PLEA FOR SAFE DRIVING ALL YEAR ROUND

Safe Driving day has come and gone.

Now what? Mathematically it was a much safer day for the motorist than the same day last year. Only fifty-one persons were killed in traffic accidents December 15 this year. Last year sixty died on the same day.

Had weather conditions throughout the nation been worse, had snow, rain, icing conditions prevailed, the story could have been different. Then the fifteen per cent reduction in deaths might have been wiped out.

Fifteen per cent is a slim margin, after all the publicity given to S-D day by the press of the nation and on the air.

When they began that fateful drive on that day, probably all of the fifty-one who lost their lives were aware of the fact that December 15 had been proclaimed Safe Driving Day by President Eisenhower. But when they turned on the ignition switch for the ride that was going to end in eternity how many thought of it as their last trip.

Rear Admiral H. B. Miller (retired) director of the President's Action Committee for Traffic Safety, which sponsors S-D day, and this to say:

"S-D day did precisely what it was intended to do. It focused nation-wide public attention on the need for safer driving and it proved that with just a little more care and effort, the traffic toll can be cut substantially.

"We wish, of course, that the actual saving of lives on S-D day could have been greater, but if this saving could have prevailed throughout the entire year of 1954, more than 6,000 lives could have been saved.

"The benefits of S-D day did not end at midnight. We are sure they will be felt in terms of lives and in the freedom from tragedy in the months to come. Let's make every day a Safe Driving Day."

We hope the Admiral is right. We want to think that more people drove more carefully on S-D day than ordinarily, but we also would like to think that on no day, at no time behind the wheel of an automobile, anyone drove ordinarily. It is too easy to be casual about driving, too easy to take the chance in passing, too easy to step on the gas when the road seems clear, too easy to figure it's the other fellow they're going to read about in the newspaper.

Mathematics is no way to look at this serious problem. In a sense S-D day did demonstrate that something can be accomplished by way of reducing the fearful toll of lives in traffic accidents. But it's the long term that really counts. If we are going to make driving safe for ourselves we have to make it safe for the other fellow every day in the year.—The Publishers Auxiliary.

Down the Line with Johnny Bell

So much pleasure costs so little!

There is someone, somewhere, whose whole day would be brightened just by an unexpected telephone call from you. Wherever that special person may be, your Long Distance call can be put through quickly, easily, and at less cost than you might imagine. And right now is the perfect time to do it!

Pulling together!

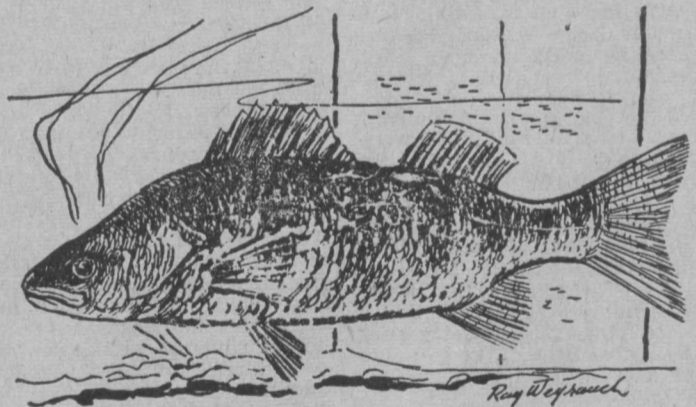

Long before today's tractor was thought of, the "team" did the heavy work around the farm. And hard-working animals, trained to pull together, were cherished by the farmer. Co-operation was all-important, if any chores were to get done at all. Co-operation is all-important, too, on your party-line telephone. When you think of the other fellow, and try to remember little things like hanging up properly after each call, then service gets better and faster all along the line.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

YELLOW PERCH (Perca flavescens)

Also called Yellow Ned and Ring Perch.

