PRAISE FOR COUNTRY PRESS

Lavish praise for the country press recently came from a top government official - Secretary of Commerce Weeks. He said: "When the history of this age-is fully described, great credit for maintaining our freedom will go to the American press, and particularly the country and suburban newspaper.

"The weekly press is the community's loyal, trsutworthy, warmhearted friend. It knows everybody. It goes into every home as a welcome guest. It keeps neighbors acquainted with each other. Its advice is wise and its sympathetic interest is genuine. It fosters civic pride and an enterprising community spirit. It is the stout champion of the moral principles that make America great. And it tells the truth."-E. Hofer & Sons.

THE RIGHT TO WORK

The story of the fight for human freedom would fill endless volumes. A notable page recently was added in Texas.

Some time ago a small group of railroad workers sued for an injunction to prevent their employer and a union from signing a union shop contract, which would have prevented a man who didn't want to join from earning his living. Judge Nelson of the 108th District Court now has ruled that "Congress has no right to enact legislation making union member ship a test of the right to work."

He said further, "That which denies ne right to work

YUMA, ARIZONA-Hi-ya, fans! I'm sure glad we can have these weekly visits through the columns of this newspaper. And I hope to hear from many of you as we launch what should be the most exciting and glamorous period of Maryland's sports history.

And what a way to start on this sports adventure! Out here in the sunny, hot and dry southwest where our new major league Baltimore Orioles are setting a blistering pace in the so-called Grapefruit League. Winners of their first four games (and probably more before this appears in type), our Birds have been hotter than this great Southwestern weather.

Just look at these figures: 44 runs in four games for an average of 11 a game, 52 base hits (13 per contest) including nine round trippers. The climate out here favors the hitters, that's true, because the air is light and the ball carries farther than normal. But our side has been outhitting, outslugging and-best of all-outscoring our rivals. It's a most encouraging start.

* * * Oriole pitchers MARLIN STUART and DICK LITTLE-FIELD and ailing catcher LES MOSS are the anglers in this spring training camp. The Colorado River, however, is about three miles from our training camp ... so-o-o Marlin, Dick and Les each chipped in twenty-five berries and bought a car. They haven't caught any fish worth mentioning, as yet, but then you can't expect too much for seventy-five dollars.

LOU KRETLOW, the blazing fast right hander whose rise to stardom has been slowed by wildness, is a top flight golfer, perhaps the best in camp (with apologies to Mgr. JIMMY DYKES). Lou recently went to the finals of the National Professional Baseball Players Golf Tournament in Florida, before bowing to Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Detroit Tigers. As good as Lou is, his managerthe eminent Mister Dykes-doesn't have to take a back seat either.

A iew of the boys returning from winter ball in Cuba, say it isn't what it's cracked up to be. Rent; two and a quarter a month; gasoline---a minture of alcohol, sugar and reapeet juice; and coffee a dollar sixty a pound. On the other hand, it's worth something for that course in broken English. Sometimes the umpires might not understand you.

Oriole Names in the News: Rookie outfielder JIM FRIDLEY, 28-year-old surprise of the Oriole camp with three round trippers in the first four games, had a sensational spring with Cleveland two years ago, and recorded six hits in six at bats on April 29, 1952, but lost his job to veteran Dale Mitchell. He's trying to prove he "belongs" and he just might do it ... Slugger VIC WERTZ has had a long-time habit of fouling off pitches on his left ankle and instep. So he had the Detroit Lions' trainer design a special miniature shinguard a couple of winters back ... and it's helped ... Only two players-infielder BOBBY YOUNG of Baltimore and pitcher DUANE (Big Dee) PILLETTE - survive from the old Browns' club of three

Douglas and accepted by the editors of The Post will direct attention to a ittle known area of Maryland and to the C & O canal constructed during the great canal-building era, and illustrating one of the most interesting phases of the development of our national communication system.

After being hospitably entertained by the Cumberland News and Times, the hikers will start exploring an area which was equally appealing to George Washington, John Quincy Adams, and other historic men whose duties in the Nation's Capital brought in contact with restful and them peaceful atmosphere of nature undisturbed bordering the Potomac and the canal

It is my belief—and that of many others, including The Post—that a parkway would make the area more accessible to those living in the urban areas surrounding Washington.

