This column is not for use in advertising any money-making program, fair, supper, party or sale. It is intended for news, personals, and such matters as may be of community interest.

All communications for this department must be signed by the author, not for publication, but as an evidence that the items contributed are legitimate and correct. Items based on mere rumor, or such as are likely to give offense, are not wanted.

Mrs. D. J. Hesson is spending some time with her son Clyde and Mrs. Hesson.

Mrs. Doty Robb and daughter Miss Mary Jo Robb spent several days last week in Baltimore.

Mrs. Flora Leister is spending this week in Baltimore at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baumgardner.

Wayne Glover, of Westminster is spending a two week vacation with Jimmie Baker, Taneytown, R. D.

Pvt. Paul Sell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sell, Sr., is taking his eight weeks basic training at Camp Gordon, Georgia.

Mrs. Lillie Sherman Byers Pittinger, Westminster, has improved her house on Fairview Ave., Taneytown, with shingle siding and paint.

Mrs. E. J. Berry, Seneca, Md., and Mrs. L. E. Howard, Darnestown, Md., are spending some time with their nephew, J. W. Ricketts, Sr., and family.

Barbara Baker, Westminster R. D., and Susan Glover, Westminster, are spending a week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Baker, of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hess, Taneytown, announce the engagement of their daughter, Estelle, to George D. Null, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Null, also of Taneytown.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mehning and daughter Miss Wanda Mehning left Sunday to spend a week with Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur B. Mehning at Mill-bur Cottage, at Deep Creek Lake.

Mrs. John Lentz and Mrs. Arthur Adams from Frederick, and Mr. Samuel Guimond from Maine, visited Mrs. Cora Weand Dutta on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Eyer from Reisterstown were visitors on Friday.

Richard and Harry Baumgardner of Loysville Lutheran home will come July 26th to spend a month's vacation with their grandmother, Mrs. Harry Baumgardner, their father Clyde Baumgardner and their sister Evelyn.

The Pythian Sisters will hold their Weiner Roast on Tuesday evening, July 29th, at 7:30 p. m., in the Taneytown Recreation Park. All members and their families are invited to attend. Each family is requested to bring their own frankfurters.

Mrs. Clotworthy Hill of Taneytown and Mrs. Paul Dockett of Washington, D. C., left Tuesday to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. William Jones and family of Hartford, Michigan. Mrs. Dockett (nee Hill) is the sister of Mrs. Jones.

Lt. Cdr. C. L. Null, Mrs. Null and daughters, Barbara and Amelia, Atlantic City, were week end guests of Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Null. In August, Cdr. Null with his squadron, will leave on the U. S. Carrier "F. D. R." for duty in European waters. During his absence his family will remain in Atlantic City.

Mr. J. Howard Miller, of Westminster, Md., a former resident of Taneytown, and for many years a member of the local Odd Fellows Lodge, was admitted into the L. O. O. F. Home at Frederick, Md., on Saturday, July 12. This is the second member from Taneytown to take up his residence there, as Mr. S. White Plank has been living in this Home since January 17, 1949.

Mrs. Maggie Eyer and Mrs. Tolbert Shorb returned home Sunday from a three week visit with Mrs. Eyer's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eyer in Reno, Nevada. While there the Eyers took them on a four day motor tour of parts of California. On July 2nd the Marylanders had kodak pictures taken of them standing beside a 23 foot bank of snow at Mt. Rose, Nevada. The road had been closed to traffic from in December to about the middle of June. Just now it is hard to accept this but pictures "don't lie."

Marian Martin, daughter of Mrs. Olive Martin of Westminster, and a senior at Western Maryland College sailed on Wednesday, July 23rd as a member of an all college group making an educational tour of Europe and the British Isles. The party left New York on a special Cunard Liner and expect to dock at La Havre, France, from whence they will visit Paris and travel through France, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium and on August 27th the group will cross the British Channel for a tour of the British Isles. They will return on the same liner on Sept. 14th to New York.

M/Sgt. Calvin S. Powell motored East on a 30 day furlough with his wife and family from Marshall Airfield Base in Kansas. Their time is being spent visiting friends and relatives in Taneytown, Baltimore and other places in Maryland. A family reunion was held at Mrs. Powell's folks' home in Baltimore on the return of her brother from 18 months duty in Korea and on her visit from Kansas. Before returning to the West, M/Sgt. Powell and his family will tour to Toledo, Ohio, Paxton and Chicago, Illinois, Trempealeau, Wis., and then to their residence in Manhattan, Kansas.

STEEL STRIKE OVER

Final Meeting Today to Back or Reject Action

President Truman announced Thursday afternoon that the CIO United Steelworkers Union and the major steel companies have agreed upon settlement of the 53-day old strike which has started 1,500,000 men out of work and kept up cut seriously into defense production.

Ratification of the agreement by the union's National Wage Policy Committee today (Friday) should lead to "a speedy resumption of steel production". Mr. Truman said.

The wage committee of 170 members will meet in Washington to confirm or reject the action. However, union spokesmen were quick to say that "this is it", meaning that the strike has been ended and that the today's meeting is merely routine.

TEACHERS SPEND TWO YEARS SALARY TO BECOME QUALIFIED

In response to the demands of interested citizens of the communities of the county to learn the facts about the school teachers' request for a salary increase, the Carroll County Teachers' Association has prepared a series of articles dealing with the teaching profession.

Teachers want a decent salary to compensate for the time and money spent in meeting teaching requirements. It takes four years and the equivalent of two years salary to become a teacher.

The Association has used Western Maryland College as a typical institution where a prospective teacher may secure his training. The following figures were those given in the 1952-53 catalog for that college.

It cost about $1050 to attend Western Maryland for one year. A breakdown of this total shows that $450 is spent for tuition, $500 for room and board, about $50 for special fees, and about $50 for books and supplies. These figures are for the average course of study and not for special fields which require additional fees.

Attendance for four years would cost $4200. To this must be added the student teaching fee of $85 and the cost of clothing and spending money. Starting in September, a new teacher will receive $5300 before taxes for his first two years of teaching. The cost of his education, $4285 plus clothes and spending money, would roughly equal this amount.

However, this is not the end. After teaching three years, the teacher must go back to school and take courses to renew his certificate. An estimate of the cost of this additional training, based again on the 1952-53 catalog, is $152. When four more years have elapsed, the same expenses are incurred, and the teachers' certificate is renewed for six more years. Every six years thereafter the same procedure must be followed.

While the prospective teacher is training for his position, his friends are establishing themselves in other occupations. Many obtain jobs immediately upon graduation and thus gain a four year start. A comparison with two students who were graduated in June of this year will serve to show why teachers feel that they deserve more money.

These two students were employed by the FBI at the close of school. One of them took a typing job with a beginning salary of $2700. The other girl became a stenographer at a starting salary of $3250. She was to receive additional training at the expense of the FBI.

These people, with only a high school education, received a higher beginning salary than a teacher who has already spent $4285 just to obtain his position.

The teachers of Carroll County do not believe that this situation is a just one. It is one of the many reasons why they are requesting a salary increase.

LIONS NEWS

On Tuesday evening, July 22, 1952 about 32 members of the Taneytown Lions Club and their families gathered at Taneytown Recreation Park for a family picnic.

A picnic lunch of sandwiches, ice cream, cold drinks and other delicacies of the season was served by the following committee: Harry Dougherty, Chm., Wilbur Thomas, Donald Baker, Kenneth Shorb and Curtis Bowers.

After the lunch games were played under the leadership of John Garner. In all about 80 were present and in spite of the heat all agreed that they had spent another enjoyable evening.

GRADUATES FROM OFFICERS ACADEMY

Cpl. Earle E. Cummings, 22½ W. George St., Westminster, Md., recently graduated from the Seventh Army Non-Commissioned Officers Academy at Munich, Germany.

The six-week course emphasized the use of weapons, army administration, tactics, supply, physical fitness and organization. Students were carefully selected by their organization commanders before attending the school.

Cummings, a member of the 97th Signal Battalion, wears the Good Conduct Medal and the Occupation Medal for Germany.

KIWANIS NEWS

About 250 members of the Taneytown Kiwanis Club, neighboring clubs and guests enjoyed the Crab and Shrimp Feed held Wednesday evening in the Taneytown Recreation Park.

Next week's meeting will be with the Westminster Club on the Forest and Stream Club ground near Detour.

DEMOCRATS MEET IN CONVENTION

Party's Representatives to be Selected

Representatives of the Democratic party are meeting in their 31st National Convention in Chicago to select nominees for President and Vice-president of the United States.

Unlike their Republican opponents they do not have any outstanding person seeking the high office and must choose from rather a large list of competent men.

Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts delivered the keynote address Monday night.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed the convention Tuesday evening and was received with tears and cheers and was spontaneous and clearly heartfelt.

