MAYORS MEET

Discussion of Town Problems and Proposed Legislation

Mayor Raymond J. Perry and the City Council of Taneytown had as their guests Tuesday evening Mayor Donald Rice, of Frederick, Mayor R. Earl Carter, of Sykesville, Mayor Henry C. Krantz, Jr., and Councilman Dennis Corrick of Mount Airy, Mayor George Hoover, of New Windsor, D. Thomas Legg, Mayor of Union Bridge; Mayor William Lester Wheeler and Councilman Homer Twigg, of Hampstead and Edward Makay Johnson, Executive Secretary of the Mary-Executive Secretary of the Maryland Municipal League.

The purpose of this meeting was to discuss mutual problems and especially the proposed legislation currently being introduced into the Maryland Legislature. Recently the Governor appointed outstanding men of the State to study various phases of State Government and to recommend corrective measures. This committee was known as the Sobeloff Commission and it is interesting to note that the City Attorney, Judge F. Neal Parke is a member. The recommendations of this commission are being introduced into Legislature and it was this Legislation that the group discussed. Mr. Edward Johnson of the Mary-

LETTER FROM

Proceedings of Our State Legislature Reported

To the Editor, The Carroll Record, Taneytown, Md.

Dear Sir: With your permission, and the toleration of your subscribers, I would like again to report on the state-wide and local legislation presented at the General Assembly of Maryland during this current three month session.

Although the legislators formally met on Wednesday, January 7th, it was not until the 12th that the first business was transacted.

The House of Delegates met and organized without difficulty. In the Senate the picture was entirely different. Of the 29 members of the Senate 18 are Democrats and 11 are Republicans. At the Democratic caucus it developed that nine of the eighteen were in revolt against the existing Democratic leadership in the State. The other nine were for these leaders.

I might explain that the fight was not against George Della, candidate for President of the Senate of the organization Democrats, or against Ferdinand Sybert, candidate of the Independent Group.

The nine Independent Senators were reflecting a statewide revolt against the leadership of such persons as Arthur Brice, Millard Tawes, H. C. (Curley) Byrd, Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, Joseph Wyatt, E. Brooke Lee and other prominent figures in the Democratic Party.

The only top ranking supporters the Independent Senators had were Jack Pollack and George Mahoney, neither of which appeared to be too welcome by the forces they were trying to

Although the fight between the two Democratic groups was both determined and deep rooted it was, strangely enough, completely impersonal and without acrimony.

Both in caucus and on the floor of the Senate there were practically no speeches, no explanations, no name calling and no evidence of personal bitterness. Just a cold and grim determination by each group not to give

There were roll-call votes by the dozens, both in and out of caucus. The result never changed.

By the end of the week both sides acknowledged that the eleven Republicans carried the balance of power in the Senate. And both sides were definite working agreement.

No matter which faction the Republican Senators join there will be further proof that "politics makes strange bedfellows." Until next week, I am

Sincerely, STANFORD HOFF.

ODD FELLOWS BANQUET

On Thursday evening of this week Taney Lodge No. 28, I. O.O. F., of Taneytown, enjoyed a banquet that was well attended by the members with their wives, and other guests, and served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Harney Lutheran Church, in the Parish Hall there.

With Past Grand, Walter Hilterbrick, as toastmaster presiding, the festivities began with the invocation by Bro. Thomas M. Jefferson.

A delicious dinner of roast chicken and all of the accompanying dishes was served in abundance and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A male quartette consisting of Mr. Delmont Koons, Mr. Edgar Fink, Mr. Harry Mohney and Mr. Elmer Schildt, with Mrs. Jean Harmon at the piano, sang a number of selections very entertainingly. The Grand Lodge Officers who were present and spoke were: Grand Master, Samuel P. Carey; Grand Secretary, Thomas M. Jefferson; Grand Herald, Elmer Willingham; Grand Chaplain, Merywn C. Fuss, and President of the Rebekah Assembly, Mrs. Blanche Carey, who is also the wife of the Grand Master. The meeting closed with the bene-

Another will be scheduled in sixty days as that townspeople and those days, so that townspeople and those living in the vicinity of Taneytown will keep on backing the troop if they continue saving newspapers and other scrap items, including iron.

