A wo-man had been pestering President Adams about a position and when she happened on him in swimming, she quickly sat down on his clothes which were lying on the shore. Then President Truman showed us the two Grand Pianos and believe it or not he sat down and played a passage from Mozart's Ninth Sonata. He really showed his audience that he really could play and I for one was sorry that the time was so limited. (While the part that faces the South is the front) President Truman explained some little details to perfection. OH, CHUCK IT

"At home the other evening we had frankfurters for dinner. It was interesting how it came about.

"At breakfast there was some mention of a chuck roast. That reminded us that The Butcher Workman, official publication of the A.F. of L. Butcher's Union, defines the chuck simply as that part of a beef carcass 'lying between the neck and shoulder blades down to the fifth rib of the forequarter,' but that this definition didn't satisfy the OPS. The OPS thinks housewives ought to have a better definition so they can check on what the butcher gives them.

"So the price agency hauled off and wrote its own guiding definition: 'Regular chuck means the portion of the cross cut chuck remaining after the severance of the foreshank and brisket from the cross cut chuck and containing most of the blade bone (scapula,) part of the (humerus) arm bone, part of the five ribs (1st to 5th inclusive), that section of the backbone attached to the ribs and the neckbone (covered vertibrae from 1 to 7 inclusive) which portion shall be obtained by a cut through the cross cut chuck made in a straight line perpendicular to the contour of the outside or skin surface of the cross cut chuck (thereby separating the brisket and foreshank from the cross cut chuck) starting at a fixed point on the inside of the fifth rib determined by measuring off ten (10) inches along the 5th rib in a straight line from the center of the protruding edge of the 5th thoracic vertebra, continuing in the same straight line to the tip of the forward end of the breast bone (forward end of 1st segment of sternum), and passing through the (humerus) arm bone in the same straight line to complete the cut.'

"We suggested that our dutiful meat shopper take this up with the butcher (A.F.L.) and be sure we got regular chuck by going armed with a ruler to measure ten (10) inches to the 5th rib and a T-square to be sure that the cut was made perpendicular to the contour of the outside of the skin surface of the cross cut chuck so that we would have all of the scapula and part of the humerus without any brisket mixed up with the cervical vertebrae.

"We were lucky the butcher sold us frankfurters."-Wall Street Journal.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

TOMBSTONE, ARIZONA, EPI-TAPH: "Government spending this year will total $88 billion-more than the entire national income in the boom year of 1929. Per capita cost has risen ... to $580 for this year's spending, or 40 per cent of the average per capita income of $1,435. Experience has it that when the tax take goes above 25 per cent of the national income, inflation is here. Present tax bill of 40 per cent places the nation well out on the inflation limb now."

PAMPA, TEXAS, DAILY NEWS: "The public has yielded to exorbitant 'taxes, controls, restrictions' to an extent that has enabled bureaucracy and outright dictatorship to thrive and expand to a thoroughly alarming degree. It has stood by and seen its money shrink steadily in value, its earnings and profits seized, its rights trampled under foot. Yet it is told over and over that it doesn't cooperate. It seems to us it's time the public begins telling the bureaucrats a few things." NEWPORT, TENN., TIMES: "Pick up any daily newspaper, glance at the headlines on the front page, and you'll find from one to half a dozen cases where some government official is on Phone 3742

the carpet for questioning. But, just let a few basketball players get caught selling out for a few hundred fast bucks and that takes the headlines away from those who are accused of such small things as kicking around the tax money, influencing REA officials, buying expensive gifts with government money, and-oh well, you know what."

NORTHPORT, N. Y., OBSERVER: Excessive government spending is contributing to the inflationary spiral, a threat to the national economy itself. Therefore, it seems that this greater evil might be cured by rectifying the lesser evil-by giving the taxpayer his money's worth for a change.'

Let's Think

G. H. ENFIELD

A MEANING OF THE WORD "VAIN"

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord Thy God in Vain."

