RE-DEDICATION SERVICES AT FRIZZELBURG CHURCH OF GOD

There have been some changes re-

The original building, of brick construction, was erected in the year 1886. These bricks, down through the years, have greatly deteriorated, and to preserve the structure, the Original Hand-Sculptured FormStone was applied to the building in well blended colors. This work was done by Mr. John Walter, of Emmitsburg, Md.

A much needed vestibule was erected on the front of the church building. This addition was also covered with FormStone. The floor of this vestibule was covered, with asphalt tile and new light fixtures have been installed.

These improvements, when completed, were free from all encum-brances. Due to these changes, there will be a Re-Dedication service in the church on Sunday evening, October 31, 1954, at 7:30. The message will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. John H. Leaving the Parsonage last Thursday for the Mountains of West Virginia will be a long and lasting one in my memory for some time to come. Two days holiday of school made it possible for the family to go along. The weather was dark and dreary and the fine drizzle of rain just started coming down as I closed the Parsonage door. I said to my Minister, "Something tells me that we should not venture this trip", as the radio had announced about that awful 'Haz-

We were passing through Taneytown and out Gettysburg way to Cumberland. The rain at times was a Cumberland. The rain at times was a little heavier then very suddenly the sun shone through the gray skies. The apple orchards were loaded with the "Delicious Apples" for which we stopped to purchase. The scenery along the way was most colorful with the trees of green, golden yellow and brown and red. The weather was still warm and it appeared odd this and brown and red. The weather was still warm and it appeared odd this time of the year. It was 85 on the thermometer which was announced on the car radio. We were on top of Sideling Mountain 1595 above Sea Level. We soon came to Hancock and I glanced at that awful Potomac River which I have never liked always remembering how many times it has risen causing so much damage. We kept on riding and now and then the Sun would go down. We finally reached Town Hill facing the open Valley with the Mountains across the way. We parked the car and walked over to the "Lookout" and looked through the huge Telescope one of those kind, "Look for ten cents!" It was a beautiful sight as always but there was no sun and the atmosphere was fright-ening. I wanted to turn back but I did not mention it. The Mountains we passed were the Green Ridge and then the Polish curve with a drop from the 1595 to 1348 above sea level. We went around a real dangerous Horse shoe curve and at times it felt as though we were riding on two wheels! (Continued Next Week)

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1954 YOUR VOTE COUNTS

"My one little vote doesn't count." That easy alibi is used by millions of people who fail to go to the polls. In many elections, this gross failure is shared by an actual majority of the eligible voters.

The Enterprise-Courier of Oregon City speaks out strongly about these citizens: "Dis-interest in our own government is a moral crime. It could mean we are taking away from our children and grandchildren the greatest privilege granted any people."

Your "little vote" is necessary if we are to have government by the majority-not by a controlled or organized minority. The right of franchise is the bulwark of representative government-which means it is the bulwark of freedom.-Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

PORT JEFFERSON, N. Y., TIMES: "The Zenger memorial gallery in the old Customs House has become a classroom for teaching school children the meaning of freedom of the press. Teachers daily take their pupils through the musty rooms of the old federal building where treasures commemorating the birth of the republic are on display."

ST. JOHNS, ARIZ., INDEPEND-ENT-NEWS: "Whether one reads a country weekly of a metropolitan daily newspaper, it is still apparent that at no time in man's history is a free exchange of information more urgently needed than right at this moment at the mid-point of the Twentieth Century as we embark into the Atomic Age. We of the newspaper world are doing our best to keep America strong by telling the truth"

WEST BEND, WIS., NEWS: "Where newspapers are free from government restrictions, as they are in the United States, you are free to select the reading matter of your choice. You are privilgede to have a voice of protest."

ITALY, TEX., NEWS-HERALD: "The News-Herald editor has said time and time again that he does not claim to know the answer to all problems. He does try to think some of them through and present his line of thought to the readers of this publieation. The editorial policy of this newspaper is based on the slogan it | prints at the top of this page, 'Men are never so likely to settle a question rightly as when they discuss it free-

NEW YORK, N. Y., CHRISTIAN ECONOMICS: "We are spending the money taxed from our citizens for the so-called social security scheme as rapidly as we collect it and blithely passing on to our children the task of raising the immense sums necessary to meet later obligations."