WINTER CAMPING TRIP

The most unusual of recent explorr activities was a camping trip to the Tumbling Run leanto along the Appalachian Mountain Trail near Old Forge Park December 26-28. The cold snap of that period did not "phase" the hardy souls who ventured out from this older-boy group—Stanley F. Frock, adviser; Robert Bowers, senior crew leader; Larry Eckard, deputy; John Perry, leader of crew 2; and William Abrecht, Jr., and Wilbur Thomas, crew 2 members. The hours seemed all teachers for cetting wood. seemed all too short for getting wood, keeping the fire, and cooking, but a sightseeing jaunt along the trail as far as Chimney Rock was enjoyed, as well as a Waynesboro movie. FIRST AID THEME

First aid is stressed for a January theme in both explorer and scout meetings with Larry Martin to contine this subject before explorers on Monday, January 19. He also last week, set up a pingpong tournament won by Robert Fuss, with Robert Robert the warmen up. Bowers the runner-up.

The scoutmaster assigned phases of second class and first class first aid to be studied by those scouts present at last Thursday's young-boy meeting and creditable demonstrations were given after patrol sessions by Robert Fitz on artificial respiration, by Wil-liam Pittinger on fainting and shock, Grant Harman on sunstroke Ronald Hopkins frostbite, and Peter Westine internal poisoning. Judges of their accuracy were explorers Larry Eckard and Larry Martin.

A final call is issued for all members to take part in the paper collection Saturday, January 17, meeting at the scout hall by 8:45 a. m.

MEMBERSHIP NOW AT 285 The membership committee has revealed that the total active member-ship of the elementary P.-T. A. is now 285, which is the highest in the history of this organization. Since this represents approximately 50% of the parents of the school's present enrollment of 421, the P.-T. A. is a very representative group. It is hoped that those parents not belonging will join before the school year is over.

CLASSES TO OBSERVE INAUGURATION

Because of the importance of the inauguration on January 20, and because school pupils only experience a few such events during their school careers, teachers are making an ef-fort to have every pupil to either see the ceremony on television or hear it on the radio. Several classes have been invited by interested parents to come to homes and view the event on TV. Any additional offers for a group, either small or large, would be welcomed. In order to carry out this special program, lunches will not be served in the cafeteria on Tuesday. All pupils should therefore bring lunch from home.

WITH THE 40th INFANTRY DIV. IN KOREA

Charles E. Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barnhart, Taneytown, was recently promoted to sergeant first-class while serving in Korea with the 40th Infantry Division.

The outfit arrived in Korea early last year after intensive field training in Japan. Sfc. Barnhart, a mess steward in Headquarters Company of the 223rd Infantry Regiment, arrived in Korea last June. He was employed by the Model Steam Bakery in Taneytown before entering the Army in July 1950.

GOVERNOR MCKELDIN MAKES REPORT

Message Given this Week to the General Assembly

Governor McKeldin this week called apon the General Assembly to enact a $568,000,000 twelve-year program of road construction and reconstruction, a salary increase system for school teachers and several proposals for the mprovement of government in Mary-The Governor's State-of-the-State

Message prepared for delivery on the Constitutoinal opening day of the Legislative session—January 7— was postponed until this week while the Assembly awaited the organization of the Senate, delayed by an even division in the ranks of the Democratic majority

The Chief Executive told the lawmakers that the financial condition of the State is a healthy one, and that the tax reduction of the current fiscal year could have been recommended for repetition except for the necessity of increasing the salaries of State employees and the recommendations of an official Commission for a larger State contribution to teachers' slaries.

"Not only is the salary increase well deserved by these loyal State employees," said the Governor, "but indeed it is necessary in the face of everyday living costs and of our competition for personnel with other units of government and private employees.