RANGE: A native from South Canada to South Carolina, not found in lower Mississippi Valley and bordering States except where introduced; has been successfully planted as far west as Pacific Coast and in many large water impoundments where in some instances it has supplanted other desirable species; found throughout most all of Maryland's fresh waters and brackish tidal waters.

DESCRIPTION: Humpbacked, mostly yellow in color, generally with from 6 to 8 vertical black stripes; two distinct dorsal fins, average size less than a pound.

BREEDING: Spawns in the spring when the temperature of the water is about 50 degrees F.; does not build nest but lays tiny eggs in long strings contained in a jelly-like mass that expands on contact with water, and become lodged in water grasses, and on logs and roots; eggs can be collected and hatched, the fry or young being stocked in suitable waters; perhaps you are familiar with the spring run of yellow perch up the Severn River at the Crain Highway (Route 301) where a yellow perch hatchery is operated by the Department of Tidewater Fisheries.

HABITS: Travels mostly in schools; voracious, hence a predator in some waters; feeds principally on small fish, shrimp, peeler or shedder crabs, and worms.

MANAGEMENT: Requires little protection; there is no closed season on yellow perch in Maryland waters; pollution an enemy.

VALUE: In great demand as a food fish and has a large economic value as such in Maryland; furnishes both sport and food to an army of anglers from spring through summer and fall.

C. & P. EXPANSION AND IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Continuing the service expansion and improvement program for Maryland Telephone users, the board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City at its December meeting authorized expenditures of $5,100,000 for new facilities.

This sum is the largest appropriated at any time during 1954, and brought total authorizations for the year to $28,100,000.

A new type of radio telephone service for boats in the Chesapeake Bay and Baltimore harbor and improvement and expansion of existing coastal harbor radio telephone facilities were authorized under an appropriation of $116,000.

The largest single expenditure, $574,000 will be made for a building addition and additional dial switching equipment for the Pikesville area. An allocation of $60,000 was made to place poles and outside cable to meet demand for additional telephones in the Sykesville exchange.

To meet demand for service additions and changes in the Travilah section of the Gaithersburg exchange, cable, poles and outside wire were authorized at an estimated cost of $11,000.

SHORT STORY

Hitching Post

By F. L. Rowley

WHY you young whippersnapper, I ought to box your ears! Don't you know that this is a state highway?" The driver of the black convertible stepped from his car to advance upon the frightened boy.

"Hold it!" Sheriff Giles cried sharply as he brought his own car to a stop directly behind the convertible. "You bet your life this is a state highway, mister."

That doesn't give you the right to slide up to pedestrians with your brakes screeching. Our speed limit here is twenty miles an hour. I ought to run you in."

"Now officer," began the stranger, "I didn't mean—"

"And besides," interrupted Giles, trying not to smile at the sudden change in the stranger's manner, "nobody boxes Johnny Wood's ears."

"Indeed?" He looked at Johnny with new interest.

Sheriff Giles waved the boy off the highway; he didn't want him to hear what he was about to say. Then, (placing a wrinkled thumb

Placing a wrinkled thumb in each armhole of his shiny vest, he addressed the stranger in low, confidential tones.

in each armhole of his shiny vest, he addressed the stranger in low, confidential tones.)

"See that hitching-post down the road a piece?" he asked.

"Sure. The one that looks like an elf."

"Right. And I aim to tell you about it. That is, unless you'd rather hurry over to the courthouse to see what speeding fines run these days."

"I'm listening," said the stranger "A few years ago," the sheriff began, "the people of Hillcrest—that's the name of this town—witnessed one of the most perfect romances you could imagine. It even beat Romeo and Juliet or any one of those trumped up affairs. This was real. It was carried on between Miss Elsie Dalrymple and handsome Jasper Hill. It was like something out of the past—all chivalrous and tender-like. Jasper would ride up on his sleek stallion and loop the reins in the brass ring on the hitching post you're looking at right now."

"Then Jasper would toss the flowers on Elsie's balcony and strum away on his mandolin."

