SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

Urgent Appeal to Motorists to "Play It Safe"

A safer and saner Fourth of July holiday week-end was called for yesterday by Keystone Automobile Club in an urgent appeal to motorists everywhere to "play it safe", particularly on the highways.

Many millions of Americans will be planning days of fun and frolic on automobile trips, picnics and other outings of every conceivable variety. So, once again, as on every holiday week-end, roads to anywhere and everywhere will be clogged to the saturation point with cars and people.

"The great danger facing the motoring public is obvious and real," declared August G. Detlof, Manager of the Club in Maryland. "It is greater than ever this year because of the greatly increased number of cars on the roads and because the highways no longer can safely accommodate the tremendous flow of motor vehicles pleasurebound on holidays.

"Carelessness, recklessness and disregard of the rights of others can make the upcoming Fourth of July week-end a black mark on the calendar. The spectre of injury and death will be lessened only if the individual driver accepts his obvious responsibility for the safety of himself and others, curbs impatience and practices courtesy, drives a mechanically perfect car, and observes to the letter every rule of the road for sensible and safe driving.

"Forbidding the sale and use of dangerous fireworks in Fourth of July celebrations was a great forward step in safety. A far greater forward step toward a really safe and sane holiday would be a concerted nationwide effort by every motorist to do his part in avoiding and preventing highway accidents. Playing it safe then indeed would be playing it smart."

EDITOR AND PUBLISHER HEADS KIWANIS

Delegates attending the 38th annual convention of Kiwanis International at New York, New York elected a prominent editor and publisher from Carthage, Illinois, to head the organization in the year ahead.

Officers of the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown were informed today that Donald T. Forsythe, who publishes The Carthage Journal, Carthage, Illinois, would succeed Walter J. L. Ray, Detroit, Michigan, as president of Kiwanis International, which is now comprised of over 3,600 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Yukon Territory.

DONALD T. FORSYTHE

President-elect Forsythe is a past president of the Illinois Press Association and a life member of the Northwestern University Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity. In May 1949, he was elected first president of the Greater Weeklies Associates, Inc., an organization comprised of more than 250 weekly newspapers. He was re-elected to that office in 1950 and chairman of the board of directors in 1951. He is now a member of the board, elected at the April convention in New York City.

He is director of the Marine Trust Company of Carthage, a member of the Board of Carthage College, and was active in organizing a department of journalism at the school.

A Kiwanian for 27 years, the new president will assume office August 1. During the past year he served as treasurer of Kiwanis International. He had previously been an International trustee and governor of the Illinois-Eastern Iowa District.

Delegates to the New York convention, which drew an adult attendance exceeding 11,000 men and women from all sections of Canada and the United States, also elected two vice presidents, a treasurer, and six trustees.

Vice presidents are Ralph D. Steele of Chatham, Ontario, an attorney, and John R. Wright of Lakeland, Florida, a realtor.

Don. E. Engdahl of Spokane, Washington, a manufacturer, was elected treasurer of the organization.

Trustees elected for two years include Luman W. Holman of Jacksonville, Texas, a lumberman; Everett F. Penshorn of Jamaica Plain, Mass., a roofing contractor; Simon H. (Sy) Reynolds of Rochester, New York, an advertising executive; Albert J. Tulley of Mobile, Alabama, a lawyer; Reed C. Culp of Salt Lake City, Utah, a broker; W. Donald Dubail of West St. Louis, Missouri, an attorney. The latter two men are re-elected trustees.

STAY AT AQUATIC SCHOOL DESCRIBED

Young People Tell of Their Visit at Beach Lake

"Thanks to the American Red Cross, I'm a lot better equipped to serve my community." That's the reaction of Jane Shaffer, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shaffer, City View Avenue, Westminster, to a 10-day stay at the Red Cross National Aquatic School at Beach Lake, Pennsylvania. Attending the school also was Miss Patricia Senseney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Senseney, 108 W. Main Street, Westminster and William Richards, Vet Village.

These 3 candidates to Aquatic school were sent by the Carroll county Chapter. The school, which trains young people to be instructors in first aid, swimming, life saving and small craft handling, was one of 30 held over the nation by the American National Red Cross. The school at Trail's End, Pennsylvania, ran from June 16 through June 26. "The big thing that impressed me," said Miss Shaffer, "was the way everybody pitched in to get the job done." Bill Richards said the faculty of the school is made up of Red Cross volunteers and staff members. "We were kept busy every minute of the day," Pat and Jane said. "We started at 6:30 in the morning and didn't stop until lights out at night. You felt tired when you turned in at night, but it was a lot of fun."

A sample day for students went something like this: 6:30 a. m., rise and shine; 7 a. m., breakfast; 8 a. m., first aid instruction; 10 a. m., swimming instruction; followed by a rest period and lunch; 1:30 p. m., leadership training; 4 p. m., canoeing or boating instruction; dinner is followed by a study hour or seminar, with recreation after that; 10:30 p. m., lights out. "That's a pretty rough schedule," Pat Senseney said, "but we had our time off for a talent night, sports competition, community singing and a water show." The water ballet last Sunday featured a queen and two attendants. One of the attendants chosen was our own Pat Senseney. We feel very proud that she was selected among 140 girls attending the school. This indicates how talented and trained Miss Senseney has shown herself to be.

"Another thing I liked about the school was meeting so many other people from different parts of the country," Pat said. The girl chosen queen of the water ballet was from Sweden. She has lived in New York City just about a year; the other attendant was from New York State.