Mr. McKeldin said that care of the mentally ill "is continuing to receive high priority" in State spending, and high priority" in State spending, and that much of next year's costs will be due to the staffing of facilities authorized during the previous administration. He expressed the hope, however, that a new emphasis on rehabilitation will hasten the time "when there will be no necessity for the building and staffing of expensive additions to our mental hospital plant."

In the realm of tuberculosis treatment, he said, the State will be prepared, when the presently authorized construction is completed, to provide immediate hospital care for every case immediate hospital care for every case discovered, and that the State soon shall "have almost complete control over this historic plague.".

In the State's treatment of chronic ailments, he said, it has been discovered that in many cases where patients were considered permanently bedridden, cures or partial cures are possible. Construction and additions to chronic disease hospitals, he stated, are helical executions and control of the construction and additions to chronic disease hospitals, he stated, are being accelerated.

The roads program anticipated 3,450 miles of new construction and reconstruction, financed by bond issues, a 1-cent increase in the gasoline tax, and higher vehicle registration fees. The counties will benefit in their own road construction and maintenance since the additional revenue will give them larger income for that purpose from State collections.
The Governor said

salary bill provides "the vehicle for a studied and scientific division of finan-cial responsibility" between the State and its subdivisions "which will guarantee equalization and make available to every child a minimum foundation program of education regardless of where the child may live. Constitutional amendments to en-large municipal home rule, and to im-

LADIES' AUXILIARY MEETING

A delicious covered dish supper was enjoyed last Thursday evening by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Co. Thirty members and one guest were present. When everyone was seated, Mrs. Garber was presented a lovely bouquet of mixed flowers for her wedding anniversary, by the Auxiliary.

After the supper, the regular meetng was held with the President, Mrs. | Garber presiding. There was presentation of the flags by the color bearers and pledge to the flag; Scripture and prayer was given by the Chap-lain; reading of minutes and thank you notes read by the secretary. A banquet will be served Jan. 18 to the Legion Auxiliary by the Auxiliary. Anyone who can help is to report to the Firemen's hall. Mrs. Garber reported that there is a membership drive on. Prizes to be awarded. The drive will end October. The treasurer's report was given.

It was decided that refreshments did not have to be served at every meeting. There could be games or other entertainment. This is left entirely to the social committee who serves each month.

The social committee for Feb. is Mrs. Ruth Sauble, Chm.; Mrs. Hilda Feeser, Mrs. Ruth Baumgardner, Mrs. Anna Mae Crebbs and Mrs. Gladys

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Harrisville, Pa. Mr. Editor:
Through the kindness of Rev. Enfield, who is pastor of the Presbyterian church in this village, I was given a copy of the Carroll Record, and was delighted to receive the same. It was a very welcome visitor, for it was in the vicinity of Harney and Taneytown that I spent my youthful days. Many of my friends and associates have passed to the Great Beyond, but there still resides in your town ,some of my friends with whom I was intimately acquainted. Many can recall the time I taught in the public schools, namely

Oak Grove, Pine Hill and Hobson

Following this, I entered the ministry, where I labored for about thirtyfive years, retiring from same about five years ago, the last few years acting as supply pastor. Am now residing with my daughters, Marian Barnes and Hilda Eakin, probably a few people can remember them when they were small girls.. Am enclosing one dollar for subscription to your interesting paper, for it is like receiving a letter from home. With every assurance for a prosperous year, to my friends, personnel and Editor of The Record, I anxiously await the re-ceipt of the next copy of your valuable paper. REV. H. O. HARNER, Harrisville, Pa. Butler Co.

