FARMERS WIN INVASION CASES

Court Refuses to Grant Injunction

The United States of America has lost its case against Paul Morelock, Lindsay Shafer, Lewis Shafer and Joseph Shafer, Lewis Shafer, Sr., Paul Sterner, Herbert Hull, Ray Haines, Rodney Haines, Lawrence Haines and Lawrence Haines, Jr., the embattled Carroll County farmers, when Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, this week refused to grant an injunction against them to permit Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee inspectors to invade their farms without the owner's consent, for the purpose of measuring 1954 wheat acreage.

The U. S. District Court for the District of Maryland, at Baltimore, found as a fact that the Carroll County A.S.C. Committee did not make the necessary reasonable effort to dispose of these cases at the County or State level as required by Department of Agriculture instructions, according to Judge Thomsen's 23-page opinion. The government had filed injunction suits against the above named wheat producers after Committee-appointed inspectors or reporters were refused entry upon the farmers' lands to measure crops in connection with farm-marketing quotas.

But the Judge rejected the farmers' contention that their wheat production was for use at home, rather than for sale, and was so small that it did not come within the scope of the interstate commerce clause of the Federal Constitution. He also noted that one of the defense attorneys, declaring that the "embattled farmers" were determined to make a firm stand against government interference and regimentation, had referred near the close of the 2-day hearing on these injunction suits, to Ralph Waldo Emerson's "Hymn, Sung at the Completion of the Concord Monument."

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood, Their flag to April's breeze unfurled Here once the embattled farmers stood, And fired the shot heard 'round the world'."

Those who stood "by the rude bridge that arched the flood" at Concord must realize that the rude bridge is no longer, the Judge said, but has been replaced by a more elaborate structure. The Court's opinion went on to say:

"Our Government now involves an enormous number of reciprocal benefits and restrictions. Most farmers accept the restrictions involved in the (Agricultural Adjustment) Act in order to enjoy its benefits although some receive little or no benefit. 'The wisdom of the Agricultural Adjustment Act is a question to be decided by the Congress, in which these embattled farmers are represented.' The opinion also disposed of the farmers' contention that their rights of 'trespass' would be violated if inspectors came on their lands without permission of the owners.

"The special protection accorded by the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution to people in their 'persons, houses, papers and effects' is not extended to the open fields," Judge Thomsen wrote. "The distinction between the latter and the house is as old as the common law."

The Government Complaint was dismissed after the Court found a clear gap between what procedures had been set up by the Agriculture Department and what was done in this case. Just because the farmers had prevented the inspectors from walking on the land and measuring the extent of the wheat acreage, was no excuse for the inspectors not to make an estimate, the Judge said. The farm marketing excess could be based on this estimate, it was noted, and the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture provided for such a case. Further protection of the farmer's rights is provided by the Agricultural Adjustment Act which allows adjustment in the marketing excess and the penalty if the farmer asks for it.

A Government request for the injunction was also based on the contention that the farmer should be required to point out the fields to inspectors on maps. Judge Thomsen's opinion included a lengthy discussion of the rights involved in this issue, but he declined to rule on the question because he had dismissed the complaint.

The embattled farmers who successfully resisted and defended these injunction suits were represented by John Wood, Stanford Hoff, and Eugene Walsh, of Westminster, and Wilson Barnes, of Baltimore. The Government attorneys have not indicated as yet whether they will appeal this decision to the higher courts.

Taneytown Jr.-Sr. High School's first Parent-Teacher Meeting of the year was held in the auditorium, Oct. 5. Due to the illness of the president, Mr. Darrell Nelson, the vice-president, Mrs. Sir Vantis Henshaw presided.

The program, which preceded the business meeting, opened with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, the Flag Salute and an invocation by the Reverend Miles Reifsnider. The High School Chorus then sang four selections: "School Song", "God Protect our Native Land", "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen", and "Sourwood Mountain." The Boy's Quintet sang "Daniel in the Lion's Den."

