REGULAR MEETING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION

E. E. Stuller Awarded Contract on Sykesville School Project

The December meeting of the Board of Education of Carroll County was held in the county offices on Dec. 4, 1952. The Board approved the minutes of the meeting of Nov. 12 and ordered approval of current bills.

The Board accepted the resignations of Mrs. Betty Smith Dotson, Johnsville Elementary School, and Mrs. Goldie Boyle, Charles Carroll Elementary School.

Approval was given to the appointment of Evelyn Sheppard, Johnsville Elementary School; Margaret Frederick to the Westminster Junior High School; Approval was also given to the reassignment of Luther F. Sies, Westminster to a teaching position upon his release from the armed forces Jan. 1, 1953.

The Board accepted the resignation of Tilden Barnes, custodian of the Elmer Wolfe School and the appointment of Alton Biddinger of Union Bridge to this position.

Bids were opened at this meeting on the proposed school addition and remodeling on the Sykesville building. This project had been readvertised during Nov. and new bids requested. Bids received were: Allen F. Feeser, Taneytown, $208,000.00; O. H. Hostetter, Hanover, $204,000.00; E. E. Stuller, Taneytown, $202,000.00. After consideration action was taken by the Board of Education to accept the lowest bid, that of Mr. E. E. Stuller and to submit a request to the County Commissioners at once for additional appropriations needed. The superintendent was directed to negotiate immediately for this approval and to prepare contracts promptly, if approval is given so that work can be started without further delay. The beginning of the project depends at this time entirely on approval by the Commissioners and the appropriation of funds in 1953-54 budget for this purpose.

The Board gave approval to the school budget for 1953-54 and directed that copies be prepared at once for submission to the County Commissioners by December 15, 1952 for their approval. The budget included funds for capital outlay to enable progress to be made on the Sykesville building and other needed school projects. It also included funds for current expense operation of schools in 1953-54 as well as funds for reduction of bonded debt and payment of interest. It is hoped that full approval will be given to the budget so that school service may be maintained and needed expansion be to some extent realized. The Board also approved a projected building program for Carroll County Schools as follows:

- (a) Completion of Sykesville project in 1953.
 - (b) Providing school facilities for high school pupils in the Manchester-Hampstead, Md.
 - (c) Providing additional elementary school facilities in Freedom District.
 - (d) Providing major additions to elementary school plants at Westminster.
 - (e) Providing additional accommodations for junior high pupils at Westminster.
 - (f) Providing auditorium-cafeteria facilities at Mount Airy, Union Bridge and New Windsor.
 - (g) Planning and providing of facilities where needed, for increased vocational education offerings and special classes for retarded pupils.
- The Board discussed the serious problems confronting them at this time especially with respect to crowded, inadequate buildings and rapidly increasing enrollment.
- Adjournment was at 4:45 p. m.

THIS 'N' THAT

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!

I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Mink coats, everyone racing by either in cars or on the sidewalks, strained expressions, the T.V. shows and just gobs and gobs of food in every window and at all hours of the day or night, the cafes are crowded—that's New York!

For the outsider it truly takes about seven or eight days to see New York and as Your Observer only had three days of it last year at Thanksgiving went back this year to finish the trip. (For more sight seeing) for this column.

Upon placing the car in a garage, the Thanksgiving parade of Macy's Department store (just as Hochschild's have it in Baltimore) was coming down Broadway and the pavements were covered with the children and (mainly fathers) getting just as big a kick out of the affair as their small fry. It lasted three hours!

Taking the Bus for the last sight-seeing trip (which we could not fill in last year) was to the Bowery and Chinatown. The new young guide—a college man explained it all in every detail. The story of sightseeing is the story of New York. The phenomenal growth of the city has made New York the Mecca for the tourist from Maine to California and from every part of the world. That city is truly the most fabulous, fascinating city on earth with its fine theatres Opera House, large department stores tallest buildings, fine hotels, greatest subway systems and hundreds of points of interest which have made it the goal of every visitor.

