INTERESTING EXPERIMENT IN FARMING

Conducted by D. Leonard Reifsnider, near Bruceville

An interesting experiment in farming is being conducted by Mr. D. Leonard Reifsnider operator of a 200 acre farm located on the red soils of Carroll County near Bruceville, Md.

Mr. Reifsnider is using a crawler type tractor to pull a 4-disc plow mounted on a draw bar controlled by a hydraulic lift. These plows are spaced 12 inches apart. 2 throwing soil left and 2 throwing right, penetrating to a depth of 8-10 inches ridging the sod about 18 inches high. A conventional tractor, hauling a heavy disc breaks down the ridge that had been built up by the disc plows. A sub soiling tool that penetrates to a depth of 18 to 20 inches is then used on the field. This subsoiling tool is spaced at 5 1/2 foot intervals. By this spacing, Mr. Reifsnider found that the sub soil was completely broken, the cracking process extending 3 feet on each side of the tool. This is followed by hooking two spring tooth harrows in tandem and going over the field, leveling and preparing the seedbed. Often only one harrowing is necessary.

Some of the benefits claimed for this new procedure in farming are keeping the organic content of the soil near the surface where it will allow greater absorption of water from rains. The deep penetration with the subsoiler allows water to go deeper into the soil thereby creating a reservoir that will feed the plants during the dry parts of the season.

Last year Mr. Reifsnider and his son, David Morris, ran test strips on corn. One strip was plowed with a mouldboard plow while others were prepared as described. Yields were 15% greater on strips using the newer method.

The original cost of the crawler is greater according to Reifsnider, but with greater power on the takeoff unit, he eliminates motors on 4 other pieces of machinery used on his farm, making the overall operation much cheaper.

Mr. Reifsnider has been a cooperator of the Carroll Soil Conservation District for about six years.

OLD BOXES EXHIBITED

Historical Society Holds an Interesting Meeting

The June meeting of the Carroll Co. Historical Society held in the High School building, Taneytown, sponsored by Taneytown and Middleburg District, was as always, when these two districts combine their efforts, a great success.

The program as announced by the chairman, Miss Amelia Annan, was as follows: President, Erman Shoemaker, led in the salute to the flag; The Star Spangled Banner, verse 1, F. S. Key, Miss Anna Galt, accompanist; Brief speech of Francis Scott Key Mrs. Mervin Conover; Old German Bible, Mr. Luther Ritter, Middleburg Dist.; Excerpts from "My great-grandmother's diary", Mrs. Maurice Waltersdorf (Elizabeth Crapster); A glimpse into the life of an earlier time, Miss Elizabeth Annan; a sketch concerning the Rudisill family was given by Mrs. Francis E. Cunningham, a descendant; a brief review of citizens of then and now, Miss Margaret Shreeve; America, verses 1 and 4, Samuel F. Smith.

The front of the stage banked with artistically arranged flowers proved a charming background for the tables covered with red and white cloths on which the exhibits were displayed.

At first suggestion an "exhibit of boxes" seemed a very uninspiring idea, but as the boxes began to appear from expected and unexpected sources one wondered how could such lovely and unusual things have been hidden from us all these years. The boxes, more than 300 in number were of all sizes, kinds and shapes, from the tiniest thimble-box one could imagine, to a hot-box of stupendous size. From the little box just big enough to hold a wedding ring to an album of family pictures, which when properly manipulated played a merry tune. There was no end of the kind and shapes of these boxes, made of silver, china, Parian porcelain, rare woods, tin and paper. Matched Heppelwhite knife boxes of priceless value vied with the innumerable match boxes to claim our admiration.

There were exhibitors and guests from Washington, D. C., Washington, Pa., Westminster, Gettysburg, Baltimore and many places in the county.

The refreshment committee served cookies and fruit punch.

"The polio season is already upon us in many sections of the country, and first reports seem to indicate a sharp increase over last year's record incidence of 57,628 reported cases Mrs. Wimert said today.

"We cannot tell, at this time, how many new cases we will have in Carroll county this year, but the Chapter will not fail in aiding to the best of its ability any child or adult stricken with polio," Mrs. Wimert said.

