COVERED DISH SUPPER AT PINEY CREEK

Despite the inclement weather of Tuesday evening fifty-five courageous folks gathered at Piney Creek Presbyterian Social Hall to enjoy a covered dish supper and a general good time.

Some gathered around the oil heater while others found the open hearth fire attractive, both good places for conversation. Numerous games were enjoyed. Ping-pong being perhaps the most vigorous and exciting, was favorite of the younger folks.

There was a period of song, curtailed by the fact that we are none too familiar with the words and stopped after the first verse.

Some musical numbers by the pastor proved an enjoyable climax to a happy evening.

BLOOD COLLECTION

Requested by Government Agencies

At the request of appropriate government agencies, including the Defense Department, the American Red Cross in the summer of 1950 accepted the responsibility for collection of human blood for defense purposes. At that time the Red Cross was operating a blood collection program to help civilians who needed blood transfusions, but who could not otherwise get the quantity and type needed in time to be of use. The governmental request called for a blood program entirely separate from that in being at the time.

In accepting the task of blood collection the Red Cross committed itself only to the problems of collecting and turning the blood over to processing laboratories designated by the Defense Department. The Red Cross has neither offered nor given any control over the distribution of the blood collected for defense purposes.

It was understood, however, that blood collected for the Armed Services and delivered to civilians processing laboratories would then be sent to armed services hospitals and medical units as whole blood, or would be processed into plasma and other desired derivatives and then be shipped to Armed Services medical units or hospitals when quantities available permitted, certain amounts were to be placed in storage toward accumulation of a plasma stockpile against some possible future military emergency.

The Department of Defense neither operates nor controls the Veterans Administration or its hospitals. The fact that blood collected by the American Red Cross, as the designated agency for the Armed Services Blood program, is not sent to VA hospitals is an administrative situation beyond Red Cross control. The blood collected in Carroll County is going to the armed services activities as laid down by the National Security Resources Board and the Department of Defense. Recently these two offices authorized the production of gamma globulin from blood collected for the armed services, for use in combating paralytic poliomyelitis in children. This process of extracting gamma globulin in no way effects the value of the plasma for transfusion purposes. Give a pint of blood. You may be saving a soldier's life and at the same time be saving a child from polio.

Mrs. Harry Welty read the Scripture reading and Mrs. Ellsworth Lambert read a practical interpretation of the Scripture reading. Dennis Baumgardner sang a solo, "God is Always Near Me" and was accompanied by his mother. The leader introduced the topic, "The Bible Speaks to Us Today—About People in Need" followed by three meditations by Miss Helen Bankard, Mrs. Carol Frock and Mrs. Harley Holter. During the offering Allen Baumgardner played a violin selection, "Ave Maria" accompanied by his mother.

Mrs. Harry Mohney gave a reading on the Jericho Road followed by a duet by Ruth Ann and Nancy Holter, "I Think When I Read that Sweet Story of Old" and were accompanied by Mary Alice Rue, Mrs. Morgan Andreas discussed the question, "What can Christians do about basic causes of poverty"? The closing hymn was sung, "Speak, My Lord".

The business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Glenn Martin. The motion was made and passed that we again support the Red Cross with a contribution. Mrs. Harley Holter asked that the coin card be returned at the next meeting. Mrs. Otis Shoemaker is in charge of the food stand at the John Devilbiss sale. No end of useful and lovely gifts of linen, glass, aluminum, etc., were received by the young couple. Mrs. Jos. BIBLE CLASS SUNDAY MARCH 8

On March 3, 1953, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin proclaimed Sunday, March 8 as "Bible Class Sunday". Using the passage of Scripture "If God be for us, who can be against us?" (Romans 8:31) the Governor's proclamation read in part:

"There is comfort in that thought in these years of threat and trouble. But there is no cause there for complacency. To have God for us, we must be for God.

To be for Him, we must know Him and his works.

The Bible is the source of that knowledge.

Since 1924, the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes has striven toward realization of a vision of a great body of Christian Men, united to put the Manpower of America back into the church.

THIS 'N' THAT

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

This past week there has been quite a bunch of letters which arrived. Here are a few of them which I can publish and give the answers right here as to the requests. AND IT MAY ALL TEACH US AND I HOPE WE MAY LEARN!

Dear Observer—Just fifteen years ago, you attended my wedding and previous to the wedding you said to me, "I do not think this young man will ever come to you as he will be difficult to live with as his Mother has spoiled him!" I have had fifteen of very unhappy years and if it was not for the little girl we adopted, I know that there would have been a divorce. I am 35 now although I do appear as 22. I lead a very lonely life as my husband most every evening will drive over to his Mother and spend the evening there. Do you really think that I should continue this life—a loveless marriage? I have met a young man also of my age (single) who lives very close our home and we are very much in love. Please help! signed, Lonely.