Frequently there appears to be the thought that some teachings of the Bible has no bearing on twentieth century conduct. This is especially true in reference to the Ten Command-ments. There are those who listen to the presentation of the Sunday Schoo lesson and then go home and resume the same practices as before the lesthe same practices as before the lesson was taught, even when the lesson condemns those particular things. They are of that group who have a form of godliness but deny the power thereof. They act as though having their names on the church book, and attending Sunday School and preaching service exempt them from preaching service exempt them from preaching service exempt them from preaching services. ing service, exempt them from observing certain teachings and from meeting certain fundamental requirements of the Kingdom of Heaven.

For the present quarter Bible schools using the uniform series of the International Bible lessons are studying the Ten Commandments, and Jesus' interpretation of them. Despite these weeks of study, there will be a few whose Biblical background is meager, who will argue that the Ten Commandments are obsolete. It is con-ceded a person is not required to believe what he does not want to believe. And he refuses to wear shoes

There is one meaning of the word "vain" easy to overlook. We are told by a Bible authority, "A vain person is proud, conceited, thinks too much of self. He wants applause. He is empty and needs something substantial to fill him." As "he" is employed in the generic sense the word includes in the generic sense, the word includes the females as well.

Perhaps you know some person whom the description fits; a person ever seeking praise, looking for applause, gullible enough to swallow every word of flattery, while the flatterer stands off and laughs at the gullibility. Don't be a mere grandstand player and work your forceroils off player and work your fingernails off playing ball primarily for the glory and honor of another.

As there is a feeling of emptiness in the life of the vain person, often ways are sought to fill that emptiness with a sense of something substantial and worthwhile. Here is a danger of striving to make oneself appear worthwhile instead of an act, a deed, a service rendered.

The Third Commandment was intended to put vain people on the right path, and to enable them to get a true perspective. Its purpose is to cover the shallows and selfish pride of vanity with a vision of man's relationship with God. Do not pretend that you are on the Lord's side unless the Lord is on your side. "Why call me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say?"

say?"
Thought of self must be superseded by thoughts of the good of others. The seeker after praise and applause must bury that craving in the nobility of an act or a service. If the deed itself does not elicit praise then the praise becomes empty flattery. Take not the name of the Lord thy God in vain by what you think, or by what you say, or by what you do: for the Lord will not hold you guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

COURTESY

Not the "right of way" when driving, but the simple way of right, And never once forgetting to be courteous and polite. A little bit of patience as behind the wheel you sit, And you'll never lose a fender and a child you'll never hit.

Oh, the worst of phrases ringing all through motordom today
Is that selfish bit of wording that is known as "right of way."
It has filled the graves of many who have grad some road along. who have sped some road along—Since Death never asks the question is the driver right or wrong.

Just a little thought for others; just remembering to be kind; Just the willingness in traffic to slow down and stay behind; Just the show of gracious manners which all gentlefolks display, And the accidents that happen will be fewer day by day,

Just control that flash of temper when another sounds his horn; In the car may be a mother soon to have her baby born. Be considerate in your driving, and be courteous and kind,
And you'll reach your dwelling safely and you'll keep your peace of mind. -Edgar A. Guest.

Shell Collectors Dredge Mollusks On Ocean Floor

WASHINTON, D.C. - Since perhistoric times adults and children have collected sea shells, picking up pretty and unusual specimens found along the shores.

Scientists have used shells to explain marine life, the nature of coasts and waters and the geologic past. Fossil shell remains have guided geologists almost since the study of geology began.

The collection of shells for their own sake, on a scientific basis, however, has steadily gained in popularity in the last few years. The science is called conchology, and some collectors have spent thousands of dollars in pursuit of shells. Heavy expenditures followed the discovery that the best shells are not found along shores as often as on the ocean bottom or on reefs. Almost all shell collectors start picking up specimens on the beach. Then they wade out in shallow water, using water glasses to locate their quarry From this stage the really earnest conchologists move to boats. They find that the shells have greater beauty and brilliance if taken when the mollusks are still living inside. For this reason a small number of collectors, many of them in Florida have equipped cabin cruisers and fishing boats with small power dredges to explore the ocean floor at depths from two to more than 100

Off both Florida coasts shellers dredge the bottom and bring up living mollusks of all sizes, which are sorted mechanically through progressively smaller screens down to the size of ordinary window screen

The Florida enthusiasts, particularly those working in the Gulf of Mexico, also use their boats to reach outlying reefs where, in very calm water and at low tide, they collect shells found nowhere else. This work, like offshore wading, is done with the aid of water glasses and rock turners, long iron rods with points and hooks used to uncover mollusks hiding beneath underwater rocks.

