KIWANIS NEWS

A New Type of Program Presented

"Hobby Night" under the direction of S. E. Breth was observed by the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown at its regular meeting Wednesday evening at Taney Inn. Several members responded to the call of Chairman Breth and told of their hobby or diversion other than their regular job. One member told of his hobby which later led to his present business.

President Howell B. Royer presided at the meeting with invocation by Clyde L. Hesson. Group singing was led by Raymond Wright with Mrs. Wallace Yingling as pianist.

David Taylor of the Westminster Club and Rev. Homer Kuff, of Annapolis, Md., a guest of Miles S. Reifsnnyder, were present.

The meeting next week will be with the Front Royal Club at Front Royal, Va. Arrangements are made to entertain the Taneytown Club with a tour of points of interest in the Virginia City with a picnic meal in the evening. Those members unable to take advantage of the afternoon program are urged to join the two clubs for the evening meal.

Following the regular meeting the Board met and made plans for the annual Crab and Shrimp Feed to be held July 23 in the Taneytown Recreation Park.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

The Potomac Edison Company opened its office, E. Baltimore Street, June 1, 1942 under the able and capable management of Mr. S. E. Breth.

This was the beginning of a pleasant friendship which increased over the ten years when the company joined with other businesses in Taneytown creating one of the best public relations and business associations enjoyed in this community.

Sparked by the fine leadership and management under Mr. Breth this Company with its employees has greatly added to the business and social life of Taneytown. Mr. Breth and the employees of the Potomac Edison Company proved that they were not only interested in the welfare of the community but joined wholeheartedly in the social and business affairs and growth of the community.

Aside from Mr. Breth's interest in his company he quickly saw the need for more homes in Taneytown and with this thought in mind he purchased a tract of land from Mr. Ernest Bankard on the east side of Taneytown and laid this piece of land off into building lots. A number of houses were built and in all probability this will be a very fine residential section of Taneytown in the future.

The fine service of the company has been improved with additional lines being added. At present another feed line is being built that will make two separate lines into Taneytown, almost eliminating the danger of storms that could, in the past, disrupt the service of electricity in Taneytown.

All in all we are proud of our neighbor and we wish them a happy 10th anniversary.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

Ground was broken Tuesday for the new Drive-in Theatre at Bridgeport. The tract of land was purchased from Madeline Plunkert (formerly part of the Terpenning farm) by John D. Miller, Emmitsburg, owner-operator of the Taneytown, Emmitsburg and Hancock Theatres.

Mr. Miller plans to build a 300-car theatre ground with the most modern equipment. The work is being done by the Veterans Electrical Construction Company of Elkins, W. Va.

"Some of the features of Theatre will include a cafeteria," says Mr. Kenneth Clem, manager of the Taneytown Theatre, "with speakers for individual cars of the most modern type. A playground for kiddies with sliding boards, swings, etc., will be an added feature."

Additional workers on the project are needed and every effort will be made to open the Theatre about the second week in August.

PYTHIAN SISTERS MEETING

Miss Clara Devilliss was hostess to the Pythian Sisters Past Chiefs Club of Taneytown Temple No. 23, Tuesday evening, June 24, 1952. The meeting opened by singing, America; Scripture lesson was read by the hostess, followed with prayer. All uniting in the Lord's Prayer; Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved as read; Roll-call answered by 13 members.

The President, Mrs. Marlin Six, presided during the meeting. There will be no meeting during the month of July, and the next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Feeser, Tuesday evening, Aug. 5th. After singing Let the Lower Lights Be Burning, a motion was made to close with the benediction. The hostess served refreshments.

BE YOURSELF

Don't be what you ain't.
Jest you be what you is.
If you is not what you am.
Then you am not what you is,
If you're just a little tadpole,
Don't try to be a frog.
If you're just the tail,
Don't try to wag the dog.
Pass the plate.
If you can't exhort and preach,
If you're just a little pebble,
Don't try to be the beach.
Don't be what you ain't,
Jes' you be what you is,
For the man who plays square
Is a-going to get "his".

ANNUAL BANQUET ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Former Students of T. H. S. Dined and Danced

The Alumni of Taneytown High School held their annual banquet on Saturday evening, June 21, in the high school auditorium. It was the fifth annual banquet since reorganization of the Alumni Association. Over 150 Alumni and guests attended the dinner and dance, which seemed to be one of the most successful, at least socially, ever staged.

The auditorium was very attractively decorated with balloons and crepe paper and featured a garden scene at the rear of the floor, lit up by a floodlight. The stage was also colorfully decorated with ferns and palms covering the front. The tables were brightened by small bowls of rambler roses. All the decorating was done by members of the Class of '52.

A delicious fried chicken dinner, served family style by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Co., was relished by all. It was prepared and served in the typical fashion which has given these ladies the reputation that they have earned.

After the meal, group singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Henry Reindollar directing and Miss Fairy Frock accompanying at the piano. James Fair, the President of the Alumni Association, acted as toastmaster for the program. The roll call of classes was made to enable classmates to locate each other and renew their old acquaintances. There were only a few

FIREWORKS ARE FORBIDDEN

State Insurance Commissioner Harvey M. Chesney has called the attention of the public to the fact that the sale and use of all fireworks are forbidden, unless approval has been obtained from the Insurance Department.

Under the law, fireworks of every description are banned. The law further specifically bans the use of firecrackers, squibs, rockets, sparklers, roman candles, torpedoes, bombs, paper caps, grenades, fire-balloons, signal lights and any combustible or explosive composition. No section of the State is exempt from operation of this law.

Permits, without charge, for special displays of fireworks will only be authorized where the application has been made ten days in advance, and only upon careful investigation that the display will not endanger the safety and health of persons in the locality or cause damage to property belonging to others. The law requires this approval and the filing of a bond with the Insurance Department so as to protect anyone who might be injured.

Section 81-C, Paragraph (a) of Article 48A provides that any person possessing or discharging fireworks without a permit from the State Insurance Department shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished for each offense by a fine of not more than $50.00, and any person selling fireworks in violation of the provisions of this sub-title shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $200.00.

LIONS CLUB NEWS

Firemen Entertained at a Meeting

The waves of heat have not prevented Taneytown Lions from ending a very active charter year under the presidency of Harry B. Dougherty, who now hands over the gavel to Singleton E. Rensburg, newly elected of the club here.

The concluding program honored members of the Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company who recently completed a 60-hour course in the elements of firefighting given by Lester Greene, Westminster fire chief, under the extension program of the University of Maryland. Firemen Charles D. Baker, (chief); Bernard C. Bowers, Raymond Feeser, Sterling Fritz, Kenneth Hawk, David W. Hilterbrick, George T. Kiser, Wilbur F. Miller, Jr., Thurston Putman and T. M. Smith were introduced by their new president, Lion M. Doty Robb, and graduates recognized in the absence were Edwin Baumgardner, W. A. Riffe and Russell Rodgers. The remarks of Mr. Kiser, retiring president of the fire company, indicated that the course was an eye-opener to the men who stuck with Chief Greene to the end.

It was a pleasure to have Mr. Greene also present and to hear him say how apt a group he had to instruct.