Taneytown's new principal, Mr. Andrew Mason, and his wife were introduced by the Reverend Miles Reifsnider, program chairman. All the teachers were then introduced by Mrs. Urth Shipley, vice-principal of the school.

The Reverend Joseph Chukla, an Evangelical and Reformed pastor from Westminster, was the speaker for the evening. Prior to his present ministry, the Reverend Chukla had been a guidance counselor at a penal institution for delinquent boys in New Jersey. He presented a challenge to each parent present to help curb juvenile delinquency.

Tentative programs for the year were outlined. In November, a movie will be shown, "Skiway and the Three R's"; in December, the annual Christmas program will be presented by the school; in February, there will be a panel discussion; April, the Spring Musical; in May, the annual Style Show.

A bazaar will be held this fall instead of the annual school supper. The date will be announced later by the Executive Committee.

Mrs. Meunchner from the Potomac Edison Company explained the possibility of the P.T.A. sponsoring a cooking school in the school auditorium. All expenses would be borne by the Company in addition to their giving two prizes an Electric Roaster and a Sunbeam Fry Pan. All profits from the fifty cent admission charge would go to the P.T.A. Tentative dates are October 20 or November 1.

Mrs. Yingling and Mr. Jodl, of the music department, asked for contributions toward music for the chorus and band. Mr. Jodl also made a plea for any unused instruments in the community.

Refreshments, furnished by the ninth grade, were served in the cafeteria.

The next P.T.A. meeting is scheduled for November 9.

ELEMENTARY P.T.A. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

This year's drive for members in the Taneytown Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association will move into full swing next week. The goal this year has been set at 300 members, to be reached by Thanksgiving, November 25th. Since there are actually less families represented in the school this year, all parents, patrons and friends are urged to join now.

The dues have remained the same at $1.00 per couple, and pays the local, National and Maryland Congress dues. The help and interest of every parent in their P.T.A. is essential to the success of the great program which is carried on by this organization, not only at home, but also through the state and national channels.

In a few weeks personal contact will be made by the membership committee with those who have not yet joined. Why wait until you are asked? Why not send your dues with your child to the school next week? Or better still the committee will be prepared to accept dues at the regular P.T.A. meeting Tuesday evening, or you may contact any of the members of that committee listed below. Make yourself count, and be counted! Join your P.T.A. today!

The committee is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. James Fair, co-chairman; Mrs. Clyde Wilhide, Mrs. Stoner Fleagle, Mrs. Alice Wolf, Mrs. Emma Wildasin, Mrs. Theodore Fair, Mrs. Lake Weant.

CARROLL COUNTY CHILDREN'S AID

The Society Makes Its Annual Report

The Children's Aid Society has been serving children and parents in Carroll County for over a quarter of a century. Last year the Society helped more than 40 children and their parents. It cared for 45 children in foster family homes.

When the Children's Aid Society was the only resource for homeless children in Carroll County, it provided for all children needing care outside their own homes. As the Public Welfare Department grew and became able to provide for some dependent children in foster homes, Children's Aid has been freer to offer additional needed services which would not be available through the public agency.

The Children's Aid Society continues to serve children in foster family homes and will go on giving this service, particularly to children needing special treatment or adoption placement.

However, foster family care is only one of the five services provided by the Society. It gives service to unmarried mothers by counseling, aiding with medical and shelter care, and by placing infants upon the mothers' request. Counseling is provided for parents and children. Parents who are troubled about a child may seek professional help from the Children's Aid.

The Society represents the entire community's concern for children's protection from cruelty or neglect through its Protective Service function. It stands ready to investigate any responsible reports of neglect or abuse of children and to offer the neglectful parents help in becoming better parents. Adoption service which is provided in conjunction with the other branches of the Maryland Children's Aid Society, gives children permanent homes.

This agency service has legal and social safeguards for children, for parents and for adopting parents which can not be offered outside of a qualified social agency.

