HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire almost destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Flickinger, near Taneytown, along the Taneytown-Westminster road, Wednesday morning. The cause of the blaze was probably from an overheated wood stove. The entire kitchen and furnishings were destroyed. The furniture in the bedroom was burned and the living room furniture was damaged by smoke and water.

The house was of brick construction but a lot of the wooden frame work was consumed or damaged by

With the discovery of the "miracle growth boosters" so recently headlined into feed lot fame came the responsibility to the feed manufacturer to properly mix the tiny amounts of these ingredients needed to assure maximum growth. Vitamin A and D concentrates—Vitamin B12—trace minerals—these and others are so powerful that only a few spoonsful are needed in a whole ton of feed.

The real problem was finding how to add one tablespoonful of antibiotic

It took a Purina end of the killing of human beings Engineering-Research team to do the of all, to accurately determine the right amount of vitamins, minerals and antibiotics needed for best growth results. Then they ran tests to determine the mixing accuracy of these growth boosters in various samples. The first big discovery was a test so sensitive that it would show just one tiny part of antibiotic in 10 million parts of feed.

Using this secret test, the research-engineering team checked and double-checked samples from each of Purina's 38 Chow mills to be sure the machinery turned out a ration so correctly compounded that every thimbleful in a whole ton of feed was properly mixed. ### PEACE FOR A TIME

This should be a time for rejoicing. The signing of the truce agreement at Panmunjom has brought an end to the stalemate war in Korea. The constant anxiety of those with husbands and sons in the Far East will give way to relief and anticipation of the day when families will be re-

And, because the killing has stopped and a stalemate peace is better than a stalemate war, it is truly a time for rejoicing. But it is also a time for reflection and for prayer that the future does not have in store for us a greater calamity than the one we have experienced in the past three years.

For the joy of this day is not unadulterated. Mingled with it are misgivings over the past and forebodings of what is to come, a sense of shame over unfulfilled promises, humiliation that for the first time in our history we did not win a war, in fact, deliberately did not try to win it.

This war, which has cost the United States close to 140,000 casualties, including 27,000 dead, need not have happened. We virtually invited it when our State Department followed the advice of Owen Lattimore to "let South Korea fall, but not make it look as though we pushed it."

Seemingly in agreement with this policy, Secretary of State Dean Acheson announced on Jan. 12, 1950, that, we would fight to defend Japan. Okinawa and the Philippines, but did not include either South Korea or Formosa in our Pacific defense line. In the face of actual aggression, however, the Truman administration, came to the aid of the South Koreans. The little war, called a police action, swiftly, expanded into a big one under the auspices of the United Nations. But from the beginning, we were forced to fight under wraps. We knew that the Communists were getting all their supplies from basis in Manchuria, north of the Yalu River boundary, but Gen. MacArthur was forbidden to bomb the bases and the supply lines, even after the Chinese Communists entered the war. Because of his outspoken disapproval of this policy, he was abruptly dismissed by former President Truman.

Later, when the Communists began to hint that they would welcome an armistice, we dropped all pretense trying to win the war. It became a holding operation, as the truce negotiations dragged on, seemingly without purpose or end.

Now, for reasons best known to the Kremlin, the Communists have agreed to an armistice which will leave the Chinese Communists in possession of North Korea, while a political conference tries to bring about "the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

It will be many years before an accurate appraisal of the effect of the Korea war on world history can be made. If it turns out that our efforts to resist aggression in Korea deterred the Communists from other aggressions, the sacrifice we made will not have been in vain. But if our unwillingness to fight the war to a successful conclusion is interpreted by the Communists as a sign of weakness, inviting further efforts to conquer the world by force, history will render a harsh judgment on our conduct. -(From the Cleveland Plain Deal-

"GOVERNMENT SHOULD NOT SUPPORT THE PEOPLE"

"The lesson should be constantly enforced that, though the people support the government, the government should not support the people."

Does that sound like something that was said yesterday? Actually, it was said by President Grover Cleveland 76 years ago, in the course f vetoing a long-forgotten bill.

The principle which President Cleveland laid down was important then. It is a thousand times more important now. In the intervening years millions of us, knowingly or otherwise, have been infected with the virus of government paternalism. We have become accustomed to being supported, wholly or partly, by government. And that trend, unless checked and reversed, can end only in dictatorship, tyranny and the destruction of all that is courageous and adventurous in the human spirit. -Industrial News Review

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED!