After this meeting District Governor William G. Heagy, Westminster, impressively inducted before members, Lionesses, and guests the officers for the year 1952-53. Besides the new president, Singleton E. Rensburg, there were Homer Y. Myers installed as first vice-president, Wilbur O. Thomas, second vice-president; Raymond J. Perry, third vice-president; Don E. Webb, secretary; Carroll L. Wantz, Lion tamer; Delmar E. Riffe, Tail Twister, and new directors for two years: John O. Garner and the Rev. Edmund P. Welker. Other, hold-over members who fill out the new executive board are: Immediate past-president, Harry B. Dougherty, and directors with one year remaining in their terms, S. Harley Holter and Norman R. Sauble.

Lions Dougherty and Robert Feeser reported briefly on their Atlantic City trip to the district convention. Notwithstanding humorous incidents and the sleepless night life of the gay boardwalk, these men attended all sessions, which present for one day only were Curtis G. Bowers, J. Hoke Ommert, Singleton E. Rensburg, and Don E. Webb.

New members installed by Gov. Heagy were William A. Myers, latest Taneytown Lion cub, as well as Ralph W. Stonesifer, who joined in April. They balance two being lost because of removal from the city, Lew L. Myers and Don R. Webb.

A report next meeting, July 8th, to be presided over by the new president Rensburg, will cover the successful Crab Feed held Tuesday evening at Taneytown Recreation Park in the new shelter erected through Kiwanis Club effort and beneath the lighting system made available by the Lions Club. S. Harley Holter was chairman for the crab feed outing, assisted by Donald R. Baker, John E. Chenoweth, J. Hoke Ommert, Delmar E. Riffe, and Don R. Webb, the affair being well patronized by local organizations and nearby Lions clubs, in addition to the families of members.

Mrs. Harner, treasurer, presented the past presidents pin to Mrs. Gladys Wimer, Westminster. In the enforced absence (due to illness) of president Ruth Pickens, the meeting was presided over by Louise Young, vice-president.

Plans for Maryland Poetry Day, to be held in October, were outlined by Maryland State president, Mrs. deLashmutt. The group discussed, also, arrangements for sending a financial gift from the Carroll County Pen Women to the Pen-Arts Building, Washington, D. C., national headquarters for the League of Pen Women which has branches in all forty eight states and in the possessions.

So Mr. Albaugh would like to have more information about the reservation of the bus, the meals, the ball tickets, etc. that goes into making a trip worthwhile. May you kindly reply immediately, please.

An invitation was extended by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to the Chamber to have a part in the dedication service which will be on the 19th of July. General MacArthur will be the speaker of the occasion.

THIS 'N' THAT (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Who would think it—June and a fireplace burning?
Your Observer is typing this column on such an evening and it is the middle of June! Ugh!

And just two days ago, I sat on the porch of a farm house (a glorious day) overlooking the lovely acres which were rolling and sloping ones gazing upon the farmer mowing the new crop of hay with a team of horses. That farmer was most considerate of those horses and the handsome big Collie Dog was right behind him constantly all the way. When evening dusk fell and the grand dinner was on the table, the farmer unhitched the horses and placed them in another field directly opposite the porch where I was sitting. Now, this is to all the farmers! I did learn something new about horses that very minute. One of those horses rolled over and over on the grass and he seemed so happy (I mean the horse) and so contented! I gave a little exclamation of delight and the farmer looked at me and said "Every time Bill rolls over just like that—each roll is worth just $150.00. I figured it up and it came to pretty close ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS!"

"Mary" is coming soon to the Parsonage and I will let you know about her in a later column!

Did you see the cute bathing suits, ladies? Something of the flare of a few years ago instead of the tight and scant fitting ones of today. They have a skirt and a very full one with a deep ruffle at the hem. It will please the pleasingly plump ladies and I think you know just what I mean.

The new earrings made of Queen's Lace by Coro at $1.95 a pair plus tax are most exciting and glamorous—a very different fashion trend. There are delicate sprays of jewels entwined in flexible wire. Dainty sprays of rhinestones or simulated pearls—opaline flowers with rhinestones or pearls with rhinestones. There were many to select from at Stewart's in Baltimore.

And if you just say, "The Fight Is On!" when Bert Parks calls you—you will positively win that big Jack Pot!

On Thursday was a terrifically hot one if you recall and Your Observer was riding Northward on a bus on St. Paul Street. At the end of the 700 block there was a mob of people and traffic was at a standstill for a very long time. I rose from my seat to see what was wrong and there was a horse laying in the middle of the street (they say it lay there for two hours)—a car hit it striking it in the hip as it was a runaway horse which had been hitched to one of those wagons.

The police were trying to direct traffic around him. His shoulder was broken and there he lay in the hot sun for two whole hours. Finally, I dragged over to the opposite side of the street corner to allow traffic to continue in the usual manner. The story, I read then the next day in the evening paper that only one person has the power to shoot the horse who was without his gun while attending the police court hearing and arrived at the scene without it! The horse fell at 3:45 and the man "with the only power" obtained permission to shoot the animal in the absence of its owner from a veterinarian who was called to the scene.

So in order to shoot the animal, the man with the "power" had to borrow a revolver of a policeman who in turn had to ask permission of his superiors by phone in order to lend his revolver! So the man with the "power" proceeded to shoot the animal after the veterinarian declared the horse had a broken shoulder as the result of the accident! There were many tears on that bus! There were a few men whom I noticed had tears in their eyes!

Saturday, Your Observer visited 3 hospitals! Johns Hopkins, The University and The Children's Hospital on Green Spring Avenue. Somehow the Children's hospital with those dear little innocent children caused a lump in my throat. So many cases of that dreaded disease of Polio, a number of Tubercular Spines. Several were playing cards, one little girl who appeared very close to the Hand of Death was writing a letter home! One little girl on crutches was going from bed to bed talking to those all bedridden. One little child of perhaps three years of age who was strapped to her bed due to a dislocated hip reached out between the bars of her white crib and playfully grabbed my coat to come near her. She smiled and I patted her little cheek! There are numerous cases there and all the children appear very happy and perfectly contented. There was only one child that was really very home-sick—the one I called to see with the Tubercular Spine! How her eyes lighted up when she saw me and as I left they were filled with tears! Upon entering that lovely building—a handsome picture in the centre of the living room greets you—an elderly Doctor (in colors) looking down at a little girl sleeping! In words under the donors of many of the beds were as follows—"Father—we ask Thee Guidance in the care of our children!"

If you feel blue at any time—just enter a hospital, folks—walk around to enter a ward and see all the suffering—you will come out and Thank God for your many Blessings!

So long, folks. Have a nice week-end. Drive slowly and carefully and not as one of those drivers who struck a little girl who was in the hospital with a broken leg! Until next week D. V., I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1952

MANY HAPPY RETURNS!

In this fateful year of 1952, it would be well to remember that the 4th of July is officially known as "Independence Day". And it would be well to reflect how far we have travelled the easy, down-hill road to dependence—dependence on Government regulation, dependence on Government handouts, dependence on the myth that we can work less and get more, dependence on the fallacy that we can keep on spending what we haven't got.