Vice President Alben W. Barkley who was considered as a likely candidate for President of the United States declined the honor, addressed the convention Wednesday evening.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois was placed in nomination on Thursday for President of the United States by Gov. Henry F. Schrieker of Indiana and Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware amid a tremendous cheer and a mass of waving banners from the delegates of the convention.

WATERSHED CONFERENCE HELD LAST SATURDAY

Farmers and their families from the Deep Run-Big Pipe Creek Watershed heard a panel of their neighbors conclude that conservation helps farms and increases income and should be extended as a way of life at the watershed conference held last Saturday on the James M. Shriver meadow near Union Mills.

Nearly 500 people were present at the conference, which was sponsored by the Carroll soil conservation district board of supervisors. A picnic lunch was served by ladies of Farm Bureau discussion groups in the watershed before the discussion.

Eight farm men and women from the watershed and its vicinity made up the panel group. They were Solomon L. Hoke, discussion leader, Mrs. Thomas Gordon, Paul Tasto, Guy Wine, Francis Hering, Herman Ramsburg, Solomon Miller and Mrs. Vernon Wolfe.

L. C. Burns, county agent, presented the summary, and Horace Brauning, chairman of the soil conservation district supervisors, presided.

Figures cited from records of the conservation district showed about 75 of the 218 farmers in the watershed have applied conservation plans. About 3,000 acres now are being strip cropped and about the same number are cultivated on the contour. About 27,000 feet of grassed waterways have been completed.

Factors brought out during the discussion were that farm management to a large degree determines the size of farm income and that soil conservation practices are among the important ways to increase productivity and income. Panel members cited experiences with increased yields and the ability to raise more livestock as a result of controlling water and developing better hay and pastures.

Farmers who used contour tilling and strip cropping pointed out such practices made farming on hills easier as well as wiser. Fertilizer also stays better on slopes where water run-off is slowed. Farm ponds, which are a part of a conservation plan, provide for fire protection as well as water control.

The panel agreed that farmers have many other problems, such as crop blights and livestock disease, but holding soil and increasing productivity were of major importance. Even droughts are less damaging on farms where steps are taken to retain water, they said. One panel member expressed the thought this way: "Why pray for rain when we can save our own water?"

Big Pipe Creek has remained within its banks after heavy storms instead of flooding as it formerly did, because of conservation farming, one of the panel members pointed out. This water control means less silt is leaving farms and flowing into the Monocacy and Potomac Rivers. Loss of land through gullying and sheet erosion is halted by proper practices panel members declared.

In response to a question on costs of farming the conservation way, panel members agreed that initial expense was quickly made up through increased yields and income, and that actual operations were less expensive and easier after conservation practices were put into effect. It was explained that the services of the soil conservation district and other agencies were available to farmers who wanted help.

Assisting the district in the preparation of the conference were the Maryland Soil Conservation Committee and the Soil Committee for Conservation Now.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS PICNIC

Last Thursday, July 17, the members of the Graceful Workers Sunday School Class of Grace Evangelical & Reformed Sunday school with their families held their annual picnic at the Recreation Park. There were 54 persons who attended the picnic.

We wish to commend the committee in charge of the picnic for the fine job which they did. Those on the committee were Ella Smith, Mildred Anders, Catherine Clingan and Geraldine Clutz.

POLIO PLEDGE

If Polio Comes to My Community

I WILL REMEMBER TO Let my children continue to play and be with their usual companions. They have already been exposed to whatever polio virus may be in that group, and they may have developed immunity (protection) against it.

Teach my children to scrub their hands before putting food in their mouths. Polio virus may be carried in to the body through the mouth.

See that my children never use anybody else's towels, wash cloths or dirty drinking glasses, dishes and tableware. Polio virus could be carried from these things to other people.

Follow my doctor's advice about nose and throat operations, inoculations, or teeth extractions during the polio season.

Be ever watchful for signs of polio: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of the neck and back.

Call my doctor at once and, in the meantime, put to bed and away from others any member of my family showing such symptoms.

I WILL NOT Allow my children to mingle with strangers, especially in crowds, or go into homes outside their own circle. There are three different virus types that cause polio. My children's group may be immune to one of these. Strangers may carry another polio virus to which they are not immune.

Let my children become fatigued or chilled. Over-tired or chilled bodies are less able to fight off polio.

Take my children away from our community without good cause. Polio time is the time to stay at home and keep with everyday companions.

REPUBLICANS HOLD PICNIC

The Carroll County Republican Women's Club held its Family picnic at Big Pipe Creek Park on Wednesday.

The activities during the afternoon and the picnic luncheon followed by a program was well attended.

Mrs. John Whitmore, president of the Club presided and Sen. A. Earl Shipley assisted in introducing the special guests and prominent speakers. Mrs. Emmert R. Bowls of Frederick, the state president of the Federated Republican Women's Club, who served as the only representative from the eastern part of the United States on the Agricultural sub-Committee which drafted the farm plank in the Republican platform, presented a very graphic picture of the work necessary before a national convention opens.

Congressman James P. Devereux of the Second District told of his work for the past two years during which time he has a record of 100 per cent attendance at meetings and is serving on the Military Affairs Committee which post he is especially qualified to fill because of over twenty years on military duty from which he retired with the rank of general.

Representative Glenn Beall, congressman from the Sixth District, referred the group to the 80th Congress when income taxes were reduced and the national budget was balanced for the first time in sixteen years as samples of the kind of work that Republicans could do if given a chance.

Senator Shipley, National delegate to the National Convention, brought a resume of the highlights of the convention and also presented a short political background of each of the other speakers as they were introduced.

PINE-MAR CAMP SERVICES START SUNDAY

The 21st annual Pine-Mar Camp meeting will begin this coming Sunday with a service at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The opening sermon at the afternoon session will be delivered by the Rev. Shanebrook of Manchester. Special music will be given by Mr. Neal Hering of Westminster and Miss Lamore Sullivan of Frizzellburg. The evening message will be given by the Rev. F. P. Brose, of Frederick, who is the general Director of the Camp. Music will be furnished by the Flickinger family and others.

These outdoor community services will be held in the Pine-Mar tabernacle as in other years for three Sundays, with afternoon and evening meetings on July 27, August 3 and August 10. The annual Carroll County Hymn Sing will be held Sunday night, August 10th. Pine-Mar is located on the Taneytown-Westminster highway, 2 miles from Taneytown. The Rev. F. P. Brose, who has been the Camp Director for the past 20 years, will again have charge of all the services.

SWIMMING PROGRAM

The first two weeks of the Red Cross swimming program came to a close on Friday. Mrs. W. Frank Thomas, Elmer Richards of Meadowview and Edward Bollinger of Eastview all very generously donated the use of their pools. 192 children from the Mt. Airy area and from New Windsor took instruction. Of this group 32 beginners, 16 intermediates and 15 swimmers passed the required tests. Miss Babylon said that although not many of the beginners had passed the test, there had been a great deal of progress made among them, in gaining confidence in the water. Many of them had never been in the water before and it was necessary for them to conquer their natural fear so that they can go forward in the actual process of learning to swim. Instructors were assisted by Miss Patsy Senseny, Mrs. George Myers and Mrs. James Marsh.

BAY BRIDGE TO BE DEDICATED

Official Opening To Be Wednesday, July 30

The dreams and hopes of Marylanders will be realized when the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge will be opened for toll traffic at 6 P. M. EDT. Wednesday, July 30. The dedication ceremonies will be held July 30 at 10:30 A. M.

Completion of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge ends an era in Maryland—the separation of the Eastern and Western Shores, the 40 years of agitation for a crossing—and adds a vital link in the chain of highways built or under construction along the East Coast.

Long a barrier between the two sections of the State, the bay in colonial times was the exact opposite—its waters bound together the scattered settlements in a day when most travel was by boat.

Like an iceberg, half of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge never will be seen because it is underwater.

And $1 out of every $2 spent on its construction went for underwater work—dredging, driving piles, sinking pier forms and pouring the thousands of tons of concrete on which the superstructure rests.

One of the stumbling blocks always encountered in earlier plans for a Bay crossing was the cost of deep-water Foundations.

This problem was solved during the construction of the Potomac River Bridge by Herschel H. Allen, senior partner in the J. E. Greiner Company. Mr. Allen developed a new design and technique for deep-water piers that side-dredged the laborious—and expensive—dredging-cofferdam method of construction.

Every bit of Bay Bridge construction had to be done with pin-point accuracy but the job of putting huge amounts of steel and concrete in place beneath the water posed especially difficult control problems.

For example, a case history was made of every one of the 4,130 piles driven—literally a blow-by-blow record to insure that each pile was sunk in the proper place with an accuracy of 1/32nd of an inch.

Water-work started late in 1949 with the arrival of the deep dredges. About the same time, the "dolphins"—wooden surveyors' platform—began to dot the surface of the Bay.

COST: The largest single public project in the history of Maryland, the Chesapeake Bay Bridge cost $45,000,000. The money was raised by the sale of revenue bonds payable from the tolls of the state's three big bridges.

The Chesapeake, the Susquehanna and the Potomac.