SILVER CITY, N.M., ENTER-PRISE: "Sometimes one wonders if the government just hires men to dream up ways to waste money. For instance: The Navy Department sends out releases to newspapers by the thousands. The news release is run! on a duplicator on an 81/2 x11 piece of paper, which is okay; but to mail this piece a window envelope is used and inside the envelope is a piece of index bristol the full size of the enve-, lope upon which is printed the name and address of the newspaper, nothing more-Know how private industry would handle this? The release would be folded and clipped together and the address put on the. back, eliminating both the envelope and the index bristol and more than 50% of the weight."

JEFFERSONTOWN, KY., JEF-FERSONIAN: "It is well enough to say that something has to be done.

But it is well, too, to remember that some thing has to be paid something has to be done. that some thing has to be paid acts.

MUNICIPAL HOME RULE AMENDMENT

"If the residents of Baltimore City and of unincorporated areas in Maryland vote to adopt the Municipal Home Rule Amendment to the Constitution of Maryland on November 2 they will not only be helping the residents of the incorporated municipal ities achieve something they have wanted for years, they will also be helping themselves," stated Mayor Russell P. Smith, Jr., of Cambridge, President of the Maryland Municipal League, recently. The Amendment mentioned by Mayor Smith applies to the 145 incorporated cities and towns in the State, but not to Baltimore City or the twenty-three county gov ernments.

Adoption of the Municipal Home Rule Amendment would curtail the use of local legislation by the Mary-land General Assembly and would give the cities and towns of Maryland the authority to adopt and amend their own charters. At the present time, all the laws which govern each municipality are passed as special bills by the General Assembly. Of the 785 laws passed by the General Assembly in 1953, approximately one-fourth were local laws pertaining to one municipality.

"The legislators in Annapolis would be relieved of the burden of enacting individual laws for each of 145 muni-cipalities in the State," said Mayor Smith. "According to an estimate made by the Commission on Administrative Organization of the State, municipal home rule would result in a twenty percent reduction in the work-load of the General Assembly."

"The legislators which Marylanders elect and send to Annapolis would be able to spend this additional time considering issues and problems which affect the whole state. The residents of Baltimore City and of the unincor-porated areas would therefore benefit because the members of the General Assembly could devote more of their time to matters which concern these areas directly and to statewide issues."

Mayor Smith also said, "The strengthening of the government of the State of Maryland and the additional time of the state of the sta tional time legislators would spend on state-wide issues are the direct benefits which the people of Baltimore City and the unincorporated areas would receive from the adoption of the Municipal Home Rule Amendment. The strengthening of municipal governments in Maryland would be an indirect benefit."

"The responsibility for the govern ing of the cities and towns would rest within the incorporated areas, not with the delegates in the General Assembly. The residents of a munici-pality would have more authority over their local government, and thus more interest in it. Strengthened municipal government with increased citizen participation undeniably would benefit all Marylanders".

"The municipal officials of Maryland have long sought municipal home rule", stated Mayor Smith. "We of the Maryland Municipal League hope that the voters in the unincorporated areas and the voters in Bal timore City will support the Munici-pal Home Rule Amendment at the polls on November 2 because of the benefits that its adoption will bring them as well as benefits that will re-sult for their neighbors in the incor-porated areas of Maryland." The Maryland Municipal League is the association of incorporated cities and towns in Maryland three will be and towns in Maryland through which the municipal officials have worked to bring the need for the proposed amendment to the attention of the members of the General Assembly and other state leaders.

All Maryland voters, those living in rural areas as well as those living in ncorporated areas, will determine the future course of municipal govern-ment in Maryland at the polls on November 2. The voters will decide whether the Maryland Constitution will be amended so as to give home rule authority to the cities and towns in this State. The proposed amend-ment does not apply to Baltimore City which already has home rule authori-

The proposed amendment prohibits the Maryland General Assembly from enacting laws applicable to just one city or town and grants the municipalities the right to adopt and amend their own charters. Under existing laws every new municipal charter and every amendment to an existing char-ter must be passed upon by the state legislature. The Amendment provides that charter changes of the munici-palities must in no way infringe upon contradict the general laws of Maryland and debt and tax limits of the municipalities will still be determined by the state legislature by local laws.