"What happened then?" the stranger contemplating the contents of his wallet.

Giles raised his voice. "Then came the war! Jasper couldn't tear himself away from sweet Elsie so he was drafted. A bomb landed too close one day and they found him going around in circles. He was sent home but he wasn't the same Jasper."

"He didn't recognize his sweet-heart?"

"Didn't know anyone—not even himself. Elsie used to visit him but he'd just stare at her."

"Sad ending," the stranger commented.

"That's not the end. Jasper still knew how to ride. One day as he was passing Elsie's place without even turning his head young Johnny Wood scooted across the road on his bike. Jasper's horse reared, back and threw him from the saddle. His head struck the old hitching post."

"Johnny tried to help him up,"

Giles went on fiercely, "but he was scared when he saw the look on Jasper's face. So Jasper staggered, alone, up to Elsie's front door. When she came out to meet him he said just one word: 'Elsie!'"

"The blow had brought him to his senses!" cried the stranger. "Officer, I wonder if you'd give Johnny Wood this dollar? I see now why you're so proud of him."

"Sure thing," said Giles. "Now be on your way, and go slow."

As the big car passed the elf-like hitching post Giles thought he heard laughter. He would have blushed had he seen its source. The driver of the convertible was looking at a bill—a bill made out to Mr. Jasper Hill—a bill for one gaily painted lawn ornament in the form of a hitching post.

He decided to collect later—after all, the Hills had only ordered the post a week ago.

More than new

Ford's 162-h.p. Y-block V-8 and 182-h.p. Y-block Special V-8 now offer new Trigger-Torque power!

When you Test-Drive Ford's new Trigger-Torque power you're in for a thrilling surprise. For here is power that can get you moving in split seconds . . . and give you safety-fast passing ability. It has actually been measured that it takes the rear wheels as little as 7/100 of a second to reach your touch on the gas pedal. Such Go-power can come only from engines which are more than merely new—more than ordinary V-8 engines. And that's exactly what these Ford engines are. They are the result of the most advanced V-8 engineering—a result of Ford's experience in building more V-8 engines than all other makers combined have ever built!

Tried and true

Ford's 1955 engine news resulted from 23 years' experience building over 14,000,000 V-8 engines

In 1932 Ford introduced the V-8 engine to the low-price field. And it was only just recently that other makers in Ford's field adopted this kind of engine—23 years later. Yet it is interesting to note that the majority of costlier cars were offering V-8's some time ago.

Ford's V-8 experience has never paid off better than this year. Now you can enjoy the ultimate in "Go"—new Trigger-Torque power. Now you get the greater smoothness of Ford's rigid deep-bore design. Now you gain the savings of higher compression ratios. Now you gain the power of the biggest Ford car engines ever.

Come in. Take your Test Drive today. Ford has much more to offer that's new. You'll find beautiful Thunderbird-inspired styling—comfortable new Angle-Poised Ride, to name just a few.

Baby Pigs Getting Special Diet Now

Early Weaning Reducing Losses

Baby foods for baby pigs is big news in swine nutrition these days and reports are that special feeds will lead to more and better pork than ever.

As recently as 1952, authorities estimated that up to 35 per cent of all pigs farrowed in the United States died of injury, disease or malnutrition—all of which may be caused by the sow—before the weaning age of eight weeks. The average survival rate was under seven pigs per litter, the average weight at eight weeks less than 30 pounds.

Today, it is commonplace for farmers to save eight or more pigs per litter, with eight-week weights of 40 pounds or more. In well-managed operations the mortality rate has dropped to 10 per cent and less.

This sow appears comfortable and relaxed, yet she could accidentally kill one of her pigs by rolling over and crushing it. Development of new starter feeds is making it possible to take pigs away from the sow as early as five days after birth. Early weaning is bringing mortality rate down, authorities say.

