NEW STORE OPENING

Stewart's Will Conduct Modern Store in Towson

Stewart & Co's new branch store, located on York Road at the city line, 1/2 mile above Belvedere Ave, opens Feb. 8. It is reported to be the East's most modern department store and shopping center, comprising 10 acres. The new branch will be known as Stewart's York Road.

Customer and traffic, surveys of 14,000 families in the trading area have indicated a need for the shopping center. Through a series of meetings with the community associations, many of the residents were given the opportunity to make suggestions, many of which were incorporated in the center planning.

The exterior design of the buildings and the layout of the center was created by the Raymond Loewy Corporation of New York, internationally famous architectural and industrial designers. The design is unique in that it portrays an entirely new type of store. A very large portion of the store building is enclosed in white brick, accented by touches of stone and slate and gaily colored awnings in a manner which will blend the building and the adjacent stores into the essentially suburban and residential character of the area.

Built on two levels with entrances from the surrounding parking lots on both selling levels, it will be possible for a customer who wishes to shop in either of the two levels to drive to the area and walk directly into the store. Plans include a modern paved parking area, landscaped and lighted with convenient entrances and exits to avoid traffic bottlenecks or hazards, with entrances on both York Road and Walker Avenue. In addition to Stewart's store, the center will be composed of nine other stores and services.

The new Stewart's suburban store will contain complete Men's, Women's, Children's Apparel and Accessory Departments. In addition to this, it will house 52,000 foot second level which will be devoted entirely to Home Furnishings. On this level, Furniture, Floor Covering, and other Home Furnishings Departments are planned to be large in floor area and backed heavily by complete assortments. It will be the largest display of Home Furnishings on one floor in the Baltimore area.

According to L. P. Seiler, President of Stewart's, the location was chosen because of its availability to residents of the rapidly growing northern section of the city and particularly because of the easy accessibility from east and west, as well as the heavily traveled north and south York Road artery. Gittings Avenue forms an excellent entrance for the residents of the west. Walker Avenue and its extension in the direction of Loch Raven opens an excellent road from the east.

SENATOR BEALL REPORTS

Progress Noted in the Balancing of Federal Budget

The Republican Administration continues to make progress toward balancing the national budget.

President Eisenhower last week submitted his budget message to Congress and it reflects the conservative attitude of the Republican Party and the President toward the finances of the United States plus consideration and understanding of the individual taxpayer's problems.

The budget for the 1956 fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1955 would have been balanced had not the Administration and Congress determined last year that the people should enjoy a reduction in taxes.

Total tax reductions enacted by Congress, and sponsored by President Eisenhower last year totaled 7.4 billion dollars, the largest reduction in any single year in the country's history. The budget would have been balanced for the next year if there had been no tax cuts. However, the President's message said, "It was desirable to share the benefits from the large expenditure reductions."

The result is, the President has determined, there can be no tax reductions this year, and he said, "Any other course of action would result in either (1) inadequate expenditures for national security, or (2) inflationary borrowing."

The entire budget story centers around the fact that this country has moved from a wartime to a peacetime type of economy, but since it is an insecure peace the expenditures for defense are still exceedingly large.

Of the 62.4 billion dollars recommended, 40.5 billion dollars is allocated for national defense, or 65 per cent of the total budget expenditures. Simple arithmetic shows that all other Federal activities, which includes all services the people receive, will cost only 21.9 billion.

The 1955 fiscal year budget of 62.4 billion is 1.1 billion dollars less than for the 1955 year, and under a Republican Administration the Federal budget has annually been reduced. The goal of a balanced yearly comes closer.

Despite tax and spending reductions, no necessary services to the American people have been cut and the nation has an adequate defense system. The reductions in taxes and spending were possible primarily because the Administration in Washington has been careful in handling the money you pay in taxes.

GRANGE HAPPENINGS IN THE PAST MONTH

The second monthly meeting of Piney Creek Grange No. 422 was held on Jan. 20, 1955 at the Grange Hall in Harney with Master Meunier presiding.

Mrs. Barnes, the Home Economics Chairman, tried to encourage the members to make this year a very successful one for the Grange and the members. She also asked the women of the Grange to take part in the sewing contests which are held each year. The young people this year are to make dusters and the older women curtains.

Suggestions were also made for a square dance to be held in the future. This matter was turned over to a committee to make plans for and report at the next meeting. The meeting was then closed and an interesting talk was given by Carl Weant on his trip to Chicago.

Also on Jan. 24, 1955 approximately 13 of our members attended the Carroll County Pomona Grange meeting at Westminster. The purpose of this meeting was the installation of officers of the Carroll County Pomona, Hillsdale, Medford and Berrett Granges.

From our Grange Mr. Meunier was installed as Master of Carroll County Pomona Grange, Carl Weant as Assistant Steward, and Mrs. Meunier as Pomona.

There was another meeting held on Feb. 1, 1955 at the Grange Hall in Harney with Master Meunier presiding. It was suggested that the membership drive which was to come to a close be carried until the next meeting.

Mrs. Barnes encouraged the members to save old nylons so that we can complete one spoke on our wheel of achievements as soon as possible.

Under community service Mr. Meunier brought up the idea of organizing a Gun Club for boys for the purpose of instructing the boys in the art and safety of firearms. The plans for the square dance were also tabled until the next meeting. The meeting was then adjourned and a movie on Milk Production and delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 7, at the Grange Hall in Harney at 8 p. m. The Emmitsburg Grange will furnish the program for this meeting.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

About People!

Waiting at the station at Aberdeen for the train to Philly, saw a young Mother and her two year old (wife of a Captain) stationed at Aberdeen also waiting to see the train as she explained to me she does each morning for the youngster. Sure enough when the train pulled in—the Porters, Conductors and Engineer gave the boy a big salute! (B. & O.) of course!

Talking with a Chaplain's wife of the Armed Forces before leaving for overseas and she said to me, "All I want is a red dress and I can't have it because my husband tells me that it would not be just the proper thing to wear as to the color!" Ugh!

The nice young farmer who had written to me months ago that he finally "got that gal" a "City" girl and they are ideally happy on the farm! Nothing like preservation! Eh?

A four year old sitting directly in the back of me on the train who kept up a continuous chatter the entire trip without one word from the Mother. She would not answer any question for which the child begged! I wondered at that for it always means (as you know) a child who asks questions is usually a bright one!