Today the comprehensive general law is a common phenomenon. Companies are incorporated, licenses are issued, and divorces are granted under general laws which prescribe the limits and requirements under which the law is effective. The Municipal Home Rule Amendment provides such a comprehensive law prescribing the requirements for municipal incorporation and the limits within which the residents of a municipality can govern themselves.

To date twenty states have granted municipal home rule to cities within their borders. Most of the movement toward municipal home rule has taken place within the last fifty years al-though the first state to take steps in this direction was Missouri in 1875.

Historically, this development followed the prohibition of special and local laws by individual states. While Maryland has made no furthtion, three-fourths of the states have progressed to the point of prohibiting most special and local legislation. Louisiana was the first to enact a constitutional provision restricting a legislature's authority over municipalities in 1812. In the next forty years several other states placed similar prohibitions in their constitutions.

Many of the states which prohibited local legislation have followed up with the logical consequence—the grant of municipal home rule. On Nov. 2, the voters of Maryland will determine whether Meaning the following most special and local legislation. Louisiana was the first to enact a constitutions.

The Municipal Home Rule Amendment has received the endorsement in the platforms of both the Democratic and Republican parties of Maryland. This bi-partisan support has been re-inforced by the additional endorsement in numerous county platforms.

The voters of Maryland will decide its time to the consideration of statewide issues.

As long ago as 1940, a report of the Research Division of the Maryland Legislative Council stated "Local bills make unwarranted demands upon the time of the legislative body as a whole and upon the time of the individual

According to a 1952 report of the Commission on Administrative Organization of the State, municipal nome rule in Maryland would result in a twenty percent reduction in the workload of the General Assembly. At the present time all the laws gov-erning a municipality are enacted by the state legislature as individual local laws. This includes all new charters and amendments to charters for the 143 incorporated cities and towns in the state.

At the 1951 session of the General Assembly, 357 public local laws, appliable to one county or town, were pass-ed. These local laws represented fifty percent of the total legislative pro-duct. Often other acts, classified as general laws, are applicable to only general laws, are applicable to only one town or county. These "local-general" laws provide exceptions to general laws for one subdivision. Dur-ing the 1951 session, 142 of these hybrid laws were enacted. Altogether, seventy percent of the bills passed in 1951 pertained to one county or one municipality.

The 1953 General Assembly enacted a total of 785 laws of which 432 were local and 187 local-general laws. Thus, seventy-nine percent of the total legislative output in 1953 applied to individual local governments. Approximately 200 of these laws peressions of the General Assembly, forty-five and fifty-six percent of the laws were local in application. An estimate of the years between 1924 and 1939 placed the average number of local laws at fifty-nine percent. A count for the 1939 session put the proportion of local laws at 65 percent.

the recommendation of the delegates 'rom the county concerned, such a bill must go through the same procedures as a general bill. It is read three times before both the House of Dele gates and the Senate. Each bill is referred to a committee; hearings are held in Annapolis on most bills. The bill is voted on by both houses and when passed it is given to the Attorney General to be examined for legaliy, and signed or vetoed by the Gov-

The Municipal Home Rule Amendnent would release the legislators from having to consider the problems of each city and town separately. Instead, these issues would be decided by the municipal officers of the individual towns and the voters of the own in a municipal election. The leg-slators in Annapolis would be free from the burden of considering these local issues and have an estimated twenty percent more time to devote to mportant state-wide issues.

Your dairy farmers who are looking for easier, better and cheaper ways to do things will really go for the PURINA CALF PLAN. Here's why • EASIER—You feed Nursing Chow gruel for one month only. No milk at all. Also calves are self-fed block salt and Purina Calf Startena. Hay after 2 months.

BETTER—The Purina Plan raised bigger calves than milk and grain do. And these calves make better milkers because they have more frame and size.