Some credit for the advance must go to the use of new "wonder drugs" as the terramycin, which have cut disease losses, but the chief factor, experts agree, has been the practice of quickly removing baby pigs from the hazardous presence of the sow, which often passes diseases to the young, fails to feed them properly, crushes them, and even eats them.

Starter feeds for baby pigs made their appearance on experimental farms in 1950, the year antibiotics and vitamin B-12 were shown to stimulate the growth of pigs and many other farm animals. In 1951, scientists at Iowa State College found that they could take pigs away from the sow a few days after birth and substitute a formula milk, containing antibiotic terramycin, for the sow's milk. Tests conducted in 1953 have proved it possible to start feeding dry starter rations to pigs as early as five to seven days of age.

Animals May Transmit 80 Diseases to Man

Sick and ailing animals on the farm are a menace—not only to profitable farm management but also to the people in charge.

Veterinary medical authorities say about 80 infectious and parasitic diseases may be communicated from animals to man. Farmers may be exposed to about 15 or 20 of these diseases.

Topping the list is brucellosis which has been called the greatest occupational disease of the farmer. Other diseases listed include rabies, swine erysipelas, anthrax, hookworm, ringworm, trichinosis, Newcastle disease, tularemia, tuberculosis, leptospirosis and psittacosis.

Farmers generally underestimate the dangers of livestock diseases, some veterinarians say. Anthrax, for instance, is so dangerous that it is recommended that top soil where animals dead of anthrax have lain should be buried with the carcass.

Double Duty

One enterprising farmer who noticed that little pigs like to chew on rubber things developed this idea. Rubber tire is brushed with a vitamin-fortified syrup and a pan of buttermilk is placed in the center of the tire. Pigs take turns chewing on the tire and drinking from the pail of milk.

A Peach of A Jam

TALL TINKLING, ICED DRINKS, cool, crisp salads, cold cuts, spiced up with rolls and homemade sweet spread are a gourmet's delight.

Delicately flavored peaches are easily spoiled by over cooking. So when this pink-cheeked fruit is at its prime, we have a special reason to appreciate short-boil recipes for jams and jellies.

With the short-boil method use only fully ripe fruit. By adding natural fruit pectin only one minute's boil is required and the real flavor is sealed right in. The color is bright and natural, the texture and consistency excellent, and the taste—delicious.

PEACH JAM

4 cups prepared sugar 5 cups sugar
1 box Sure-Jell

First, prepare the fruit. Peel and pit about 3 pounds fully ripe peaches. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin. Yield: 9 medium glasses. (ANS)

GROWING BETTER CROPS

Thanksgiving for the Farmer

If farmers were given to speech-making, a fine occasion would be Thanksgiving Day.

For Americans everywhere, one of the blessings counted on this day is the symbolic bounty of Thanksgiving Dinner. And, come wind, flood, drought, freeze, bug, blight, or anything else Nature sends along to keep a man humble for all his scientific farming and experience on the land, the grower is still at the heart of that bounty.

He is key man in a fabulous food industry which can win wars and maybe a peace... and provide Thanksgiving Day abundance the year 'round for our more than 160 million home folks, ship out tremendous exports, and at the same time have extra helpings for hungry hands wherever they can be reached in the world.

Food for Thought

Even in this country, with a supermarket seemingly on every street, you have only to get into a remote mountain settlement, an arid stretch of unreclaimed desert where community existence depends on the next truckload or carload of fresh or canned food to realize that this food industry is still opening up frontiers. Some of our most vital minerals are mined in such communities. Many a southwestern bonanza began that way.

Or let something delay food deliveries to our big cities for any length of time and watch the panic climb. Four-fifths of our population must depend on the farmer and his distributor.

Take Thanksgiving Day itself. By now the vegetable and fruit crops are off the land in most of the temperate climate area.

Always Harvest Time in Stores

Yet, thanks to the integration between growers, processors, distributors, shippers and retailers, the changing season has hardly registered on store counters and shelves. The honey is in the horn—the production of field and orchard is widely available in plenty, though there's snow on Wisconsin's farms, frost in New York valleys, and spring has yet to come to California's lower acres.

