MORE WORK-AT 79!

Former President Herbert Hoover was photographed again at the President's desk in the White House the other day-this time with his Republican successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Mr. Hoover had dropped in for a chat with the President about his new job of heading up a new commission on Government Reorganization, and which will probably be hard at work before you read this, even

He said he had hoped when the previous Hoover Commission on reorganization ended its work that would be his last public service. But he hastened to tell reporters that he expected the new group to be set up in 48 hours, and that it would "make a much more effective organism of the Government than it is now." Considering that half of the 240 recommendations of the previous study have been put into effect, we can expect great things.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Taxpayer's Dollar, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the situation and specialized on what may be expected in the near future. Some of the facts involved are depressingothers give grounds for optimism.

First of all, during the fiscal year which ended on the last day of June, the U.S. Treasury took in more money in taxes than in any year in our history. Yet when the books were closed, the deficit was the largest in history, save for when we were enthis was that revenues, great as they were, did not reach the estimates. A ministration was in power for five months of the fiscal year, the spending was a reflection of the programs and policies established by the preceeding Administration.

June is always a big spending month, and this June lived up to past precedent with a vengeance. According to Taxpayer's Dollar, of 59 budgets carried in the Daily Treasury Statement, 32 were higher this June than last. It is a matter of interest that 25 of these 32 concerned nondefense activities. Spending actually declined on some defense projects, including the atomic energy program. The biggest jump of all was registered by the Commodity Credit Corporation-up to 1109 per cent over June, 1952. Second was the Production and Marketing Administration, up to 634 per cent. Other rises included the Forest Service, 68 per cent; Office of Education, 48 per cent, and the Legislative Branch, 28 per cent. By contrast, spending increases by the military services were smaller, ranging from 13 per cent to 18 per cent.

So much for the past. What of the fiscal year that began July 1st? To quote Taxpayer's Dollar again, 'Budget cuts now being made for fiscal 1954 offer more than a little hope for real economy within a very short time." The publication then went into what has been done so far, and what can be anticipated.

On the first 10 appropriation bills passed by the house, the handsome sum of $2,987,000,000 was cut from the requests made in the budget submitted by President Truman just before he left office. Many of the cuts were suggested by President Eisenhower-others originated in the

The House Appropriations Committee has approved an appropriation for the Defense Department which is $6,286,000,000 under the Truman rethe Korean War, which was taken care of in a separate measure up to now. So that $2,000,000,000 should be added to the reduction. Mr. Truman proposed $7,600,000,000 for foreign aid for the current year. It looks now as if the actual appropriation may be around $4,500,000 SAUGERITIES, N.Y., CATSKILL 000. If that turns out to be the case, the slash here will be $3,100,000,000.

The Farmers' re-Union held in Col. Goulden's grove, last Saturday, under the management of the Taneytown Grange and the Copperville Farmers Club, was a great success, in point of attendance at least, as the crowd was the largest ever on the grounds. Three the largest ever on the grounds. Three good addresses, one in the forenoon and two in the afternoon, on important subjects were delivered, with the welcome address delivered by Rev. B. J. Lennon, of Taneytown. The information booth, with exhibits of grain, grasses, fruits and vegetables, with specialists, competent and ready to give expert information to inquiries, was a new and valuable feature. Meat Balls With Gravy Are New Chef's Treat

WHEN YOU WANT TO SERVE AN EASY MAIN COURSE that is thrifty and good, try the new canned meat balls with gravy. They are a tempting addition to the canned meat line.

Prepared according to a secret Chef Boy-ar-dee recipe, the plump, tender meat balls are braised in a flavorful, rich brown gravy.