A Widow with whom I had lunch stating only, "God Knows how very lonely any woman is after losing her husband!" (I could not console her.)

The difference of two German young Mothers brought from Germany by their American Husbands. One said to me, "She will only teach her child to speak English so as when he goes to school, she wants him to be a real American just like all the other children!" The other one teaching the child only the German Language!

The woman who looked at a handbag and told the lady she would come back if she did not see anything she liked better. When she did go back, the sales lady said, "I did not expect to see you ever again!" and with this the customer replied, "You never can tell!"

A man on the Bus on North Charles street working out a jigsaw puzzle as the bus moved along.

A boy entering and as he was walking to a seat, the Conductor called him back for the rest of his fare! The boy dropped in the balance of the fare and then dropped his eyes with bowed head and walked back for a seat! (Just smiles were all around!)

The lady returning a "Snorkel" which does not prove any better than any other fountain pen!

The nice and polite colored Porter always of course on the B&O train plus the immaculate condition of the trains.

Seeing "Eddie" last week on the program of T.V. "This is Your Life!" who was just a Taxi Cab driver in Chicago! Wonderful!

Seeing Elizabeth Taylor in "The Last Time I saw Paris!" in Philly that gal is more beautiful, than ever but the picture was awful!

The Celebration of that grand Soldier Douglas MacArthur! No other man in public life has been loved so much—the same character as "Honest Abe" Here's hoping that Bill will be passed "General of the Armies"! I say, "Give the flowers to any one while they can still smell them!"

Talking with the Manager of the chain of "The Thompson" Restaurant from Washington where I had a wonderful lunch of Chicken Dumpling Stew, Spring Salad and June Shortcake! These Restaurants started just 61 years ago in Chicago by a man named John R. Thompson and there are now 28 States which in Washington, D. C. called, "Holoway Cafeterias".

The Manager, a Mr. Ballance told me to be sure and visit "Becker's Buffetaria" the next time in Washington which is a very swanky place owned and operated by the same company! I promised that I would!

Hearing that nice Arthur Godfrey say to a Talent Scout, "Never leave a position until you have another to jump into which I found out years ago was the best thing to do!" Then he added that the Scout should see him after the show and he would help her to secure a position with C.B.S.! Nice!

So there you have it, Folks in all walks of life. People are wonderful! Just look about you and you, too will discover it all!

Have a grand week-end. Be very careful when you drive. That "Radar" sign is not for you just to read but to HED! Or you will find out just what I mean! So long. Until next week. D.V. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES

Senator Byrd of Virginia recently made this significant comment on the federal budget: "We are enjoying the greatest prosperity in our history. We are not engaged in war. If we cannot balance the budget now, I ask when can we balance it?"

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

RED BEND, ILL., PILGRIM: "There is a large number of people who by their actions aid the cause of socialism, although they are frequently unaware of the direction they are traveling. Most are sincere people. If the choice was direct they would be against state socialism but the things they advocate would, if put together, make it a genuine reality."

SHARP PARK, CALIF., COAST-SIDE TRIBUNE: "Nobody (including the local newspaper) thrives in backward communities that are afraid to move forward, and therefore get left behind. Nobody thrives when property values dwindle, when taxes are burdensome."

CHISHOLM, MINN. TRIBUNE-HERALD: "The new French Government's milk campaign is designated to curb alcoholism. The government crusade is a noble one, but like all crusades it will not be accepted easily. The French people, like all others in the free world, dislike being told what to drink by their government."

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY AND COUNTY WELFARE BOARD BACK ADOPTION AMENDMENTS

The Boards of two Carroll County social agencies have gone on record as favoring changes in the present adoption laws. The Carroll County Welfare Board and the Carroll County Children's Aid Society believe that a greater measure of protection is offered children, and adopting parents by the new amendments.

These changes have been recommended by the Governor's Commission to study Maryland Adoption and Child Placement Laws. They are scheduled to come before 1955 session of the Legislature.

The four important features of the proposed amendments are:

1. The child's religious heritage must be safeguarded by placing him, whenever possible, with parents of the same religious faith.
2. Placement is permitted only by licensed agencies, local welfare departments and natural parents. Placement by parents must be made without intervention from a third party and the consent of the Court must be obtained before such placement.
3. A provision is made for Court procedure for terminating parental rights prior to a hearing on an adoption petition.
4. Child placing agencies may charge adoptive parents a fee for professional services provided that no one is prevented from adopting because of inability to pay. Fees would be regulated by the State Board of Public Welfare.

These changes in our present adoption laws are designed to give added protection, first of all to children, then the natural and the adoptive parents. The child would be assured that the professional services (legal, medical, social, psychological) are all brought together in their behalf in an attempt to insure that he is placed in a home where he can develop all his potentialities. The natural parent would be given help in reaching the decision to give up a child for adoption, and the adopting parents are assured of the legal right to adopt and that all professional resources available to social agencies have been used in determining that this child will fit into their home.

It is the opinion of these Boards that the professional social services given by the agency should be made available to all children in Carroll County who are in need of permanent care away from their own families in order that the best plan be worked out for children who are least able to protect their own rights.

THOUGHTS FOR THOUGHT

Everybody seems to be accusing everybody else.

Not all who are called lazy are really lazy. They're just interested in other things.

The person who normally gets along with other people is the person who raises their self-esteem.

There are some folks with sufficient barbs in their remarks to erect a barbed fence around themselves.

There are people who derive more enjoyment from looking into a mirror and talking to their own image than from the preacher speaking on the subject of changing one's ways.

One who has nothing to say frequently consumes the time of one who has something vital to say.

The carnal man never grows too old to put up a strong fight.

One walks around on moral crutches who injures another.

The genius of true prayer is not to get but for a spirit to give.

We must wait until we cross to the other side before we become angels.

It is possible to stabilize most anything except a Congressman's thinking.

Love your neighbor and earn his love in return.

Failure to consider the future is too big a price to pay for the present.

The expense of today's college education makes quite a drain on the average family's resources. Insure your child's future by buying Savings Bonds regularly.

Thrift is one of the greatest of all human virtues. And the thrift habit comes easy through regular purchase of Savings Bonds on the payroll savings plan.