Being able to go out in the country and walk on the good earth instead of asphalt, to breathe air uncontaminated with city odors, and to observe the unfolding of a leaf or wildflower can help a person relax and, tempor-arily at least, believe "God's in His heaven and all's right with the world". All necessary legislation by the Congress and the State Legislature has been enacted, after ten years work during my service in the House of Representatives. Appropriations will be necessary now, and I have good reason to believe that the first funds will be recommended by the Depart ment of Interior next year. In the meantime persons unfamiliar with the area may want to follow the example of Justice Douglas and the editors of The Post and become ac-quainted with a delightful and historic

Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. Prior to the Revolutionary .War transportation was largely confined to the East along the rivers and bays of the Atlantic Coast. After the front-ier had extended beyond the Allegheny Mountains there was a need for an easy means of communication by a

A searly as 1754, George Wash-ington, then still in his twenties, sponsored a proposal for a canal, and in 1785 when the Potomac Company was organized George Washington was its president.

In the early 1800's, during the great In the early 1800's, during the great canal-building era, the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company was organ-ized, and on July 4, 1828, John Quincy Adams, then President of the United States, formally began this tremend-ous undertaking by lifting the first shovelfull of earth near Little Falls. It was finally completed to Cumber-land in 1850, and canal boats carrying coal, flour, grains, and lumber were seen on the canal until 1924.

The Indian trail, colonial wagon road, and canal were the first links which brought the far west and eastern regions together in social and commercial contacts.

Today the railroad, super-highway, airline, telephone and telegraph keep us in hourly and daily contact not only with every spot of this huge nation but with the far-flung outposts of the world.

Progress is fine and everyone is for it, but it is comforting on occasions to retreat to the less hurried and harried atmosphere of the world when a trip from Washington to Cumber-land was a journey by canal boat through some of the most picturesque countryside in the east. The well publicized hike by Justice

Douglas and editors of The Post will perhaps encourage many Marylanders to discover some of the enchantments of their own State.

How can anyone who believes in liberty refute that ?- Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

BEDFORD, IND., DAILY TIMES-MAIL: "Newspapers (in 1953) reached new heights in circulation and advertising, giving them the largest volume in their history in both of these categories. This means that in spite of competition from television, radio and magazines for both the readers' time and the advertisers' dollars, newspapers have been given a tremendous vote of confidence."

OLYMPIA, WASH., OLYMPIAN: "It was Thomas Jefferson, himself a farmer, who once said, in effect, that if we allow government to tell us when, where, and what to plant, and when to harvest, we'll jolly well starve to death."

WACO, TEXAS, MESSENGER: "While most Americans laud the democratic type of government many of them have taken it too lightly. They seem to be cognizant of its many benefits but at the same time seem unmindful of its responsibilities. Everyone wants to be called a member of the team but against the total population only a few are willing to share team responsibilities."

PHOENIX, ARIZONA, SUNNY-SLOPE JOURNAL: "Let's get back to American principles. Instead of calling names, let our politicians come up with something to keep the wheels of business and industry rolling."

Every year, thousands of wage items are reported incorrectly to the Social Security Administration. Make sure yours is not one of them. Have your employer report your wages under your name and account number exactly as they are shown on the account-number card.

For those of you who would like to order season tickets in the "Bailey Goss Section" at Baltimore's enlarged Memorial Stadium, just drop a line to the Orioles' ticket office at 4 West Eager Street in Baltimore and join the fun. Supreme Court Justice William O las and editors of the Washing-Dous ton Post will rediscover the scenic wonders of nature along the historic Cheasapeake and Ohio Canal on a hiking trip which starts from Cumber-land on Saturday.

