CITY COUNCIL MEETS

Harry Mohney Re-elected President of Board

The Mayor and City Council of Taneytown met in special session on Monday evening. Re-organization of the Board was effected. The City Clerk swore into office of City Council Carl Frock and James C. Myers, Mr. Frock was re-elected and Mr. Myers was the new member, both being elected at the City election held June 2.

Harry M. Mohney was selected to serve as president of the Board. Henry I. Reinhold, Jr., was re-appointed Clerk-Treasurer, Ray Yohn will again serve the town as Chief of Police and Elmer Crebs will continue to fill the office of Superintendent of the town's water system.

Other members of the Board are Merle S. Baumgardner and Raymond Davidson.

Mayor Perry, who was also re-elected at the last election made a report on the meeting of the Maryland League of Municipalities that was in convention at Ocean City, Md., last week-end.

TO THE CITIZENRY OF TANEYTOWN

You should congratulate yourselves upon the re-election of Mayor Perry for another term of office. With his interest in the welfare of your town at heart, and with his progressive program, you can count on more improvements for the good of all the people. One needs only to recount recent improvements to recall who was chiefly instrumental in bringing them about. And who does not enjoy them and benefit by them!

The most aggressive, progressive, and far-sighted residents and property owners of Taneytown are eager to install an improved sewerage system in the near future. They know the inconvenience, difficulties, and dangers of the present system. The health and life of your boy and girl are in jeopardy and at stake. Such an installation would tend to remove the danger of epidemics, mean more comfort to the residents, increase the value of real estate, and bring more industry to the community. The town that has industry is the town that is going to grow, thrive, and advance. Many small places are dead today because the people had shut the doors against industry, and progress. Where there is no vision the people perish. It is the young men who see visions while the old men dream dreams. You can be young in spirit and thought even though old in years.

The people who have gotten around, know what is needed and what must eventually come to pass in Taneytown.

More power to you, Mr. Mayor! More support is bound to come your way in the interest of improvements and safety and the welfare of all. Every person who cast a vote for the re-election of Mayor Perry should put himself on the shoulder!

G. H. ENFIELD.

RED CROSS NEWS

Carroll County Red Cross Chapter's blood quota for the past year intended for the armed services was met and exceeded last Friday when Sykesville area produced 95 pints, it was announced by Mrs. Charles Morrow, the retiring Chapter's Blood Chairman. Despite the fact that 24 persons failed to appear after accepting time appointments, the visit of the bloodmobile must be considered a success.

Since the first visit of the bloodmobile last September 10, the county has contributed 1031 pints of blood to the Armed Services Blood Program conducted by the American Red Cross. Thus, generous citizens of the county have supplied 78 pints over the quota. The donors who so generously gave up their blood, those who tried to give and the volunteers of the chapter can be justly proud of their fine record.

The need for blood in the armed services continues and shortly announcement will be made of the quota assigned Carroll County's Red Cross Chapter for the year beginning July 1952 through June, 1953.

It is sincerely hoped that more citizens will join in this worthy cause during the coming year. James Marsh, Jr., Westminster, and Gilman Willard, Union Bridge, from Carroll County Chapter, American Red Cross, are enrolled at Trail's End, Penna., for Aquatic school training. At the completion of a ten day concentrated training period and passing rigid tests, these young men will be qualified as swimming instructors and will assist with the Chapter's swimming program this summer.

COMMUNITY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Beginning Monday, June 23
Ending July 3

The Taneytown Community Vacation Bible School, sponsored by the churches of the town, will be held in the Elementary School beginning on Monday, June 23, and running through Thursday, July 3. Daily sessions will begin promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning and close at 11:30. Parents are asked to please note the time so that children will not need to wait long outside or loiter on school grounds after the sessions have closed.

The school will be open to any child who was enrolled in any of the elementary grades during the past year or who is enrolled and will enter first grade this fall. There will be no kindergarten.

The committee in charge is keenly aware of the honest desire and effort of our school officials to keep this new building and facilities in the finest possible order. We are the more grateful of that they have been entrusted to us for the two weeks of the Vacation Bible School. We shall anticipate the same faithful cooperation from parents and pupils so that there will be no abuse of either the property or the privilege which has been extended us.

All courses in all grades are new this year. They will be taught by a core of mature, trained and competent teachers. Your child will receive high standard Bible instruction in an atmosphere conducive to spiritual growth. Group activities, handwork and recreation will add interest for all.

The Bible School can offer no transportation but it is suggested that parents arrange car pools so that a greater number of children can attend.

WINDSTORM HITS CARROLL COUNTY

Mayberry and Frizellburg Center of Damages

Winds of tornado proportions struck Carroll County yesterday (Thursday) afternoon with most damage done to Mayberry and Frizellburg communities.

During the height of the storm which consisted of the high winds, some rain and lightning, a bolt struck the Calvin Zepp Warehouse in Frizellburg and fire companies from Westminster, Pleasant Valley, Union Bridge and Taneytown were called upon to extinguish the blaze. Due to the blocked conditions of the highways into Frizellburg due to trees that were blown across the highways the apparatus had to enter the village via fields. The contents of the building consisting of antiques were damaged but the building was saved.

Other damage in Frizellburg was trees uprooted, two trees falling across houses—out the Uniontown road a tree fell across a house moving it off its foundation and damaging the building considerably. Communication and power lines in the town were out of service most of the night.

In Mayberry and community the storm seemed to have struck the hardest. A large barn on the A. W. Feaser & Co. Farm No. 10 was moved from its foundation blocking the road and on Farm No. 12 a large silo was blown over. Sheds, hog pens, chicken houses were blown over and many window panes in homes were broken in this community.

In Westminster the high steeple on the St. John's Catholic Church was blown off, striking the rectory adjacent, doing considerable damage.

In Taneytown a few trees were uprooted, TV aerials damaged, window panes broken and a number of limbs broken from trees.

Near town, at the Town & Country Gas Service, Inc., a roof was blown off one of the buildings and a wall damaged.

The nearly-ready to harvest wheat crop did not seem to suffer too much from the high winds and the absence of hail in the storm was fortunate.

LOCAL OIL MEN ADOPT PROGRAM AT MEETING

The Carroll County Petroleum Industries committee held its annual meeting Monday evening at the Charles Carroll Hotel, Westminster, Md. The oil men, after a full discussion, adopted a six-point program calling for a reasonable tax on gasoline, protection of road funds by constitutional amendment, opposition to road bond financing, competition in sale of petroleum products on all highways, promotion of highway safety and repeal of federal automotive levies when world conditions permit it.