Lonely, I do recall that wedding distinctly when you were just 20 and I do recall that a sigh escaped my lips when you walked up to the altar. Did you adopt that little girl of whom you wrote thinking it would save your marriage as I recall you would be just that type of a girl? There are so many things of which you can be interested for instance your music. Start taking lessons again on the piano and practice hours a day while the youngster is at school and your husband at work. Do not see the young man as I imagine all this has aided in the awful gap between you and your husband. Be thankful that you have retained your youth. You are very ambitious so why not try, too far a position as you formally had? Think well before you take any other step as you must realize you must have grounds to get a divorce. I have always said and still say that "MARRIAGES SHOULD BE MORE DIFFICULT AND THERE SHOULD BE PLENTY OF RULES BEFORE A COUPLE IS ALLOWED TO VENTURE INTO THIS SACRED STEP!"

Dear Observer—My husband and I have some very dear friends whom we love to visit but here is the catch—they have a big and dirty looking dog which they allow to flop all over the living room furniture consequently when we go there and spend the evening and return our outside garments are a sight. We do not want to hurt their feelings so how would you go about this as we do not want to break our friendship. Signed—Anxious.

Well, I would wear just a neat house dress when I called there and when the dress was questioned I would reply very tactfully, "We have such a difficult time getting those good hairs from the material of our good clothing so I do hope you won't feel hurt by the dress I have on as I would not want our friendship broken on account of your dog or my dog!" (They probably won't notice your husband's suit as long as he wears a nice tie and clean shirt).

Dear Observer—Why is it a husband can make a life so unbearable by constantly grumbling and growling and then perhaps realize it when it is too late? A Friend.

There are plenty of reasons that a man is that way constantly—it could be of course that he is a well mentally or physically yet it could be that he is naturally that kind of a disposition on never looking on the bright side of life and no matter what you do for these type of people, they are really miserable with themselves and everyone else. You do not state the age of this man so I can't go into detail. I know positively that if a man or woman is of a mean disposition when they are young, they continue to be more so as the years come on and I repeat—God Help the individuals who have to live with such a individual! Have you ever tried going away for a month? That may help. I hope so. No harm trying anyway. Good luck!

Dear Observer—I have had a friend for ten years whom I always felt was a real friend. She visited our home for a few days (living out of the city) and all she did was sit and talk about people we knew and whom she also was to visit. I do not feel close to her any more in fact I do not want her to visit us again. How could I break off with her? Signed—A Constant Reader.

You are right—a dog that will bring a bone will carry one so my advise is to drop correspondence at once with her and do not visit her home or have her visit you. You can be thankful that she lives in another city. There are such wonderful people in life without being thrown with a gossipier and you can steer away from them when you see them coming! Whatever you do, don't have any misunderstanding with that sort of a person and have very, very few words to say.

Dear Observer—I have a husband who makes a grand living (there are no children and we are not young) we own our home which is lovely and I try to keep it looking that way at all times. Right after our marriage, I noticed that my husband was quite fond of women and would often make excuses by remaining out late hours of the night never explaining to me where he was nor would I ask him. It seems that divorce can be had so easily now and I somehow am afraid of this. I never miss your column and I will appreciate your advise. Anxious.

FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1953

NO MYSTERY

Quite naturally, farmers and farm organizations are greatly concerned with the declines that have recently occurred in the market prices of livestock and certain other agricultural commodities. The fear has been expressed that the declines might become so great as to bring on an agricultural depression.

Forecasting the future is an exceedingly risky business, and no one can say with certainty what will happen to farm commodity prices next month or next year. But it should be recorded that many students of agricultural trends feel that the present situation is not as serious as some have painted it and is not likely to become so.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson is one of these—he recently denied that the price declines had reached "the proportions of an emergency". And the Minneapolis Morning Tribune expressed a widely-held opinion when it said editorially that "the outlook may not be so alarming as it seems."

The Tribune found several rays of light on the price horizon. One is of a political character—the government's price support program, whatever one's opinion of its wisdom, will carry through the 1954 crop year in its present form. Others are economic. On the subject of livestock, for instance, the paper said, "Most spectacular decline of all has been the drop in meat cattle prices. But there is no mystery about this development. Many cattlemen saw it coming a year ago as cattle numbers were building up to the highest point in history. Existence of price ceilings no doubt accelerated herd buildings at a time when more animals should have been moving to feedlots or slaughtering stations. There may be some further declines in meat prices but they should level off soon—Consumer demand for meat is still strong and very likely will remain so."