Justice Douglas, who, besides being a distinguished member of the high-est court in the land, is an experience ed mountain climber, woodsman, and author of books and articles on the wonders of the great outdoors. Justice Douglas is opposed to a Federal parkway along the canal, a pro-ject which I originated years ago. The editors of The Post, despite the strains of publishing one of the great American newspapers, appar-ently feel up to walking the 185 miles from Cumberland to Washington in an effort to convince Mr. Douglas that a parkway would not destroy what they call "this delightful wilderness at the Capital's back door. WITH OUR ARMED FORCES Promoted to Private first class, USMC, during the month of February were four platooms of Marines who successfully completed 10 weeks of intensive training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S. Carolina Carolina.

Graduating with Platoon 468 was Elwood C. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Myers, of Uniontown, Md. The job of transforming the re-cruits into Marines necessitated many hours of field training and classroom lectures. In addition to their train-ing, the recruits were given various aptitude tests to determine the type of duty for which best fitted.

The association says it is best to check with a contractor and review market conditions before making any agreement to grow popcorn. A bump-er 1953 crop gives an 18-month pop-corn supply and has pushed prices to a 10-year low.

FEESERSBURG

I am always reading articles in newspapers and magazines that sets me ill at east with myself. For instance, take the article in the March issue of a popular magazine titled "How Fit are our Children?" It a broken neck and was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident when the car in which she was riding with her husband struck a truck on the Litpoints out that our children, especially in the cities, are suffering from an exercise deficiency, a by-product of our mechanical age where wheels are tlestown-Westminster road, near Siltaking the place of legs. It is true that people in the city and in the ver country hate to walk where they can ride, but while riding may save time of spelling to hit the jackpot or a lot buzzing to find the honeypot. Maybe you already know this: To nutmeg over baked rice custard does something extra special for it.

So many women confide to me that housework is so boring and monotonous that if ever they sued for divorce it would be for that reason. I must confess that I have often felt the same way but sometime ago an experience get the meals, sew or use a dust mop. And I saw how utterly dependent five people were on my ability to run a house smoothly and efficiently. It gave me a new feeling of respect for my job, because when someone else depends upon you and you know that you are needed to hold a home together, then the job takes on importance. Running a home may not be as glamorous as some other work but in im-portance it heads the list. A homemaker comes the closest of being that indispensible person. It took one half an hour to get through Westminster Saturday morning due to the fire at the J. C. Penny store. Both Main and Green streets were closed to traffic making it almost impossible for traffic to proceed toward Baltimore.

The Elmer Wolfe school orchestra and band under the direction of Mr. Ferraro gave a public concert Tuesday evening in the school auditorium. The concert was not as well attended as expected but lack of a full house did not keep the musicians from giving an excellent performance. They and their director are to be warmly complimentpointed out during the intermission, the pupils who play in the band and orchestra, do so on a voluntary basis. Also the instruments have been col-lected by generosity of individuals and the P.T.A. There is a great deal of musical talent in our local school and some of it is not being used because of the lack of some instruments, but this handicap is slowly being over-come. It is hoped the concert will become an annual event and that the public will take a deeper interest in it. The students who took part in the concert were: Ann Jarvis, Lorraine Bubrick, Audrey Diller, Kay Luttrell, Jeanne Bohn, Doris Cartzendafner, Nancy Roelke, Audrey Bowers, Jean Hickey, Lois Bowman, Pat Roop, Bev-erly Priest, Rebecca Freeman, Bar-bara King, James Yingling, Larry Weishaar, David Houch, Gordon Cheeks, Ernest Colwell, Tommy Lambort Turnen Harrhurg, David