On this Independence Day, as heretofore, there will be speakers, and bands, and parades. There will, be the usual patriotic gestures. But there will be many who will present the traditional spirit of American Independence as something unholy, something destructive of the public welfare, and who will argue that no one must be self-reliant, lest through energy and initiative, he achieve more than his neighbor.

Equality is not the goal of the New Deal-Fair Deal, sophists and the wealthy hangers-on, who have had every thrill that money can buy and now seek another. They are the heralds of mediocrity-for-all, and of dependency on a political conspiracy to suck in the substance of all the people and redistribute it where it will buy the most votes and destroy the most individualism.

It's a long way back to the Independence Days when Orville Wright and Admiral Peary were every boy's heroes, when the intoxicating smell of burned black powder hung in the air and it was perfectly legal to be exuberant and make a noise (even at daybreak) without the benefit of a loud-speaker, when our country enjoyed the respect of the world, and we had no thought of buying it... when we walked softly and carried a big stick, instead of bragging of our virtue and our power while waving a fast-shrinking dollar bill.

We'll never see those "good old days" again, of course. It will never be that kind of world again. And by the same token, our need for real strength, not window-dressing, grows alarmingly day by day. Foreign policies flow from domestic policies. They do not spring full-blown from even such a brain as Acheson's or Marshall's. These policies must reflect the temper of the people, if not their explicit will. And our present attitudes in Asia and Europe are those of a people whose self-reliance has been traded in for parking space in a Government bomb-shelter... where we merely wait for annihilation.

But if we can remember that the 4th of July is Independence Day, the 4th of November may not be "Dependence Day."—National Industries News Service.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
 A quotation from our last Church paper: "This Frightens Me," by Desmond W. Bittinger, former Editor of our Church paper and now President of one of our Western Colleges.

"Recently I was in a meeting which involved a group of economists. These men claimed a wide knowledge of the economic conditions of the world; they were supposed to be able to speak with considerable authority on our economic future. I listened to them with great interest because what we shall be able to do in the church, in the schools and in our world as a whole is tied very closely to our economy.

What the men said frightened me. They said 'The present economy of the United States demands that for at least the next twenty years we be engaged in a minor war or in a near war.' In other words if the war in Korea does not continue, then other wars like the Korean war must be set up, or we must be continuously nervous about the possibility of such wars. Hot spots like Palestine, Egypt, Iran, Tibet must be kept hot, or become minor wars. They indicated from the standpoint of America we would like always to keep these wars far away so that our own cities would not need to be devastated.

 The only alternative to this, they felt, was a depression. These economists feared a depression more than a war, even a major war. If we do not keep manufacturing war materials at a rapid rate, using them or outdating them, our economy will collapse, and in the opinion of these economists that would be our ultimate tragedy.

All of this was stark realism. There was no hiding behind altruistic statements in this discussion. It frightened even the economists.
 We who furnish the youth and pay the taxes should demand a changed economy.

The 26th annual Rural Women's Short Course held at the University of Maryland June 16-21 awarded certificates to 107 women who completed their fourth year of the Course. Commencement exercises were held Friday morning, June 20th.

Mayor Thomas D'Alexandro of Baltimore delivered the commencement address and the certificates were given by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

A total of 1,208 homemakers from all 23 counties in Maryland attended the Short Course. Mrs. Walter F. Mulligan, Berwyn, attended for her 26th year. She has attended every short course held since the first one in 1923. Mrs. H. L. Davis, 76-year-old homemaker of Libertytown completed her 21st year at the Course.

Homemakers from Carroll county receiving four-year certificates were Mrs. Harvey Palmer, New Windsor, and Mrs. Geneva J. Shaw, Westminster. Three Carroll County Homemakers received pins for attending their 8th year. They were Mrs. Albert Houck, Westminster; Mrs. Mahlon Grimm, Sykesville, and Mrs. Walter Stegman, Sykesville.

Twenty-five members of the Carroll County Homemakers Chorus sang several selections during the morning program on visitors' day, Thursday, June 19. Mrs. James LeFevre, Frizellburg, directed the chorus with Mrs. Julian Owen, of Sykesville as accompanist.

USE CARE IN DRIVING—DON'T SPEED

"Motorists convicted for speeding during the coming three days fourth of July holidays, will have their driving licenses suspended for a period not less than 15 days", said Thomas B. R. Mudd, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

"It is my opinion as well as the opinion of others interested in reducing accidents on the highways, that speeding motorists are responsible for the major portion of injuries and fatalities happening daily along the roads", Commissioner Mudd further stated: "These grim three-day holiday sieges of highway slaughter that sicken the most hardened wreck investigators is the reason for the adoption of the not less than 15 day license suspension for motorists convicted of speeding during the coming fourth of July holidays."

No reproof is so potent as the silent lesson of a good example.—Mary Baker Eddy.

FARM DOG AT WORK...

Coyote Dogs

For this type of hunt there should be at least one greyhound and one greyhound-cross in the pack. In the greyhound sense of smell isn't too well developed but their eyesight is extremely keen.

The hunter tries to come as close as possible to his quarry with the truck. As soon as he feels he is close enough or the terrain gets too rough for a truck he stops and the dogs leap out from the truck and run down the coyote.

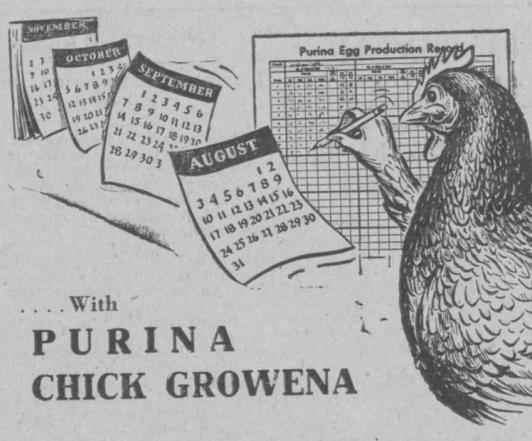

The coyote although very fast can be overtaken by a greyhound. For hunting in the open plains where nothing can hide the game from view, a quick moving gaze hunter rather than a slower trapper is essential. As soon as one or two greyhounds have reached the coyote they engage him until the third dog arrives.

This dog should always be a bit heavier and a good aggressive fighter. In the picture is a Schnauzer-cross who is the fighter in this team.
 After the arrival of the third dog the end usually comes quickly for the coyote and another killer of beef cattle has been eliminated.
 Some hunters prefer to follow the dogs on horseback. Others rig a cage on top of the cabtruck the door of which can be opened from the cab by the driver to release the dog.

The New Purina Growena Checker-Etts with Purina's exclusive Formula 1028 providing the growth vitamins, B 12 and antibiotic feed supplements is the best growing feed we have ever tested. Pullet development is rapid and uniform, bodies are heavy at laying time and production, (the payoff), is high and steady after pullets start to lay.