Man works from sun to sun, but Savings Bonds work for you 24 hours a day. Give them a chance to make your future more secure.

Well I guess so. All birds are going places when they get Ren-O-Sal in the drinking water. Right from the start, Ren-O-Sal promotes growth, makes a chick do better. Ren-O-Sal also helps birds feather faster, and reach maturity sooner. This means savings in feed and labor costs. Gives you more good layers sooner. Many poultry raisers get Ren-O-Sal when they get their chicks. Try using Ren-O-Sal in your flock and watch birds go places.

A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE...

... said an observant poet after he had watched his wife battle through another washday.

Only recently has Sunday night meant anything more than the eve of another long, blue Monday.

It's been a vicious circle of: haul the baskets downstairs, fill tubs, bash fingers on the wringer gears, slop through ankle deep water, then hobble up and out to meet a winter blast. Frozen fingers and cracking linens and broken lines.

But the patience of women was duly rewarded recently when there burst on the American scene with the efficiency of all things electric... the knight in shining porcelain—The All Electric Automatic Laundry!

THE AUTOMATIC WASHER
Button pushing and dial setting have replaced hours of backbreaking labor. Modern housewives no longer worry about changing water, rinsing or wringing... automatic electric washers make Mondays bright!

THE ELECTRIC DRYER
Now, your wash can go from wet to dry in minutes with one easy, light motion from washer to dryer. Cuts time and work, means less ironing, lets you forget the weather... a modern washday miracle!

MEN—If you stayed home some washday, you'd see how much a new electric washer and dryer would mean to your wife. End laundry drudgery in your home. Get an electric washer and dryer now from your local appliance dealer or the nearest store of The Potomac Edison Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. McKinney, spent several days in Baltimore the first of this week.

Master Eugene Reindoller, accompanied by his father and mother, left for Nazareth, Pa., on Tuesday, at which place he will enter a military school.

If the ground hog stays in his hole six weeks longer, he deserves to be banished to Russia, or to some other country where a little more cold makes no difference. On April 1st the Record will also occupy the room adjoining its present quarters now used by F. S. Staley, which will give the Company about double its present floor space. This addition will be used for the manager's office and for the storage of paper stock which will give the present room entirely for the mechanical department, and permit the installation of additional machinery and appliances for conducting the general printing business.

Uniontown—The interest taken by the patrons and pupils in good school attendance has again proven itself by the record made during the winter term. Twenty-four have the honor of being perfect in attendance: Flossie Arnold, Elsie Hiltelbride, Helen Price, Loretta Weaver, Clara Slonaker, Nellie Haines, Gertrude Devibiss, Ruby Rodkey, Ethel Palmer, Rosella Fritz, Sadie Clingan, Reine Heck, Lucille E. Wheeler, Ida Belle Board, Edith Beard, Carrie Slonaker, John N. Clingan, Benjamin Dingle, Ross Heltelbride, Warren Fowble, John P. W. Beard, Lloyd Devibiss, Chas. F. W. Beard, and Russel Palmer.

O. S. of A., was largely attended.—J. D. Hesson, of this place, visited Hanover, this week.—Still there are a few houses vacant. Now is your time to rent.—The Ladies' Aid Society will meet on next Tuesday evening, Feb. 8th., at Mrs. William Lightner's on Gettysburg St.

Bankert's Mill—Last Tuesday, Geo. C. Harman, our local butcher, slaughtered a mammoth hog for Harry M. Heltelbride that brought the beam down to 607 lbs. It was of the Berkshire and Chester breed and about 2 years old. He also killed a bull 16 months old for Arthur Master, recently, that dressed 484 lbs. Sleighting is in full blast; the old folks enjoy the sport by day and the young folks from eventide until the small hours of the morning. So that all are accommodated.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mr. C. L. Stonesifer, Editor
The Carroll Record
Taneytown, Maryland

Dear Mr. Stonesifer:
At the recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association it was voted to send a letter of thanks for the generous support which your newspaper gave to the 1954 Christmas Seal Sale Campaign.

Last year Carroll County ranked among the first three associations with the largest total of column inches printed in the newspapers. A total of 404 1/2 column inches including three pictures was used.

We are proud of this fact as it proves that our newspapers are interested in keeping its citizens alert and informed about matters pertaining to their health and well being.

With the astounding fact that tuberculosis strikes approximately 110,000 persons a year and that some 400,000 people have active tuberculosis, it can readily be seen that our efforts toward the prevention and control of this disease cannot be relaxed. Progress can only be made through the cooperation of a well informed public and this is where the newspapers play such an important role. We feel certain that your newspaper will continue to support us in the future as it has in the past.

To you and your staff and to all the people of your community who aided in the Mobile Chest X-Ray Survey and in the 1954 Christmas Seal Sale Campaign, we extend heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely yours,
M. KATHRYN DIFFENDAL
Executive Secretary

FEESERSBURG

Winter descended on Maryland last week with subfreezing temperatures and bestowed on Oakland, in Western Maryland the distinction of being the coldest spot in the United States one morning with a temperature of 26 degrees below zero. Here in our country some ponds are frozen to a depth of five inches and ice-skaters have been taking advantage of the thick covering. In spite of the prolonged cold spell no snow has fallen and according to the weather bureau this January will go down on record as the driest January to be recorded. This is bad news for everyone since water has become so precious and the lack of it one of the serious problems facing every community.

The electric power was off Monday morning from 3:30 a. m. to 6 a. m. in the Union Bridge area. Many farmers got up to do the milking and finding the current off returned to bed for an extra nap. The cows didn't think too much of the delay in being relieved of their milk, for they are used to a schedule and when the time comes to be milked they are like "time and tide" - right on the beam, and they want no fooling around.

Do you have a tired teen-ager in your house? If you have, the reason may be insufficient rest. The solution is more old fashioned sleep. While the solution sounds simple, it isn't easy to get a teen-ager in bed at a reasonable hour. Most high school students have a busy schedule. They carry a heavy academic program and most of them are active in other activities such as athletics and band or orchestra. Sometimes homework keeps them up half the night and some have to help with the work at home and on farms. The week-end offers the best time to catch up on rest although most young people think Saturday and Sunday should be devoted to social life. Often nature steps in and lends a helping hand by making growing boys and girls appear lazy. It may take one or two hours to do the supper dishes because in the back-ground the radio is playing Perry Como's latest hit and day dreaming is more relaxing than drying dishes. It may take Junior the whole afternoon to clean out the basement because he is dreaming of going to South America and joining in a small revolution. Parents should not get upset over things of this sort for it is only nature's way of sneaking in a little rest for the unsuspecting teen-ager in an under-handed way. To most boys and girls sleep is an invention of the devil designed to keep them from so many interesting things, but the time will come when they will welcome it as the best thing nature ever invented.