Carroll County is justly proud of its early association with Rural Free Delivery. Most of us know something of its history. However, there is much about it that is not so generally un-derstood, and many do not realize how early R. F. D. really began to operate in this county. Everyone visiting the Post-Office or passing along Main street has probably seen the marker on the corner bably seen the marker on the content at Longwell Avenue. As this marker states, "the first complete county Rural Free Delivery Service in the United States was inaugurated by the Post-Office Department on December 20, 1899, covering the whole of Car-roll county and small parts of adja-cent counties with Westminster as the central distribution point." Readers of the Carroll Record for February 11 also know of a second claim to distinction. This was the conception and construction locally of the special U.S. Postal Wagon. This went into use on Easter Monday, April 3, 1899, and operated for over eight months before three other wagons and about forty other carriers were added and the system became county-wide. Although its unique service of a "post office on wheels" was eventually tak-en over by the regular carriers, it was a most spectacular development and attracted widespread attention. These happenings on 1899 are still relativehappenings on 1899 are still relative-ly familiar, but they do not constitute the beginnings of R. F. D. in Carroll county. It had already been in oper-ation for over two years. Back in 1896 funds appropriated by Congress be-came available, and the Post Office Department selected 44 localities in 29 States as experimental "cruines pize" States as experimental "guinea pigs" The first three of these were in West Virginia, established on October 1st, 1896, but only fourteen days later a ed two localities in Indiana, four in Ohio, and one each in Missouri and Maryland. The Maryland route was in Carroll county and operated from Westminster. In view of the pioneer aspects of the venture and the wide publicity deservedly given to later developments, it seems strange that so little is known about what went on between 1896 and 1899. Available files of the Democratic Advocate and the American Sentinel, the two Westminster weeklies of the period, give no indi-cation of any local fanfare or even of much interest. No mention on the matter was found in either journal until July 3, 1897, when the Advocate the stated that Postmaster Boyle, of Westminster had been notified that the R.F.D. system, "which had been in operation for several months" would be continued. "The farmers are much pleased with the free delivery." In March 1898, the Sentinel referred to a report to Concress by the Post to a report to Congress by the Post master General on the experimental R.F.D., including the service in the county adjacent to Westminster, still the only locality in the State being tried. Four carriers at the annual compensation of $250. each were employed with an area covered of 16 miles. The number of pieces of mail delivered for the previous year was 6,831.

A September note in the same journal reported that "inspection of the RFD section revealed great satisfaction in the district of Carroll county where it has been in operation, and that other districts are anxious to have the service". Eventually, of course, these desires found fruition in the great expansion on 1899.

There must be a great many mothers like myself who have frowned upon strenuous sports because of the fear of injury After reading this article I wonder if maybe some of us don't carry our fears to extremes. Our children tak ing their cues from their parents are becoming a generation of onlookers instead of doers. They prefer to watch a baseball game instead of being on the field playing, or they sit in front of a T.V. set and watch someone else swim, skate, and climb mountains when they should be out trying to do the same thing. I know I have failed to encourage my teenager very much along these lines but I know I have made a mistake. For looking back over my childhood days, and I must confess it is a pretty fair distance, my parents allowed me to take plenty of

as a whole. Possibly an examination of other county and outside publications would bring more details. Per-sonal recollections should also still be obtainable. In view of the scarcity of available material, the Historical Society of Carroll county would appreciate further data for the 1896-1899 period.

One angle which excites curiosity is as to why Maryland and Carroll county received such early priority for the experiement. A letter written in 1939 by the Taneytown resident at-tributes the original R.F.D. concept to Mr. A. W. Machen, subsequently Superintendent of R.F.D. for many years, and states that Mr. Machen whose wife was a Miss Baumgartner of Westminster, had spent much time in the county and had become familiar with its many advantages.

Another theory as to the selection of Maryland rests on the idea that some restiveness was developing within the State over the cation of the Post Office Department in consolidating some small post offices with those of nearby large cities to the alleged detriment of the service. It may have been thought that a free delivery service to rural areas would be a possible alleviation. This is purely speculation, but it is a fact that Senator Gorman, Maryland had just vigorously critic-ized the Department for its consolidations, particulary one that reduced the office at Elicott City to a substation of Baltimore.

Some apprehension of what was going on was felt in Carroll county, and on May 2, 1896, the Advocate came out with an editorial "Don't Touch Westminster". In this the expansive activities of the Baltimore post-master were described. "He may". it was said, "Reach for Westminster next and make it a substation with an $600 clerk in charge. That is not desired. Westminster, a live progressive town, that has excellent water-words, electric light and gas system, an ice factory, the best in the