Arriving in Chinatown, we were requested to visit the Tien Sang Curio Shop, which is one of the oldest and we browsed around purchasing little souvenirs at very nominal prices. This shop has been one of the official stops for the sightseeing buses for the last 45 years. The wife—Elsie Wu of the proprietor is one of the most beautiful of Chinese women I have ever seen. Chinatown consists mainly of three small streets which are narrow and crooked ones known as Mott, Pell and Doyers. It has a population of 7,500 of which about 2,000 are women. Chinatown today is as peaceable and safe as any section in the city but many years ago, the corner of Pell and Doyers Streets was known as the bloody angle. It was the scene of much rivalry between the two large On Leong and Hip Sing Societies.

It was in this section many years ago that Irving Berlin got his first start as singing waiter and piano player and where he was inspired to write, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" the very first ragtime song ever written and which soon was on everyone's lips humming the catchy tune.

EISENHOWER IN KOREA

General Eisenhower has been to Korea. He has seen the military situation from a command post viewpoint and sensed the indomitable spirit of the Korean people. To what extent, how soon, or in what manner he and his military and civilian advisers can supply a formula for conquering the difficulties of this stalemated war only future events can determine.

"The boys all hope 'Ike' can do something," an American lieutenant is quoted as telling a newsman. "But they aren't expecting miracles."

Various correspondents have attested that the morale of the United Nations troops in Korea is high. At least one experienced observer considered it better than among civilians in the United States. But men at or near the front know also the grim, bunkered hills behind which wait the Communist Chinese.

The first step in solving a hard problem obviously is to learn as much as possible about it. That the President-designate of the United States is doing.

Only a small portion of the information involved is to be gathered on the freezing Korean hills, but several memories of Mr. Eisenhower's three days there will inevitably remain with him after he takes office in Washington on January 20. Recollections of a sergeant, corporal, and "pfc" eating pork chops with him in his old regiment, the Fifteenth. Of soldiers from 15 nations marching in review before him at First Corps headquarters. Of President Syngman Rhee avowing that South Koreans still will make any sacrifice for full independence.

Even if General Eisenhower has ideas now for a definite change of strategy in hope of driving the war against aggression to a definite conclusion or in hope of withdrawing some American forces, he is scarcely likely to try to initiate such changes before his inauguration. And to form the plans, write the directives, move the men, establish the contacts, and provide the material for a major military move by air, naval, or ground forces is a labor of months.

So, too, is the diplomatic work to be done if any significant change of direction is to have the continued understanding and cooperation of the nations which from the first have joined with the United States to make the repelling of unprovoked attack not merely an American but a UN matter.

General Eisenhower indicated he is very conscious of the importance of this factor when he emphasized at his press conference in Seoul that "we're all engaged in a common enterprise," and that a plan must be sought "that would bring a positive and definite victory without possibly running grave risk of enlarging the war."

This is a large order. Surely neither General Eisenhower nor any of his close associates will pretend that it is an easy one. But his approach to the question—his simple statement, "We came over to learn"—will encourage hope. Many Americans will echo the confidence of an Irish sergeant in the British Commonwealth Division, "If anybody can end it, General Eisenhower can."

FEESERSBURG

We hope the parents of Carroll County's school children have read or will read the series of articles on public education in the county prepared by S. M. Jenness, Superintendent of schools, under the leadership of the Board of Education. What the articles contain is enlightening, but what they omit, is even more interesting, if somewhat disturbing to the followers of the John Dewey school of thought. We can best sum up our reaction by quoting Dr. Jean Loiseau, of the University of Bordeaux, who after visiting some of the huge modern city school buildings in the United States, complete with all the comforts of a modern home, somewhat hesitatingly remarked: "In France all we have is the teaching." What are the schools for? I believe that they are designed to do two things: to pass on the culture and to help the young to grow into their adult role. Which will perform this duty? Modern buildings or good teachers? If one studies the reports of Mr. Jenness one can readily understand that our educational system is top heavy with the school performing the duties that the parents should assume themselves. Good nutrition and high sanitary standards should be the concern of parents and not the school authorities. We know, of course that there are many neglected and underprivileged children and it is necessary for someone to step in and take over responsibility when parents fail. It is right and good that the schools have offered health service and cafeteria lunches, but one must not lose sight of the fact that schools are created to teach the mind of our young. If teachers are burdened with other duties other than teaching, then indeed will the future generations grow up to be concerned chiefly with the physical aspects of living, rather than the intellectual growth toward maturity.