But aside from the friendships made Bill Richards feels he got a lot out of the 10 days at the National Aquatic school. "I've got my Red Cross water safety instructor certificate now," he said, "so I can pass on to others the skills I've learned." The training these 3 candidates got from the Red Cross will help to cut down the needless loss of lives from drowning. The local chapter opens the summer season on Monday morning, July 6, at Mr. Bollinger's Eastview Pool. Anyone interested in learning to swim, or perfecting the skills they have learned, is invited to enroll at 9 a. m., at the pool, or by calling the local Red Cross office, Westminster 212.

HUSTLER'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS MEETS

The regular monthly meeting of the Hustler's Sunday School class was held on June 30, 1953 at the home of Dottie Ann Baker. There were 10 members present. The group sang, "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus." The meeting was called to order by the president. We then prayed the Lord's Prayer in unison. Doris Stonesifer read the Scripture reading Psalm 82. The minutes were read by the secretary and approved. Treasurers report was read and approved. Dues were then taken for the evening. The old business consisted of the trip to Hershey. We have decided to take the trip on July 25, 1953 in the Hess bus located at Silver Run.

The new business consisted of the discussion about having a bake sale in the near future. The class has also decided to have another play on Nov. 5 and 6, 1953, in the High School auditorium. Keep this date in mind. The play will be a comedy. The meeting was closed by the repeating of Benediction in unison. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Helen Bankard. The class then watched T.V. and enjoyed delicious refreshments served by the hostess.

HELP FIGHT JAPANESE BEETLES

A generous supply of spore dust, to combat the spread of the Japanese Beetle, has been received in Carroll County, according to word from the County Agent, Mr. Landon C. Burns.

This spore dust, when applied to the soil of lawns and meadow-lands, will inoculate the soil against the Japanese Beetle grub and greatly reduce the infestation of beetles. Residents in Carroll County may obtain a spore dust application to their properties by making application to the County Agent's office, Westminster, Maryland.

A limited supply of traps and bait are available, and leases may be obtained from the County Agent's office as long as the supply lasts. Traps and bait may be obtained from the storage barn below the County jail, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings from 8:30 a. m. until 12 noon.

TRYOUT CAMP

Young Baseball Players Will Be Given Opportunity

Westminster, Md., will be one of the first sites of the St. Louis Cardinals' nation-wide tryout camps when Red Bird Scouts will look for diamond talent at City Playgrounds on Monday and Tuesday, July 6 and 7.

Manager Eddie Stanky stressed the importance of tryout camps by relating that, "The Cardinals, since 1926 when they won their first pennant and World Series, have been a first division ball club in 23 years out of 27 primarily because they operate the finest farm system ever seen in professional baseball."

Stanky pointed out that the majority of the players on the Red Bird roster are products of the Cardinal farm system, many of whom were first discovered in tryout camps.

"Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter, Al

EDDIE STANKY

Schoendienst, Solly Hemus, Wilmer Mizell and Gerry Staley to name just six, are products of the Cardinal farm system," Stanky said. "I think that this lineup alone proves the worth of operating tryout camps as a means of supplying young talent to such a successful system."

Each summer the St. Louis National Leaguers conduct tryout camps throughout the country in search of potential big league stars.

The Cardinal farm system, composed of 17 clubs throughout 14 states and Canada, is today the largest in the world. "Major league talent," emphasized the Red Bird skipper, "must be developed in the minors. And today the Red Birds offer young players the best chance for development and advancement in the professional ranks."

Players who report for the workouts each day at 10 a. m. are to bring their own shoes, glove and a uniform if they have one. Expenses incident to attending the camp will be refunded by the Cardinals to all players signed to a minor league contract.

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

James D. Ferguson, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ferguson of Rt. 2, Taneytown, Md., is serving with the U. S. Sixth Fleet aboard the minesweeper USS Tanager.

At sea the ship operates with other vessels of the 6th Fleet on routine training exercises.

HARNEY GIRLS 4-H

The bake sale held by the Harney 4-H Club was successful with the sum of $19.42 as the money made.

On the week of August 3-8, 1953, Maryland will hold its 31st 4-H week. This event will take place at the University of Maryland at College Park.

The next meeting will be held July 13, 1953 at the home of Mrs. Helen Null.

WELFARE BOARD BEGINS WAITING LIST FOR NEEDY

Beginning July 1st the Carroll County Welfare Board will not have sufficient money to give assistance to all the people eligible for it. All persons who apply after June 22nd and show they are in need must be placed on a waiting list until more money becomes available. This action was decided upon because the last legislative session cut a large amount of State funds from the Welfare budget. The Carroll County Welfare Board will continue to take applications for assistance but will be able to give help only as more funds are available to the very needy individuals and families. Others must wait even though they have proven that they have no means to provide for themselves. Despite the fact that they have no foreseeable way to provide for themselves except by the help of friends and neighbors, the Welfare Board cannot give assistance unless cuts are restored from some source.

This same cut also affects foster children who come under care of the agency.

The Carroll County Welfare Board and the State Department of Public Welfare are working toward obtaining additional State funds to continue giving help where it is needed and at the time it is needed so that waiting lists can be taken care of.

Milk is one of the few foods where there is no waste.

KEEP LIVESTOCK COOL TO KEEP PRODUCTION UP

Cool Shade and Water Good for Animals

When temperatures go up, there's nothing nicer than cool shade and water. And what's good for man is good for beast, according to extension livestock and dairy specialists at the University of Maryland.

Shade and water are two of the most important and practical things that can be done to make animals comfortable and productive in hot summer weather, they say.

Most permanent pastures were picked because they had natural shade and water, but now that fields in the rotation are being used for pasture by more and more farmers, closely shaded and water are sometimes lacking.

One way to get around this is to give stock access to permanent pastures or barn lots providing plenty of cool, clean water and shade. Loafing barns or sheds are usually cool, if well ventilated.