A PROGRAM FOR SURVIVAL

The commentators and columnists have been speculating on what Mr. Eisenhower's government fiscal policy will be. The consensus, based on his statements and those of his close advisors, runs about as follows:

Spending will be cut in every possible direction. Waste and non-essentials will be curbed. Every effort will be made to balance the budget immediately. Once that is done, taxes will be reduced both for businesses and individuals. There is a possibility that the so-called excess-profits tax will be abandoned entirely when the current law expires next June. This tax, most economists agree, is an unfair and dangerous burden on businessand most especially on the smaller business, which is deprived of funds needed for growth purposes.

That, so far as one can see now, will be the Eisenhower program. It is the only kind of program that can be trusted to save this country from bankruptcy. No nation-no matter how wealthy and how well supplied with resources-and no system of government can forever survive official corruption and deficits in the national treasury.-Industrial News Re-

SHELDON, IOWA, MAIL: "The American Farm Bureau in its annual convention at Seattle-called for the restriction of federal entry into the power business to instances where private interprise or state or local government were not able or willing to handle the job ... All in all their revolutions seemed based upon the soundest business judgment and they are very encouraging".

VENTURA, CALIF., COUNTY NEWS: "The people spoke..not just for a change in political leadership, but for a change-of-course for the Ship of State. No more of this fairly effortless running-free, they said, let's come about, into the wind, trim our sails and drive her....This was the mandate to Ike. It was more than that. It was likewise a mandate to ourselves-to roll up our sleeves and our bell-bottomed trousers and turn-to for the new skipper".

BOSTON, MASS., QUINCY PA-TRIOT LEDGER: "The press has sometimes been criticized for squawking too much about their own freedom. But it is not their own freedom in question, it is the freedom of the people to have a press which can give them all the facts on the news of the day without being subject to censorship."

WANTED

The Taneytown office of Strout Realty, under management of R. L. Zentz, received nation-wide recognition for the large volume of sales amounting to $296,275.00 for the year 1951. Even though property was moving slower during 1952 the volume of sales by the Taneytown Office nearly equalled that of the previous year. The large Fall Strout Catalog boosted up the year-end sales of past year. Soon the new large spring catalog will be off the press and distributed to prospective purchasers throughout the world. To meet our present demand for spring occupancy, and also the large flow of buyers this new catalog is expected to produce, we need at once many reasonably priced dairy and stock farms and many small country places in the sections of Reisterstown, Westminster, Hampstead, Manchester, Silver Run, New Windsor, Taneytown, Mt. Airy, Libertytown, Frederick and

The sprightly little railroad magazine, Tracks, tells about a green young fireman who was assigned to assist the crankiest old engineer on

While the engine was backed up on a siding to take on water, the engineer watched the apprentice bring down the spout in good order, but then get his foot caught in a chain, and go sprawling into the tank of the tender with a loud splash.

The engineer reminded him, with just the hint of a chuckle, "We just want to fill up with water, Sonny. No need to tamp it down.

Morning Strength

My husband always hides behind the newspaper at breakfast. Most husbands do. They need a cup of coffee to steady their nerves before they look at their wives.

THE RIGHT WORD

After the publication of one of his books, it was rumored that Rudyard Kipling received 25 cents per word for his work. When this came to the attention of a rival author who received only a fraction of this rate, he could not resist writing Kipling

"Dear Sir," he worte, "I understand that you are paid 25 cents a word for your literary efforts. Your words must indeed be words of wisdom to command such a fabulous rate. Enclosed you will find a money order of 25 cents. Please send me one such word by return mail."

Kipling, equal to the occasion, promptly complied. The word he enclosed was "thanks."

MORE MUSIC? MORE FOOD!

Composer Frederic Chopin was invited to dinner at the home of a noblewoman who expected her artistic guests to perform for their meals.

Chopin was in the middle of the first course when his hostess asked him to play. Annoyed, the compos-er gulped his food, marched over to the piano, played a couple of notes and then returned to the table.

"Is that all you are going to play?" demanded the hostess. "Madam," replied the composer apologetically, "I have eaten so little!"

Too Small

The small apartments of today are ideal for young married couples. They have no room for argument.

