"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

It's May! The most wonderful month of the year!
The days are house cleaning ones and the days when all nature is beginning to appear beautiful outdoors. The rains are over! The farm house next door will soon be hidden due to the branches and leaves of the huge trees surrounding the Parsonage. This summer, I will not put up the curtains again which I have taken down so as I can see more clearly the beauty from all the windows.

Did you remember to put your clock forward for the "FAST" time. There were many who forgot and it made quite a confusion but by this time all will be accustomed to it. Eh? Everyone is much concerned about Arthur Godfrey and that hip operation! He announced on last week's Monday night program that after it is done that maybe the public will realize (from all letters he gets) that he is not drinking but through a big accident years ago that has caused him to walk lame! If that is the reason for the operation and I were in his shoes, I would not have that operation just to please the public unless I was suffering and he does not appear to be. How awful!

Have you noticed (thinking of T. V.) that in the program of Jackie Gleason, the bar scene has been omitted these past three Saturdays? Much (Continued on Eighth Page)

WHO IS DELINQUENT?

To Mark Twain is attributed the well-known saying: "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." Today it seems that nearly everybody talks or writes about Juvenile Delinquency, but few do anything about it.

Here is a brief sampling of some of the things that are being said and written. They have been gleaned at random from various daily newspapers: "The trouble with our school systems today is that the teachers are afraid of the principals, the principals are afraid of the Boards of Education and the Boards are afraid of the parents. But the children of 1953—they are afraid of nobody!" That statement points up the fact that lack of discipline and lack of respect for authority are commonly found in today's youth. Lack of respect for authority leads to violation of law.

A United States Senator has this to say: "Juvenile delinquency is at its highest peak since World War II, and the crimes being committed by the young of our Nation are harder, fiercer, more shocking than ever before in our Nation's history." The truth of this statement can be verified nearly any day of the week in any newspaper.

If facts and figures are wanted, ponder these hard facts from the 1952 Crime Report of a large city:

1. Serious crime in this jurisdiction has increased 19.4 per cent.
2. Delinquent acts known to the Juvenile Court have increased 60.5 per cent.
3. Youths seventeen or under known to the Juvenile Court for delinquent offenses have increased 35.6 per cent. And the report continues: "The trend would seem to be one of increasing volume and an increasing tendency for the offenders to be in the younger age groups."

A daily newspaper of the same city editorializes on the matter as follows: "Juvenile delinquency does not arise out of any innate depravity in American youth; it arises out of environmental defects for which the adult members of society are responsible." Such a statement causes one to wonder whether the editorial writer ever heard of Original Sin and Free Will. Apparently he is unaware of the fact that juvenile delinquents have been found in good environment as well as in bad. The writer suggests correcting the environment when it would have been far better to correct the juvenile at a time and in a way that he would have remembered. Further on in this same editorial there appears the statement: "There is too much loose talk about delinquency."

One of the remedies frequently proposed to prevent and to correct juvenile delinquency is more recreational facilities. Yet, members of the same city's recreation staff, who should know most about the benefits and limits of recreation, have rightly and wisely said that "recreation is not prescribed as a cure for juvenile delinquency or a substitute for religion or education."

What are some of the factors that have formed a large part of the life of today's young people and have possibly contributed to their delinquency? Consider that their brief span of life has been lived in the shadow of considerable corruption on the part of all too many in responsible positions and that this evil has often gone unpunished. They have, in many cases, been led to believe that discipline is not important and that education can and should be made easy and pleasant, that an education does not have to be worked at steadily and that the pupil's own desire should decide not only what school he attends but also his own course of study. They have been given first-hand lessons in crime over the radio, by television and in the movies. They have had sex information showered down on them from all sides. The list could continue, but the question remains: Who Is Delinquent?—The Manresan.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

PROVIDENCE, KY., JOURNAL-ENTERPRISE: "Recently President Eisenhower—spoke with delight of the pickle jar and the cracker barrel found in most general stores when he was growing up. It may be that—a man will occupy the White House who will recall the days when he rode through a super market in a four-wheeled shopping basket."