HISTORY OF TANEYTOWN

(Continued from first page) was a fire up towards Bunker Hill. They got out their engine and started with all haste for the fire, 'but when they got opposite Mr. Edward Kemper's, the engine stuck in the mud, and they had to leave it there and fight the fire with buckets. There were two houses on the lot; one was burnt down and the other saved. If we can secure a water supply for our town it will be as well equipped as any town of its size in Maryland. Politically, Taneytown has always en federalist, whig and republican With a few exceptions anyone who knows the people can tell to which political party a man belongs by hearing his name. On the breaking up of the old whig party many of its mem-bers in Maryland either joined the American (or know nothing) party as it was generally called, or at least voted for its candidates; some went sorrowfully into the democratic party and others were without a political home. The breaking out of the war put a very large majority of the old line whigs, and some democrats in Western Maryland, into the republican party. On the other hand there were among the whigs some who were opposed to the abolition of slavery and went into the democratic party. This was the case all over Western Maryland, and Taneytown district, having always given majorities against democracy soon became as strongly republican as it had been federalist and whig, a majority of the young men voting the republican tickets as their fathers and grand-fathers had voted the whig or federalist ticket

Taneytown has been fortunate or unfortunate (as you choose) in hav-ing had a very few offices given it by either party. Mr. Sterling Galt was a member of the first board of county commissioners, his brother Col. Samuel Galt, was one of the Commissioners appointed to lay out the county into election districts, and some of its citizens have been county com-missioners, Judges of the Orphans' Court, members of the Legislature etc., but, I do not think any of them ever held the County Clerk or Regis-ter of Wills office, nor can I recall a single man who held a federal op-pointment except that of Postmaster. Some of the men who are or have been prominent in state and county politics have been born and brought up here, however, Frank Thomas was born here but left when quite young. The nestor of the Carroll county Democracy, Col. John B. Boyle, and Col. Long-well, Col. Wm. A. McKellip and I think Mr. Baumgartner were at one time, citizens of this district, but were not residents of it when elected. Mr. Boyle, I am told, got the largest Whig vote ever given to a Democrat in Taneytown district. Dr. Swope tells Wampler ran for county clerk, Mr. W. only carried the district by eleven majority.

Maj. A. G. Ege, (a son-in-law of Maj. McKaleb) who built the house now standing on the Antrim property, was a very prominent Whig politi-cian. He was at one time a member of the Maryland legislature, and as many of our older people will remember was very much opposed to the building of the plank road from Emmitsburg to Westminster, taking the ground that the road would not last

The republicans of Taneytown district have often given one of their democratic citizens a large vote for a local office, and the democrats have

Taneytown church. Among the members of the executive board with Brethren Leaman and Correll were: Peter Levering, William Crane, Ste-phen P. Hill and James Wilson. Rev. Jacob Fream was an active pastor in Virginia, and he was a member in his younger days at Taneytown being Baptized by Pastor Mettam who served the church for several years. Others connected with the work have been Darius Thomas, Richard Hill, R. T. Duvall. The church was not active after 1879. As one of the early churches in Maryland, a pilgrimage in the fall will include old Taneytown cemetery. It is hoped that other facts will be obtained by this time."

"OLD TANEYTOWN" QUESTIONS

Some Answered given from Best In-formation Obtainable.

17.—The oldest Church Congrega-tion. It is reasonable to assume that the first denominational bodies were small, and their assembly at irregu-lar times. That their early records were not kept; and that some that were kept, have been lost. As this is in no sense a history of the various denominations in Taneytown we shall confine our reply as to churches as nearly as possible to dates of record as given by Dr. Birnie in his History of Taneytown, as follows: Piney Creek Presbyterian, 1760; Taneytown Lutheran 1779 or earlier; Catholic, 1790;

Reformed, early in the 1800's. Naturally, these first congregations were served by supplies, or missionaries. The first pastors of record were Piney Creek, Rev. Joseph Rhea, 1777 Lutheran, Rev. John G. Wingandt, 1792; Catholic, Rev. Nicholas Zocchi, 1804; Reformed, Rev. Jacob Helfenstein, 1822.