FEESERSBURG

(A Voice from Carroll) When three or more persons get together these days the conversation sooner or later leads to our public school system. It is beginning to dawn on even the more complacent parents that something must be done to or for our schools and done without too much delay. The question is where to begin? The obvious source of our schools difficulties is lack of money. Most experts and informed critics agree that, no matter what else is done, the schools cannot meet Amer-ica's demands without a great deal more money. The big controversy is over the source of the money: all state and local, or part federal? Some groups strongly oppose federal aid chiefly on the ground that it would lead to federal interference. Other powerful groups like the Chamber of Commerce oppose federal aid somewhat less vigorously, concentrate on promoting increased local effort to mprove the schools. Others, like the tors agree that most states can and should increase their own exertions. There are dissenters of course but the NEA represents the great majority when it emphasizes these arguments: Because of the heavy backlog of building and teacher training needs, the load is too much for most states to bear on any reasonable standards. There is a wide variation in the abilities of states to provide adequate education for all children. How much money is needed? Every expert has an answer, depending upon the standards he uses. The total need is at least as much as President Eisenhow-er proposes be spent in the next ten years for highways—namely 50 billion dollars. More on this subject in a publicans and Democrats are trying to convince voters that their party holds the key to America's future

Coffee prices took another drop. It just goes to prove that a little investigation by the government and some boycotting by the housewives can make any gouging business firm think twice and repent.

It would also pay off if the government would do some honest-to-goodness investigating into the retail selling of farm produce. Most farm products are at the lowest price in 15 years—that is from the farmers receiving end, but the prices in the and Kevin, Taneytown. stores for these same products are as high as ever and in some instances, higher. For instance, salad dressing. Most ingredients in this product have dropped 25 percent when bought from the farmer, but a pint jar of salad dressing has gone up 4 cents in the last year. This is just one of the many gaps between what the farmer gets for his products and what the consumer pays for them in the store. The main reason for a drop in parity to the farmer was to make food cheaper for the consumer. Up to the present time, the farmer is getting less and less for his products while the consumer is paying more and more. Who is getting the profit?

PSALM EIGHT
The Psalm grew out of the exhilaration of a student of an Oriental sky. It is a song of the night. It is the exultation of a star-gazer. As the Psalmist surveyed the heavens, he visioned the majesty of the Creator.

O Lord, our Lord, how majestic is thy name in all the how majestic is thy name in all the earth!

The Psalmist makes one to feel the beauty of an Oriental night.

How different in spiritual intelligence is the Psalmist than he who savagely takes the name of the Lord in vain. The Name of God stands for the qualities of God, for what He is. How wanting in spiritual virtues is the fellow who takes the Lord's name in vain, in comparison (with this in vain, in comparison with this Oriental observer of the heavenly bodies, many centuries ago!

In the process of his meditation, this Easterner got a glimpse of the greatness of man. The majesty of the Oriental nocturnal sky now caused the observer to feel exalted:

Yet thou hast made little less than And dost crown him with glory and honor.

How a man feels about himself depends with what he compares himself. Why should a person belittle himself when he remembers his Creator! Too often he conforms to the standards of the world rather than to the ideals and teachings of Christ.

No student ever learned a more significant lesson from gazing into the sky than did this Psalmist. In addition to a vision of the Majesty of God, he caught a vision of the Dignity of man. 'Thou madest him to have dominion.' Was that his conception when the Psalmist first went out into the night? Who can honestly gaze into the heavens, or look unto the hills and not behold the majesty of the Creator, and the dignity of man—His Creator, and the dignity of man—His masterpiece of creation!

REGARDING THE "ZONING ACT"

The Carroll Record Taneytown, Maryland

As a citizen of Carroll County, I feel it is my duty to call to the attention of the voters and property owners several features of the "Zoning Act" which we will vote for or against on November 2. Our Senator and Del-egates, in order to be fair and impartial, have placed this Bill on a Referendum, thereby letting the voters decide whether or not they want the zoning bill to become law. However, zoning bill to become law. However, the voters should be fully informed of the provisions of "Zoning Act."