Miss Catherine C. Gaule, State representative of the National Foundation, and Mrs. John S. Gardiner, State advisor on Women's Activities, also attended the workshop.

FIREWORKS IN MARYLAND PROHIBITED

State-Wide Law Bans the Practice

The attention of the public is called to the fact that all fireworks within the State are forbidden by the statutes of the State of Maryland unless approval has been obtained from the State Insurance Commissioner.

Under the law, fireworks of every description are banned. It specifically bans the use of firecrackers, squibs, rockets, sparklers, roman candles, torpedoes, bombs, paper caps, grenades, fire balloons, signal lights and any combustible or explosive composition. No section of the State is exempt from operation of this law, and any person violating it by possessing, discharging or selling fireworks is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Permits for special displays of fireworks will be authorized only where the application has been made at least ten days in advance, and only after careful investigation that the display will not endanger the safety and health of persons in the locality, or cause damage to the property of others. The law requires this approval and the filing of a certificate of insurance, made payable to the Insurance Commissioner of Maryland, in an amount prescribed by him, to be held as collateral by the Insurance Department in the event of injury to persons or damage to property.

By reason of the enforcement of the Fireworks Act, according to Commissioner Chas. S. Jackson, loss of life has been eliminated, and there are practically no accidents as a result of burns and explosions incident to the use of fireworks.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Well, Mr. Farmer, Your Observer saw the young Bull of 14 months old whose Mother cost 90,000 dollars and his father $210,000! LOT A BULL if you ask me! Never saw such a proud owner! And it was some Bull—simply handsome! When he was born, the owner gave him the electric pad! Thinking of animals—always heard that goats have a dreadful odor—not so with David and his Mother, Abigail!

Did you see the "King" as he is now called—CLARK GABLE in "NEVER LET ME GO!" Somehow, this Observer never had as much admiration for this popular actor as a number of other prominent men on the stage and screen! However, you may enjoy the picture when it comes to your town movie.

Large hats, Ladies are surely showing the trend for the future hot days and as to Hair—Do's—well, they are shorter than ever which was much in evidence in the Beauty Salon at Hutzler's last week. It made Your Observer sit right down there and have my "Crowning Glory" trimmed off, too!

"Cotton Tweeds" are excellent and ideal for traveling, Ladies for they have a stubborn intolerance for wrinkles. You may become travel-tired but not these tweeds for all you do is shake and hang them and in an hour or so they're unruined and fresh as ever! They are called "THOMAS Cottons" for they will be a seasonal affair to bridge the gap between hot, cool and in-between weather. That is what will make them so important. As they follow the calendar changes, they'll see them in colors and textures that are appropriately attuned to the new season.

Thomas cottons are woven on silk looms which is the reason why they are so thrilling to feel and look at. Their unusual colors make them distinctive. There are somber and warm shades, iridescent colors, deep purples and reds.

Do you know that "AIR" is the most important life element so you should take your breathing seriously and you know that song called, "The Best Things in Life are Free". And nothing is more free than air or better or more important! You can live without foods for weeks without water for days but can only live without air for a matter of moments. Nothing is more important in this whole, big, wide world! It contains the fuel we use every second of our lives for releasing energy to our billions of cells. It contains the chemical properties that cleanse our bodies so do try and BREATHE properly! So begin to breathe in the proper manner from now on and this is a suggestion. Loosen everything about your neck and waistline. Lie down—relax and let go! Now, breathe in slowly through the nose. Do it gently and very slowly. Now exhale slowly through the mouth. Do this daily. Folks, you will find out how much you have been cheating yourself probably for years of that generous good stuff—just Air! You will notice a big change in your health. It is the best to do this lying down. All this, Your Observer used to do in "GYM" in the Philadelphia schools! Don't tire yourself but begin from ten to twenty times and increase daily. Do this just once daily and if possible before going to bed. Exhale Milady—exhale Sir! You will feel calmer and happier, all the next day!

Did you know that the remains of Puerto Rico's first Governor the renowned explorer, Ponce deLeon is held in the Cathedral of San Juan Bautista in San Juan which is one of the oldest churches under the American flag?

The Aroma of the Gardenias of the five and dime plant is Heavenly which I have now planted in the garden from the winter pot beside the babbling Brook! Nothing could be finer!