Ladies and homemakers, are you dissatisfied with your kitchen? If so, I know you have been seeing too much television. For TV can make one unhappy about everything if you are so inclined. But some of the things one sees on the screen is so ridiculous that we know it is only a gag. The other day one enterprising maker of "kitchen glamorous" projected into our living room a lady stirring up a dish of stew dressed in an apron trimmed with mink, and using a pot-holder trimmed with the same kind of fur. Well, not many of you women will ever use a mink-trimmed pot-holder, but we have discovered something that makes a very practical one and that is a discarded shoulder pad from a dress or coat. Simply cover it with any suitable material or use it as "is".

Fire continued to take a heavy toll of property this week. The J. C. Penny store in Frederick burned out Monday morning making this the 3rd Penny store in a radius of 25 miles to burn in a couple years. The one in Westminster burned last year and the one in Hanover about three years ago. Also Alton Biddinger lost his farm buildings in a 30 thousand dollar fire Monday morning.

Dr. George Strothers, well known physician of Frederick County was given a prison term of 15 years for violation of a Federal law in the State of Virginia. Dr. Strothers is a specialist in the treatment of arthritis and has relieved many sufferers with this disease. It is with regret that we learn of his conviction, for a doctor of his skills owes his services to suffering humanity. We sincerely hope that he may be able to use his skills to help the inmates of the prison to which he was sentenced this week. According to the reports on the conditions in our prisons his talents are greatly needed.

They say the building of new homes is an index to a community's economic health. If this is true then Mt. Union need have no fear of dying from hardening of its economic arteries because eight new homes have been built at Mt. Union during the last five years or so. This is about a hundred percent increase in homes making it among the fastest growing rural areas in the district. We do not want to sound like a real estate agent but we think Mt. Union is an ideal spot to live. For it is situated in the center of schools, churches, small towns and within easy driving distance to large cities. There isn't a store, garage or night-spot in it. To some it may appear dull, dead and not even fit for birds but to those of us who make up the population we think it the nicest spot in Carroll County.

Wednesday will be Ground-Hog day, but we are not greatly concerned with its prophecy about the weather for according to the weather bureau's records the ground-hog has only predicted the arrival or the detachment of spring accurately four times out of thirteen. As usual we are hoping for an early spring, but we have been looking for one during the last five years and we have looked in vain.

It is always best to keep our words soft and sweet for we never know when we will have to eat them. -Ruth Roelke

To think about these things: Am I the one who ought to change? Is it I who brings the stings? Is everything that's not just-right Caused by some other soul? Does someone else turn day to night By lack of self-control? There's sunshine back of every cloud, It often has been said, So if unhappiness is loud, Its blackness can be shed. We know that every mortal being Is different from all others; Although their faults we can't help seeing, Let's treat them all as brothers. Mrs. O. Jordal.

who passed away 9 years ago, Feb. 7, 1946

In the land of God's tomorrow, Lies a city bright and fair, Beyond life's golden sunset, Our dear Mother awaits us there.

'Tis a place of wonderous beauty, Where she knows no grief or fears, And where God himself in tenderness, Shall wipe away all tears.

So we rejoice in knowing, That our dear one has found sweet peace, In the land of God's tomorrow, Where His blessings never cease.

This photo shows a typical section of Md. Route 21 between Westminster and Manchester. Traffic records show that although the highway is only 16 to 18 feet wide and has virtually no shoulders and many places where sight distance is dangerously restricted, it is carrying 1600 vehicles per day. The State Roads Commission has placed this road on a priority list for reconstruction. The planned improvements include a uniform 24-foot width, would eliminate many of the curves and would include a new surface.

UNACCUSTOMED AS I AM—

Whenever I am asked to speak, All thoughts desert my head. My knocking knees grown water weak And I perspire with dread. "As unaccustomed as I am..." Was truly meant for me. And I will shun where I can The speaker's misery. Oh, many a time and oft Have I turned red and blue When someone poked me in the ribs And hissed, "It's time for you!" I'd rather track a hungry lion, And beard him in his den, Than rise and face at half-past nine A bunch of well-fed men.

A young couple, who had just married, received many gifts after establishing their home in a suburb. One morning they received two theater tickets with a note which read: "Guess who sent these." On the appointed evening they went to the theater, returning very late. To their astonishment, everything of any value in the house had been carried away. On a table in the dining room they found this note: "Now you know."

A motorist travelling through the backwoods of Kentucky pulled up at a general store to ask one of the natives sitting on a tilted chair out front the way to Louisville. "Wal" says the hillbilly, "You keep on the way you're a goin' until you come to a naw, that ain't right. Lessee—you go back this here road till you git pass—now, that ain't right neither." The hillbilly scratched his head reflectively a few moments more. "Gol dang it, mister—you can't git to Louisville from here."

Today's Chuckle: He gazed proudly at the engagement ring he had placed on her finger only three days before. "Did your girl friends admire it?" he asked tenderly. "They did more than that," she replied. "Two of them recognized it."

The father was playing possum while his little daughter tried to rouse him from his nap to read her a story. Finally the youngster climbed up on his lap, opened one of his eyelids, peered in carefully, then reported, "He's still in there."

Any time a husband gives his wife flowers for no reason—there's a reason.

SHORT STORY Tell-Tale Marks By Rosa Lee Stuesse

THE day I found out Bob's secret started like any other morning in a busy household.

I got breakfast for the twins, Ricky and Sue, sent them to the playground, looked over the morning paper, made beds, dusted, stacked the dishes, and hurried to the basement to do the washing.

I began sorting the laundry, white clothes here, Sue's colored dresses on another pile, Ricky's jeans over there.

Why did Bob have so many shirts in the wash? I wondered idly, pulling the sixth one out of the hamper. He usually doesn't change every day. Hmmm! The seventh one. Really, I'd have to talk to him about that.