This "Act" would set up a ten-man commission, which would be a self-perpetuating body, not answerable to the property owners o rthe taxpayers, yet who would have control over the use of the proporty the respective to the property of the property the respective the second the property the respective the respective the respective to the property the respective the respective to the property the pr the use of the property they own. The commission is authorized to appoint such employees as it may deem necessary and to contract with city planners, engineers, architects and other consultants for such services as it may require. In addition, the commission shall appoint a qualified planning technician having at least five years planning and zoning experience. This means that an outside zoning commissioner would have to be brought into the County an dthe taxpayer would be required to pay the salaries of the employees and the zoning commissioner.

Do you believe the property owners of Carroll County are in favor of paying a group of people to tell them what they may or may not do with their own land? In order to fully enlighten the citizens of Carroll County, a copy of this "Zoning Act" should be published, so they can properly study and understand what they are voting for or against.

for or against. I was recently informed by a leading attorney og Howard County that the zoning law which they have is the most controversial issue within that

Some measure of control to protect property from objectionable encroachment is fair and in order, but this can be accomplished by a mupch simpler law through a body such as the County Commissioners, who are local residents, who understand local problems, and who are elected by the people. The average citizen would not have the means to appeal a ruling by the zoning commission, but they could reason with their own elected officials. Such a measure would be reasonable and fair and would still give protection to the public.

Certainly both sides of the proposed zoning act should be given before the citizens vote on sucr a vital issue.

Work Worthwhile

Lesson for October 31, 1954

SOME very kind-hearted person remarked that something good could be said about everybody. "What good could you say of the devil?" he was asked. "Well," he answered, "the devil's a mighty hard worker!"-which goes to show that work, by itself, is not necessarily a good thing. It depends on what you work at, and on what comes of your efforts. Work is certainly not good if it does harm. If only the devil had been born lazy, how much better this other ways. Work and Value

Work has dignity, work is worthwhile, only under certain conditions. One of these conditions can be expressed in this way: Does the work increase or create value? A piece of iron is worth far less than the same iron made into steel watch springs. The work done adds to the cost, of course, but also to the real value. A weedy, eroded field is not worth what the same field is worth when it has been worked, fertilized, planted, cultivated and a fine crop of potatoes, cotton, wheat or what not is growing there. Karl Marx pointed this out in the 19th century, only he overlooked something important. He seems to have had the notion that the only work that adds to the value of things is manual

It is true, as he said, that the toil of the miners goes into the value of the coal you burn; but he was wrong in thinking that labor contributes everything, management nothing. A president (a good one, no stuffed shirt) sitting in his office may not do enough physical work in the course of a week to raise a drop of perspiration. But his plans and decisions are work too, and they may add more value to what his plant turns out than any 20 stevedores on the

Work and Character

Work has dignity too, and it is worthwhile, when it produces that highest of all values, character. The many contrasts in Proverbs between the worker and the lazy lout bring this out. The worker is not only adding to the sum of values in the world, he is building his own character. The hand of the diligent shall rule, one Proverb says. That is, the worker grows capable by the very work he does. The reward of good work is not usually a vacation but a promotion, that is to say, a chance to do more work on a larger scale. Most Presidents of the United States, however capable they were when they were elected, left the White House abler men than when they entered. This is all just as true on the humbler levels of life. 'All work has dignity, all work is worthwhile, when it adds to human values and when it builds the character of the worker. A garbage collector is adding to the health-values of the community; and if he is a good one (no stuffed blue shirt!) he can be growing in character too. There is a certain professional cleaner of grease traps who looks on his work with such pride and satisfaction that he has been an inspirer of other

Laziness Is a Sin

The Proverbs point out three sins in this area of life. One is pure laziness. The lazy man does not usually think of himself as a sinner. He isn't doing anything. But that is just the point. Not doing what needs to be done is a real sin, it eats out the lazy man's character in no time. Another sinis slackness, the "sin of slapdash." The man who is slack in his work is brother to the destroyer, it is said. How many buildings have burned down because of "defective wiring!" And what does any price of defective wiring spell but somebody's carelessness on the job? How many crops have been lost not because any one destroyed them but just because what had to be done was not well done?