As an example of the difference Purina can make, we point to a test run a few years ago. Purina-fed pullets were 1 1/2 lbs. heavier per bird at 20 weeks than their sisters raised on a poor growing ration. Purina-fed pullets averaged 21 eggs per bird more in the fall and early winter when egg prices were highest. START...GROW...LAY...PAY...feed Purina All the Way! See us soon! 5-23-52

Years ago, poultry specialists discovered this fact: To get heavy layers you've got to develop pullets that can handle large amounts of feed daily! Now the Beacon 70/30 Feeding Plan does just that. Develops large bodies, well-sprung ribs, husky digestive organs capable of big feed intake. Saves you money, too. Uses only 30% of Beacon "18" Growing Mash. FRIZELLBURG

The windstorm that struck Frizellburg and surrounding community on Thursday evening, June 19 was one of the worst that was ever experienced in this place. The storm struck about 4:45 p. m. and lasted about ten minutes. It grew dark, then terrific wind centered around our town that seemed to dip here and there raising clouds of dust from freshly plowed corn fields, uprooting trees, and large limbs were broken off many trees. Aerials were down and electric current was cut off for several hours. Four large mahogany trees were uprooted one of which in falling completely wrecked the small six-room farmhouse dwelling of Mr. O. P. Berwager. Fortunately no one was injured although the invalid daughter of Mr. Berwager was alone in the home at the time. After the storm she was carried to the home of a neighbor. Had it not been for a large water tank holding 38 thousand gallon, at Willow Farm Dairy the heart of our little town would have been destroyed. We are all grateful for the work of the five fire companies that responded to the call to curb a fire at Mr. Calvin Zepps' auction rooms, formerly the town hall. On the farm of Walter Myers, a large grain shed housing farm machinery was leveled, also large fruit trees uprooted and many limbs were broken which littered the lawn. One beautiful saucer Magnolia tree, the first year to bloom, was damaged by falling tree limbs.

32 men of the Burg and surrounding community met at Mr. Royer Coleman's store on Monday evening to formulate plans for the rebuilding of Mr. Berwager's home. Mr. Scott Sullivan was in charge of the meeting. Mr. Robert Warner acted as secretary. Mr. Edward Haifley was appointed chairman of the building committee which are Charles Myers, Archie Wantz, Walter Myers, Jr., and Royer Coleman. With Mr. Frank Haifley as the advisor, Mr. Royer Coleman is chairman of finance. Anyone that can drive a nail, use a saw, hammer or maybe a paint brush are asked to give of their time during the evenings and on Saturdays. A nice sum of money has been collected but not enough to take care of all the expense. Those who don't believe in foreign missions can now shine in giving toward a worthy cause at home. The members who joined Baust Reformed church in 1952 were entertained by the Youth Fellowship and Aid Society on Sunday evening. A covered dish supper was served and movies were shown by Mehrl Ohler of Taneytown of his trip to the West Coast. A reading was given by Dottie Morelock and group singing was led by Mrs. Alen Morelock. The American Bible Society distributes Bibles in 50 nations. During 1951, this society sent 941,241 Bibles to the American armed services.

Regular services will be held in the Parish House of Baust Reformed church, Church School, at 9:30; Morning Worship at 10:30. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Moyer, of Lohreville, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, of Westminster, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Biles, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Jones, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sullivan, of Jonesville, spent Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Mazie Sullivan and family. Sunday School at the Church of God at 10 o'clock. Howard Carr, Superintendent. Mrs. Emma Rodkey, of Uniontown, spent the week-end with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morelock. The Youth Caravan of the E. & R. board of Christian Education will visit with Baust Reformed church, July 4 to 6. The children of the Sunday School will have a picnic on the church lawn July 4, in the evening when the Caravan will have charge of the recreation program. The Carroll Co., E. & R. Youth Fellowship will meet with them July 5, in the Parish House at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Harry K. Myers, Mrs. Clarence Myers, Mrs. Walter Senft and Mrs. A. FEESERSBURG

It is almost too hot and humid again this week to do much serious thinking or reading but the weather isn't inclined to pamper men's ideas and so even if it makes for dull reading to many I feel that someone should answer the excerpt sent in by Mrs. Edward Bixler from an article titled, "This Frightens Me" written by Desmond W. Bittinger. It was printed on second page of last week's Pilot and the main thought expressed is that our present economy will only

SHOEMAKER — STAMBAUGH

Miss Ruth Stambaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stambaugh, Taneytown, Md., became the bride of Otis W. Shoemaker, son of Mrs. Walter Shoemaker, near Taneytown, Md., on Friday evening, June 20, at 8 o'clock in Grace E. & R. church in Taneytown, Md. The single ring ceremony of the Reformed church was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Morgan Andreas. The couple's only attendants were Mrs. Dennis Simmons, Bethesda, Md., sister of the bride and Dr. Roy Shoemaker, brother of the groom. The bride wore a navy suit with white accessories and had a corsage of red roses. The matron of honor wore navy with white accessories and wore a corsage of white roses. The bride recently resigned her position as Case worker of the Carroll County Welfare Board. The groom is engaged in farming. After a short honeymoon the couple will reside on the farm.

COUPLE MARKS GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Rodkey, well known residents of Tyrone, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday evening, June 14, 1952. The golden occasion was held in the parish house of Baust Reformed church with about 150 relatives and friends sharing the affair. A four-tier wedding cake of white iced in gold topped with a gold circle of flowers and 50th anniversary, formed the centerpiece for the table. Yellow rosebuds and other yellow flowers were arranged with candelabra. The anniversary event was arranged by their children, who had previously presented their parents with a television set. They were also the recipients of useful and attractive gifts and many cards. Sandwiches and other refreshments were served. Mary A. Halter, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Halter, of Silver Run, was married to Ira A. Rodkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rodkey, near Westminster, on June 15, 1902, in the parsonage of the Silver Run Reformed church by the late Rev. Stewart Hartman. They have lived their entire married life in the same community where Mr. Rodkey has been a successful farmer. Both have taken an active part in their church and community. As a young man he served on the church consistory and helped to build the church, the parsonage and the parish house. There were eight children from this marriage, which included two sets of twins. Their children are: Mrs. Naomi Wantz, Mrs. Grace Baker, twin boys, Martin J. and Luther J., Paul A., Mrs. Mary V. Bowers, and twin girls, Mrs. Ruth Bowers and Mrs. Edna Green. They have 16 grand children and two great-grandchildren. A program was presented with Mary Bowers as the toastmistress. Several selections were sung by William Copenhaver, Robert Rinehart and Lloyd Bowers, accompanied by Jo Ann Koons. Marsha Reifsnnyder gave a reading. A duet was sung by Jo Ann and Shirley Koons, accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Koons. Remarks were made by the Rev. Paul D. Yoder and the Rev. Miles S. Reifsnnyder. Responses were made by Mr. and Mrs. Rodkey. All joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" before returning to their homes.

Twenty Centuries Fail To Impair Youth's Body

Danish archaeologists have unearthed the almost perfectly preserved body of a red-haired youth from a Danish peat bog. The scientists believe the youth was hanged as a sacrifice to the goddess of fertility some 2,000 years ago. Scientists from the prehistory museum at Aarhus, Jutland, made the find near Silkeborg, where plowshares of the Iron Age have been found. Tannic acid in the earth changed the man's skin to perfectly preserved leather. The muscles were not petrified. Even the reddish stubble of his beard was intact. Dirt could be discerned under his fingernails. The scientists hope to be able to examine the stomach for information about the eating habits of that time. The body then will be embalmed and placed in a museum.