Over the years, American retailing nas made enormous advances in its services to the consumer—there is simply no comparison between the typical retail store of today and that of the past. And its employment policies have shown comparable prog-

An amusing and significant example s found in a set of rules posted in an Illinois store back in 1880. These included the following: Store must be open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. the year round. Store must be swept; counters, shelves and showcases dusted; lamps crimmed, filled and chimneys cleaned; doors and windows opened; a pail of water and a bucket of coal brought in before breakfast. The employe who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barber's, going to dances and other places of amusement, will assuredly give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty. Each employe must pay not less than $5 a year to the church and must attend Sunday School regularly. Men employes are given one evening a week for courting. After 14 hours in the store the leisure hours should be spent for the most part in reading.

That was the situation 73 years ago. In retailing, as in other enterprise, the lot of the American worker has improved to an almost unbelievable extent.

SENATE CLOAKROOM by J. Glenn Beall United States Senator from Maryland

A truce in Korea, as this is written, is reported to be only a matter of hours away, and all of us should be thinking about just what a truce will

The first thing, and the reason we are so anxious to obtain a truce, is that the actual fighting and shedding of blood will stop. Being a peaceful people we regret the tragedies of wars, even when we realize that there no other alternative. End of the fighting will be a blessing to the families who have sons in Korea and those who have sons about o enter the armed services.

Other results of the truce will probably be of more questionable value.
President Rhee, for very good reasons of his own, was opposed to a truce on the conditions originally sug-gested, but now that he has been given renewed assurances by President Eisenhower that this government will continue to work for the unification of Korea, this time by peaceful means, he has grudgingly given his consent.

The United States enters into the negotiations in complete sincerity and as Secretary of State Dulles said, 'We are not suppliants. We are ready for honorable peace. But if the Communists want war we must be ready for that too."

In other words, the future of peace in Korea, and for that matter the rest | of the world, is strictly in the hands of the Communists. Because of their past conduct, I am sure none of us are too confident that they will abide by the terms of the Korean truce. Providing that there is no new out.

break of the war this government will be faced with a number of new pro-blems in Asia immediately after the armistice is agreed to.

The entire future of Asia will be at stake, and the future of Asia is directly dependent upon the future of Europe, and primarily of Germany. In other words, if the West should ose Germany to the Soviet zone of power, the Communists could use that country's tremendous industrial potential to promote its aims in Asia. Without increased industrial ca-pacity it is unlikely that the Communists could successfully wage a large campaign throughout Asia. But with the resources of Germany at her command, our position would be greatly weakened. Among other problems which will confront us is that of Red China. We

A BOY

After a Male Baby has grown and has acquired pants, freckles, and so nuch dirt that relatives do not dare to kiss it between meals, it becomes a Boy. A boy is Nature's answer to the false belief that there is no such thing as perpetual motion. A boy can swim like a fish, run like a deer, climb ike a squirrel, balk like a mule, below like a bull, eat like a pig, or act like a jackass, according to climatic

He is a piece of skin over an appe tite. A noise covered with smudges. He is called a tornado because he es at the most unexpected times hits the most unexpected places, and leaves everything behind him a wreck. He is growing animal of superlative promise, to be fed, watered and kept warm, a joy forever, a periodic nui-sance, the problem of our times, the hope of a nation.

Were it not for boys, the newspaers would be unread and a thousand picture shows would go bankrupt. Boys are useful in running errands. A boy can easily do the family errands with the aid of five or six adults. The zest with which the boy does an errand is equaled only by the speed of a turtle on a July day. The boy is a natural spectator. He watches parades, fires, fights, ball games, automobiles, boats, and airplanes with equal fervor, but will not watch the The man who invents a clock that will stand on its head and sing a song when it strikes will win the undying gratitude of millions of families whose boys are forever coming to dinner about supper time.

Boys faithfully imitate their dads in spite of all efforts to teach them good manners. A boy, if not washed too often and if kept in a cool quiet place after each accident, will survive broken bones, hornets, swimming holes, fights and nine helpings of pie

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS AUGUST 9-15 AS 3rd MD. LAND WEEK

Governor McKeldin last week signa proclamation naming the week August 9-15 as the third annual Maryland Land Week. When signing the proclamation in Maryland's historic old Statehouse, the governor urged citizens of the Free State to support and take part in activities to be held during Land Week.

McKeldin pointed out that the "health, prosperity and welfare of all our citizens, both rural and urban, is largely dependent on the land and its resources", and that "wise use and conservation of our natural resources is essential if we are to continue to make available food, clothing and other agricultural products for our citizens of this generation and generations to come.