The Bronson family, which is not their name, was one that was helped this past year by the Society's Protective service. Neighbors reported that Mr. and Mrs. Bronson were neglecting their children. Mr. Bronson was drinking heavily, and when under the influence of alcohol he was abusive to his children and wife. Mrs. Bronson who was ill and sick with worry over her husband's condition, was leaving their children in the care of Helen who was only 12.

At first Mr. and Mrs. Bronson were resentful that complaint had been made against them. How they lived and what they did with their children was their own business they said. The Children's Aid Society caseworker explained that it was also the Society's and the Community's business what happened to children. Something would have to be done about the situation, she said, as the children could not continue being neglected.

With the help and interest of the caseworker, Mr. and Mrs. Bronson acknowledged that they were concerned about their home situation. Mr. Bronson stated that he knew he should cut down on his drinking and Mrs. Bronson admitted that she should not be leaving the children alone, but sometimes she just had to get out of the house.

The caseworker offered the family a series of weekly visits for a 6 months period. Mr. and Mrs. Bronson agreed that during that time they would try to improve their home situation. In the weekly interviews Mr. and Mrs. Bronson, sometimes together, sometimes separately, discussed with the caseworker their many worries and with her help begun to find new ways of attacking their problems.

Mrs. Bronson was given a medical check-up which indicated a low grade infection which was sapping her strength and keeping her nervous and upset. Mr. Bronson who was not alcoholic, reduced his drinking. He got a better job and the family finances improved. At the end of several months the Bronsons and the caseworkers agreed that the situation had changed considerably and was continuing to improve, so that Children's Aid Society was no longer needed.

Professional social work help to this family and their use of it meant that a home was saved for five children. They were spared the unhappiness and damage of separation from their parents and the community was saved the expense of supporting them in foster care.

Contributions to the Carroll County Community Chest make this Community service possible. When the Community Chest representative comes to your door: Give to help the children of Carroll County.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The many jars are filled with apple sauce made from the lone apple tree on the grounds of the Parsonage. The bean soup is on for lunch made with the big ham bone. The thermostat is turned up for the first time this fall and outside is damp, chilly and windy. Fall is surely with us now! The lovely field across the way has been all plowed up which appears now as a golden brown carpet where the grass seed has been planted for the sheep. Who says winter time is blue time! Not for this columnist as every season has its special kind of beauty.

Did you start with your fall house-cleaning, Ladies? I did and the several rooms of the Parsonage has been repapered plus the hall as to a combination paper. It really makes one feel like working, while at the village grocer discovered a yellow bar of soap for the price of FIVE CENTS! "Swift" is the brand and I tried it immediately upon the white paint woodwork and it surely worked wonders. No scrubbing just rinse off clear and the woodwork will appear as though it was freshly painted. Ask the grocer with whom you deal if he can get it for you. Something like Fels Naptha.

Thinking of housework, hope you have read "A Day Off For Wives!" Written by a man! He stated that recent surveys show that today's housewife works up to 100 hours a week! Betcha, that it floored many husbands and something which they never

DEMAND FOR WATER GREAT

There is an invaluable natural resource which most of us take for granted—water. The nation's water supply, obviously, is as important as its supply of air. So a recent information bulletin published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States which deals with our water situation and some developing problems is of wide interest.

Our water needs are now four times as great as they were in 1900. Half of that increase is accounted for by the fact that the population has doubled. The other half results from the fact that per capita consumption also has doubled and has reached what the Chamber terms "the fantastic figure of 1100 gallons per day"—yes, that means for each person! There are three primary reasons for this jump. First is the growth of industry. It takes 65,000 gallons of water to produce a single ton of steel, and one Louisiana oil refinery alone uses more than the city of Cleveland. The industry demand is expected to more than double by 1975—and that doesn't take in account the possibility of new atomic industries.

Second, individuals use much more water than they used to. The home appliances, such as washing machines, are big consumers. And people take more baths!

Third is the great increase in water for irrigation. At present, this trend is especially marked in the East—and most Eastern crops require far more water than those produced in the West.