OSKALOOSA, IOWA, DAILY HERALD: "The trimming down that for years was mainly talk is now getting under way at last—Whether or not it points to a balanced budget and then a start on tax relief in the fiscal year beginning July 1, it does carry the promise of action long delayed."

LAKE WORTH, FLA., HERALD: "The claim that opening the (relief) rolls to the public will embarrass recipients of aid, apparently is made more to cover up the chiselers—than to actually protect the deserving poor. It might be added there is no record of embarrassment occurring where the rolls have been opened to the public but there has been considerable improvement in the reduction of funds wantonly spent in the wrong direction."

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. Glenn Beall
 United States Senator from Maryland

We Americans are great ones to draw comparisons, but our fault lies too often in comparing things which are dissimilar.

Right now in almost every newspaper and magazine you see comparisons between the first one hundred days of Eisenhower's Administration and the first one hundred days of the Roosevelt Administration.

Comparisons are apt to indicate that the Eisenhower Administration has moved slowly, that the anticipated "change" has not yet occurred. It is said that the Roosevelt group in its first hundred days had its New Deal well underway, and that in comparison it appears the Eisenhower Administration has not yet begun to move.

Are the comparisons being made valid? Has the Eisenhower Administration actually been too slow in effecting the "change" which was expected by the public?

The first days of the Roosevelt Administration were typified by a rash of legislation—some of questionable merit—but the people were aware that things had changed. President Hoover had been immobilized by a Democratic Congress and Roosevelt, with a huge majority, was able to get Congress to act swiftly on measures he requested. The American people, and many members of Congress, grew accustomed to the President sending great stacks of bills over to the Capitol to meet any emergency or to avoid what was feared to be an impending crisis.

In such an atmosphere all kinds of legislation was hurriedly enacted under threat that a day's delay would bring disaster. Much such hurried legislation was later found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

But the country was suffering a severe economic upheaval and the public generally looked with approval on any prompt action intended to cure the depression.

President Eisenhower faced no similar situation when he was inaugurated on January 20. Our economy was threatened by inflation, taxes were at such a level as to be confiscatory, public confidence in government was at an all time low. But these problems were not the type that could be remedied by giving the country a physis of new legislation.

The immediate problem of the Eisenhower Administration is that of providing leadership to the free world in order to avoid war. On the success of our foreign relations our domestic progress depends.

The President has taken dynamic action in meeting the immediate problems, but the American people anticipating an atomic upheaval in Washington have not yet felt the full impact of the changes made.

Our economy has now been decontrolled, and considering that it took twenty years to get it regimented the decontrol progress has been remarkably fast. The effect on our economy has not been immediate.

On April 16, the President announced the Administration's Foreign Policy. The speech might have been given earlier if the death of Stalin had not changed the world situation from Jan. 20.

President Eisenhower proclaimed a positive program for peace, if the Russians want to accept it, and a determination to not quietly acquiesce to Communist aggression. More time must elapse before changes resulting from these new policies are evident.

Comparisons can be misleading and it might be wise for us to take a look around us—I think we will find that President Eisenhower has charted the course of the Ship of State, and the passengers are moving along the course laid out, whether or not they are aware that the ship is under way.

Under the Dome.
 During the last week I met many of our Maryland businessmen at the Association of Commerce dinner at the National Press Club, and also at the meeting of the Montgomery County Real Estate Board.

The Takoma Park Independence Day Committee is already planning for its July Fourth celebration and I hope to be able to obtain a military band to lead their parade.

The Maryland Women's Council called on me last week and enjoyed a luncheon at the Capitol.

Down the Line with Johnny Bell

Farewell to the scythe

Undesirable brush along telephone line right of ways is now being destroyed by a new chemical method. Instead of cutting (which encourages growth), maintenance men now spray a chemical solution which works in an unusual way. The chemicals speed up the plant's metabolism. Using their food supply faster than they can increase it, the treated plants actually starve to death. This is another example of the Bell System putting science to work to maintain the best possible telephone service and to keep it low in cost.

"Please don't sneeze, Herbert"

Every man for himself would be a pretty foolish philosophy for these death-defying aerial artists. Each depends on all the others for a safe and flawless performance. Thinking of others makes sharing a party line much more pleasant and successful too. Bearing in mind the other fellow's point of view—by keeping calls reasonably brief and well spaced—is a good way to keep the going smooth.