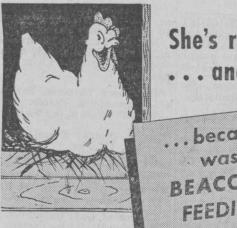

One of the endearing things about these new Chef Boy-ar-dee meat balls with gravy is that they are so good with such a variety of inexpensive foods—potatoes, spaghetti, rice, noodles, macaroni. There are ten in a can and they come to less than 15 cents a serving. They make an unusual treat served over fresh corn bread or hot corn-meal waffles, which can be easily made with a mix. (ANS)

Because that's all the money it takes to buy this great new 1953 Buick Special.

That's all it takes to boss its high-compression Fireball 8 Engine—now stepped up to the highest horsepower in Buick Special history.

That's all it takes to enjoy its still finer Million Dollar Ride—its full six-passenger roominess—its light-as-a-flyrod handling ease.

But if you're surprised at this news, we can't blame you a bit.

Most people are—when they learn that you can get Buick styling, Buick structure, Buick room and power and comfort and steadiness, all for just a few dollars more than the cost of the so-called "low-priced three."

Add another happy surprise.

In this Buick you get a long list of "extras"

at no extra cost—things like direction signals, dual map lights, twin sunshades, lighter, trip-mileage indicator, automatic glove-box light, oil-bath air cleaner, fullflow oil filter, bumper guards front and rear —things most other cars of similar price charge as extras.

So there you are—definitely able to move right into this big, broad, robust-powered Buick for a price you'd expect to pay for a lesser car.

Christian's Fight

Less for August 9, 1953

66 T'S a bonny fight," were the last words of a sermon by Rev. Andrew K. Rule; "don't ye want to get in it?" Reverend gentlemen do not always present Christianity in such vigorous terms. One hears more often something to this effect: "It's a water-tight Ark; don't you want to be pulled aboard?" or "It's a wonderful school; don't you want to register?" or "It's a fine laundry; drop in and get clean!" or "It's a great hospital; don't you want some treatment?" Well, of course Christianity can be presented in all these ways. But A. K. Rule being (by Dr. Foreman way of New Zealand) a Scotsman, he would present Christianity in terms of what all Celts dearly love-a fight. This is not an original idea. Paul had it long ago. That Apostle spoke of the Christian life as one that has to be lived in battledress, as we would say. He even spoke of it as a prizefight (I Cor. 9). At the end of his life he referred to all of it as a "good fight."

The Nearest Enemy God himself is presented in the Bible as a battling God. The Greeks might think of him as serene above the sky, untroubled and untroubling; but the saints who wrote the Bible knew God as one who has a fight on his hands and who wages unceasing war on a persistent enemy. Not that the issue is in doubt. The great message of the Bible is that God will win. But meanwhile, the fight is on. The Christian is one who has enlisted in the army of God. God's enemies are his enemies. So far as this world is concerned (we have no present concern with any other) our enemies, and God's, are all those forces which tear down and destroy God's purposes, everything that tears and destroys humankind. Now the Christian is bound to fight everything in public and in private life which weakens and corrupts man; but the nearest enemy to every Chrisian is-himself. It is not true that a man is his own best friend; but it is true that he is his own worst enemy. A man can do himself more harm than any one else can do him. Many a man has lost the outer battle because he never won the fight with him-

Fight Against Surrender There are two opposite ways in which we have to battle with ourselves. These correspond to two kinds of temperament, and yet perhaps no man is entirely free from the need to fight on both these fronts. One is the fight with the drifter in us, the tendency to dream, to drift, to float with the tide, to let other people make all our decisions for us. We are surrounded by a pagan society, and it is not easy to maintain a higher standard. We haven't the energy to "buck" popular opinion. takes a great deal of energy, it calls for a fighting heart, to make headway against the tide of "everybody says," "everybody does." The Christian who knows the harm which alcohol does to personality, the Christian who wants to live a clean life in this or in other ways, will in many places have to be "made of sterner stuff" than most people are. It is the person who has won a victory over himself who is best able to help others.