What it all adds up to, the Chamber says, is "gerater competition for water between agriculture and industry, town and country".

So far as the nation as a whole is concerned, we have plenty of water. But many areas have been facing shortages—and, proportionately, these have been most frequent in the larger communities. According to the bulletin, of the 93 water systems serving cities of more than 100,000 population, 35 systems were overtaxed and experienced some degree of shortage last year. Idaho, Rhode Island and Mississippi were the only states where no restrictions on water use were reported.

Basically, water shortage prevention is a two-fold process. The first requirement is better regulation. This means catching and holding more rain where it falls, through improved conservation practices, and by both natural and artificial replacement of water in the underground reservoirs. The second requirement is expansion of community water systems, many of which are out of date.

Finally, new sources of water are in prospect. An electrical process for removing salt from brackish water is well advanced. Experiments are also underway in methods of converting sea water into fresh. This was done successfully during World War II by the Navy, but on a small scale. The present object is to discover a large-scale process that is cheap enough to be practical.

President Eisenhower has said, "The conservation and use which we make of the water resources of our nation may in large measure determine our future progress and the standards of living of our citizens." That is a job not only for government, but for private enterprise and citizens.—Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DAVIS, CALIF., ENTERPRISE: "One of the most moving tributes ever paid to this great country of ours came recently from a German-born, naturalized American who left his estate of $70,000 to the government of the United States. The reason for the gift was that 'my wife and I are so much indebted to the blessings we have enjoyed as citizens of this country.' How much do those of us who have always lived here appreciate the blessings we enjoy?"

BOSTON, MASS., QUINCY PATRIOT LEDGER: "We may unpromisingly believe that freedom and democracy will ultimately win the world struggle, but we would be foolish indeed to assume that this will hold true if we allow unity to be supplanted by dissension, understanding to be destroyed by suspicious animosity, and cooperation and compromise to fall victim to rigidity and insistence on conformity among nations."

CLAREMONT, MINN., NEWS: "Communism is out to conquer the world. A small group in 1917 has grown to an enslavement of over 800,000,000 people and has 5,000,000 hardened, strictly disciplined conspirators working in 60 non-Communist countries. Recently Attorney General Brownell was asked what the FBI thinks of Communists in the United States. He said, 'They think it is a greater menace now than at any time as they are better organized and detection is more difficult.'"

The American worker far outproduces the European worker even when both use the same modern machines and tools. According to a recent study made for the U. S. Army, the typical foreign plant, using identical equipment, employs 2 to 3 times as many workers as the American plant in order to get the same output.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

The Fire Company will hold a Thanksgiving dinner and oyster supper in the Firemen's Hall, on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24. A parade of the Fire Company and Drum Corps will be held at 3:30 p. m.

Artie B. Angell left on Monday for Toronto, Canada, where he will enter a school of veterinary surgery, preliminary to graduation.

F. M. Yount and family left Taneytown on Thursday evening, for their new home in Harrisburg, Pa. Mr. Yount was in business here nearly 25 years, during which time he earned a deserved reputation for keeping an excellent store in his line, and for honor and integrity both in and out of business. Recently he disposed of his stock to his son, C. Edgar Yount.

A very enjoyable party visited Gettysburg, Pa., on Saturday, Oct. 8. Those who went were as follows: Daniel Harman and wife, David Heltebride and wife, Emanuel Fuss and wife, George I. Harman and wife and son, John.

Hemler—Megee—A very quiet but beautiful and impressive marriage ceremony was witnessed in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Wednesday morning, the principals in which were Mr. Pius L. Hemler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Hemler, of near town, and Miss Katherine J., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Megee, near Westminster. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. J. Lennon, before only the immediate families of the bride and groom. Mr. George E. Megee, brother of the bride was best man, and Miss Mamie Hemler, sister of the groom was bride's maid. The nuptial mass was served by Jos. and George Elliot, cousins of the bride.