Bicycle Dispute

Like many major inventions of the early machine age, the origin of the modern bicycle has been the cause of much controversy. Both France and Germany have made heavy claims in that direction. Even Russia (which lately has been claiming the invention of everything from the clothes pin to the airplane) got into the act in 1951 with a Moscow-dated story claiming the honor for one of its early experimenters. Historians, however, generally credit the invention of the bicycle to Baron von Drais, a Bavarian forest keeper of Mannheim, Germany, who designed it to aid him in his daily journeys. This was in 1816. The "Draisienne," or "Hobby Horse," invented by Baron Drais was a crude affair, little more than two wheels attached to a wooden bar, which the rider straddled. He propelled himself forward by thrusting his feet backwards against the ground.

WILLISTON BASIN Oil Discovery Enriches Six Small Towns

WILLISTON, N.D.—The discovery of oil in North Dakota and Montana last year is being felt by a number of small towns. The discovery was made in what is known as the Williston Basin.

In one year, the impact of oil on Williston basin life and economy has already been vast. The finances of Williston and Minot, in North Dakota, have been enriched by the influx of oil firms, with the accompanying service organizations like truckers and land brokers. In the 12 months or so since the wildcat came in, many local businesses in these two towns have noted a 25 per cent increase.

Bank deposits in Tioga and Williston are up 30 per cent. Tioga's population is up from 450 to 800, and Williston, now has 9,000 people and is planning for 18,000 within the next three years. Housing in both towns is scarce—and Cadillac sales have been excellent.

Farm Economy Over in Montana, the towns of Richey, Wolf Point and Circle have all felt the baby oil boom's power. The entire area had always been dependant on wheat and cattle; crops have been good for 10 years, but the farmers can't erase the memories of the dust bowl years of the past. They look to their oil leases and the oil inspired income as anchors against another era of bad times.

Farmer Berry is an example of the local feeling. He kept growing wheat all the while the Shell men were drilling Northern Pacific No. 1. He is still in the wheat farming business, even though he has leased most of his acreage to oil firms. And the usual royalty paid under the standard lease is one-eighth the value of the oil, paid in cash. That adds up.

"We don't plan to give up farming," says Berry. "But oil in this country will sure help us through any bad harvests."

Just how much oil Williston basin will ultimately yield can't be estimated yet, although everyone agrees that it represents a valuable addition to United States oil reserves. Jacobsen says the total oil from Amerada's 400,000 acres could be "very large indeed," and the total from the entire basin could be "very, very large indeed."

It all depends on how much is very, very large.

Dream of Oil The dream of oil in the 100,000 square mile area that lies within the Williston basin isn't a new one. Geologists have long suspected there was oil present, because the area met all the geological tests.

Hundreds of thousands of years ago, it was the bottom of a great ocean that stretched from Alaska to the Gulf of Mexico. When the sea withdrew, vast pressures and bacterial action transformed the mud and silt—the remains of billions of marine animals and plants—into pools of oil.

Wherever oil is found, that is its history. The same ocean that once covered the Williston basin also covered the known oil fields—like those of Louisiana, Texas, and Oklahoma.

classes after the 1920's which were not represented. The class of 1942 held their reunion in honor of the 10th anniversary of their graduation. The classes of '48 and '51 also had special tables reserved and went to extra trouble to try and get their members to attend. Mr. Earl Crouse, the President of the Class of '42, read the class prophecy, which was entitled "Who's Who in 1952", and then introduced the members of that class to tell just what they have been doing the past 10 years to see how near the prophet had prophesied. Many members of the class who were unable to attend sent their regards and told of what they are doing, also. The entire idea was handled very humorously by Mr. Crouse and the class, proved very interesting and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

This being the end of an era in the history of the Association, the President of the Class of '42, read the class prophecy, which was entitled "Who's Who in 1952", and then introduced the members of that class to tell just what they have been doing the past 10 years to see how near the prophet had prophesied. Many members of the class who were unable to attend sent their regards and told of what they are doing, also. The entire idea was handled very humorously by Mr. Crouse and the class, proved very interesting and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Financial statistics showed that nearly $500.00 worth of equipment and aid was given to the Taneytown schools, shared almost equally with the High and Elementary. Since June 1948, close to $4,000.00 has passed through the Association's checking accounts. This, Mr. Fair said is representative of the work, time and effort which has been contributed by those few active members and is proof that this Association is one of the most active High School Alumni groups in this section. He expressed his appreciation to all those who had an active part in the success of the Association, especially the past and present officers. The officers were then introduced as follows: Vice-President, Geo. Sauble, Jr.; Treasurer, Emma Garrett; Secretary, Janet Royer; Assistant Secretary, Anna Sanders and Historian, Mary Cling. Past Presidents include Elwood Baumgardner and Edmund Morrison.

Mention was made of the huge undertaking of obtaining and keeping the names and addresses of nearly 700 Alumni. The Secretary, Miss Janet Royer, was commended on the fine job she has been doing in getting the records completed. A card file system is being arranged with each Alumnus and Alumna's name, address, class, and membership record filed on two cards and then cross-referenced for efficiency and expediency.

Mrs. Reginald Zepf of near Harney, and director of music at the Emmitsburg Lutheran church was introduced to the audience and thrilled everyone with two vocal solos. Both numbers were received very well by the folks and they responded with rounds of applause. Mrs. Zepf was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Henry Reindollar.

Mr. John Manspeaker, the principal of T.H.S., was introduced and spoke briefly. He thanked the Alumni for their help and their gifts to the school, and congratulated them on their splendid spirit and the wonderful work which they have been doing. Mr. Samuel Jenness, the Superintendent of Carroll County Schools also spoke. After thanking those in charge for inviting him again he said that he and his wife look forward to this event each year with anticipation. Mr. Jenness also congratulated the Association for the contributions which they make to education, not just through financial aid or material gifts but by the fostering of a greater interest in, and preserving closer ties with our schools.

Parts of a letter from Rev. Guy P. Bready were read to his former pupils. Mr. Bready was unable to attend, but he sent his regards and expressed his appreciation for being remembered each year. He wrote those present that he always enjoys recollections of "The good old days when they were all together at T.H.S.," and wished everyone an enjoyable evening.

Four boys from the Class of '52 then presented a skit which was adapted from the classnight play entitled, "If Men Would Play Cards Like Women Do." Participating in the skit were Leonard Singel, Stuart Peterson, Marlin Rittase, and Arthur Garvin. The fellows made a real hit with their gossip and poker-playing and the comedy was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Immediately following the program, everyone helped to clear the floor, and in a few minutes were dancing to the splendid music of Pat Patterson and his orchestra. The music, which made an already enjoyable evening even more so, was well received by most of those present and drew applause from the dancers yet at midnight. Many folks who did not dance, stayed quite late enjoying the music and chatting with their old friends.