Wolf Menace Increasing Rapidly in Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia - The wolf menace is increasing rapidly 1 Yugoslavia. Last year (1951) the livestock losses attributed to wolves were much higher than the 37,000 reported for 1950. The animals have become so bold, it is reported, that they freely roam the plains around Belgrade.

Observers say that the continued increase in the number of wolves may be accredited to the war. During the war there was no time nor ammunition for hunting wolves. At the end of the war, the people had to turn in their guns, leaving only scattered members of hunting associations to hunt the animals.

In Slovenia, a province that once had no wolves, or so few they were rarities, there is now a reported 150. A hunting federation pays $150 for each full grown wolf that is killed.

Johnson says that he clearly remembers incidents of the Civil War when he was young and that he was captured by "Yankees."

In the decade, 1910-19, there were 62,969 automobile fatalities. They climbed to 209,894 in the twenties, and in the following years, 1930-39, reached the peak of any decade to date, with 342,588 traffic deaths recorded. Travel restrictions of the war years lowered to 308,827 the toll of the 1940-49 decade, but as the second half of the century started, fatalities in 1950 rose 3,500 over the previous year and for 1951 were estimated at 37,500, some 2,500 higher than in 1950. These big increases in deaths have given an ominous start to the second half of the century with respect to motor vehicle fatalities. This decade's fatalities so far total about 72,500 for the first two years, compared with 66,600 for the first two years of the "terrible thirties," or approximately 6,000 higher.

FEESERSBURG

One of the most colorful events to one of the most color and the state of the held at the Elmer Wolfe School in recent years was the May Day program given Monday evening by the PTA. Before one of the largest auditable of the larges ence ever assembled in the school au-ditorium Miss Kitty Booher, senior was crowned queen by Dr. Thomas Legg, Mayor of Union Bridge. Her Thomas attendants, included two representa tives from each of the high school grades and were 14 in number. The neen in a white gown and a crown of flowers on her head with the attendants in gowns of pastel shades of pink, orchid, green and yellow made a beautiful picture on the stage. The flower girls were Darlene Black and Rinehart, ring bearer; Miller, trumpeters; Larry Weishaar, Robert Alexander, Richard Bohn, Charles Luttrell was town crier and the jesters were Gilman Williar and Richard Pfoutz. The queen's attendants included Ethel Houck, Shirley Roop, Jerry Leakins, Donna Sherman, Patsy Scheu, Corrine Ecker, Patty Blume, Patricia Toms, Barbara Rip-peon, Janet Myerly, Patsy Boone, Eleanor Baker, Reba Yingling and Patricia Roop. After the queen was rowned, she was entertained with the following program: The Rhythm band played four selections; Jayne Crawmer gave the "Dance of the Umbrella"; Melvin Bostian played an accordion solo; Ann Crumbacker danced "Rhythm Tap"; Eleanor Baker sang "Morning Invitation"; Susan Crumpacker danced two numbers, "Little Brown Gal" and "Air de Ballet"; members of the sixth grade per-formed an Indian Dance; the 4th, 5th, 6th grade students sang "Amaryllis" the 9th grade girls sang "The Dancers" and the third grade boys and girls performed the May Pole dance. The school orchestra under the di-rection of Mr. Kersey played the processional and recessional, "Corne-lius" March by Mendelssohn. Miss Grethen Reese, talented pianist played a solo. Credit must be given to the teachers of the Elmer Wolfe faculty for the time and labor they spent in making the May Day program so interesting and delightful. Mrs. Olivia Bankert was the program chairman, Jack Bubrick was in charge of the stage and auditorium arrangements, while Berkley Bowman and the 11th grade did the decorating. The flower arrangements were by Miss Linthicum, Miss Colline and Mrs. Shauck. attractive programs were the work of Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. Edwards. Credit for the performance of the Rhythm Band goes to Mrs. John Green; for the dances to Miss Schaef-fer and Mrs. Crawmer and the sing-

In his talk he gave a realistic approach to mother's place in an deal home and the important role she plays in making a home of love and security for her husband and children. The choir sang special mother's day hymns and Miss Nancy Roelke sang a solo titled "When Mother Prays."