If pastures are fertile and green, animals don't have to spend all day out in the sun in order to keep well filled. Dairy cows, especially, will appreciate being able to get filled in several hours of grazing in the cooler early morning and late evening hours.

If the dairyman has large fans or an idle hay drier which can be used to force air through the stable, it may pay to use them. One Harford county dairyman, Charles Collier, of Darlington, puts his cows out to pasture during the cool hours of the day, and brings them in when it gets hot. Forced ventilation in the stable keeps cows comfortable, and the herd is fed grass silage to keep feed intake high.

Beef cattle in this area don't need elaborate provisions to keep them cool. An ideal situation is a green pasture with a tree shaded stream. Animals have to be kept in a lot, an open shed will provide cool shade. If animals must be kept in barns during hot weather, it will be a good idea to make sure there is ample ventilation.

Swine have little ability to get rid of excess heat. That's why they like to wallow in water. Many hog farmers find it profitable to provide concrete floored wallows that can be kept clean, instead of letting the pigs seek comfort in unsanitary and unpleasant mudholes. If hogs are pastured, they need shade. Trees are ideal, but if they are not available a simple structure should be built to provide shade.

Sheep will also benefit on good pasture that is well watered and shady, but if unavailable, a moveable shelter or a darkened and well ventilated shed will do the trick.

JOINS P. E. SALES FORCE

A Roger Luttrell has joined the sales staff of the Potomac Edison Company, in Taneytown, it has been announced by District Manager S. E. Broth.

He will be working in cooperation with P. E. salesman S. E. Remsburg, utility company salesman here for years. P. E.'s new salesman started with the utility in 1937 when he was first employed in Frostburg, Md. He was later transferred to other company posts in Taneytown, Frederick and Berkeley Springs and gained a valuable background in electrical appliances and their operation.

Mr. Luttrell and his family are presently residing in Union Bridge. He is a member of the Methodist Church and is a member of the Lions Club.

TANEYTOWN WOMAN IS TRAP SHOOTING CHAMP

Mrs. Marjorie Smith, Taneytown, again captured the Maryland Woman's Championship Trap Shooting Saturday at the Oriole Club, Baltimore.

There were four in the contest with 91 out of 100. Janet Stansbury and Mrs. Smith had to shoot a tie, giving Mrs. Smith 23 out of 25 and Janet 18 out of 25. Mrs. Smith is now eligible to participate in the Grand Nationals in Vandalia, Ohio. Mrs. Smith and her husband, Robert Smith were both winners last year for the state and Mrs. Smith was among the top high in the Grand Nationals. Mrs. Smith is owner and manager of The Spinning Wheel, the antique magazine in Taneytown.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning. A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

"In a Cottage small by a Water-fall!" Remember that song, Folks? Your Observer spends the summer in just such a place a few miles from the Parsonage. The babbling Brook sings all the long day through which is music to my ears and relaxing to one's nerves!

Remember way back when, Your Observer prepared the barn at "Loves' Re-treat" for the "coming of the calf" and how sad it was when Nellie went away? I kept the little stool, the buckets, the brush and the milk pail for a day when I would see another cow as gentle and a real family one. So now I have another cow named "Nellie" also a Quernsey and this is her first calf although it is a little Bull!

Paging the company that handles that wonderful feed of "PURINA!"

We cannot get that brand here and will they inform me of their close dealer to Bel Air?

Well, Folks these days do try and have your feet breathe by removing your shoes and stockings and walk out on the grass. That would be wonderful for the tired business man. You will find that it will do wonders in so short a time. Don't let your feet embarrass you. Treat them kindly and they will treat you kindly! No wonder all the Kiddies love to be barefooted!

Betcha—that our "IKE" will never dispose of "Shang ri La". He likes the place very much and I don't blame him.

Ladies, from Wanamaker's it's the HIGH WAIST LINE creeping in for the new sensations in Midway's costume for day or evening wear.

Hair-Do's are still getting shorter and shorter as the hot weather continues and causes Mr. Husband to be plenty mad! Lots of promises being broken and I think, Ladies you know just what I mean! Nuff Sed!

"Doing Something for The Boys at Aberdeen Hospital" as to the "GRAY LADY" Service is wonderful as so many of those young men are from states far away. It truly is that "HOMEY" touch that counts and they are most appreciative. They look forward to the "GRAY LADY" daily. THE CEREMONY of "The Capping" will write about in a later column.

Whoever said that the Public does not appreciate good music is entirely wrong for the evidence of the opening of the 24th season of Robin Hood Dell in Philadelphia in Fairmount Park proved that the public does love good music. This was on Monday night, June 22nd as 17,000 persons turned out to show their appreciation to hear the finest in cultural programs given by top musicians. The concert was the version of Puccini's "MADAME BUTTERFLY" beautifully presented by Maestro Ormandy and the Dell Orchestra assisted by five soloists and a well trained chorus. And Puccini's lovely orchestration glowed with exceptional color under the Conductor Ormandy's dynamic leadership. And all of you know the sweet love story of the Opera "MADAME BUTTERFLY!"

Your Observer recalls the lovely Opera years ago in Philadelphia when Carolina White was the Operatic store and sang so beautifully as she said, "Goodbye" to her American lover.

In my next column I will write you about Rocca whom I expect to interview this Tuesday night! Watch for that one! Of course I will remain for the show, too!

When buying a "USED" car be sure you go to a reliable concern where you have confidence. Remember "Lincoln" which I bought from a man who advertised himself as "HONEST JOHN!" Dozens were gyped until finally the law caught up with him.

Ummmmmmmm—just ate some of the grand Red Raspberries from the garden. Nothing could be finer. Did you make that grand drink for your very special summer guests of which I wrote you last year called, "RASPBERRY VINEGAR!"