AUTHORIZED: At regular and extraordinary sessions of 1947 the General Assembly, extending legislation passed in 1938, directed the State Roads Commission to build the bridge.

STARTED: Construction of the western approach began in January 1949. Work on the bridge structure itself began in November, 1949.

LENGTH: The over-water section of the bridge is 4.03 miles. Shore-to-shore (including the Eastern Shore causeway) it is 4.35 miles. The length, including the approach roads, is 7,727 miles.

WIDTH: The roadway is 28 feet wide and there is an emergency footway, 1½ feet wide, at each side.

HEIGHTS AND DEPTHS: The tips of the suspension span towers are 354 feet high. The base of the deepest pier is 98 feet below the surface of the bay (at mean low water) and the tips of the deepest piles are 203 ft. below the surface. Deepest water under the bridge is 88 feet.

THE MAIN SPAN: The center suspension span is 1,600 feet long tower-to-tower and 1,500 feet pier-to-pier at the surface of the water. The bottom (Continued on eighth page)

IN THE AIR FORCE

Basic Airman Lester E. Bollinger has completed four weeks of Air Force indoctrination training, Air Force officials announced at Sampson Air Force Base recently.

During his first four weeks of training, his Air Force career field was selected following a conference with a career guidance expert and was chosen on the basis of the needs of the service, his personal desires and his aptitude as determined by a series of scientifically designed tests.

He has learned the value of close-order-drill, and is attending classes in mathematics, character guidance and customs of the service.

Before completing training here, he will also attend classes in psychological and chemical warfare and will be instructed in the proper use of firearms.

He will complete indoctrination training at Sampson in or about Aug. 16, 1952.

A. B. Bollinger is the son of Percy J. Bollinger, R. D. 1, Taneytown, Md.

"ORTABEALAN" for any place in these United States about that "Cobra" hold in wrestling. That sport is gradually becoming less and less honorable. Gentlemen, where and how does that kind of a hold in wrestling be called, "Wrestling"? It is a disgrace not alone for the city of Baltimore but for our grand State of Maryland. First time Your Observer saw that "Chester Alaskan" and his holds really were honorable and pleased the audience which was a packed house Tuesday night a week ago at the Coliseum.

If you do not intend to go away on a vacation do try to purchase some new pieces for the garden, lawn or porch as it will give you a Lifter-Upper". Try to arrange your house hold duties with more system for August. Manage a day to town several times for lunch and a movie and maybe a boat trip to relax. There are numerous ways to "VACATION AT HOME" and it will mean less spending in the end and not changing sleeping quarters. The latter is always more tiring than anything else. There are many outdoor pieces of furniture on sale right now so take advantage of it. If you still retain substantial pieces and want them to appear a little different, you can easily change that by painting them a different color.

In the terrific heat, Ladies try to serve boiled dinners instead of anything fried. (It's good for the stomach anyway). MARYLAND'S SAFETY PROGRAM 7TH IN U. S.

The public information program of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission has won national recognition, it was announced recently.

Paul E. Burke, the Commission's Executive Director said that the National Safety Council had selected Maryland's program as the seventh best in the nation in 1951.

In 1950, he noted, Maryland ranked 33rd among the 48 states in their traffic public information program.

In addition, in 1951, Maryland's program ranked first in the Eastern States.

To mark the honor, a plaque will be presented to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, ceremonies to be held next Monday, Burke noted. He added:

"It is pleasant to win recognition on a national basis for what we are doing here in Maryland. However, we of the Traffic Safety Commission, as much as we feel honored by the award, will only be satisfied if we can succeed in making our highways as safe as our churches.

"We ask every driver to observe the basic rules of safety—drive slowly, make sure your car is in safe mechanical condition; and, most important of all, don't drive after drinking. These few rules, if followed, can certainly reduce our death toll—they might even eliminate it altogether.

Paul E. Burke, Executive Director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, today called upon every driver in the State to make August "Vacation Traffic Safety Month." In pointing out his reasons for selecting the month of August for an intensified safety drive, Mr. Burke had this to say:

"Statistics show that August is the month in which more vacationists jam the highways than any other month in the year.

"Statistics also show that the number of traffic deaths rises in direct proportion to the number of cars on the highways.

"However, we can eliminate, or at least drastically cut down the number of these highway deaths; and, we can do it if only each motorist on the road will adhere rigidly to a few simple rules of safety."

It might be helpful, if motorists would clip them out, and paste them on the dashboards of their cars.

"These rules are particularly timely in the month of August, for the many Marylanders who will use their autos for vacation trips. Here are the rules:

Make sure your car is in safe mechanical condition. Start your trip in plenty of time, so you won't have to hurry.

Keep your speed down. Slow up here and show up there.

Pass other cars only if there is plenty of room.

Stay far enough behind other cars so that you can stop in an emergency.

Keep your temper, and be courteous and patient in heavy traffic.

Don't drive after drinking—even a little.

Stop and rest whenever over-tired or sleepy.

FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1952

WHILE TRUMAN SULK

Creeping paralysis of the nation's industry and hence its defense activity, is expected, as this is written, to continue spreading outward from the idle steel mills and reach epidemic proportions by next month.

Automobile companies have laid off 75,000 workers thus far, including some on munitions work, and will increase the list July 15th. General Electric plans lay-offs for 100,000 of their 230,000 employees when vacations are over, later this month, and may order a general shut-down if the strike continues beyond August first. Railroads, now short 162,000 cars of freight per week, face increasing reduction in transportation and maintenance workers. The "cessation of labor" at the iron ore pits, reported to you last week, continues... and fore-shadows curtailed steel production this winter, even though an early, but unforeseen, strike settlement occurs.

While the union has signed a few of the smaller steel companies, the industry position against enforced union membership is stiffened by the decision of the six major companies, who produce about 70 percent of the nation's steel, to hold out against the union-shop demand.

Meantime, reports from steel-making areas indicate that the men are anxious to return to work. At Harrison, N. J., the Crucible Steel Co., issued vacation-pay checks averaging $115 each to 1,049 striking workers. Those interviewed said they would pay bills with the money.

Word from the White House indicates that the President intends to ignore the Congressional "request" that he employ the Taft-Hartley Act... on the grounds that the 80 day injunction would not restore production.

It is hard to believe however, that the President shuns this law because he fears it won't work, and it's difficult to credit Union President Phil Murray's statement that Truman promised him not to use the Act. But it grows more apparent that what both fear is the secret ballot provision, by which the workers themselves could decide, without risk of physical injury, whether to go back to work.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

WAURIKA, OKLA., NEWS-DEMO-CRAT: "We will have taken just about the last step to socialism, when we turn the schools over to the Federal government. The first appropriations might be with a few strings, but gradually the powers at Washington would take over, telling the schools what to teach, how much to pay, where to build schools."

SOMERSET, PA., DAILY AMERICAN: "The primary issue of the moment is: Shall this democratic Republic be turned over to Philip Murray to be ruled as Hitler ruled Germany and as Mussolini ruled Italy? The time, Congress has said, has not arrived when all people have abdicated in favor of some of the people."

KNOXVILLE, IOWA, EXPRESS: "Our government experts say that many foreign countries could be made into self-supporting nations. Perhaps, like charity, these things should start at home. Even in this country nothing appears able to support itself without government help... here we are in far away foreign places telling them how to become self-sufficient."

ITALY, TEXAS, NEWS-HERALD: "Had Congress refused to go along with presidential requests for more power...; had Congress held a tight rein on governmental expenditures, had Congress been more careful about approving presidential appointees, this nation would never have slipped as far along the road to socialism as it has."

COATESVILLE, PA., RECORD: "It's no doubt tough for Congressmen to live in Washington, with taxes and prices what they are. Perhaps it was natural that they should vote some tax relief for themselves. But what about the folks back home who do not have $15,000, plus, jobs? How do the Congressmen believe the folks with three, four or five thousand dollars—before taxes—make ends meet? It is claimed by statisticians that each of us is now paying $477 annually on Federal taxes alone. This means a total of $1,908 for a family of four! Does Congress look upon these people as deserving of relief from their tax burdens?"

EVERSON, WASH., NEWS: "There seems to be a question whether the U. S. Government can claim anything their bureaucratic heads desire to claim as their own. They seem to control our rivers and streams, despite our court decisions, they grant power dams against our best interests; tell us whether we need more aluminum plants to cause a power shortage; whether we choose to keep our fishing industry, one of our best natural resources, or let an appointee of the President regulate our economy. We have watched their domination of the power industry to the detriment of private enterprise and the best interest of our citizens."

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, MINN., DAILY JOURNAL: "Production per man is now five times what it was at the beginning of the century. The reason, according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, lies in the increased use of machinery that speeds production. Such machinery requires capital investments and such investment can come only out of earnings."