"We in the oil business fully recognize our obligation to our motorist customers to keep the special taxes collected for highways at a reasonable level," J. P. Lanigan, executive secretary of the Maryland Petroleum Industries Committee, the principal speaker at the meeting, declared. "We further recognize that automotive tax receipts are necessary for highway improvements. But the motorists were told back in 1947 that the tax increases levied at the time would completely solve all our highway difficulties. But now there are good indications that the Highway Advisory Council and the State Roads Commission will ask the General Assembly for more funds to complete the highway improvements. This will be done in spite of the fact that special tax payments by motorists have greatly exceeded the most optimistic estimate."

"Before the General Assembly approves any further increases in the present burdensome taxes now paid by the motorists, it is expected that many questions will be asked concerning a road inventory, highway planning and the existence of a priority scheduling which will obviate the construction of highways which start nowhere and end the same place—nowhere."

Of importance on the list of objectives of the committee is a solution of the problem of service facilities on limited-access highways. Mr. Lanigan explained that the oil men have submitted a plan to the State Roads Commission and are now awaiting a conference with the Commission.

The following officers were elected: Ralph Stephen, Chairman; Charles W. Hill, Vice-Chairman; Emerson H. Palmer, Secretary.

BEETLE TRAPS MAY BE LEASED NEXT WEEK

Japanese beetles are beginning to emerge from the ground and will be at their peak of abundance in July and the first part of August, according to Landon C. Burns, County Agent for Carroll County.

Traps for leasing, and bait for the traps are available, and leases may be obtained at the County Agent's office, on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, from 8:30 a. m. to 12 noon, only.

Spore dust is also available again this year. Residents of Carroll County are reminded that the inoculation of spore dust in lawns and meadows will greatly reduce the infestation of the beetles the following year. Requests for this application may be made at the County Agent's office also.

THIS 'N' THAT (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The rain has ceased and the grass appears as a beautifully new laid green carpet! The wonderful aroma of Honeysuckle is delightful which appears heavier while the branches of the trees are wet!

The Sheep are in the meadow across the opposite field—dozens and dozens of them and now and then comes a weak "Bah-hhh" from the baby as I listen for it's Mother's answer! June is delightful always with the scent of roses everywhere! I thank God for all His Goodness—the birds, the trees, the rain, the warm sunshine, the air, such Peace, the Wisdom in Back of it all!

A barking of terror caused your Observer to quickly rush downstairs to "Buttons" (my pet Boston) and there was a great big black snake (very first one I have ever seen) all curled up ready to make a plunge which might have been the last for "Buttons" as it was only 1 foot from where she was tied. I quickly unfastened the chain bringing Buttons high up on the step and then we watched that snake crawl away. What is more horrible than to watch a snake in its maneuvers! My nice neighbor came running with a hoe but that awful snake slowly hid in a bunch of weeds.

Attended the Bel Air High School graduation which was most affecting. There were 157 graduates. The affair was held out on the spacious lawn of the school. The school was built about five years ago and very much like the Elementary in Taneytown. There was much pomp and beauty as the graduates walked slowly and most gracefully through the arches of flowers with soft music playing to the platform for the commencement program. The music by the students was exceptionally good especially the "Drinking Song" from "La Traviata" by Verdi. Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland gave the Commencement Address. The evening was most interesting presenting the Diploma by the Supt. of Schools with the principal presenting the Honors and Awards. The Farewell song was most touching and after the Benediction, the graduates walked through the arches to their evening of pleasure.

Thinking of schools and teachers, Your Observer hopes that Carroll County will agree to raise the teacher's pay as teaching is one of the biggest jobs in life! No teacher should get less than $3,000 a year. However, teaching is a pleasure these days and no teacher should think only of the salary but what it really means to shape and form a child's character! Truly there was only one teacher in my life that was really outstanding in all my schooling. She was most strict and was a pride to the Board of Education in the State of Pennsylvania. Just as God makes real doctors so does he make real teachers and I think you know just what I mean! Recently, I met 2 retired school teachers—one on a bus and the other in a doctor's office in the big city and both told me that today the average school teacher thinks only of the salary and nothing more. I hope and pray that should does not fit you. There may come a day in the very near future that you will be glad and proud of the teaching "business". Hold onto what you have and thank God for the talent (if you have it) with which he has blessed you!

There is no finer profession! Think of those Catholic Sisters as teachers who do not get one red cent for all their efforts but just for "the love of teaching" and performing their duty with a sacred promise.

Well, ladies have you read the latest? To be in the greatest style you must submit to a wide streak of either gray or whichever shade is most becoming which should be a real contrast of your own hair. Ask your beauty operator about that one the next time you get a new hair-do or that permanent.

What do you think, gentlemen of that newcomer to the mat "Bear from Texas"? Those awful holds of the different types of 'hugs' should be barred as to the sport of wrestling. It is getting to be disgusting. That sport really is going to the 'dogs' if you ask me!

The other day along the highway I saw 2 little fellows with a couple of boxes of strawberries. I stopped the car and looked back in the mirror and I saw them clapping their hands. I looked at the strawberries which were badly beaten by the sun and then I looked at those two little fellows. I bought the strawberries!

If you want to see something grand in the way of "Motel" which they do not have in Carroll County, I wish you could see the new affair called, "King's Court"! They are situated in a V shape with a private porch to each unit. The door opens into a lovely room of maple furniture with a green wall background and a powder room just off in one corner. The floor is tiled with huge green blocks. So if you have relatives coming from the North or South on that highway which is No. 1 and just below Kingsville—they never will forget their stay right there. Now I see the real reason that very few travelers stop at private homes for tourists. Soon they will be Passe.

So long, folks. Have a grand week end. Be careful always. Until next week D. V., I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

YOU AND YOUR CONGRESS

Is your child more likely to consider a career in crime as a result of what he sees on television or hears on radio?

There are opinions on both sides of the question in Congress and the House has authorized investigations to try to nail down the answer.

The idea of such investigations was greeted with something less than enthusiasm by some House members who contend that Congress cannot substitute for the American parent in the rearing of children.

The issue meanwhile, in the view of other members, involves the process of Congressional intervention through publicity rather than legislation.

The subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee which is to handle the TV-radio investigation has a ticklish assignment. It is in part, Rep. Gathings (D-Ark.) explains, to determine whether radio and television have anything to do with the increase in crime from 1949 to 1950 as expressed in burglaries and automobile thefts.