GETTING AN EDUCATION Two workmen, on their day off, decided to go to the zoo. As they were going through, one of them, who weighed 310, suddenly yelled: "I'll beat that guy Shorty to death!"

"What's the matter?" asked his companion.

"The bum called me a hip-

"Gosh," replied the other. "I heard him call you that . . . it must have been six months ago. Why get all hot about it now?" "I just seen a hippopotamus for the first time!"

OF COURSE MY RANGE IS ELECTRIC!

Why should the stove I use at home be less modern than the machine I use at the plant?

Like a lot of married couples today, both my husband and I work. Believe me, that makes keeping house and getting meals pretty complicated.

When you have a job in a plant you get used to modern methods, efficient machinery and the quickest, easiest way of doing things. I guess that started me thinking about home problems and how I could make things easier.

Joe-my husband-and I talked it over and decided that if modern machinery is good in a plant it ought to be good at home. Of course, the word modern suggested electric and that's how we got interested in an electric range.

It was the best buy we ever made. Now I can fix a meal before we go to work in the morning, put it in the oven, set the automatic controls and have a hot dinner ready when we come home at night. Besides, it has cut down a lot on my cleaning time and saved me money.

If you want your kitchen to be a modern, efficiently run working place then your choice will be an electric range.

Wedding bells rang out for one of our popular young ladies near this place; when on Saturday Miss Dottie Morelock became the bride of Mr. Robert Waddell, of Taneytown. The wedding took place at 2 o'clock in Baust E. & R. church with the bride's pastor conducting the ceremony. In the evening a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gruver Morelock with Mrs. Ray Dukehart and Miss Betty Morelock as the hostesses. The happy couple left on a wedding trip to Syracuse, N. Y. We wish for them a long and happy life of wedded bliss.

Birthdays and obituaries are as far apart as life and death, but this week they are as closely related as kissing cousins. This opening sentence is known as an eye-catcher in the writing world and is really only leading up to the main thought. And the main thought happens to be that Louis H. Dielman of New Windsor is celebrating his 89th birthday today (Friday). His collection of obituaries is national His collection of obituaries is nationaly famous, and that is the reason for ne opening sentence. It is surprising to know that besides his noted collection, he has also managed to collect 89 years, which is no small sum considering his many interests and the amount of work he has done. Mr. Dielman began life as a pharmacist and is the holder of a Ph. G. from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. In later life one of his most important achievements was assembling the collection of music published in Mary-land that is now one of the important possessions of the Maryland Historical Society. For fifteen years Mr. Dielman was librarian at the Peabody Library and the Peabody Institute for thirty-one. After his retirement he devoted his time to the collection and preservation of Maryland records. Mr. "Lou", as he is affectionately called by his friends spent his birthday no doubt as he does every day, writing post-cards to shut-ins, cutting out bright pictures for polio victims and answering letters that arrive from all parts of the country. His keen interest in current events and his vast store of knowledge and experiences from the past along with a wonderful philosophy for living made him truly an"aristocrat of life". It is indeed a great privilege to devote part of this column to pay a tribute to a most honored citizen of New Windsor and to wish him a most happy birthday. May he collect many more years and continue to dispense so much happiness and knowledge to others as he has so generously done in the past.

At the monthly meeting of the Elmer Wolfe P.T. A. Monday evening in m the parents and teachers were given a special treat in the form of a talk by Mr. Randall, a teacher in the Hampstead school, who year. One of the interesting points brought out in the talk was that although the schools in England are lifterent from those in the United.