MEN URGED TO MAKE BEST OF YEARS IN ARMY

Through the many educational courses offered by the U. S. Armed Forces young men entering the service can make profitable use of their experience, leading to college or preparation for civilian jobs. Read Major George Fielding Eliot's inspiring article in the August 10th issue of the

New Device
Atomic scientists have added another tool to their kit. A new device now makes microscopic study of deadly radioactive materials—heretofore an impossible task—possible. The new instrument is a combination of special microscope, camera, periscope, and an illuminating system, in such an arrangement that light can get in and out through the test chamber's thick walls. But dangerous radiations from the radioactive specimens are completely blocked. In using the microscope, which extends into the test chamber, the operator places the specimen on the microscope stage. Looking through a single eyepiece, he employs the remote control to get the specimen adjusted and properly focused. Then the visual eyepiece is exchanged for a photographic one and the camera goes into action.

"Pumpkin Pine"
As a furniture wood, pine has been gaining increasing favor. Many pine pieces are being finished to simulate antique or Early American furniture. One of these finishes, known as "pumpkin pine" is a mellow yellow color. One way of obtaining this finish is to apply a blend of orange shellac and light mahogany spirit stain. A final coat of straight orange shellac is applied before the finished surface is rubbed with 4/0 steel wool and waved to a dull lustre.

Bottled Good Will Nears Coast of Chinese Reds

HICKORY, N.C. — "Operation Bottles," designed to bombard the China coast line with hundreds of plastic bottles, containing a greeting in Chinese and an American souvenir, is underway. Students at Lenoir Rhyne college, who originated and placed the idea in execution, said they had received notice that the bottles were on their way to the area where they will be released.

The bottles, they said, left San Francisco aboard the American President liner Lightning. The Lightning's master Capt. Orion Larson, will drop them in the entrance to the China sea near Pusan, Korea.

Favorable winds and tides are expected to carry the bottles to the China mainland between Shanghai and Tsingtao. Yellow balloons have been attached to the bottles to speed them through the sea. The students at the small Lutheran college here undertook the project in an effort to "keep a spark of freedom" burning in the hearts of friendly Chinese in the Communist dominated country.

Survival Chances Best In Western Countries

Chances of survival to and through the main working ages of life are best in the United States, Western Europe, and the English-speaking countries elsewhere.

In wide areas of the world less than half the males reaching age 15 will still be alive at 65.

In contrast, the chances that a man will survive from age 15 through the main working years is well above 600 in 1,000 in Western Europe and the English-speaking countries. In The Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries and New Zealand, his chances are better than 700 in 1,000. The United States is slightly below those countries in adult survivorship for men, but our women have one of the best survivorship rates in the world in the 15-65 age range.

Generally speaking, the countries having the highest adult death rates also offer the newborn the smallest chances of living through childhood.

The probability of surviving childhood is better in the United States than almost anywhere else in the world. According to the 1949 life tables, 955 of every 1,000 boys and 965 out of every 1,000 girls can expect to reach age 15.

6,000 Tons of Meteorites Fall on the World Daily

According to astronomers some 6,000 metric tons of fallen meteorites, the ashes of burned-out meteorites, and unburned micrometeorites settle over the earth each day.

Old estimates amounted to only one metric ton—2205 pounds—per day.

At a rate of 6,000 tons per day, the time required to double the mass of the earth would be about one million times longer than the estimated total age of the universe—about three billion years. Thus, it would take three million-billion or three quadrillion years to double the earth's mass.

However, it won't be necessary to go outside and start digging out from under this accretion. Since there are some 200 million square miles on the earth's surface, the dust collected on each square foot of surface amounts to only one-millionth of a gram per day.

Hence, it will take a million days, or about 3,000 years, for a gram of solid meteoritic material to collect on a square foot of the earth's surface.

Scientist Pool

The nation's pool of scientific and technical manpower amounts to only about one person out of every hundred of the entire working population. A recent study places the number of engineers and scientists at approximately 575,000 as of the end of 1950 out of a total civilian labor force of some 63,000,000. Engineers represent by far the largest group of all, amounting to 400,000 of the total, or nearly two out of every three. The chemists are the second biggest group with 85,000 and the biologists are third with 30,000. Two of the smallest groups are the physicists with 12,000 and those engaged in medical sciences who number 5,000. Two-thirds of the nation's engineers and scientists are employed by private business concerns in a wide range of industries, and about one-quarter by government. Only an estimated 55,000 are associated with educational institutions.

Textile War Looms

A bitter struggle for supremacy in the world's textile markets is shaping up between Japan and India, on one hand, and the United States and England. The present lineup shows Japan leading the world in exports, followed by England, the U.S., and India. Last year the balance between the low-cost producers of the Orient and Western cloth manufacturers was fairly close, but the East now threatens to open up a wider gap. Meanwhile, the international textile market is growing smaller, and the West will only be able to hold traditional markets by meeting Japanese competition in the cheaper lines.

Russian Worker

The Bureau of Labor reports a Russian industrial worker is way behind the American worker when it comes to pay and what it will buy. A Russian worker must put in 16 hours to make enough to buy a pound of tea. He must work two hours and 12 minutes to buy a pound of butter and an hour and 50 minutes for a pound of sugar. The bureau says it thinks, with the same amount of work, the American industrial worker could buy more than five times as many groceries as a Russian worker could buy in a Moscow state store.

Queen Interested

While watching the procession of cars on the production line in an automotive plant, Queen Juliana of Holland noted that many of the cars were painted in different colors. This seemed to present a production problem to her which could be solved in a simple manner. "Why," she asked Henry Ford II, "can't they paint all cars finished the same day in the same color—and a different color the next?" Said Henry Ford II, "I never thought of that."

THOUGHTS FOR THOUGHT

He is a slave to fear who cannot do what he knows he should do because of him who welds the "big stick."

The note of certainty is an impetus in any sphere of thought or action.

It isn't the woman you marry that troubles you. It is the one you want and can't marry—Radio Pick Up.

Awakened memories review the past but need not keep one there.

Why banks want to close on every legal holiday when so many people stand in need of money is hard to understand.

The first patent in this country was issued to Joseph Jenks on his hand scythe.

The following is from the Family Magazine section of The Pittsburgh Press, Sunday, July 6, 1952:

Incidentally, every year that both major parties have held their national convention in the same city, the Democrats have won. It has happened four times: When both parties convened in Chicago in 1884 Cleveland was elected; both met there in 1932 and 1944, with Franklin D. Roosevelt coming out the winner each time. Four years ago both parties held their conventions in Philadelphia, and Truman won the election.

The 25th national Republican convention is meeting in Chicago this week. According to the World Almanac, since the existence of the two present major parties in 1856, Chicago (before the two this month) has had 19 national conventions; Philadelphia has held seven; St. Louis has had five; Cincinnati three; Baltimore, Cleveland, Kansas City, and New York two each; and one convention is listed for each of the following cities: Minneapolis, Charleston (S.C.), Louisville, San Francisco, Denver, and Houston, Texas.

One who desires to excel should endeavor in those things that are in themselves most excellent.

—Epictetus

Excellence is never granted to man but as the reward of labor.

Sir Joshua Reynolds

We are all sculptors, working out our own ideals, and leaving the impress of mind on the body as well as on history and marble, chiselling to higher excellence or leaving to rot and ruin the mind's ideals.

Mary Baker Eddy

The moral progression of a people can scarcely begin till they are independent.

—James Martineau

Reflecting God's government, man is self-governed.

Mary Baker Eddy

The word independence is united to the ideas of dignity and virtue; the word dependence, to the ideas of inferiority and corruption.

—Jeremy Bentham

Caught in a Ga. Lampasas Bows to Victor

LAMPASAS, Tex.—The community of Lampasas knows now, in a minor way, what it is like to be captured by an aggressor.

During recent war games, green clad "aggressor" troops with fixed bayonets, secured the central Texas community and a military government took over.

With an okay from city officials, civic leaders and residents, Maj. Alton Shipstead, military government officer for the 82nd air borne division, set a coldly realistic stage. Concentration camps, property confiscation, quick, one sided trials were part of the "lost day of democracy", as were "thought control" for schools, closed churches and propaganda broadcasts.

Huge printed proclamation announced the "liberation" of Lampasas were plastered over the town. So were "laws" to govern the citizens and the announcement that all political parties were abolished; that the "Centralist" part was the only permissible one.

It was a realistic and education experience was the community verdict when the war games ended.

Flowering Crabs Give Town a New Attraction

SPENCER, Iowa—This community is well on the way toward a third top-flight tourist attraction to add to the two which already exist.

In 1950 the Clay County Garden club adopted the flowering crab as the community tree and sponsored the planting of 300 of the trees in the town. Plantings will continue until the club goal, at least two flowering crabs per block on every street in Spencer, is reached.

The first of the newly-planted trees flowered last year and more are expected to bloom this year.

The community is the site of the Clay County fair, "the world's largest county fair," and the Spencer rodeo.

New Hymns

Army chaplains in the Near East have received English-Spanish editions of the United Nations Hymnal. The new hymnals are proving very popular to Puerto Rican troops who enjoy singing in their native tongue.