How wonderful it was to "sit in" for the ORDINATION SERVICES in the Western Maryland College at the largest class in history—those men giving their lives to the Service of The Kingdom! Each year in these troubled times all over the world it seems to be more sacred!

What Communism really is and how the youngster is taught that they are out to get America and that a third World War is inevitable—that from the Rev. E. Pearce Hayes, D.D. who has been a Missionary in China for thirty years! As I sat there and listened to this learned man and his awful experiences stating "CHRIST IS THE ONLY SALVATION!" if we had more Missionaries teaching these people, a third War could be prevented! A college here in America means about 1500 dollars for a boy to study but a student over there means only 300!

Did you witness on T.V. last week Rocca, Padoisius face the "Villain" team? It surely was exciting, and somehow I did not expect my favorite Wrestler to be tied with a team like that! Eh?

Your Observer hopes to have an interview in the very near future. Watch for that one! And what a grand letter from Arthur Godfrey the other day!

Have a grand week-end. Drive slowly and for a change why not sit on the old front porch and watch the traffic go by! So long until next week. D.V. I am,

Be careful not to prune roots when corn is higher than 15 inches. Use 2-4-D to control weeds that can't be killed by normal cultivation.

FRIDAY JUNE 26, 1953

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

EMPORIA, KANSAS, GAZETTE: "The nation's total 1953 tax bill will be as much as the wages, rents interest and dividends received by all of us during the January 1 to April 22 period. You can read that again but the experts say it is correct. Obviously economical government and eventual tax reduction are in your personal interest."

FAIRFAX, MINN., STANDARD: "The Federal debt now totals $260,000,000,000, which means that the average Federal mortgage on each family is $5,860, in addition to state and local debt mortgages. We will never be able to reduce our debt mortgages and tax liability until government cuts wasteful spending and keeps expenditures within the limits of its income."

CANYON, TEXAS, NEWS: "We have always taken the position that taxes could not be reduced until we had reached the point where we were willing to cut out a lot of foolishness in public spending. If and when we have reached that point, we may expect tax reductions sometime in the future."

MEDFORD, MASS., MERCURY: "A twenty-year backlog can't be cleared in a few months. The government structure reared in the 'dizzy deals' can't be pulled down and put together again overnight. The tax load supporting it can't be cut while the administrative superstructure is being remade without having it all topple down on top of us."

DENVER, COLO., RECORD STOCKMAN: "The American Meat Institute is to be complimented on its research on fats and experiments which may enlarge the market for fat. Experiments have shown that feed rations containing fat will speed growth, improve quality, bring greater feed efficiency and have greater palatability. Maybe our cattle as well as our population will eat us out of the present market situation—thanks to research."

SENATE CLOAKROOM

by J. Glenn Beall
United States Senator from Maryland

A Washington wag recently quipped, "Only the Democrats could have given us both guns and butter, but forgotten about the ammunition."

That remark just about sums up the defense procurement policies of the old Truman administration, and demonstrate the vast problem faced by Defense Secretary, Wilson and President Eisenhower when they arrived in Washington.

The first amazing thing I found out was that in proposed Truman budget for the next fiscal year no funds were included for continuation of the Korean War—and in late 1952 a truce appeared to be far away. Truman's policy was to treat the war as if it were a slight inconvenience that could be expected to dissipate itself.

A Senate sub-committee investigating reports of an ammunition shortage in Korea later discovered that regional ordnance groups were bidding against each other.

While the Air Force was calling for bigger appropriations for more planes, another committee discovered that they were paying five times as much for the same plane built at Willow Run as it was for the same aircraft built in Hagerstown, Md.

When Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg protested cuts in the Air Force budget made by Secretary Wilson, it is not surprising that the committee members were unimpressed.

Production expert Wilson's testimony made good sense to the committee members who have too often seen examples of military waste and extravagance.

Wilson stated that in his opinion, backed by all the experience of running one of the biggest industries in this country, the Air Force could not spend any more money than had been allotted.

Each Congress has found cases where the military services at the end of the fiscal year have made wasteful purchases in order to spend money rather than have it revert to the treasury—such as the millions spent for army overcoats with attached leggings, which in effect tied the GI's legs to the back of his neck.