The governor hailed the accomplishments of such agencies as the 23 soil conservation districts in the furtherance of soil and water conservation measures, and pointed out the challenge of "large areas still being wasted through erosion, lack of drainage and improper use.'

CARELESS SMOKERS WORST FOREST FIRE HAZARD IN MARY-LAND LAST YEAR

Nearly half the 487 forest fires recorded in Maryland in 1952 were caused by careless smokers, according to American Forest Products Industries. The 487 fires reported last year burned 2,503 acres.

During the previous year, a total Musical Comedy Just the Way You 1419 fires burned 2,345 acres. The Like It. of 419 fires burned 2,345 acres. The 1952 rise in fires and acreage burn was reflected nationally by a 15 per cent rise in forest fire occurren

A total of 220 of Maryland's 1952 fires were caused by smokers; and 89 by careless brush and debris burners. Two fires were caused by lightning. "Despite quite high rises in forest fire occurence and acreage losses in other parts of the nation", said Jas. C. McClellan, chief forester for AFPI, 'Maryland managed to hold its own with its forest fire record. The fact that all the state's forestlands are under protection, plus the efficiency of that protection, played a large part in keeping the Free State's fire losses

Stating that nationwide 500 forest fires a day were reported in 1952, the AFPI chief forester declared that per cent of those fires were caused by man's carelessness and indifference

The AFPI report, based on U. S. Forest Service figures, stressed, the need for increased realization of the

One Dime Provides REAL Health Food

Almost everybody eats at least three times a day and almost everybody worries about what he eats. Some people worry so much that they fall for the food faddist's advice and load up on expensive items. Others eat only specific classes of foods. specific classes of foods.

All this when the fact of the matter is that most people simply need a well balanced diet of common, ordinary food -meat, vegetables, dairy products, fruits, wheat products—to maintain a healthy weight. And if they are overweight they still need all these things but merely a reduction in the total consumed daily.

In any case, people interested in maintaining proper weight will be glad to find out that just ten cents worth of the commonest food of all—plain, everyday enriched bread—can provide significant quantities of a number enriched bread—can provide significant quantities of a number of essential food elements.

"Wheat: A Bargain in Food,"
by Anna May and Dr. James R.

American Medical Association, explains why people on reducing they give up bread, flour and

Dr. Wilson, who is secretary out that wheat flour furnishes far more than calories.

"If you give up bread when on a reducing diet," they say, "you deny yourself an inexpensive source of a number of things your body needs."

Bread contains a significant amount of protein. All of the essential amino acids necessary to good health are found in the good health are found in the proteins of wheat and bread. However, the quantity and proportions of those coming acids. portions of these amino acids are such that wheat proteins do require supplementation with animal proteins such as occur in milk, eggs, meat, fish, and poul-try. When eaten along with these animal foods, it is safe and these animal foods, it is safe and economical to supply one half to two-thirds of the body's daily protein needs from plant sources, the article says.

"At current prices," the article goes on to say, "ten cents worth of bread will give you almost one third of the daily recommended allowance of protein (70 grams) while also supplying 600 food calories, which is about one fourth the caloric needs of one fourth the caloric needs of an office worker.

"Wheat protein today is considerably less expensive than the protein of whole milk and much cheaper than protein in the form of meat. Wheat proteins are a real bargain."

Flour and bread have other baryess according to the article.

Flour and bread have other bonuses, according to the article. In addition to the nutritive values already mentioned, ten cents worth of bread will buy the following portions of the recommended daily dietary allowances of these four essential nutrients: ncarly half of the thiamine; between one sixth and one fifth of the riboflavin; between one third the riboflavin; between one third and one half the niacin, and about one third the iron.

The article says that while bread does not sup-ply all of the essential nutrients, no single food item does

"Wheat rightfully plays an important role in our basic food economy," Dr. and Mrs. Wilson say in conclusion. "Its cost is no measure of its importance as a part of the good diet. Ten cents worth goes a long way in supplying the body's need for food. And it is not bread alone that does this. Breakfast cereals and other wheat food products made does this. Breakfast cereals and other wheat food products made from whole grain or enriched white flour supply about the same proportions of nutrients at a comparably low cost.

