evidenced by a smaller proportion of young stock in the population, with a shift toward a larger proportion of people in the older age groups.

Whereas the life expectancy was only 48 years at the turn of the century, it is now nearly 70 years, he said. In addition, for the first time in the country's history, the 1950 census showed more females than males in the United States.

Front Seat Riders Hurt Three to one in Autos

CHICAGO — Children sitting or standing in the front seat of automobiles are in the most dangerous position in cars and frequently their teeth are fractured by hitting the dashboard at sudden stops.

Dr. Henry Marsh Wilbur, associate professor of children's dentistry at the University of Louisville School of Dentistry, made that statement in The Journal of the American Dental Association.

He added that front seat passengers in autos suffer injuries, especially to their mouths and teeth, three times more frequently than drivers.

Dr. Wilbur cited recommendations of experts that crash pads be installed on dashboards to protect children and other front seat passengers from violent impact with knobs and protuberances.

"It is important that parents be informed of the necessity for professional attention as soon as an accident involving the teeth occurs," he said.

Splints may be applied to a block of teeth which have been fractured or a single tooth which has been loosened, and other treatment may be given as the case demands, Dr. Wilbur declared.