This thought is addressed to husbands. If you have been in the habit of giving your wife money for a Christmas present don't do it this year. If a woman has the choice of a hundred dollar bill or a five dollar gift, selected and wrapped by her husband, she will prefer the gift. The reason? Women are sentimental and the thought that her husband took the time and trouble to pick out a gift, no matter what it is, means ten times more than cash value. The excuse of most men is that they don't know what to buy. There are three gifts that any woman, no matter what age will welcome with star dust in her eyes. One is good perfume, another is a good handbag, preferably alligator (hope my husband reads this) and last but by no means least, something glamorous for her house. But remember, anything selected and wrapped by the husband will be loved and will receive first honors under the tree.

The young people of Mt. Union Lutheran church are rehearsing for their annual Christmas program which will be presented Dec. 21st in the church. The public is cordially invited.

Visitors at Merry Knoll Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. David Bowers and daughter, Audrey; Tom Robinson, Mrs. Russell Bohn and Mrs. Clarence Myers.

Union Bridge has placed the names of the streets on attractive markers and placed them at convenient spots. It gives the town a grown up look with a bit of cosmopolitan flavor added. Under capable leadership much has been accomplished in the community during the past few months. In acquiring the new fire engine, it was demonstrated so clearly once again, that under the proper guidance, a community will respond generously to a civic project. It is hoped that this leadership will endorse a youth center for the community with the same urgency that was focused on the fire apparatus.

The editors of the V.F.W. Magazine are to be congratulated upon publishing in the December issue an article by Justice Michael A. Musmanno, of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, titled "That Man Chambers". It is the first article that I have read anywhere that asks the same question that has puzzled this reporter ever since the Hiss trial. It is this: Why is it that Alger Hiss is serving a prison sentence of five years for treason (although technically his conviction was for perjury) while Whittaker Chambers, for who, by his own confession in his book "Witness", reveals himself to not only free but is building up a sizeable bank account from the confession of his odious chime? What is most revolting to many is the fact that so much misconception has arisen in the public mind around Chambers and Hiss. The only reason Chambers testified against Hiss as Judge Musmanno points out was to save his own skin for sooner or later he knew his true self would be revealed. Make no mistake Whittaker Chambers is a clever person. His book has taken in many notable persons who should know better, but it seems that no matter what a person is or what he has done, if he confesses or uses the instrument of religion to appease his soul then he is forgiven by the American public. Using Judge Musmanno's words, "Chambers is anything but an admirable character, intellectually, morally, spiritually or civically." Using my own words more bluntly, "It is with much unhappiness that one must live to see our beloved and beautiful Carroll County become the refuge and haven of one that has contributed so little for our beloved county, but done so much to undermine the very foundation of our government and created so much distrust of each other in the minds of all citizens. Not until history has stretched into the distant future can one ever be sure but that the Chambers-Hiss trial, the recent book "Witness" and the now recent role of ex-Communist played by Chambers is not all part of a devilish plot to destroy America from within as is so commonly boasted by all good communists. It could well be a plot with in a plot."

"Yes" said the old man, "I have had some terrible disappointments but none stands out over the years like the one that came to me as a boy." "And what was that?" queried the interested listener. "When I crawled under a tent to see a circus—and discovered it was a revival meeting."

A letter from Korea tells us that the boys were served a traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner, but it didn't taste like home-cooked dinners; that the Chinese Reds dropped leaflets saying "Happy Thanksgiving Day! We're going to send you a surprise. They did—about 300 rounds of mortar and artillery shells. At least the Chinese have a sense of humor even if it's on the grisly side.