18. Church Buildings. The oldest church building was likely the "yel-low Church" that stood on perhaps the front of the present Reformed cemetery. The date of its building is not known; but at a meeting of mem-bers of the Presbyterian and Reformed congregations, held Nov. 30, 1920, it was described as being "in a dilapidate condition". Later buildings were erected as follows: Piney Creek Pres-hyterian, before 1771; Catholic, about 1796; Lutheran, 1811; Reformed, 82

11 and 22 .- The "square" at Bunker Hill". We give a second answer more in detail, but it is not a matter of much importance. Rev. Lucken-bach, in his 1876 History, says: "When and for what reason the plan was changed, and the Emmitsburg highway in that direction was discon-tinued, we can not tell". No doubt the idea was never very seriously con-sidered. It may have had some backing because in the old days roads that led to grist and saw mills were much used, which accounts for the name "Mill Road" as it led from the closest mill along Big Pipe Creek to Taney town, that entered the town at "Bunk er Hill"; and just beyond this, on the same road, was the front of the Luth-eran Cemetery; but further than that, the lay of the land was not favorable to road extension Also at this early date, what is now East Baltimore Street was simply an extension of the road leading from Emmitsburg to Baltimore. As Car-roll County had not then been formed, Westminster was an unimportant town, among others in this section of then Frederick County. As the Luth-eran and Reformed Churches, with parsonages, had been built on what is now Emmitsburg Street, along with a number of shops and dwellings, that end of the through road was most In fact, as late as just before the construction of the R. R. through the town, there were not twenty buildings of all kinds within a mile east of the two old Hotels. The question of the location of the "square" therefore settled itself.

done the same for the Republicans. I think there is less bitterness be-tween the parties than in most other places, and also less turning from one party to the other, except for a friend running for a local office. Our people generally stick to their colors. The majorities are steady and regu-lar, we don't all vote the Republican ticket one year and the Democratic the next. In politics as in everything

Information at Last Received Con-cerning Old Church.

We appreciate the following infor-mation concerning the Baptist Church formerly located along the Emmitsburg road near Taneytown. Our search in this direction was noted by Mrs. M. Estella Close, Baltimore, a subscriber to The Record, and passed on to Rev. Kingman A. Handy, Balti-more, who has been closely associated with Baptist work in Maryland for the

with Baptist work in Maryland for the last fifty years, and gives the follow-ing authentic information. "Taneytown Baptist Church was or-ganized in May of 1791 following ser-vices held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones by Rev. John Davis, Rev. Lewis Richards, Rev. William Klingham and others. The constitu-ent members were: Thomas Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Wil-liam Hill, John Bowden, Elizabeth Chenowith, Rebecca Rial, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hill. The lot was donated by Isaac Hill. The lot was donated by Mrs. Thomas Jones and the plain log structure was built with the help of neighbors. In 1793 the church was represented in the organization of the Association of the Western Shore of Maryland, which the following year took the name of the Baltimore Baptist Association. The Salisbury Association on the Eastern Shore was organized in 1782.

Among the early pastors were the Rev. William Klingham, Rev. Edward Choat and Elder Thomas Leaman.

The Taneytown Church was among the constituent members of the Mary-land Baptist Union Association which organized in 1836 immediately follow-ing the action of the Baltimore Asso-ciation at Black Rock expelling some of its members. Taneytown refused to endorse the action with six other churches and joined the Baptist Union. The delegates from Taneytown at the organization meeting in Baltimore were Rev. Thomas Leaman and Jacob Correll. These two were members of were Rev. Thomas Leaman and Jacob Correll. These two were members of the first Executive Board of the M. B. U. A. else, our people are generally steady, conservative, good natured and thrifty. The law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor on election day was a great thing for Taneytown, as well as for the balance of the state, as no one will dery who remember as no one will deny, who remembers the scenes we used to have when whiskey flowed freely on election day, and the candidates felt obliged to treat. Some of the stories sound funny now, but the scenes were often disgraceful. Since the law was in operation one election day, there was a fight and for some reason or other soon grew into a regular Irish shindy, some trying to stop the fight-ing, some wanting to fight everybody they met and others trying to find their particular enemy, thinking it a good time to take out their grudges. The late Mr. G. W. Clabaugh, of Antrim, who was standing by my side looking on said to me "My! but that reminds me of old times."

enough. A man can keep all the rules of the game and be a poor player. He can observe all the laws of his state and not be a desirable citizen. Something more, something more positive, is needed, valuable though the Ten Commandments are. At the Last Supper Jesus gave his friends there, and through them he gave all Dr. Foreman his friends since, an eleventh commandment which Christians understand to be more important than all the others. In fact, we have New Testament authority for believing not only that if a man kept all the others and broke the Eleventh, he would be a moral zero; but also that if he really keeps the Eleventh, it will lead to his keeping all the rest. It is what Christ called the "New Commandment''-of Love.