Service at St. Paul's church next Sunday at 9 a. m., a congregational meeting will be held following the sermon. brought out in the talk was that al-though the schools in England are different from those in the United about Americans from the movies they see. Unfortunately these movies are mostly of the gang-buster type, and it was quite commonplace for the school children to ask if all Americans carry guns. They also believe that most adults have been divorced at least twice. They really be-lieve we dress and live like Hollywood. We, in turn have mistaken ideas about the English. We picture them as re-served and without any humor. That they are snobbish and are condescending toward everyone and everything that isn't British. This is far from the truth. The English are a friendly and thoughtful people. They have a natural dignity and their humor is the underplayed type rather than the obvious. The food in England, while not abundant nor of great variety, is still sufficient to maintain good health. Mr. Randall did not think the children showed any effect from the war years although he pointed out that nost children had been sent away from the bombed areas. It is not of-ten that one hears a good speaker with fascinating subject, but Monday evening we were lucky to hear both and came away with the feeling that Mr. Randall had not talked nearly ong enough. The parents who bought musical instruments for their children and would like for them to have some musical background will be happy to learn that the Elmer Wolfe school has been promised an instrumental teacher by the end of this month. Of course this promise has been made with some reservations. The teacher will arrive unless borrowed or stolen before he gets to our local school. We nope he neither turns to the right or left until he reaches Elmer Wolfe, where he is most needed. Last year we were very proud of our band and rchestra and were indeed fortunate in having Mr. Kersey as a teacher.

40th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A surprise anniversary was held in Harney Parish House, Sunday, Jan. 4th, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Ridinger. Margie LeGore daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Howard LeGore and Vern Ridinger, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ridinger, were united in marriage Jan. 2nd, 1913 in Mt. Joy-Parsonage by Rev. Emory Stockslager, Pastor at that time.

The table was decorated with a 3-tier wedding cake topped with bride and groom. A basket of 40 red rosebuds and red poinsettias. Refreshments of chicken, ham, hot dogs and cheese sandwiches, potato chips, pretzels, pickles, cookies, candies, punch and hot coffee was served buffet style.

The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Vern Ridinger, Miss Treva Ridinger, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ridinger and children, Franklin, Ellen and This year the situation is reversed. The reason of course is that the demad for music teachers far exceeds the supply. Few people realize the years of study and practice that is required to produce a good instrumental teacher, not to mention the cost of acquiring the knowledge. It is no wonder then, that these teachers go to the counties that pay the

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for the cards, gifts and flowers received while in the Hospital and after our return home.

We once had two sons and brothers, Who was our joy and pride, But they have gone forever, With Jesus to abide.

Our home is sad and lonely, Since they have gone away, But we hope and pray to meet them, In heaven above some day.

Years have passed since those sad days When you closed your eyes and slipped away, Our house was hushed, our hearts stood still,

Can we forget? No we never will.

Mountain; Valley

Lesson for January 18, 1953

GENERAL Braxton Bragg was a hard-working brainy officer; but there was one thing he would not do. He would not climb a mountain to look for himself. One of the generals in his command, Nathan Bedford Forrest, had been up. From the summit of Lookout Mountain, Forrest could see with his own eyes what was going on, he could see the enemy's movements and what it would take to stop them. He pleaded with General Bragg to come and look too; but in vain. General Bragg was too busy; and so he missed an opportunity that never came again.

The Rhythm of Life

A Sunday school superintendent used to boast that he had never missed a single Sunday in close to 40 years. An observer remarked that it might have been a good idea for him to miss a few Sundays, to take some time off to visit other schools and see how they did it. It is possible to keep your nose so close Dr. Foreman to the grindstone that you can't really see what you are doing. It is possible "not to see the forest for the trees." To put it in another way: Life has a rhythm of mountain and valley. In life we have to do two things: get up now and again on a mountain where we can see high and far; and also to walk in the valley where we cannot see beyond the next bend in the dusty road.

To put it in still plainer words: Most of our life consists of everyday duties, of ordinary days, with their problems, discouragements, weariness and difficulties. But in rare moments we "get a lift" as we say, when we can rise above the petty round of the usual routine and somehow see life, its meaning and direction, as we never did before. The mountain-top experience we may call the best of life; but the valley is the most of life. The good life will have both mountain and valley

Vision and Service

These high moments are rare but important. We read of one of the most memorable of these in the familiar story of the Transfiguration, and what followed it. There was the great vision on Mt. Hermon's snows; and there was the tough situation down in the valley. Tough situations were common; that vision came only once. It is the way of life always. Paul's vision on the Damascus road did not last long, yet it controlled and inspired his whole life afterwards. Moses saw but one burning bush; yet that day's vision drove him through many a year of toil and trouble. It is the high moments that give power to the low days.