Gathings told his colleagues that during the one-year period, according to the FBI, burglary offenses increased from 409,400 to 411,980, while auto thefts rose from 163,140 to 170,780.

"Do I understand," asked surprised Rep. Byron G. Rogers (D-Colo.), "that the objective of your committee would be to investigate as to whether or not the radio and television had any influence causing an individual to go out and steal an automobile or commit a burglary?"

Gathings said that definitely was one purpose of this investigation to determine whether radio and TV programs "contain immoral or otherwise offensive matter, or place improper emphasis upon crime, violence and corruption...."

He also said a recent survey by the Southern California Association for Better Radio and Television, covering six TV channels for a week from 6 to 9 p. m., showed this total: 91 murders, seven stage hold-ups, three kidnappings, 10 thefts, four burglaries, two cases each of arson and jail break, and one each of murder by explosion, suicide and blackmail, together with some assault and battery cases.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) remarked that while he sympathized with the good intentions of those urging the investigation, he doubted that Congress could adequately police the American living room.

"I do not believe seriously," Hoffman said, "we should assume the duties and responsibilities of parents. Should we attempt to censor all of these things, we could get into a terrible fix. We do not have to buy them for the children. We do not have to permit them to look at the television when we think it is wrong."

"Should we not be more interested in limiting the expenditures in government and reducing taxes and getting at this foreign situation which is sending so many of our young folks over? I think we should."

Prior to the vote authorizing the investigation, Gathings noted that the subcommittee must report any legislative recommendations not later than January 3, 1953.

But a few days later, in his weekly news letter to constituents, Rep. Miller (R-Neb.), who supported the investigation move, said that whatever was accomplished would be done through publicity—an avenue not new to Congress—rather than legislation.

"The publicity resulting from these investigations," Miller wrote, "will be all to the good if it stimulates organizations at the local and national levels to give more attention to the damage inflicted in the minds of our youth by forced display of evil and crime." He added that "censorship by law is questionable...."

Meanwhile, Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) declared that censorship already exists. He quoted a Washington newspaper article headed "Horatio at the Bridge," which told how a federal customs censor at Idlewild Airport, (N. Y.) impounded and listened to a tape-recorded with Bertrand Russell, British philosopher—for broadcast on Lord Russell's 80th birthday—to make sure it contained no embarrassing references to sex, because Lord Russell once had written a book about sex.

CAPACITY

Years ago, poultry specialists discovered this fact: To get heavy layers you've got to develop pullets that can handle large amounts of feed daily! Now the Beacon 70/30 Feeding Plan does just that. Develops large bodies, well-sprung ribs, husky digestive organs capable of big feed intake. Saves you money, too. Uses only 30% of Beacon "18" Growing Mash. The other 70% is low-cost scratch grains you buy separately. Result: Better Birds and Lower Feed Costs!

Down the Line

with Johnny Bell

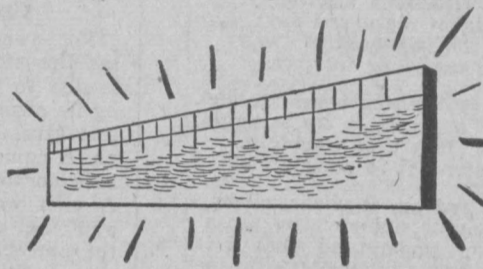

They didn't think it would work!

When E. T. Holmes, telephone manager at Boston, decided in 1878 that girls might make better operators than his rough and ready boys, he really started something! In fact, years later hard-headed males were still arguing that it wouldn't work. But work it did...and the country owes a tremendous debt to the keen sense of public responsibility women operators have shown for generations.

A good rule for better service

If something were invented to make party-line service better, it would make real news! But that something already exists. It's called "co-operation"... which simply means treating others as you'd like them to treat you. Such as remembering to replace the receiver after each call, spacing out calls so that others may use the line in the intervals, and surrendering the line to another in case of an emergency. When everyone plays the game fairly, everyone benefits!

June is a good month to—

Go to weddings and graduations.... Pick cherries and strawberries.... Cultivate.... Finish haymaking.... Get the combine ready.... Use fly spray on the animals and around the barn.... Apply fungicides and insecticides in the garden.... Plan to side-dress corn with nitrogen and boost yields.... Prepare creep feeders for calves.... Make sure stock has shade.... Enjoy some fresh peas from the garden.... Clean the granaries.... Clip weeds and excess growth in the pasture.... Check lightning rod system and make sure it is well grounded.

AN ANNOYING TYPEWRITER

A typewriter is a machine

That labor night and day;

It may toil incessantly

For pleasure or for pay.

Not every-one who hears its click

Truly appreciates its struggle,

Ah, some may even complain,

And strive it to muzzle.

But on and on, it clicks, clicks,

To heights unknown by those

Who can't understand what it takes

To be on a type-writer's tip-toes.

So when you hear one running away,

Speeding without a limit,

Just close your eyes, shut your mouth,

Moan and groan, and pity it.

G. H. ENFIELD.

SMALL TOWN OPERA

Central City
Holds Annual
Song Festival

CENTRAL CITY, Col.—This little community will soon begin another of its famous opera festival seasons with stars from New York's Metropolitan and City opera companies.

The story of Central City's opera season really starts back in 1859 when gold was discovered in the area. Overnight, thousands of miners descended upon the community and staked claims. Over $85 million in gold was mined in the area the following years.

Gradually the output of the mines diminished, people moved away for other parts, and Central City went down from a population of 15,000 to 500. And finally, the opera house, which was built during the boom period, closed.

Given to University

For years it stood unused and then in 1931 the building was presented to the University of Denver by its owners, Frederick McFarlane and Mrs. Yetta McFarlane Demeter. A committee was formed to decide on the future of the structure.

A visit was made to Central City and the group was impressed by the perfection of the building. Here was a theatre, with perfect acoustics, a spacious auditorium, and beautiful decorations.

The group raised enough money in six weeks to restore the building. The roof was repaired, chandelier replaced, and ceiling and three-dimensional frescoes restored.

The triumphant reopening of the opera house was held on July 16, 1932, with a performance of Damas "Camille" starring Lillian Gish.

With each passing year the opera and stage season has grown until today Central City is known throughout the world for its festival.

Summer Festival

The life of Central City is now centered around the summer festival. And in an attempt to give the community the atmosphere of the gold boom days, many of the old buildings are still maintained.