Attending "Sales" in any County is interesting. There is an Auctioneer over here (member of our church) and just like Mr. B. around the town! Last Saturday was what Your Observer calls a real pathetic sale because it was the grand farm home of an excellent Christian family and the last survivor lived there for many years. She decided to sell her home and all the contents and spend the remaining years in an "Aged" Home. Before the sale started this dear aged Christian woman requested a prayer to be said by anyone and the Minister who had charge of the home prayed beautifully. A small salt basket which was treated with some kind of chemical for endurance and the kind I have seen hold a lunch for those dear church people over in New Windsor when they have their yearly meeting (at which time I was present) with that real Christian Minister (who went to New York State recently from around the town) went on sale and which I wanted all my life. It is one of the treasures, I'll always keep.

If you are having trouble with the salt shaker these days, folks ask your grocer for that new kind of "Weather Salt". It will amaze you!

A Baptist Minister, Dr. Harold J. Hamilton inserted an announcement in his church Bulletin the other day to the effect that "under no consideration will he officiate at a wedding where members of the bridal party need a "BRACER" before the ceremony. He points out that marriage is with alcohol-soaked brains and bodies is an insult to God! Wise Minister!

Have a grand week end, folks. Don't turn the wheel over to a teen-ager even if you are tired of driving—the best thing to do is to postpone the trip. (My three young sons have never been permitted to drive Your Observer's car!) Until next week end D. V. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

Stop farm machines before unclogging, oiling or adjusting them.

Bake French toast in a waffle iron for variety.

For a sandwich rich in flavor and vitamin A, make a filling of grated carrot with chopped peanuts and salad dressing.

MRS. ELI DUTTERER
Mrs. Nannie E. Dutterer, widow of Eli Dutterer, who resided at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Riffle, Taneytown, died Sunday at 7:30 a. m. at the Hanover General hospital where she was a patient for four months. She was aged 72 years. A native and resident most of her life of Taneytown, Mrs. Dutterer lived for a time in Westminster, moving back to Taneytown about 3 years ago. Her parents were the late John H. and Frances Shunk Diffendall. There are no immediate survivors. Mrs. Dutterer was a member of Grace Lutheran church, Westminster, and of the Bible class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school, Taneytown. Her pastor, the Rev. Dr. Elwood S. Falkenstein, conducted funeral services on Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. at the C. O. Fuss & Son funeral home, Taneytown. Burial was made in the Lutheran cemetery, Taneytown.

MRS. EDWARD SLONAKER
Mrs. Susanna Isabel Slonaker, wife of Edward Slonaker, 29 S. Schroeder St., Baltimore, formerly of Taneytown, died at her residence at 9 p. m. Monday. She was 75. Mr. and Mrs. Slonaker lived in Taneytown for a year, moving here from Michigan. They were residents of Baltimore for the past 18 years. Surviving in addition to her husband are 3 children by an earlier marriage, Adrian Switzer, Birmingham, Mich.; Mrs. Lillian Fox, Belding, Mich.; and Mrs. Pearl Jensen, Detroit, Mich. Funeral services were held on Thursday at 3 p. m. at the C. O. Fuss & Son funeral home, Taneytown. Burial was in the Reformed church cemetery, Taneytown.

MRS. ARTHUR W. FEESER
Mrs. Minnie M. Feeser, 80, well known Silver Run resident, wife of the late Arthur W. Feeser, founder of the A. W. Feeser Canning Company of Carroll county, died at 9:25 p. m. Saturday at the Annie M. Warner hospital, Gettysburg, after a three-day illness. She was admitted to the hospital Friday. Mrs. Feeser participated actively in work of St. Mary's Lutheran church and Sunday school and many of the church organizations. A daughter of the late Joseph and Anna Stonesifer Sheets, she leaves one sister, Mrs. Baxter B. Chenoweth, Taneytown. Her husband died seven years ago. Funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the J. W. Little and Son funeral home, Littlestown, by her pastor, the Rev. Dr. Frederick R. Seibel. Interment was in St. Mary's Union cemetery, Silver Run.

MARRIED
WILSON—SAUBLE
Miss R. Lorraine Sauble, daughter of Mrs. Ruth E. Sauble, Taneytown, and the late G. Raymond Sauble, and Robert Lee Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Wilson, also of Taneytown, were united in marriage Friday evening, July 18, 1952 at 7 o'clock, in the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church, Taneytown. The Reverend Glenn L. Stahl, pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. Before the ceremony Mrs. Geo. L. Harner, the organist, gave a ten minute recital of traditional wedding music.

The bride was attired in an ice-blue, silk shantung two-piece dress with navy blue and white accessories, and wore a yellow rose-bud corsage. Her only attendant, Mrs. George Damuth, wore a blue and white beamburg dress with pink corsage. The groom had as his best man Mr. Donald E. Hess of Taneytown. After the ceremony the couple left for a week end trip. For the present, they will make their home with the bride's mother.

The bride attended Taneytown High School, the groom attended Elmer Wolf High School, Union Bridge. Also he served three years in the U. S. Air Force. At present he is employed with Charles B. Reaver & Sons.

RIPPEON-CHIPLEY
On July 4 at 1 p. m. Miss Emma Jane Chipley, daughter of Mrs. Frank Stoner, Mechanicsburg, Pa., became the bride of Charles Monroe Rippeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rippeon, Mr. Airy, Md., in the Grace Reformed church parsonage, Taneytown. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Morgan Andreas. The bride was attired in an ice blue street length dress with white accessories and wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. James Martin, Mt. Airy, friend of the bride, was the matron of honor and wore a pink sheer dress with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white gladioli. James Martin, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Following the ceremony the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. The newlyweds now reside near Mt. Airy.

THIS 'N THAT

seen that very thing happen in dozens of cases. Do you know who the very first woman admitted to the bar in the State of Maryland was—Miss Etta H. Maddox, 2641 North Charles Street! And that was a long time ago.

Last week Your Observer took that boat trip down to Betterton again just for the relaxation. Instead of the 400 or 500 aboard as usual—there were exactly 1300 and the money went for the Weissner's Orphanage home in East Baltimore. There were many interesting individuals on board. Returning to Baltimore one of the most severe storms came up that I have ever seen and as always many were quite alarmed. It was interesting to watch the expressions! By the way, Arthur Godfrey insists that hot tea does make one cooler and urges you to try it but the real secret to that is when hot tea or anything hot is taken into the stomach it brings down the blood from your head making you feel cooler.

Just recently, I visited a son of a very fine woman who was arrested and put into jail for "DRUNKEN DRIVING"! The Mother of this man is just about one of the finest women I have ever met. Seven years ago, he started going out with a crowd who drank and he has kept it up ever since! Through the worry, anxiety and sleepless nights this Mother's life is being shortened. I sat there pleading with that young man while he is sober to give him the picture of the sad case. He is thin and pitiful looking and yet has his whole life to do with as he pleases to make it good or make it bad besides making the wreck of his wonderful Mother who has stuck by him always hoping for the best. The public still says kind things about this man but will always finish, "Oh—if he just did not drink!" Then they add, "There never was a finer man before he started to drink and he was such a prosperous person, too having his own business!"

Young man, the very next time a drink is offered to you—be a real man and refuse it. That very drink may start you on the down grade in life and after all, you do want to make good in life!

Attending "Sales" in any County is interesting. There is an Auctioneer over here (member of our church) and just like Mr. B. around the town! Last Saturday was what Your Observer calls a real pathetic sale because it was the grand farm home of an excellent Christian family and the last survivor lived there for many years. SUMMER CONFERENCE OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS

Carroll County was represented by eight delegates at the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers Summer Conference conducted in cooperation with the University of Maryland and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at College Park from July 15th through 17th. The aim of summer conference was to educate, strengthen and inspire parent-teacher leaders.

Miss Dema Kennedy, Field Consultant, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Dr. Robert L. Faucett, Director of Prince Georges Mental Health Clinic, and Mrs. Louise S. Walker, Chairman of Audio-Visual Education, Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, were among those who outlined ways to develop understanding of schools.

Social highlight of summer conference was the tea given delegates on Wednesday afternoon by Dr. H. C. Byrd, President of the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Victor J. Ruby, President of Carroll County Council PTA served as Hospitality Chairman. She was assisted by Mrs. A. Olin Grimes, delegate from Mechanicsville PTA., Mrs. F. Forthman, delegate from Sykesville PTA., and Mrs. Stuart A. Widener, President of West End Elementary PTA, Westminster.

Also in attendance at summer conference were Mrs. Randall Kilgore, President of Sandymount PTA., Mrs. Norman Flater, delegate from Sandymount PTA., Mr. William Joyner, President of Hampstead PTA., and Mr. Kenneth Mays, principal of Sandymount School.

Mrs. Ruby and Mrs. Widener were awarded certificates of attendance by Joseph A. Hunter, President of Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Dr. Wilbur Devilliss, Dean, College of Education, University of Maryland. Certificates were presented only to those attending all sessions. Average attendance at the three day conference was 250, 126 parents and teachers received certificates.