His white shirt with French cuffs, too! I couldn't remember him wearing that all week! It didn't look soiled either. Bob wasn't thoughtless. He must have had a reason for wanting it washed. I looked closer. (Lipstick! Fiery red smears around the collar,) and one beautiful lip imprint stared mockingly at me! I looked over the other shirts, inspected each one. Three more with those tell-tale traces!

Not my Bob! I thought back over the last weeks. Casual remarks that I paid no attention to at the time came back to me. "Should I send my shirts out, at least for the summer?" he had asked one day. "Then you won't have to stand at the ironing board so long during the hot weather."

"I appreciate your being so considerate," I'd said, "but I don't mind, really." Frankly, though, I was thinking of the laundry bills. Considerate! Now I knew why he was so considerate!

"Bowling tonight," was one excuse, or "going over to Don's this evening. I promised to help him paint his recreation room."

I must find out tonight I decided. We lived in a small town, and when I did my shopping that afternoon, I thought everyone I met must know about my Bob, and the girl—everyone but me.

Should I say a neighbor told me, or the girl called at the house? I'd read stories where that happened, and it did sound dramatic, only this wasn't quite the same.

Bob came in, happy-go-lucky, as usual. He tussled with the twins, and they shrieked with delight. Then, oddly enough, for the first time I thought: "How are Ricky and Sue going to react? They worshipped Bob."

Then he came into the kitchen. "Hi, what's for dinner?" he asked, grinning happily. "Your favorite," I replied, "pork chops, mashed potatoes, peas, lemon pie—"

"Sounds wonderful," he said, "my best girl surely is a good cook!"

Best girl! "Using the car tonight, Bob?" I asked casually.

He hesitated. "Well," he said, "yes, but I'll be home early. I think I'll get dressed and shaved now, while you're getting dinner."

"Tonight again! I had to know now! No waiting till after dinner. Forgotten was my carefully rehearsed speech.

Sharply I called to Bob above the hum of his electric razor. "Who is she? I saw the lipstick on your shirts!"

No answer. Then Bob came to the bathroom doorway, half his face covered with dark fuzz, the other side smooth and clean-shaven. He looked like a little boy caught snatching plums.

"Gee, I wanted to tell you, before you found out from someone else, honest," he said. "Her name is Jeanne. She's wonderful! I met her four weeks ago at Tom's wedding reception. I'll bring her home to dinner Sunday, OK mom? I was worried what you and dad would say—you know, having a 'steady' girl before I'm twenty-one."

There! His secret was out, and he was relieved. I had to face it—Bob, my son, had grown up!

SHORT STORY

Sweet Tooth

By Ona F. Lathrop

I HAD noticed him from the very first day he came in as he guided his tray down the chromium slide at the cafeteria. He was a funny little old guy in a too-long coat and pants that didn't match, and he had a queer shuffling gait which was caused by his feet being encased in a pair of rubbers but no shoes or sox. I checked off his items each day with growing curiosity. Always he had two or three kinds of dessert and not much else. "You must have a sweet tooth," I joshed him once. "Yeah, I get hungry for the pies and cakes my wife used to make," he grinned. We called him Dinty because he looked like a comic character.

Dinty walked around picking up all the ones people didn't take or dropped accidentally.

Then he began picking up the tickets. Our cafeteria has a bakery up front and with every purchase they give you an orange ticket. When you get fifty, you can get a free cake. (Dinty walked around picking up all the ones that people didn't take or dropped accidentally.) He even scoured the restrooms and picked up the ones people left on the tables.

Al Jordan, the manager, didn't like that.

"Dinty, I'll give you a free cake if you'll let people alone. I don't like you bothering my customers."

Dinty grinned his impish little grin as he thanked Al for the cake and went scurrying out. But the next day he was back again, picking up the tickets. He didn't ask people for theirs any more, so there wasn't much Al could do about it, but he watched like a bright-eye bird of prey and pounced on each ticket anyone dropped. And at last he had the necessary fifty.

"I get me a free cake today," he told me, proudly waving his sheaf of tickets as he came down the line with pie, ice cream, and a french pastry on his tray.

But the next day Dinty didn't show up. Nor the next, nor the next. We began to worry. "Anybody know what Dinty's right name is, or where he lives?" Al asked one day. Nobody did.

And then one day we ran an ad on the new sugar-free desserts we were making in the baked-goods department, using this new sugar substitute. And a little old grey-haired lady came in. She was beautifully dressed and you could tell she had wealth. I was up front that day, helping wait on the rush of customers, and she fell to me.

"Are you sure this wouldn't hurt people not supposed to have real sugar?" she asked. "Because my husband is craving dessert, but he's been very sick and the doctor wouldn't let him have any."

I peered at her, putting two and two together. "Is your husband a little man with— with—" She smiled and finished the sentence for me. "With a funny little shuffle because he always wore only rubbers on his feet? Did he used to come here to get all these desserts which made him sick? So that's where he got them! I wouldn't make another pie or cake after the doctor said he had diabetes, but he sneaked out in old clothes and just his rubbers so I wouldn't hear him, and got them some place until he had to go to the hospital."

I eyed her good mink fur-piece and her well-tailored suit and I wanted to ask another question, but she forestalled it.

"Yes, I know. I only let him have a very small amount of change each day, for fear he would buy sweets with it. But he fooled me. He even got a couple of free cakes some place, he confessed, and ate them all by himself before he came home. He said if they didn't give him a stomach-ache, what else could it hurt? But he found out. And now that he's home again, I'll watch him more closely. We'll be going to Florida next week for the winter. I hope this will satisfy his sweet tooth for a while." And she smiled and hurried out.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Feather-Light Muffins Result Of Ligh Mixing

ONCE you try them you'll want a second date with these Double Date Oatmeal Muffins. Their goodness impresses you with its first bite because the oatmeal contributes a nutlike flavor so perfect with butter and/or marmalade.

Muffins served piping hot have a special charm, yet they're one of the easiest of hot breads to make. The secret, if it can be called that, is in the little mixing you give the batter. When combining the two mixtures the stirring should be just enough to combine the wet and dry ingredients.

Lumpy? Yes, that's the way batter should be for these muffins as well as most others.