In other words, if views such as these are correct, we are going through a period of adjustment, in a supply-and-demand market. And, ironically, the maladjustments were made more severe by the very controls which were supposed to benefit everyone.—Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

ASHLAND CITY, TENN., TIMES: "Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock offered 13 convicted communist leaders an alternative to going to jail. They can escape jail by going to Russia. It was no surprise that defense counsel promptly rejected the go-to-Russia alternative. Communist leaders are rather inconsistent. They want to change the government in this country and pattern it after Moscow, but the alien country to which they give allegiance has no lure for them."

NEW ORLEANS, LA., HERALD: "General Eisenhower has an unlimited opportunity. It is within his power to remedy the mistakes of the past, to restore respect for constitutional government, to reintroduce morality in the conduct of public business, and to subordinate politics to the interests and welfare of the people."

PETALUMA, CALIF., ARGUS-COURIER: "According to a survey of its members just completed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States—businessmen—favored reducing waste in military expenses and foreign aid. Other proposed cuts are suggested in such projects as the Tennessee Valley authority, farm price supports and related programs, and grants-in-aid to the States for social welfare programs."

The glory of human life is in overcoming sickness, sin, and death.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Down the Line with Johnny Bell

Boarding house reach

Although it has long been the subject of amusing remarks, few people would consider it the best way to serve a meal. The old-fashioned "pass the butter please" has always been a better way of getting food around the table. Like most rules of courtesy, it is simply a better way to get things done. When it comes to party lines, courtesy in keeping calls reasonably brief and allowing intervals between calls also means better service for all.

Ready... and able

In the event of a war emergency, our communications system is our first line of defense. The first calls to action will be telephone calls. Your telephone company, always alert to this fact, has carefully integrated its vast communications system into the Civil Defense Program. Should danger strike, the telephone is ready and able to play a vital, lifesaving role.

March is a good month to —

Look for nicer weather... Seed clover and alfalfa in winter grain crops... Get a list of the best vegetable varieties from your County Agent... Plan for poultry pastures to save on feed bills... Build range houses... Check and oil the electric motors that have been neglected all winter... Creep feed lambs and pigs... Make sure nests have plenty of litter—it will reduce the number of broken and dirty eggs... Plan your garden on paper to insure a steady supply of vegetables this summer... Fertilize fruit trees with nitrate of soda... Have your dealer put your farm tractor in good shape for heavy spring work... Spray sheep for ticks after shearing.

FEESERSBURG

Fire destroyed a large chicken house containing 600 laying hens and several hog houses with several brood sows and their young pigs on the Joseph Coshun farm near Mt. Union about 10 a. m. Sunday morning. The fire, started in one of the hog houses from an unknown source and fanned by a brisk wind quickly spread to the nearby chicken house. The smoke could be seen for miles and the neighbors quickly gathered to help, but the fire spread so rapidly that nothing could be done except stand by in case the fire spread to other buildings. Fortunately the wind was blowing away from the house and other farm buildings. The steers kept by the Coshuns were turned out and they stampeded during the excitement to the neighboring fields, but were later rounded up and returned to their home. Mr. and Mrs. Coshun were visiting in New Jersey at the time of the fire and did not learn of the tragedy until they returned home Sunday evening. Fire is the one menace every farm owner fears most and when it strikes in a community it has a sobering effect on everyone. The Coshuns have the communities' sincere sympathy and the neighbors are ready to help with rebuilding the lost buildings in the near future.

We recommend to all doctors and their patients the article in the March issue of the Ladies Home Journal by Sidney Shalett with excerpts by Dr. John T. T. Hundley, past president of the Medical Society of Virginia titled, "Can We Trust All Our Doctors?" I am taking the liberty of quoting two paragraphs from the article because the ideas coincide with my own personal thoughts about the medical profession which I served as a registered nurse for 15 years. Quote: "It was not so long ago in America that there was something sacred about the word 'Doctor'. An aura of affection and even mysticism surrounded the family physician, who was regarded as a combination of friend and father. He was kindly and selfless; he took care of you when you were sick and scared; from death's door, and sometimes he forgot to send his bills.

Now there is a sickness within the medical profession itself, an ailment that has grown up with the inflationary, get-rich quick era beginning in the early twenties. It is a complex disease, affecting some, not all; in its victims the cancer cells of greed and selfishness can engulf and blot out the corpuses of humility, self-dedication and devotion that are the life blood of medicine. There is plenty of evidence that all are not well in the house of medicine." Unquote.