The seemingly good time which everyone had, and the many favorable comments still being heard are proof that the evening was quite successful, even though not financially so. All of the committees and others who helped with the arrangements should be highly congratulated for this evening of entertainment and fellowship. Committees in charge included: Menu and dinner arrangements: Louella Harner, Phyllis Smith and Pearl Bollinger. Program, James Fair, George Sauble, Mildred Rittase, and Charlotte Shorb. Reservations and special tables, Janet Royer, Ann Wilson, Leo Sanders and John Harner. Orchestra, Joseph Shaum, Francis Myers, Shirley King, and Virginia Sanders. Decorations, Wanda Mehring, Diane Thomas, Dottie Morelock, Robert Waddell, Arthur Garvin, Doris Ingram, Marlin Rittase.

Quick cooking of dressed poultry is necessary for preservation of quality.

NEW AUTO TAGS NEXT YEAR

Due to the steel shortage, Maryland will use one tag for the registration year 1953-54. Various authorities suggested the use of clips for another year but due to public resistance Thos. E. R. Mudd, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles held out for and finally secured enough steel for one tag instead of two clips to validate the present tags.

Motor Vehicle registration in Maryland are approaching the million mark and provisions must be made to meet this increase with a serial type of registration, consisting of letters and figures. Therefore, anticipating this expansion, Maryland next year will inaugurate this new system which has proved very popular in other states.

Under the new system of registration there will be no more reservations of special numbers. Special reservations not only disrupt the normal procedure of issuing tags but also impair service to the public and has always been a great expense to the taxpayer.

Less than 3% of owners were given this special service while the remaining 97% were shown no particular consideration and the Commissioner feels that since all motorists pay the same fees, "Your tag should be as good as your neighbors."

All fraternal and similar organizations who submit their applications as a group will be issued tags in consecutive order with no special designation or reservation for future issue.

New Commandment

Lesson for June 29, 1952

WHICH of all the commandments is the most important? They kept asking this question century after century, and no one ever quite answered it before Jesus. It can easily be a puzzling question so long as you think of the Laws of God as if they were a set of municipal regulations or by-laws of a club. They are not like that. They are all of a piece. When your tire is flat it doesn't make much difference where it is flat. If it is flat in one place it might as well be flat in a dozen places. The Ten Commandments are all linked together, indeed one can say much more than that. All the laws of God, everything God desires and orders man to do,—it is all linked in one.

Dr. Foreman

Thou Shalt Love—
JESUS' answer to the old, old question about the "great commandment" was not absolutely original. Shortly before his time, a smart-aleck young man, so the story goes, had come to a great Rabbi named Hillel, and said to him: "The law is much too long and complicated. Can you tell me the law while I stand on one foot?"

"Yes," said Hillel. "Lift one foot up. Now: Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart . . . Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself . . . Now, put your foot down. That is the law; all the rest is commentary."

So Jesus quoted the same two laws that Hillel did,—from Deuteronomy 6:5 and Leviticus 19:18.

The link of the law is love; this what ties all the laws together.

Two Kinds of Love
THE WORD "love" in English has been dragged around till at times it is very hard to tell what it means, if anything. Girls love ice cream and boys love basketball and a movie actress claims she loves her fifth husband, and the preacher tells us we should love God. How can we use the same word for so many different things?

Now a famous Swedish Christian thinker named Nygren has written a book to straighten us out on this. He calls the book "Agape and Eros," this being the two different Greek words for "love." It's the same word in English for two different things; the Greeks knew better, and used two words that don't even look alike.

"Eros" means the kind of love girls have for ice cream or the movie actress has for her fifth husband. It is definitely not the word used in the New Testament where Jesus commands us to love God and our neighbor. "Eros" means possessive love, the love that wants to control and keep, the kind of love some parents have for their children when they do not want them to grow up or to make choices of their own.

"Agape" (Agahpay) is a quite different thing. It means self-giving, self-sacrificing concern for another person. You might have "eros" for an ice-cream cone, but not "agape."

Yet the great and distinctive point about Agape is that it does not insist on something or anything in return. It is not bargaining love, it is not careful, cautious love, it is free outpouring of life for life.

If you really want to know what "agape" love is, you must look at the Cross and consider that "while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Rom. 5:8).

Love Is the Answer
ST. PAUL, who could just as well be called the Apostle of Love as St. John could, understood these things very well. He says that "love is the fulfilling of the law" or as J. B. Phillips happily translates it, "Love is the answer to the Law's commands." (Rom. 13:10.)

We shall never even want to obey the will of our Father in heaven unless we first love him. And we shall never really desire to treat our neighbor as God wants us to treat him if we have no "agape" love for him in our hearts.

Love is not a substitute for law. Love is rather the atmosphere in which we begin to understand God and our neighbor. Eros-love will not do; the Bible never once commands it and never commends it. It is only the outgoing, self-forgetting devotion, that Jesus taught and demonstrated, that is like the love of the true God. Whatever we may do, if we have no love, we have still done nothing.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF CARROLL COUNTY CELEBRATES CENTENNIAL OF THE WESTERN MARYLAND RAILWAY CO.

The auditorium of the Elmer Wolfe High school was filled to capacity on Thursday evening, June 19, with members and friends of the Historical Society of Carroll County, in celebration of the centennial of the Western Maryland Railway Company. The program was arranged by the program committee, Miss Lillian Shipley, chairman, Miss Amelia Annan, and Miss Margaret Snader, with the assistance of Miss Pauline Fuss and Dr. T. H. Legg, of the Union Bridge district.

The meeting opened with the Star-Spangled Banner and Salute to the Flag. The invocation was given by Rev. Louis P. Chastain, Union Bridge. Greetings were extended to the very large audience by Mr. Erman A. Shoemaker, president of the Historical Society. Mr. Shoemaker introduced Mr. Bradley McCoy, treasurer of the Western Maryland Railway Company, who, in turn, presented to Mr. Shoemaker for the Historical Society, a book, "The Western Maryland Railway Story," recently written by Mr. Harold A. Williams, historian for the Western Maryland Railway Company, and assistant editor of the Baltimore Sun. The book was autographed by the president, Mr. W. Arthur Grotz, "in recognition of those outstanding citizens of Carroll County whose vision and enterprise gave birth to the Western Maryland Railway." Mr. McCoy then introduced Mr. Harold A. Williams, the speaker for the evening.

Mr. Williams gave a very interesting talk on the developments of the railway, particularly in its relation to Carroll County, and the many struggles and disappointments that the organizers and builders experienced in the building of the road. The beginnings of the Western Maryland Railway are to be found in the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad Company, Inc. in 1828. Its first 7 miles of track were put down in 1831 from Baltimore to Relay House. In 1832, the branch from Relay House to Owings Mills were opened with horse-drawn carriages. In 1847, a meeting was called at Westminster Courthouse to discuss the propriety of extending a branch through Carroll County. After many meetings, with developing interest and favorable response a new railroad, the Baltimore, Carroll and Frederick Railroad was formed. The author of its charter was Col. John K. Longwell of Carroll county. As the act was passed on May 27, 1852, this date is regarded as the birth of the railway. On March 21, 1853, the name of the Baltimore, Carroll and Frederick Railroad was changed to the Western Maryland Railway. The road to Westminster was formally opened in 1861, and the road to Union Bridge in 1862. The Western Maryland Railway was made possible by men of vision, determination and perseverance.