What's New About Love?

Was Jesus exaggerating when he spoke of love as a "new" commandment? Had love never been heard of before? Is it not found in those two ancient Laws Christ himself had quoted from Deut. 6:5 and Leviticus 19:18-Love God, and Love your neighbor? Well, love itself was not then new in the world. But love to the degree that Jesus meant, was indeed new. The careful reader will notice that Jesus does not stop with "Love one another." He goes on to add, "-as I have loved you." Granted that even sacrificial love had been seen in the world before, the fact is that for these disciples in the Upper Room, and for most of us if the truth be known, the kind of self-giving love which Christ had and was is in truth something new. We are all willing to love those that love us. We will love those who understand and appreciate us. We are willing enough to love if we feel we are getting some return, so to speak, on our investment. But which of us in Jesus' place would have loved others as he did? Those disciples were not at first what you would call lovable people. Sinners are not lovable as a rule, and Jesus came to help sinners. The thing that always bothered the Pharisees was that Jesus evidently loved people who did not deserve to be loved. No Pharisee ever understood this. It was something new in their world.

Love Is Not a Blueprint

Christians sometimes become too enthusiastic about this New Commandment. They speak of it as if it did away with the Ten Commandments, or as if it got rid of any need for thinking. If your intentions are good, that's good enough, they say. So they go through life with what they vaguely suppose are good intentions but actually doing a lot of harm. Jesus never meant this New Commandment as a sort of magic charm that would solve all our problems, get rid of all our difficulties, conquer all our temptations. Love is not a blueprint, either. You cannot take "love and love alone" and govern a city or found a college or run a business or a farm, just on pure love. It is something like the law of gravitation. You can't build so much as a pigsty without paying good attention to the law of gravitation. But that law does not tell you how to build the sty, nor a house, nor a skyscraper, though all of them are held together with gravitation's mighty power. So with all human institutions, the church, the state, the school, and so on: without the spirit of self-sacrifice (the New Commandment) they will not stand: vet self-sacrifice is no blueprint by itself. There is no substitute for hard thinking and planning.

Love Is Concern "

If self-sacrifice sounds too lofty, let us come down the scale a little. New-Commandment love, to say the least of it, means concern for others. We all know what it is to be concerned about ourselves. We take good care of ourselves, we look for our interests, we worry for fear we may be left by the wayside somehow. We like to see that we ourselves get the most out of anything. All persons except complete fools are concerned naturally about themselves. Now, the New Commandment simply says to turn this concern in the other direction. Be as interested in the other person's welfare as you are in your own.

FARM FILLERS

The practice of selling milk in half gallon and gallon containers to house-hold consumers has increased greatly hold consumers has increased greatly over the past few years, according to a recent report of the Agricultural Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. A study in 25 major cities shows that in 1950 only five of these cities priced the larger contain-ers at a discount from the equivalent single-outer prices but by 1953 the single-quart prices, but by 1953 the number had increased to 15 of the 25 cities.

Farmers added about one million head of cattle and calves to their herds 1953, but the increase was far less than in the two preceding years. The gain of only 1 per cent during 1953 indicates that inventory of cattle and calves is levelling off. The number has increased each year since the beginning of 1949 when 76.8 mil-lion head were on farms. It reached a record 94.7 million head of January 1, 1954.

Farmers received 45 cents of the dollar that consumers spent for farm products in 1953 compared with 47 cents a year earlier. During the post-World War II period, the farmer's share has varied from 45 cents to 52 the same share of the consumer's food this year as in 1953, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