Next door to the opera house is the old Teller House. This fabulous old hotel has played host at times to such notables as President Ulysses S. Grant, Horace Greeley, Edwin Booth, John L. Sullivan, Otis Skinner, and Fannie War. It is the home of the renowned "Face on the Barroom Floor" and the beautiful "Gold Nugget Bar".

Each summer thousands of people journey into the past by visiting the town's Antique Vehicle Exhibit, Coeur d'Alene Mining museum, Central City Historical museum, "Old 71"—an old narrow gauge locomotive and its train.

Central City is unique in that it lives in the present and the past. Its history is becoming legend and for this its future seems assured.

Wisconsin Communities

Are Being Inventoried

MADISON, Wis.—Every community in Wisconsin of 2,500 population or more is being surveyed by the state employment service to get a clear and factual picture of their economic problems. The "inventory" has been underway for a year and will be completed by the end of 1952.

The survey highlights the various factors which actually go to make up a community. The examination is begun with a series of tables which depict the community's "working force." The community's location in terms of railroads, highways and air lines; its industrial "pattern"; its community facilities—hospitals, schools, police and fire services—and the housing situation are also surveyed.

Recreational opportunities, such as parks and the natural setting are taken into consideration.

Factories looking for new locations often ask first about schools and parks—and housing.

State employment officials report the survey will result in a concise document of facts—giving the same basic material for all communities in the state. Executives seeking a location for a firm can then turn to this one book and obtain nearly all essential details.

It is also a part of the Wisconsin plan for a long range economic plan for the state's smaller communities.

Stassen, Taft, Bulls

And Corn Upsets Village

MURPHYSBORO, Ill.—A comedy of errors involving candidates for the presidential nomination all but paralyzed this little town recently.

Senator Taft's caravan arrived in the town square simultaneously with that of Harold Stassen moving in the opposite direction. Traffic became snarled. While the police attempted to untangle it, Taft entered Jackson county courthouse to make a speech to 300 persons, while across the street Stassen climbed a flight of stairs to a radio station to deliver a broadcast.

While the speaking was in progress, a large truckload of Black Angus bulls became stuck between Taft's automobile and Stassen's station wagon. Then a five ton truckload of corn also got stuck.

The square finally was cleared of candidates, bulls and corn 30 minutes later.

City of Pines

Bank Gives Away Seedlings

DOTHAN, Ala.—The southeastern Alabama city of Dothan is becoming known throughout the nation as a "City of Pines".

Behind the program is the First National Bank. It has distributed more than 30,000 pine seedlings to townspeople during the past five years.

Guiding genius behind the bank's seedling program has been Wallace D. Malone, chairman of the board. Mr. Malone says his seedling program has three purposes: (1) good will advertising for the bank, (2) beautification of the community and (3) education of the townspeople as to value of forest.

Always an ardent soil conservationist, he serves on the Houston County Keep Alabama Green committee.

Steel Mills Bring Prosperity to Two
Western Communities

FONTANA, Calif.—Two small western communities have prosperity today as a result of the establishment of steel mills in their neighborhoods.

Utah county, Utah, was not in the best economic shape when the new steel mill started going up on the shore of Utah Lake in 1942. The average farmer in the county was harvesting an annual crop worth only $940, including produce eaten by himself and his family. Some 2,000 people in the area were on relief.

In Fontana in 1941, the town was a little better off. But in general the area was given over to small farms and citrus groves which were not too prosperous.

In both places, the picture changed rapidly after the mills went into operation. In the Geneva area by 1945, some 1300 farmers were working for themselves as well as the mill. That number has increased today. And harvest value rose from $2.8 million to $8.1 million.

Local retail sales went from $15 million to $58 million between 1941 and 1950.

Fontana boomed overnight when the steel mill started production. Spurred by what has become a 5000-man payroll worth $15 million, property values went through the roof. Bank deposits climbed from a million and a half to five million.

School systems in both Geneva and Fontana were enlarged and improved after the mills opened. They had to be, with so many new people coming into the towns.

Both communities have found that the coming of steel mills has meant new churches, better homes, better schools, increased income and all around prosperity. And they have found too that the new partnership of agriculture and industry has expanded the freedom of choice as to how their citizens will make a living.

Metal Hunting Puts New Life in Canadian Towns

VAL D'OR, Quebec—Metal hunting is putting new life into the upper wilderness of Canada's Quebec and new prosperity into a number of villages.

The hunting, which is aimed at copper, lead and zinc, is centered in the Rouyn-Val d'Or region and around Chibougamau Lake.

The growth of base-metals mining activity is reflected in the stores of Val d'Or, where shopkeepers report their sales have increased about 25 per cent in volume over last year—a contradiction of the trend over most of Canada.

Buying of electrical appliances, home furnishings and automobiles is heavy in this rugged country, where most mining men live in one-story wooden homes in the small towns and villages that dot the area.

This was lumbering country until the start of the 30's when construction of a railway to Rouyn brought the first cheap transportation to the area and enabled gold mining to get started in earnest. Since 1936 the Quebec government has built more than 1,300 miles of roads through the region and to the big cities of Montreal and Quebec, at a cost of 12 million dollars.

Youngsters Get Chance
To Police Community

JOHNSON CITY, Ill.—The youngsters of this small town are going to get the chance for which they have begged.

Recently the mayor and council imposed a 9 p. m. curfew on the community's teen-agers. As a result, numerous letters were received by the mayor giving every reason in the world why the curfew shouldn't be enforced.

The final clincher was the teen-agers' proposal that officials give them a chance to stop vandalism of fellow teen-agers.

"I'm proud of the youngsters for wanting to do that," the mayor said. "We'll give them a suitable time to see if they can correct the situation."

Community officials believe this may solve their problems. They expressed the belief that it might be worth trying in other small towns that have teen-age vandalism problems.

Rural Roads

Modernization Needed

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A survey of county highway officials reveals that America's principal rural highways, the federal aid system, will require nearly $30 billion to bring them up to modern standards.

It has been estimated that the much-needed modernization process would require the replacement of 430,000 miles of road, of 68 per cent of the 630,000 miles of roads which carry more than 80 per cent of all rural traffic. It would also mean the rebuilding of 72,000 bridges.

In the past decade the rural road system has gained in importance because of the great increase in trucks hauling farm products to market. In a 10 year period truck haulage increased from 50 billion ton-miles to an estimated 115 billion.