Fight for Control There is another kind of inner battle: the fight against our own wills. The other battle was against our lack of will; this is against will itself. We are not born or made in such a way that we can do whatever we feel like doing and always be right. Indeed if we follow our natural inclinations we may end by being oftener wrong than right. And just as some temperaments lean to laziness and don't-care, so other temperaments lean too far the other way. If some people are like putty, others are like gasoline vapor, likely to explode any minute. It may be temper, it may be sex, it may be drink, it may be selfishness in any one of its countless forms. We can put it this way: There is in some of us all the time, and in all of us some of the time, the urge to shove every one else and everything else out of the way and make I WANT the rule of ac-

₩ Why Spray?

It costs money to spray fields or fruit trees, but the farmer knows it's money well spent. With so many things on the farm, it's not the cost, but what you get for your money that counts. That's why so many farmers say the telephone is one of the farm tools that really pays for itself by saving time and trouble and travel.

"All together, ho!"

A person doesn't have to be so very old to remember the ferries that had to be pulled by hand across the river. Passengers didn't mind pitching in and helping, for they knew "pulling together" meant faster, better service for everyone. That kind of friendly co-operation works wonders on the telephone party line, too-makes the service better for all on the line. In fact, most people say party-line service is mighty fine service when everyone shares it fairly.

Soil Tests Reduce Production Risks Use Right Fertilizer Where Most Needed

Using the right fertilizer where it will do the most good will reduce the risks in field crop pro-

Whether little or much, it is foolish to make the required investment for seed, fertilizer, labor, etc., without having all the information that can be obtained readily about the soil on which the crop is to be grown.

To get the maximum profits from your soil have it tested. You may be surprised how much it needs and how little you have given it. But it is important to use the right fertilizer when and where it will do the most good. Take report of your soil test and your cropping history to your county agent and get his advice about seeds and fertilizer.

Soil testing is not an exact science, but it serves as a pretty sound indicator of nutrients in the soil. That's a long step toward success in crop production.

And it is well to remember that over-doses of fertilizer can be as harmful to a crop as the right amount can be helpful.

Researchers Report On Broiler Production

Researchers at the Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station

report that for maximum income from broiler production, it is essential that the broiler house be used at its maximum capacity.

In other words, the number of broilers per square foot of floor space must be kept as high as possible without reducing growth rate or efficiency of feed conversion.

Where good management practices are followed, three-fourths of a square foot of floor space per sound in both summer and winter, they report.

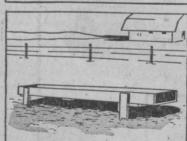

One square foot of floor space per broiler would be the recommendation where management practices are not up to standard. where there are frequent disease outbreaks, or where housing conditions are less satisfactory.

The type of management being practiced, and the skill of the poultryman in charge of the broiler operation, must be considered in making any floor space recommendation, they say. Where management practices are not up to standard and disease outbreaks give considerable trouble one square foot of floor space or even more may be required.

Shelter for Layers

The University of Illinois poultry specialists recommend shelter at night, shade during the day and plenty of eating and drinking space for those pullets you want to develop into good layers. A range shelter with wire-covered sides will keep your chicks more comfortable and healthy than a brooder house in summer. It will give good shade and allow plenty of free air movement both day and night.

Grain Bunk

The type of grain bunk pictured above has proved very practical for small calves. It is only 18 inches high and three 2 x 8's wide. Then, too, it can be used for yearlings or any of the cattle. Many cattlemen use this same type bunk in their barns. If it is to be placed against a wall the legs on one side should be extended 20 inches to that a back of oneinch lumber can be added-it will save feed.

weed could become a real menace to our field crops. Johnson Grass is of value as a hay crop in the South, but sizes it. of value as a hay crop in the South, but since it reproduces from seed and roots, it soon spreads over all crops. Cultivation tends to spread the weed rather than control it, and ordinary weed killers will not destroy this plant.

For tossed green salads, tear greens in fairly large pieces or cut with scissors. Larger pieces give more body to the salad.