DOUBLE DATE OATMEAL MUFFINS

- (Makes 12 large muffins)
 - 1 cup sifted enriched flour
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - ½ teaspoon soda
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - ¼ cup brown sugar
 - 3 tablespoons shortening
 - 1 cup rolled oats, quick or old fashioned, uncooked
 - 1 egg, beaten
 - 1 cup buttermilk
 - 1 cup chopped dates
- Sift together flour, baking pow-

If you like muffins, you'll vote for these old-fashioned oatmeal muffins made with rich buttermilk, chopped dates and the mellow combination of nutlike flavor of oats and brown sugar. They'll add wake-up pleasure to breakfasts or highlight a special luncheon salad.

der, soda and salt into bowl. Add brown sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Mix in rolled oats. Add beaten egg and buttermilk and stir just until ingredients are dampened. Fold in chopped dates. Fill greased muffin cups ¾ full. Bake in a hot (425°F.) oven for 15 to 20 minutes, depending upon size of muffins.

Don't Toss It Away; Mend It, Darn It

Once you've mastered the technique of proper darning and mending, you'll find that you can save a great deal on clothing money. Small repairs on clothing and linens, done when worn or torn spots appear are worth a great deal in the family in which every clothing dollar must really do its work.

Modern notions counters yield many aids to help even the amateur seamstress. The main things are: select proper colors or materials for mending and patching, then do your sewing carefully.

Press-on patches, tapes, new zippers, different weight threads, embroidery hoops and all such items will enable you to do an expert job. They're a small money investment for what they can really do.

Sweaters and Woolens

A hole in a sweater doesn't mean it should be relegated to work clothing or the toss-away pile. Small holes can be darned with sewing thread which matches the color of the sweater. Larger holes can be darned with thread unravelled from inside the sweater, or matched at the yarn goods counter. Imitate the knit stitch with needle and yarn. A little practice here will produce good results.

Tears and small holes in woolens can be mended with hand darning. Diagonal cuts can be reinforced on the wrong side of the material with net or extra material.

Heavy woolens are best treated with darned-in patches. Use inset patches for sheer woolens.

Velveteens, Rayons

Velveteen and corduroy lend themselves to darned in patches very readily. Sew these in on the wrong side, then brush up the pile on the right side and you'll see no mark where the patch was set in.

Rayon and silk clothing both require that the patches be carefully selected as to color. You may find a piece to clip off on a pocket, hem or an inside seam of the garment. Mend the holes with an inset patch.

HOTTEST BUICK IN HISTORY
No wonder you see so many 1955 Buicks on the highways—they're rolling up bigger sales than ever in history—tapping the popularity that has already made Buick one of the "Big Three."

You can take it over for only $2316.00 delivered locally!

MOST PEOPLE still don't believe it. But it is true.

And when you look into the facts, you'll find these two solid truths:

Buick is one of the "Big Three" in sales volume—and hotter this year than ever before. And Buick is one of the "Big Three" when it comes to prices which make such popularity possible. The price we show here proves it.

So why not get what a Buick has to offer, if you are in the market for a new car?

You find that the dollars you pay for Buick buy you a lot more automobile—and the sheer satisfaction that comes with bossing a brawny traveler of this caliber.

You find it in the record-high V8 power that gives life to this spirited performer. You find it in the soft and level and cruiser-steady ride that comes of all-coil springing and torque-tube stability. You find it in the extra roominess, the extra frame strength, the extra tread width, the extra silencing—all part and parcel of every Buick.

We could tell you about the little things, too. Things usually charged for as "extras" in other cars, but yours as standard equipment at no extra cost in every Buick. Things like direction signals, oil-bath air cleaner, full-flow oil filter, automatic lighting in glove and trunk compartments—and so on.

But—you get the idea. This is a buy, this '55 Buick—a great buy—and a thriller from the instant you press its gas pedal. Come in this week and check things for yourself, won't you?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Scripture: Luke 15:11-24; Ephesians 2:1-10; Titus 2:11-14; I John 4:10; Devotional Reading: Romans 5:1-8.

The Grace of God

Lesson for February 6, 1955

THE "grace of God," as the New Testament uses the word, means at least two things. The most common meaning is the undeserved favor of God. It is almost the same in meaning as the love of God, except that the word "grace" carries in itself the idea of something not earned, not deserved, but given out of sheer generosity. The other meaning (found for instance in Titus 2:11) includes still the idea of unearned favor, but

Dr. Foreman it goes beyond this. The grace of God is not only an attitude of God toward men, it is a power bestowed by God, on men. One modern writer has truly said that the Grace of God is almost another word for the Holy Spirit, for what the Spirit does in man, this the Grace of God does also.

Saved by Grace

We cannot pretend to understand the grace of God. It is not too high for us to experience, but it is too high for us to understand, because God can never be crammed into any human brain. But it is extremely important to try to understand what the New Testament writers mean when they speak of God's grace, for here we are at the very heart of things, here religion stops being something we talk about, and becomes something that takes hold of us. If it is true that every man is a sinner, if it is true that we are all headed in the wrong direction if we are left to ourselves, if it is true as Paul said that "the good that I would, I do not, and the evil that I would not, that I do," if it is true that only God can help us untangle ourselves, then how are we going to persuade God to do this? How can we get God on our side? What do we do to win him over? Man's desperate answers to this question have given rise to all the religions but one. Men have made painful sacrifices, torn themselves with knives, offered innumerable animals on many altars, dedicated great fortunes, devised and obeyed a multitude of difficult laws, all to win or earn God's favor. It cannot be done. The grace of God is not for sale. The one religion which is an exception to all the others is the religion of the New Testament. Saint Paul puts the whole truth into one simple sentence: It is by grace you have been saved.

God Makes the First Move

God comes down to us; we do not climb to him. God comes to find us; we could never find him otherwise. The "grace of God" means that without our earning it, without our deserving it, God already loves us. Any man who thinks he deserves the love of God is a most colossal monument of conceit. Paul, it must be remembered, was not speaking as a professor examining the grace of God from the outside. He was speaking as a man who had experienced that grace and could talk about it from the inside. So did John in his letter (I John 4:10). It has sometimes been supposed that God had no grace in his heart at all, for his miserable race of stupid and selfish people; but that Jesus somehow made God sorry for mankind and by his sacrifice induced God to change his mind and save us. Nothing could be more opposite to New Testament truth. All that Christ did for us, including his own self-sacrifice on the cross, was not a cause of God's grace but a result. Christ did not come and so cause God to love us; God loved us and so sent his Son "to be the propitiation for our sins." In the war between man and God it is God who makes the first move toward peace.