Farmer is key man in giving us year-round Thanksgiving bounty.

If a housewife were to learn that a Thanksgiving Day invitation has been cancelled and she herself is to prepare the dinner, she could go out shopping almost anywhere in the United States the day before and find most of the makings, from oysters to a final pumpkin pie filling and the pie crust mix.

Even the turkey itself might come out of a can, already cooked with just the brown crust to be crisped in the oven, the stuffing to be made up, perhaps out of packaged poultry stuffing and canned chestnuts, and that old-fashioned rich gravy to be made out of the broth which came with the turkey.

So, the farmer, sitting down at the head of his own bountiful table on Thanksgiving Day, could permit himself a moment, at least, of pride in his contribution to the national well being. He could make quite a speech.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Scripture: Genesis 1:1; Exodus 3:1; Psalm 103:8-13; Isaiah 40:18-31; Matthew 6:9; John 4:23-24; 10:30; Acts 17:22-31.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 42.

The Living God

Lesson for January 9, 1955

FOR the next three months the Sunday school lessons will go into the great Christian doctrines. Christian churches are basically agreed about these doctrines. You can go into a church and hear a sermon about the Living God, or about the Holy Spirit, or about Christ, and hardly be able to tell what the denomination of the minister is, from the sermon. Various churches have written creeds, Dr. Foreman which are their official interpretation of Scripture. But since these lessons to come are concerned with the Bible rather than with formal creeds, this column will not set forth the special views, if any, of particular churches, but will rather try to point out some of the truths which we all hold in common, and which we derive from the revelation we find in the Scripture.

The Living God

The Bible nowhere tries to prove that God exists. If I were talking to you or writing you a letter I would not waste time trying to tell you that I am a real person. So the Word of God simply assumes that God IS. But that is not nearly enough for a vital faith. Suppose God just IS, like the law of gravitation or the binomial theorem in algebra—quite real but completely blind and uncaring? Suppose he just IS, like the other side of the moon, always there but never to be seen? Suppose God IS, like a block of granite which can be worked on but never does any work? No—by no means! The God of the Bible is the Living God, one who does things. Read for example the first book in the Bible, Genesis. Who is the principal character? Not Adam, not Noah, not Abraham or Joseph, but God. The story of the Bible is the story of the "mighty acts of God." Only the living God can help living men.

God Is Spirit

The Greek of John 4:24 can be translated just as correctly "God is Spirit" as "God is a Spirit," and scholars mostly believe the first translation better conveys the meaning. This does not mean you can turn the sentence around and say "Spirit is God." You are spirit, but you are not God. The great dividing line in existence is not between spirit and matter. It is between the one, the only, Creator-Spirit, God on the one side; and created-spirit and created-matter, on the other side. As Creator-Spirit, we can be sure of some facts about God. One is that he is not and does not have a physical body. If he had a body he would (like all bodies) have to be in only one place at one time. If he had a body he would be limited by his body as we all are. But being Spirit he can be, and is, everywhere. Because he is Spirit, Paul can say he is not far from each one of us . . . in him we live and move and are.

God Is Father

The Old Testament tells us much about God, but the New Testament tells us more. It is only rarely that God is called "Father" in the Old Testament, but in the New, we find Jesus using the word "Father" about God more than any other one word. There is a sense in which God is Father of all men—a more intimate sense in which God is Father of Christ and of Christians. Consider the words which would have been just as easy to use in beginning the Lord's Prayer: O creator . . . O Lord Most High . . . Almighty God . . . King of Kings . . . Judge of all the earth . . . But Jesus passes by all those and teaches us to say simply "Our Father" when we speak to the Almighty.