April is a good month to —

Go for Sunday walk and enjoy wild flowers in the woods.
 ... Keep cows off pasture until it gets 4 to 6 inches tall.
 ... Plow under old cornstalks to control corn borer.
 ... Spray legumes when spittlebugs show up.
 ... Start chicks for late summer egg production.
 ... Have an electrician rearrange the farm-yard wiring if new electric uses, such as a hay drier, are to be added.
 ... Drench the sheep flock with cunic mixture to get rid of internal parasites.
 ... Vaccinate pigs for cholera.
 ... Put up electric fences for rotational grazing of pastures.
 ... Sow poultry range.
 ... Plant early vegetables.
 ... Map wet spots in fields to drain later in the summer when you have more time.

At the same time, the Packard CLIPPER was announced as the only medium-priced car in America built in the fine-car tradition. The big type of car, priced just a few hundred dollars more than the low-priced lines.

These announcements were the first step in the revitalized Packard Program! Now you are invited to participate in step number two with 12 new Packards and 12 new Packard

CLIPPERS to be awarded those who follow the simple rules for participating in Packard Invitation Month.

May 9th to June 9th is the time. Just visit your dealer then. A. Put 'em in a good, clean house and feed 'em well. And, when you buy chicks, buy Dr. Salsbury's Ren-O-Sal, too. To give your chicks faster growth, faster feathering, and earlier egg production, give them Ren-O-Sal in the drinking water right from the start. Ren-O-Sal is handy to use and economical. So, for more profit, buy Ren-O-Sal when you buy your chicks.

FEESBURG

The Birely sale held Saturday at "Grovevale" had the atmosphere of an "Old Homecoming Week" and for some that is exactly what it was. I heard one woman say it was the first time she had been back to Feesburg in ten years. It may have been homecoming for some, but it certainly wasn't bargain day for anyone considering the prices paid for articles sold. China ornaments must have brought record prices for one of a girl and boy standing about eight inches high brought eleven dollars and fifty cents. A battered chest which looked like it may have gone to Treasure Island with John Silver sold for twenty dollars and a set of sleigh bells brought nearly forty dollars. The crowd must have been in a holiday mood for it consumed pies by the dozens and coffee by the gallons not to mention hot dogs, rolls and pop. Country sales are certainly not losing their popularity and is one of the old customs that modern living has not changed one bit.

The Missionary Society of the Mt. Union Church held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening in the Parish House. There were sixteen members present with Mrs. Ruth Blair presiding. The topic discussed was "The work by women in the Church and the Missionary Field. Election of officers was held with Mrs. Blair being re-elected as president; Mrs. Scott Crabb, Vice-President; Mrs. Grace Miller, Secretary; Mrs. Paul Crouse, Asst. Sec.; Mrs. Paul Leister, Treas. and Miss Nancy Roelke, pianist. Two hand-made rugs were donated to the Society by Mrs. Myrtle Sentz, which were sold to Mrs. Donald Warrenfeltz and Mrs. Donald Lambert. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Samuel Keyton and Mrs. Frank Martin. A covered dish supper is planned for the June meeting.

It seems that the older generation today is the one that worries about how the middle generation is bringing up the younger generation.

This is for farmers. If you see your cows wild-eyed, bawling, with their tails in the air headed for the bushes or the woods don't think they have eaten loco-weed. It's not flies searching and finding a tender spot on your cows to lay their eggs which next winter will emerge as grubs from the cow's backs. It is estimated that these pesky pests cut milk production ten to twenty per cent while they are laying their eggs, because they annoy the cows so that they can't keep their mind on making milk. Farmers could get rid of these profit stealers by dusting each cow's back with rotenone during the months from December to May or as soon as the grubs start to emerge from the cow's back. Full directions can be obtained from the county agent.