Mrs. Myrtle Sentz of Taneytown visited some of her friends in Barkhill and Feesersburg last week. On Thursday she was with the Edward Dayhoffs and with the Cleon Wolfes, Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Sentz formerly lived at Mt. Union. Mrs. Maurice Grinder who was a patient for several days at the Frederick Memorial Hospital has returned to her home and is much improved. Miss Emma Ecker of New Windson attended church services Sunday at Mt. Union and was the guest of Mrs Paul Leister of Pleasant Valley in the afternoon.

Are Americans losing faith in individual freedom of conscience and expression which has so far made our country great? This question is asked because lately there has been a tendency to silence the writers of un-popular ideas, to bar from the public schools certain books and to ban some pictures by modern artists. If one believes the poet who wrote "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again", than an individual should be free to read, hear and see whatever pleases him and arrive at the truth. How can any people mature if they are not allowed access to all ideas and all information? To limit ideas is to limit. thinking and the world has never had enough of mature thinking. In fact, all the world's troubles today are due to the lack of mature minds in the right places.

STATE PARKS No Longer Free—Charges Will Be Made

Maryland's outdoor pleasure seekers will have to go "Dutch Treat" this year when they visit State Parks.

A recent meeting of the Commission of State Forests and Parks brought out the fact that in the past, it has cost the State as much as twenty cents to provide services for persons visiting the Parks.

This season, the Commission will make charges for car parking, for the use of outdoor fireplaces with charcoal furnished, and for other special

According to Joseph F. Kaylor, Director of Forests and Parks, these of the Taneytown High School Alumni charges will often amount to less than ten cents per person.

A breakdown on the "price-tag" for Maryland park goers includes: a fifty cent per car parking charge at Sandy Point and Patapsco State Parks and a twenty-five cent parking charge at Gambrill State Park located in the less settled area of Western Maryland.

A season ticket for passenger car or pickup truck will cost $5.00 at Sandy Point and Patapsco and $2.00 at Gambrill State Park. A twelvetrip ticket at Sandy Point and Patapsco will cost park goers three dollars. Parking tickets for passenger busses or stake body trucks will cost three dollars each at Sandy Point and Patansco.

Other charges made at State Parks this season will include: Fireplaces with charcoal-fifty cents; reserved picnic tables, twenty-five cents; tent ng space, fifty cents per day, $2.50 per week for a limit of two weeks; trailer space one dollar per day, five dollars per week; bathhouse lockers, fifty cents; locker key replacements, twenty-five cents. Towels, bathing suits and accessories may be rented for a nominal charge at Parks having facilities for swimming.

Practically every state except Maryland has been charging for the use of State Parks for many years. Mr. Kaylor pointed out that funds appropriated by the State Legislature have been insufficient for the maintenance of the Parks, regardless of necessities such as drinking water, sanitary facilities and car parking which must be provided.

Nature Depends Upon Precisions Of Adjustments

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Mother Earth is a precisely adjusted ma-

The physical phenomena of nature, amid which man lives and upon which life depends, often themselves depend on precisions of adjustment that might baffle the best watchmakers. This is particularly true of weather, where profound changes may result from nearly un-measurable differences in adjustments. Since 1852 the Smithsonian Institution has issued at intervalsas measurements became more exact and extended to new fields-of-ficially accepted Meteorological Tables giving values for all the constants of nature that have a part in the determination of weather phenomena. The latest edition has just been published, with changes and additions resulting from two decades of intensive research all over the world. The tables were prepared by Robert J. List, of the U.S. Weather Bureau. Throughout the work a Weather Bureau steering committee served as advisers. Preparation of the tables was under the general supervision of L. B. Aldrich, director of the Smithsonian Institution's Astrophysical Observatory, whose work is concerned with precise observations of radiation from the sun reaching the outer limits of the atmosphere and penetrating it to the surface of the

Data Important

Some of the new data have assumed great importance. The upper atmosphere, for example, was virtually unknown when the last tables were published. In the interval it has been probed extensively with a variety of instruments-radio beams, automatically recording instruments attached to pilotless balloons, and lately with rockets. The region has been found to be a weather factory of outstanding importance, a better understanding of which now is essential.