Minny is a hen that lives at Merry Knoll. Just three weeks ago she was the most dejected looking chicken that one could ever hope to see. She was a victim of the peck system—a method whereby social conscious hens exert their influence and establish their position in the hen-house. Evidently Minny was on the bottom of the social scale for every other hen pecked her and she had no hen to peck in return. This gave Minny a neurosis and she stayed on a nest all day. At first we thought she wanted to become a mother but later learned she wanted to be alone. But brooding in silence wasn't doing her any good so we took her away from her snob bish companions and put her outside to roam around the farm as she pleased. For three days she didn't know what to do with her freedom. She even tried to get back in the henhouse with her tormentors. But finally she took an interest in her new surroundings and began a new life. To day she is the most egotistical and domineering female we have ever encountered—that takes in the human females too. Minny has learned the peck system too. She drives the cats away from their milk pan with a peck and the dog is scared to death of her the only thing he is scared of, except the bull. Every time Minny hears a pan or bucket rattle sh comes running and if you set it down she has her beak in it. But she is carrying the peck system a little too far.

Christian Home

Lesson for August 2, 1953

VOU can have a Christian town more easily than a Christian nation. You can have a Christian one-man business more easily than a Christian corporation. You can have a Christian church more readily than a Christian school. But you can come closest to a Christian group, 100 per cent, in a Christian home than anywhere else in the world.

Home Has Its Problems

A good Christian home is not automatic. Its praises can be sung too loudly. In sentimental moods people talk and write poems and even preach about the home as if it were just naturally a heaven on earth. Nonsense! Like all good things it has to be planned and worked out. Or again, they talk about the Great American Home as if it were a special product of this American na- Dr. Foreman tion. But there were homes before America was discovered. There are good homes wherever Christians are-in China, Africa, India, Fiji. There is no magic about America that makes an American home the best on earth. It is Christianity, not race or geography, that makes the best homes. A Christian home in Madagascar is likely to be better than a non-Christian home in Memphis.

But even a Christian home has its problems. How can old and young live happily under the same roof when "happy" doesn't mean the same thing at six, sixteen and sixty? How can you have an Executive Committee (husband and wife) with no one to break a tie vote? How can a father steer between being too strict and not being strict enough? How can a growing child learn independence without wrecking the place? Of course home has its problems. Life has its problems, and you don't get rid of them even when every one concerned is a practicing Christian.

Some Christian Intentions

One reason why a home can be more nearly Christian than any other social group, is that you can come nearer sharing the same basic intentions in that group than in any other. One intention that must be woven into a true home is that of permanence. Homes cannot claim to be Christian if they are no more than campsites. If husband and wife are not in it for keeps, they lack the first of all intentions that keep a home together. Further, a home that is Christian will welcome children. If children are accepted grudgingly, if they are thought of mainly as "mouths to feed," "brats," it is not a Christian home. Another Christian intention is the Golden Rule. "Be done by as you did" is somebody else's rule, not Christ's. If you go looking for slights and insults, if you go around insisting always on your "rights," if you have a chronically unforgiving spirit, you don't fit into a Christian home.

Christ in the Home

There is a motto sometimes seen on a wall: "Christ is the Head of This House." What does it mean to have Christ in the house? His picture on the wall won't do it, though it may help. Pious mottoes won't do it unless they express the real heart of those who live there. What does it mean to have Christ, not as an obscure occasional guest, not a stranger, but as Head of the house? He is Head when his ideas are known, followed and loved. He is Head when every one has the habit of thinking, Is this what He would do? He is Head when his spirit is in every heart. He said himself that he came not to be served but to serve; and the Christian home is one where every member of it carries out that purpose of Christ. When in a home there is prayer each day in His name—that is to say, when all the daily prayers of the family are not just "Gimme" prayers but such as Christ Himself would endorse, when time is taken out every day for prayer and all together at least once in the twenty-four hours think quietly about what it means to be Christian, then it is more and more likely that Christ will be truly the Head of that house. The problems will be there, and they will not be easy even for Christians; but no problem of Christian living, even at close range, is impossible when Christians work them out together in His name

******* Hints for the House-Wise by BETTY BLAKE

"Out-of-the-way windows" in and around the house have long been a problem for the conscientious homemaker. Basement windows, tran-cult to reach, or not often used, they are allowed to go untouched for longer periods of time than most windows in the home.