The Defense Department is out to give the nation more security at less cost, first line airplanes instead of proposed planes on paper, 20 combat army divisions, and a Navy of approximately 408 warships, 16 carrier groups with auxiliary vessels and supporting aircraft.

President Eisenhower has said, "We have reviewed and revised military defense plans to meet realistically the needs of our times. These plans are designed to avoid the need for 'crash' operations meeting sudden unforeseen crises. They are projected ahead for a continuing, not an intermittent, time of crises. We must be ready to meet not merely some sudden, lightning-like attack—but the enduring responsibilities, both military and economic that fall upon us as the leaders of freedom's forces."

These plans put the major emphasis on air power. Hearings showed that previously much of the talk about air strength had been in "paper wings".

Under Wilson's proposal the Air Force will in June 1954 have approximately 25,000 planes, or 114 wings, as compared with 103 wings which it had in March of this year.

Wilson, who is one man who ought to know, states that the Air Force could not be built up any faster in 1954 except by going into emergency production, which would mean that we would be getting planes of a type which would not be as good as those which will be continually improved and developed.

This is the famous Ford Rotunda with its redesigned exterior. Inside, the entire building, long Detroit's principal tourist attraction, will have a completely new series of displays and exhibits to show the progress of the automobile industry and its effect on American life. This artist's conception shows how the building will look when it is reopened to the public about June 1 as part of the company's 50th anniversary observance.

Get Away At Home

Get away from summer's sticky heat. Install window or attic fans in your home.

You'll have cooling breezes throughout the hot summer nights, assuring you and your family sound sleep without gummy bedclothes. Summer living becomes truly enjoyable as fresh, cool air circulates throughout the rooms.

Fan cooling is a practical and inexpensive method of making your home comfortable in hot weather. Attic fans pull in cool night air, exhaust hot, stale air. Window fans are easily installed and easily moved, can be plugged into any electric outlet. There's a fan for every need, every budget.

Don't suffer from the heat—install electric fans.

NO PRIVACY!

A millionaire was playing golf with his daughter on the St. Andrews course in Scotland for five pounds a hole. Already irritated because he had lost three holes in succession, he really blew his top when a missed putt of less than two feet cost him still another. He looked up angrily but not a soul had said one word, or moved an inch. The green was perfect. The wind had subsided completely.

Suddenly, however, the millionaire spied a tiny boat in the distance, just over the horizon. He threw his putter angrily on the ground and grumbled, "How the heck can anybody putt with all these ships sailing around here?"

An Out

Wife—"John, I'm awfully disappointed. You haven't given me anything for my twenty-ninth birthday."

Husband—"Twenty-ninth? You have forgotten, darling. I gave it you last year."

Mature Lover

A young relative of Prof. Irwin Edman saw a big worm crawling in a garden, seized a knife from a table and casually cut the worm in two.

Irwin protested, "What made you do a thing like that?"

The youngster explained, "The worm looked lonely. I thought he ought to have a friend."

CAUGHT IN ACT

Mrs. Robinson was an extremely careful mother and had repeatedly cautioned her six-year-old daughter against handling any object that might contain germs. One day the little girl came in and said:

"Mother, I am never going to play with my puppy any more, because he has germs on him."

"Oh, no!" replied her mother. "There are no germs on your puppy."

"Yes, there are," insisted the child. "I saw one hop."

Smart Girl

Then there was the girl who soaked her strapless evening gown in coffee to make it stay up all night.

Good Judgment

Pop: "You never kiss me except when you want money."

Mom: "Well, isn't that often enough?"

PERFECT ROLE

Two friends, one married and the other a bachelor, were at the latest play, admiring the performance of a famous actor.

"By Jove," the married man murmured, "he's wonderful. The way he displays affection toward the leading lady, eh?"

"Yes—pretty good," the bachelor agreed, "but, you know he's been married to her for eighteen years."

"What? Really married! Gosh—what an actor!"

No More Whistle Stops!

"It's obvious that I'm growing old," sighed the lady. "The conductor never helps me onto the bus any more."

SETTLE FOR LESS

"What's the shape of the earth?" asked the teacher, calling suddenly on Wee Willie.