VACATION TIME

We all long for vacation time, For the days that we think will be sublime

So we travel to and fro, To the place that we want to go. Some will go to the breezy shore, Where others flock by the score. They lay on the sand by the deep blue sea, Content and happy as can be. They go in bathing and come out then And try to get a nice suntan. The next day they wince and yearn, And try to heal the sore sun burn, Then they feel it is not the fun, They thought it was when it begun. Some will want to find a cool spot, So they go to the mountain where it is not so hot,

And they learn when they get there, It is just as hot as it is anywhere. They try their best to be at ease, As they sit in the shade beneath the trees,

They climb the mountains and stroll

And wait for the day to be homeward bound.

Then when they trend the homeward track, They are glad once more that they are back,

Some will go down by the lake, And fish with the tackle that they take They fish all day from morn till night, And they very seldom get a bite, Then in the evening when it is hot, The bad mosquito they will have to

They return all weary and sore, More tired than they were before, And as they think of the days they

They wonder why they ever went. Some will go just for a ride, And along the way they gently glide, They find as they are playing the game, There are many others doing the same. And when they come to the close of the day, They find that there is no place to

Although they search near and far,/ They sleep by the wavside in the car. And when they come to the break of dawn, They take a great big stretch and Then in their very great dismay, They turn back the homeward way. We spend our money and come back broke,

And think vacation is only a joke. To have a good time we did our best, But we go back to work to get a rest. We know that the ones that did not

Were the best off by staying home. But then it is no use for us to complain For we will do the same thing over and over again.

Prizes for the Cutest Children

It is an undisputed fact that the responsibilities of tomorrow's world, our Nation, and Community will rest upon the shoulders of the children of today. Since this is true, the publishers of this newspaper would like to give you a good look at these future "World Builders".

The only way we can do this is by publishing pictures of them in a feature series. To assure the latest and best reproduction pictures . . . they must all be of uniform size and quality we have invited the Allen Studios, a nationally known portrait studio, to take these special pictures for us. An expert children's photographer for the Studios, with all the necessary An expert children's photographer for the Studios, with all the necessar uipment for this specialized work, will be here on Saturday, November 6 Pictures will be taken at the Fire House and will be open from 1 P. M. to 8

CONTEST AN ADDED FEATURE
To add to the interest and fun in this exciting event, the Studios will award $250.00 in CASH prizes $125.00 to the cutest girl; $125.00 to the cutest boy. Each child photographed in this community will automatically be entered in the contest. The contest covers the states east of the Mississippi River only. Beauty alone does not count. The Studio judges will have their selections upon the personality and charm as portrayed in the pictures. Every child is eligible.

Every child is eligible.

NO CHARGE TO PARENTS

There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings to this invitation. It is bonafide in every sense of the word. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper to take advantage of this feature. Neither are they obligated to purchase pictures after they are taken. Those who want additional prints may obtain them by arrangement with the Studio representative when they select the pose they want printed in the paper and entered in the contest. It is entirely up to them.

THE MORE PICTURES, THE BETTER

The Carroll Record simply wants pictures of all the youngsters and the more, the better. So the Mothers and Fathers of the community in which this paper circulates should remember the date on Saturday, November 6 at the Fire House and not fail to bring their children to the photographer.

You will be mighty glad, afterwards, if you did, and very, very sorry if you do not permit your children to participate in this event. The kiddies will have much fun and both Mother and Dad—and the youngsters, too—will be very proud to see their pictures in print later. And remember, your child may win one of those wonderful prizes to be awarded.

Honorable Donald E. Six

I am writing to you to express appreciation on behalf of the 10,000 teachers of Maryland who are members of this Association for the many courtesies and the assistance which you extended to school representatives, including myself, during the recent session of the General Assembly of Mary-

We deeply appreciate your support of the several school bills which were introduced and passed by the General Assembly this year. Likewise, we are very grateful for your interest and attention to several measures, leading to their defeat, which if passed would have affected adversely our splendid program of public education.