The Father and I are One

Most important, most distinctively Christian, of all truths that we learn about God in the Bible, is summed up in Jesus' words: "The Father and I are one." The original Greek shows that Jesus did not mean to say he and his Father are one person, one individual; but he did mean to say that if we want to see God we must look into the face and into the mind and heart of Jesus. As Paul later said, we see the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. Christians who have given great thought to these things are agreed that any idea of God, any notion we may have about him, must be brought to the test of Jesus Christ. The least we can say is that God is Christ-like.

HAMPSTEAD YOUTH FOR CHRIST

It was with a beaming smile and a touch of pride in his voice that our Director introduced the talent for last Saturday night's Y. F. C. Rally, and this time he had a good reason. Never before in our history have we had a complete family unit on the platform, each one talented both vocally and instrumentally. For ten minutes we listened to the versatile "Hersh" family. Yes, they are one of our own, Dot and Charlie (the parents), Jean and Ruth Ann (the daughters).

The five-man Hampstead Team ran off with the winning score, and Towson right behind in the third quiz of the season on John 1 thru 9. What happened to the Westminster and Reisterstown Teams—they were way down in the cellar! Another week and another quiz, this time on John 1 thru 10. The High Schoolers have no idea what their questions will be or how they will be worded, or how detailed they may be.

The second Rally of 1955, will feature Mr. G. Tom Willey, Vice President of Glenn L. Martin, active member of Baltimore Christian Business Men's Committee. His many experiences in business travelling and speaking engagements enrich his messages with illustrations from real life.

The talent for January 8th will be the Calvary Bible Church Trio from Westminster, and Rev. Douglass Sturgeon from Baltimore, accordionist.

For a varied hour and fifteen minutes, join us at Hampstead Youth for Christ next Saturday night.

ORGANIZATION OF RELIGIOUS CENSUS OF CARROLL COUNTY

The final organizational meeting for the Religious Census of Carroll County will be held on Wednesday, January 12, at 8 p. m. in the Parish Hall of the Westminster Methodist Church. Chairmen from the 14 census districts, Pastors and Census Chairmen of each church in the county have been invited to attend this meeting.

Also present at the meeting will be the Rev. H. H. McConnell who is actively engaged in directing religious census work throughout the United States, as a member of the Department of Evangelism of the National Council of Churches. Rev. McConnell will discuss with the assembled group the techniques of census taking, the final stages of organization, and the methods of tabulating and distributing the results noted in the census to the various churches of the county.

The Religious Census of Carroll County will be made on the afternoon of Sunday, January 23, by workers from the county churches.

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

Marine Pfc. Richard J. Logue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Logue of 425 E. Main St., Westminster, Md., spent Christmas in London, England, while stationed at headquarters of Admiral John H. Cassady, USN, Commander in Chief, U. S. Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Christmas in England is practically the same as in the U. S., a turkey adorns the center of the table, but sweet-potatoes and cranberry sauce are missing. Carol singers sing in the streets, and Christmas trees stand in the corner of most living rooms. The spirit is here and most servicemen stationed in England have the opportunity to spend Christmas in an English home.

FROM THE LIGHTER SIDE OF THE READER'S DIGEST

When Leo Durocher was unable to identify the popular song, "Symphony", on CBS-TV's new quiz program Name That Tune, MC Bill Cullen offered clues.

"Leo", said Bill, "suppose with the bases loaded, the batter for the Giants hits what appears to be a sure triple. The umpire calls it foul by inches. Fifty thousand fans are booing. Now, Leo what does that ump need starting with the letter 's'?"

"Sein'-eye dog", replied Durocher.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

RED FOX
(Vulpes fulva)

RANGE: Found all over north-eastern United States, and in every part of Maryland. In spite of persecution by man and other enemies continues to inhabit well settled sections. More plentiful north and west of Maryland and Virginia than in the south.

DESCRIPTION: Most everyone knows Brer Fox by sight; red in color, feet black; about the size of a small dog; has pointed nose and prominent ears, and bushy tail which generally has some black hairs and white tip. Various color phases of which the silver fox is one; average weight 8 to 12 pounds.