A sweet letter arrived from a "bride to be" asking about keeping her Maiden name after she is the "MRS." Of course, keep your name—just add the new one which you are taking when you sign your name. Perhaps, you have noticed that Your Observer has never, never dropped hers and never, never will!

It is really much nicer that way anyway. Why should one give up her own name when she can just add another one to it?

V.S.S., don't worry about religion when marrying. Love is THE GREATEST THING and if you have love you have religion! See what I mean? But—never, never have words over any Faith or Denomination. All religions were made by MAN with the exception of the Jewish religion! Always remember, Folks be "ANXIOUS FOR NOTHING—PRAYERFUL FOR EVERYTHING AND THANKFUL FOR ANYTHING!"

Have a grand week-end with a real pleasant 4th. Will be seeing you D. V. I am,

Faithfully,

YOUR OBSERVER.

FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1953

A DAY OF CELEBRATION—AND REFLECTION

Our Fourth of July, with its parades, brass bands, bunting, orations, fireworks, is a symbol. It celebrates the wresting of power from a privileged few and investing it in "We, the people."

The world is troubled today. How to get the most out of life? Ways and means. It naturally involves social compacts, such as communism, socialism, fascism, totalitarianism. And Americanism.

Two opinions are in deadly conflict.

In man's pursuit of happiness, is it better for him to permit a small group to plan and order his daily life? By compulsion, to mould him into subordination to a plan?

Or, to exhort him, through an inquiring mind, to think and act for himself, with confidence that he himself is competent and willing to do what should be done?

The first depends upon arbitrary power, which, too often, becomes despotic.

The second depends upon encouragement of the individual, by precept and example.

The first ideology is communism or socialism.

The second is the American Way.

As we observe the Fourth of July parade, 1953, take note that it is not compulsory. You can fall in line, or go fishing. The other system has its parades, too. But under the disciplinary eye of the Kremloins, you get in line, or else—

As Americans, we still have the freedom to choose. That's why we celebrate.—By W. Alton Jones, Chairman of the Board, Cities Service Co.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

President Eisenhower, you may recall, suggested that this year the Fourth of July be made a day of prayer. It may well be in order, we think, to extend our prayers through July eighth, when the President, Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and the new Premier of France (if they have one by then) are to meet in Bermuda.

The White House party will fly over to the British island in the Presidential plane "Columbine" on the seventh, where they will be met by Sir Winston, the one-time First Lord of the Admiralty who is steaming over aboard Her Majesty's Ship Vanguard.

Mr. Churchill, who first aired his wish for the conference on May 22, and was only temporarily embarrassed by the fall of the French Government a few hours later, is again, with his traditional determination, having his own way. His latest suggestion is that at least some of the top-level meetings be heard aboard the Vanguard—so that the conferences won't be annoyed by reporters.

We can only hope that our President has not forgotten the "Atlantic Charter" hoax that was dreamed up by Sir Winnie and an earlier American president—also aboard a cattle-ship—that no matter how skillfully he side-stepped repudiating secret agreements of the past, the American people are not seeking any new ones—and that ever since Woodrow Wilson's triumphal journey to Paris in 1919, foreign travel has not imparted to our chief executives the widely-advertised benefits.

Considering how hard up England is, especially after the Coronation, it would have been much cheaper for the Prime Minister to take a plane to Washington. Ike could have put him up right across the street at Blair House at no cost to Her Majesty whatever, and the business of the US could have gone on with only minor interruption. But there would be those newspaper chaps again. And even Congress might still have been in session.—National Industries News Service.

(The above-mentioned meeting has been postponed due to illness of Prime Minister Churchill but we still think the idea of prayer is excellent even though the big three do not meet.—Ed. note.)

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DOVER, DELA., STATE NEWS: "We were guests at the meeting of the Dover Rotary Club. And we were greatly impressed—in the way that Larry Livingston—drove home a very essential message about our democratic way of life. Having just returned from a tour in Europe there was added conviction in the words of Mr. Livingston when he pointed out how business enterprise in this country, large and small, makes progress by working together. For this is really how the American dream of better life comes true."

BALTIMORE, MD., DAILY RECORD: "It is unfortunate that the charitable instincts of the public should ever be taken advantage of by unscrupulous individuals, but there are plenty of instances where 'charity rackets' have gathered in a lot of dollars. The only safe thing to do if you are approached is to check with your local Better Business Bureau or Association of Commerce."

GREENVILLE, TEXAS, EVENING BANNER: "What of the future? Bayard L. England, president of Edison Electric Institute, says that air conditioning, dustproof and insect proof, will be as common as radio, and the push-button equipment will be more completely automatic than is dreamed of now. Thus the home manager will have still more time for community affairs and enjoying life. And perhaps, with those electric brain machines, the men will have time for extra activities—such as darning their own socks."

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. Glenn Beall
United States Senator from Maryland

During the last fifty years the United States has appropriated $45,668,800 flood control projects and improvements to Maryland's rivers and harbors.

So far, this session of Congress has approved the sum of $1,875,000 for such work in the 1954 fiscal year—differences between the House and Senate action will send the bill to a conference committee, where it is anticipated the House will concede to the amounts approved by the Senate.

Maryland, with its large coast line on the Atlantic Ocean and the Chesapeake Bay, and numerous streams and tidal estuaries, has many small harbors for pleasure craft and fishing boats.

Our long coast line makes it necessary that we secure more money for maintenance and improvement to our rivers and harbors than the inland states, and our Western Maryland streams, such as the Potomac, make it necessary for flood control projects.

The $1,875,000 approved by the Senate subcommittee on Army Civil Functions for 1954 is for work on the following projects.