Don't be too much influenced by what you hear over the radio or read in newspapers for the art of propaganda has reached a new high. Be sure you know who is writing what and why. Pressure groups of all sorts hire writers and commentators to influence the public to their way of thinking. Psychology is being used more often than you think in selling merchandise and political ideas. It takes a bright person today to know where he is being led, why, and by whom. Yesterday it was only the country hick that was a sucker. Today, all of us belong to that category for not many are immune to the slick sales-talk heard day in and day out over radio and T.V. and staring from every magazine one picks up. We seem to have become a gullible people. For we are told how to become wise, beautiful and rich just by buying a pill or a formulae and we believe it. The drug stores never had it so good and the publishing industry can't begin to print all the books written on how to be this or that. But in spite of all our pills and formulae we still don't know how to get along with each other and be truly happy.

The Senate finally passed the tide-lands oil bill giving to four states what rightfully belongs to all forty-eight. A few senators tried in vain to awaken the public to what was involved, but it seems the people have been lectured to, promised and brow-beaten into a state of coma where they don't really care what happens to them or their possessions. It may be that the person is right who said it would be a good thing if we used up all our natural resources in one grand finale, and then we could start all over again from the cave-man period.

Ernest Hemingway won his first Pulitzer prize in his thirty year writing career with his short vivid novel titled "The Old Man and The Sea". This book can be read in two hours but you will want to read it over again and again for it is poetry set to prose. Not a word is wasted or misplaced. The story itself is lovely but the use of words is still more beautiful.

Some artists paint their pictures in oil, splashing bright colors on canvas, but Mrs. Ed Caylor uses tulips of all colors and creates beautiful pictures in her garden. This week the tulips were at their peak in beauty, nodding their yellow, red, white, purple and orange heads in the spring breeze with graceful dignity. Artists are always grateful when the public appreciates their effort at creating beauty and it must give Mrs. Caylor a feeling of deep satisfaction to know that so many people have enjoyed sharing with her the beauty of her tulips.

Thirty-six contestants representing what many schools took part in an old-fashioned spelling-bee at Eastern High School, Baltimore, last Saturday. The contest was televised and it was of local interest because Patricia Roop represented the Elmer Wolfe

School. While Patricia didn't win, she upheld the honor of her school very well. The word that took her out of the contest was "Zephyr". A tricky word, to say the least. Alice Marble, famous tennis player says: "The main issue in life is not the victory but the fight; the essential thing is not to have won but to have fought well." This Patricia did and the local school and our community are quite proud of her.

High school students in Woodruff, Wis., are collecting one million pennies just to be able to see a million of something. The pennies will then be turned over to a proposed hospital. Miss Shirley Roop graduated from the secretarial school in Baltimore this week, where she has been a student for the past eleven months.

We hear so much about man's destiny, doubt very much if man has any destiny except to be kind and helpful to each other.—Ruth Roelke

In memory of
WM. FREDERICK MEHRING, JR.,
our son and brother, who died one year ago, April 30, 1952.

Before our eyes you faded,
Growing weaker every day,
Patiently bearing your suffering,
Until God took you away.

To see you slowly leave us,
As helpless we stood by,
And drank the cup of bitter grief,
The day we saw you die.

You heard a voice we couldn't hear,
Which said, "You cannot stay";
You saw a hand we couldn't see,
Which beckoned you away.

We do not forget you, nor do we intend
We think of you often and will to the end,
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.

In the afternoon, Prize Day Exercises will be held at the school in Lyon Hall, with Mr. Alfred P. Ramsey, president of the Board of Trustees, as the speaker. The Patrons' Club will entertain their daughters and the staff at a picnic around the outdoor fireplace which they gave to the school this year, and later in the evening Mrs. Dorothy Virgilio will present her pupils in a dance recital. Graduation exercises on June 8 followed by a buffet supper will complete the Commencement week-end.

Major Louis E. Lamborn, formerly headmaster of McDonogh School and recently elected member of the Samuel Ready Board of Trustees, will deliver the address.

The 1952-53 session will close for the faculty with a luncheon given by Miss Lewis at Olney Inn on June 11th. School will resume on September 11th.

TANEYTOWN BEATS BRUSH-TOWN 2 TO 1

Taneytown baseball club turned back Brushtown 2 to 1, behind the sixth hurling of Charles Unger Sunday. Sharp field support headed by Whitey Waddell, second baseman, helped Unger go the route for his first victory. It was a tie ball game up till the 7th inning when Taneytown managed to score Single from second base behind a fly ball dropped by their centerfielder. It was a pitchers duel up to then with Maurren the loser for Brushtown.