Reaver—Duttera—Grace Reformed Church of Taneytown, Md., was again the scene of one of the prettiest weddings that has taken place this season, on October 12, when Mr. Stanley C. Reaver, a well-known young business man and postmaster of Taneytown, and Miss Georgia R. L. Duttera, daughter of Mr. Geo. K. Duttera, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. J. Wolf, pastor of the church.

Purina

500,000 more hens in the East are being fed Purina since we introduced our HIGH EFFICIENCY formula, two years ago.

We think the reason for the big shift is very easy to see. Many poultrymen, large and small, have found that Purina HIGH-EFFICIENCY CHOWS made eggs on less feed and less cost per dozen than the lower-efficiency rations they were using.

A test will soon show you the money you may save on Purina's outstanding new formulas. Call us.

Remember it was 65 years since they lived on the farm now owned by Allen Stull, she was so delighted to have received 108 greeting cards.

FEESERSBURG

The Elmer Wolfe School auditorium was filled Monday evening when the first P-T. A. meeting of this school year was held. Carroll Wilhide, president of the organization, opened the meeting with an appeal to parents to work closely together this year for a more progressive P-T. A. The new principal spoke briefly and introduced the new teachers and re-introduced the teachers that have been faithful to Elmer Wolfe and the community for some few years. As the principal pointed out, the turn over in teachers at our local school has been very small and an indication that the school program will proceed without interruption or delay due to adjustment of personnel. At the conclusion of the short business program, the parents and teachers visited with each other and enjoyed the refreshments served by the ladies of the P-T. A.

We hear so much about the increase in the baby crop each year in the United States and no where is this fact disclosed more than at a P-T. A. meeting. One notices almost at once that the size of the family is growing, and the predictions are the number of children per family will continue to increase in number. Predictions have a way of not always coming true. It wasn't too many years ago that some responsible people predicted that the American family would die out because the trend was toward smaller and smaller families. Some where along the line the trend abruptly reversed itself and lots of people are asking why? There are a lot of different answers but perhaps the most simple one and the one that bears the most weight is that people have found out how much happiness and contentment children can bring into their lives. Americans have produced many different material things that have brought leisure and better living to millions but the most important "crop" in America today is the "Baby Crop."

The new social security law which takes effect January 1, 1955, covers farm operators. They will report and pay social security tax on their earnings from self-employment. Some hired help on farms have been under social security since 1951. Farm operators were not included at that time.

The new law brings farm operators and more hired help under provisions of the act. This is a good law and will assure farmers and their help of some financial security in their old age.

Remember the "Tale of the Mariner" and the lines that read "Water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink"? Right now where its needed every where but where its needed most. The city of Chicago is actually sitting in a lake of water and praying that it will soon go away and here in the East the wells are going dry and the ground is so dry huge cracks are opening in the fields. Experts tell us that we have just as much rainfall now as we ever had but we do not keep it in and on the land long enough for it to do its proper amount of good. Intensive farming, cutting timber and our network of modern roads tends to increase the run off of water before it soaks into the soil.

We may not have a lot of moisture in the air but we sure do have a lot of politics. On the surface it doesn't look like too much is brewing, but there is a growing resentment under the calm exterior. Whether it boils to the surface in November or will simmer until 1956 is a question only time will tell.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt celebrated her 70th birthday last Sunday at a party given her by her children. Her birthday wasn't until the 18th, but due to another engagement on that date, she allowed her children to give her a party a week ahead of time.

Mrs. Roosevelt has carved for herself a place in history which no critic can erase. She may be a controversial figure in her own country, but she is easily the best known and best loved woman in the world. What ever else may be said for her or against her, she has dedicated her talents toward easing man's burden on earth. May she have many more years to serve her own country.

It's a smile! A school boy was making a speech before his class on the National debt—"It is too bad that future generations cannot be here to see the wonderful things we are doing with their tax money."