Baltimore City Harbor Improvements	$425,000
Cumberland Flood Control	$950,000
Anacostia River Flood Control	500,000

(Bladensburg Peace Cross)
The Baltimore Harbor work was authorized in 1936, and later legislation provided for a 39-foot channel, and also for continuing maintenance projects for collection and removal of drift.

In 1936 Congress also authorized the flood protection for Cumberland and Ridgeley, West Virginia; included was the Savage River Dam which was recently completed. The entire estimated cost of the flood control work is $14,738,100 of which $4,889,200 has been appropriated so far.

The $500,000 approved for flood control work in the Anacostia River Basin is the first construction money authorized for the Bladensburg, Hyattsville, and Riverdale areas.

This project is unusual in that the State and local governments are sharing the cost. Maryland has authorized $425,000 for this work, which is estimated to cost $7,553,000.

This area, just across the District line, has suffered from flash floods for a number of years, and motor traffic is frequently inconvenienced by floods which made Routes 1 and 50 impassable.

The U. S. Army Engineers state that they will be able to begin construction as soon as the Federal funds are available, and it is estimated that Maryland will spend over $2,000,000 to the Federal Government's $500,000 during the 1954 fiscal year.

CAROLINE COUNTY EXEMPTS FROM TAXATION

Chapter 763 of the Laws of Maryland, 1953, as signed by the Governor on May 6, provides for manufacturers' exemptions from taxation in Caroline county. "In order to encourage and induce the expansion, growth, and development of new and established manufacturing" in the County, new plants valued at $50,000 and over, and expansions of established firms valued at not under $25,000, are exempted from county and municipal taxation for a period of 10 years from the completion of the new unit. The exemption applies to land, buildings, tools, implements, machinery, manufacturing apparatus, and engines used in manufacturing.

God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it.—Daniel Webster.

Love and Truth make free, but evil and error lead into captivity.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Love's Bestowals

A LITTLE girl was talking excitedly to an older child about her big sister, who, it seems, knew everything and did everything to perfection. The older child asked, "Whom do you love best, your sister or your mummy and daddy?" The small girl paused in astonishment, and then said: "I don't love anybody best. I just love."

In her way — perhaps almost without realizing it — this child glimpsed and expressed something of the love of God, its simplicity and impartial abundance, indeed, its universality.

In his Sermon on the Mount, Christ Jesus exhorted us to have this impartial love. And he gave his reason in these words (Matthew 5:45): "That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust."

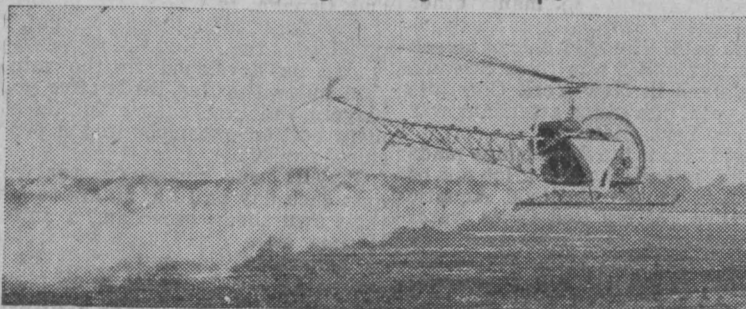

But someone may say: "Did not God love some people better than others? What about Joseph, for example, who became second only to Pharaoh in the land he first entered as a slave? What about Christ Jesus himself?" God is Love, so He just loves. He cannot do less. If He seems to love one better than another, it is because that one better understands His love and lives in the light of it. Joseph's circumstances were less fortunate than many another's. He was betrayed by his brothers, sold into slavery, cast into prison, forgotten by those whom he had benefited. But he had no resentment or self-pity, because he understood something of God's ever-present love. And he was able through this understanding to rise victoriously above every adversity. If it appears that God loved Christ Jesus best of all, was it not that Jesus best loved God, understood His love, and identified himself with it more than any other has?

Mary Baker Eddy, whose discovery of Christian Science was the result of her inspired searching of the Scriptures, writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (pp. 12, 13): "In divine Science, where prayers are mental, all may avail themselves of God as a never-failing help in all their needs."

Preventing Damage to Crops

One way to dust processing crops—by helicopter.

Each year science and research give modern farming new ways to control or ward off insects and disease destroyers of our crops.

That means that each season a good spraying and dusting program has become increasingly effective, coupled with up-to-the-minute advice from the county agents and cannery fieldmen. And never more important than now.

This is a great year for bugs, though the Tri-State area so far has escaped disastrous infestations. There are danger signs, however. In New Jersey, Rutgers' Dr. Ordway Starnes reports damaging numbers of armyworms, from Cumberland north through Burlington counties; Colorado beetles defoliating tomatoes in many areas; rather heavy number of pea aphids; and periodical locusts in one county.

New Jersey, with three mild winters in a row, has had its worst infection of Stewart's Disease (wilt) on sweet corn, Starnes adds. Late blight was reported unusually early on tomatoes, which also suffered in some southern local areas from early blight.

Ever-present Threat

Although late blight on tomatoes has not been important in Delaware in recent years, Extension horticulturist Robert F. Stevens, University of Delaware, says that there is always the danger of heavy infection during cool, wet weather. Probability of heavy infestations of insects and of downy mildew on cucurbits and lima beans is a continuing threat, too, though there are no present indications of unusual incidence.

A good pest-disease program requires good timing, materials and application. Professor Stevens, in urging a continuous spray program at no more than 10-day intervals for tomatoes from July 1 to end of harvest, reminds growers of the very destructive gray leaf spot late last summer, after a dry July when many farmers neglected spraying.

The Maryland Experiment Station recommends Dilan and Malathion for controlling Mexican bean beetles.