Last week, as I was browsing through a local ten cent store, I noticed a plastic coated paper window decoration that at last solves this problem — perfectly. Called Vitrophane, the window decoration comes in frosted glass effects or colorful pat-terns. Al-though it allows light to come through the window it blocks the view of outsiders, for ex tra privacy. I purchased a comple of own garage window and found it cost only 20c a yard and is easily applied to the window, with only a little water. Best of all, this plastic coated paper marked :: end to my garage window washing worries. The window now not only stays cleaner longer, but when it does become dusty. simply wipe it with a dry or dam p cloth, and it's clean again in

If you have "out-of-the-way" window worries, I suggest that you too pick up a few yards of Vitrophane at your local dime store

Doubting Ethiopian Farmer Is Convinced

This Ethiopian plateau farmer sees for himself the strength of flax fiber introduced to his region by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO). Watching is Canadian agronomist, Michael W. Millar, one of several experts sent by FAO to teach the processing of the fiber. The U.N. specialized agency encourages the growth of the flax plant to supplement the cotton which can be grown only in the lowlands of Ethiopia.

Soothing Music Keeps Cows Happy Water Cress Farms Pipes Music to Barn

A contented cow is a good producer, Edward Porath, owner of Water Cress Farms near Salem, Michigan, believes. To achieve this end he has tried several unusual methods of keeping his prize purebred Brown Swiss herd happy.

One of his ideas is to pipe recorded music into the barn via a public address system to soothe the cows during milking. Their tastes run to classical tunes and they show definite increase in productivity when Bach or Beethoven is played, according to Porath. The speaker system is also used for lectures and discussions

This is part of the prize purebred Brown Swiss herd maintained at the unique Water Cress Farms. These are the cows that listen to Bach and Beethoven and set production during the frequent visits of student groups from agricultural col-

The barn is made of cinder blocks and concrete to provide fire safety and durability. More fire protection is provided by fireproof insulation.

The building is divided into a number of rooms. One is used exclusively for examination, treatment, or grooming the animals for exhibitions.

There is a maternity ward where all calves are kept for at least one month, calf pens, feed room, and administrative offices adjoin the main room of the barn.

The barn is insulated throughout and the temperature is con-

Manhour Output On Farms Increases

The U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that output per manhour on the nation's farms has risen three times as fast in the past 15 years as in industry gen-

This output per manhour stood 80 on the labor bureau's index in 1939 and is now about 170. The rise has been due chiefly to industry's development of farm machinery and fertilizers, with improved farm practices playing an important part. The machines, fertilizers, and improved farm practices enable the farmer to raise more food with less work.

The machinery also has increased food supplies for humans by supplanting 25,000,000 work horses and mules formerly used on farms. The land once used to raise feed for these animals is now used either to raise food or as pasture land for cattle and sheep.

The drift of some 2,800,000 farm workers to factory jobs has intensified the urge to mechanize farms. The result of all these factors has been that the country is now able to furnish an improved standard of diet for its growing population.

Hog Outlook Improves

Hog producers say the outlook now indicates another good year. They reason: (1) Hog production has been reduced nearly one-fifth in two years; (2) Feed is abundant and costs are favorable to producers; (3) Consumers are able and willing to pay good prices for pork.

Portable Chute

Loading cattle at the farm to be transported to market is often a bothersome and difficult task. The portable chute pictured above should simplify the process to a great extent. All is required is substantial building materials and a little work on the part of the builder. Notice that the chute is built on skids so it can be moved to different fields by tractor or team.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TOUR

The Historical Society of Carroll County invites members and friends to join the third annual tour Wednesday, August 12, starting at 2:30. This year the route will traverse New Windsor and Union Bridge districts and will include old survey sites, early homes, mills, churches, cemeteries, and the location of several Indian villand. ly homes, mills, churches, cemeteries, and the location of several Indian villages. Cars will assemble on the Maryland Highway No. 27, leading from Westminster to Taylorsville, just east of the Maryland Highway No. 407 which leads through Dennings and Marston. All cars will be facing toward Taylorsville. Everyone will bring his own box supper to be eaten at a designated time and place along the way. The current News Letter of the Historical Society carries a full description of the itinerary with map. Members of the Society automatically receive copies of the News Letter. Non-members who wish to join the tour may receive a copy of the August News Letter by writing Dr. Arthur G. Tracey, Hampstead, Md.

several additional facts of which you should be aware. Your first check may be delayed somewhat because of the thousands now being processed in social security offices throughout the country. When you receive it, it may well include payments for more than one month. Thereafter, your monthly check should arrive early each month and will be payment of the preceding month's benefit.

If you change your address, notify your social security office promptly. This will help assure your receiving your checks on time. If you earn more than $75 in any month working for someone else, report it at once. Also, tell the social security office if you're averaging more than $75 each month in self-employment earnings. Here again, prompt reporting may well save you time and money at a later date.