BREEDING: Winter is the mating season; from 4 to 8 young born usually around last of March or early April; do not leave the den until about five weeks old; the young separate in August and mate the following winter. Are monogamous; male a devoted parent.

HABITS: Prefers rolling farm land and small wooded areas; known for its cunning and sagacity; hunts mostly at night; does not climb trees; sense of smell and eyesight good.

MANAGEMENT: Said to be the world's greatest mouser, hence should not be exterminated, especially valuable in orchard areas where mice are very destructive. Also eats rabbits, some birds, and carrion; other foods include frozen apples, persimmons, eggs, grasshoppers, and many small rodents besides mice. Bounties on foxes inadvisable.

VALUE: Valuable for sport and for its destruction of injurious rodents, grasshoppers, etc. At present the price of red fox furs is down, hence less trapping, resulting in an increase in numbers, and depredations.

Auction - Auction - Auction

PURINA DID IT AGAIN!

You can see the difference Purina makes in the two Ike pigs in the display window of The Taneytown Grain & Supply Company.

After feeding a home mixture against Purina Pig Startena and Purina Sow & Pig mixed 4 to 1 to two pairs of pigs, there was a difference of 98 lbs. between the two pairs. The Ike pigs which had gotten the home mixture were then switched to Purina Pig Startena and Sow & Pig Chow mixed 4 to 1, the same as the other pigs and the Ike pigs gained 92 lbs. in four weeks, while the Mike pigs gained 90 lbs in four weeks; which means there was a difference of 96 lbs. between the two pens.

They are now ready to go into the auction weighing 136, 124, 116 and 48 lbs. The auction will last for two weeks which means they all must go January 10th, 1955, at noon (when the auction will close).

RULES OF THE AUCTION

We are glad to say the Auction will be carried on in the same manner as last year. The bidder making his first bid will receive 5 points for the first bid and his name will be placed on the Black Board in the office. For each bid he makes thereafter he receives 1 point. No bidder can raise his own bid and a bid will not be accepted for less than $1.00.

PRIZES

The person receiving the largest number of points receives as 1st prize—I single light Infra-red Pig Brooder; for next highest No. of points, 2nd prize—1 Large Barn Broom; and for next highest No. of points, 3rd prize—1 Box Pig Tab Granules (enough to worm 10 pigs).

MAYBE you didn't know that the price of this 1955 Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan has moved still closer to those of the so-called "low-price three."

And maybe you didn't know that now you can boss this broad and brawny new beauty for even fewer dollars than some models of those very same "three."

So we proudly show our price here to prove it.

But no dollar figures can ever tell you how much more sheer automobile you get for your money in this '55 Buick. You have to discover that firsthand.

You have to look into the record-high V8 power that puts the whip to this dazzler—and see by sampling what that means in the lift and life and joy you feel in driving.

You have to judge for yourself how much more luxury and comfort and stability so little more money buys here—more room, more visibility, more frame strength, more tread width, more ride steadiness.

And you have to learn by doing what a rich fine feeling it is to travel in the boldest new styling of the times—in beauty that's long and low and sports-car smart—and as definitely distinctive as the name on the hood.

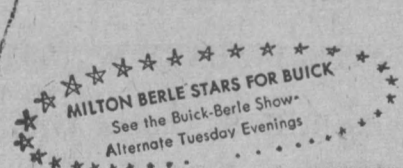

Come in for a demonstration of Buick for '55. We promise you the thrill—and the buy—of the year.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

*2-door, 6-passenger Buick SPECIAL Sedan, Model 48, illustrated. Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities due to shipping charges. All prices subject to change without notice. Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargains, such as heater & defroster . . . only $31.70.

looking ahead with confidence!

This is the time for the economic prophets to peer into the future and tell us what kind of a year it will be. Sometimes they are right; but quite often they are wide of the mark.

If we will each look ahead with confidence, courage and the determination to make stepping stones of our obstacles; then, we are pretty certain to have a successful year.