This region of atmosphere, so thin as to be almost nonexistent, is theoretically a very hot place. Tentative temperature values are given in the tables. At an altitude of 120 kilometers, about 72 miles, there is a probable maximum temperature of approximately 520 degrees Fahrenheit. At ground level the maximum temperature probably experienced on earth is around 115 degrees F. At 11 kilometers, about 61/2 miles, the maximum falls to well below zero, but at an altitude of about 30 miles it rises to a maximum of close to 220 degrees F. These figures necessarily are tentative, depending partly on actual measurements and partly on deductions. Owing to the thinness of the upper atmosphere the actual temperature sensations of a human being—assuming that by some miracle he could remain alive in such a rarefied realm-remain quite de-

New Method

Tables in the past have stated the total solar radiation falling upon the outer edge of the earth's atmosphere. Now this is computed in terms of the amount of radiation in different wavelength bands from the invisible infrared through the visible spectrum of light and then through the invisible ultraviolet.

Of interest also are latest values for some of the more familiar physical constants, such as the weight of air as it changes with temperature and pressure.

The new tables comprise a book of 527 pages.

628 Pounds Per Diesel

Over 4,300 diesel locomotives were built during 1950, almost twice as many as in the previous year. These locomotives accounted for nearly 40% of the estimated 6,500,000 pounds of nickel consumed by the railroad industry.

Number of Cattle In Nation Increases Record Total Indicated; Swine Crop Nears Peak

According to a late department of agriculture survey, the number of beef cattle and swine on the nation's farms is near an all-time record.

The department estimates the country beef-cattle may total 65,-400,000 by January 1, 1952. This would be 5,800,000 more than last January 1, and 7,600,000 more than at the wartime peak of 1945.

Dairy cattle, a source of calf meat and processed meats, but not significant as a source of beef, are excluded from these figures.

With this rise in beef cattle, all cattle would increase from the 80,000,000 level of 1950, and the 84,200,000 level of 1951, to between 90,000,000 and 91,000,000.

The department estimated the 1951 pig crop, which will come to market from the middle of September on, is the second highest in the nation's history. The crop is estimated at 106,000,000 pigs, or 5 per cent greater than the 1950 crop.

Pork production, 5 to 10 per cent larger than last year, is expected to continue until next March. Chickens, too, are at record levels.

Larger Family Farms Hope Of American Agriculture

The future of American agriculture and the possibility of it meeting increasing production demands, depends largely on the hope of increasing the size of family farms to take full advantage of mechanization.

This, in brief, is the opinion of the bureau of agricultural economics after an analysis of what happened to make possible increased production during World War II.

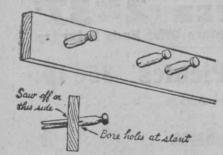

Large farms, the bureau reported, are now producing nearer to total capacity than most family farms. They are up-to-date, use more advanced technology, and are more nearly balanced. Therefore, these show few opportunities for further increase in efficiency.

During the war an enormous shift took place from small to larger family farms. This shift enabled the larger family farms to take advantage of gains for mechanization.

There is doubt, however, that large farm efficiencies continue beyond the point at which the farm gains full advantage of mechanization. Beyond the size of the fully mechanized and up-to-date family farm the problem of hired labor intervene.

The future of agriculture depends on increasing production on larger family farms.

Handy Tool Hangers

Here is an idea for the gardener who never has a place to hang up his tools. Bore holes, at a slant, in a piece of 1 by 4 board. Drive old clothes pins in holes and saw off protruding ends at back. Nail the board up on a wall where tools are kept and hang up your tools. It's convenient and practical.

Dyed Mulches Suggested As Aid to Garden Beauty

Mrs. Phil Patterson of Colorado came up with a new idea in the current issue of The Farm Journal. She suggested dying garden mulch to harmonize with the colors in your flower plot. A 10-cent package of vegetable dye, mixed with water, would dye a great amount. Mulches have been recommended for years as the home gardener's best friend. Now, it will add to the beauty of your garden.

U.S. Musk Ox Project Thriving on Small Scale

The United States' effort to reestablish the musk ox in its former Alaskan range is proving successful on a small scale.