"Round," said Wee Willie.

"How do you know it's round?"

"Well," says Willie, "it's square then; I dinna want any argument about it."

ANSWERS
YOUR QUESTIONS

Q. Should birds on the range have a drinking-water medicine?

A. Yes, indeed! Keep on giving growing birds Dr. Salsbury's Ren-O-Sal for greatest growth benefits. Birds grow faster, look better, lay earlier when they get Ren-O-Sal. Besides, Ren-O-Sal is so handy to have around if cecal coccidiosis strikes. It aids in control of this disease. Use Ren-O-Sal for both its purposes -- for more profit this year!

FEESERSBURG

Summer didn't creep up on us, for on Sunday it let us know for sure that it was officially here. With the temperatures in the 90's every one tried to keep cool in one way or another. We enjoyed a swim in the pool at Crouse's near Littlestown and found lots of others with the same idea. It would be a fine idea to build a pool in Union Bridge. It would pay for itself in no time, and give so many people a great deal of pleasure. From time to time this suggestion has been brought before the town council and the Chamber of Commerce, but no concrete action has ever been exerted to make the suggestion a reality. Would someone like to start the project rolling? While the weather is hot and people are in the mood for a swim, would be a good time to work on the idea.

The farm and home are listed by insurance companies as the places where most accidents occur. This fact was proven last week when two of our citizens met with falls which proved serious. Mrs. Scott Crabbs fell from a tractor and sprained her ankle and Mrs. Clarence Jackson fell from a ladder while painting and seriously injured her back. Mrs. Crabbs was chair bound for a time and Mrs. Jackson is at the Frederick Memorial Hospital awaiting the outcome of her injuries, which we hope are not as serious as first anticipated.

Larry Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Myers was operated on last week at Kernan's Hospital, Baltimore. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bohn visited him on Sunday and found him taking to hospital life like a duck to water.

Since June is the month of brides it may be interesting to many to learn where the bridal veil first came in to common use. As most of our other customs were handed down from past civilizations so the bridal veil came to us from the Greeks and Romans. It was first worn to conceal and protect the bride from evil spirits that was supposed to harm her if she were not veiled.

Mosquito time is here and while most of us take for granted that all mosquitos bite, this is not true. The male is strictly a vegetarian. Only the female is fitted for biting and blood sucking.

The Ben Kings entertained the following guests over the week-end: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rosenbaum and son and Dale Hyatt and Layne Nodgrass, all of Jonesville, Va.

It is ideal weather for hay making but other crops are in need of rain. It doesn't seem possible that only a month ago we were wishing that it would stop raining for a time.

The column is short this week because the farm is taking a lot of our time. Right now I have two baskets of red cherries waiting for me to put them in jars and in the freezer. I imagine the reader is just as busy, so until we have more time let us get our work done.

God marks the sparrow's fall; He sets the stars and turns the world; All this He does, and then—He gave the Cross to man.

Who Can Be Glad?

Lesson for June 28, 1953

EVERYBODY with a grain of sense wants to be happy. Most sensible people also know the kind of happiness they want, though some of them have not yet found the way to get it. What we really want is a happiness that will not melt in the rains of "misfortune," will not slip from our grasp in the nights of sorrow, will not be blown away by the winds of disappointment. What we want, in short, is happiness that will last. Furthermore, if we are grown persons and not children, we want a happiness that goes much deeper than the surface. We don't want one that is tied to things. We want a happiness that reaches the inside of our lives and is not a mere glamorous finish on the outside.

Dr. Foreman

Handicaps Of Happiness

That very practical friend of God and man, Saint Paul, is a solid example of how true happiness can prevail over the most disheartening handicaps. Many a man in his situation would say to himself: Happiness is just not possible for me. If things were only different, I could be happy. But consider the handicaps of Paul's happiness. He was a Jew in the Roman Empire, and a Christian among Jews—a member of a minority group either way you take it. He was in a situation where his future was most uncertain. If Paul had waited for "security" he never would have known happiness to his dying day. He was never a well man; at the time of the Philippian letter he was a prisoner. Freedom, health, security, power—he lacked all these. But he did not lack happiness. If Paul could find happiness, so can any one.