We hope Mr. Barnes will soon get the traffic situation straightened out in Baltimore. One week we get into Baltimore all right but can't get out. The next week we finally get in but can't find any landmarks. What are they doing to Baltimore—moving the streets or the buildings? Why not just move people.

The Government has finally decided that the high coffee prices are not due to a frost in South America, but some hot manipulation of the coffee exchange here in the U.S.A. A hearing is coming up to which officers of the Coffee and Sugar Exchange have been invited to attend and answer some pertinent question. It seems that not only has our coffee been roasted—but sugared too.

The hunting season is with us once again. This season has become a headache to farm owners. Not only do the hunters come with their guns loaded but some of the hunters are loaded too. Gun powder and alcohol just won't mix. The proof of this is in the excuse offered by one such hunter when he shot a farmers steer and said he thought it was a squirrel. If a would be hunter needs alcohol to improve his aim he had better stay in bed and hunt pink elephants.

"Too many house wives", a friend one told me, "are constantly worried over the proper performance of little things that in no way affect the family happiness if they were left undone." This I thought over and decided she was right. My family doesn't mind if the living room goes undusted or the kitchen floor unwaxed, but they do mind if the cake box is empty or their favorite shirt unironed. Being a good homemaker is doing the things first that bring the most contentment and leaving until last the things that give one the reputation of being an excellent housekeeper.—Ruth Roelke.

ADKINS—In loving memory of our dear daughter, MARTHA KUMP ADKINS, who passed away 3 years ago, Oct. 14, 1951.

Its been three long years,
Since God called you away,
But we think of you often,
More and more day after day.

You bade no one a last farewell,
You said good bye to none,
Your loving heart just failed to beat,
And suddenly you were gone.

We often look at your photograph,
You are smiling and seem to say,
Don't grieve for me, I'm only resting,
Fore we will meet again some day.

Your memory is all we have now,
Your cares are all at rest,
You will never be forgotten, dearest one,

By the ones who loved you best.
Sadly missed by her parents and brother, MR. and MRS.
ELMER KUMP and DAVID.

In Loving Remembrance of Carrie J. Vaughn who departed this life October 14, 1953.

Gone but not forgotten
A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

By her loving Husband,
WILLIAM VAUGHN
AND CHILDREN

They found Mrs. Sutcliffe in fine spirits. The party left home at 5 a. m., and returned at 9 p. m. Total distance traveled was 594 miles, going over the Turnpike, passed through seven tunnels and 105 underpasses. The scenery was beautiful and the trip was enjoyed by all.

The community Leadership Education program began in its annual program on Tuesday night. Those taking the course on the "Prophecy and Their Messages" were spell-bound and deeply moved by Dr. Lowell Hazzard as he made the Old Testament prophets so vital and related their times and declarations to our own times. It is hoped that many more interested men and women of the community may avail themselves of the splendid opportunity of sitting at the feet of this inspirational teacher. The school will continue this Thursday night and on Tuesday and Thursday nights of the next two weeks.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES ENTERTAIN MEN

The Missionary Societies of the Piney Creek and Taneytown Churches invited the men to their October joint meeting held in the Social Hall of the Piney Creek Presbyterian Church, last night. 10-14-tf

Rev. Gideon Galambos was the speaker. His topic: Evanston, "Christ did not come to argue, debate, or negotiate with men. He came to save them. An ecumenical unity can be achieved only by complete surrender to the One who died for us all. We must surrender with our outmoded nationalistic traditions, with our self-centered theologies for the sake of the One Kingdom of the One Christ. Here is a quotation from Bishop Berggrav of Norway, one of the presidents of the World Council of Churches: 'American Christianity is much more institutional than personal. American Christians are so much pleased with their own abilities, that it seems, as if God would need the American Christians at least as much as they need Him. Occasionally we see in the American Churches two altars: one for the Dollar and one for God. To a foreigner, Americans are a group of confused Christians who in their disunity / 256 denominations / seems to miss the unifying confessional foundation. Inside of these many denominations, American Christianity seems to be further divided. These divisions are caused by sentiment and not so much by theological conceptions. We, Europeans, see in general an America which is led by emotions rather than by intellect. The hopes, expectations, visions of American Christianity are directed to much toward the earth, as if the fulfillment of God's Kingdom should be awaited not up there, but down here, we might even say: exactly in the United States of America.' These are the words of Bishop Berggrav. 10-14-tf