Latest census of the nation's only herd of the shaggy polar beasts on Nunivak Island in the Bering Sea off Alaska shows a head count of 76. When the herd was taken to Nunivak in 1935 it numbered 27 animals, all that were left of 34 captured in Greenland in 1930 and kept on the Alaskan mainland for five years.

Skeletons found in northern Alaska prove that musk oxen ranged there less than 150 years ago. It is believed they were killed off by the Eskimos, as were large numbers in northern Canada and Greenland. Now there are less than 15,000 of the species in a range running across the top of the western world from Canada's Great Bear Lake to Greenland.

The musk ox is not really an ox at all, but a member of the sheep family. It is known also as ovibos and polar ox. The average full-grown animal weighs 600 pounds, is 90 inches from nose to stumpy tail and stands 55 inches high at the shoulder.

Musk oxen are admirably equipped for polar life. They have an outer coat of long, coarse dark brown to black hair and a warm undercoating of wool that is shed every spring. They feed in winter on dormant grasses found beneath the snow.

They are armed against their natural enemies—wolves and polar bears—with long curving horns shaped somewhat like a walrus mustache that curves up at the tips.

When a herd is threatened by animal enemies the older bulls form a protective circle around the cows and calves. The bulls stand shoulder to shoulder, presenting their formidable horns to the enemy.

Animals attacking the musk-ox circle find it almost impenetrable, but it is a perfect target for man's gunfire, spears and arrows.

Operation Rotation Takes Two Days for Completion

WITH THE FIRST MARINE AIR-CRAFT WING IN KOREA — More than 1,350 Marine infantrymen were rotated from the front lines and replaced with fresh troops in a gigantic two-day airlift.

The replacements were flown from a South Korean port city by six big Douglas R5D transports of the First Marine Air Wing. As the planes dumped their loads of new combat troops at the front, homeward bound veterans climbed aboard for the first leg of their trip to the States.

To make the switchover in so short a time, some pilots flew as many as 12 hours in one day.

House or Home?

Lesson for May 18, 1952

A NYBODY with pencil and paper can count the number of houses on a street. Counting the homes is something else. Anybody can sell you or build you a house, any kind you can pay for; but no one can sell you a home. A house is a house the minute it is finished. A home never is finished, it goes on being built year after year.

Edgar Guest said what everybody knows: "It takes a heap o' livin' to make a house home.' A house begins to be a home when two people move in who love each other; but it is much more of a home after the grandchildren start coming back

A house may be running down while a home is growing better and better. Besides, a home does not necessarily have to have a house.

Does the Family Live There? ALL of us would rather have a home than a house if we had to choose. Whatever we live in—a separate house, a "flat" or "duplex," an apartment, a trailer, or what not—it can become a home—

A house becomes a home in the first place only if the family live there. If all they do is to come in when there is nowhere else to go; if they seldom see one another and then almost by accident; if the place is only a lunch-counter, a rooming-house, a place to be fed and to stay in when it rains; then it is no home, it is only a house.

Animals don't have homes; they have kennels, barns, styes, stables. They can have very expensive stables too, as you can find around the Bluegrass country. But no one has ever succeeded in making a home for horses because horses have no family life, they are quite content if the roof doesn't leak and if there is enough to eat and a clean place to lie down in.

People have minds and hearts and souls, and they can know com-radeship and unity such as are completely beyond the reach of even the most intelligent of animals. Living is much more than existing; and it takes a heap of living, not just existing, to make a home.

Who Runs the Place?

A HOUSE is a home if it is well run. This does not refer to paying the bills, keeping up the repairs, keeping down waste in the kitchen and so forth. A house is a home only if it is in charge of those who have the most wisdom and can best bear responsibility.

The Bible comes to us from a time and place in history very different from ours; so that we are not wise if we take just any family in the Bible and use it as a model. Solomon had 700 wives and 300 minor wives or "concubines;" Abraham had at least three.

We have progressed (thanks to Christianity) past these things. But still the Bible does give us some indispensable guidance in this matter of the home. And one of the points you will find in both Old Testament and New is that the parents ought to have the place of authority in the home,—that is, they are expected to run it. Some families aren't run by any one; they are pure anarchies, continual rumpus and riot. Some families are run by the children, which means they are run by those with least sense and experience. "Honor thy Father and thy Mother" also means, "Father and Mother, be honorable."