Any profession that fails to discipline its members for malpractice, for incompetence and for unethical conduct cannot expect the public to retain its high respect for very long. It is true the good doctors far out number the bad ones but unless the medical profession weed out the bad ones, the entire profession will feel the effect of public disapproval.

It can no longer be denied that the public has lost its faith in the high standards the doctors use to enjoy. There are too many instances of overcharging, of failing to answer night calls in emergencies of hasty diagnosis and of performing too many unnecessary operations. These are not rash charges—there are records to prove them.

There are also doctors that have never raised their fees, who not only prescribe for their patients but pay for their medicine and in cases where the children needed special food, paid for that too. There are doctors that make calls in sun and rain; in sleet and snow and live up to all the fine traditions of the medical profession. I am happy to be able to say these are the kind we have in Carroll county. That is why I think the ones that are being traitors to their recalling should be publicly expelled from their profession.

The conscientious doctor should earn a reasonable living, with security for his old age, but should not expect not to become a wealthy man from the practice of his profession.—Dr. John Hundley.

We witnessed an aerial fight last week between a hawk and three crows. The hawk had just pounced on an unsuspecting pigeon and was making off toward the woods with it clutched between its claws when from out of the blue lumbered three black fighters in the form of three crows. They attacked the hawk from three sides again and again until the outmaneuvered hawk released the pigeon and made off unencumbered toward the woods with the three crows still attacking. The pigeon, though badly ruffled and frightened from its narrow escape, was able finally to take off for the barn under its own power.

Bill Boyle was right when he recently asked in his column: What has become of the country hick? For the country hick and his city cousin were similar as identical twins at the Lord Baltimore Hotel Saturday when the members of the Dairymen's Cooperative met for their annual business meeting and luncheon. Mink capes and orchids were as plentiful at the farmers get-together as at any bankers reunion. Not only has the farmer's wife learned how to wear clothes, but the farmer has learned the social graces and become a well poised business man himself. But the best change of all is that neither the farmer or his wife is any longer influenced too much by his city cousin with a glib tongue. Time was, when a man with a lot of fancy words could so awe his country cousin that he was never able to digest the contents of the words. Today, the once belittled country hick can not only think but he can express his thoughts standing on his feet. A subtle change has come over the farmer and his wife during the past ten years and if that change continues, and I believe it will, a new type of American will emerge from the rural community. Not only will Mr. and Mrs. Farmer meet their city cousin on equal terms, but will out-class them in intelligence and stability.

Raymond Buffington died of a heart ailment Tuesday morning at the Frederick Memorial Hospital after a long illness, although he had been a patient at the hospital only since last Friday. He spent his entire life in Carroll county and was engaged in farming most of his 65 years. He was a true servant of the land. To his family we offer our understanding sympathy in the loss of a husband and father.

Sunday visitors of the Ben Kings were Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey King and young son, Jeffrey of Mt. Airy and Mrs. Millard Roelke and daughter, Nancy.

We no longer set aside a special day for cleaning at our house. We wait until guests are expected then the whole family lends a hand and the entire house is put in order in nothing flat. Try it. Saves wear and tear on every ones nerves.—Ruth Roelke.

World's

V8Television treat—
the BUICK CIRCUS HOUR—
every fourth Tuesday

It's more than pride that makes a man want a lot of horsepower beneath the hood of the car he owns.

For the real point in reaching record horsepowers and compression ratios goes beyond miles per hour. It steps up performance and economy in normal driving.

That's what Buick engineers did when they upped the power and compression of each 1953 Buick — SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER — to the highest figures in Buick's fifty-year history.

In the SUPER and ROADMASTER, they put a new kind of V8 Engine—first passenger-car V8 with 8.5 to 1 compression, and a long list of other major engineering advances.

For the SPECIAL, they redesigned the famed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine — gave it shorter flame travel, faster firing, higher horsepower and compression.

And to these spirited engines they coupled the new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive* that adds flash-fast, quiet getaway to utter smoothness.

Just to give you an example of what all this means: The 1953 Buick SPECIAL with Dynaflo can beat the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER on getaway—can reach 30 mph (when the law allows) with a combined speed and jerk-free smoothness no other car can equal.

Of course, there's far more to these new Buicks for 1953 — some seven dozen new features alone.

But why not come in and see for yourself that these are the greatest Buicks—and the greatest values—in fifty great years.

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Living Alert

Lesson for March 8, 1953

WHAT is this parable of the "foolish virgins" all about? Dr. Wehrli of Eden Seminary makes a simple straightforward suggestion. The story has to do with emergency, the unexpected and how to meet it. If everything had gone according to plan, the foolish virgins would not have been in trouble. They had all the oil they thought they would need. When they set out, it was the wise virgins who "looked foolish." Why carry those extra flasks of oil? Wasn't it enough to carry a lamp without being bothered with oil besides? But when the hours wore on and on, those extra flasks did not look so foolish. The wise virgins were ready for the unexpected; the foolish were not.