France has been the initiator of the United States of Europe and of the Mutual Defense of Free European Countries against Communist aggression. Yet, today, France is the major stumbling block and the greatest obstacle to a European Union. Why? Because every European nation is willing to give up a portion of her sovereignty except France. Likewise, the Church of Rome has—for long time—been the propagator of the One Universal Christian Church but she has failed to show this at Evanston. There is no hope for unity unless every church will be Christ-centered and every man will surrender with his selfish traditions to the Lord Jesus Christ who is not an institutional but a personal Redeemer of you and me," said Pastor Galambos who spoke about the outcome of the Evanston World Assembly. 10-14-tf

Mrs. Charles Stambaugh was the hostess who together with Mrs. Lake Weant, Mrs. Roy L. Baker, Mrs. Lloyd Strickhouser, Mrs. Truman Bowers, Mrs. Henry Le Vee, Mrs. Clarence Baumgardner, and other Piney Creek ladies, served 62 guests with delicious refreshments. 10-14-tf

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Continued from First Page) realized before. Out in the public life these days it means for each individual a 40-hour week job! But not with Mrs. Housewife as she holds down many jobs at one time. According to the article GRANDMA had it easier! Who says that men do not understand women? That writer, Lester David sure did and does! EH? Evening shoes, Ladies are getting quite pointy at the toe which I always thought belonged with evening clothes (I remember a lovely pink satin pair I possessed in Philadelphia as the last dance played "Goodnight, Ladies"! The French heels for evening wear have been worn for the last two winters. 10-14-tf

Sitting in the car waiting the dismissal hour at the Bel Air High, somehow or other thrilled me looking at the youngsters heading for the Busses! They appeared so full of life with the three W's "WIM-WIGOR AND WITALITY!" All children are wonderful but there is something so different from the real American Freedom in the faces of the youth of today. As I sat there, I thought one of those boys could be President just like Ike of these grand United States! 10-14-tf

My niece returned from abroad—that grand trips he won in the Contest for the Fedder Air Conditioner! She visited London, Paris, Rome, The Rivera, etc. Even to the tips were taken care of by that company. The T.W.A. left New York with two thrilled people as her husband went along. They were treated first to the Stork Club! Nice? There were 50,000 replies to the contest and she was the lucky one! 10-14-tf

If you are going to have very special friends visit you from any part of any country by all means take them down to "THE COURTYARD" in the Department store where you can "sit down and feed and welcome to Our table" as Shakespeare said. It truly is filled with charm. The floor is genuine Flag Stone. The entire atmosphere is extraordinary in restaurant decor—so says everyone who visits there. The affect upon entering is a charming old-fashioned square in fact there was an atmosphere of Rittenhouse Square in Philadelphia and a slight touch of Wanamakers. One of America's foremost designers was commissioned by The May Company to create the now-already famous Courtyard. There are the old Baltimore store fronts of a once famous Confectioner, "NAKES", on Asquith Street. A Dry Goods establishment, a Shoemaker's shop. There are old boards—the very original, the room which they call the Barn and the very old Kerosene lamp right there which was used many years ago at the corner of Howard and Lexington Streets. Of old southern doorway taken from particular interest is the handsome the original Asquith Street home of Senator James Young—the scene of many memorable and brilliant social affairs. In addition to the actual historic fronts, there is reproduced an old apothecary shop, a Stationers, a little leather goods store. An original gas light lamp post, a pair of shutters of colonial period the exterior of the small house of Edgar Allen Poe, the carriage lamps of sterling silver and the Fire place made of Italian Marble! 10-14-tf