West End Elementary PTA, Westminster, was represented by Mrs. Stuart A. Widener at the special meeting of Local Presidents Monday evening, and the Local Presidents luncheon Tuesday.

MARYLAND MUSINGS

For best results, simmer rather than boil beans and peas.

To double or triple the light given off in a room, give your lampshades a white paper lining, a coat of white paint or even white shoe polish on the inside.

Keep the heat low in baking custards.

Foremost Killer

Heart diseases continue to be the nation's number one killer, causing more than half of all deaths, insurance statistics show. Cancer ranks next, followed by accidents, pneumonia and influenza, and tuberculosis. Tuberculosis and diabetes each showed a record low rate of deaths last year, and suicides registered a decline. Automobile and other accidental deaths increased.

Divorce Classified As A Disease by Lawyer

DURHAM, N. C.—"Divorce is a disease like alcoholism and we ought to treat it that way," a Duke university law professor declared.

"We've got to stop looking at divorce cases as if they were a moral wrong if anything is to be done about the alarming rise in divorces," he warned.

Dr. John S. Bradway, chairman of the research committee of the national interprofessional commission on marriage and divorce laws and director of Duke's legal aid clinic, suggested that one of the reasons for thinking divorces are morally wrong is that our divorce court procedure is descended from "trial by battle."

"First the couple decides to separate. Then they take each other into court, and the battle begins—with little or no hope for any solution other than the death of the marriage. In this type of procedure bad feeling is bound to spring up," he said.

We must progress by giving divorce cases the same kind of treatment we give to juvenile cases, he said.

Do Reds Have Special Grudge Against G.I.?

KOREA—Corporal Joseph P. Harris of Gonzales, Tex., believes Communist artillerymen have a personal grudge against him.

The corporal arrived here and went through seven months of fighting unscathed. Then, in two weeks, he was injured thrice—each time by enemy artillery.

Shrapnel first got him, and he was evacuated. About a week later he returned to his company, only to be injured again when the bunker he was in received a direct hit.

He was evacuated again. But Cpl. Harris figured it would take more than that to keep a good man down, and soon returned to the front. A few days later, he was on his way back down the hill, the victim of another wound.

"It got so I knew all the medical corpsmen down at the aid station," observed Cpl. Harris as he trudged back to the lines a third time, "I'm beginning to think the Reds have something against me personally."

Uncle Sam Says.

We're getting into the frosty season, when the birds migrate, the furry animals hibernate and all nature is preparing for a wintry siege. Which reminds us, why shouldn't we, too, prepare for the future? The long-range future, the wintry years of our lives. How better to do this than by investing part of our earnings in U. S. Defense Bonds? Everyone should buy bonds, either under the Payroll Savings Plan where he works, or the Bond-A-Month Plan where he banks.

SHORT STORY
The Stick-Up
 By MAUDE NORMAN

THE WIND whipped in the open car window on Rose-Ellen's flushed cheeks.

"Serves you right, you little fool," she muttered, "for taking things for granted, but he said he couldn't wait to see me and all the time he was still in love with Kate."

3 Minute Fiction

She had always loved Steve Wilson and had started writing to him when Kate was too busy with her other boy friends to bother. Gradually the tone of his letters had changed.

Then when he announced he was coming home, Kate's interest had revived, but Rose-Ellen remained confident she was the one he now cared for.

But why, oh why, did she have to be so impulsive and greet him as she had?

Running out to her car as she had and driving wildly through town wasn't helping any.

She was approaching the city's outskirts, when as she stopped for a red light the door on her side of the car opened, a hard round object pressed against her side, a voice grated.

"Move over, sister—fast!"
 Rose-Ellen opened her mouth but a vicious jab turned the intended scream into a gasp.
 "Keep quiet, sister, and you won't get hurt."

Rose-Ellen had always pictured bandits, if she thought of them at all, as weazel-faced or beetling-browed, flashily dressed. This one looked like an ordinary citizen.

A voice grated, "Move over sister—fast."

"Say, you're a slick chick," he said.

"Why did you get in my car?"
 "Now, don't tell me you're beautiful but dumb," he mocked. "I got in because I needed a car. I'll tell you the story of my life later. Say, you've been crying, ain't 'cha. What's the matter? Boy friend give you the brush-off?"

FEAR gave courage—an inspiration. "I'm worrying about him—now," she murmured. "We were always quarreling. He wanted to marry and settle down, but I wanted excitement—adventure. I ran away from him and you came along. Don't you think I should know your name?"

"Some call me Dan," he smirked.

"You're so dark and romantic looking."

Basking in her admiration, he was alert enough to grasp her hand as she opened her handbag.

"Whatcha got in there?"
 "Nothing but powder and lipstick, and my wallet."

"O.K. It ain't that I don't trustcha, Baby, but I gotta be careful."

"Don't be silly," she smiled, busy with her lip-stick and powder-puff.

"I'm having too much fun to do such a thing. Will you take me to a real night-club and buy me beautiful clothes like they do in the movies?"

"You betcha—clothes—all the money you want!"

She gave me an excited little laugh and nestled against him, urging, "Faster—go faster."

The car leaped ahead. Suddenly a siren sounded behind them.

"Damn it," he swore. "The cops and me with no license."

"But I have mine. Pull over and I'll take the wheel. Don't worry, we'll only get a ticket."

"No tricks," he warned. "Remember, I've got this gat handy."

Rose-Ellen felt the bandit's tense body relax as the trooper handed back her license, then tense again as instead of the expected ticket, a revolver appeared in his hand. She gave a gasp of relief, then heard the trooper's shout as something struck her side and darkness descended.

Rose-Ellen held court the next day with Steve, her parents and Kate her admiring audience.

"Thank goodness the bullet just grazed your side," her mother arranged the pillows more comfortably, "and it is high enough that it won't prevent your wearing a bathing suit."

"But you need not have been hurt at all if you hadn't misunderstood when I told Kate I was happy because she told me you loved me," Steve said.

"Tell us, Rose-Ellen," Kate asked curiously, "How did you tip that trooper off?"

"Oh," she answered sleepily, "I knew a State Trooper was stationed on that side road just before Route 135 on the alert for speeders. When I was supposed to be fixing my face I wrote 'Help, Bandit' across my driver's license with lip-stick, then covered it to speed past."

Let 'Junior' Help With Dinner Dishes, Say Psychologists

CHICAGO—It seems that child psychologists in America are overwhelmingly in favor of "Junior" helping with the dinner dishes. However, how "Junior" may feel about it is entirely another matter, they agree.

In a nationwide survey, a parents' consultation service asked psychologists whether or not they thought "little boys should be expected to do simple domestic chores such as setting the table, helping with the dinner dishes, etc."

More than 88 per cent of the 388 respondents, numbering among them some of the most distinguished personages in the field of child psychology, answered "yes" to the query.

Only 5 per cent said "no," and four per cent did not reply to the question. The remainder had "other opinions," which means that they failed to check either the "yes" or "no" answer. Instead, they relied on the "further comments" column to clarify their position in this vital issue in the lives of little boys from homes without maids or automatic dishwashers.

A small number of the respondents, the majority of these male, took refuge in the immemorial dodge that dishwashing, bed making, dusting and similar tasks were "woman's work" and therefore psychologically unfit for the proper conditioning of little boys for manhood.

These favored "more masculine chores" for the boys in the family, particularly where there were girls around "to help with the dishes."

SOS That Saved Couple Was Transcontinental

ESCANADA, Mich.—A Chicago radio "ham" and his bride honeymooned here after a plea for help that spanned the continent and brought their rescue from an upper peninsula snowdrift.

Rudolph Fleischer, 32, and his bride, the former Marilyn Sinclair, 22, of De Pere, Wis., spent four anxious hours near the Rapid river fire tower before Michigan state police arrived in answer to the call sent out by Fleischer over the 14 watt transmitter in his car.

The couple had driven eight miles off a main highway on a sightseeing tour when the car got stuck. Not dressed for hiking, Fleischer sent out his message which was picked up by a radio amateur in Portland, Ore. The message was relayed to Washington, D.C., and back to Lansing, Mich., and thence to state police in Escanaba.

Fleischer said he and his wife would stay in this "wonderful country" for the rest of the week.

False Postmark Fools Roaming Hubbies' Wives

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Lewis McLaughlin operates a letter remailing service for out-of-town customers.

People everywhere mail him letters along with instructions where to send them.

McLaughlin then remails the stamped, addressed letters so they bear a Columbus postmark. The people who receive them are supposed to think the letters came from Ohio's capital city.

McLaughlin said some practical jokers take advantage of his remailing service—and other such services throughout the United States—to make their friends believe they're on an expensive vacation tour.

And then, he added, there's the roaming husband who wants his letters remailed from Columbus so his wife will not know his actual location.