Presidents of the Western Maryland from Carroll county were Nathan Haines of W., William Roberts, Augustus Shriver, and John Smith. Miss Lillian Shipley introduced lineal descendants of these presidents, including persons from Baltimore, Washington, Waynesboro, Ashton, Montgomery County, Westminster and vicinity. This group was photographed and many other pictures were taken during the evening. Miss Shipley also introduced Mrs. Edgar Myers, daughter of Mr. John Hoffenberger, who was a pattern maker at the Railway shops in Union Bridge, and Mrs. James Melown, daughter of Capt. Jesse Sheets, a conductor on the railway.

Dr. T. H. Legg, director of Union Bridge and Mayor of Union Bridge, gave a brief talk on the Western Maryland Railway as the backbone of Union Bridge. He then introduced some of the outstanding citizens of Union Bridge.

Many exhibits were displayed. These exhibits included models of trains, built by Harold A. Warner, Westminster, Md., and Robert N. Bloom, Union Bridge; photographs of Nathan Haines, of W. Augustus Shriver, and John Smith, former presidents of the Western Maryland Railway; a glass plate with a train design; book of documents the rights of ways of the Western Maryland; certificates of Baptism of Augustus Shriver; sketch of the Canary, 1st engine used on the Western Maryland, by John Hoffenberger; 1861 train schedule to Westminster; right-of-way through the property of L. Philip Slingluff; photostat of the painting of the accident of the Western Maryland near New Windsor in 1863 by Frederick Dielman; photograph of Jesse H. Sheets, a conductor; pictures of early trains, and an electrical board showing the location of the road's tracks in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia; and a stock certificate, signed by J. Henry Hoppe, treasurer. Group singing, "I've Been Working on the Railroad" and "Happy Birthday," was led by Sherrill Cheeks, Union Bridge. A sound motion picture in technicolor, "Fast Freight Rolling" was presented, depicting modern scenic spots on the Western Maryland Railway.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments, including cake, ice cream, coca cola, and a huge 3-tier birthday cake, were served in the cafeteria to approximately 300 persons, through the courtesy of the Western Maryland Railway.

The next special event of the Historical Society of Carroll county will be the conducted tour of Freedom District on Wednesday, August 20th.

Fire Protection
Fire prevention officials recommend that rural homes be equipped with several galvanized steel fire pails. Bucket brigades still offer practical protection against conflagrations, the experts declare.

Can "Take It," Too
Both the tractor on the truck farm and the bulldozer leveling a military airstrip are built to be able to "take it." The specially designed finishes that protect them are also tough and durable.

Give It Time
It is advisable to allow three or four days' drying time between exterior paint coats. Paint dries more rapidly in summer and fall, more slowly in spring and winter.

Corrosion Is Expensive
Annual world cost of replacing and repairing corroded materials and equipment is estimated as $6,000,000,000 by the Electrochemical Society.

White side-wall tires at extra cost

WHEN YOU TRY POWER STEERING... HERE'S WHERE TO COME FIRST!

You've heard about it and read about it. Now, if you haven't felt what Power Steering does for you, we invite you to try it first in a Chrysler New Yorker . . . where you will find full-time (not partial) Power Steering!

What happens is this . . .

You handle the steering wheel in normal fashion. But 4/5 of all the work is done for you by hydraulic power, constantly at your command. Also, you turn the wheel 1/3 less distance now for every maneuver . . . the feeling you get of utter control is as wonderful as it is new.

Even at a standstill you can turn the wheel easily. Now, parking is shorn of its troubles (and fatigue!) . . . and you can negotiate traffic, awkward drives, and garage doors precisely and with ease.

You can double the longest day's drive you've ever known . . . end up free from arm and shoulder strain. Rough roads, soft shoulders, snow, mud? . . . the power that helps you steer now prevents the car's wheels from "steering back" at you. The course you set is held, at any speed, till you want it changed. Yet, with this 5-times greater control, "wheel feel" is always the same.

Why not come try it? Learn for yourself why growing thousands of motorists say they'll never be without Full-time Power Steering from now on. Drive a Chrysler . . . and Learn the Difference!

COUNTRY COLLEGE

Georgia Towns Launch Unique College Plans

SMITHFIELD, Ga.—In these days when it is a hard job to keep a single established college going, it is something of a miracle when three colleges can be started in a single agricultural county in two years time. Yet, this has happened in Carroll county, Georgia.

These may not be colleges in the accepted sense, yet they are educational and cultural institutions and they came to life through the combined exertions of the people they serve. They are splendid examples of ingenuity and good will in a community enterprise.

The first, and probably best known, is the College of the Country at Smithfield. This community is peopled mostly by farmers and around fifty families are roughly included in the locality. Atlanta service clubs had offered a prize for the best community improvement in the state. Smithfield won and this set them thinking of other things.

Meetings were held to discuss further improvement. One elderly man had always wanted a college education. When he mentioned this, the talk about study clubs and improvement groups took a different slant. They got the idea of a community college. West Georgia State College was near by and they called in the experts to help them plan their course. Soon they had their college planned. It had no property and no endowment—not even a president and deans. It didn't even have a set course of study. There was no tuition.

Practical Subjects Chosen

Nearly all the students were adults—men and women from the farms. They planned their own program, selecting subjects for study that most of them wanted. There were no recitations. Classes and lectures were held weekly or bi-weekly, mostly in the community school house in evenings or Sunday afternoons. Students selected their own teachers and these were mainly from West Georgia College or were business or business men.

Subjects chosen for study included family relations, history, science, health and sanitation, home decoration, astronomy, business practice, dramatics, speech, etc. The trend was toward the practical.

To insure a class in any subject, a certain number of students must "sign up", but students may attend as many other classes as they wish.

Length of school year is flexible. It usually begins late in the fall and runs until March or April. The commencement is unusual in nature. The student is given a diploma or certificate based upon attendance only, as there are no examinations. There is a formal address—sometimes two or three—and the graduates sit on the platform facing friends, children, and even grand-children.

Others Accept Idea

The College in The Country got its start in Smithfield in 1949. Its activity began to be noticed. People in the neighboring community of Unity became interested to the extent that they started a college of their own the next year. Theirs was called the Unity Family College, but the plan of operations was the same as at Smithfield.

At Unity the first-year students were more interested in religion and social problems. At its commencement the students who had attended most of the sessions received "earned" certificates, while those who had been absent too often, got only "honorary" certificates.

The third college is Hulet's Sunday Afternoon College. Hulet is a community 12 miles from Carrollton, the county seat. Apparently, Hulet people wanted more variety. They called in soil experts, travelers and others in number. An innovation here is that their teachers often get presents of pies, cakes, chickens, or steaks. In fact, many of the classes are held in connection with dinners or refreshment gatherings.