The Christian Secret

If happiness is a secret, it is an open one. You do not have to join some mysterious order, there are no dues, you do not have to make some tremendous pilgrimage to learn the secret of true happiness. It is a secret known to Christians, and the Christian brotherhood is no closed fraternity, its doors are wide open as the gate of heaven. Paul put the main point into three Greek words which in English mean: "To live is Christ." What he meant his life showed plainly.

For one thing, he looked out at the world through the eyes of Christ. Nothing could quite discourage him, take the heart out of him; for he was as sure as Christ is sure that this is God's world and "He is the ruler yet." His hands were Christ's hands, his work was Christ's work. One of Jesus' last words was "that my joy may be in you." Paul knew what that meant. Furthermore, Paul's whole self was devoted to Christ. He knew that his life, uncertain as it was to himself, was not uncertain to God. He knew himself to be gripped by the power of the Son of God. He knew he was a son of destiny—not his own destiny alone but Christ's. So he could face the future as our Christian poet Whit-tier faced it.

Why Aren't All Christians Happy?

A prize-winning photograph was taken by a news photographer in Louisville, Kentucky, a year or two ago. All he did was to take an unposed picture of a street corner where perhaps 25 persons were waiting for the light to change. Not a happy face in the lot. Is it possible that not one in that group was a Christian? On the contrary, it is most likely that a majority of those unhappy faces belonged to church members. It looks as if we were wrong in saying that happiness is a Christian secret.

No, the truth is that plenty of Christians have not yet discovered it. Many Christians are like people who have inherited great wealth and do not know it, or do not dare to believe it. They say, in church, they believe in "God the Father Almighty," but weekdays they show that they either don't believe He is almighty, or don't believe He is truly their Father. They sing, on Sundays, "I'm the child of a King," or "How firm a foundation"—but on weekdays they act as if they were orphans in the universe, they are as wobbly as if they had no foundation at all. They sing, maybe, "Standing on the Promises," but if you asked them point-blank, "What promises of God are you standing on?" they would not have the least idea, because they didn't mean what they sang.

SHORT STORY

You'll Love Aunt Wilma

By JOHN TREVOR

THE SIGNBOARD said: "To Oceanview" and there was an arrow.

It was a dismal looking place. Jeff frowned. Somehow he couldn't associate the exquisite and delicate loveliness of Mona with these surroundings; yet he had followed her directions to the letter. The shack in the marsh grass was the only visible habitation for miles.

There was something queer about it. Ten days ago Jeff had said good-bye to Mona, avowing that it was the last time he would ever see her. This had been a month after their first meeting, and the reason for the definite farewell was Rex Van Nuys. Jeff hadn't learned about Rex until two weeks after his introduction to Mona. He had heard, indirectly, that the two were engaged. When he had subtly questioned her she had denied nothing. And so because he knew the longer he postponed breaking away the more heartrending it would be. Jeff had decided to do so at once. He hadn't seen her for 10 days, and then, unexpectedly, Mona had called him by phone and asked him down to her Aunt Wilma's cottage for a week-end.

Ten minutes later Jeff stopped his roadster in front of the cottage veranda. A tiny old lady with grey hair was sitting in a rocking chair knitting. She didn't look up when he came to the foot of the steps. He felt queer. There was no one else about. He cleared his throat. The little old lady's fingers flew with amazing speed. Jeff wondered if she were deaf. He said: "I beg your pardon."

The needles continued to fly in the little old lady's hands.

The needles continued to fly in the little old lady's hands. After a minute she stopped, glanced up, sighed. "Well, there! I made a bet with Mona I'd get that sweater done before quarter to four, and I've done it. Goodness! It was some job. You're Jeff Weatherbee. Well, come up and set. Mona's not here and the others aren't coming."

Jeff blinked. "Why—" he began, but the old lady said:

"I'm Aunt Wilma." She blanced over her spectacles. "Here's Mona now!"

Jeff turned. A girl had rounded a corner of the house. She had yellow hair, which hung over her shoulders in two long braids. There was a band of green velvet around her head. She wore a man's shirt, white shorts, yellow socks and sneakers. She stared at Jeff without smiling and without blinking. Jeff swallowed. It was Mona, all right, but far removed from the gorgeously gowned Mona he had known—

"Hello, Jeff. I see you've met Aunt Wilma. I'm sorry the others couldn't come. Get your bags and I'll show you your room."