Colorado Community Cited for Help Given Unfortunate Family

FRUITA, Col.—This small community of 1,849 people has set an example of kindness and neighborliness that has become the talk of the nation.

The story began with the arrival in Fruta of the Minter family, including Melvin Minter, a Negro lumber worker from Louisiana, his wife and 19 children. The family was headed for Washington where Minter had a new job waiting.

As they approached Fruta in their pickup truck, a car nosed out of a side road. Braking to avoid a collision, the Minter truck skidded and overturned. Margaret, 14, was killed. Mrs. Minter was seriously injured. The older children were cut and bruised.

The town responded to the emergency. Townspeople sped to the scene to carry the family to a hospital. One offered them the use of an unoccupied house she owned. "Here's the key," she said. "Use it as long as you wish."

Other womenfolk brought furnishings and food to stock the house. Minter got a job as a laborer.

While Mrs. Minter was recovering, women took turns caring for the family. Fruta's citizens paid for repairing the Minters' truck, for the hospital bills, and for Margaret's funeral.

This friendliness was unusual because a Negro had never lived in the area. Then someone remembered the town had a Jim Crow ordinance. No one seemed to know who had passed it, or when or why.

Marked the city judge: "We just won't enforce the bill. It's unconstitutional." Finally, the mayor called an emergency meeting of the city council, which voted unanimously to abolish the law.

With Mrs. Minter finally out of the hospital, the family had agreed it would like to stay in the small town. "I never had such treatment in my life before," said Minter. "Why would a man leave a place like this?"

SHORT STORY

Dead Past

By R. H. WILKINSON

A MAN with a past is at a disadvantage with the world. Johnny Martin realized this now more than ever.

He felt once more in his inside coat pocket and then searched through all his other pockets. But the envelope containing the money that Fred Carson had given him to bring to the bank was gone.

For perhaps five minutes Johnny stood on the corner of Main and Hill streets trying to decide what to do. Fred Carson, despite the fact that he had never questioned Johnny about his past, would wonder when told that the money was lost.

Fred might look into his past. He'd be sure to find out about that six months in jail.

Six months ago Johnny had hit Hillsdale. He liked the town. Between it and the scene of his past life there were almost 2000 miles. He got a job as helper with Fred Carson, who ran a tree nursery.

Fred Carson was middle-aged and fat and kindly. He hadn't asked a single question, except what Johnny knew about trees.

Then there was June Stafford. She was probably more reason than any why Johnny liked Hillsdale and why he wanted to stay. He regretted now that he'd put off telling her about himself, about his past.

Too late now. She'd find out from Fred Carson or some one else, and then there'd be no use trying to make her understand. Only a half-hour ago he'd met her at the post-office and they'd talked of the picnic they'd planned for next Sunday. Sunday! By that time Johnny could be hundreds of miles away. It would be an easy thing to do. He could take a bus up to Avon, then hop a train.

For perhaps five minutes Johnny stood on the corner of Main and Hill streets trying to decide what to do.

Down the street Johnny saw the big blue-gray Avon bus coming toward him. He was so used to running away. Automatically he began to make his plans.

It flashed across his mind that maybe this was the cause of all his unhappiness — because he had always run away. Because he never had the courage to face a thing down, to live it down.

THE AVON bus came roaring up to the corner, its driver looking questioningly at Johnny. But Johnny shook his head, turned resolutely and headed back toward the nursery.

During the 15 minutes it took him to get there he decided what he was going to do. First of all he was going to tell about losing the money. Then before Fred Carson could do any investigating he was going to tell all about his past and the six months he'd spent in jail.

Fred was in the shop. Johnny stopped short at the look in his employer's eyes. There was something about Fred's expression that provoked apprehension.

"Look, Mr. Carson," Johnny said. "I lost that money. I thought it was in my inside pocket, but when I came to take it out the envelope was gone." Fred's expression hardened.

"There's something else I wanted to tell you too," Johnny rushed on. "It's about me. I should have told you long ago, but well, I guess I didn't have the courage. I—I spent some time in jail once. When I was a kid. For breaking and entering. I've been trying to live it down ever since, but it always seems to catch up with me. And now, if you don't want a jailbird working for you—"

Fred's face had undergone a change. The hardness disappeared. "So that's it? And me just fixin' to bawl you out for mailing that money instead of deliverin' it. I was in a mind to do it, too, on account of the frost getting a whole double row of seedlings last night. Why, shucks, the money got to the bank all right. Tom Davis called up and said I was crazy for sending loose bills through the mails thataway. I figured you musta met June Stafford somewhere and mailed the envelope so's you could talk to her."

Johnny gulped. "And now that you know about me—?"

"Know about you? Why, shucks, sonny, I've known since two days after you came to work for me. June knows, too. A feller come through here who used to know you back East. He talked a lot." Fred's blue eyes twinkled. "Now stop gapin' at me an' get to work. I'm in no mood to argue."

"Yes, sir," he managed to say. "You bet, Mr. Carson!"

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS

The Board of Education of Carroll county following its meeting of June 3, 1952, announces a number of administrative changes in the school personnel of the county. It is announced that Mr. Gerald E. Richter, Principal of the Westminster High school will be assigned to the position of Supervisor of High schools, effective July 1, 1952. Mr. Richter's duties in the supervisory field will be in charge of the supervisory work in half of the county high schools, and having approximately 75 teachers under his supervision. He will assume a share of the work carried during the past six years by Mr. John F. Wooden, Jr., who has been in charge of the high school instruction in all of the county high schools. Mr. Richter resides in Westminster where he has been principal of the high school since 1945. Prior to his coming to Westminster he was principal of the Manchester High school from 1929 to 1944. Mr. Richter is a native of Connecticut having attended the public schools of Connecticut and graduated from Western Maryland College in 1926. He has studied following his graduation from Western Maryland and earned his master's degree from the University of Maryland.

Before coming to Carroll county he was principal of the high school at Huntington, Calvert County, Md. Mr. Richter will be succeeded at the Westminster High school by Mr. Quentin L. Earhart, now principal of the Mount Airy school. Mr. Earhart's teaching service in Carroll county began in 1941 in the Taneytown High school where he taught during the school years of 1941 and 1942. He was absent to serve in the armed forces during the period February 1943 until assigned to a teaching position in the Westminster high school in 1945. In 1947 he took the position of principal in the Mount Airy High school in which position he has served until the present time.