Life's Emergencies

If the future were as plain to us as the past, then (we think) life might be easier. But that is not the way life goes. There is much we can count on; otherwise there would never be any use in making any kind of plans.

But there also will be things ahead we don't count on. Disease or death may enter the home unannounced. Temptation may lift its ugly head among the flowers of our happiness. The person who goes through life prepared only for what he expects, will find himself in the dark. Only by being prepared for what we don't expect, can we rise to life's emergencies.

But how can we prepare for what we don't expect? Of course we can't prepare in detail for the unforeseen. What we can manage to have is a reservoir of strength; for physical emergencies reserves of health; for moral emergencies, reserves of character; for spiritual emergencies, reserves of faith.

The Unexpected Is The Test

When there is a big fire, or some extraordinary disaster like a bombing or an explosion, the police of a great city will send reserves to the stricken area to guard against looters. Now as Dr. Wehrli says, the police aren't specially worried about ordinary criminals.

But the people who do the looting at fires are the ordinary people, who in ordinary situations wouldn't think of stealing. They are honest enough for all routine situations. They would not think of breaking a door down in order to steal. But when a fire or an earthquake opens the door, and the lights go out, then these "honest" people turn into thieves. They don't have the reserves of character to carry them through the moral emergency.

Sometimes again the emergency will be an opportunity. When an important position falls vacant, who is chosen to fill it? The man who is ready for it. But who is ready for the bigger job? The man who worked harder than he needed to on the smaller job; the man who learned more than he had to know to hold down the smaller job. If a man isn't ready for a bigger job than he has, he isn't likely ever to get his chance at it when the bigger one is open.

On The Alert

Three pieces of advice can be given to those who wish to live on the alert. One is: Keep physically fit. That may sound too obvious, but it is not, as any doctor could tell you. If your health breaks down you are stopped in your tracks no matter what your work may be. Whether you aim to be a missionary, a farmer or a governor, you are going to need all the health you can have. Don't cut down your body's efficiency by the use of liquor, drugs, overeating, undersleeping or what not. The same can be said of the second point: Keep mentally fit. Keep your mind a bit sharper than it needs to be right now, sharp enough for the unlooked-for opportunity or problem or responsibility.

Again it is needless to say that the use of alcohol is one of the commonest enemies of mental fitness.

And finally: keep spiritually fit. The Holy Spirit is no substitute for your own hard and careful thinking; but the closer you live to the God who is Lord of both today and tomorrow, the more ready you are going to be for whatever he may send.

PARENTS STUDY CLUB MEETING

The regular meeting of the Parents Study Club was held in the school library, March 4, at 1:15 p. m. Miss Maude Manahan, Supervisor of Nurses of the Carroll County Board of Education, was the guest speaker and very ably discussed with the group the health and growth of children.

Plans were made for the home room mothers to assist with the pre-school registration which will be April 15th. This mothers' group very successfully relieved the lower grade teachers last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday when Parent-Teacher Conferences were held at the school. By their taking charge of the classrooms, the teachers were free for the afternoon to meet with the parents, and discuss matters pertaining to the school work.

Several other mothers also helped the first grade teachers on Tuesday of this week when the teachers gave a demonstration of school work to a number of visitors.

The next meeting of the Parents

Study Club will be April 29, at 1:30 p. m. when our school will be host to the combined Parent Study Clubs of Charles Carroll, Uniontown, New Windsor and Union Bridge schools. We invite all interested parents to attend.

GRANGE MEETING

The Piney Creek Grange No. 422 held their regular monthly meeting, March 2, 1953, at the Harney Theatre. Twenty-seven members were present and two new members were welcomed by demit. Mr. and Mrs. Muir, of Caledonia County, New Hampshire.

During the business meeting arrangements were made to sponsor a round and square dance Friday night, March 20th, to be held at the Taneytown High School. Refreshments will be sold.

The business meeting was closed and a delightful program was presented with members of the Grange taking part. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all.

It's time to feed VIGORO*

Let early thaws, spring rains soak it down in the soil where the roots are already growing and hungry!

Even before your lawn "greens up"—grass roots are active. Give them needed nourishment now—with new process Vigoro. Nourishes longer—goes ½ further—yet it supplies a complete, balanced diet for strong, healthy growth. Apply at the rate of 3 lbs. per 100 sq. ft.

*VIGORO is Swift's trademark for complete plant food.