CARROLL COUNTY PUPILS IN SPELLING CONTEST

The Board of Education of Carroll County announces with satisfaction that participants from all the junior high schools of the county attended the metropolitan spelling bee conducted at the Eastern High school in Baltimore on Saturday afternoon, May 2. The spelling contest included participants from Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard counties. The winner was Miss Mary Kathleen Bates from the Milford Mill High School in Baltimore County. The second place speller was Miss Virginia Marshall of Dundalk High school in Baltimore county. Third place in the contest was held by Miss Jo Anna Saegusa of the Manchester High school who thereby became the county winner and was awarded third place in the final contest. She received a certificate and $50.00 for the library in the Manchester school. Fourth place in the Baltimore contest was also held by Miss Peggy Ryan of the Mount Airy Junior High school although there was no award for fourth place. It was pleasing to local school authorities to have Carroll county participants place near the top in the state contest. Other contestants in the county were: Nellie Folk Dorsey, Sykesville; Shirley Graybill, New Windsor High school; Marie Hartman, Hampstead High school; Susan Kephart, Westminster High school; Patricia Roop, Union Bridge High School; Anna Squarrel, Robert Moton High school, Anna Stewart, Charles Carroll Jr. High; Doris Stonesifer, Taneytown High school. Mr. Gerald E. Richter, supervisor of high schools, attended the contest as well as some of the principals of the Carroll county schools. Among the judges was Dr. John D. Makosky, Dean of the Faculty of Western Maryland College.

It is expected that the Baltimore Sun will continue to promote spelling through its support and sponsorship of spelling in the metropolitan area. Ten thousand students are estimated to have participated in the spelling contest during the current year in the five counties.

A Flame In Chains

Lesson for May 10, 1953

YOU can keep a dog on a leash but not a flame. Passing a hand-cuff over a fire is no way to keep it where you want it. Now the man Paul was more like a flame than most men are. Some men are like lumps of clay. They stay where they are put and they never give trouble—and never amount to anything. Others are like fire. They have a life of their own, they can be terribly dangerous or wonderfully helpful. Paul was like this; he had been a kind of devil when he was persecuting good Christians. Now he was a missionary, an extremely successful one; but still a man of fire. He had got into trouble with the authorities; had been through a series of trials; had appealed to the Imperial court, highest in the Empire; and had been sent as a prisoner to Rome. For at least two years (some say for the rest of his life) he never was a free man in Rome. And still all the time he was preaching, testifying, just winning friends for Jesus. You can't chain a living flame.

Dr. Foreman

Strange Answers

The story of Paul and how he got to Rome has at least three messages for us today. One is this: God sometimes answers our prayers in strange ways. As we know from Paul's letters, he had had a visit to Rome in mind for a long time (Romans 15:23). It was the capital of the great Empire; the church founded there was destined to have great influence. Paul sent the Christians there the most careful and complete letter he ever wrote. God answered Paul's prayers and hopes, and so Paul in time reached Rome; but not at all as he had hoped. He was a prisoner; the outcome of his trial in Rome was uncertain, and if he lost his case, it meant death. You would have thought Paul's mind would be shadowed by foreboding; but it was not. He realized that his prayers had been answered, and he did not grumble that they had not been answered as he might have expected. So when we think our prayers have not even been heard, we might look around us; perhaps they are already answered in some way altogether a surprise.

No Prison for the Word

Tradition says that Paul was acquitted at his Roman trial, but was arrested again some years later. At any rate, from a Roman prison he wrote his young friend Timothy (as Moffatt translates it) "There is no prison for the Word of God." (II Tim. 2:9.) That is the second message from Paul's experiences as a prisoner. Men can be imprisoned, tortured, killed; but the Word of God goes on and on. If the Christian religion had been no more than a set of notions, it would have died a natural death centuries ago. That Christianity has lived is one of the evidences that it is true. It is a comfort to remember this today. People get discouraged about the church in China, in Poland, in Hungary and Bulgaria and Russia. It is certainly a fact that Christians have a hard time in those places; but it is also a fact that there are Christians there and some of them will not give up their faith.