There is no substitute for kindness that springs from the heart for God so willed it that only from man's inner-self does this humane quality flow.—Ruth Roelke.

THIS 'N' THAT (Continued from First Page) Mott Street which only occupies about five feet. 12-12-52

No story of sightseeing would be complete without Tom Noonan. He was a man over six feet tall, angular and soft spoken. He served two sentences in Sing Sing prison for forgery and after his second term, he realized that he could not beat the law and decided to settle down and become a law-abiding citizen. He became self educated while in prison and very religious. He then was determined to do something for his fellow man when he was released. He saw that corruption, disease, drunkenness and lack of education in poverty-stricken areas were breeding places for crime. He took a trip to the Bowery and saw hundreds of men who were down and out, ragged, hungry and homeless just as they are today and which one sees as they gaze out from the sightseeing bus which the guide explains as we travel along. There was an old theatre in this Chinese section which had been closed for many years which then became one of the largest opium dens in the country underneath the building which the Police discovered which was then closed up until Tom Noonan opened it as a Mission in 1908. He called it, "The Rescue Society Mission." In the years that followed, many in fact thousands of homeless men have visited and slept in that Mission. Many have been converted. It is nothing unusual to find as many as 500 men occupying the sleeping quarters. In 1935 Tom Noonan died as he had lived, loved and respected by everyone. The Mission is now in the capable hands of the Rev. Dr. Kinsey of Washington, D. C., who is following the footsteps of Tom Noonan. The Bowery is surely "The Street of Forgotten Men" and in many days gone by was the farm and estate of Peter Scuyvesant's. It is here in this section that the "down and out" can be given a pigeon hole room to sleep for 25 cents. It was here in this section that the popular Al Smith was Christened. The Little Church Around The Corner between Madison and Fifth Avenues is still right there and performing about 1,300 ceremonies of marriage yearly. The story of how it really got its name many years ago when a pastor in another local church refused burial services to George Holland, an actor and suggested to Joseph a friend that he try the Little Church Around The Corner, and it has been known by that name ever since! There is so much about New York, folks that I could go on for week after week for this column. So long, folks until next week DV. Have a grand week-end. Drive slowly and carefully for then you will enjoy it much more! I am, Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER. 12-12-52

There is one store by the name of S. Klein which does not employ any salespeople and as you select the merchandise you desire as you are about to leave the store the merchandise is wrapped for you and there you pay at the same time! Nice? Ladies, a very popular bag right now is the amazing replica of the fabulous French Petit-Point Bag which are machine-loomed in France. After an examination even an expert would find it difficult to distinguish them from hand-made originals which would cost at least ten times as much as they are asking right now—$5.95 plus the tax of course. They make grand Christmas gifts and can be purchased now at all the leading department stores. 12-12-52

Powerful book

You'll never see this volume on a best seller list, but it makes many people speechless. It is the book on which the telephone receiver caught when someone finished a call on his party line. Because the receiver wasn't replaced properly, his, and every other telephone on the party line, was out of service. When your call is completed, be certain you replace the receiver. This little extra care helps give you and your neighbors better party-line service.

Untouched by human hands

Bell Laboratories again is doing research on national defense equipment. Recently it developed a complex electronic control for guided missiles. The control system tracks enemy aircraft by radar. It feeds the information to a computing device which plots a course for the missile and guides it to its target. The telephone, while not as spectacular, is just as important an instrument of national defense. It aids production and it links civil defense and military installations.

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 14
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 27:1-6

Fear or Faith

Lesson for December 14, 1952

"FEAR was the first creator of Gods," wrote a long-ago Roman poet. This was more or less true of all religions he could have known about. It is also true of most religions around the world.

An ex-Buddhist who had once trained for the priesthood in his own religion, said of his childhood, "All I knew was that there were 800 gods and I was afraid of them all."