Mr. Earhart is a graduate of the Westminster High school and has an A. B. degree from Western Maryland College. He also has a master's degree in education from the same institution. Mr. Earhart resides in Mount Airy and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Earhart, Westminster. He plans to reside in Westminster and will take up the duties of principal during the summer of 1952. Mr. Earhart's position in Mount Airy will be filled by the transfer of Mr. Jesse L. Starkey from the principalship of the Elmer Wolfe High school at Union Bridge. Mr. Starkey is a native of West Virginia where he attended the public schools and later graduated from Western Maryland College in 1948. His graduate studies include work at Western Washington University. He has been principal of the Elmer Wolfe High school since 1949, and before that was a teacher in the Manchester High school in this county. During the past year he has been president of the Carroll County Teachers Association.

Mr. Francis Gates has been assigned to the position of principal at the Robert Moton School in Westminster. Mr. Gates is a native of Easton, Md., and attended the public schools at Talbot County. He later graduated from the Maryland State Teachers College at Bowie, Md. He served in the U. S. Army from 1943-1946.

Mr. Gates was a teacher in the Robert Moton school during the school year 1949-50; 1950-51. He has been principal of the Johnsville school near Eldersburg during the school year 1951-52.

MEETING OF RED CROSS OFFICIAL

The annual meeting of the Carroll County Chapter, American National Red Cross, was held on Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the Westminster Elementary school, with chairman Hazard Clarke, presiding. The districts were well represented.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Leslie Hamill. Announcement was made that two senior delegates, Mrs. Margaret Nulton, Taneytown, and Mrs. Ruth Shanbrook, Manchester, and a junior delegate, Patricia Richter, Westminster, will attend the national convention to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, June 23, 24 and 25.

Recognition was given the more than 600 volunteers, who have contributed time and talents to the organization throughout the year.

The report of the nominating committee named the slate of seven new members to the board of directors, whose terms had expired in 1952: Col. S. S. MacLaughlin, Mrs. John Wood, Mrs. A. J. Lamme, Jr., Mrs. Richard Shanbrook, Mrs. Margaret Nulton, Albert Beaver and Ernest Dunbar. The committee was composed of Mrs. Lamme, Chairman, Mrs. Frank Dorsey and Miss Amelia Annan. Mrs. Nelson, director of the home service department of the Baltimore Chapter gave an excellent blackboard talk on this branch of the services. She stressed the military home connected services, delving into practically all types called upon for service. She stated that General Eisenhower had said that this was the greatest moral factor in war time services. An informative skit, an actual case worker, and a supposed young mother and infant child, whose husband had just been called into service, best illustrated many prevalent cases now being cared for in the Carroll County Chapter.

Miss June Snyder, Westminster, played several piano selections. Attention was called to the booklet passed to each one present giving the annual report of all phases of work in the chapter.

The board of directors met, at the conclusion of the open meeting. Hazard Clarke, Westminster, was re-elected chairman, with Charles Arnold of Taneytown, vice-chairman; Mrs. Frank Thomas, Westminster, secretary; Albert Beaver, Westminster, treasurer, and Mrs. John Wood, Westminster, assistant treasurer. The executive committee will be composed of the above officers plus Ernest Dunbar, Taneytown; Mrs. Frank Dorsey, Sykesville, and Col. MacLaughlin, Westminster.

Language is not only the vehicle of thought, it is a great and efficient instrument in thinking.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

Home-Grown Pork

Raising a pig or two on the backlot farm is another way to cut food costs and frequently can be made to pay its own way.

First of all, the pig doesn't require too much room nor does he demand too much attention. As long as he has a pen big enough to permit him to exercise, has shade, and is protected from bad weather, he can develop into some first class bacon and choice pork chops.

For the average person raising his own food, a pig weighing from 40 to 60 lbs. at least 8 weeks old, can be a profitable investment. He should be vaccinated against cholera by the local veterinarian and an adequate sanitation program carried out to assure his continued good health.

The chief item in his diet is kitchen waste and table scraps mixed with a prepared pig feed. Wheat shorts and middlings have long been popular with many backlot farmers who raise pigs since 100 lbs. of shorts will produce as much as 16 lbs. of pork.

Recently the Purina Research Laboratories developed a special Backlot Hog Chow, which can be mixed with the kitchen wastes, similar to using wheat shorts. However, 100 lbs. of this fortified feed will produce about 30 lbs. of pork—almost twice as much as the same amount of shorts will develop into pork.

Actually this difference in feeding cost will permit the average backlot farmer to raise two pigs on this ration where they formerly raised only one, using shorts and middlings mixed with the kitchen waste.

An ample supply of clean drinking water is a prime requisite in the backlot pig program, whether prepared feed is mixed with table scraps or shorts and middlings are used.

THE CHRYSLER NEW YORKER CONVERTIBLE
(This body style also available in Windsor DeLuxe with Spitfire Engine.)
White side-wall tires at extra cost.

ITS ENGINE ADDS MUSCLE TO EVERY DROP OF GAS!

To many owners, the mighty 180 H.P. V-8 engine that powers the Chrysler New Yorker is the most remarkable feature of this remarkable car. It is certainly the most discussed automobile engine in many, many years.

This is the engine with hemispherical combustion chambers... the engine that gets more power out of every drop of gas. And non-premium gas at that!

Actually, it puts you in control of more power than you'll probably ever need use. You'll sense this... together with its unequalled response... the very first yards you drive. It runs smoother, more quietly, and with less wear than any other engine ever built into an American automobile.

... and it makes driving (both cruising and the short runs) more fun than you have ever known it to be!

But that's not all. Along with this engine there are scores of other reasons, too, for driving a New Yorker before resolving on any new car. Like Full-time Power Steering that makes steering five times easier... and your control five times greater... than in ordinary cars.

Like Power Brakes that cut needed pedal pressure by as much as two-thirds.

Like Oriflow shock absorbers that make even bad roads feel "newly paved"... restful chair-high seats... big, wide-opening doors... big windows that let you see more.

It's true... until you drive a Chrysler New Yorker you won't know what you're missing. Why not stop in today?

The Sin of Greed

Lesson for June 22, 1952

GREED is not modern. The only modern thing about it is its forms. The Tenth Commandment is easy to dodge if you go by the bare words, like a shyster lawyer. Suppose your neighbor is a bachelor, lives in a rented apartment, has neither manservant nor maid, and no cattle of any description. Nothing you can covet! But wait a minute... It says here, "Thou shalt not covet — any thing that is thy neighbor's." That covers everything he has. You can covet his reputation, his job, his girl; you can covet his insurance, his money in the bank, his watermelons. "Any thing" covers a great deal of territory. And any sort of coveting is still sin. Greed in the fourteenth century B.C. and the twentieth century A.D. are all the same thing at heart. And "at heart" is where greed begins.