McLaughlin has received letters for remailing from 46 states, Canada and Mexico.

"I only charge a quarter a letter, and I really don't make any money on it," he said, adding "it's a heckuva lot of fun."

McLaughlin says postal authorities know of his remailing service and haven't objected.

For the police, he records every piece of mail he handles.

Student Shuns Freedom, Demands Jail Sentence

AIBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Carlton M. Owen, 23-year-old Williamston, S. C., college student, faced a sentence because he refused to accept a verdict of acquittal on a draft law violation charge. He insisted he should go to jail.

A jury in Federal court, after deliberating 10 minutes, found the defendant guilty.

Owen volunteered to serve as a government witness against himself after Judge Carl A. Hatch directed a verdict of innocent on the ground that the Government had failed to present sufficient evidence to convict.

The student said he thought the selective service act "a wicked law in that it requires me to become a part of an organization based on principles very foreign to me." He said he had not registered with selective service.

"I think as long as that law is on the books the place of a man who opposes it should be in prison to show where he stands," Owen said.

SCRIPTURE: I Samuel 1:1-4:1a.
DEVOTIONAL READING: I Samuel 2: 1-10.

God Prepared Him

Lesson for July 27, 1952

WHEN A CHRISTIAN looks back, he can see God's hand better than he can see it looking forward. A Christian, even a worrying Christian (though there should be no such people as Christians who worry), can feel very thankful for God's blessings, care and guidance in the past, even while worrying over tomorrow's uncertainties. How foolish this is! God is even now making ready for the future. He is not to be taken by surprise. He knows what he wants and he knows how to get it. While we waste time in worry, God is at work. The story of Samuel is a case in point.

Dr. Foreman

God's Home

EVERY ONE KNOWS that the strongest single influence in a person's life is his home. We sometimes take that for granted. On the contrary, a home may wreck a man before he starts. It has been said that many alcoholics get their start, —not their start in drinking but their start in the nervous, unsettled disposition which easily slips down into alcoholism and other drug habits, before they are six years old. The wrong kind of parents, lack of harmony between father and mother, ill-treatment or simple neglect, can make a child already abnormal before he is old enough to go to school.

On the other hand, the foundation of a strong man can always be found in the home where he first lived. So it was with the remarkable man, the prophet Samuel.

In later life he became lawgiver, king-maker, preacher and general of the army; no ordinary man! The nation needed him; and when the time came, God produced him. But God produced his mother first.

God's Church

AFTER LEAVING HOME, Samuel literally lived in the tabernacle, which served as a church in those far off days. The little boy found there a second home. Old Eli the priest no doubt came to mean much more to him than his own father did, his father whom he so seldom saw.

So it still is, where the church is doing what it should for the children of its people. A child should not be afraid of the minister; he should not feel anything but love for the church. True, a church building is different from other buildings in that it is set apart for a sacred use. A church is the symbol of God's presence among men, and the sanctuary of a church ought to make all who come into it feel that this place is holy ground.

But that does not mean that a child should be afraid of the place, as some children are. If they have been coming there every Sunday since they can remember, sitting with the rest of the family in the family pew (sounds old-fashioned but there are still thousands of them), coming so regularly that no question is ever asked on Sunday morning, "Well, shall we go to church or not?" —then they will feel more at home on the inside of the church, when the Lord's Day comes, than they ever will on the outside.

Now this is not all ways true. If children and young people are not attracted by the church, as too often they are not, whose fault is it? Whoever may be to blame, it is certain that a church which loses its young people is headed for its end.

The Voice of God

IT IS MOST INTERESTING to know that when young Samuel heard the voice of God, it sounded just like the voice of Eli the priest. (If you heard the voice of God, whose human voice would it sound like?) At any rate, God prepared this great prophet Samuel not only by the influence of home and church, but by a personal religious experience. Now there is no real conflict or contradiction between religious education and conversion, between the church and the home, and the work of the Holy Spirit.

God was in Samuel's home, God was in that tabernacle, God was in his religious education. But God also came to him directly and not only through home and church. If we wonder sometimes where the Christian leaders for the next generation are coming from, we may be sure God is preparing them even now, in simple if obscure ways, as he did with Samuel of old.

Ancient Seal Skulls Puzzle to Scientists

Dr. Robert F. Heizer, associate professor of anthropology at the University of California, reports the discovery of a mysterious collection of hundreds of skulls of sea lions on a tiny island off the coast of California.

A curious aspect of the find was that the skulls were perforated, having either one or two holes in the brain base from two to three inches in diameter.

The skulls, estimated to be a thousand or more in number, were imbedded in the thin layer of soil, 18 inches deep, covering the west slope of the island.

The anthropologist said that the rock island, which was reached by means of a rubber raft, was "not an occupation site, and seemed to have served solely as a depository for sea lion craniums."

Records of the ritual disposal of game animals of some northerly tribes support the theory that the skulls must have had some ceremonial significance, the scientist said.

Such customs, he added, were to prevent dogs from gnawing the bones and "thus angering the spirit of the animal so that the hunter will have no success in later hunts."

Scientist Says Atlantic, Pacific Oceans Shrinking

Here's another thought to add to the worries of the world: the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans may be shrinking.

And if the shrinkage continues, whole new continents may appear on the surface of the Earth, dividing the two oceans into a series of small seas.

But all this would take another billion years or more, according to Hans Pettersson, noted Swedish scientist who is Director of the Oceanographic Institute of Goteborg, Sweden.

The Earth may be following the planetary evolution that is suggested by a comparison with Venus and Mars, he said. Venus is probably still in a pre-oceanic stage, whereas Mars, the desert planet, may well have consumed its original share of water, drinking it into its crust or possibly squandering it into interplanetary space.

"This contrast," he continued, "makes us apprehend that our present oceanic splendor may be a transient stage and that the Earth is on its way towards a complete disiccation, ultimately approaching the Martian state."

Recent Big Fires

An all-time record number of "large loss fires" occurred in 1951. During the year there were 302 fires in the United States and Canada with individual losses of $250,000 or more which produced an aggregate loss of $213,310,000, a 40 per cent increase over the loss last year. This loss figure represents 24 per cent of the total fire loss in these two countries. The record number of large fires last year topped the previous all-time high set in 1948 by 34 fires and exceeded last year's total by 59. There were also 369 more fatalities in the 1951 large fires compared to 1950. Just as many large loss structural fires occurred in towns of less than 20,000 population (or in unincorporated areas) as in the larger cities of 20,000 or over. Ten per cent of all the large loss building fires occurred in unprotected areas.

Radio Waves

How far can radio waves penetrate into the ground? This will depend on many factors. The greater the wavelength (or the lower the frequency) of the waves, the more deeply they will penetrate. There is also a difference due to the conductivity of the earth, which may vary a hundred-fold, and its other electrical characteristics. With waves of several hundred meters length, similar to those used in broadcasting, it would probably be possible under some kinds of terrain to produce a measurable signal 50 to 75 feet underground, provided enough power were used in the transmitter. For a wavelength a thousand times as great the penetration would be much better, though it would be much more difficult to produce such waves.

Usage of Bicycle

At the start of 1952, the U.S. cycling population was well over the 20,000,000 mark. More and more youngsters and adults are taking up the sport for transportation, relaxation and exercise. A survey conducted by the Bicycle Institute of America, representing 90 per cent of the bicycle and parts manufacturers in the country, reveals that interest in bike-riding is keener now than during 1948 when over 2,700,000 wheels were sold.

Unlucky Musk Ox

A ship-wreck was responsible for the disappearance of musk ox from one of its best feeding grounds, Banks Island in the Canadian archipelago. Sir Robert McClure abandoned his ship on the shore of Banks Island and marched with his crew overland to safety. Eskimos discovered the ship and traveled from all parts of the Canadian arctic Archipelago to collect the iron in the wreck. Once on the island, they destroyed the abundant herds of musk oxen.

THE CARROLL RECORD COMPANY

of the roadway on the span is 186 1/2 feet above the main ship channel.

TRAFFIC: The Bay Bridge is designed to carry 1,500 vehicles an hour each way (the ferry average was 180 an hour), or 8,500,000 a year. Estimated traffic—a conservative prediction for the bondholders—is 1,100,000 vehicles the first year and 1,500,000 by 1961.

TOLLS: Tolls were set at the lowest figures recommended by an engineering firm which specializes in estimating traffic and revenue. The car passenger, pedestrian or bicycle rider will pay 25 cents. Automobiles will pay $1.40; two-axle vehicles, $2.25; busses on scheduled runs, $1.50, and unusual vehicles (such as trucks with five or more axles) $5.00.

STEEL: Sixty thousand tons of steel went into the Bay Bridge, more than it took to build the Empire State Building and more than it would take to build a double-track railway from New York to Baltimore. Besides the structural and other steel, 4,130 piles—62 miles of them—were driven.