As you sit there dining of the delicious prepared food you will imagine yourself in a bygone era—on a village green. The Manager, a Mr. Tobias from Pennsylvania seems to be most fitted to the place. It was most interesting to hear it all in detail as he sat my table. You will love "THE COURTYARD!" Expect to go to the "FIESTA" IN ABERDEEN which is for the benefit of the Harve de Grace Hospital from the hour 2 until 10. Then over the Blue Ridge Mountains for the weekend. See you next week. D.V. So long, Folks. Go to church regardless of the denomination and if the day is a rainy one and your own church is a little distance be sure you attend the nearest one to you. It will be GOD'S HOUSE! I am, Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER. 10-14-tf

Scripture: Proverbs 3-4.
Devotional Reading: Proverbs 4:10-20.

Way of Wisdom

Lesson for October 17, 1954

WHAT is the main thing to be desired in life? Different answers have been given and still are given. Some people think they would rather be rich than anything else; others count health the number one must; others value freedom above all things. There is a section of the Bible in which all the writers unite in giving an answer still different from any of these. "Wisdom is the principal thing," say they all, "therefore get wisdom." Dr. Foreman

The book of Proverbs is part of what Bible scholars call the Wisdom Literature. It is unique among the books of the Bible. It does not tell a story, it has no plot, no argument. It consists of a large number of sayings or proverbs, put together for the most part with very little order. You can try the experiment some time of reading aloud any chapter in Proverbs from chapter 10 through chapter 29, backward (i.e. the last verse first, then the next-to-last, and so on to the first verse), and see whether your listeners know you are reading backward.

Knowledge and Wisdom

But while the book of Proverbs is not all arranged in orderly sequence, there is harmony all through it. The great theme is Wisdom. The whole race of man is divided here into three kinds of persons: the wise, the fools, and the young—who can choose wisdom now before it is too late. (No fool like an old fool!) Wisdom is by no means the same thing as knowledge. Almost anybody can acquire knowledge; all it takes is perseverance and a good memory. Knowledge can be gained quickly, as the rapid instruction classes in the army have shown. A person can learn a language, well enough to get along with it, in a year's concentrated time. But when he speaks it, will what he says be wise? A man may know a dozen languages and yet talk no sense in any of them. A high school student can make "A" in agriculture in his examinations on the book, and still not be a good future farmer. Wisdom is founded on knowledge; the complete ignoramus can never be wise. But wisdom is more than knowledge; it is knowing what to do with knowledge, how to put it to work.

Wisdom Is From God

In the book of Proverbs wisdom is not only different from knowledge, it is different from what is sometimes called worldly wisdom. Men are sometimes called wise by unthinking persons when they are merely wise in the ways of the world—smart, shrewd, able to look out for themselves, always alighting on their feet, like cats. The wisdom commended in Proverbs is not worldly, it is divine. It differs from ordinary smartness in two ways. First, it is from God. It can be learned anywhere ("Go to the ant... consider her ways, and be wise") but God is the final source of wisdom. In other words, wisdom in these pages means much the same as what other writers call conforming to the will of God. It means looking at things with the eye and the mind of God. Further, as the writers of Proverbs see it, true wisdom includes God; that is to say, the wise man will remember God while the fool either never gives God a thought, or says in his heart, there is no God. He is the most important fact in the universe; to leave him out of all our calculations is to be a top-flight fool.

Wisdom Is for This World

There have been good pious people who didn't know quite what to do with this book of Proverbs. For it is out of line with any other worldly notion of religion. People who think that religion and common sense are two different things; people who think religion is concerned with things unseen while common sense deals with everyday facts; people who think that religion is chiefly concerned with death and what comes after,—all these people are taken aback by the earthly simplicities of the Proverbs. The wisdom which is here admired and praised is not anything "out of this world," it is strictly for this world. A former governor of Virginia testified that during his term of office he had received more help in the practical problems of government from the book of Proverbs than from any of the books on political science which lined his library shelves.