Life cannot be all vision, yet it should not be all service. Or as we should rather say, the vision is for the sake of the service, and the service translates the vision into action. Vision illumines service; service obeys vision. High moments come to us in various ways. We have our high moments of faith when doubt drops away and we rise to a certainty that never quite leaves us again. We have high moments of hope, when the distant dream comes over the horizon toward us and we see the "alabaster cities gleam" as if they were across the street; and high moments of love, so certain, so profound, that ever after, under all the trivial and troubling currents of everyday necessity the deeper love flows steady, ever sure.

Trust Your Best Moods

Life has two temptations here. One is to make the mountain's vision last without ceasing. We do not want the glory to vanish in the cloud. But this is a temptation. Not even heaven is like that. There will be vision in heaven, more glorious than any here; but there will be service too, and more faithful than any here. If there are any beings whom God has destined for vision only, and not for service, they are angels, not men.

The opposite temptation is to stick at our work, never looking up to see the stars; plodding in the valley, too busy to climb the hills. Suppose the disciples had been too busy to go up to the mountain top with Jesus? Trust your best moods. They do not deceive you, if they come in his company. Down in the valley, in the tough situation, they may seem to have been only -dreams; but they are not.

SHORT STORY

Brightest Star

By DYER WILSON

GAIL opened the oven door, admired the browned casserole, decided to try more newspaper recipes and hurried to answer the jangling telephone.

"Hello-Gail-remember me? it's been so long!" The voice was hauntingly familiar. "I'm just O - Minute dying to see Fiction you!"

"Not Ruth Stevens?" Gail's voice thrilled over the wires. "It can't be!"

What to wear? How to send them away without letting them know how poor she was?

John met her troubled eyes and asked gently, "what is it, dear?"
He smiled at her, "better tell me." She told him in detail-relieved that he would understand.

'Should have let them along—take pot luck and think what they please," he said as he buttered slice of bread, "there's worse things than being poor."

How like a man! A roof over him. Food to eat. Family intact. That's all he asked!

"Grace designs Graceline Frocks. Has reached international fame. Ruth does publicity work and makes more money in a month than we spent in year. I just couldn't let them know—"

John gave little Joey a second serving of macaroni and cheese before he spoke and then he smiled re-assuringly and suggested, "get a new hat and meet the girls. It might do you a world of good."

EXCITEMENT hurried her steps to the hotel next day.

"Darling - you came," Ruth hugged her and Grace smiled her dreamy welcome just as Gail, remembered. "It's so good to see you both!"

They found a table and ordered "You're just the same," Grace exclaimed, "how we have missed you all these years. I talked Ruth into coming to see you." "I'm glad you did," Gail said truthfully, "I want to know all about the exciting things you two have been doing. You, Grace—so famous—how does it feel?"

The waiter stopped and Grace answered, "yes—yes, I'll take the call." She excused herself and followed the waiter from the room.

Grace had troubled eyes when she returned to the table and said, "I'll have to start back tomorrow." Her voice barred questions. "I want to see your children before I go, Gail hew about it?"

Gail's firm, little chin lifted proudly. "I'll call John to pick us up later and we'll have dinner at our house. You can visit with the children while I cook and you-yesyou can stay the night if you don't mind sharing a bed." The afternoon passed rapidly as the three old friends reminisced. Gail, at ease now, was no longer trying to hide the fact that she was no longer rich.

John outdid himself to make her friends welcome.

As Ruth put it in leaving, "The brightest star—the happy one—a real home with children growing and a good husband—yes, it's better than money and the baubels it buys—your reward is love."

And Gail answered, "I know now how lucky I am."