For Counterattack

Necessity and research account for many recent new and modified developments in spraying and dusting equipment, as multipurpose tractor-mounted sprayers and concentrate sprayers adaptable for either fruits or vegetables. The trend is toward specialized and low gallonage concentrate equipment as more efficient and economical, crop specialists report.

Equipment care, as Drs. Starnes and John P. Reed outline it, should include daily removal of all dust or spray; flushing of spray system and nozzles with clean water; lubrication of chains, sprockets, bearing surfaces, zerk fittings; checkup of feeding and agitating mechanisms; "V" belt tension should be checked regularly, and any water leakage into hopper prevented. Hoppers should not be filled before going to the field. And have an extra set of nozzles at hand.

The one so-called golden opportunity, so wistfully hoped for a fraud, deceiving the credulous Paul says (Galatians 6:10), 'we have therefore opportunity.

One in the business or professional world may daily learn the opportunities, spiritually understood as the evidence of God's eternal care for His children, always present themselves in the way best suited to individual ability. ## This is a black and white reproduction of Leonardo da Vinci's famous fresco, 'The Last Supper'. The scene depicts Jesus Christ seated at the center of a long table, surrounded by his twelve apostles. The composition is divided into three groups of four figures each, with Jesus as the central figure. The apostles exhibit various expressions and gestures, reflecting their emotional states. The setting is a room with a high, vaulted ceiling and walls decorated with patterned panels. The table is supported by four simple wooden stools. The overall style is characteristic of the High Renaissance, with its emphasis on perspective and humanistic figures.

FEESERSBURG

Most of us know that Saturday is the fourth of July and a holiday. It is the day we are supposed to celebrate our Independence. When I was a child I knew that the fourth stood for sparklers, firecrackers, rockets and a family picnic in the park. I didn't know why we made so much noise that day nor was I expected to. I only knew it was a wonderful day for we always had ice cream—a rare treat in my youthful days and I wished the fourth would come more frequently. When I went to school and studied history, the fourth took on new meaning but gaining our independence from England never meant too much to a student who only took the history course because one had to, to get a diploma. Today, however, when politics are served with every meal at our house, I have come to look on the fourth as a day of reflection and reevaluation. Especially does this hold true this fourth. It is said upon highest authority that the Declaration of Independence is the best known and the noblest of American state papers. Thomas Jefferson wrote most of it and the document is full of his fervent spirit and personality, and it's ideals were those to which his life was consecrated. Where are the Thomas Jeffersons of our day? There are none. What would this American patriots do to the McCarthys and the Jenners if he could return to see what a farce they have made of the noble paper he drafted? Of this I am sure—he would not appease them. We seem to have forgotten that our country was born by revolution. In 1776 to the rest of the world we were the young revolutionists. Today we have become the world's reactionaries. Other nations of the world are trying to do today what we accomplished in 1776 and we don't seem to understand that we should extend to them a helping hand instead of guns and atom bombs.

The public responded enthusiastically to the antique box exhibit sponsored by the Middleburg-Taneytown members of the Historical Society of Carroll County. There were over three hundred boxes from all parts of the state, made of every kind of material and serving all kinds of purposes. There were snuff boxes of silver, music boxes in rare woods, tiny thimble boxes, ballot boxes and pin boxes. In fact there was a box for any item one could mention. Most of them were very valuable and the owners were quite generous in lending them for the display. The exhibit was held in the Taneytown High School, Thursday evening, Middleburg district was represented on the committees by Mrs. Roy Baumgardner, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Willhide and Mrs. Millard Roelke.

Last week some bright soul dug up an old law passed in 1900 here in Maryland forbidding the sale of canned and evaporated milk, and was going to try and enforce it at this late date. Who was behind this move has not been made public, but so much reaction was created that the attorney for the state backed off. We can't believe that any farm organization or dairy was back of this move for canned milk is one way of getting rid of surplus milk.

One of the nicest projects carried out by the Maryland State road commission are the picnic areas built along the scenic routes of the state. Some are simple while others are elaborate, but no matter what the accommodations all are popular with the traveler. The ones built along the Thurmont-Sabillasville route are our favorites because they are beside a mountain stream.

Last week when he fell from a load of hay, one arm in a sling is handicapped enough, but two arms makes one helpless. Farm accidents seem to be on the increase and one sometimes wonders if they don't result from working too long hours and becoming tired and less alert. Farmers as a group rarely take a vacation, but like everyone else they owe it to themselves to get away from the same routine and grind.

Nancy Roelke gave a picnic supper for Dorothy Lee Harley and Kay Luttrell, Tuesday evening at her home. Those present besides the honor guests were Jeanne Bohn, Judy Willard, Barbara Nushum, Bonnie Quessenberry and Geraldine Graham.

I read somewhere the other day that the French have found a cure for jealousy. One doctor worked on the theory that this green-eyed monster is a disease and he claims that by taking a pill one can forget all thoughts of malice and hatred toward a rival. Wonderful, if true!

Never say to a child "Grow-up". Allow him to remain a child as long as possible, for growing up is only for adults and its slow painful process.

Jake and Jenny have safely seen their second crop of doves launched from the family nest. We have never seen more patient and loving parents.

If one still doubts that a new age has begun just visit a development of new modern homes furnished with ultra-modern furniture. I admit I feel as out of place as a Boston rocker in the rooms. The bare look of the walls and the shiny floors and metal furniture makes me feel like I am in a machine shop and not a house. The modern homes are going to modern living but if the individual is still geared to the American farm home with its enormous kitchen where the family still does most of its living the small box like rooms in the new homes makes one feel enclosed in a prison. But with the trend in favor of out-door living, I suppose the old-fashioned home is doomed.