CEMENT AND EARTH: It took 118,000 cubic yards of cement to build the bridge. This required 4,250,000 gallons of water brought from Baltimore by barge. A total of 2,538,000 cubic yards of earth was moved—enough to cover the entire length of the Ritchie Highway's four lanes to a depth of 15 feet.

LABOR: An estimated 6,500,000 man-hours at the site went into building of the bridge and this does not include off-site labor such as the construction at Sparrows Point of the huge steel pier forms.

BAY BOTTOM: Black, semi-liquid silt, 1 to 20 feet deep, except near the Eastern Shore where top is loose sand. Beneath this ooze there is gray silt or clay, to a maximum depth of 170 feet in an old river bed near the Eastern shore. Sand underneath the clay.

BIGGEST PIERS: The largest piers are Numbers 23 and 28—the piers in which the 122 suspension-span cables (each 4,000 ft. long) are anchored. To build Pier 23, for example, it took 600 piles—total length about 5 miles, and 16,000 cubic yards of concrete—enough to build 4 1/2 miles of 24-foot-wide road.

It took efficiency engineering, plus $82,000, to set up a toll-collecting system at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge as simple as possible for the motorist and as fool-proof as possible for the bondholders.

Experience at other bridges and on toll roads was invaluable in planning the cycle of collecting-counting-auditing.

Tolls will be paid at the west end of the bridge at five booths—placed so that they can work either east or west bound traffic, depending on the flow.

For the motorist it's merely a matter of driving up, paying the toll, getting change and driving on.

But this is big business and there's a lot more to it than that.

First of all, the automobile passes over a trestle as it pulls up to the booth, and this automatically counts the car and registers on a recorder in the administration building some distance away.

The trestle is fixed so that cars that back up and come forward again still register just once. Otherwise, dozens of more cars would be recorded each day than actually paid tolls over the bridge.

The next move is the toll maker. He first has to put the vehicle in one of nine classifications—ranging from the small car to trucks with five or more axles.

The classification gives the basic toll and to that he adds the 25 cent charge for each passenger.

Each booth has an ultra-modern cash register with 31 buttons. Ten are for recording vehicle classification (the tenth button is insurance against something new or weird showing up). Twenty are for registering the total amount charges and the 31st is the toll maker's eraser—it clears the machine if he makes a mistake.

The toll is rung up first and as it is the amount flashes on a light-board at the side of the booth, for the driver, and on another light board on top of the booth, for the bridge supervisor. Then the classification is punched.

The classification and the amount of the toll are registered, separately, on remote recorders in the administration building.

At the end of his shift, each toll taker puts the money he has collected in a vault. Within a few days accountants and auditors in Baltimore will have checked it against the number of vehicles, their classifications and the tolls paid.

The bridge will employ fourteen toll-takers and five toll-sergeants. All the toll-takers are being transferred from the ferry system and so have been at the collecting job for some years.

One last item—many motorists think the thin sprig of wire sticking up from the pavement at the toll booths is for counting the cars. Actually, it's there to bleed off the static electricity that builds up on a moving vehicle.

If it weren't for the wire there would be a spark and a shock with every toll.

Work started on Bridge Structure—November 3, 1949.

Length: Shore to shore, including Causeway - 22,990 ft. (4.35 miles). Bridge Structure - 21,286 (4.03 miles). Entire project, including approach roads - 40,800 ft. (7.727 miles). Suspension Bridge span over Balto. Ship Channel - 1,600 ft.

Width: Roadway width between curbs - 28 ft. Emergency footwalk, each side 1 1/2 ft.

Height: Roadway height above bay surface at Baltimore Ship Course 198 1/2 ft. Height of suspension bridge towers above bay surface - 354 ft.

Clearance: Horizontal clearance for ships under suspension bridge - 1,500 ft. Vertical clearance for ships under suspension bridge - 186 1/2 ft. Truss span over Eastern ship channel - 780 ft. Horizontal clearance for ships under Eastern channel - 690 ft. Vertical clearance for ships under Eastern channel - 63 ft.

Diameter of Suspension Bridge Cables - 14 inches.

Foundation: Reinforced concrete piers supported on steel piles driven into the bay bottom, the deepest piles penetrating 203 ft. below the bay water surface.

Superstructure: 123 fabricated steel spans. Span lengths range 60 feet to 1600 feet, consisting of beams, girders, simple trusses, cantilever trusses and cable suspension bridge. Bituminous roadway paving on reinforced concrete slab deck.

Approximate quantities of principal materials: 17,500 tons (4,130 piles) steel piling, 42,500 tons structural and other steel, 118,000 cubic yards cement concrete, 2,538,000 cubic yards earth movable, 151,400 tons slope protection stone.

Traffic Capacity: 1,500 vehicles per hour in one direction, 8,500,000 vehicles per year.

Estimated traffic: 1,100,000 vehicles annually in 1952 - increasing by 450,000 in 1961.

Estimated Cost of Project - $45,000,000.

Bridge Revenue Bonds Redeemable from Toll Proceeds

Note: The curve in the bridge alignment is necessary to comply with regulations determined by the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army in conjunction with the necessity of landing the bridge on favorable terrain. The regulations required the bridge to cross normal to the ship sailing course approximately 1 1/2 miles south of Sandy Point Light House.

INCREASED PAYMENTS OF SOCIAL SECURITY

About 1,455 people in Carroll County will receive higher social security payments as a result of the social security amendments which President Truman signed into law last Friday. The first increased checks will be for the month of September, delivered early in October.

Franklin M. Barnes, manager of the Baltimore North Social Security office, emphasized that no one needs to apply for the increased payments. "The Social Security Administration is already changing the amounts," he pointed out. "We expect to get them changed in time to have them in the mail October 3, the regular delivery date, but if in a few cases we don't meet that schedule we'll send the regular check and make up the difference in a later check."

Mr. Barnes pointed out that although nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker.

Under terms of the law, most families will get an increase of about $5; some will get less, some will get more. A few benefits now being paid, and most of those payable in the future, will be based on earnings after 1950 instead of after 1936. The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of the payments in these cases. Under it, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55 percent of the first $100 of his average monthly earnings plus 15 percent of the remainder up to $300.

Beginning September 1, the new law increased to $75 a month instead of $50 the amount of money a beneficiary may earn and still receive the monthly benefits. Self-employed people entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits may receive the payments for each month of the year if their net earnings during the entire year are not over $900.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have retired or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their old-age benefit payments. Now, those self-employed people who originally applied for benefits in 1952 may re-apply at the close of the taxable year and have their 1952 earnings used in figuring their monthly benefit payments. In general, this will increase the monthly benefit payment to self-employed persons.

A similar change in the law now permits insured wage earners who retire in 1952 to have their wages for this year used immediately in figuring the amount of their benefit payments. Heretofore, it was necessary for them to come back after the end of the year in order to have all of their covered wages for 1952 included in the computation of the benefit amount.

Another amendment allows beneficiaries aged 75 or over already on the rolls to take advantage of the higher benefit payments provided under the new formula, if they have had at least a year and a half of covered work after 1950.

The amended law allows social security wage credits of $160 for each month of active military or naval service after July 24, 1947. This provision is simply an extension of the one which already gives social security wage credits to servicemen of World War II. It applies to service in the armed forces up to Jan. 1, 1954.

Of advantage to the survivors of deceased service people is a provision in the amended law extending the time for claiming a lump-sum death payment. This applies to servicemen who died abroad and are later returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Survivors who pay the burial expenses may now claim reimbursement up to two years after the reburial instead of two years after the serviceman's death.

There is no great achievement that is not the result of patient working and waiting.—Josiah G. Holland.

Pick up nails and other bits of metal around the farmstead. You can patch a tire, but metal in a cow's stomach may cause death.

If a pasture is worn out and run down, plan to renovate it. Your County Agent will be glad to give you Agronomy Mimeo 16, "Pasture Renovation", that tells how to do it.

CARROLL COUNTY WELFARE BOARD

During the July meeting of the Carroll County Welfare Board, two new members were appointed to the Board. The terms of Mr. Herbert V. Anders, of Union Bridge, and Dr. R. S. McVaugh, of Taneytown, had expired in June. The new appointments made by the County Commissioners were Mr. Murray Baumgardner, of Taneytown, and Dr. M. C. Porterfield, of Hampstead.

Mr. Charles O. Fisher was reelected Chairman of the Board at this meeting and Mr. James Shilling will serve as the County Commissioner member for the next year.

The Board passed favorably on allowances to assistance recipients for payment of premiums on small amounts of insurance held for burial and on allowances up to fifty cents monthly for supplies for school children. These two items will be granted in budgets beginning August 1st.

The second quarter expenditures for 1952 were $47,345.40 for all assistance, services and administration. This figure is $250.56 higher than the first quarter of 1952. In June 308 individuals and families were given assistance and 47 were given other types of services.

The Board then reviewed a report prepared by the Director, Wm. H. Koelber, on all the expenditures and all the new applications during the month of June. The Board regularly reviews all such new applications whether assistance is given or not at each of their monthly meetings.