. . . . Are Children a Nuisance?

A HOUSE IS A HOME if children are expected, welcomed and loved. It is not a home if children are regarded either as nuisances, as items of expense, or perhaps shut out entirely.

Now there are true homes which are of necessity childless; but a house where children would not be welcome and where they are not loved, is no home.

The parents ought to be in charge, by all means. But they ought not to be tyrants, dictators. They run the home for the childrens benefit, which is quite a different thing from letting the children run it as they please. Eventually, if the parents are wise, they will send out into the world young people who have been taught to stand on their own feet. They will cut the apron-strings they train their children so that they will be capable of founding and living happily in homes of their own. During the earliest years of telephone service, money and know-how were lacking to get service to rural areas. Also many farmers of the 80's and 90's looked on the telephone as a luxury. In spite of this, the Bell System began furnishing a special exchange system for small villages as early as 1884.

A letter of resignation from Miss Bonnie M. Custenborder, Director, was presented to the society. Miss Custenborder has served the organization for the past twenty-three years and her resignation was acyears and her resignation was accepted with regret. During her tenure, she has faithfully performed her duties and the citizens of Carroll County owe her a debt of gratitude for her untiring efforts in the interests of youth.

From January first through April fourteen children were brought to the attention of the CAS by their own parents, close relatives or interested citizens. Four children from one home were accepted be-cause the mother has active tuberculosis and cannot take care of the children; the parents are separated and the father helps to support the family, and the plan is to return the children to the mother as soon as she is well enough. In another family of eight, the relatives are car-ing for six of the children, one boy is at home with his father and the CAS is providing foster care to a five year old while the mother is refive year old while the mother is recovering from an operation. In addition to providing foster care to neglected children this agency endeavors to rehabilitate the homes so that the children may be returned to their parents; also a great deal of time is spent in working with those parents having domestic troubles, trying to help them to prevent the break-ing up of their homes. In these homes it is not a question of financial need but of drink and immorality or of physical illness. Ten families have been given counsel and twenty-eight children are still with their own parents instead of going into foster homes. Fourteen families, with forty children were referred by other agencies or came of their own accord for advice or assistance; after talking with them about their problems all of them decided they could find a way out for the time at least. Shoes and clothing were given to thirty-four children in ten homes of low in-come families in order that the children might continue in school. 180 visits were made to children in foster homes, in finding new foster homes and to families in trouble. 391 office interviews were held in the interest of all these people.

Respectfully submitted, BONNIE M. CUSTENBORDER, Director.

GRANDSTAND DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the grandstand and the attached food stand building at the Taneytown Fairground last Saturday

Taneytown firemen were called at 10 p. m. when the fire was discovered, but were unable to save the structure. They prevented the spread of the flames to other buildings, however.

They were assisted by two pieces of apparatus and firemen from the Alpha Fire Company, Littlestown.

The grandstand, which seated about 700 persons, was built when the fair was opened in 1923 and the adjoining building was erected shortly affer-

The fair was discontinued in 1940 and the buildings and property had been purchased by a Towson, Md., resident.

Every Farm Dog Should Be Protected Against Rabies and Distemper

Distemper, one of the greatest scourges of dogdom kills or permanently injures many animals every day. Fortunately, veterinary science has developed vaccination methods which if followed correctly give your dog excellent protection.

Distemper usually attacks young dogs. Older dogs seem to become immune to it. It seems also that the mother transmits immunity to the puppies since they usually don't contract the disease before eight weeks of age. This is a critical time to have your dog vaccinated.

Prevention of rabies is of the greatest importance. It can be achieved through rigid control and destruction of stray dogs and proper vaccination and licensing of all farm dogs. It takes about thirty days until an immunity to the disease develops in the animal so it is necessary to vaccinate every eleven months to create year-around protection. Remember, however, that puppies under six months of age cannot be vaccinated against rabies.

It is advisable that both distemper and rabies vaccination be given by a licensed veterinarian. Veterinarians secure their supply of vaccine and serums from reliable firms, store them at the right temperature and keep them fresh and effective for

They can also determine accurately whether your dog is in proper physical condition to take the treat-