West Georgia College has been liberal with its help and advice, which is in the nature of extension service. A large foundation has also furnished financial help via the college.

Old-Time Book Agents Needed in Rural Areas

WASHINGTON, D.C.—At a recent conference on rural reading, educators concluded that the high-pressure book agent of days gone by should return to the rural areas.

One farm bureau representative reported that an experiment of putting a line of low-priced books in feed stores for farm families had not worked well, as farmers did not think of books as something to be picked up while buying poultry and livestock rations.

However, one of the best sellers among farmers is a $7.50 book on feeding livestock, showing that farmers are willing to pay well for a useful book.

One educator warned that any appraisal of the place of reading in rural life today must make allowances for the competition of movies, radio and television.

At conclusion of the conference a panel of five experts agreed that the machinery for book distribution should be broadened in rural areas. Bookmobiles were suggested as possibly the most practical method.

Rural Schools Should Not Copy Cities

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A number of prominent educators are protesting that the 12,000,000 children attending rural schools throughout the nation do not have a school program to fit their needs, but have instead a carbon copy of curriculums developed in and for city schools.

They contend that rural school programs based on rural life would be no less rich than those of city schools.

As an example, rural children have a high background for first-hand experiences with natural and physical sciences, in animals, birds, insects, rocks, soils, plant fertilizers, etc. For that reason science should have an important place early in and throughout the curriculum.

'Test-Tube City' Idea Proves Popular With Kentucky Towns

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce's idea of a "Test-Tube City" is proving to be one of the most successful and popular ideas adopted in the state in many years.

The plan, which was inaugurated several years ago, was started as an experiment in community-development by which it was hoped to find ways of helping small towns and counties through the state to help themselves.

London, seat of Laurel county, was picked as the first test-tube city. A development association was formed, committees named, and objectives—improvement at which to aim—were listed.

The Chamber of Commerce provided professional help in getting the experiment under way. After that, the community was on its own. By actually trying things on the local scene, the association learned what could and what couldn't be done.

At the end of 12 months it was discovered that 115 major improvements had been made in the community. Since then scores of communities have joined the test-tube program.

As an example of accomplishments, Paintsville, a small eastern Kentucky community of about 5,000 population, reported after its first year:

Attracted one new industry . . . City-wide Courtesy Week observed . . . Survey made of downtown street lighting and improvements made . . . Three new buildings constructed in the area where eyesores formerly stood . . . Youth center organized and in operation . . . Highway association formed . . . New high school, gym and auditorium started . . . Country club remodeled and golf course enlarged to 18 holes . . . Clothing collected, cleaned, mended and distributed to needy children . . . Month-long "Home Beautification" drive held, during which sale of paint in the town went up 44 per cent in the first week and 51 per cent over the first week during the second week . . . Seven unfit buildings razed and removed . . . Twelve refuse dumps inside city cleaned up and earth covered.

Whole Town Laughs At Kiwanis Club Paper

SPRINGFIELD, Ore.—The people of Springfield look forward every year to The Kiwanis Joker, a newspaper written, edited and distributed by the club. Printed on April Fools' Day, funds raised from the sale of papers and advertising is used to the town's needy kids. It is a project in which the entire town participates.

This weird journalistic creation hits the streets and the whole town takes time out to laugh. Kiwanis newsboys high-pressure everyone into buying the special edition for "whatever you think it's worth." Since the proceeds are used for underprivileged children, Springfield residents are happy to pay outrageous prices.

The paper is filled with zany stories and crazy ads. Advertisers pay Kiwanians to publish copy that would result in lawsuits in any normal newspaper.

This year the club made $1,000 for boys and girls work. Originally planned for a twelve-page paper, it came out a 14-page affair because so many merchants clamored to advertise.

Hudson Greet All Newcomers With Gifts

HUDSON, Iowa—Iowa towns are famous for their hospitality to newcomers, but fortunate indeed is the new resident of the small farming community of Hudson.

The Hudson chamber of commerce has compiled a loose-leaf folder explaining in detail nearly every service and enterprise in the community and entitling the recipient to 13 free gifts ranging from light bulbs to haircuts.

The volume is arranged in the form of letters from each of the enterprises listed. Utilities, schools, fire protection, churches and community services are included as well as letters from the town's outstanding business firms.

A map of the community and information about the town government and charity organizations complete the book.

Quacks Are After Your Bankroll If You Ail

The quacks are after your money. Often as not, they will offer to cure whatever ails you for a price. They claim all you need is one simple device.

Oliver Field, Chicago, director of the American medical association's bureau of investigation, described some of the devices his bureau has run across.

Field demonstrated one device that looked like a searchlight. It did not light up, but plugged into an electric outlet, it produced a magnetic field. A thumb screw at the back controlled a hum—you could hear it loud or soft. The instruction sheet told how, by pointing the thing at yourself, you could cure ailments from A to Z—it took two-thirds of a page of single typing just to list them.

A similar device was what Field called the "horse collar." A large padded coil, containing about a mile of copper wire, was supposed to be slipped over the shoulders to "magnetize the iron in the blood" and cure an assortment of ills.

Field said most of the quack devices his bureau had investigated were sold by "promoters who are out for all the traffic will bear." A rare few, he said, might be sold by persons acting in good faith. Action has been taken against sellers of all the devices Field described.

Marine Souvenir Hunters Find Red Buried Alive

KOREA—Leatherneck souvenir-hunters discovered in a supposedly abandoned enemy bunker a North Korean soldier who had been left to die by his fleeing companions.

Snooping around positions formerly held by the Reds, Private First Class Harry K. Kullman of Glens Falls, N.Y., and two comrades found one bunker whose doorway was sealed with wood and dirt. They laboriously cleared a hole and peered inside.

To their astonishment, someone peered back at them. Shaken, the Marines yelled for "it" to come out.

From the aperture crawled a sick North Korean who said the retreating Reds had sealed him in the bunker. He had lost track of time, but had been "buried" alive so long he was unable to walk.

The Marines turned him over to medical corpsmen, after which they did NOT resume hunting for souvenirs.

Coaches Can Tell When Team Is 'Up' For Game

Can coaches and trainers tell on Wednesday if the team will be up for the big game on Saturday? Will your star center run up a new scoring record in the next game or have his worst night of the season? Is your new pitcher ready to strike out the first six men or will he end up in the showers before the end of the first inning?

You may be able to tell quite simply and accurately, according to Dr. John Harmon, professor of education at Boston University.

Dr. Harmon, who has been working on the relations of physical and mental conditions for over 20 years, has developed a simple method of testing skin resistance to an electrical current passed through the skin. In a current project he has found that the athlete who has a high skin resistance before a game will probably play below par, while a player with a low resistance will be more likely to turn in an outstanding performance.

"We tried it during the 1949 football season," says the Boston University professor, "measuring the skin resistance of the players before the games. Before the Maryland game the players showed a low skin resistance and played an outstanding game, although they were beaten by an under-rated team."

"The following week," he continued, "the skin resistance of the boys was high, probably reflecting their disappointment of the previous week's loss, and the team was beaten by St. Bonaventure, a supposedly inferior opponent."