Dr. Foreman

Something for Nothing

THE ESSENCE of greed, of covetousness, is wanting something that does not belong to you, without wanting to give anything in return. If I have eggs for sale and you buy a couple of dozen, you are not covetous for wanting the eggs and I am not greedy for wanting the money. It's fair exchange.

Of course, if I charge you too much for the eggs, then I am covetous, to be sure. Or if you want to sneak the eggs out of my henhouse before day, then you are covetous. But buying and selling are neither one sinful. If you have worked for a week and want your pay, that is not greed. If you have rented a house and the landlord wants his rent, he isn't greedy unless he is charging you too much.

The profit motive is not wrong if the man who takes the profit has given fair value in return. The profit motive is dead wrong if all the profiteer thinks about is the profit, without ever a thought of service.

The gambler, the tax "fixer," the sports "fixer," are trying to get something for nothing, and that is the very essence of the sin of greed.

Selling What Ought Not To Be for Sale

SOMETIMES greed reaches the point where the greedy man will sell what ought never to be sold. There are things in this life that are priceless, literally; they can never be tagged with a price-mark. But the covetous spirit will eat out a man's sense of values till he begins to put price-marks on priceless things. There are always buyers, alas!

After the American Civil War, some business men came to Robert E. Lee, who had lost everything he had but his reputation, and offered him what was then a tremendous sum if he would just let them use his name as an officer of their company.

"You won't have to do any work," they said. "All we want is the use of your name." "It's not for sale," said Robert E. Lee.

Another thing that should never be put on sale is the simple doing of duty. True, honest work should be fairly paid. But that is not the point at the moment. Take this Skipper Carlsen of the Flying Enterprise. When he came into port after that famous voyage in which he stuck with his ship till the last hour before Davy Jones took it down, he was due a certain amount of salary, no doubt, and he had well earned it. If the company paid him a bonus besides, we should all be glad. But Captain Carlsen turned down offers totaling around $100,000, from radio and television people, just for letting them use him as advertising. No sirs, said Carlsen in effect, what I have done, I did in the line of duty. I'm not selling myself.

So it is with convictions, or with love. They should be priceless; when they are sold, they become worthless. Greed destroys their value.

Out of the Heart

THE TENTH Commandment shows plainly what is true of both evil and good alike. Right and wrong do not consist simply in right and wrong actions. Back of the action is the attitude. Back of the act is the mind, the motive, the desire.

Stealing begins in coveting; adultery begins in lust; murder begins in anger or in contempt. The laws of man can never reach beneath the surface. Even when motives are involved, they are exceedingly hard to prove. But God sees the heart. And he will finally judge us by what he sees there.

Let's Think

G. H. ENFIELD

SILENT GRIEF

Grief indicates there are oases in one's nature. Silent grief has its source in the depths of one's soul. It is not effeminate for a robust man to shed tears. The idea seems to prevail today that to shed tears is an acknowledgment of weakness. Jesus wept. He also taught: "Blessed are they that mourn."

A source of comfort is in the shedding of tears. Here one finds relief in giving vent to the anguish of inner feelings. The Master cried over Jerusalem because she would not heed His counsel. He would have taken her under His protection as a hen gathers her brood under her wings but she would not.

Yes, there is comfort in grief. When the flood gates of the soul are opened to let the pent up flood escape, one is comforted. But there is a silent grief. In this kind of grief one does not appear able to cry. The heart-ache wells up within him. And the unkind sometimes refer to such a person as "hard-hearted". Silent grief is that grief which is felt rather than expressed. It is most disturbing, painful, penetrating. Perhaps silent grief is most typical of fathers and husbands. Not that men feel less, but they cry less. They are by nature less emotional than women. Even silent grief sometimes gives way to expression as in the case of that Episcopal clergyman who recently lost his son in a crevasse in the State of Washington, in the reading of the last rites. Ah, death changes the complexion of things even with those not accustomed to give expression to sorrow! Grief bespeaks of sacred sentiments, tender memories, deep, and often times buried emotions.

Too often we grieve over the loss of material things and shed no tears over the loss of things dedicated to the spirit. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Joy comes when light dawns.

G. H. ENFIELD.

War Not First As Man Killer In This Nation

NEW YORK—The nation's war dead since Yankee farmers fired "the shot heard round the world" in the Battle of Lexington on April 19, 1775, totaled about 1,005,000 on the 177th anniversary of that historic engagement.

At the same time, however, the aggregate of lives lost in highway accident since 1900 is now approximately 1,012,000, some 7,000 higher than the total of American military fatalities in all of the nation's wars during the last 177 years.

Since the 1951 anniversary of the Battle of Lexington about 8,500 battle deaths have occurred among U.S. forces in Korea, according to official Department of Defense figures. On U.S. highways since last April 19, 1951, approximately 37,000 men, women and children have been killed by automobiles, or more than four times the total of American military personnel who lost their lives in Korea during the same year.

Millionth Unknown

The 1,000,000th American soldier to die since the Battle of Lexington, known simply as "GI-X" because his identity was not known, fell on a Korean battlefield last September 3 or 4. The nation's millionth highway fatality since the turn of the century, "Victim X," who also remains unidentified, met death three and a half months later, on December 22, three days before Christmas.

Since last December 25, when the Korean war was 18 months old and all-time U.S. war deaths were close to 1,004,000, the defense department has reported less than 1,000 battle deaths among U.S. forces. In the same period of less than four months, fatalities in accidents on U.S. highways climbed about 12,000. The automobile outstripped war as a mass killer of Americans in February, when the aggregate of deaths in traffic accidents since 1900 exceeded for the first time in history the total of military personnel lost in U.S. wars.

After a century and three-quarters, the first shot fired in America's wars at Lexington is still reverberating, with twentieth century safety significance, near the site of that famed battleground. Highway crashes, instead of musket balls, have claimed frequent casualties in recent years among American military personnel stationed at Hanscom air force base, between Lexington and Concord.

Boy Obeys Father Who Told Him to Shoot His Mother

SAN ANTONIO—A four-year-old boy shot his mother here because his father told him to do so, he said.

His mother, he said, was lying in bed. She cried when he shot her, he said, so his father took the pistol and shot her too.