The old adage "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" should be changed to read "A Byrd in College Park is worth two in Annapolis". Politics in Maryland is getting to sound like a Byrd sanctuary.—Ruth Roelke.

JUST FOR FUN

A passenger traveling a rickety local across the Indiana plains realized the train was picking up speed as it neared the sprawling Chicago outskirts. In fact, as he bounced around watching the scenery fly by, he decided the engineer must have gone crazy, and called the conductor for confirmation.

"Now, he's just enjoying himself," said the skipper. "See that diesel streamliner running even with us on that parallel track?"

"Yes, but what's that got to do with it?"

"Well sir, our head-end crew just plumb despises them diesels. So whenever we come in about time that streamliner does, the hogger yanks out the throttle and the fireman pours on the coal till we get even with her. Then just as we come into the station, the fireman reaches out with his long clinker bar and hangs on to the front end of that diesel as if we were towing 'er in."

"We ain't crazy, mister, but believe me, them boys on the streamliner are rapidly gettin' that way!"

DOUBLE DUTY

Wife: "Do you want my husband's services as the marshal or as the vet?"

Caller: "Both. We can't get our bulldog's mouth open and he's got a burglar in his teeth."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Scripture: Romans 1-3.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 111.

God Is Righteous

Lesson for July 5, 1953

MAYBE it is because righteous is not a singable word. (Is there any rhyme for it?) Maybe it is because the word has a hard ring to it in some ears. It seems to suggest something rigid and un-beautiful, like a poker or a fence-post. Anyway, for some reason or other, we do not hear much about God's being righteous. Words like "love" or "mercy" are used more often. We hear of the high and holy God, the almighty, or we hear of the loving Father of all. But we do not hear often enough of the God who first and last and always is the righteous God.

Dr. Foreman

A Righteous God Or None

The Bible's God is a righteous God. But the writers of the Bible did not shiver when they wrote that word. They did not believe and tremble, they believed and were glad. In fact, nobody who gives the question the serious thought it deserves would be interested in God if he were not righteous. An un-righteous God would be no God at all but a kind of devil. Righteousness means being right, first of all. It means seeing things as they are, seeing past the surface to the heart of things. No one who sees men and character dimly or crookedly can be righteous.

But righteousness is more than being right. It means being right-in-action. It includes being just and fair, though it is more than that, too. Some one might be fair because the rules compelled him to be. He might be fair to others so that they in turn would be fair to him. Righteousness means not only justice in act, but justice in desire. It means the love of justice and not only the practice of it. Righteousness—the Bible word—in addition means dependability. The original meaning of the word was simply "straight."

Justice For All

God is like man in one respect. His actions speak louder than his words. The writers of the Bible, Old Testament and New, more often speak of God's righteous acts than of his righteous words. It remained for the Apostle Paul to sum up the case for God's righteousness. It is shown, he says—demonstrated, that is to say—in two ways. These two ways are enlarged on in the early chapters of Romans as well as elsewhere in Paul's writings.

First of all, the justice of God expresses His righteousness. God is no "respector of persons;" in other words, He plays no favorites. Paul's own people, the Jews, had misunderstood what it meant to be the "chosen" people. They had supposed it meant they were God's favorites, though the prophets had long tried to explain that "chosen" meant chosen for service, appointed. Some people today think that "Nordics" or Americans or some other group is God's chosen people. His favorites, His pets so to speak. No, the Bible teaching is that in God's sight all men stand on an equal footing.

Redemption For All

If this were all that could be said, we of the human race would be in a hopeless hole. As Paul shows, the fact that God treats all men alike in the long run, is no comfort at all; it only means that the verdict "Guilty" must be pronounced on us all. Comparing what we are with what we ought to be, not even we ourselves can honestly say much for ourselves. If God's righteousness were nothing but an even-handed justice, it would be a searing flame. But it is more. The other way God shows His righteousness is in His mercy, in His coming to us in Christ. He has made salvation—that is, the setting-free from the deadly whirling wheel of sin and destruction—He made this free to all. He forces mercy on no one. But if He offered mercy and forgiveness only to a selected few—for that matter, only to a selected many—then while He might be called merciful He could hardly be called righteous. If God saved everyone, regardless He would still not be righteous. He saves those who have faith, that is, those who humbly accept what they realize they can never earn—the transforming love of God. For one of the glorious things about God is that He is not only righteous—He shares His righteousness.

SHORT STORY

Surprising Events

By DUKE ALLISANT

IF Thelma Garrison's ideas had been as modern as her physical attractiveness she would probably have had no trouble in devising some means to win the attention of handsome and much desired Chet Shields.

3-Minute Fiction

Chet Shields was advertising manager of the Russell department store, where Thelma was employed as secretary. He was young for the position. At first there had been doubts in older heads regarding his ability to fulfill such a responsible job, doubts which Mr. Shields banished during the first six months of his employment, by an amazing display of ingenuity.

Besides being young and successful, Mr. Shields was strikingly handsome and possessed of a charming personality. Each morning when he strode through the office where Thelma and 13 female co-workers labored over their typewriters, the course of his progress was watched by adoring and wistful eyes. At first Thelma had watched too, though her expression contained less of adoration and more of hope, for during the months that followed the first moment she had observed young Mr. Shields, hope fluttered in her breasts. Hope that one day he would notice her; hope that he might single her out from the 14 office girls.

But young Mr. Shields looked through and not at her, as he did the other 13.

And so at last the hope died in Thelma's breast. She realized the folly of her own idle dreams. She was a fool. It was better, much better, to be like the other 13, to realize that she didn't have a chance with young Mr. Shields.

His progress was watched by adoring and wistful eyes.

And so Thelma tried to put her idol from her mind.