Nothing Need Shut Our Mouths

When Martin Niemöller was a prisoner, absolutely not allowed to walk in the yard even, nor to associate with other prisoners, because as a Christian minister he had dared to say "No!" to Hitler, he used to sit at his cell window which was near the yard, and listen to the men as they went by. One of these used to repeat a verse of Scripture aloud every day and Niemöller would hear it and take it as a message from his friends, and from God. There is another story about a Japanese guard in charge of American prisoners, some of whom sang Christian hymns. He knew one English word: Jesus. Whispering this name, he used to bring the men medicines and things they needed even at risk to his own life. If it is impossible for a prisoner or for a guard in a war-prison, surely the most unlikely of all places, to let himself be known as a Christian, is it likely that anything need shut our mouths? To speak a good word for Jesus is not always easy; but it is never impossible.

nicer. Don't you think if they keep it just like that? Better program! Drink is positively plus speed of course is the real factor. All accidents and sh—read on a Priest, Father John Thomas of St. Louis University reports that 29.8 percent of the couples attributed the failure of their marriage to drink of 7,000 unsuccessful unions in the Midwest!

Those two men on T.V.—always with big cigars on which they are puffing—George Allen and Ken Murray. (In every show).

Now, here's a smart one from a shop on North Charles Street.

Whatever you do, Ladies be sure you have nice arms this summer as all dresses are positively sleeveless and if your arms do not look good, start exercising right now!

This cute one from the State of Georgia—there is a Restaurant where the waiter asks after dining (especially on a big steak) if you have a "Dog in your home". If the answer is "Yes"—he brings a wax-lined paper bag to the customer and before he removes the dishes after the meal, he places all the nice bones in for "ROVER"! Nice?

Thinking of Southern States, read where a Minister of a Baptist church refused to officiate at the church wedding of one of his members because he discovered the wedding party would be gown in strapless gowns. In fact, he sent in his resignation! Modest weddings are so much more beautiful and within the sacredness of it all!

One of my favorite programs on T.V. (and which I never miss) is "What's My Line"? Did you see the celebrity—Harold Lloyd on the program? Father Time surely is catching up with him! He used to be a great favorite in the years gone by in Moving Pictures of the Silent Film.

On April the 25th out in California, the front door of a house was left unlocked for the night. A burglar walked in, took $25.00 from the trousers of Ruben Sylvester while the family slept on. On the way out, the burglar tossed the pants behind a bush and a neighbor saw them and called police who awakened Sylvester at 5 A.M. to inform him of his loss—SYLVESTER OPERATES THE SYLVESTER ALARM SYSTEM!

While in Baltimore awaiting the green light to go on Harford Road and Bontiebello Lake Drive, saw the Motorman stop and assist his passenger from the trolley car to safety across to the other side of the street! Such nice things happen daily of which we do not know in life. That is as it should be!

Well, Gentlemen, Rocca surely gave us plenty of action last week on that Mat at the Coliseum. He is a real Argentine Gentleman and it was too bad that the referee called, "Quits" in the second Fall for that old Grizzly APE Lou Thez. Your Observer is determined more so than ever to interview Rocca! The Newcomer on that Mat from Philly, Mike Lane has the personality and manner of Rocca. Eh? And as for that Foot Ball player—Holbrook from California. He should have remained just a Football player! He is another one of those cruel and brutal wrestlers for even after his man is counted out, he refuses to stop torturing him!

And don't forget, Folks that Sunday is "Mother's Day"! Take that best girl in your life out for dinner and let every minute of the day be her very own! Whatever you do—don't have the family meet at her home and do the cooking—you plan it all just for her—even if it is once a year! If you are not affectionate with your Mother, start right now before it is too late and then you won't have any regrets. All Mothers just love affection from the family and then when you do start keep it up all year for she is so deserving!

So long, Folks. Have a nice weekend. Be careful and if you are driving at night, be sure your lights are lowered immediately for the approaching car! Until next weekend. D.V. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

Into the woman's keeping is committed the destiny of the generations to come after us.—Theodore Roosevelt.