The characteristic feature of most religions is the appeasement of angry, capricious or vengeful gods. Sometimes the terror is without rhyme or reason, as in the case of the Buddhist boy just quoted. Sometimes the terror has a moral base and reason, as the great Greek poet Aeschylus portrays in his plays—the terrors of a man of guilty conscience fleeing from the gods who do not forget nor forgive.

What Makes Men Afraid?

In Matthew's story we have illustrations of what men fear. Herod, for example, was a superstitious man. He was afraid of John the Baptist, and later afraid of Jesus because he thought he might be John again, risen from the grave. Herod was an example of the man who fears whatever he does not understand. A horse will shy at a piece of paper more than at more dangerous things. Horses nowadays pass cars (or rather, cars pass them!) and the horse does not so much as prick an ear; but in the days when cars were rare, horses would go wild at the very sight or sound of one.

Dr. Foreman

People are like that; grown men are often no more than grown-up children, still afraid of the dark. Then Herod also is an illustration that men are as it were afraid of their own shadows. That is to say, as Shakespeare puts it, "Conscience doth make cowards of us all." Or as the Psalmist said long before Shakespeare: "The wicked flee when no man pursueth."

Many of our fears would never exist if we had lived as we ought to have lived. Men live in fear of exposure, fear of blackmail, fear of failure and defeat, often through no one's fault but their own. Then the disciples too were afraid. They were not superstitious, they were not haunted by their sins, but they were afraid in the storm, they feared the wind and waves.

Why Christians Are Brave

Students of the Bible have discovered that the word "fear" is usually tied there to another word: Not. Fear not, is one key-note of both Old and New Testaments. The reason for this is plain. Christianity is the religion of love: love to God, love to one's neighbor. Not mere good will or kindly feeling, but active, self-forgetful love. "There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear," as St. John said.

Old writers, commenting on the story of Peter's sinking in the sea, have said that if he had kept his mind on Jesus instead of on himself and on the storm-tossed waves, he would not have cried out, "I perish." Certain it is that when we are self-centered we are sure to be tormented with fear, for we are always thinking what may happen to us—and of course plenty can.

If we keep our minds on our work and on the fact that God is our Father, if we remember morning, noon and night that the God who "so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son" is the same God who created this universe and controls it, then we shall not be scourged with fears.

Courageous Christians

It is a tremendous mistake to think that Christianity is only for rabbit people, for mice and not men. Christ does something for even such persons, it is true; he takes them clear out of themselves. Remember the long roll of the early Christian martyrs, very humble people most of them, who died horrible deaths rather than deny their Master; remember such saints as the missionaries who converted our own savage ancestors, at great peril to their own lives; remember the missionaries of our own time, some of them suffering torture and all of them distress, yet not giving up. The ordinary Christian missionary has more to be afraid of than most of the rest of us have; yet he has less fear. He knows God too well.

NEW VETERINARIAN FOR THIS COMMUNITY

Dr. Robert A. Leonard has recently purchased the property of Captain Jere C. Schaefer on the Harney-Emmitsburg Rd. and is now establishing a general veterinary practice in the areas surrounding Taneytown.

Dr. Leonard studied in the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University for three years then attended the College of Veterinary Medicine for two years. At that time, he interrupted his schooling and enlisted in the army. After serving in the armed forces for over three years, two of which were spent in Europe during World War II, Dr. Leonard returned to Ohio State University for two more years to graduate in Veterinary Medicine in 1949.

Upon graduating he became engaged in managing a large race horse and cattle farm in Ohio; then coming to Maryland, he became associated in a general veterinary practice with Dr. I. W. Frock, of Reisterstown with whom he has worked for the past two years. Here he specialized primarily in cattle and horse work.

For the present Dr. Leonard will practice from his home, and anyone wishing the services of a veterinarian may reach him by phoning Taneytown 3513.

School-examinations are one sided; it is not so much academic education, as a moral and spiritual culture, which lifts one higher.—Mary Baker Eddy.