You Cannot Take God's Grace And Leave It Too

A good TV program may bring education to all men; but not all men will take it. So, though Paul says God's grace brings salvation to all men, some men are plainly not saved. Some men learn the humility that it takes to accept God's free gifts. Other men as it were take the free grace of God but promptly leave it again. The grace of God never operates in a vacuum. God never, so to speak, scatters it around not caring what people do with it or about it. The grace of God is not something for a warm emotional moment, something to look back on all one's life. It is not like a ray of sunlight recalled in an arctic winter. The grace of God is not an abstract something, a mere doctrine in theology.

Air National Guard Powerful Operational Force

WASHINGTON—If an enemy aggressor were to attack the United States today, America's modern minute-men of the Air National Guard would be required to play a major role in the military action that followed.

A powerful force in actual being, recently proven in combat action in Korea, the Air National Guard has been given added defense responsibilities as a component part of the national defense team.

The Federal mission assigned to the Guard was, in part, "To provide a Reserve component of the Air Force capable of rapid expansion to war strength, able to furnish units fit for immediate service anywhere in the world, to be qualified to integrate readily and effectively with the Regular Air Force to provide an M-Day Air Force capable of properly conducting air defense, air offense and joint action with surface forces."

The ANG met the test during the Korean War when some 486 combat and support units and some 45,500 officers and men in 22 Wings were ordered to active duty. They served around the world and made an outstanding combat record in Korea, producing four jet aces.

Today the Air National Guard is a strong operational force of some 50,000 officers and men in more than 600 Federally recognized units located in all the States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska. Its organization is such that the Air National Guard constitutes a complete aerial "blanket" thrown across the continental United States and the outlying territories. Currently it consists of 27 Wings containing 87 tactical flying squadrons and support units.

Trained Cormorants Fish for Japanese

WASHINGTON—One of the most fascinating sights for tourists in Japan is cormorant fishing.

For at least a thousand years, Japanese fishermen have made use of trained birds to dive for the rich catch of ayu, a small salmonlike fish also called the sweetfish. The big bird is skilled at scooping up the slippery fish in his long, hooked beak.

The birds are controlled by a leash with plenty of leeway for swimming and diving and an alert bird master may hold the reins of 12 fast-moving birds at a time. To keep the cormorant from swallowing the catch, a metal ring, strap, or string is looped tightly at the base of the neck.

Cormorant fishing is practiced along the Nagara River in central Honshu Island. The head fisherman wears a ceremonial skull cap and a water-repellant grass skirt resembling a hula costume. All of the birds are numbered and placed in the boats according to rank.

As daylight fades, an iron basket filled with flaming pitch is suspended from the side of the boat to lure the fish. The birds are released. A lively cormorant may take 100 to 200 fish an hour.

Four-Handed Driving Leads to Troubles

DETROIT—Four-handed driving is just as bad as one-hand driving, Detroit police contend.

Police testified they stopped a car recently and found John Johnson behind the wheel with John T. Lane sitting in his lap, and both their hands on the steering wheel.

Johnson said he'd lived in Detroit for 10 months and had only an Illinois license. He knew he was going to be stopped, he said, when he saw the cruiser drawing up behind him.

So, he testified, he and Lane decided to swap seats, but got caught tight behind the wheel in the process—which is how police found them.

The judge agreed that four-handed driving was unsafe and Johnson and Lane were fined $25 for reckless driving.

Tooth Disease Said Second Only to Colds

DES MOINES, Iowa—Tooth diseases are more widespread than any other ailment of mankind except common cold, says Dr. Leslie M. Fitzgerald, Dubuque, Iowa, president of the American Dental Association.

He estimates it would take 280,000,000 fillings to fix all the cavities of children 6 to 18 years old in the United States and that 97 per cent of the population suffers some form of tooth decay or gum disease.

Calling Card

MEMPHIS—A burglar who doled while his friends cracked a safe here left police a real clue. Apparently supposed to be the lookout, the burglar played with a typewriter while his friends worked.

He typed their names and left the sheet of paper behind.

WHAT'S IN A NEW NAME? Rosie Stewart, Farm Bureau Insurance employee of Columbus, Ohio, shows off the new name which her companies, fourth largest auto insurer in the country, will adopt September 1, 1955. Selection of the name Nationwide fits in with plans of the Farm Bureau companies to expand nationally from the 13 eastern states in which they now do business.

FARM BUREAU INSURANCE COMPANIES TO CHANGE NAME

The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies are changing their name to NATIONWIDE INSURANCE and will start at once a National Expansion program.

Some 18,000 employees, agents, and families watched a closed circuit television program in 21 eastern cities including Annapolis on Jan. 26, when the announcement was made. President of the Company, Murray D. Lincoln, told the closed circuit television audience that the time has come for the Companies to take a "new look" at themselves.

During the telecast, Executive Vice President Bowman Doss detailed some of the reasons behind the decision to expand.

The companies' rapid growth, he said, argued for expansion. He pointed out that in the last 23 years, policies in force had risen from 79,000 to 2,900,000. In the same period, assets jumped from $2,633,000 to about $210,000,000. The Companies now operate in 13 states and the District of Columbia and Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company is the fourth largest automobile insurer in the country.

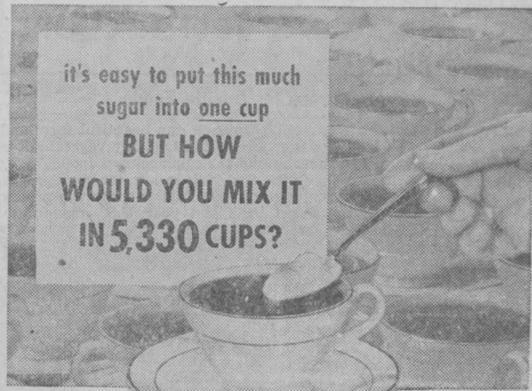

Once the decision to expand had been made, a new name became mandatory, Mr. Doss said. There are already Farm Bureau insurance companies in 20 states outside the companies' territory. Insurance Department and post office regulations prohibit the use of highly similar names. Hence, if the companies were to go truly "nationwide," a new name was necessary.