Jeff obeyed automatically. Mona led him to a room which overlooked the back marsh. It was hot and stuffy. He changed to flannels and sweater. When he returned below stairs, Aunt Wilma was sitting on the porch reading Gertrude Stein out loud. Mona was on the steps. Mona said:

"Sit down and listen. Don't you think Gertrude Stein is divine? We do."

"I like the moon and the moon likes me," said Aunt Wilma. "How much are bananas?"

Jeff reached for a cigaret. "Aunt Wilma disapproves of smoking," Mona told him, and he let go the cigaret. Aunt Wilma went on reading.

Jeff wet his lips. He didn't know what to say or do. Mona didn't look at him, but stared at the ocean. Aunt Wilma called to them from inside the house.

They had strawberries and cream and buttered bread for supper. Afterward they listened to Aunt Wilma reading Gertrude Stein. Then they went to bed. The next morning Jeff said he had to get back to town. No one seemed very much surprised, but Mona said she'd ride up as far as the store with him and walk back. So they set out. When they reached the evergreen grove Jeff stopped the car. He turned to Mona. "Listen," he said, "I don't get it."

She smiled and seemed to understand. "I can explain," she said. "Aunt Wilma's odd in her ways. We all try to humor her. You'll love her once you get to know her better."

"Oh, so I'm going to know her better?"

"I thought you might." She looked away. "I broke off with Rex. You've made it hard, telling you."

Tomato Kings Set Pace for Top Yields

Boosting this year's tomato yields and quality can be done even with unfavorable weather, as the Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey Ten-Ton Tomato Clubs have proved.

The basic rules they follow are: give the best soil to the crop; use only certified plants, virtually all southern grown; fertilize and plant properly; cultivate adequately; pay close attention to disease and insect control; harvest for top quality. In planning ahead, they make sure the land is well-prepared, with good organic content and liming, land on which crops not closely related to tomatoes have been used in rotation. That Tri-State processors were able to contribute nearly 115 million cans of tomatoes to the nation's larder last year is because growers like these managed to bring so much of the crop through unfavorable weather.

Delaware's 1952 Ten-Ton Tomato Club champion, Frederick W. Haas (upper left) of Middletown realized 13.6 tons per acre on 39.6 acres, more than three times the state average of 5.2 tons. His son, William, (upper right) won in the junior project with a 17.7 ton yield. Class II winner Franklin J. Roe of Magnolia scored 17.5 tons with 6.9 acres. Against Maryland's state average, 5.3 tons, large acreage winner Clifford B. Smith (lower left) averaged 12.97 tons on 18 Harford County acres, while Delmos Rill of Baltimore County tallied 16.62 tons on 3 acres. New Jersey's John G. Borton (lower right) of Woodstown reported the top yield of 16.97 tons on 20 acres. The average of the New Jersey club members was 11.67. The state level: 5.5 tons.

In good years yields have been so high that one state, Maryland, has special awards for farmers topping 20 tons per acre. Practices vary considerably, within basic rules. For example, spraying was generally preferred—Haas, for one, sprayed 11 times. Some growers combined, as did Roe, who dusted three times, sprayed four. While Rutgers tomatoes dominated, the Borton farm had nearly 30 tons an acre from Queens.

Growers, both seniors and juniors, will find help from their county agent or canner's fieldman on best local practices and how to compete for the glory—and awards which are provided—of being a 1953 state Tomato King.

There's only one answer...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Fleet operators, farmers, independent truckers—truck users everywhere—buy more Chevrolets than any other make. There can be only one reason for that: Chevrolet trucks offer more of what you want.

As the official registration figures keep rolling in, they keep telling the same positive story about truck popularity and truck value: Again in 1953, for the twelfth straight production year, truck buyers show a clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks. If you're a truck user, this fact is mighty important to you. Why? Well, as you know, trucks are built and bought for just one reason—to do a job. So isn't it logical then that since Chevrolet trucks outsell all others, they must do a better job at lower cost?

That's why it will pay you to stop in and see us before you buy your next truck.