Tony Morin, an investigator for the Bexar county sheriff, was attempting to find out whether the boy's story was truth or fantasy.

Neither of the parents could be found. The boy's father left him in a nursery and hasn't returned, although he promised to come back next day with a week's board.

The boy told Mrs. Florence Fortney, who runs the nursing home, that his mother and father had a fight. He said his father loaded a pistol, handed it to him and told him to shoot his mother.

The boy said he shot her. Morin asked him today where he shot her and he pointed to his right chest.

"Mommy was mean to daddy and daddy told me he was going to get me a new mommy," he said.

Mrs. Fortney called the sheriff after hearing the boy's story. The sheriff asked the Children's Service Bureau to take charge of him.

Mrs. Fortney said the boy's father—a clean-shaven, "well-spoken" man wearing cowboy boots and a big hat—brought the boy to her nursery in a taxicab.

She was going out, so she didn't talk to the man long. He said they were "from the East," and he had been working in San Antonio, but would be working in Corpus Christi "for a spell."

He wanted her to take care of his son, make him mind and teach him good manners. He said he'd be back the next day with $18 to pay a week's board, but never returned.

Heaviest US Snow Area Stalled Trains and Cars

Rail and highway travelers, marooned by severe winter storms in the high wild country of California and Nevada west of Reno, can appreciate the realism of early Spanish explorers who named those mountains the Sierra Nevada—the snow-capped, or snowy.

The Sierra Nevada range is one of the snowiest spots in North America. The maximum snowfall noted in the United States was that recorded at Tamarack, California, in the winter of 1906-07. The snow piled up 884 inches, or about 74 feet in one drift, and reached a depth on level ground of more than 37 feet.

The heavy snow that stalled trains, including a sleek transcontinental streamliner, and blocked all highway traffic this January near Donner Pass, California, a little more than 50 miles northwest of Tamarack, was measured at 19 feet while it was still falling.

Country Stores

Trend Toward Self-Service

MADISON, Wis.—There is a general trend toward self-service in country and small town stores, a recent survey reports. The system spells high efficiency and good profits.

Country stores, the survey reports, have relatively low expenditures for rent and personnel in comparison with city stores. And in terms of percent of sales, city stores pay more than twice as much rent as small town merchants.

On the other hand, city merchants have a drop on country operators with lower expenditures for truck maintenance and operation; for phone, heat, light and ice; and for freight and cartage.

The trend toward self-service in small town stores is further boosted by the fact that cash-and-carry keeps prices down, expenses low, and net profits at a higher level.

Martinsburg Citizens Cooperate to Build A Successful Library

MARTINSBURG, Penn.—This is a success story—the story of how a small town built a community library that has been going full tilt for a number of years.

A progressive, clean little community of approximately 2,000 people, Martinsburg had about everything a small town should have but a library. There had been talk of starting one from time to time, but nothing definite was accomplished.

Then, Jane Hoyt, a librarian moved into the community. Teamed with the editor of the local newspaper, the two organized a library plan, assembled a board of directors, and started to campaign.

Civic clubs immediately took notice of their efforts. One donated a room in the municipal building. The Community Chest donated funds for supplies. And the people of the town came through with donations of books—books that had been treasured by people for years, and new ones as well.

At this point women in the community offered their help and learned how to catalog and run a library.

For several years the library has grown. In addition to the book department, there is a children's story hour every Saturday afternoon.

All of this was accomplished on a voluntary basis by scores of people in the community who serve without thought of pay.

Blair M. Bice, editor of the weekly Herald, was the driving force behind the program of building the library. By means of his newspaper editorials he aroused the interest of the community. And by his constant plugging he has aided its growth and insured its future.

Kansas Town Shows Way To Solve Health Problem

MANKATO, Kan.—The small community of Mankato is being cited as an example of how other small towns in the state can solve their rural health problems.

Several years ago a group of citizens tackled the problem of inducing a doctor to move to the community. Since then between 75 and 100 other small towns of the state, with populations from 500 to 5,000, have followed Mankato's example.

Mankato's program was simple and practical. The townspeople raised money among themselves to build a home and office, and to buy the necessary equipment for a doctor. Naturally enough, a doctor moved in to stay.

For a number of reasons the plan appeals to many young doctors. To begin with, the day when a young general practitioner could walk into a rural community, buy a home, hang up his shingle and begin to prosper, passed with the horse and buggy he used to have.

Today, his medical education is expensive. He needs an office and a car. When another $10,000 is added for X-ray, electrocardiograph, basal metabolic and other equipment his training calls for, the total cost is often too heavy for him to bear alone.

For that reason he has been going to the cities where the facilities already exist. But now, by raising their own funds to finance these necessities, Mankato and other Kansas towns have attracted their own doctors. The pattern differs, of course, with the needs and limitations of the individual community, but it is working and solving the rural health problem for many communities.

Village Businessmen Provide Mill Capital

SCOTTSVILLE, Ky.—The businessmen of this community have subscribed to $50,000 worth of preferred stock in a new business to be built near the town.

A fireproof concrete building will be built with the funds to provide housing for a large lumber mill that plans to move to the community from Tennessee. The company will make finished flooring and will have machinery and other equipment valued at $250,000.

Businessmen report the new firm will employ approximately 75 men and give the town an economic boost.

OUR HERITAGE

The grain is waving in the field—
The golden grain a crop will yield,
By day the sunshine beating down
By night at rest the work will crown.

It is a pleasant heritage that we possess today
Nor can that rest at all our powers delay
Thruout the year the seasons roll around
Each mellowing and softening the ground.

We do but hope each year a better crop to yield
For this purpose we rotate crops in field
From grass, and hay in each field today
Next year in corn we will display.

From barnyard on the fields manure spread
To increase for us our needed daily bread
From fields we store the hay within the mow
As food in winter for the steer and cow.

The orchard yields of fruit abundant store
To fill the bin at home and the food store
Of strawberries clinging luscious on the vine
We find the crop this season very fine

And so we bless the God of wealth
For rain and sunshine and blooming health.

"I GUESS I'M LAZY"

Says a Checking Account customer: "When it comes to paying bills, I guess I'm lazy. Instead of taking cash to each creditor, I put the cash in the bank. Then I mail checks, and let the mailman do all the walking! He's paid for it; I'm not."

This customer might have added that this easiest way to pay bills is also the safest way. Open your checking account at this bank and begin paying your bills the "lazy" way too.