Howard Hutchinson, vice president in charge of insurance operations, said the order of expansion into other states had been determined by studies conducted by the firms' market research department and the A. C. Neilson Company, of Chicago.

"We have decided to expand on a state by state basis, rather than all at once," he said. "We'll begin with those states where our highest market potential exists."

At the top of the list, Mr. Hutchinson named Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Massachusetts, and California.

Expansion would start, he said, as soon as possible after September 1 when the change of trademark and name become legal.

a problem of the same proportion is facing most feed companies in mixing about 1/3 oz. of stilbestrol into one ton of cattle feed

The Food and Drug Administration in its approval for use of stilbestrol has set about 1/3 oz. per ton as the right amount for this powerful growth stimulant. That means it is added in the proportion of only 1 part to 90,800 parts. It must be mixed so that cattle get just the right amount... too little stilbestrol in their ration won't produce maximum gains... too much in their ration can prove toxic. GROWING BETTER CROPS

Quality Crops for Quality Foods

Probably few people traveling through our beautiful farmlands these harvest months realize that more than half our vegetable tonnage and much of the fruit reach our tables as canned food.

The grower of these crops is the first link in a great chain ending with the consumer, the final judge of the effort put into the product forged by the rest of the chain. And last year U.S. consumption reached a peak of 102.2 pounds of canned food per capita.

On an average, about 80% of all tomatoes and sweet corn is canned, as well as about 75% of the green peas and beets, half the asparagus, nearly 60% of sour cherries and almost half the peach, pear and apricot crops, according to National Canners Association findings.

In one important farming state, Pennsylvania, it has been estimated that 80-85% of the five major commercial vegetable crops is sold to food processors for marketing.

Consumer Is King

As Dr. Amihud Kramer, University of Maryland horticulturist, points out, "It is the consumer who calls the tune, through the links of the retailer, wholesaler, buyer, processor, and determines the kind of product he wants the grower to supply."

"When the processor advises the grower as to variety to be raised, or the stage of maturity at which he wishes the crop harvested, he merely transmits to the grower the consumer's preference as reflected through consumer complaints or sales analyses."

Though modern food processing can work miracles, high quality of pack is basically dependent on high quality of the fresh or raw product.

"If the quality that reaches the factory platform is clean, free from insects and diseases, neither unripe nor overripe," Kramer says, "the processor has an excellent chance of preserving that excellence, with the ultimate results of satisfied customers, increased sales and increased demand for acreage."

"In many instances, as, for example tomatoes, asparagus and apple, good cultural and harvesting practices result not only in top quality but top yields as well," the horticulture specialist concludes.

Good harvesting practices help to insure the profit in a crop.

Cutting Waste

The fact that canned food prices have stayed so low is due partly to good raw product quality. It takes costly factory labor and time if unusable ears of corn, mashed or broken beans, sunburned or immature peppers, pitchfork-damaged squash, tomatoes that are overripe, off-color or injured by pests, disease or pickers, must be "weeded out." Not to mention field debris. Much of this can be kept down by closer supervision of harvest help, careful handling and transportation.

Though the processor bears the direct loss, today's farmer, like any other businessman, knows that in the end everyone foots the bill for waste, just as everyone sooner or later profits by improved crop and factory production resulting in benefits to the consumer.

PINEY CREEK 4-H NEWS

The monthly meeting of the Piney Creek 4-H Club was called to order on Wednesday, Jan. 26, 1955 at the home of Betty Ann Wolfe with 13 members present. The meeting was opened by the recitation of the 4-H Pledge, followed by the reading of the minutes. Roll call, which was to name project, and the treasurer's report.

As there not being any old business for the evening we immediately discussed the new business. Our local leader asked who was going to join the "Chicken of Tomorrow Contest" and Barbara Rinehart was the only one who was interested. The contest this year will run only 9 weeks instead of 10 as it has in the past. The next subject which was brought up was the oratorical contest which will be held in March. The subject for the contest this year is "What My 4-H Club Has Done For Me, My Club, And My Community". Veronica Forney and David Gunther are going to enter this. We also wish to thank the First National Bank for our 4-H Calendars.

The only guests or leaders, which were present, were Richard Clem, Asst. County Agent, and Donald Bollinger, our local leader. After the meeting delicious refreshments were enjoyed by all.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

MALLARD
(Anas platyrhynchos)

RANGE: Probably our most cosmopolitan wild duck and said to be the ancestor of many species of domestic ducks; breeds from the Arctic Circle south to the Mason and Dixon Line; winters in most parts of Maryland; also found in Europe, Asia, and Africa.

DESCRIPTION: Head and neck of male a metallic green from which it is frequently called "green-head"; white ring around neck; breast a rich chestnut; length about 25 inches; sometimes weighs as much as 3½ pounds, female smaller and mostly brown and very noisy; it is quite difficult to distinguish the female mallard from the female baldpate, pintail and gadwall.

BREEDING: Nests on land and in vegetation near water; lays from 6 to 13 eggs of a greenish brown color; if first nest is destroyed will nest again, but the number of eggs laid will be less. Period of incubation about 26 to 28 days. Ducklings are a downy yellow and learn to swim quickly; readily adapts itself to any reasonably good nesting areas north of Maryland where it rarely breeds in the wild.

HABITS: A nondiving species classed among the marsh ducks; feeds on land and in the water; fond of grains but will adapt itself to almost any handy water-fowl foods; eats water plants, seeds, acorns, grasshoppers, and aquatic animals.

MANAGEMENT: Readily reared in captivity but loses wildness after the second generation unless wild stock is introduced into the flock; thousands annually raised and liberated by state authorities, sportsmen's organizations and duck clubs. An increase in suitable nesting areas and food will do much toward increasing this very popular wild duck.

VALUE: Provides sport and the best of food to probably a greater number of persons than any of the other wild waterfowl species; said to destroy mosquito larvae in ponds. The vivid colors of the drake make it one of the most beautiful of all the wild ducks.

Paper Tarpaulin

A new kind of tarpaulin, made of kraft paper, asphalt and Fiberglas yarns, provides farmers with a durable cover for haystacks, tractors, etc. that costs about half as much as conventional ones. These Brownskin tarps will withstand the elements indefinitely and are too strong to be torn by human hands.