And then, a month after Thelma came to this momentous decision, something very surprising happened. Meticulous, bespectacled, 40-year-old Miss MacReady was promoted from her position as secretary to young Mr. Shields to a similar position in the service of Mr. Harrison, vice-president. And Thelma was offered Miss MacReady's former post.

The advancement bewildered her. Chaotic thoughts rushed through her mind. Hope fluttered once more.

On Monday of the next week Thelma assumed her new duties. With pounding heart she awaited the arrival of young Mr. Shields. And when he finally came, because of the way he looked at her, she thought she was going to faint. But she didn't. She managed an outward composure, took down the letters he dictated, typed them, made telephone calls, arranged for appointments, consulted clients. She did it all for a week, conscious of a great joy, a blissful feeling, provoked by nothing more than an opportunity to be of service to the man.

And then, entirely without warning, Chet Shields asked her to have dinner with him. He veiled the invitation with some talk of a business proposition about which he wanted her advice, but Thelma wasn't fooled. She knew his motive, and she was bewildered by it.

The first dinner led to others, to theatres and night clubs and Sunday drives and talks of poetry and all the other things that two young people who are in love are apt to do. Thelma lived in a world of unreality and disbelief.

And then came the memorable night on which Chet parked his roadster near the shore of Lake Clearwater and turned to her with eyes that were tender and appealing. Thelma's face was radiant in the soft light of a white moon.

Mr. Shields took her in his arms and spoke words that caused the pounding of her heart to grow even wilder. Presently he kissed her and she clung to him and thereby was consummated something that was beautiful and eternal.

Long after it was over Chet Shields innocently explained the thing that had puzzled his future wife. "There were 14 of you out there," he laughed, "and you were the only one who didn't look up every time I came in. You didn't seem to care whether I was around or not. You were different, and it made me feel that here was a girl who had some thoughts in her head beside idol worship. That's why I urged Harrison to take on Miss MacReady so I could make a place for you."

Whereupon Thelma regarded her future husband with nicely gauged astonishment and said: "Well, of all things! Imagine!"

MASTER INSULT

John Randolph and Henry Clay once had a quarrel in the senate at Washington. For several weeks they did not speak, when one day they met on Pennsylvania avenue. Each saw the other coming up the side walk which was very narrow at that particular point, and each was meditating as to how far he would turn out for the other to pass. As Randolph came up he looked the grand old Kentuckian straight in the eye and, keeping the sidewalk, hissed:

"I never turn out for scoundrels!"

"I always do," said Mr. Clay as he stepped politely out into the mud and let Randolph have the walk.

Foregone Conclusion

Doctor: "You must avoid all forms of excitement."

Patient: "Can I look at them on the street?"

Smart Man

Lawyer, reading client's last will and testament to circle of expectant relatives: "And so, being of sound mind, I spent every cent I had before I died."

NOT FOR LOAN

The railway coach was crowded and a none too well dressed little boy had taken a seat alongside a very haughty and fashionably dressed woman. The boy was sniffling in a very annoying manner. Finally the woman turned to the boy and asked:

"Have you got a handkerchief?"

"Yes," replied the boy, "but I don't lend it to strangers."

Outlives Enemies

"Wal," bragged the ancient patient, "I'll be 80 my next birthday and I haven't an enemy in the world."

"Gee, that's remarkable," said the young one.

"Yep," went on the old one, "I've outlived every durned one of 'em."

Foolish Pride

"I hear you lost your job. Why did the foreman fire you?"

"You know what a foreman is—he's the one who stands around and watches his men work."

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Just this—he got jealous of me. People thought I was the foreman."

Pure Fact

Most of us know how to say nothing; few of us know when.

HAD ENOUGH

The lawyer was sitting at his desk, so absorbed in his work that he did not hear the door as it was pushed gently open, nor see the curly head that was thrust into his office. A little sob attracted his notice, and turning, he saw a face that was streaked with tears and told plainly that feelings had been hurt.

"Well, my little man, did you want to see me?"

"Are you a lawyer?"

"Yes. What do you want?"

"I want"—and there was a resolute ring in his voice—"I want a divorce from my papa and mamma."

One or Another

A secret to a woman is either not worth keeping or too good to keep.

PLEASE RETURN

The Scotsman had lost a pound note. Sadly he entered the advertisement office of the local newspaper and handed in the notice he wanted inserted in the "Lost and Found" column.

The clerk read: "Lost, a pound note. Sentimental value."

Let's Think

by G. H. ENFIELD

CHIP TOTERS

How different communities are! Each community is composed of and colored by the people who belong to that community. No area is made up of a single type of individuals, for then life there would become very monotonous and drab. However, one type may predominate in the thinking, acting, and manners of a given neighborhood.

It is regrettable when a number of persons in any community are Chip Toters. Those who carry on their shoulders the proverbial chip, and even dare others to strike it off. Generally, such persons are introverts, narrow, prejudiced, jealous, and selfish. Their views and opinions are narrow, their interests are selfish, their horizon is limited, their vision circumscribed, and their world small.

Of course, we would not expect to find peace, goodwill, and keenness of interest in public welfare prevailing there to the ninth degree. The spirit of opposition is more in evidence than the spirit of co-operation. The fear of speaking out on any matter, lest one might say the wrong thing at the wrong time in the wrong place, is apparent. Under such circumstances how can any one hope to accomplish things worthwhile for the good of the community, and proceed judiciously! The remedy is in a conversion, and how can we hope to convert those who are opposed to change? This is frequently done through education, travel, reading, observation, and attendance at public gatherings in the interest of public good and human welfare.

One's hope is for a change of heart. "No man putteth new wine into old bottles."

"In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall bring it to pass."
